¶ The yeare hath.xii. monethes. lij. wekes, and one daye:
And it hath in all, thze hundzed and lxvi. dayes,
and fyre houres.

Scripture gathered out of the Bible.

Christ vnto the people. John.v.

Searche the Scriptures: For they are they that testifye of me.

Paul to Timothy ij. Timo.iij.

All Scripture gyuen by inspiracion of God is profitable to teach, to improue, to amende and to instructe in ryghteousnes, that the man of God maye be perfecte and prepared to all good workes.

The same to the Roma.xv

Whatsoeuer thinges were wrytten, are wrytten for our learninge: that we thorowe patience and comforte of the Scripture, myght haue hope.

Salomon Prouer.xxx

All the worde of God is pure and cleane, it is a shylde vnto them that put theyr truste in hym. Put nothinge vnto his wordes, lest he reproue the and thou be founde a lyer.

Moses to the people Deute.xij

Ye shall not do euery man what semeth him good in his awne eyes. But whatsoeuer I commaunde you, that take hede ye do: and put nought therto, nor take ought therfrom.

The Lorde vnto Josua Josue.i

Let not the booke of thys lawe departe out of thy mouth. But recorde therin daye and nyght, that thou mayest be circumspecte to do accordynge to all that is wrytten therin. For then shalt thou make thy waye prosperous, and then shalt thou haue vnderstandinge. Turne therfore nether to the ryghte hande, nor to the lefte: that thou mayest haue vnderstandynge in all that thou takest in hande.

The same to the people Exod.xiij

And thou shalt shewe thy sone at that tyme, sayeng: This is done because of that which the Lord dyd vnto me when I came out of Egypte. Therfore it shalbe a sygne vnto the vpon thyne hande, and a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, that the Lordes lawe maye be in thy mouth. For with a stronge hande the Lorde brought the out of Egypte.

Moses Deute.xxxi.

Se that thou reade thys lawe before all Israel in theyr eares. Gather y people together. both men, wemen, and chyldren, and straungers that are in thy cyties, that they maye heare, lerne, and feare the Lorde your God, to kepe all the wordes of thys lawe.

Deu. vi. i. Timot. ii. Gene. viii. Esa. xlv. Gene. i. Psal. v. Gene. iii. Jerem. xv. Roma. ix. Esaye. xliii. Jere. v.

Fyrst the holy writinges of the Byble teach vs, that there is one God almyghtye, that hath neither beggynyng nor endynge: whiche of his owne goodnesse dyd create all thynges: of whom all thynges procede, and without whō there is nothynge: which is rygh̄tous and mercyfull: and which worketh all thynges in all after his wyll: of whom it maye not be demaunded wherfore he doth this or that.

Gene. i. Baptim. ii. Roma. v.

Then that this verye God dyd create Adam the fyrst man after his owne ymage and symilitude, and dyd ordeyne and appoynte hym lorde of all the creatures in the earth. Whiche Adam by the enuye of the deuyll disobeyinge the commaundement of his maker dyd fyrst synne, and brought the synne into this worlde, suche and so greate, that we whiche be spronge of hym after the flesh are subdued vnto syn, death and dampnacion, brought vnder the yocke and tyranny of the deuyll.

Ephes. i. Gene. iii. iii. an. xxvi. xxviii. Hebr. ii.

And further that Chryst Jesus his son was promised of God the father, to be a sauiour to this Adam, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Dauid, and the other fathers: whiche shoulde delyuer them from theyr synnes and tyrannye of the deuyll, that with aquycke and lyuynge fayth wolde byleue this promysse: and truste to this Jesus Chryst, hoppynge to haue this delyueraunce of hym and by hym. And truly this promysse is very oft rehearsed in the bokes of the olde Testament, yea, and the olde Testamēt is this promysse: as it is called the newe, which teacheth that this promysse is fulfylled.

And that in the meane season / whyle the fathers loked for saluacion and delyueraunce promysed, bycause mannes nature is suche that he not onely can not, but also wyll not confesse hym selfe to be a synner, and specyally suche a synner that hath nede of the saupnge healthe promysed, the lawe was gyuen wherethrough men myght knowe synne, and that they are synners: when they se that they doo none of the thynges that the lawe commaundeth with so glad and wyllynge a mynde as God requyreth: but rather agaynst theyr wylles, without affection, and as though they were cōstrayned with the feare of that hell whiche the lawe threateneth, saying: Cursed be he that maynteyneth not all the wordes of this lawe to kepe them. And that this lawe was gyuē, to thintent that synne and the malyce of mennes hertes being therby the better knowen, mē shulde the more feruently thyrst the commynge of Chryst, whiche shoulde redeme them from their synnes. As it was figured vnto the Jewes by many ceremonyes, dooctes, and sacrifyces, which were ordeyned of God, not to thintent to take awaye synnes, but to shewe & declare that they shoulde be put awaye by fayth, in the saluation promysed thorowe Chryst: and whiche nowe are put awaye by the cōmynge of that Chryst, whiche is the very dooct of the father that taketh awaye all synne.

Last of all by the bokes of the newe testamēt

we are taught, that Chryst whiche was promysed and shadowed in the olde Testament, is sent of the father, at suche tyme as he had determyned with hym selfe, at suche tyme (I saye) as all wyckednesse florysshed. And that he was sent, not for any mannes good workes (for they all were synners) but to thintent that he wolde truelye shewe the aboundaunt ryches of grace, whiche he had promysed.

In the new Testament therfore is mooste euī-dently declared, that Jesus Chryst the true lambe and hoost, is come to thintent to reconcyle vs to the father, payinge on the crosse the punyshment due vnto our synnes: and to delyuer vs from the bondage of the deuyll (vnto whome we serued through synne) and to make vs the sonnes of God, syth he hath gyuen vs the true peace and tranquyllitye of conscyence, that we no longer do feare the payne of hell: whiche feare is put awaye by the fayth, confydence and assurannce that the father gyueth vs drawynge vs vnto his sonne. For that fayth is the gyfte of God, wherby we byleue ꝑ Chryst is come into this worlde to saue synners, whiche is of so greate pyth ꝑ they whiche haue it desyre to perfourme all the dutyes of

¶A deſcripcyon and ſucceſſe of the kynges of Juda and Jeruſalem, declarynge whan & vnder what kynges euery prophet lyued. And what notable thynges happened in theyr tymes, tranſlated oute of the Hebzue.

Joram his ſonne ſucceaded him in hys kyngdome ād raygned. viii yere, and the prophete was Elia. After hym raygned Ahaziahu his ſonne one yere, & Eliſa was prophete. After this, Athalia the mother of Azahia dyd ryſe and deſtroyed the kynges ſtocke, and there was none lefte, but the lytle chylde Joas: and Athalia raygned. vi. yeare, and they kylled her. And Joas raygned. xl. yere. After hym raygned hys ſonne Amaziahu. xxix. yere. The prophetes were Amos and Amazia brethren, and Amos the father of Eſaye. After hym raygned Uziahu hys ſonne. lii. yere. The prophetes were Hoſea Amos & Eſaye, Hys ſonne Jonathan raygned after hym. xvi. yere. The prophetes were Hoſea, Eſaye, Amos and Uziahu and Micha Morathites. Then hys ſonne Ahas raygned after hym. xvi. yere. And Hoſea, Eſaye, Amos, Micha ād Obad dyd prophelye. Hys ſonne Ezechias raygned after hym. xxix. yere: Hoſea, Eſaye, Amos, Micha were prophetes. Whome ſucceaded Manaſſe raygnynge. lv. yere, Jobell, Nahum and Habakuck were the prophetes. After him raygned Amon his ſonne. ii. yere, and Hozai was prophete, whoſe ſonne Joſiahu raygned after hym. xxxi. yere. The prophetes were zephania Jeremye and Holda, Jehoiaz hys ſonne raygned after him thze monethes & Jeremy was prophet. Whoſe brother Jehoiakim raygned after him. xi. yere, Jeremye and Uria were prophetes. The. iii. yere of his raygne Nabuchadnezer kynge of Babylon toke hym captyue, and he dyed in his pryſon, that it myght be fulfylled wpiche was ſayde: the Buryall of an aſſe ſhalbe buryed. And he tranſpoſed Jeruſalem and al the gouerners, and toke captyue. vii. M. of Beniamyns, and the other trybes, whyche were all valyaunt men of warre. After hym raygned his ſonne Jehoachin thze monethes and. x. dayes, Jeremye prophecyenge, and Nabuchadnezer kynge of Babell carped hym awaye pryſoner, and. xviii. M. with hym: and made Ezekia the brother of hys father, the ſonne of Joſiahu kynge, whych raygned. xi. yere, Jeremy and Ezechiel prophecyenge. The. v. yere of his raygne the hoſt of Babylon came agaynſt Jeruſalem, and in the xi. yere of his raygne the cytie was taken captyue and Jurye was altered from hyr lande: this was the. viii. C. and. iii. yere of theyr enteryng into the lande: and the. iii. M. iii. c. & viii yere of ỹ creacion of the wozlde. And there was now lefte of Dauids ſtocke but only Jechoniah, which begat Salathiell, Malkirā, Pedaiā and Semariam. Nabuchadnezer raygned vntyll the. xxxvii. yeare of the tranſmygracion of kynge Jehochim and Euylmedozach his ſonne raygned. xxiii. yeare, and the fyrſt yere of hys raygne he brought Jehoacin out of pryſon, and after this dyed in Babell after the death of Ezekia. Mozeouer, Belchezer raygned iii. yere, and Salathiell dyed: and after hym hys ſonne zerobabell raygned, that was the. lii yere of the deſtruccion of the temple, and the. lxx. yere of the domynion of Babylon. Whyle Darius Medo raygned, the Chaldees kingdome was deſtroyed, and zerobabel aſcended into Jeruſalem the fyrſt yere of Chozes kynge of the perſyans, & the trāſmygracion with him Then was Jehoſua the ſonne of Jezoziadac the great prieſt, and Haggai zacharia and Eſdra were prophetes. But Ahaſuerus raygnyng, dyd let the wozke of the houſe of the tabernacle and indeuozed to ſubuerte Iſrael. But the holy which is bleſſed, delyuered the wozlde both of hym and alſo of Haman. The. xviii. yere of the Medians whych was the. lxx. yeare of the deſtruccion of the tẽple Ezra the ſcribe aſcended into Jeruſalē and the other tranſmygraciō wyth hym, and he buylte the wall of Jeruſalem and reſtozed the houſe of the tabernacle: ād zerobabell retozned into Babell and dyed there. After hym raygned hys ſonne Meſullam, and in his dayes the kyngdome of Grece had the dompnion. The.lii. pere of the Medians & Perſians dyed Haggai, zachari, and Malachi, and at that tyme ceaſſed prophecynge in Iſraell. Thys is the pere from the creacyon of the worlde. iii. M. viii. C. and. iiii. From hense forth geue thyne eare and herken the wordes of wyſe men. Alexãder Macedo kyng of Grece raygned. xii. pere and dyed at Hyerſullam, and after him raygned his ſonne Hanania. The C.xl. pere of the Grecians dyed Hanania and Mathathia the ſonne of Johatha beynge the ſonne of Hymeon. And after him raygned his ſonne Berechia. In his tyme was Seleuchus and Antiochus whych buylt Antiochia and Ptolome whych wryte pentatuchon, (that is the .v. bookes of Moſes.) The hundred. lxx. pere of the Grecians Berechia dyed. After hym raygned hys ſonne Haſadia. In hys dayes there was a great trouble agaynſt Iſraell, that was in the tyme of Nicanor kynge of Grece the chyldren of Haſmonin whych were called the Machabytes, ſtepynge forth kylled hym and all hys hoſte. Thys was. C.lxv. pere of the Grecians. And Johanan the ſonne of Simon the ſonne of Mathathia, the ſonne of Haſmoni raygned. xxx v. pere. And when Haſadia was deed, after hym raygned Jeſaia and Janai the ſonne of Johanan the great preſte raygned. xxvii. pere. And when Janai was deed, Ariſtobolus his ſonne ſtode vp after hym, and raygned. xiii. pere and was ſlayne. After him raygned Antigonus his ſonne. xxvi. pere, and was ſlayne the. C.iii. pere of the raygne of the ſtocke of the Machabytes. After hym raygned Herode the ſonne of Antipater ſeruaunt of the Machabytes, which makynge an inſurrecciõ kylled all that were of his maſters ſtock, and contynued ſo. xl. pere. After him Agrippas the ſonne of Herode raygned, and agayne after hym raygned his ſonne Hunabas. The. C.iii. pere of the Romaynes raygne whyche was. iiii. C. xl. pere of the temple buylt vp, ãd the. iii. M. v. C. lviii. pere from the creacion of the worlde came veſpaſyan and deſtroyed the temple, and caryed Iſrael & many of the ſtocke of Dauid and Jehuda into ſpayne.

A prologue or preface made by the moost reuerende father in God, Thomas Archbyshop of Canturbury Metropolytan and Primate of Englande.

For two sondrye sortes of people/it semeth moche necessary that somthynge be sayde in the entrye of thys booke, by the waye of a preface or prologue: whereby herafter it maye be both the better accepted of them, which hitherto couldе not well beare it: & also the better vsed of them, which hertofore haue myssed it. For truly, some there are that be to slowe, and nede not the spurre: some other seme to quycke, and nede more of the bydell. Some loose the yr game by shorte shotynge, some by ouer shotynge. Some walke to moche on the lefte hande, some to moche on the ryght. In the formest sorte be all they that refuse to rede, or to heare redde the scripture in theyr vulgar tonges, moch worse they that also let, or discourage the other from the readynge or hearynge therof. In the latter sorte be they, which by theyr inordinate readyng, vndiscrete speakyng, contentious disputyng, or other wyse, by theyr licencyous lyuinge, slaūder and hynder the worde of God, moost of all other, wherof they wolde seme to be greatest furtherers. These two sortes albeit they be moost farre vnlyke the one to the other, yet they both deserue in effecte lyke reproche. Neyther can I well tell whyther of them I maye iudge the more offender, hym that doth obstinately refuse so godlye and goodly knowledge: or hym that so vngodly and so vngoodly doth abuse the same. And as touchynge the formest I wolde marualye moche that any man shulde be so madde, as to refuse in darcknes, lyght: in honger, foode: in colde, fyer: for the worde of God is lyght: Lucerna pedibus meis, verbum tuum. Foode: Non in solo pane viuit homo, sed in omni verbo dei. Fyer: Ignem veni mittere in terram, et quid volo, nisi vt ardeat? I wolde marualye (I saye at thys) saue that I consyder, howe moche custome and vsage maye do. Nothat yf there were a people as some wryte, de Cymeriis, which neuer sawe the sunne, by reason that they be situated farre towarde the north pole, and be enclosed and ouershadowed with hygh mountaynes: it is credyble and like ynough, that yf, by the power and will of God, the mountaynes shulde synke downe, and geue place, that the lyght of the sunne might haue entraunce to them: at the fyrst, some of them wolde be offended therwith. And the olde prouerbi affermeth, that after a village of corne was fyrst founde: many delyted more to feade of maste and acornes, wherwith they had ben accustomed, then to eate breed made of good corne. Moche is the nature of custome that it causeth vs to beare all thynges well and easelye, wherwith we haue bene accustomed, and to be offended with all thynges therunto contrary. And therfore, I can well thynke them worthy pardon, which at the comyng abroade of scripture houbted and drewe backe. But such as wyll perlyste styll in theyr wylfulnes, I muste nedes iudge, not onely foolyshe frowarde and obstinate: but also penyshe, peruerse and indurate. And yet, yf the matter shulde be tryed by custome, we myght also allege custome for the readynge of the scripture in the vulgare tonge, and prescribe the more auncient custome. For it is not moche aboue one hundreth yeare agoo, sens scripture hath not bene accustomed to be redde in the vulgar tonge within this realme, and many hundred yeares before that, it was translated & redd in the Saxones tonge, which at that tyme was oure mothers tonge. Wherof there remayneth yet diuers coppes founde lately in olde abbeis, of soch antique maners of writynge and speaking, that fewe men nowe ben able to reade and vnderstande the. And when this language waxed olde and out of comen vsage, because folke shulde not lacke the frute of readyng, it was agayne translated in the newer language. Wherof yet also many copies remayne and be dayly founde. But nowe to lett passe custome, and to weye as wyse men euer shulde, the thyng in hys awne nature. Let vs here discusse. What it auayleth scripture to be had and redde of the lay and vulgare people. And to this question I entende here to saye nothyng: but that was spoken and wrytten by the noble doctoure and moost morall diuine sayne John Chrisostome, in hys thyrde sermon de Lazaro: albeit, I wylbe somthynge shorter, and gether the matter into fewer wordes and lesse rowme the he doth there: because I wolde not be tedyous. He exorteth there hys audience, that euery man shulde reade by him selfe at home in the meane dayes and tyme, betwene sermon and sermon: to the entente they myght both more profoundely fyxe in their myndes and memories that he had sayde before vpon soch textes, wherupon he had allready preached: and also that they myght haue theyr myndes the more ready and better prepared to receyue and perceaue that which he shulde sey from thensforth in hys sermones, vpō soche textes, as he had not yet declared and preached vpon: therfore sayth he there: Myne comen vsage is to geue you warnynge before,

matter I intende after to entreate vpon, ꝑ you youre selues in the meane dayes maye se the boke in hande, reade, wepe, and perceyue the summe and effect of the mattier: and marke what hath bene declared, and what remayneth yet to be declared: so ꝑ therby youre mynde maye be the moze furnysshed, to here the reste, that shalbe sayde. And that I exhoꝛte you (sayth he) and euer haue & wyll exhoꝛte you, ꝑ ye (not only here in the churche) geue care to that, that is sayde by the preacher: but that also, when ye be at home in youre houses, ye applye youre selues from tyme to tyme to the readyng of the holy scriptures: which thyng also I neuer lynne to beate into the eares of them that bene my hamplyers, and with whom I haue ꝓyuate aquayntaunce and conuersacyon. Lett no man make excuse and saye: (sayeth
he) I am busyed aboute mattiers of the cõmon welth, I beare this office oꝛ ꝑ, I am a craftes man, I must applye myne occupacyon, I haue a wyfe, my chyldꝛen must be fedde, my house-holde must I prouyde foꝛ. Verily I am a man of the woꝛld, it is not foꝛ me to reade the scriptures, that belõgeth to thẽ that hath bedden the woꝛld sayde well, which lyue in solitarenes and contemplacyon, that hath bene bꝛought vp, and contynually noselled in learnynge and religyon. To thys answeryng: what sayest thou man (sayeth he) is it not foꝛ the to studye and to reade the scripture, because thou art encõbꝛed and distracte with cures and busynes?
So moch the moze it is behouefull foꝛ the to haue defence of scriptures, howe moche thou art the moze distressed in woꝛldly daungers. They that bene free and farre from trouble and en-tremedlyng of woꝛldly thinges, lyueth in sauegarde and tranquilyte, and in the calme oꝛ within a sure hauen. Thou art in the myddest of the see of woꝛldely wickednelle, and therfoꝛe thou nedest the moze of ghostlye succoure and comfoꝛt: they sytte farre from the stroke of battayll, and farre out of gonneshoute, and therfoꝛe they be but seldome wounded: thou ꝑ standest in the foꝛefrounte of the hoost, and nyest to thyne enemyes, muste nedes take nowe and then many stroke, and be grenously wounded. And therfoꝛe thou hast moze nede to haue thy remedyes and medecynes at hande. Thy wyfe prouoketh the to anger, thy chylde gyueth the occasyon to take soꝛowe and pensyuenes, thyne enemyes lyeth in wayte foꝛ the, thy frende (as thou takest him) somtyme enuyeth the, thy neyghboure mysreporteth the, oꝛ ypereth quarels agaynst the, thy mate oꝛ partyner vndermyneth the, thy loꝛde iudge, oꝛ tyraye threteneth the, pouerty is paynefull to the, the losse of thy deare and welbeloued causeth the to moꝛne. Prosperite exalteth the, aduersyte bꝛyngeth the lowe. Briefly, so diuerse and so manyfolde occasyons of cares, tribulacyons and temptacions besetteth the and besegeth the rounde aboute. Where canst thou haue armoure oꝛ foꝛtresse agaynst thyne assautes? Where canst thou haue salue foꝛ thy soꝛes, but of holy scripture? Thy flesche must nedes be ꝓone and subiecte to fleshly lustes, which dayly walkest and art conuersaunte amongest women, seyst theyꝛ bewtes, set foꝛth to the eye, hearest theyꝛ nyse and wãton woꝛdes, smellest their balme, cyuet and muske, with many other lyke prouocations and steringes, except thou hast in a redynes wherwith to suppresse and auoyde them, which cannot elles where be had, but onely out of the holy scriptures. Lett vs reade and seke all the remedyes that we can, and all shalbe lytell ynough. Howe shall we then do, yf we suffer and take dayly woũdes, and whã we haue done, wyll sytte styll and serche foꝛ no medecynes? Doest thou not marke and consider, howe the smyth, mason, oꝛ carpenter, oꝛ any other handy crafteſmã, what neade so euer he be in, what other shyfte soeuer he make, he wyll not sell oꝛ laye to pledge the toles of hys occupacyon, foꝛ then howe shulde he woꝛke his frate oꝛ get hys lyuinge therby? Of lyke mynde and affeccyon ought we to be towardes holye scripture, foꝛ as mallettes, hammars, sawes, chesylles, axes, and hatchettes be the tooles of theyꝛ occupacyon. So bene the bokes of the ꝓphetes, and apostelles, and all holye wꝛyte inspired by the holy ghost, ꝑ instrumen-tes of oure saluacyon. Wherfoꝛe, let vs not stryche to bye and prouyde vs the Byble, that is to saye, the bookes of holy scripture. And lett vs thinke that to be a better Juell in our house then eyther golde oꝛ syluer. Foꝛ lyke as theues bene lothe to assaute an house, where they knowe to be good armoure and artillary, so wheresoeuer these holy and ghostly bookes bene occupied, there nether the deuell, noꝛ none of hys angelles dare come neare: And they that occupye them bene in moche sauegarde, and hauen greate consolacyon, and bene the readyer vnto all goodnes, the slower to all euyll, and yf they haue done any thing amyss, anone euen by the syght of the bookes theyꝛ conscyences bene admonished, and they waxen sozy & ashamed of the facte. Paraduenture, they will saye vnto me: howe and yf we vnderstande nott that we reade, that is conteyned in the bokes. What then? Suppose, thou vnderstande nott the depe and profounde misteryes of scriptures, yet can it not be, but that moche frute and holynes must come and growe vnto the by the reading: foꝛ it cannot be that thou shuldest be ignoꝛaunte in all thinges alyke. Foꝛ the holye ghost hath so oꝛdered and attempered the scriptures, that in them al well publicanes, fyshers, and shepherdes maye fynde theyꝛ edyficacion, as greate doctoures theyꝛ erudicyon: foꝛ those bookes were not made to vayne glozye, lyke as were the wꝛytinges of the gentyle philophosers and rethoꝛicyans, to the entent the makers

makers shulde be hadd in admiration for theyr hye styles and obscure maner of wry-wherof nothyng can be vnderstande without a master or an expositoure. But the apostand prophetes wrote theyr bokes so, that theyr speciall entent and purpose might be vndestande and perceaued of euery reader, which was nothing but the edificacyon and amende-mente of the lyfe of them that readeth or heareth it. Who is that reading or hearing reade in the gospell, Blessed are they that bene mehe, Blessed are they that bene mercyfull, Blessed are they that bene of cleane herte: and soch other lyke places, can perceyue nothing excepte he haue a master to teache hym what it meaneth? Likewyse, the signes and myracles with all other hystoryes of the doynges of Christ or hys apostells, who is ther of so simple witte and capacite, but he maye be able to perceaue and vnderstande them? These be but excuses and cloakes for the rayne, and heuerynges of theyr awne ydell slouthfulnes, I cānot vnderstande
it. What maruayle? howe shuldest thou vnderstande, yf thou wylt not reade, nor loke vpō it? take the bookes into thyne handes, reade the hole storye, and that thou vnderstandest kepe it well in memorye: that thou vnderstandest not, reade it agayne and agayne: yf thou can nether so come by it, counsayle with some other that is better learned. Go to thy curate and preacher, shewe thy selfe to be desirous to knowe and learne. And I doubte not, but God seynge thy diligence and redynesse (yf no man elles teache the) wyll hym selfe vouchsaffe w̄ hys holy spirete to illuminate the, and to open vnto the that which was locked from the.

Remember the Ennuchus of Candace quene of Ethiopye, which albeit he was a man of a wylde and barbarous countrye, and one occupyed with worldly cures and busynesses, yet ryding in hys charet, he was readynge the scripture. Nowe consider, yf thys man passyng in hys iorney, was so diligent as to reade the scripture, what thinkest thou of like was he wōte to do sittyng at home? Agayne, he that letted not to reade, albeit he dyd not vnderstande, What dyd he then, trowest thou, after that when he had learned and had gotten vnderstanding? For that thou maye well knowe that he vnderstode not what he reade: herken what Philippe there sayth vnto hym. Vnderstandest thou what thou readest? And he nothynge ashamed to confesse hys ignorannce, answereth: Howe shulde I vnderstande hauyng no body to shewe me the wey? Lo when he lacked one to shewe hym the weye and to expounde to hym the scriptures, yet dyd he reade: and therfore God the rather prouyded for hym a gyde of the wey, that taught hym to vnderstande it. God perceyued hys wyllinge and towarde mynde: and therfore he sent hym a teacher by and by. Therfore, let no man be negligēt about hys awne health and saluation: though thou haue not Philippe allwayes when thou wol-dest, the holy ghost, which then moued and stered vp Philippe, wilbe ready and not faile the yf thou do thy diligence accordingly. All these thinges bene written for vs to oure edifycatiō and amendement, which be borne towardes the latter ende of the worlde. The readyng of scriptures is a greate and strong bulwarke or fortresse against synne, the ignorannce of the same is the greater ruyne and destruccyon of them that will not knowe it. That is the thing that bringeth in heresyes, that is it, that causeth all corrupte and peruerse lyuing, that it is, y bryngeth all thinges out of good order. Hetherto, all that I haue sayde, I haue takē and gathered out of the forsayde sermon of this holy doctour sayncte John Chrisostome. Nowe yf I shulde in lyke maner bryng forth, what the selfe same doctour speaketh in other places, and what other doctoures and wryters saye, concerning the same purpose, I myght seme to you to wrote another Bible, rather then to make a preface to the Bible. Wherfore in few wor-des to comprehende the largenes and vtilytie of the scripture, howe it conteyneth frutefull instruction and erudityon for euery man, yf any thinges be necessarye to be learned: of the ho-lye scripture We maye learne it. Yf falshed shall be reproued, therof we maye gather wherwith all. Yf any thynge be to be corrected and amended, yf there nede any exhortation or cōsolatyon, of the scripture we maye well learne. In the scryptures be the fatte pastures of the soule, therin is no venymouse meate, no vnholsome thynge, they be the very dayntie and pure fedynge. He that is ignorannte, shall fynde there what he sholde learne. He that is a peuerse synner, shall there fynde his damnatyon to make hym to tremble for feare. He that lahoureth to serue God shall fynde ther his glorye, & the promissiōs of eternall lyfe, exhortyng him more diligently to labour. Herin maye prynces learne howe to gouerne their subiectes: Subiectes obedience, loue and dreade to theyr prynces. Husbandes, howe they shulde be haue thē vnto their wyfes: howe to educate theyr children and seruaūtes. And contrary the wyfes, chyldren, and seruauntes maye knowe there dutye to theyr husbandes, parentes and masters.
Here maye all maner of persons, men, wemen, ponge, olde, learned, vnlerned, ryche, poore, prestes, laymen, Lordes, Ladyes, officers, tenauntes, and meane men, virgyns, wyfes we-dowes, lawers, marchauntes, artificers, husbande men, and almaner of persons of what estate or condityon soeuer they be, maye in thys booke learne all thynges what they ought to beleue, what they ought to do, & what they shulde not do, as well concerning almyghtye God concernynge them selues and all other. Wherfore to the readyng of the scrypture none e enemye, but that eyther be so sycke, that they loue not to here of any medecyne: or is that be so ignorannte, that they knowe not scrypture to be the most helthfull medecyne.

Therfore as touchynge thys former parte. I wyll here conclude and take it as a conclusion sufficyentlye determyned and approued, that it is conuenient and good, the scrypture to be redd of all sortes & kyndes of people, and in the vulgare tonge without farther allegatiõs or probatiõs for the same, which shall not nede, syns y thys one place of John Chrysostome is ynough & sufficiente to persuade all thẽ y be not frowardly and peruerslye sett in their awne wyll fall opinion, specially nowe that the kynges highnes beynge supreme hede nexte vnder Christe of thys churche of Englande hath, approued with his royall assente the setting furthe herof, which onely to all true and obedient subiectes ought to be a sufficiente reason, for the alowance of the same, without farther delaye, reclamation, or resystaunce although there were no preface nor other reason heare in expressed. Therfore nowe to come to the secõde and latter parte of my purpose there is nothyng so good in thys worlde but it maye be abused, and turned from frutefull and holsome, to hurtfull and noysome. What is there above, better then the sunne, the moone, the starres? Yet was ther y toke occasion by the great bewty and vertue of them to dishonoure God, and to defyle them selues with ydolatrye, geuing the honour of the lyuing God and creatour of all thinges, to suche thynges as be bad created.
What is there here beneth, better then fyer, water, meates, drynckes, metalles of golde, syluer, yron and stele? Yet, we se daylie great harme and moch mischefe, done by euery one of these, aswell for lacke of wisdome and prouydence of them that suffer euyll, as by the malice of them that worketh the euyll. Thus to them that be euyll of them selues, euery thynge setteth forwarde and encreaseth their euyll, be it of his awne nature a thing neuer so good, lyke as contrarelye, to them that studyeth and endeuoreth them selues to goodnes, euery thynge preuayleth them, and profiteth vnto good: be it of hys awne nature a thyng neuer so badde.
As sayncte Paul sayth, his qui diligunt deum omnia cooperantur in bonum: euen as out of moost venomouse wormes is made triacle, the moost soueraygne medecine for the preserua-tyon of mans helth in tyme of daũger. Wherfore I wolde aduise you all, that cometh to the readyng or hearyng of this boke, which is the worde of God, the moost precious Juell, and moste holy relyque, that remayneth vpon earth, that ye bring with you the feare of God, and that ye do it with all due reuerẽce, and vse youre knowledge therof, not to vayne glorye and friuolouse disputatiõ: but to the honour of God, encrease of vertu, and edifycation both of yõ selues and other. And to the entent that my wordes maye be the more regarded, I wyll vse in thys parte the auctorite of sayncte Gregorye Nazianzene, lyke as in the other I dyd of S.
John Chrisostome. It appereth that in hys tyme there were some (as I feare me, there bene also nowe at these dayes a great nomber) which were ydell babblers, and talkers of the scripture out of reason, and all good order, and without any encrease of vertu, or exãple of good lyuing, to them he wryteth all hys fyrst boke, de theologia. Wherof I shall briefly gather y the hole effecte, and recite it here vnto you. There ben some (sayeth he) whose not onely eares and tonges, but also their hartes bene whitted and ready bent all to contencyon and vnprofitable disputation, whom I wolde wisshe as they bene vehemente and ernest to reason the matter with tonge: so they were also ready and practique to do good dedes. But for asmoche as they, subuertyng the order of all godlynes, haue respecte onely to thys thynge. howe they maye bynde and loose subtile questions, so that nowe euery market place, euery alehouse and tauerne, euery feasthouse: briefly euery company of men, euery assembley of wemen is fylled with such talke. Seyng the matter is so (sayeth he) and that our fayth & holy religion of Christ begynneth to wax nothing els: but as it were a sophistrye or a talkyng crafte. I can no lesse do but saye somthing therunto. It is not fitte (sayth he) for euery mã to dispute y hygh questions of diuinite, nether is it to be done at all tymes: nether in euery audiẽce must we discuse euery doubte: but we must knowe whã, to whom, and how farre we ought to enter into soch matters. Fyrst, it is not for euery man: but it is for suche as be of exacte and exquisite iudgementes, and suche as haue spente theyr tyme before in studye and contemplatyon: and suche as before haue clensed them selues aswell in soule, as bodye: or at the least, endeuored them selues to be made cleane. For it is daungerous (sayth he) for the vncleane to touch that thynge, that is moost cleane: lyke as the sore eye taketh harme by lokynge vpon the sunne.
Secondarelye, not at all tymes but when we be reposed: and at reste frome all outwarde bregges and trouble, and when that oure headdes be not encombred with other worldelye and wanderinge ymaginatyons: as yf a man shulde myngle balme and dyrte togyther. For he that shall iudge and determyne suche matteres and doubtes of scryptures, muste take hys tyme, when he maye applye hys wittes therunto, that he maye thereby the better see, and discerne what is truethe.

Thyrdelye

Thyrdelye where, and in what audience. There and amonge those that bene studioarne, and not amonge suche as haue pleasure to tryfle with suche mattyers as with other thynges of pastyme, which repute for there chefe delicates the disputacion of hygh questiones, to shewe there wittes, learnynge and eloquence in reasonynge of hygh mattyers. Four-thlye, it is to be consydered howe laere to wade in suche mattyers of difficultie. No further (sayeth he) but as euery mannes owne capacytie wyll serue him, and agayne no further the the weakenes or intelligence of the other audience maye bere. For lyke as to great noyse hurteth the eare, to moche meate hurteth a mannes bodye, to heuye burdens hurteth the berers of them, to moche rayne doth more hurte then good to the grounde, briefly in all thynges to moch is noyouse, euē so weke wittes & weke cōceyptes maye sone be oppressed wt ouer hard questiōs. I say not this to disuade mē frome ye knowledge of God, & readyng or studying of ye scripture. For I saye, ye ye is as necessarye for the lyfe of mānes soule as for ye body to breathe.
And yf it were possyble so to lyue, I woulde thynke it good for a man to spende all hys lyfe in that, and to do no other thynge. I comende ye lawe whyche byddeth to meditate & studye the scryptures all wayes both nyght and daye, and Sermons and preachynges to be made both mornynge none and euentyde. And God to be laweded and blessed in all tymes, to bedd warde, frome bedde, in oure torneys, and all oure other worthes, I forbydd not to reade, but I forbydde to reason. Nether forbydde I to reason so farre as is good and godlye. But I alowe not that is done oute of season, and out of measure and good order. A man maye eate to moche of honey be it neuer so swete, and ther is tyme for euery thynge, and that thynge, that is good is not good, yf it be vngoodly done. Euen as a flower in wynter is oute of season, and as womans apparell becometh not a man, nether contrarilye, the mannes, the woman: nether is weppynge conuenient at a bryddeale, nether laughynge at bery all. Nowe yf we can obserue and kepe that is comely and tymely in all other thynges, shall not we then the rather do the same in the holye scriptures? Let vs not runne furth as it were wyld horse that can suffer nether brydell in there mouthes, nor syttet on there backes. Let vs kepe vs in oure boundes, and nether let vs go to farre on thone syde, leste we retorne into Egypte, nether to farre ouer ye other, leste we be caried awaye to Babylon. Let vs not synge the songe of our Lorde in a straunge lande, that is to saye, let vs not dispute the worde of God at all auentures, aswell where it is not to be reasoned, as where it is, and aswell in the eares of them ye be not fytte therfore, as of the that be. If we can no wyse forbere, but that we must nedes dispute, let vs forbere thus moche at the leaste, to do it oute of tyme, and place conuenient. And let vs entreate of those thynges which be holye, holilye, and vpon those thyn-ges ye bene mysticall, mistically, & not to vtter the dyuine misteryes in the eares vnworthye to heare them, but let vs knowe what is comely aswell in oure syence: and talkynge, as in oure garmentes werynge, in oure fedynge, in oure gesture, in oure goynges, and all oure other behauynge. Thys contentyon and debate aboute scryptures, and doubtes therof (specially whan suche as pretende to be the fauorers and studentes therof cannot agre within the selfes, doth moste hurte to oure selfes, and to the furtherynge of the cause & quarells that we woulde haue forthered aboue all other thynges. And we in this (sayeth he) be not vnlyke to them that beynge madde, sett there awne houses on fyer, and that fle there awne chyldre, or brate there awne parentes. I maruaile moch (sayth he) to recounte wherof cōmeth all this desyre of vayne glorye, wherof commeth all this tongne itche, that we haue so moch delight to talke and clatter. And wherin is our cōmunication? Not in the cōmendations of vertuous and good deades of hospitalitie, of loue betwene christiane brother & brother, of loue betwen man & wyfe, of virginitye and chastitie, and of almose towardes the poore. Not in Psalmes and godly songes, not in lamentynge for oure synnes, not in repressynge the affections of the body, not in prayers to God. We talke of scripture, but in ye meane tyme we subdue we not our flesche, by fastinge, wakynge, and weppyng, we make not this lyfe a meditation of death, we do not stryue to be Lordes of oure appetites & affections. We goo not aboute to pull downe oure proude & hygh myndes to abate oure fumyshe & rancorouse stomakes, to restrayne oure lustes & bodely delectations, oure vndiscrete sorowes, oure lasciuious merthe, oure inornate lokynge, oure vnsaciable herynge of vanities, oure speakyng without measure, oure in-conuenient thoughtes, and briefly, to reforme oure lyfe and maners: but all oure holynes cōsystethin talkynge. And we pardon eche other frome all good lyuynge, so that we may stycke fast together in argumentacyon, as though there were no moo wayes to heauen, but thys alone the waye of speculatyon and knowledge (as they take it) but in very dead, it is rather the waye of superfluous contention and sophisticatiō. Hetherto haue I receyued the mynde of Gregorye Nazianzene in that booke which I spake of before. The same authour sayeth also in an other place that the learnynge of a Chrysten man ought to begynne of the feare of God, to ende in matyers of hygh speculatyō, and not cōtrarily to begynne with speculation

..ot in feare. For ſpeculatiō (ſaieth he) other hye commyng and knowledge, yf it be not, layed with the bryddell of feare to offende Godde is daūgerous and enough to tumble a man hedelinge downe the hyll. Therfore, ſayeth he, the feare of God muſt be the fyrſt begynnynge and as it were an abce or an introductiō to all them that ſhall enter to the very trew and moſt frutefull knowledge of holye ſcriptures. Where as is the feare of God, there is, ſayeth he, the kepinge of the commaundementes, and where as is the kepyng of the cōmaundemētes, there is the clenſynge of the fleſhe, which fleſhe is a cloude before the ſoules eye, and ſuffereth it not puerlye to ſee the beame of ỹ heuenly light. Where as is the clenſynge of the fleſhe, there is the illumination of the holy ghoſt, thende of all oure deſyres, and the very lyght wherby the verytie of ſcriptures is ſeen and perceyued. This is the mynde and almoſt the wordes of Gregorie Nazianzene doctour of the greke churche of whom ſaynt Jerome ſayth, that vnto hys tyme, the laten churche had no wryterable to be compared, and to make an euen matche with him. Therfore to conclude this latter parte, euery man that commeth to the readynge of this holye booke ought to bringe with hym fyrſt and formoſte thys feare of almyghtye godde, and then nexte a fyrme and ſtable purpoſe to reforme hys awne ſelfe accordynge thee vnto, and ſo to contynue procede, and proſpere frome tyme to tyme, ſhewynge hym ſelfe to be a ſober and frutefull herer and lerner, which yf he doo, he ſhall proue at the legth well able to teache, though not with hys mouth, yet with hys lyuynge and good example, which is euer the moſt lyuely, and moſte effectouſe forme and maner of teachyng. He that other wyſe intermedeleth with this booke, let hym be aſſured, that ons he ſhall make accompte therfore, when he ſhall haue layde to hym as it is wrytten in the Prophete Dauid, Peccatori dicit deus &c. Vnto the vngodly layde God, why doeſt thou preache my lawes, and taheſt my teſtament in thy mouth: Where as thou hateſt to be reformed, and haſt caſte my wordes behynde the. When thou ſawest a theke, thou conſentydeſt vnto hym and haſt bene partetaker with aduouterers. Thou haſt lett thy mouth ſpeake wyckednes, and with thy tonge thou haſt ſetforth diſceyte. Thou ſatteſt and ſpakeſt agaynſt thy brother and haſt ſclaundered the awne mothers ſonne. Theſe thynges haſt thou done, & I helde my tong and ỹ thoughteſt (wyckedly) that I am euen ſuche a one as thy ſelfe. But I wyll reproue the, and ſett before the, the thynges that thou haſt done. O conſyder this, ye that forget God leſt I plucke you a waye, and ther be none to deliuer you. Who ſo offereth me thākes and prayſe he honoureth me, and to hym that ordereth hys comerſation ryght: wyll I ſhewe the ſaluation of godde.

God ſaue the kynge.

The fyrst booke of Moses/ called in the hebrue Bereschith: and in the latyn: Genesis.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ Howe heauen and earth, the lyght, the firmamẽt, the sunne, the moone, the starres, and all beastes, foules, and fisshes in the sey were made by the worde of God. And howe man also was created.

IN the begynnynge * God created heauen and earthe. The earth was voyde and empeye: and darcknes was ↠ vpon the face of the depe: and the spyrete of God moued ↠ vpon the face of the waters. And God sayde: let there be made lyght, and there was light made. And God sawe the light that it was good. And God made a diuision betwene the light and darknesse. And God called the light, daye: and the darknesse called he, nyght. And the euenyng and the mornyng was made one daye.

And God sayde: let there be a firmamẽt betwene the waters: and let it make a diuision betwene waters and waters. And God made the firmament, and set a diuision betwene the waters which were vnder the firmamẽt and the waters that were aboue the firmament. And it was so. And God called the firmament, heauen. The euenynge also and the mornyng was made the secõd daye.

And God sayde: * let the waters vnder heauen be gathered togethere into one place, that the dryc lande maye be sene. And soit came to passe. And God called the dryc lãde Earth: and the gatheryng togethere of waters called he the seas. And God sawe that it was good.

And God sayde: let the earth bryng forth grene herbe, which maye engendre seed: and frutefull tre, yeldyng frute after hys kynde, whose seed maye be in it self vpon the earth. And it came to passe. And the earth brought forth grene herbe, makynge seede after hys kynde: and tree yeldynge frute, whose seed was in it selfe after hys kynde. And God sawe that it was good. The euenynge also and the mornynge was made the thyrde daye. And God sayde: * let there be made lyghtes in the firmament of heauen: and let them make a difference betwene the daye and the nyght, and let them be ☞ vnto sygnes, and vnto appoynted seasons, and vnto dayes, and vnto yeares. And let them be vnto lyghtes in the firmament of heauen, that they maye geue lyght vpon the earthe. And so it came to passe.

And God made * two greate lyghtes: a greater lyght to rule the daye, & a lesse lyght to rule the night (And he made) sterres also. And God set them in the firmament of heauen, that they myght geue lyght vpon the earth, and that they might rule the daye and the night: and to make a difference betwene the lyght and the darknes. And God sawe that it was good. The euenyng also and the mornyng was made the fourth daye.

And God sayde: * let the waters bryng forth mouynge creature that hath lyfe, and foule that maye flye vpon the earth in the face of the firmament of heauen. And God created great whales and euery lyuing and mouyng creature, which ỹ waters brought forth after their kynde: and euery fethered foule after their kynde. And God sawe that it was good. And God ☞ blessed them, sayinge: Growe & increace and fyll the waters of the see: and let fethred foules be multiplyed in the earth. The euenynge also and the mornyng was made the fyfth daye.

And God sayde: let the earth bring forth lyuing creature after his kynde: catell, worme and beast of the erth after his kynde: and so it came to passe. And God made the beast of the earth after his kynde, and catell after their kynde: and euery thynge that crepeth vpon the earth after his kynde. And God sawe that it was good.

And God sayde: let vs make man ↠ in oure ymage after oure lyckenes, and let them haue rule of the fysh of the see: and foule of the ayre and catell, and all the earth, and of euery crepyng thyng that crepeth vpon the erth. And so God created man in his awne ymage: in the * ☞ ymage of God created he hym, + male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God sayd vnto them: Growe and increace and replenysshe the erth, and subdue it: and haue * dominion of the fish of the see, and foule of the aire: and of euery lyuing thyng that moueth vpõ the earth. And God sayde: Beholde, I haue geuen you euery herbe sowynge seed, which is in the vpper face of all the earth: and euery tre in the which is the frute of tree, and that soweth seed, that they maye be meate vnto you. To euery beast of the earth also, and to euery byrde of the ayre, and to euery suche thinge as crepeth vpon the earth (wherin is a lyuing ☞ soule) I haue geue all greenes of herbe to be meat. And it came so to passe. And God sawe euery thyng ỹ he had made, *and beholde, it was exceadyng good. The euenyng also and the mornynge was made the syxth daye.

¶ The halowynge of the Sabboth daye. The foure floudes of Paradise. The settyng in of man in Paradise. The tre of knowledge is forbidden him: how Adam named all creatures. The creacion of Eua. The institucion of mariage.

A The heauēs also and the erth were fynished, and all the ☞ hoost of them. And in the seuenth daye God ended his worcke which he had made. * In the seuenth daye also, he rested from all hys worke which he had made. ☞ And God ☞ blessed the seuenth daye, and ☞ sanctifyed it, because ꝑ in it he had rested from all his worke, which God ordeyned to make.

These are the generacions of the heauēs and of the earth when they were created, in the daye, when the Lorde God made ꝑ earth and the heauēs and euery plant of the felde, before it was in the earth: and euery herbe of the felde, before it grewe. For the Lorde God had not caused it to rayne vpon the earth, nether was there a man to tyll the grounde. And there went vp a myste frō of the earth, and watred the whole face of the grounde.

B The Lorde God also * shope man, euen ☞ dust from of the grounde, and * breethed into his nasthrels the breth of lyfe: and Adā was made a lyuing soule. And ꝑ Lorde God planted a garden eastwarde from ☞ Eden, and there he put mā whō he had made. Moreouer, out of the grounde made the Lorde God to growe, euery tre that was pleasaūt to the sight, and cōmodious for meate. The * tre of lyfe also and the tre of knowledge of good and of euyll was in the myddes of the garden. And out of Eden, there went forth a riuer to water the garden. And from thence it was deuyded, and became into foure heades. The name of one is ☞ Pison. The same is it that compasseth the whole lande of Hauilah, where there is golde. And the golde of that lande is good. There is also Bdellium, and the onix stone. The name of ꝑ second ryuer is, Gihon: the same is it ꝑ compasseth the whole lande of Ethiopia. The name of the third ryuer is Hidekel, ꝑ it goth towarde ꝑ eastsyde of Assiria. And ꝑ fourth ryuer is Euphrates.

C The Lorde God also toke Adam, and put him into the garden of Eden, that he myght dresse and kepe it. And the Lorde God commaūded Adā, saying: Eating, ꝑ shalt eate of euery tre of the garden. But as touchynge the tre of knowledge of good and euell, thou shalt not eate of it. For in, what daye soeuer thou eatest therof, thou shalt dye the death.

And agayne, the Lorde God sayd: ☞ It D is not good that Adam shulde be alone ↦ I will make him an helpe, which maye be present wt him. And so out of the grounde shope the Lorde God euery beast of the felde, and euery foule of the ayre, and brought it vnto man, that he myght se howe he wolde call it. For likewyse as mā hym selfe named euery liuyng thyng, euen so was the name therof. Than gaue man names therfore named the names vnto all catell, and foule of the ayre, and to euery beast of the felde. And for man founde he not an helpe that myght be present with him. The Lorde God also caused a slomber to fall vpon Adam, and he slept. And he toke one of hys ribbes, & closed vp ꝑ flesh in stead therof. And the rybbe which the Lorde God had taken from man, * made he a woman, and brought her vnto man. And man sayde: This is nowe bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh. She shalbe called woman, because she was take out of man. ☞ For this cause shall a man leaue hys father and hys mother, & shalbe ioyned with hys wyfe, and they * shall become one flesh: and they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

C The.iij. Chapter.

C The serpent deceaueth the woman. The serpent, the woman, and the man are curssed, and dryuen out of Paradyse. Christ our sauiour is promysed.

A But the serpent was sotyller then euery beast of the felde, which the Lorde God made. And he sayde vnto the woman: yee, hath the Lorde God sayde: ye shall not eat of euery tre of the garden? And the woman sayde vnto the serpēt: we eate of the frute of the tre of the garden: but as for the frute of ꝑ tre which is in the middes of the gardē, God hath sayde: ye shall not eate of it, nether shal ye touche it, lest happly ye dye. And * the serpent sayde vnto the woman: ye shall not dye the death: but God doth knowe, that the same daye that ye eat therof, your eyes shalbe opened, & ye shalbe euē as goddes, knowing good and euyll. And so the * woman (seyng that the same tre was good to eate, and lusty to the eyes, & that the same tre was pleasaunt to get wisdome) toke of the frute therof, and dyd eate: and gaue vnto her husband beynge with her, which dyd eate also. And the eyes of them both were opened: and they knewe that they were naked, & they sowed fygge leaues together, and made thē selues aperns. And they heard ꝑ voyce of the Lorde God walkynge in the garden in the coole of the daye. And ☞ Adam & his wyfe hyd thē selues frō the presence of ꝑ Lorde God amōg the trees of the garden. And the Lorde God called Adam, and sayd vnto hym: where art thou/which ſayde: I heard the voyce in the garden, & was afrayed, becauſe I was naked, & hyd my ſelfe. And he ſayde: Who tolde the, that thou waſt naked/haſt thou not eaten of the ſame tre, concernynge the which I cõmaunded the, that thou ſhuldeſt not eate of it? And Adam ſayd: The woman, whom thou gaueſt to be wyth me, ſhe gaue me of the tree, and I dyd eate.

¶ And the Lorde God ſayde vnto the woman: Why haſt thou done this? And the woman ſayde: yonder ſerpent begyled me, and I dyd eate. And the Lorde God ſayde vnto the ſerpẽt: becauſe thou haſt done this, thou art curſſed aboue all catell, and aboue euery beaſt of the felde. Upon thy belly ſhalt thou go, & duſt ſhalt thou eate all ỹ dayes, of thy lyfe. I will alſo put enemyte betwene the & the woman, betwene thy ſede and hyr ſede: ☞ ☞ * The ſame ſhall treade downe thy head, and thou ſhalt treade vpon hys hele. ☞ Iohã. c.

But vnto the woman he ſayde: In multiplienge wyll I multiplye thy ſorowe & thy conceyuynge: In ſorowe ſhalt thou brynge furth chyldren, & thy luſt ſhall pertayne to thy huſbande, & he ſhall haue the rule of the.

Unto Adam he ſayde: Becauſe thou haſt herkened vnto the voyce of thy wyfe, & haſt eaten of the tree (cõcernynge the which I cõmaũded the, ſayinge: Thou ſhalt not eate of it) curſed is the groũd for thy ſake. In ſorowe ſhalt thou eate of it all the dayes of thy lyfe. Thorne alſo & thyſtle ſhall it cauſe to growe vnto the, & thou ſhalt eate the herbe of the felde. In the ſweat of thy face ſhalt ỹ eate bread, tyll thou be turned agayne into the groũde, for out of it was thou taken, in aſmuch as thou * art duſt, & into duſt ſhalt thou be turned agayne. Iob.xxxiiii them furth from the gardẽ of Eden, to dreſſe the groũde that he was taken out of. And ſo he droue out man, & at the eaſt ſyde of the garden of Eden, he ſet Cherubins, & the glyſterynge flame of a ſhakynge ſwerde, to kepe the waye of the tre of lyfe.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

¶ Cain doth not onely kyll his righteous brother Abell/ but alſo diſpayreth: and is curſed. The generacion of Enoch: Mathuſael: Lamech: Iabal and Enos.

ADam knewe Heua his wife: Who cõceaunynge, bare Cain, ſayinge: I haue gotten a man of the Lorde. And ſhe proceadynge furth, brought furth hys brother Habel, and Habel was a keper of ſheepe. But Cain was a tyller of the grounde. And in proceſſe of dayes it came to paſſe, that Cain brought of the frute of the grounde an oblacyon vnto the Lorde. Habel alſo brought of the fyrſtlynges of hys ſheepe, and of the fat therof. And the Lorde had ☞ reſpecte vnto ☞ Iob.xxxiiii * Habel, & to hys oblacyon. But vnto Cain and to hys offrynge he had no reſpecte. For the whych cauſe Cain was exceadyng wrothe, and hys countenaunce abated. And the Lorde ſayde vnto Cain: Why art thou wrothe, & why is thy countenaũce abated? ☞ * yf thou do well, ſhall there not be a promocion. And yf thou doſt not well, lyeth not thy ſynne in the dores? Unto the alſo pertayneth the luſt therof, and thou ſhalt haue dominiõ ouer it. And Cain ſpake vnto Habel hys brother (let vs go furth.)

And it fortuned * whan they were in the felde, Cain roſe vp agaynſt Habel hys brother, and ſlue him. And the Lorde ſayde vnto Cain: Where is Habel thy brother? Whych ſayd: I wote not. Am I my brothers keper? And he ſayde: What haſt ỹ done? The voyce of thy brothers bloude ☞ crieth vnto me out of the grounde. And nowe art thou curſſed from of the erth, whych hath opened hyr mouth, to receaue thy brothers bloude from thy hande. If thou tyll the grounde, ſhe ſhall not proceade to yelde vnto the hyr ſtrength. Fugityue, and vagabounde ſhalt thou be in the erth. And Cain ſayde vnto the Lorde: Myne * iniquite is more, then yt maye be forgeuẽ. Beholde, thou haſt caſt me out this daye from the vpper face of the erth, and frõ thy face ſhall I be hyd: Fugityue alſo and a vagabounde ſhall I be in the erth. And it ſhall come to paſſe: euery one that fyndeth me, ſhall ſlaye me. And the Lorde ſayde vnto him: (it ſhall not be ſo) yet, but whoſoeuer ſlayeth Cain, it ſhalbe auenged ſeuen folde. Iob.xxxi.c.

And the Lorde ſet a marke vpon Cain, leſt any mã fyndynge him, ſhulde kyll hym. And Cain wente out frõ the preſence of the Lorde, & dwelt in the lãde of Nod eaſtward frõ Eden. Cain alſo knewe his wife, whych cõceaued & bare Henoch: & buyldinge a cyte, he called the name of the ſame cyte after the name of hys ſonne Henoch. Unto the ſame Henoch was borne Irad, Irad begat Mehuiael, & Mehuiael begat Methuschael. Methuschael begat Lamech. And Lamech toke vnto hym two wyues: The name of the one was Ada, & the name of the other was Zilla. And Ada begat Jabal, whych was the father of such as dwell in tentes, & of such as haue catell. His brothers name was Thubal, whych was the father of such as handle harpe & organe. And Zilla also begat Thubal Cain, which wrought cunnyngly euery craft of braße & of yron. The sister of Thubal Cain, was Naema.

D And Lamech sayde vnto his wyues Ada and Zilla: Heare my voyce ye wyues of Lamech, herken vnto my speche. For I haue not slayne a man to the woundynge of my selfe, & a yonge man to myne owne punyshment. If Cain shalbe auenged seuenfolde, truly Lamech seuentye tymes and seuen tymes.

Adam knewe his wife agayne, & she bare a sonne, and called his name Seth: For God (sayde she) hath appoynted me another sede in steade of Habel, whō Cain slew. And vnto the same Seth also there was borne a sonne, & he called his name Enos. Then began they to make inuocacyon in the name of the Lorde.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

¶ The genealogie of Adam and of the other fathers vnto Noe.

THis is the boke of the generacyons of Adā. In the daye that God created mā, in the lykenesse of God made he him. Male and female created he them, & blessed them, and called their name Adam in the daye of their creacyon.

And Adam lyued an hundzeth & thyrtye yeres, & begat (a sonne) in hys owne lykenesse after hys ymage, & called his name Seth. All the dayes of Adam (after he had begotten * Seth) were eyght hundzeth yeres, & he begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes that Adam lyued, were nyne hūdzeth and thyrtye yeares, and he dyed.

Seth lyued an hūdzeth & fyue yeares, and begat Enos. And Seth lyued (after he begat Enos) eyght hundzeth yeares & seuē yeres, & begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Seth were, nyne hundzeth & twelue yeares. And he dyed.

Enos lyued nyntye yeares & begat Kenā. And Enos lyued (after he begat Kenā) eight hūdzeth, and fyftene yeares, & begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Enos were nyne hundzeth & fyue yeres. And he dyed.

Kenan lyued seuentye yeres, & begat Mahelaiel. And Kenan lyued (after he begat Mahelaiel) eyght hūdzeth yeares and foure tye yeres, and begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Kenan were nyne hundzeth yeares and ten yeares, and he dyed.

Mahelaiel lyued fyftye yeares & fyue yeares, & begat Jared. And agayne, Mahelaiel lyued (after he begat Jared) eyght hundzeth & thirtye yeres, & begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Mahelaiel were eyght hūdzeth nyntye & fyue yeares. And he dyed.

Jared lyued an hundzeth & fyftye and two yeares, & begat Henoch. And Jared lyued (after he begat Henoch) eyght hūdzeth yeares, & begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Jared were nyne hundzeth and fyftye and two yeares. And he dyed.

Henoch lyued fyftie & fyue yeares, & begat Methuselah. And Henoch * walked wyth God after he begat Methuselah, thre hūdzeth yeres, & begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Henoch were thre hundzeth fyftie & fyue yeres. And Henoch * walked with God, & he (was * no more sene,) for God toke hym awaye.

Methuselah also lyued an hundzeth yeares, & eyghtye & seuē yeres, & begat Lamech. And agayne Methuselah lyued (after he begat Lamech,) seuen hundzeth yeares, and eyghtye, & two yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Methuselah were nyne hundzeth yeares and fyftye & nyne yeares. And he dyed.

Lamech lyued an hundzeth yeres & eyghtye & two yeres, & begat a sonne, & called his name Noah, sayenge: This same shall cōforte vs as cōcernynge oure worke & sorowe of oure hāde, frō of the erth, which God cursed. And Lamech lyued (after he begat Noah) fyue hūdzeth yeres & nynety & fyue yeares, & begat sonnes & daughters. And all the dayes of Lamech were seuē hūdzeth yeares, and seuentye and seuen yeares, and he dyed.

Noah was fyue hūdzeth yeare olde. And Noah begat Sem, Ham, and Japheth.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

¶ The cause of the flowde. God warneth Noe of the chaunge of the flowde. The preparynge of the Arke.

AND it came to passe, that man began to be multiplied in the vpper face of the erth, and there were daughters borne vnto the. The sonnes of God also sawe the daughters of mē that they were fayre, and they toke them wyues from amonge all ſ they had chosen. And the Lorde sayde: My spirite shall not allwaye, stryue in mā, because he is flesh, and hys dayes shalbe * an hundzeth & twentye yeares. But there were gyauntes in the erth in those dayes: yee and after that the sonnes of God came vnto the daughters of men, and they had gotten vnto them, the same became myghtye mē of the worlde, and men of renowme.

But God sawe that the malyce of man was greate in the erth, and all the ymaginacyō of the thoughtes of hys * hert was onely euell euery daye. And it repented the Lorde, that he had made mā in the erth, & he was was touched with sorow in his harte. And ꝑ Lorde sayde: I wyll (from the vpper face of the earth) destroye man, whom I haue created: both man, catel, wormе, & foule of ꝑ ayre, for it repenteth me ꝑ I haue made them.

But Noah founde grace in the eyes of ꝑ Lorde: These are ꝑ generacyons of Noah * Noah was iust & perfect in his generacions, and † walked wt God. Noah begat thre sonnes: Shem, Ham, & Japheth. The earth also was corrupte before God, & the same earthe was fylled wt cruelte. And God loked vpō the erth, and beholde it was corrupt: For al fleshe had corrupt his waye vpon earth.

And God sayde vnto Noah: The ende of all fleshe is come before me, for the earthe is fylled with cruelte from the face of them. And beholde, I wyll destroy them with the erth, Make the an Arke of pyne trees. Habitacyons shalt thou make in the Arke, and shalt pytch it within & without with pytch. And of this fasshyon shalt ꝑ make it. The lengthe of the Arke shalbe thre hundreth cubytes: The breedth of it, fyfty cubites, & the heygth of it thyrty cubytes. A wyndowe shalt thou make in the Arke, and in a cubite shalt thou fynyshe it aboue, but the doore of the Arke shalte thou set in the syde therof. With thre lofte sone aboue an other shalte thou make it.

And behode, I, euen I, do bring a flonde of waters vpon the earthe, that I maye destroye al fleshe wherin is ꝑ breth of lyfe vnder heauen: And euery thynge that is in the earth, shall dye. With the also wyll I make my * couenaunt, & thou shalte come into the Arke: thou & thy sonnes, thy wife & thy sonnes wyues wt the. And euery lyuing thinge, and of all fleshe, a payre of euery one shalt ꝑ bringe into the Arke, to kepe them alyue wt the. They shalbe male & female. Of fethered foules also after theyr kynde, & of catell after theyr kynde, of euery wormе of the earth after his kynde: two of euery one shall come vnto ꝑ, that thou mayst kepe them alyue. And take thou with the of all meate that is eaten, and thou shalt laye it vp with ꝑ, that it maye be meate for the & them. Noah therfore dyd accordyng vnto all that God commaunded hym: euen so dyd he.

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

¶ The entrauce of Noe, and of them that were with hym: into the Arke. The risyng of the flonde: wherewyth rowe all thynges dyd perysh.

AND ꝑ Lord sayd vnto Noah: Come thou and al thy house into ꝑ Arke, for the haue I sene * rygtuous before me in thys generacyon. Of euery & cleane beaste thou shalte take with the seuen and seuen: The male and hys female: But of vncleane catell, two, the male and his female. Of foules also of the ayre, seuen and seuen, ꝑ male & the female, to kepe sede alyue vpon the face of al the whole erth. For yet after seuen dayes I wyll rayne vpō the erth foure dayes & foure nyghtes. And all substaunce that I haue made, wyll I destroye from of the vpper face of the earth.

Noah therfore dyd accordynge vnto all that God cōmaunded hym. And Noah was syxe hundreth yeres, & the * flonde of waters was vpon ꝑ earth. And Noah came (and his sonnes, & his wyfe, & his sonnes wiues with hym) vnto the Arke, because of the waters of the flonde. Of cleane catell, & of vncleane catell, & of fyenge foules, and of euery suche as creepeth vpon ꝑ erth, there came two and two vnto Noah into the Arke, the male and the female, as God had cōmaunded Noah. It fortuned also after seuen dayes, and the waters of the flonde were vpon the earth.

In the syxe hundreth yere of Noes lyfe in the seconde Moneth, the seuenth daye of the moneth. In the same daye were all the fountaynes of the great depe broken vp, and the wyndowes of heauen were opened. And the rayne was vpon the earthe foure dayes and foure nyghtes. In the selfe same daye entred Noah, Shem, Ham, & Japheth, the sonnes of Noah, & Noahs wyfe, and the thre wiues of his sonnes with them into the Arke: They, & euery beast after hys kynde, and all catell after theyr kynde, yee & euery wormе that creepeth vpon ꝑ earthe after his kynde, and euery byrde after his kynde, and euery fleyng & fethered foule.

And they came vnto Noah into the Arke two and two, of all fleshe wherin is the breth of lyfe. And they entryng in, came male and female of all fleshe, as God had cōmaunded hym. And God shut hym in rounde aboute. And the * flonde came foure dayes vpon the earth, & the waters were increased, and bare vp ꝑ Arke, whiche was lyfte vp aboue the erth. The waters also preuayled, & were increased exceadyngly vpon the earthe, and the Arke went on the vpper face of the waters. And the waters preuailed exceadingly vpon ꝑ earth, & al the hye hylles that are vnder the whole heauen, were couered. Fyftene cubytes vpwarde dyd the waters preuayle, so that the mountaynes were couered.

And all fleshe dyed that moued vpon the earth, in foule, in catel, in beast, and in euery wormе that creepeth vpon the earth: yee and euery man also. What soeuer was (in whose nostrels the breth of lyfe dyd brethe, all these in the drye lande dyed.) And * euery thyng was destroyed, that remayned, & that was in the vpper parte of the grounde (both man and catell, and wormе, and foule of the ayre) they were euen destroyed from of ꝑ earth. And Noah onely remayned alyue, and they that were with hym in the Arke. But watery preuayles vpon the earth an hūdreth and fyfty dayes.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

¶ After the sendynge out of the rauen and the doue.
Noe goeth forth of the Arke and offereth sacrifice.
The naturall corrupcion of mans herte.

AND God remembred Noah, and euery beaste, and all ꝑ catell that was with him in ꝑ Arke. And god made a wind to passe vpon the earth, and the waters ceassed. The fountaynes also of the depe and the windowes of heauen were stopped, and the rayne from heauen was restrayned. And the waters from the erth were returned, goyng and commynge agayne. And after the ende of the hundreth and fyftieth daye, ꝑ waters were abated. And in the seuenth moneth in the seuententh daye of the moneth, the Arke rested vpon ꝑ mountaines of Armenia. And the waters truely were goynge and decreasyng vntyl the tenth moneth: For in ꝑ tenth moneth, & in the fyrst daie of ꝑ same moneth were the toppes of the mountaynes sene.

And after the ende of the fortieth daye, it happened that Noah opened the wyndowe of the Arke which he had made. And he sent forth a rauen, whiche went out goyng forth and returnynge agayne, vntyll ꝑ waters were dryed vp vpon the earth. And agayne he sent forth a doue from hym, ꝑ he myghte se yf the waters were abated from ꝑ vpper face of the grounde. And the doue founde no rest for ꝑ sole of her fote, & she returned vnto hym agayne into the Arke: for the waters were in ꝑ vpper face of the whole erth. And he, whan he had put forth his hāde, toke her, and pulled her into hym into the Arke.

And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and proceadynge further, he sent forthe the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to hym in ꝑ euen tyde, and lo, in her mouthe was an olyue leaf ꝑ she had plaet, wherby Noah did knowe, that the waters were abated vpon the earth. And he abode yet other seuē daies and sent forthe the doue, whiche proceaded not to returne vnto hym any more.

And it came to passe in the syxe hundreth & one yere, in the fyrst moneth, & in the fyrst daye of the moneth, the waters were dryed vp from the earthe. And Noah remoued the couerynge of the Arke, & loked, & beholde, the vpper face of ꝑ grounde was dryed vp. And in the seconde moneth, in the seuen & twentye daye of the moneth, was the earth dryed.

And God spake vnto Noah sayeng: Go forth of the Arke, thou & thy wyfe, thy sonnes, & thy sonnes wyues wt the. And bryng forth with the, euery beaste that is with the: of all flesshe (both foule & catel, & euery worme that creepeth vpon the earthe) that they maye gendre in ꝑ earth, & bryng forth frute, and * increase vpon erth. And so Noah came forth and hys sonnes, hys wyfe, & hys sonnes wyues with hym. Euery beast also and euery worme, euery foule, and whatsoeuer creepeth vpon the earth (after theyr kyndes) went out of the Arke. * Gene. i. b. and. 4f. a.

And Noah buylded an altare vnto ꝑ lorde, and toke of euery * cleane beast, and of euery cleane foule, & offred sacrifyces in ꝑ altare. * Leui. fi. a.

And the Lorde smelled a swete (or quyete) sauoure. And the Lorde sayde in his herte: I wyll not proceade to curse ꝑ grounde any more for mannes sake, for the * ymagynacyon of mās hert is euel euen frō hys youth. Neyther wyl I adde to smite any more euery thynge liuynge, as I haue done, yet therfore shall not sowyng tyme, & harueste, colde and heate, Sōmer & wynter, daye & nyght, cease, all the dayes of the earth. * Gen. vi. a.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

¶ God blesseth Noe & his sonnes. Forbyddeth to eat the blood of beastes: & to shed mannes blood. The law of the swerde. He maketh a couenaunt that he wyll destroye the worlde nemore by water: & geueth the rayne bow for a token and confirmacion of the same. Noe is dronken. Ham discouereth hym, and getteth his curse.

AND God * blessed Noah & his sonnes, and sayde vnto them: bryng ye forth frute and multiplye, and replenyshe ꝑ earth. The feare of you and the dreade of you shalbe vpon euery beast of ꝑ erth, and vpon euery foule of the ayre, in all such as ꝑ earth bryngeth forth, and in all the fyshes of ꝑ see. Into your hande are they delyuered. Euery thynge that moueth it selfe, and that lyueth, shalbe meate for you: Euen as ꝑ grene herbe haue I geuen you all thinges. But * flesshe in the lyfe therof, and in the blonde therof shall ye not eate. Els your blonde of your lyues wyll I requyre. From the hande of euery beaste wyll I requyre it, and from the hande of man: From the hande of mans brother wyll I requyre ꝑ lyfe of man. Who so * sheddeth mannes blonde, by man shall hys blonde be shedde: For in the ymage of God, hyd God make man. But bryng you forth frute, and multiplye: Gendre ye in the earth, and increase therin. * Gene. i. c. and. viii. a. * Leui. bii. and. xvii. b. * exod. xx. Deut. vii.

God spake also vnto Noah & to his sonnes with hym sayeng: Beholde I set vp my * couenaunt with you, & with your sede after you, and with euery liuing creature that is with you, both in foule and in catell, and in euery beast of the earth which is with you of all ꝑ go oute of the Arke, accordyng vnto euery liuyng thing of the earth. But my couenaūt wyl I make wt you that * from hēceforth euery flesshe be not roted out with the waters of a floude, neyther shall there be a floude to destroye ꝑ earth any more. * Gene. vi. b. * Esa. liii.

And God sayde: This is the token of the couenaūt which I geue betwene me & you, and and euery lyuynge creature that is with you in to perpetuall generacyons. I haue set my bowe in the cloude, and it shalbe for a token betwene me & the erth. And it shall come to passe, that whan I bringe a cloude vpon the erth, the bowe also shall be sene in the same cloude. And I wyll thynke vpō my couenaunt whych is betwene me & you, & euery lyuynge creature in all flesche: & it shall nomore come to passe, that * waters make a floude to destroye all flesche. But the bowe shalbe in the same cloude, & I wyll loke vpon it, that I maye thynke vpon the euerlastynge couenaunt betwene God and euery lyuinge creature, in all flesh that is vpon erth. And God sayde vnto Noah. This is the token of the couenaunt which I haue made betwene me and all flesh that is vpon erthe.

The sonnes of Noah goynge furth of the Arke, were: Sem, Ham, and Japheth. And Ham truly is the father of Chanaan. These are ỹ thre sonnes of Noah, & of thē was the whole erth ouerspred. Noah also beganne to be an husbande man, and planted a vyneyarde. And he dronkynge of the wyne, was dronken, and vncouered wythin hys tent.

And Ham the father of Chanaan seynge the nakednesse of hys father, tolde hys two brethren wythout. And Sem and Japheth, they two, takynge a garment, layed it vpō their shulders: & cōminge bakwarde, couerd the naked preuityes of their father: namely, theyr faces beynge turned awaye, lest they shulde se theyr fathers preuities.

And Noah awoke from hys wyne, and knewe what his yonger sonne had done vnto hym. And he sayde: Cursed be Chanaan, a seruaunt of seruaūtes shall he be vnto hys brethren. He sayde moreouer: Blessed be the Lorde God of Sem, & Chanaan shalbe hys seruaūt. God shall enlarge Japheth, and he shall dwell in the tentes of Sem, & Chanaan shalbe their seruannt. Noah lyued after the floude thre hundreth and fyftye yeares. And all the dayes of Noah were nyne hundreth & fyftye yeares. And he dyed.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

¶ The genealogye of Japheth Sem and Ham.

These are the generatiōs of the sonnes of Noah, Sem, Ham and Japheth: And vnto them were chyldren borne after the floude.

The chyldren of * Japheth: Gomer and Magog, and Madai, and Jauan, and Thubal, Mesech and Theras. The chyldren of Gomer: Askenas and Riphath and Thogarma. The chyldren of Jauan: Elisa and Tharsis, Kittim, and Dodanim. Of these were the Iles of the Gentiles deuyded in their landes, euery man after hys tonge, & after hys kynreds in their nacyons.

The childre of Ham: Cush & Mizraim, and Phut and Chanaan. And the chyldren of Cush: Seba and Hauilah and Sabtha, and Rahma, and Sabthecha. The chyldren of Rahma: Scheba and Dedan. Cush also begat * Nimrod. The same beganne to be myghtye in the erth. For he was a myghtye hunter before the Lorde. Wherfore it is sayde: Euen as Nimrod the myghtie hunter before the Lorde. The begynning of his kyngdome was * Babel and Erech and Accad, and Calne, in the londe of Sinhar. Out of that londe came Assur, and buylded * Ninyue, and the stretes of the citie & Calah. Resen also betwene Ninyue and Calah, and it is a greate cite. Mizraim begat Ludym, & Enamim, & Lehabim, and Nephtuhim. Pathrusim also and Casluhim, out of whom came Philistim and Capthorim.

Chanaan begat Zidon his fyrst borne sonne, and heth, & Jebusi, and Emori, & Girgosi. Hahiui also and Haarki and Hasim, and Haaruadi, and Hazmari, and Hahemathi: And afterwarde were the kynreds of ỹ Canamites spred abrode. The border of the Canamites was from Zidon, as thou cōmest to Gerar vntill Gazan, and as thou goest vnto Sodoma, and Gomorra, and Adama, and Zeboim, euen vnto Lesa. These are the chyldren of Ham in their kynreds, in theyr tonges, countrees and in theyr nacyons.

Vnto Sē also the father of all the chyldren of Eber (and elder brother of Japheth) there were chyldren borne. The chyldren of Sem: Elam and Assur, Arphachsad, and Lud and Aram. The children of Aram: Uz and Hul, Gether & Mas * Arphachsad begat Selah, & Selah begat Eber. Unto Eber also were borne two sōnes: The name of the one was Peleg, for in hys dayes was the erth deuyded. And hys brothers name was Jaketan. Jaketan begat Almodad and Saleph Hazarmaueth and Jerah, and Hadoram & Uzal and Dickla, Obal also & Abimael and Scheba, and Ophir, and Hauila, and Jobab. All these were the chyldrē of Jaketan. And their dwellinge was from Mesa, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mount of the east. These are the childre of Sem after their kynreds and tonges in their londes and nacyons. And so these are the kynreds of the chyldren of Noah, after their generacions in their peoples, and of these were the nacions deuyded in the erth after the floude.

¶ The .xj. Chapter.

¶ The buyldynge of the tower of Babel. The confusyon of tonges. The generacyon of Sem the sonne of Noe vntyll Abram: whyche goeth wyth Lot hys brother.

All the whole erth was of one language & lyke speche. And it happened whan they were furth fro the east, they founde a playne in the lōde of Sinhar, & there they abode. And they sayd euery one to his neyghboure: Come, let vs prepare bryche, & burne them in the fyre. And they had bryche for stone, & syrme had they in steade of morter. And they sayde: Go to, let vs buylde vs a cittie & a tower, whose toppe maye reach vnto heauen: & let vs make vs a name, lest haply we be scatred abrode in to the vpper face of the whole erth. But the Lorde came downe, to se the cytie and tower whych the chyldren of men buylded.

And the Lorde sayde: Beholde, the people is one, and they haue all one language, & thys they begynne to do, neyther wyll it be restrayned fro them, whatsoeuer they haue ymagined to do. Come on, let vs go downe, and confounde theyr language, that euery one perceaue not hys neyghbours speche. And so the Lorde scatred them fro that place into the vpper face of all the erth. And they left of to buylde the cytie. And therfore is the name of it called * Babel, because the Lorde dyd there confounde the language of all the erth. And from thence dyd the Lorde scatter them abrode vpon the face of all the erth.

*Gene.x.b. * Confusyon.

These are the generacyons of Sem: Sem was an hundreth yeare olde, and begat Arphachsad two yeare after the floude. And Sem lyued (after he begat Arphachsad) fyue hundreth yeares, and begat sonnes and daughters.

& * Arphachsad lyued fyue and thyrtye yeares, & begat Selah. And Arphachsad lyued (after he begat Selah) foure hundreth & thre yeares, and begat sonnes & daughters.

Selah lyued thyrtye yeares, & begat Eber. And Selah lyued (after he begat Eber) foure hundreth and thre yeares, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Eber lyued foure and thyrtye yeares, and begat Peleg. And Eber lyued (after he begat Peleg) foure hundreth and thyrtye yeares, & begat sonnes and daughters.

Peleg lyued thyrtye yeares, & begat Reu. And Peleg lyued (after he begat Reu) two hundreth and nyne yeares, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Reu lyued two and thyrtye yeares, and begat Serug. And Reu lyued (after he begat Serug) two hundreth and seuē yeares, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Serug lyued thyrtye yeares, & begat Nahor. And Serug lyued (after he begat Nahor) two hundreth yeares, and begat sonnes and daughters.

And Nahor lyued nyne & twentye yeares, and begat Terah. And Nahor lyued (after he begat Terah) an hundreth and nynetene yeares, and begat sonnes and daughters. D

Terah lyued seuentye yeares, and begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

These are the generacyons of * Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor & Haran. Haran begat Lot. And Haran dyed in the presence of Terah hys father, in the lōde of hys natyuitye, eue in Ur of the Caldees. Abram and Nahor toke them wyues: The name of Abrās wyfe was Sarai, & the name of Nahors wyfe was Milca, the daughter of Haran the father of Milca & the father of Jisca. But * Sarai was baren, & had no chylde. *1.Par.i.b. Iosu.xxiiii. Gen.f. * Heb.xi.c. * Iosu.xxiiii & 9. Esd.xv.b.

And Terah toke Abram * his sonne, and Lot the sonne of Haran, hys sonnes sonne, & Sarai hys daughter in lawe, hys sonne Abrās wyfe. And they departed together frō Ur of the Caldees, that they myght go into the lōde of Chanaan, & they came vnto Charan, & dwelt there. And the dayes of Terah were two hūdreth and fyue yeares, and Terah dyed in Haran.

¶ The.xij. Chapter.

¶ Abram is blessed of God: & goeth with Lot vnto the lōde of Chanaan, which God promised to geue vnto hym and his sede. Abram goeth into Egypte: & rauyssheth Sarai hys wyfe to call hyr sister hys sister: for whom Pharao is plagued.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Abrā: * Get the out of thy countrey, & out of thy nacyon, and from thy fathers house, vnto a lōde that I wyll shewe the. And I wyll make of the a greate people, and wyll & * blesse the, & make thy name greate, that thou mayest be euen a blessynge. I wyll also blesse them that blesse the, & curse suche as curseth the, & in the shall all the kynreds of the erth be blessed. A * Act.vij.a. Heb.xi.c. & * Gen.xviij. and.xxij.c. Actes.iij.b.

And so Abrā departed euen as the Lorde spake vnto him, & Lot wēte wyth hym. And Abrā was seuentye & fyue yeares olde, whā & he departed out of Haran. And Abram toke Sarai his wife & Lot his brothers sonne, & all theyr * substaunce that they had in possessyō, & the & soules that they had begotten in Haran. And they departed, & they myght come in to the londe of Chanaan, and in to the lōde of Chanaan they came. Abram passed thorowe the londe vnto the place of Sichem, & vnto the playne of Moreh: And the Cananite was then in the londe. 25 & * Gen.xiij.a. and.xiij.c. & * Gene.

And the Lorde apearyng vnto Abram: sayd: Vnto thy * sede wyll I geue this lōde. And there buylded he an altare vnto the Lorde, euen where he had appeared vnto hym. * Gen.xiij.b. xv.b. and xvi.b. Deu.xxxiiii.b

And

¶ And remouynge thence vnto a mountayne that was east warde from bethel, he pitched his tent, hauynge Bethel on the west syde, & hai on ꝑ east. And he buyldynge an altare vnto the Lozde, dyd call on the name of the Lozde. And Abzam wente furth goinge and departynge towarde the south.

But there was a derth in that londe, and therfoze wente Abzā downe in to Egypte, ꝑ he myght soiourne there, foz there was a soze derth in the londe. And it happened whā he was come nere to entre in to Egypte, he sayde vnto Sarai hys wyfe: Beholde, I knowe, that thou art a fayze woman to loke vpon. Therfoze shall it come to passe ꝑ whā the Egyptyans se the, they shall saye: She is hys wyfe. And they shall kyll me, but they shall saue the alyue. Saye (I prayethe) that Gen.27.a.b * thou art my syster, that I maye fare well foz thy sake, and that my soule maye lyue thozowe thy occasyon.

¶ And so it happened, whan Abzam was come in to Egypte, the Egyptians beheldē ꝑ womā, foz she was very fayze. The prynces also of Pharao sawe her, and commended her before Pharao, and the woman was taken into Pharaos house. And he truly intreated Abzam well foz her sake, and he had shepe & oxen and he asses, men seruauntes and maydē seruauntes, she asses & camels.

And the Lozde smote Pharao and hys house with greate plages because of Sarai Abzams wyfe. And Pharao callinge Abzā, sayde (Why hast thou done thys vnto me? ¶ The.xiiij. Chapter.

¶ Lot is taken prisoner. The victory of Abzam foz the Sodomytes. Lot is deliuered by Abzam. Melchisedech offreth gyftes vnto Abzam. Abzā payeth tythes vnto Melchysedech. Abzā refuseth nothynge of the kynge of Sodomes goodes.

AND it chaunsed in the dayes of Amraphael kynge of Synhar, Arioch kynge of Ellasar, kedozlaomoz kynge of Elam, & Thydrall kynge of the nacions, and they made warre wyth Bera kynge of Sodome, & wyth Birsa kynge of Gomozra, and with Sinab kynge of Adama, and with Semeabar kynge of zeboim, and with the kynge of Bela. The same is zoar. All these were ioyned togeather in the vale of ☞ Siddim where ꝑ salt see is. Foz twelue yeare were they subiecte to kynge kedozlaomoz, and in the .xiij. yere rebelled. But in the .xiiij. yere came kedozlaomoz and the kynges that were wyth hym, and smote the Gyauntes in Astaroth karnaim and the Huſyms in Ham, & the Emyms in the playne of Kariathaim, and the Horrims in mounte Seir vnto the playne of Pharan, whiche bordreth vpon the wildernesse. And they retuernynge, came to En Mispat which is Cades, & smote all ꝑ countre of the Amalechytes, and also the Amozites that dwelt in Hazezon Thamar.

And there went out the kynge of Sodome, & the kynge of Gomozra, and the kynge of Adama and the kynge of Zeboim, and the kynge of Bela which is Zoar. And they stode battell with the in the vale of Siddim, that is to saye, with Kedorlaomor the kynge of Elam and with Thydeal kynge of the Nacyons, and with Amraphael kynge of Synhar. And with Arioch kynge of Ellasar: foure kynges agaynste fyue. And ꝑ vale of Siddim was full of slyme pyttes.

And the kynge of Sodome and Gomozra fled, and fell there. And they that remayned, fled to the mountayne. And they takynge all the goodes of Sodome and Gomozre and all their vytalles, wet their waye. And they caryed awaye Lot also Abzams brothers sonne and hys good (for he dwelled at Sodome) & departed. And there came one that had escaped, and tolde Abzam the Hebrewe whiche dwelled in the okegroue of Mamre the Amozyte, brother of Eschol, and brother of Aner, which were confederate wt Abzam. When Abzam hearde that hys brother was taken, he harnelled hys fre the younge men borne in hys owne house thre hundred and eyghtene, and folowed on them vntyll Dan: And he was sett in Aray vpō thē by nyght, he and his seruauntes, and smote them and pursued them vnto Hoba: which lyeth on the lefte hande of Damascos, and recouered all the goodes, and also brought agayne hys brother Lot, and his goodes, the women also and the people.

After that he returned agayne from the slaughter of Kedorlaomor & of the kynges ꝑ were with him, came the kynge of Sodome forth to mete him in ꝑ playne valeye, which is the kynges dale.

And Melchisedech kynge of Salē brought forth bread & wyne. For he was the Prieste of ꝑ most hyghest God & blessed hym sayinge: Blessed be Abzam vnto the hyghe God possessor of heauen and erth. And blessed be ꝑ hye God which hath delyuered thyne enemyes in to thy hande. And Abzam gaue him tythes of all.

And the kynge of Sodome sayde vnto Abzam: Gyue me the soules, and take ꝑ goodes to thy selfe. And Abzam answered the kynge of Sodome: I haue lyfte vp my hande vnto the Lorde the hye God possessor of heauen and erth, that I wyll not take of all that is thyne so moche as a thred or thonglachet, lest thou shuldest saye, I haue made Abzam ryche. Saue only that whyche the yonge men haue eaten and the partes of the men which wēt with me. Aner, Eschol, and Mamre which shall take their partes.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

¶ The lande of Canaan is yet agayne promysed to Abzam. God promyseth hym seed. He beleueth & is iustified. The prophecye of the bondage wherin the chyldren of Israel shulde be vnder Pharao: and of their deliueraunce from the same.

After these thynges were done, the worde of the Lorde came vnto Abzam in a vysyon sayinge, Feare not Abzam, I am thy defence, and thy rewarde shall be exceadynge great. And Abzam sayde: Lorde God what wilt thou gene me whan I go childlesse, and the chylde of the stewardship of my house is thys Eleazar of Damasco? And Abzam sayde: Se, to me hast thou geuen no seed: lo, a lad borne in my house is myne heyre.

And beholde, the worde of the Lorde came vnto hym sayinge: he shall not be thyne heyre, but one that shall come out of thyne awne body shalbe thyne heyre. And he brought him out & sayde: loke vp vnto heauen, and tell the * starres, yf thou be able to nombre them. And he sayde vnto him * Euē so shall thy seed be.

And Abzam * beleued the Lorde, and that counted he to hym for ryghteousnes. And agayne he sayde vnto hym: I am the Lorde that brought the out of Ur of the Caldees to geue the thys lande, and that thou myghtest possesse it.

And he sayde: Lorde God, wherby shall I knowe that I shall possesse it? He answered vnto hym: Take an heyfer of thre yere olde, and a she goate of thre yere olde, and a thre yere olde ram, a turtyll bone also and a yonge pigeon. He toke therfore all these vnto him, & deuyded them in the myddes, and layde euery pece, one agaynst another. But the foules deuyded he not. And whan ꝑ byrdes fell on the carcases, Abzam droue them awaye: And when the sunne was downe, ther fell a slomber vpon Abzam. And loo, a darke and great feare fell vpon hym.

And he sayde vnto Abzam: knowe thys of a suertye, that thy * seed shalbe a straunger in a lande that perteyneth not vnto them. And whan Sarai fared foule wyth her, she fled from the face of her. And the Angell of the Lorde founde her besyde a fountayne of water in the wyldernes: euen by the well that is in the waye to Sur. And he sayde: Hagar Sarais mayde, whence camest thou and whether wilt thou goo? She sayde: I flee frō the face of my mastresse Sarai. And the angell of the Lorde sayde vnto her: returne to thy mastresse agayne, & submytte thy selfe vnder her handes.

C And agayne, the angell of the Lorde sayde vnto her: In encreasinge I wyll encrease thy seed and it shall not be nombred for multitude. And the Lordes angell sayde vnto her, se, thou art with chylde and shalt bere a sonne, and shalt call hys name Jsmael: because the Lorde hath herde thy tribulacyon. He also will be a wylde man, and hys hande will be agaynst euery man, and euery mans hande agaynst him. And he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethrē. And she called the name of the Lorde that spake vnto her: thou God lokest on me, for she sayde: haue I not sene here the backe partes of hym that seeth me? Wherfore the well was called, the well of him that lyueth & seeth me. And it is betwene Cades and Bared. And Hagar bare Abzam a sonne, and Abzā called his sonnes name which Hagar bare vnto him. And the elder daughter went & laye with her father. And he perceaued it not, nether when she laye downe, nether when she rose vp.

G And on the morow we it happened that the elder sayde vnto the yonger: beholde, yesternyght laye I with my father. Let vs make him dronke with wyne this nyght also, & go thou & lye with him, that we maye rayse vp seed of oure father. And they made their father dronke with wyne that nyght also. And the yonger arose & laye with him. And he perceaued it not: nether when she laye downe, nether when she rose vp. Thus were both the daughters of Lot wt chylde by their father. And the elder bare a sonne, and called hys name Moab. The same is the father of the Moabytes vnto thys daye. And the yonger bare a sonne also and called hys name Ben Ammi, The same is the father of the chyldren of Ammon vnto this daye.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

¶ Abraham went as a straunger in to the lande of Gerar. The kynge of Gerar taketh away his wyfe.

A AND Abraham departed thence towarde ꝑ south cõtrey, and dwelled betwene Cades & Sur, and sojorned in Gerar. And Abraham sayde of Sara hys wyfe: she is my * syster. And Abimelech kynge of Gerar sent & fett Sara awaye. * Ge.xij.c. and.xxvi.b.

But God came to Abimelech in a dreame in ꝑ nyght and sayde to hym: Se, thou shalt dye for the womans sake which thou hast taken awaye, for she is a mans wyfe. But Abimelech had not yet come nye her, & he sayde: Lorde wylt thou sley ryghteous people? sayde not he vnto me, she is my syster? yee, & sayde not she herselfe: he is my brother? with a pure herte and innocent hãdes haue I done this. And God sayde vnto him by a dreame: I wot it well that thou dydest it in the purenesse of thy herte. I kepte ꝑ also that thou shuldest not sinne agaynst me, & therfore suffred I the not to touch her. Nowe therfore delyuer the man his wyfe agayne, for he is a prophete. And he shall praye for ꝑ that thou mayst lyue. But and yf thou delyuer her not agayne, be sure that thou shalt dye the deth, both thou, and all that thou hast.

Therfore Abimelech rysynge vp betymes in the morynge called all his seruauntes, & tolde all these sayinges in their eares, and ꝑ men were sore afrayde. And Abimelech called Abraham & sayde vnto hym: What hast thou done vnto vs & what haue I offended the that thou hast brought on me and on my kyngdome so great a synne? thou hast done dedes vnto me ꝑ ought not to be done. And Abimelech sayde vnto Abraham: What sawest thou that thou hast done this thynge?

Abraham answered. For I sayde: surely the feare of God is not in thys place, & they shall sley me for my wyfes sake: yet in very dede she is my syster, for she is the daughter of my father: though she be not the daughter of my mother: and she became my wyfe. And after, God caused me to wandre, out of my fathers house, I sayde vnto her: Thys kyndnesse shalt thou shewe vnto me in all places where we come, that thou saye of me, he is my brother.

Than toke Abimelech shepe and oxen, men seruauntes & wemen seruauntes & gaue them vnto Abraham, and delyuered hym Sara his wyfe agayne. And Abimelech sayde: beholde, my lande lyeth before the, dwell where it pleaseth ꝑ best. But vnto Sara he sayde: Se, I haue geuen thy brother a thousande peces of syluer, beholde, it shall be a couerynge of thyne eyes vnto all that are wt the & thus with all was she reproued.

And so Abraham prayed vnto God, and God healed Abimelech and his wyfe and his maydens, & they bare chyldre. For ꝑ Lorde had closed to, all the matrces of the house of Abymelech: because of Abrahams wyfe.

The.xxi. Chapter.

¶ Isahac is borne. Agar is cast oute with hyr yoonge sonne Ismael. The Angell comforteth Agar. The couenaunt betwene Abimelech and Abraham.

The Lorde

THe Lorde vysyted Sara as he had sayde and dyd vnto her * accordynge as he had promysed. For Sara was wyth chylde and bare Abraham a sonne in his olde age, euen the same season which ꝑ Lorde had appoynted him. And Abrahã called his sonnes name that was borne vnto hym which Sara * bare him, Isahac: & Abrahã + circumcysed Isahac his sonne whẽ he was. viii. dayes olde: as God cõmaunded hym. And Abrahã was an hũdred yere olde: whẽ his sonne Isahac was borne vnto hym. But Sara sayde: God hath made me a laughynge stocke: so that all that heare: wyll laugh at me. She sayde also: who wolde haue sayd vnto Abrahã: that Sara shulde haue geuen chyldrẽ suche: for I haue borne him a sonne in hys olde age. The chylde grewe: and was wened: and Abraham made a great feast: the same daye that Isahac was wened. Sara sawe also the sonne of Hagar the Egyptian (whyche she had borne vnto Abraham) to be a mocker.

Wherfore she sayde vnto Abraham: * put a waye this bondemayde & hyr sonne: for the sonne of thys bondewomã shall not be heyre with my sonne Isahac: & thys sayinge was very greauous in Abrahams syght because of hys sonne. And God sayde vnto Abrahã: let it not be greauous in thy syght, because of the ladd and of thy bondmaide. All ꝑ Sara hath sayde vnto the, heare hyr voyce, for + in Isahac shall thy seed be called. Moreouer of the sonne of the bondewoman wyll I make a nacyon: because he is thy * seed.

And so Abrahã rose vp early in the morninge, and toke bread and a bottell of water, and gaue it vnto Hagar, puttynge it on hyr shulders with the laddalso, & sent her awaye. who departynge, wandred vp and doune in the wyldernes of Beer Seba. And the water was spent in the bottell, and she cast ꝑ lad vnder a bushe and went and satt on the other syde a greate waye, as it were a bowshote of: for she sayde: I will not se the death of the chylde. And she syttynge doune on the other syde, lyfte vp hyr voyce and wepte.

And God herde the voyce of the chylde. And the angell of God called Hagar oute of heauen and sayde vnto her: what ayleth the Hagar? feare not, for God hath herde the voyce of the childe where he lyeth. Aryse, and lyfte vp the ladd, and take hym in thy hande, for I wyll make of hym a greate people. And God opened hyr eyes: and she sawe a well of water. And she went and fylled the bottell with water, and gaue the boye drynke. And God was wyth the ladd, and he grewe and dwelt in the wyldernesse, and became an archer. And he dwelt in ꝑ wyldernesse of Pharan. And hys mother gatt hym a wyfe out of the lande of Egypte.

And it chaũced the same season, that Abimelech and Phicoll hys chefe captayne spake vnto Abraham sayinge: * God is wyth the in all that thou doest. And nowe therfore swere vnto me euen here by God, that thou wylt not hurt me nor my chyldren, nor my chyldrens chyldrẽ. But that thou shalt deale with me and the contre where thou hast bene a straunger, accordynge vnto the kyndnesse that I haue shewed the. And Abraham sayd: I wyll swere.

And Abrahã ☞ rebuked Abimelech for a well of water, which Abimelechs seruauntes had violently takẽ awaye. And Abimelech sayde: I wote not who hath done thys thinge. Also thou toldest me not: nether herde I of it, but thys daye. And Abraham toke shepe and oxẽ, and gaue thẽ vnto Abimelech. And they made both of them a bonde together. And Abraham set. vii. ewe lambes by thẽ selues. And Abimelech sayd vnto Abrahã: what meane these. vii. ewe lambes which thou hast set by them selues? he answered: For these. vii. lambes shalt thou take of my hãde, that they maye be a wytnesse vnto me, that I haue dygged thys well. Wherfore the place is called ☞ Beer Seba, because that there they sware both of them. Thus made they a bonde to gether at Beer Seba. And Abimelech & Phicol his chefe Captayne rose vp, and turned agayne vnto the lande of the Philistines. And Abraham planted a wodd in Beer Seba, and called there on the name of the Lorde, the euerlastyng God: and sogeourned in the Philistins lãde a longe season.

¶ The. xxii. Chapter.

¶ The fayth of Abrahã is proued in offeryng hys sonne Isahac. Christ oure sauyour is promysed. The generacyon of Nachor Abrahams brother.

AFter these sayinges it happened ꝑ God dyd * proue Abraham and sayde vnto hym: Abraham. Whych answered: here am I. And he sayde take thy ☞ only sonne Isahac whom thou louest, & get the vnto the lande Moria, and sacrifyce hym there for a sacrifyce vpon one of the mountayns, whych I wyll shewe the: Than Abraham rose vp early in the morninge, & sadled his asse, and toke two of hys ponge mẽ wyth hym, and Isahac hys sonne: and cloue wodd for the sacrifyce, and rose vp and gott hym to the place whyche God had appoynted hym.

The thyrde daye Abraham lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe the place a farre of and sayde vnto his ponge men: byde here with the asse. I and the lad wyll goo ponder and ☞ worshyppe, & come agayne vnto you. And Abraham toke the wodd of the sacrifyce and layde it vpon Isahac his sonne, but he him selfe toke fyre in his hande and a knyfe. And they went both of them together.

Than

Than spake Isahac vnto Abraham hys father and sayde: My father? And he answered: here am I my sonne. He sayd: Se here is fyre and wodd, but where is the shepe for sacrifyce? Abraham answered: my sonne, God wyll prouyde him a shepe for sacrifyce. And so they wente both together.

And the angell of the Lorde called vnto him from heauen, saying: Abraham Abraham: And he sayde: here am I. And he sayde: laye not thy hande vpon the chylde, nether do any thinge at all vnto him, for now I knowe that thou feareſt God, and

So turned Abraham agayne vnto hys yonge mẽ, and they rose vp and went together to Beer Seba. And Abrahã dwelt at Beer Seba. And it chaunsed after these thinges, that one tolde Abrahã sayinge: Beholde, Milcha, she hath also borne chyldren vnto thy brother Nachor. Hus hys eldeſt sonne, and Bus hys brother, and Kemuell the father of the Syrians, and ceased, & Haso, and Pyldas, & Jedlaph, & Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Rebecca. These eyght dyd Milcha bere to Nachor Abrahams brother: And hys concubyne called Rhuma she bare also Tebah, & Gaham, Thaas & Waacha.

¶ The. xxiii. Chapter.

¶ Sara dyeth and is buryed in the felde that Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite.

SAra was an hũdred and. xxvii. yere olde (so longe lyued she) & Sara dyed in kyriat Arba. The same is Hebron in the lande of Canaan. A
And Abraham came to morne Sara, and to wepe for her. And Abraham stode vp frõ the syght of hys coorse, and talked wyth the sonnes of Heth sayinge: I am a straunger & a forryner amonge you, geue me a possessyon to burye in wyth you, that I maye bury my coarse out of my syght. And the chyldren of Heth answered Abraham, saying vnto him: Heare vs Lorde, thou art a prynce of God amonge vs. In the cheſest of oure sepulchres bury thy dead: None of vs also shall forbyd the hys sepulchre, but thou mayeſt bury thy dead therin: Abraham stode vp and bowed him selfe before the people of the lande ỹ chyldren of Heth. And Ephrõ the Hethite answered Abrahã in the audience of the chyldren of Heth and of all that went in at the gates of hys cyte, sayinge: Not so my Lorde, heare me. The felde geue I the, and the caue ỹ therin is geue I the also: and euen in the presence of the sonnes of my people geue I it ỹ, bury thy dead. And Abraham bowed hym selfe before the people of the lande, & spake vnto Ephron in C

Ephron answered Abraham sayinge vnto hym: My Lorde, herken vnto me. The lande is worth. iiij. hũdred sycles of syluer: what is ỹ bet wyxte the and me? bury therfore thy deed. And Abraham harkened vnto Ephron & weyed hym the syluer whych he had sayde, in the audience of the sonnes of Heth. Euen. iiii. hundred syluer sycles of currant money amõge marchaũtes. And the felde of Ephron with the dubbyll caue whyche was before Mamre: euẽ the felde and the caue ỹ was therin and all the trees ỹ were in the D

ABraham was olde and stryken in dayes, and the Lorde had blessed hym in all thynges. And Abraham sayde vnto his eldest seruaunte of his house whych had ꝑ rule ouer all ꝑ he had: Put thy hande vnder my thygh, & I wyll make the sweare by the Lorde God of heauen and God of the erth, that thou shalt not take a wyfe vnto my sonne, of the daughters of Chanaan, amonge whych I dwell. But thou shalt goo vnto my countrey and to my natyue londe, and take a wyfe vnto my sonne Isahac.

But the seruaunte sayde vnto hym: peraduenture the woman wyll not agree to come wyth me vnto thys lande, shall I bringe thy sonne agayne vnto the lãde whych thou cammest out of? To whom Abraham answered: beware, that thou bringe not my sonne thyther agayne. The Lorde God of heauen whych toke me frõ my fathers house and from the lande where I was borne, and whych spake vnto me and that sware vnto me, sayinge: vnto thy seed wyll I gene thys lande, he shall sende hys angell before the, and thou shalt take a wyfe vnto my sonne from thence. Neuertheiesse yf the woman wyll not agree to folowe the, thã shalt thou be wyth out daunger of thys my ooth. Only bringe not my sonne thyther agayne. And the seruaunt put hys hande vnder the thygh of Abraham his master, and sware to hym as concernynge that matter. And the seruãt toke .x. camels of the cameles of hys master and departed, and had of all maner goodes of hys master wyth hym, and rode vp and went to Mesopotamya, vnto the cytie of Nahor. And made hys camels to lye downe without the cytie by a wels syde of water, at euen: aboute the tyme that women come out to drawe water, and he sayde.

Lorde God of my master Abraham, sende me good spede this daye, and shewe mercy vnto my master Abraham. Lo I stonde here by the well of water, and the daughters of the men of thys cytye come out to drawe water: Now the damsell to whome I saye, stowpe downe thy pytcher I praye the that I maye drynche. If she saye also: Drynche, and I wyll geue thy camels drynche: the same is she that thou hast ordeyned for thy seruaunte Isahac: yee, and therby shall I knowe that thou hast shewed mercy on my master. And it came to passe yer he had left speakynge, beholde, Rebecca came out, the daughter of Bethuell, sonne to Milca the wyfe of Nahor Abrahams brother, and hyr pytcher vpon hyr shoulder: The damsell was very fayre to loke vpon, and yet a mayde and vnknowen of man. And she went downe to the well, and fylled hyr pytcher and came vp. And the seruãte rennynge vnto her, sayde: let me suppe a lytle water of thy pytcher. And she sayde: drynche my Lorde. ¶

And she hasted and lett downe her pytcher vpon hyr arme, and gaue hym drynke. And when she had gyuen hym drynche, she sayde: I wyll drawe water for thy camels also, vntyll they haue dronke ynough. And she powred out hyr pytcher in to the trough hastely, and ranne agayne vnto the well to fett water: and drewe for all hys camels. And the man wondred at her: but helde his peace, to wete whether the Lorde had made hys iourney prosperous or not. And the damsell ranne and tolde them of her mothers house these thynges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

And he ranne out vnto the man, euen to the well: for as sone as he had sene the earynges and the braceletes in hys systers handes (and heard the wordes of Rebecca hys syster sayinge: thus sayde the man vnto me) he went out vnto the man. And loo, he stode wyth the camels by the well syde. And he sayde: come in thou blessed of the Lorde. Wherfore stodest thou wythoute? I haue dressed the house, and made rowme for the camels. And than the man came in to the house: and he vnbrydled the camels and (Laban) brought lytter and prouender for the camels, and water to wa-

And my master made me sweare sayinge: thou shalt not take a wyfe to my sonne amōge the daughters of ỹ Cananites in whose lāde I dwell: But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house & to my kynred, and take a wife vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: peraduenture the wyfe wyll not folowe me. And he answered me: The Lorde, before whome I walke, wyll sende hys angell wyth the, and prosper thy iourney and thou shalt take a wyfe for my sonne, of my kynred and of my fathers house. Then shalt thou be gyltlesse of my curse, whan thou commest to my kynred. And yf they geue the not one, thou shalt be gyltlesse of my curse.

And so I came thys daye vnto the well and sayde: O Lorde, the God of my master Abraham, yf it be so nowe that thou makest my iourney whych I go, prosperous: beholde I stonde by thys well of water, and whē a virgyn cometh forth to drawe water, and I saye to her: geue me (I praye the) a lytle water of thy pytcher to drynche, and she saye to me: drynche thou, and I wyll also drawe for thy camels: that same is the wyfe whom the Lorde hath prepared for my masters sonne.

And before I had made an ende of speakynge in myne harte: beholde Rebecca came forth, and hyr pytcher on hyr shulder, and she went downe vnto the well & drewe water. And I sayde vnto her: geue me drynche I praye the. And she made hast, & toke downe hyr pitcher from of hyr, and sayde drynche, and I wyll geue thy camels drynche also. And I dranke, & she gaue the camels drynche also. And I asked her, sayinge: whose daughter art thou? she answered: the daughter of Bathuel Nahors sonne * whom Milca bare vnto hym. And I put the earing vpon hyr face, and the braceletes vpon hyr hādes. And I bowed my selfe, and worshypped the Lorde, & ☞ blessed the Lorde God of my master Abraham whych had brought me the ryghte waye, to take my masters brothers daughter vnto hys sonne. And when Abrahams seruaunt heard theyr wordes, he worshypped the Lorde, flatt vpon the erth. And the seruaunt toke forth iewelles of syluer and iewelles of golde and rayment, and gaue them to Rebecca. And vnto hyr brother and to hyr mother, he gaue gyftes. And they dyd eate & drynke, both he and the men that were with him, and taryed all nyght. And whan they rose vp in the morynge, he sayde: let me departe vnto my master. hyr brother & hyr mother answered: let the damsell abyde wyth vs a whyle, and it be but euen. x. dayes, and than shall she go. he sayde vnto them: hynder me not, beholde, the Lorde hath prospered my iourney. Sende me awaye therfore, that I maye goo vnto my master. And they sayde: we wyll call the damsell, and ☞ enquire at hyr mouth. And they called forth Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: wylt thou goo with this man? And she answered, I wyll goo.

So they let Rebecca theyr syster go and her norse & Abrahams seruaūte, & hys men. And they ☞ blessed Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: Thou art oure syster, growe in to thousande thousandes * and thy seed possesse the gate of theyr enemyes. And Rebecca arose and hyr damsels, and satt them vp vpon the camels, and wēt theyr waye after the man. And the seruaūt toke Rebecca, and went hys waye.

And it happened after he had bene there longe tyme, that Abimelech kynge of the Philistyās loked out at a wyndowe, and sawe Jsahac sporteynge with Rebecca hys wyfe. And Abimelech called Jsahac, and sayde: she is of a suertye thy wyfe, & why saydest thou: She is my sister? To whom Jsahac answered: I thought that I myght peraduenture haue dyed for hyr sake. The. xxvij. Chapter.

Jacob stealeth the blessynge from Esau by hys mothers counsell. Jsahac is sad. Esau is confoyted. The hatred of Esau towarde Jacob.

And it came to passe that whan Jsahac waxed olde and hys eyes were dymme (so that he coulde not see) he called Esau his eldest sonne and sayd vnto hym: my sonne. And he sayde vnto hym: here am I. And he sayde: beholde, I am nowe olde, and knowe not the daye of my deth: and nowe therfore take thy weapens, thy quyuer and thy bowe, & get the to the felde, that thou mayest take me some venyson, and make me meate soche as I loue, and bryng it me, that I maye eate, and that my soule maye bl... & before that I dye. But Rebecca hearde when Jsahac spake to Esau hys sonne. And Esau wente into the felde, to catche venyson, and to bryng it. And Rebecca sayd vnto Jacob hyr sonne sayinge: Beholde I haue herde thy father talkynge wyth Esau thy brother and sayinge: bryng me venyson and make me meate, that I maye eate and blesse the before the Lorde, afore my death. Nowe therfore

B therfore my sonne heare my voyce in that whych I commaunde the: gett the to the flocke, and bryng me thence two good kydds, that I maye make meate of them for thy father, soche as he loueth. And thou shalt bryng it to thy father, that he maye eate & that he maye blesse the before hys deth.

Then sayde Jacob to Rebecca hys mother: beholde, Esau my brother is a rough man, and I am smooth. Myp father shall peraduenture fele me, and I shall seme vnto him as though I went aboute to begyle hym, & so shall he bryng a curse vpon me, and not a blessynge: and hys mother sayde vnto hym: Upō me be thy curse my sonne, only heare my voyce, and go and fetch me them. And Jacob went and fet them, and brought them to hys mother. And hys mother made meate such as she knewe his father loued. And Rebecca fett goodly rayment of hyr eldest sonnes Esau, whych was in the house wyth hyr, & put yt vpō Jacob hyr yongest sonne, C & she put the skynnes of gotys vpō hys handes and vpon the smooth of hys necke. And she put the meate & brede whych she had prepared in the hande of hyr sonne Jacob.

Whan he came to hys father, he sayde: my father? And he answered: here am I, who art thou my sonne? And Jacob sayde vnto hys father: I am Esau thy eldest sonne, I haue done accordynge as thou baddest me: vp and syt and eate of my venyson, that thy soule maye blesse me. And Jlahac sayde vnto hys sonne: howe commeth it that thou hast founde it so quyckly my sonne? he answered: The Lorde thy God brought it to my hande. Than sayde Jlahac vnto Jacob, come nere and let me fele the my sonne, whether thou be my sonne Esau or not. Than went Jacob to Jlahac hys father, and he felt hym and sayd: the voyce is Jacobs voyce, but the handes are the handes of Esau. D And he knewe hym not, because hys handes were rough as hys brother Esaus handes: and so he blessed hym.

And he axed hym: art thou my sonne Esau? And he sayde, that I am. Than sayde he: bryng me & let me eate of my sonnes venyson, that my soule maye blesse the. And he brought hym and he eate. And he brought hym wyne also, and he dranke. And hys father Jlahac sayde vnto hym, come nere, and kysse me my sonne. And he went vnto hym and kyssed hym. And he smelled the sauoure of hys rayment, and * blessed hym, and sayde, Loo, the smelle of my sonne is as ꝑ smell of a felde whych the Lorde hath blessed. God geue the of the E dewe of heauen, and of the fatnesse of the erth, and plentye of corne and wyne. People be thy seruauntes, and nacyons bowe vnto the. Be Lorde ouer thy brethren, and thy mothers chyldren stowpe vnto the. Cursed be he that curseth the, and blessed be he that blesseth the.

It happened that assoone as Jlahac had made an ende of blessynge and Jacob was scace gone out from the presence of Jlahac his father, then came Esau his brother from his huntynge and had made also meate, and brought it vnto hys father, and sayde vnto his father: let my father aryse and eate of his sonnes venyson, ꝑ thy soule maye blesse me. Than hys father Jlahac sayde vnto hym: who art thou? he answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau. And Jlahac was greatly astonyed out of measure, and sayde: whych is he & where is he then that hath hunted venyson and brought it me? and I haue eaten of all before thou camest, and haue blessed hym, & he shall be blessed. When Esau herde ꝑ wordes of hys father, he cryed out greatly and bytterly, about measure, and sayde vnto hys father: blesse me also my father. Who answered: thy brother came wyth subtilte, & hath take awaye thy blessyng. And he sayd agayne: he maye well be called Jacob, for he hath vndermyned me now two tymes, fyrst he toke awaye my byrthright: and se, nowe hath he taken awaye my blessynge also. And he sayde: hast ꝑ kept neuer a blessynge for me?

Jlahac answered and sayde vnto Esau: beholde I haue made hym thy Lord, and all hys mothers chyldren haue I made hys seruauntes. Moreouer wyth corne & wyne haue I stablysshed hym, what can I do vnto the nowe my sonne? And Esau sayde vnto hys father: hast thou but ꝑ one blessynge my father? blesse me also father: and lyfted vp Esau his voyce and * wepte. Than Jlahac hys father answered & sayde vnto hym: beholde, thy dwellinge place shall be the fatnesse of the erth, and of the dewe of heauen from aboue. And wyth thy swerde shalt thou lyue, and shalt be thy brothers seruaūt. And it wyll come to passe, that when thou shalt gett the maistrye, thou shalt lowse hys yocke from of thy necke.

And Esau * hated Jacob, because of the blessynge that hys father blessed hym wyth. all. And Esau sayde in his harte: The dayes G of my fathers sorowe are at hande, and I wyll slee my brother Jacob. And these wordes of Esau hyr eldest sonne were tolde to Rebecca. And she sent and called Jacob hyr yongest sonne, and sayde vnto hym: beholde thy brother Esau threatneth to kyll ꝑ: nowe therfore my sonne heare my voyce, make the redy, & flee to Laban my brother at Haran & tarye wyth him a whyle * vntyll thy brothers fearfulnes be swaged, & vntyll thy brothers wrath turne awaye from the, & forget the thynges whych thou hast done to hi. Than wyll I sende and fet the awaye from thence. Why shulde I be desolate of you both in one daye? ¶ Rebecca spake to Isahac, I am wery of my lyfe, for feare of the daughters of Heth. If Jacob take a wife of ỹ̄ daughters of Heth, soche one as these are, or of the daughters of the lande, what good shall my lyfe do me?

¶ The.xxviij. Chapter.

¶ Jacob is sent into Mesopotamia to Laban for a wyfe. Esau marieth an Ismaelyte. Jacob dreameth a dreame. Christ is ỹmplied. Jacob maketh a vowe.

A ND so Isahac called Jacob and
*Gen.xxvij.c. * blessed hym, & charged hym, & sayde vnto him: se thou take not a wyfe of the daughters of Chanaã, but aryse & gett the to Mesopotamia to the house of Bethuel thy mothers father: and there take the a wyfe of the daughters of Laban thy mothers brother. And God almyghtye blesse the, & make the to increase, and multyplye the that ỹ̄ mayst be a nombre of people, and geue the the blessynge of Abraham: to the and to thy seed wyth the, that thou mayst possesse the lande (wherin thou art a straunger) whyche God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Isahac sent forth Jacob. And he went to Mesopotamia vnto Laban, sonne of Bethuel the Sirien, and brother to Rebecca Jacob and Esaus mother.

B When Esau sawe that Isahac had blessed Jacob, and sent him to * Mesopotamia,
*Gen.xxv.b. to fet him a wyfe thence, and that as he blessed hym he gaue him a charge, sayinge: thou shalt not take a wyfe of the daughters of Chanaan: and that Jacob had obeyed hys father and mother, & was gone vnto Mesopotamia: & Esau seynge also that the daughters of Chanaan pleased not Isahac hys father: then went he vnto Ismael, and toke vnto the wyues whych he had, Mahala the daughter of Ismael Abrahams sonne, the syster of Nabaioth to be his wyfe. Jacob departed from Beer Seba, to come vnto Haran, and came vnto a place by chaunce, and taryed there all nyghte, because the sonne was downe. And toke a stone of the place, and put it vnder hys heade, and layde hym downe in the same place a slepe. And he dreamed: and beholde, there stode a ladder vpon
C the erth, and the topp of it reached vp to heauen. And se, the angels of God went vp and downe vpon it, yee and God stode vpon it, and sayde.

I am the Lorde God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isahac: The lãde whyche thou slepest vpon wyll I geue the and thy seed. And thy seed shall be as the dust of the erth: and thou shalt spreade abrode to the west, to the east, to the north and to the south. ¶ Jacob cometh to Laban and serueth seuen yeare for Rahel. Lea was brought to hys bed in stede of Rahel. He marieth them both: and serueth yet. vij. yeare more for Rahel. Lea conceaueth.

A THen Jacob lyfte vp hys fete, & came in to the east coũtrey. And as he loked aboute, beholde there was a well in the felde, and .iij. flockes of shepe laye therby (for at that well were the flockes watered) and there was a great stone vpon the well mouth. And thyther were all the flockes brought, and they rolled the stone from the welles mouth, and watred the shepe, & put the stone agayne vpõ the welles mouth vnto hys place. And Jacob sayd vnto them: brethren whence be ye? And they sayde: of Haran are we. And he sayd vnto them: knowe ye Labã the sonne of Nahor? They sayd: we knowe hym. And he sayde vnto them, is he in good health? And they sayde, D he is in good health, and beholde, hys daughter Rahel commeth with the shepe. And he sayde, lo, it is yet but hye daye, nether is it tyme B that the catell shulde be gathered together, water ye the shepe and go and fede the. And they sayde, we maye not, vntyll all the flockes be brought to gether, and tyll they roll the stone from the welles mouth, and so we water oure shepe.

Whyle he yet talked wyth them, Rahel came wyth hyr fathers shepe, for she kepte them. As soone as Jacob sawe Rahel, the daughter of Labã his mothers brother, and the shepe of Laban hys mothers brother, he went

he wēt and rowled the stone from the wells mouth, and watered the flocke of Laban his mothers brother. And Jacob kyssed Rahel, and lyfte vp hys voyce and wepte: and Jacob tolde Rahel, ꝑ he was hyr fathers brother & Rebeccas sonne. Therfore ranne she and tolde hyr father.

And it happened when Laban hearde tell of Jacob his systers sonne, he ranne to mete him, & embraced him & kissed him, & brought him to his house. And he tolde Laban all the matter. To whom Laban sayde: well, thou art my bone & my flesshe. And he abode wyth him the space of a moneth. And Labā sayde vnto Jacob: Thoughthou be my brother, shuldest ꝑ therfore serue me for naught? tell me, what shall thy wages be? Labā had .ij. daughters, the eldest called Lea & the yongest Rahel. Lea was tender eyed, but Rahel was bewtyfull & well fauored. And Jacob loued Rahel, and sayde: I wyll serue the .vij. yeare for Rahel thy yongest daughter. Laban answered: it is better that I geue her the, than to another man: byde wyth me.

And Jacob serued * .vij. yeares for Rahel and they semed vnto him but a fewe dayes, for the loue he had to her. And Jacob sayde vnto Labā: geue me my wyfe, that I maye lye with hir. For my dayes are fulfilled.

Than Laban gathered together all the men of that place, & made a feast. And when euen was come, he toke Lea hys daughter & brought her to hym: and he went * in vnto hyr. And Laban gaue vnto hys daughter Lea, Zilpha hys mayde, to be hyr seruaunte. (No whō whā Jacob came in accordynge to ꝑ custome.) And when the morowynge was come, behold it was Lea. Thā sayde he to Labā wherfore hast thou played thus wt me? dyd not I serue the for Rahel? wherfore thā hast thou begyled me? Laban answered: it is not the maner of thys place, to marye the yōgest before the eldest. Fulfille out thys weke, and thā shall thys also be geuen the for the seruyce whych thou shalt serue me yet .vij. yeres more. And Jacob dyd euen so, and fulfilled out ꝑ weke, and thā he gaue him Rahel hys daughter to wyfe also. And Laban gaue to Rahel hys daughter, Bilha hys handmayde to be hyr seruaunte. So laye he by Rahel also, and loued Rahel more thā Lea * and serued hym yet .vij. yeares more.

When the Lorde sawe that Lea was despised, he made her fruteful. And Rahel remayned baren. And Lea conceaued and bare a sonne, and called hys name Ruben, for she sayde: the Lorde hath loked vpon my tribulacyō. Nowe therfore my husbād wyll loue me. And she conceaued agayne and bare a sonne, and sayde: the Lorde hath herde that I am despysed, and hath therfore geuē me thys sonne also, and she called hys name * Simeon. And she conceaued yet, & bare a sonne, and sayde: nowe thys once wyll my husbande kepe me company, because I haue borne hym .iii. sonnes: and therfore was hys name called Leui. And she cōceaued yet agayne, and bare a sonne, sayinge: nowe wyll I prayse the Lorde: therfore she called hys name Juda, and left bearynge.

The .xxx. Chapter.

Rahel and Lea beynge both baren geue their maydens vnto their husbāde: and they beare hym children. Jacob deceaueth Laban in the conceyuynge of the sheepe & kydes. Jacobs rewarde for hys seruyce.

RAhel whan she sawe that she bare Jacob no children, she enuyed hyr syster, and sayde vnto Jacob: Geue me childre, or els I am but deed. And Jacob was wroth wt Rahel sayig: Am I in Goddes stead, which kepeth frō the the frute of thy wōbe? Then she sayd: here is my mayde Bilha, go in vnto her, & she shall beare vpon my lappe, that I maye be encreased by her. And she gaue hym Bilha hyr handmayde to wyfe. And Jacob went in vnto her, and Bilha conceaued & bare Jacob a sonne. Than sayde Rahel. God hath geuen sentēce on my syde, and hath also hearde my voyce, and hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she hym Dan. And Bilha Rahels mayde conceaued agayne, and bare Jacob another sonne. And Rahel sayde: * wyth Godly wrestlynges haue I wrestled wyth my syster, and haue gotte the vpper hande: And she called hys name: Nepthali.

When Lea sawe that she had left bearinge, she toke Zilpha hyr mayde, and gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And Zilpha Leas mayde bare Jacob a sonne. Than sayde Lea: Good luche: and called hys name Gad. And Zilpha Leas mayd bare Jacob another sonne. Thā sayde Lea: happy am I, for the daughters wyll call me blessed. And called hys name Asser.

And Ruben went out in the dayes of the whet harueste and founde mandragoras in the feldes, and brought them vnto hys mother Lea. Than sayd Rahel to Lea: geue me of thy sonnes mādragoras. To whō Lea answered: Is it not ynough that thou hast taken away my housbāde, but woldest take away my sonnes mādragoras also? Thā sayde Rahel: well, let hym slepe wt the thys nyght, for thy sonnes mandragoras. And Jacob came from the feldes at euē, and Lea went out to mete hym, and sayde: come into me, for I haue bought the wyth my sonnes mandragoras.

And he slepte wyth her that nyght. And God herde Lea, that she cōceaued & bare vnto Jacob the .v. sonne. Thā sayde Lea. God hath geuen me a rewarde, because I gaue my mayde to my husbande, & she called hym Issachar. And Lea conceaued yet agayne, & bare Jacob the .vi. sone. And Lea sayd: God hath endewed me with a good dowrye. Nowe wyll my husbande dwell wyth me, because I haue borne hym .vi. sonnes: & called his name Zabulon. After that she bare a daughter, and called hys name * Dina.

* Gen. xxx. 20.

And God remembred Rahel, heard her, and made her fruteffull: so that she conceaued & bare a sone, & sayd: God hath taken awaye my rebuke. And she called hys name Joseph, sayinge: The Lorde geue me yet a nother sonne. As soone as Rahel had borne Joseph, Jacob sayde to Laba: Sende me awaye that I maye go vnto my awne place and cõtrey, geue me my wyues and my children for whom I haue serued the, and let me goo: for thou knowest what seruyce I haue done the. To whom Laba answered: yf I haue founde fauoure in thy syght (for I suppose that the Lord hath * blessed me for thy sake) appoynte what thy rewarde shall be, and I wyll geue it the. But he sayde vnto hym: thou knowest what seruyce I haue done the, and in what takynge thy catell haue bene vnder me: For it was but lytle that thou haddest before I came, and nowe it is encreased into a multitude, and the Lorde hath blessed the for my sake. But nowe when shall I make prouision for myne awne house also? And he sayde: what shall I then geue the? And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothynge at all, yf thou wylt do thys one thynge for me: and then wyll I turne agayne, and fede thy shepe and kepe them.

* Gen. xxix. a

I wyll go aboute all thy shepe thys daye, and separate from them all the shepe that are spotted and of dyuers colours, and all blacke shepe amonge the lambes, & the partye, and the spotted amonge the kydde: and the same shalbe my rewarde. So shall my ryghtwesnes answere for me ☞ to morowe, and shall come for my rewarde before thy face, and euery one that is not speckled and partye amonge the goates and blacke amonge the shepe, ☞ same shalbe theft wyth me. And Laban sayde: Go to, wolde God it myght be accordynge to thy sayeng. Therfore he toke out that same daie the he goates that were partye and of dyuerse colours, and all the she goates that were spotted and partye coloured, and all that had whyte in the, and all the blacke amonge the shepe, and put them in the keppynge of hys sonnes, & set thre dayes iourney betwyxte hym selfe and Jacob. And so Jacob kepte the rest of Labans shepe.

Jacob toke rodde of greene popular, hasell & of chest nut trees, & pylled whyte strakes in them, & made the whyte apere in the rodde. (But they that were whole remayned grene: and thus was it made a variable colour.) And put the rodde whyche he had pylled, euē before the shepe, in the gutters & watrynge troughes when the shepe came to dryncke: that they shulde conceaue when they came to dryncke. And the shepe conceaued before the rodde, & brought forth lambes straked, spotted and partye. And Jacob parted the lambes & turned the faces of the shepe towarde spotted thynges, and towarde all maner of blacke, that was amonge the shepe of Laba: Namely, puttynge hys awne flockes by the selfe, & not puttynge them wyth Labas shepe. And it fortuned ☞ in euery rāmynge tyme ☞ of the stronger shepe, Jacob layed the rodde before the eyes of the shepe in ☞ gutters: namely, that he myght make them conceaue before the rodde. But whē the shepe were feble, he put thē not in. And so the feble were Labans, and the stronger Jacobs. And the man increased exceadyngly, and had a great flocke, mayde seruauntes and man seruauntes, camels and asses.

The .xxxj. Chapter.

At the commaundement of God: Jacob departed from Laban: & toke hys goodes wyth hym. Rachel stealeth hyr fathers ymages. Laban followeth Jacob. The couenaunt betwene Laban and Jacob.

But he hearde the wordes of Labas sonnes sayenge: Jacob hath taken awaye all that was oure fathers, and of oure fathers goodes hath he gotten all thys honoure. And Jacob beheld the countenaunce of Laban, & beholde, it was not ☞ as yesterdaye and yerysterdaye. And the Lorde sayde vnto Jacob: turne agayne in to the lande of thy fathers and to thy kynred, & I wyll be wyth the. Therfore Jacob sent and called Rahel and Lea to the felde vnto hys flocke, & sayde vnto them: I se youre fathers countenaūce that it is not towarde me as yesterdaye & yerysterdaye. But the God of my father hath bene wyth me. And ye knowe howe that I haue serued youre father with all my myght. But youre father hath disceaued me, and chaunged my wages .x. tymes: but God suffred hym not to hurte me. When he sayde, the spotted shall be thy wages, than all the shepe bare spotted. And whan he sayde: the straked shall be thy rewarde, than bare all the shepe straked: thus hath God taken awaye youre fathers shepe, and geuen them me. But in rāmynge tyme it happened, ☞ I lyfted vp myne eyes & sawe in a dreame, & beholde the rāmes leaped vpon the shepe ☞ were straked, spotted & partye. And the angell of God spake vnto me in a dreame, saying: Jacob. And I answered: here am I. And he sayde: lyfte vp nowe thyne eyes & se all ☞ rāmes leapinge vpon the shepe that are straked, spotted & partye: for I haue sene all that Laban doth vnto the. I am the God of * Bethel, where thou thou anoynteddest the stone, and where thou vowedst a vowe vnto me. Now therfore aryse & get the * out of this coũtre, and returne vnto the lande wher thou wast borne. Gen.xvii.c

C Than answered Rahel, and Lea, & sayde vnto hym haue we a porcion & inheritaunce in our fathers house? Doth not he count vs euen as straũgers? for he hath solde vs, and hath euen eaten vp oure monye. But all the riches whych God hath taken from oure father, that is ours & oure childrẽs. And now what soeuer God hath sayde vnto the, that do. Thã Jacob rose vp, & set his sonnes and wyues vp vpon camels, & caried awaye all hys flockes & all hys substaũce which he had procured, hys riches and possessiõs which he had gotte in Mesopotamia, for to go to Isaac hys father vnto the land of Canaã. But Laban was gone to * shere hys shepe, & Rahel had stolen hyr fathers ymages. And Jacob stale awaye the herte of Laban the Syriã, in that he tolde hym not that he fled. So fled he & all that he had, and made hym selfe redy, & passed ouer the ryuer, & set hys face stregyght toward the mount Gilead. Gen.xxxi.a Gen.xiii.c

D Upõ the thyrde day after, was it told Labã that Jacob fled. Thã he toke his brethrẽ with hym and followed after him. vii. dayes tourney, & ouertoke hym at the moũte Gilead. And God came to Laban the Syrian in a dreame by night, & sayd vnto hym: take hede, that thou speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And Labã ouertoke Jacob: and Jacob had pitched hys tente in the mounte. And Laban with hys brethren pitched their tente also vpon the moũte Gilead: And Labã sayde, to Jacob: Why hast thou thus done to steale awaye my herte, and carye awaye my doughters as though they had bene taken captyue wyth ỹ swerde? Wherfore wẽtest thou awaye secretely vnknowen to me, & didest not tell me, that I myght haue brought the on the waye wyth myrth, syngyng, tymrell & harpe, and hast not suffred me to kisse my chyldren and my daughters? Thou wast * a fole now to do it, for I am able to do you euyll. But the God of youre father spake vnto me yesterdaye, sayeng take hede that ỹ speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And now thought thou wentest thy waye, because thou longest after thy fathers house, yet wherfore hast thou stolen my goddes? Reg.xiii.c. Dan.xvi.c

E Jacob answered and sayde to Laban because I was afrayed, & thought that thou woldest haue taken awaye thy doughters frõ me. But (where as thou laiest theft to my charge whyth whome soeuer thou fyndest thy goddes, let hym dye, here before oure brethren. Seke that thyne is by me, & take it to the. But Jacob wyst not that Rahel had stolen thẽ. Than went Laban into Jacobs tente, and into Leas tẽte, & into the. ii. maydẽs tentes: but founde them not: Than went he out of leas tente, and entred into Rahels tente. And Rahel had taken the ymages & put thẽ in the camels strawe, & sate downe vpõ thẽ. And Laban serched all the tente: but founde them not. Than sayde she to hyr father: my lord, be not angry ỹ I cã not ryse vp before the for ỹ custome of womẽ is come vpõ me. So searched he but founde not those ydols.

And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Labã. Jacob also answered & sayde to hym: what haue I trespaced or what haue I offended, ỹ thou folowedest so after me? Thou hast searched all my stuffe, & what hast thou founde of all thy houshold stuffe? put it here before thy brethrẽ & myne ỹ they maye iudge betwyxte vs both. Behold: Thys. xx. yere haue I bene wyth the, thy shepe & thy goates haue not bene baren, & the rãmes of thy flocke haue I not eaten. Whatsoeuer was torne of beastes I brought it not vnto the, but made it good my selfe: of my hande dydest thou requyre it, euen as it that was stollen by daye or nyght. By daye the hete cõsumed me, and the frost by nyght, and my slepe departed frõ myne eyes. F

Thus haue I bene. xx. yere in thy house, & serued the. * xiiii. yeres for thy. ii. doughters, & vi. yeres for thy shepe, and thou hast chaũged my rewarde. x. tymes. And excepte the God of my father, ỹ God of Abraham & the feare of Isahac had bene wyth me: surely thou haddest sent me awaye now all empte. But God beholde my trybulacyon and the labour of my handes, and rebuked the yesterdaye. *Gen.xxix.c

Laban answered and sayde vnto Jacob: these daughters are my daughters, and these chyldren are my chyldren, and these shepe are my shepe, and all that thou seyst, is myne. And what can I do thys daye vnto these my daughters, or vnto theyr chyldrẽ whych they haue borne? Now therfore come on & let vs make a bonde, I & thou, whych maye be a witnesse betwene the and me. Thã toke Jacob a stone and set it vp an ende, & Jacob sayde vnto hys brethren: gather stones. And they toke stones, and made an heape, & they dide eate there vpõ the heape. And Laban called it * Jegar Sahadutha, but Jacob called it Gilead. (eyther of them accordynge to the propertye of hys owne langage.) * The heape of witnesse.

Than sayde Laban: thys heape is * witnesse betwene the & me thys daye: therfore is it called Gilead (that is: a heape of witnesse) & * Mizaph: for he sayd: The Lorde loke betwene me & the when we are departed one frõ another: If ỹ shalt vexe my daughters or shalt take other wyues beside my daughters, here is no man with vs: beholde, God be witnesse betwyxte the and me. And Labã * Tumulus testificans. * A totehill.

sayde moreouer to Jacob: beholde, thys heape and thys marke whych I haue set there, bet wixte me and the: thys heape be wytnesse and also thys marke that I will not come ouer thys heape to the, and thou shalt not come ouer thys heape and thys marke vnto me: to do any harme. The God of Abraham, the God of Nahor, & the God of theyr fathers be iudge betwixte vs.

And Jacob sware by the feare of hys father Isahac. Then Jacob dyd sacrifyce vpō ℣ mounte, & called his brethrē to eate breed. And they dyd eate breed & taryed all nyght in the hyll. And early in the morynge Laban rose vp and kyssed hys children and hys daughters, and blessed them: and Laban departynge, went vnto hys place agayne.

¶ The.xxxii. Chapter.

AVt Jacob went forth on his iourney. And the Angels of God came, & met hym. And whē Jacob sawe thē, he sayd thys is Goddes hoost: & called the name of ℣ same place *Mahanaim. (That is an hoost.) And Jacob sente messengers before him to Esau his brother, vnto ℣ land *of Seir & the felde of Edom. And he cōmaunded them sayinge. Thus shall ye speake to my Lord Esau: thy seruaūte Jacob sayth thus: I haue sogeorned & bene a straūger wyth Laban vnto thys tyme and haue oxen, asses & shepe men seruaūtes and wemenseruauntes, and haue sent to shewe it my Lorde, that I may fynde grace in thy syghte. And the messengers came agayne to Jacob saying: we came vnto thy brother Esau, and he commeth agaynst the & hath .iiii. hundreth mē wt hym. But Jacob was greatly afrayed, and wyst not whych waye to turne hym selfe, and deuyded the people that was wyth hym & the shepe, & oxen & camels, into .ii. companyes: & sayd: If Esau come to the one parte & smyte it, the other shall saue it selfe.

And Jacob sayde agayne: O God of my father Abrahā, & God of my father Isahac: Lorde whych saydest vnto me *returne vnto thy coūtre and to thy kynred, & I wyll do all well wyth the. I am not worthy of the leaste of all the mercyes and truthe whych thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaunte. For wyth my staf came I ouer thys Iordane, & now haue I gotten .ii. droues. Delyuer me from the handes of my brother Esau: for I feare hym: lest he wyll come and smyte the mother wyth the chyldren. Thou saydest: I wyll surely do the good, & make thy seed as the sande of the see, which can not be nombred for multytude.

And he taryed there that same nyght, & toke of that whych came to hāde, a present, for Esau hys brother. .ii. hundred she goates & .xx. he goates. .ii. hundred shepe and .xx. rammes: thyrtye mylch camels wyth theyr colttes. xl kyne, & .x. bulles. xx. she asses & ten foles: and delyuered them into the hande of hys seruaunes, euery droue by them selues, and sayde vnto hys seruauntes: go forth before me, and put a space betwixte, droue, & droue. And he cōmaūded ℣ formost sayinge.

If Esau my brother mete the and aske the sayinge: whose art thou, and whyther goest thou: & whose are these that goo before the? thou shalt saye, they be thy seruaunte Jacobs, and it is a present sent vnto my Lord Esau, and beholde, he hym selfe commeth after vs: And so commaunded he the seconde, and the thyrde, and all that folowed the droues sayinge of thys maner se that ye speake vnto Esau when ye mete hym, and saye moreouer: thy seruaunte Jacob also commeth after vs, for he sayde: I wyll pease his wrath wyth ℣ present that goeth before me, and afterward I wyll se hym my selfe, yt peraduenture he wyll receaue me to grace: So went the present before hym and he taryed all that nyght in the company, and rose vp the same nyght, and toke hys two wyues and hys two maydens, and hys eleuen sonnes, and went ouer the foorde Jaboh And he tobe thē and sent them ouer the ryuer, and sent ouer that he had, and taried behinde hym selfe alone.

And there * wrastled a man wyth hym vnto the breakynge of the daye. And when he sawe that he coulde not preuayle agaynst hym, he smote hym vnder the thye, and the senowe of Jacobs thye shrāke, as he wrastled wyth hym. And he sayde: let me goo, for the daye breaketh. Which answered: I wyll not let the goo, excepte thou blesse me. And he sayde vnto hym: what is thy name? He answered: Jacob. He sayde: thou shalt be called Jacob nomore, but * Israell. For as a prynce hast thou wrastled wyth God: and wyth man, and hast preuayled.

And Jacob asked hym sayinge: tell me thy name. And he sayde, wherfore doest thou so aske after my * name? and he blessed hym there. And Jacob called the name of ℣ place * Pheniel, for I haue sene God face to face, & my lyfe is preserued. And as he went ouer Pheniel, the sonne rose vpō hym, and he halted vpō hys thye. And therfore is it that the chyldrē of Israell eate not of the senow that shranke in that place of the thye, vnto thys daye: because that he touched the place of Jacobs thye in the senow that shroncke.

¶ The.xxxiii. Chapter.

¶ Esau and Jacob are agreed: and Jacob came vnto Sichem.

Jacob

A IAcob lyfte vp his eyes, loked, and beholde, Esau came, hauynge with him .iiij. hundred men. And he deuyded the chyldren vnto Lea and vnto Rahel and vnto the .ij. maydens. And he put the maydens and their chyldren formost, and Lea and hye chyldren after, and Rahel and Joseph hyndermost.
Gen.xlv.a. And he went before them and * fell on the grounde .vij. tymes vntill he came vnto his brother.

...xxvj.a. Esau * came to mete hym and enbraced hym and fell on hys necke and kyssed hym, and they wepte. And he lyfte vp hys eyes & sawe the wemen, and ỹ chyldren, and sayde: vp ob ¶ whence hast thou these? vp (And do they belonge
B vnto the.) And he answered: they are the chyldren whych God hath geuen thy seruaunte. Than came the maydens forth, & their chyldren, and dyd theyr obeysaunce. Lea also with hyr chyldren came & dyd theyr obeysaunce. And last of all came Joseph & Rahel, & dyd theyr obeysaunce.

And he sayde: what is all ỹ droue whych I mett? he answered: that I maye fynde grace in the syghte of my Lorde. And Esau sayde: I haue ynough my brother, kepe that thou hast vnto thy selfe. To whom Jacob answered, oh nay, but yf I haue founde grace in thy syghte, receaue my present of my Genes.xxxiij.b hande: for I haue sene thy face * as though vp I had sene the face of God: vp And thou hast
C had a good wyll towarde me. Oh take my blessynge that is brought the, for God hath op had mercy on me. vp (Geuynge me all thynges.) And I haue ynough. And so he compelled hym, and he toke it. And he sayde: let vs take oure iourney and goo, I wyll goo before the. Jacob answered him: my Lorde, Thou knowest, that the chyldren are tender, & the ewes & kyne wyth yonge vnder myne hande, which yf men shulde ouerdryue but euen one daye all the shepe wyll dye. Oh let my Lorde goo before hys seruaunte, and I wyll dryue fayre and softly, accordynge as the catell that goeth before me and the chyldren be able to endure: vntyll I come to my Lorde vnto Seir.

And Esau sayde: let me pet leaue some of my folke with the. And he answered, what op neadeth it? vp (Thys one thynge onely haue I nede of.)
D let me fynde grace in the syghte of my Lord. So Esau went hys waye agayne that same daye vnto Seir. And Jacob toke hys iourney towarde Sucoth, & buylt hym an house, & made boothes for his catell. And therfore is it, that the name of the place is called Boothes. * Sucoth.

And Jacob came to Salē a cytie of Sichem which is in the lande of Canaan, after that he was come from Mesopotamia, and pytched before the cytie, and bought a parcell of grounde (were he pytched hys tent) of the chyldren of Hemor Sichems father & for D an hundred peces of money. And he made there an aulter, & called vpon ỹ myghtie God of Israel.

¶ The .xxxiiij. Chapter.

¶ The rauyshynge of Dyna Jacobs daughter by the me of Sichem. And of the great bloude shedynge done by the sonnes of Jacob.

DIna ỹ daughter of Lea * which she bare vnto Jacob, went out
A to se the daughters of the lāde. Whom whan Sichem the sonne of Hemor the Heuite Lorde of the countrey sawe, he toke her, and laye with her, and forced * her: and hys harte laye
*d.Mc.xlij.c. vnto Dina the daughter of Jacob. And he loued that damsell and spake kyndly vnto her, and Sichem spake vnto hys father Hemor sayinge, gett me thys mayden vnto my wyfe. And Jacob hearde that he had defyled Dina hys daughter, hys sonnes beinge with theyr catell in the felde, and he helde hys peace, vntyll they were come. And Hemor the father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob, to comen with hym. And whan the sonnes of Jacob commynge out of the felde herde it, it greued the, & they were not a lytle wrooth, because he had wrought folye in Israel, in that he had lyen wyth Jacobs daughter, which thinge ought not to be done. And He-
B mor commened with them sayinge: the soule of my sone Sichē longeth for youre daughter: geue her hym to wyfe, and make mariages with vs: and geue youre daughters vnto vs, and take oure daughters vnto you, & ye shall dwell wyth vs, and the lande shall be before you, dwell and do youre busynes, and haue youre possessyons there in. And Sichem sayde vnto hyr father and hyr brethren, let me fynde grace in youre eyes, and what soeuer ye apoynte me, that wyll I geue. Axe freely of me both the dowry and gyftes, and I wyll geue accordynge as ye saye vnto me, so that ye geue me the Damsell to wyfe.

But the sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem & Hemor hys father talkynge amōge them selues deceytefully, because he had defyled Dina theyr syster. And they sayde vnto them, we can not do thys thynge that we shulde geue oure syster to one that is vncircūcysed, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in thys wyll we consent vnto you: If ye wylde as we be and all the men chyldren amonge you be circumcysed, then wyll we geue oure daughters to you and take youre daughters to vs, and wyll dwell wyth you and be one people. But and yf ye wyll not harken vnto vs to be circumcysed, than will hys sonne. And the yonge man deferde not for to do the thynge, because he had a lust to Jacobs daughter: he was also most set by of all that were in hys fathers house. Than Hemor & Sychem hys sonne went vnto the gate of their cytie, and comened with the mē of their cytie, sayinge: these men are vnkayned towarde vs, and dwell in the lande and do their occupacyon therin. And in the lande is rowme ynough for them, we wyll take their daughters to wyues, and gene thē oure daughters: only here in wyll they cōsent vnto vs for to dwell wyth vs & to be one people: yf all the menchyldren that are amonge vs be circūcysed as they are. Shall not their goodes and their substance and all their catell be oures, only yf we cōsente vnto them? For they wyll dwell with vs.

And vnto Hemor and Sichem his sonne harkened all that went out at the gate of D hys cytie. And all the menchyldren were circumcised whatsoeuer went out at the gates of his cytie. And it happened the thyrde daye (when it was paynefull to them) .ij. of the sonnes of Jacob Symeon and Leui Dinas
* Ge.xlix.a. Judyth.ix.a. brethē, toke ether of them his * swerde and wēt in to the cytie boldly, and slewe all that was male, and slewe also Hemor and Sichem hys sonne with the edge of the swerde, and toke Dina out of Sichems house, and went their waye.

And the sonnes of Jacob cōmynge vpon the deed, spoyled the cytie, because they had defyled their syster: & toke their shepe, oxen, and their asses and whatsoeuer was in the cytie and also in ỹ feldes. And all their goodes & all their chyldren, and their wyues toke they captiue and made hauouck of all that was in the house.

But Jacob sayde to Symeon and Leui: ye haue troubled me and made me stynke before the inhabitours of the lāde, before the Canaanyte and the Pherezite. And I beynge fewe in nombre, they shall gather them selues together agaynst me & slee me, and so shall I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: shulde they deale with oure syster as with an whoore.

¶ The.xxxv. Chapter.

¶ Jacob goeth vp vnto Bethell, and buryeth hys ymages vnder an ake. Debora dyeth. Jacob is called Jsrael. The lande of Canaā is promysed him. Rachel dyeth in labour: Ruben laye wyth hys fathers concubyne. The death of Jsaac.

I AND God sayde vnto Jacob, aryse and get ỹ vp to Bethel, and dwell there. And make there an aulter vnto God that apeared vnto the,
* Ge.xxvii.c * when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother. Than sayde Jacob vnto hys housholde and to all that were wyth hym: ☞ put awaye the straunge goddes that are amōge you and be cleane, and chaūge youre garmentes, for we wyll aryse and goo vp to Bethell and I wyll make an aulter there, vnto God, which herde me in the daye of my tribulacyon, and was with me in the waye which I went.

And they gaue vnto Jacob all the straūge goddes which they had in their hāde, and all their earinges which were in their eares, & Jacob hyd thē vnder an ooke whych was by Sichem. And whan they departed, the feare of God fell vpon the cyties that were rounde aboute them. And they dyd not folowe after the sonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus which is in the lande of Canaan, 15
The same is Bethell, he & all the people that was with him. And he buylded there an aulter, and called ỹ place: The God of Bethell, because that God apered vnto hym there, when he fled from the face of his brother.

But * Debora Rebeccas norse, dyed, & * Ge.xxiiii.c was buryed beneth Bethell vnder an ooke. And the name of it was called: the ooke of lamentacyon. And God appeared vnto Jacob agayne after he came out of Mesopotamia and blessed hym, and God sayde vnto him: thy name is Jacob. Notwythstondinge thou shalt be no more called * Jacob, but * Ge.xxxii.
Jsrael shalbe thy name. And he called hys name Jsrael.

And God sayde vnto him: I am God allmyghtye, growe and multiplye, people and a multitude of people shall sprynge of the, yee and kynges shall come out of thy lopnes. And the lande whych I gaue Abraham and Jsahac, will I gene vnto the, and vnto thy seed after the will I gene that lāde also: And so God departed vp from hym in the place where he had talked wyth hym. And Jacob set vp a marke in the place where he talked with hym: euen a marke of stone and powred ☞ dryncke offrynge theron, & powred also oyle theron, and Jacob called the name of ỹ place where God spake with hym * Bethell.

And they departed from Bethel, and whē he was but a felde brede frō Ephrath, Rahel began to trauell, and in trauelynge she was in parell. And it happened as she was in paynes of hyr labour, the mydwyfe sayde vnto her, feare not, for thys sonne is thyne also. Then as hyr soule was a departynge, ỹ she * must dye, she called his name. Ben Oni. (the sonne of my sorowe.) But hys father called hym Ben Jamin. (The sonne of the ryght hande.) And thus dyed Rahel and was buryed in the waye to Ephrath, which is Bethlehem. And Jacob sett vp a stone vpō hir graue, which is called Rahels graue stone vnto thys daye. And Jsrael went thence, & pytched vp hys tent beyonde the * toure of Eder. And it chaunced as Jsrael dwelt in the lande, that Ruben went and laye with laye * wyth Bilha hys fathers concubyne, and it came to Israels eare. The sonnes of Jacob were .xij. in nombre. The sonnes of Lea. Ruben Jacobs eldest sonne, and Simeon, Leui, Juda, Isachar, and zabulon. The sonnes of Rahel: Joseph and Ben Jamin. The sonnes of Bilha Rahels mayde: Dan and Neptali. The sonnes of zilpha Leaes mayde, Gad and Aser. These are the sonnes of Jacob whych were borne hym in Mesopotamia.

And so Jacob came vnto Isahac hys father to Mamre vnto kyriath Arba which is Hebron: where Abraham & Isahac sotourned as straungers. And the dayes of Isahac were an hundred and .lxxx. yeres: & Isahac fell sycke and dyed, and was put vnto hys people, beynge olde and full of dayes. And his sonnes Esau and Jacob buryed him.

¶ The .xxxvj. Chapter.

¶ The wyues of Esau. Jacob and Esau are riche. The genealogye of Esau. Esau dwelleth in the hyll Seir.

These are the generacyons of Esau. The same is Edom. Esau toke his wyues of the daughters of Canaan. Ada the daughter of Elon an hethite, & Ahalibama ꝑ daughter of Ana, the daughter of zibeon an heuyte, and Basmath Ismaels * daughter & sister of Nebaioth. And Ada bare vnto Esau, Eliphas: and Basmath bare Reguel: And Ahalibama bare Jeus and Jaelan and kozah. These are the sonnes of Esau whych were borne him in the lande of Canaan.

And Esau toke his wyues and hys sonnes and daughters and all the soules of hys house: hys goodes and all hys cattell and all hys substance whych he had gott in the lande of Canaan, and went into a countre awaye from the face of hys brother Jacob: for their * ryches was moche, and they coulde not dwell together, and the lande where in they were straungers, coulde not receaue the: because of their possession. Thus dwelt Esau in mounte Seir. The same Esau is Edom. These are the generacyons of Esau father of the Edomites in mounte Seir, and these are the names of Esaus sonnes: * Eliphas the sonne of Ada ꝑ wyfe of Esau, and Reguel the sonne of Basmath the wyfe of Esau. And the sonnes of Eliphas were: Theman, Omar, zepho, Gaethom and kenas. And Thimna was concubyne to Eliphas Esaus sonne, and bare vnto Eliphas Amalech. And these be the sonnes of Ada Esaus wyfe. And these are the sonnes of Reguel: Nahath, Serah, Samma and Misa, these were the sonnes of Basmath Esaus wyfe. And these were the sonnes of Ahalibama the daughter of Ana daughter of zebion Esaus wyfe, and she bare vnto Esau: Jeus, Jealam and kozah.

These were dukes of the sonnes of Esau. The chyldren of * Eliphas the fyrst sonne of Esau, were these: duke theman, duke Omar, duke zepho, duke kenas, and duke korah, duke Gaethã and duke Amalech. These are the dukes that came of Eliphas in the lande of Edom, and these were the sonnes of Ada. These also are the chyldren of Reguel Esaus sonne: duke Nahath, duke Serah, duke Samma, duke Misa. These are the dukes that came of Reguel in the lande of Edom, & these are the sonnes of Basmath Esaus wyfe. These were the chyldren of Ahalibama Esaus wyfe: duke Jeus, duke Gaelan, duke kozah, these dukes came of Ahalibama ꝑ daughter of Ana Esaus wyfe. These are the chyldren of Esau, and these are the dukes of the: which Esau is Edom. These are the chyldren of Seir the horite, the inhabitoure of the lande: Lothan, Sobal, zibeon, and Ana, and Dison, Ezer and Disan. These also are the dukes of the horites the chyldren of Seir in the lande of Edõ. And the chyldren of Lothan were: Hozi and Heman. And Lothans syster was called Thymna.

The chyldren of Sobal were these: Aluan, Manahath and Ebal, Sepho & Onã. These are the chyldren of zibeon. Aia and Ana, thys was that Ana that founde mules in the wyldernes, as he fed hys father zibeons asses. The chyldren of Ana were these. Dison and Ahalibama the daughter of Ana. These are the chyldren of Dison, Hemdan and Esban, Jethran and Cheran. The chyldren of Ezer are these: Bilhan, Seauan and Akan. The chyldren of Disan also are these: Uz and Aran. These are the dukes that came of Hozi: duke Lothan, duke Sobal, duke zibeon, duke Ana, duke Dison, duke Ezer, duke Disan. These be the dukes ꝑ came of Hozy after their dukedomes in the lande of Seir. These are the kynges that reygned in the lande of Edom before there raygned any kynge vpon the chyldren of Israel. Bela the sonne of Beor reygned in Edomea, & the name of hys cytie was Dinhaba. And when Bela dyed, Jobab the sonne of Serah out of Bozra, reygned in hys steade. When Jobab also was dead, husam of the lãde of Themany reygned in his stede. And after the deth of husam, Hadad the sonne of Bedad which slewe the Madianytes in the feide of the Moabytes, reygned in hys steade, and the name of hys cytie was Auith. When Hadad was dead, Samla of Masreka reygned in his steade. Whē Samla was dead, Saul of the ryuer Reboboth reygned in hys steade. When Saul was dead, Baal hanã ꝑ sõne of Achbor reygned in his

These are the names of the dukes that came of Esau, in ꝑ .xij. kynredes, places and names: duke Thymna, duke Alua, , duke Jetheth, duke Aholibama, duke Ela, duke Pinon, duke Kenas, duke Theman, duke Mibzar, duke Magdiel, duke Jram. These be the dukes of Edomea accordynge to theyr habitacyons, in the lande of theyr possessions. Thys Esau is the father of the Edomytes.

¶ The .xxxvij. Chapter.

¶ Joseph accuseth hys brethren. Joseph dreameth and is hated of hys brethren and ꝑ solde to the Ismaelytes. Jacob bewayleth Joseph.

A JAcob dwelt in the lande where in his father was a straunger, euen in the lãde of Chanaan. These are the generacyons of Jacob. when Joseph was .xvij. yere olde, he kepte shepe wyth hys brethren, and the lad was with the sonnes of Bilha and with the sonnes of Zilpha his fathers wyues. And he brought vnto their father an euyll sayinge of them. But Israel loued Joseph more than all hys chyldren, because he begat him in hys olde age, and he made hym a coote of many colowres.

And when hys brethren sawe that theyr father loued him more than all his brethren, they hated hym ꝑ coulde not speke peaceably vnto hym. Moreouer whan Joseph * had dreamed a dreame, he tolde it his brethren whych hated hym yet the more. ✠ And he sayde vnto them: heare I praye yowe thys dreame which I haue dreamed: Beholde we were byndinge sheues in the felde: ꝑ lo, my sheffe arose, and stode vp ryght, and youres stode rounde aboute and made obeysaunce to my sheffe. To whom hys brethren sayde: shalt thou be oure kynge in dede / or shalt ꝑ in dede haue dominyon ouer vs? And they hated hym yet the more, because of hys dreames, and of his wordes.

And he dreamed yet another dreame and tolde it his brethren sayinge: beholde, I haue had one dreame more: me thought the sonne and the moone ꝑ .xj. starres made obeysaunce to me. And when he had tolde it vnto his father and hys brethren, hys father rebuked him ꝑ sayde vnto him: what is thys dreame which thou hast dreamed: shall I ꝑ thy mother and thy brethre come to fall on the grounde before the? And hys brethre hated him, but hys father noted the sayinge.

hys brethren also went to kepe their fathers shepe in Sichem, and Israel sayde vnto Joseph: do not thy brethren kepe in Sichem / come, and I wyll sende the to the. he answered * here am I. And he sayde vnto him: goo and see whether it be well with thy brethren and the shepe, and bringe me worde agayne. And so he sent him out of the vale of Hebron and he went to Sichem. And a certayne man founde hym, and beholde he was wandringe out of hys waye in the felde, and the mã asked him: what seekest thou? he answered: I seke my brethren, tell me I praye the where they kepe shepe. And the mã sayde, they are departed hence, for I herde them saye: let vs goo vnto Dothan. Thus went Joseph after his brethren, and founde them in Dothan.

And it happened that whan Joseph was come vnto hys brethre, they strypte him out of his coot, hys party coloured coote ꝑ was vpon hym, and they toke hym and cast hym into an emptye pytt: Wherin was no water. And they satt the downe to eate bryde. And as they lyft vp their eyes and loked aboute, there came a companye of Ismaelytes from Gilead, and their camels ladē with spicery, baulme, and myrre, and were goynge downe to cary it into Egypte.

And when Ruben came agayne vnto ꝑ pytt & founde not Joseph there, he ☞ rent his cloothes and went agayne vnto his brethre sayinge: the lad is not yonder, and wherher shall I goo? And they toke Josephs coote and kylled a goote, & dypped the coote in the blonde. And they sent that partye coloured coote, and brought it vnto their father and sayde: Thys haue we founde: se whether it be thy sonnes coote or no. And he knewe it sayinge, it is my sonnes coote, a wycked beast hath * devoured hym, Joseph is rent in peces. And Jacob rent hys cloothes, and put sacke clothe aboute his loynes, and sorowed for his sonne a longe season. But all his sonnes and all hys doughters rose vp to comforte him. Neuertheles he wolde not be comforted, but sayde: I wyll go downe into the graue vnto my sonne, mournynge. And thus hys father weyte for hym. And the Madianytes * solde hym in Egypte vnto Putiphar a Lord of Pharaos, and his chefe Stewarde.

¶ The .xxxviij. Chapter.

¶ The mariage of Juda. The trespas of Er and Onan, and the denouncynge of God that came ther vpon. Juda laye with his daughter Thamar. The byrth of Pharez and Zarah.

IT fortuned at that tyme, that Judas went downe from his brethre, and gatt hym to a man called Hira of Odollam, and there he sawe the daughter of a man called * Sua a Canaanyte: And he toke her and wēt in to her. And she conceaued & bare a sonne and called hys name Er. And she conceaued agayne, and bare a sonne and called him Onan. And she conceaued agayne, & bare yet a sonne, whom she called Sela: ☞ and he was at Chesyb when she bare him.

And Judas gaue Er hys eldest sonne a wyfe, whose name was Thamar. And Er Judas eldest sonne was ☞ wycked in the syghte of the Lorde, & the Lorde slewe hym. And Judas sayde vnto Onan: goo into thy brothers wyfe and marye her, ꝑ thou mayest stryre vp seed vnto thy brother. And when Onan perceaued that the seed shulde not be his, therfore when he went into his brothers wyfe, he spylled it on the grounde, and gaue not seed vnto hys brother. And the thynge whych he dyd, displeased the Lorde, wherfore he slewe him also. Than sayde Judas to Thamar hys daughter in lawe: remayne a wydowe at thy fathers house, tyll Sela my sonne be growne: for he sayde: Lest peraduenture he dye also, as hys brethren dyd. And Thamar wente and dwelt in her fathers house.

And in processe of tyme, the daughter of Sua Judas wyfe dyed. Then Judas when he had left mournynge, went vnto his shepe sherers to Thymnath he and his feede Hira of Odollam. And one tolde Thamar sayinge: beholde, thy father in lawe goeth vp to Thymnath, to * shere hys shepe. And she put hyr wydows garmentes of from her & couered her wyth a clooke, and disgysed her selfe: And satt her downe in a comon place which is by ꝑ hye wayes syde to Thimnath, for because she sawe ꝑ Sela was growne, and she was not geuen vnto him to wyfe.

When Juda sawe her, he thought it had bene an whooze, because she had couered hyr face. And he turned to her vnto the waye, & sayde, come I praye the, let me lye with the, for he knewe not that it was hys daughter in lawe. And she answered: what wilt thou gyue me, for to lye with me? Than sayde he, I wyll sende the a kydd from the flocke. She sayde, Than geue me a pledge tyll thou sende it. He sayde, what pledge shall I geue the? She answered: thy sygnett, thy bracelet, and thy staffe that is in thy hande. And he gaue it her and lay by her, and she was with chylde by hym. And she gatt here vp and went and put her mantell from her, and put on hyr wydowes rayment. And Judas sent the kydd by hys frende of Odollam, for to receaue hys pledge agayne from the wyfes hande. But he founde her not, Than asked he the men of the same place sayinge, where is the whooze that satt openly by the waye syde? They answered, There was no whooze here. He came therfore to Juda agayne & sayde vnto him: I can not finde her, and also the men of the place sayde, that there was no whooze there. And Juda sayde, let her take it to her, lest we be shamed. Beholde I sente the kydd and thou hast not founde her.

And it came to passe that after .iij. monethes, one tolde Juda sayinge: Thamar thy daughter in lawe hath played the whooze, and wyth playinge the whooze is become great with chylde. And Juda sayde, bryuge her forth, that she maye be brente. And when they brought her forth, she sent to her father in lawe sayinge: by the man vnto whome these thynges pertayne, am I with chylde. And sayde also, looke whose are thys seale, bracelet, and thys staffe. And Juda knewe thē and sayde, she hath bene more ryght wes than I, because I gaue her not to Sela my sonne. And he laye with her nomore.

It fortuned when tyme was come that she shulde be delyuered, beholde there was .ij. twynnes in hyr wombe. And it fortuned, that whan she trauyled, the one put out hys hande and the mydwyfe toke and bounde a reed threde aboute it sayinge, thys is come out fyrst. And it chaunced, that he plucked hys hande backe agayne, and beholde

hys brother came out. And she sayde, wherefore hast thou ☞ rent a rent vpon the? ☜ called his name, Phares. Afterwarde came out his brother that had ꝑ redd threde about hys hande, and his name was called Zarah.

¶ The.xxxix.Chapter.

¶ God prospereth Joseph. Pharaos wyfe tempteth him. He is accused & cast in prison. God hath mercye vpon hym.

IOseph was brought vnto Egypte, and Putiphar * a Lorde of Pharaos (& his chefe stewarde an Egyptian) bought him of the Ismaelytes which had brought him thyther. And God was with Joseph, & he became a luckye man, cõtinuynge in the house of his master the Egyptian. And his master sawe that God was with him, & that God made all that he dyd to prosper in his hande. And Joseph founde grace in hys masters syghte, and serued him. And made hym rular of hys house, and put all that he had in his hande. And it fortuned from the tyme that he had made him rular ouer hys house and ouer all that he had, the Lorde * blessed the Egyptyans house for Josephs sake, and the blessynge of the Lorde was vpon all that he had: in the house, and in the felde. And therefore he left all that he had in Josephs hande, and loked vpon nothynge that was wt hym, saue only on the bread whych he dyd eate. And Joseph was a * goodly persone & a well fauored. And it fortuned after thys, that his masters wyfe cast hyr eyes vpõ Joseph and sayde: come lye with me. But he refused, and sayde to hys masters wyfe: Beholde, my master woteth not what he hath in the house with me, and hath committed all that he hath to my hande. ☞ There is no man greater in the house than I, Neyther hath he kepte any thynge frõ me, but only the, because thou art hys wyfe. Howe than can I do this great wyckednes, and synne agaynst God? And after thys maner spake she to Joseph daye by daye: but he harkened not vnto her, to slepe nere her, or to be in her company.

¶ And it fortuned on a certayne conuenient daye, that Joseph entred into the house, to do hys busynes: and there was none of the housholde by, in the house. And she caught him by the garment sayinge: come slepe with me. And he lefte hys garment in hyr hande and fled, and gott hym out. And it chaunced. When she sawe that he had lefte his garment in hyr hande, and was fled out. ☞ (And he not regarded.) She called vnto the men of hir house, and tolde them, sayinge: See, he hath brought in an Hebrewe vnto vs to do vs shame. For he came in to me, for to haue slepe with me. And I began to crye with a lowde voyce. And when he hearde ꝑ I lyfte vp my voyce & cryed, he lefte hys garment wt me, and fled awaye, and got him out.

And she layed vp hys garment by her, vntyll hyr Lorde came home. And she tolde him with these wordes sayinge: Thys Hebrues seruaunte whych thou hast brought vnto vs, came vnto me to do me shame. But as soone as I lyfte vp my voyce and cryed, he lefte hys garment with me and fled out. When his master. ☞ (Worthye to lyght of correction.) hearde the wordes of hys wyfe whych she tolde hym sayinge: after this maner dyd thy seruaunte to me, he waxed wroth.

And the master toke Joseph & put hym in * prison euen in to the place where the kynges prysoners laye bounde. And there continued he in prison, but the Lorde was with Joseph, and shewed hym mercye, and gott hym fauoure in the syghte of the Lorde of ꝑ prison. And the keper of the prison committed to Josephs hande all the prisoners that were in the prison house. And whatsoeuer was done there, that dyd he. And the keper of the prison loked vnto nothynge that was vnder his hande, seynge that the Lorde was with him. For what soeuer he dyd, the Lorde made it to prosper.

¶ Joseph expounded the dreames of the two prisoners.

AND it chaunced after this, that the butteler of ꝑ kynge of Egypte and hys baker had offended their Lorde the kynge of Egypte. And Pharao was angrye agaynst his two officers: agaynst ꝑ chefe butler & the chefe baker: and put them in warde in hys chefe stewardes house: euen in the prison and place where Joseph was bounde. And the chefe Stewarde gaue Joseph a charge with them, & he serued thẽ. And they continued a season in warde.

And they dreamed ether of them in one nyght: both the butteler and the baker of the kynge of Egypte which were bounde in the prison house, ether of them his dreame, and eache maness dreame of a sondrye interpretacyon. When Joseph came in vnto them in the morynge, and loked vpon them: beholde, they were sadd. And he asked Pharaos officers that were with hym in hys masters warde sayinge: Wherefore loke ye so sadly to daye? They answered hym: we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue no man to declare it. And Joseph sayde vnto them: Do not interpretynges belonge to God: yet tell me? And the chefe butler tolde his dreame to Joseph, and sayde vnto him: In my dreame me thought there stode a vyne before me, and in the vyne were. iij. braunches, and it was as though it budded, and her blossoms shott forth: and the grapes there of waxed rype.

And

And I had Pharaos cuppe in my hande and toke of the grapes and wronge them into Pharaos cuppe, and delyuered Pharaos cuppe in to hys hande. And Joseph sayde vnto hym: thys is the interpretacion of it. The thre braunches are thre dayes; for wythin thre dayes shall Pharao lyft vp thyne heade, and restore the vnto thyne office agayne, and thou shalt delyuer Pharaos cuppe in to hys hande, after the old maner wherin thou wast wont to geue hym drynke. But yf thou thynke on me wyth the, when thou art in good case, shewe mercye (I praye the) vnto me. And make mencion of me to Pharao, and brynge me out of thys house: for I was stollen out of the lande of the Hebrues, and here also haue I done nothynge at all, wherfore they shulde haue put me in to thys dongeon. When the chefe baker sawe that the interpretacyon was good, he sayde vnto Joseph: me thought also in my dreame, that I had .iij. wyuer basshettes on my heade. And in the uppermost basshet there was of all maner bakemeates for Pharao. And the byrdes dyd eate the out of the basshet that was vpon my head.

D And Joseph answered and sayde: thys is the interpretacyon therof. The thre basshettes are thre dayes, for thys daye thre dayes shall Pharao take thy heade from the, and shall hange the on a tree, and the byrdes shall eate thy flesshe from of the.

And it came to passe the thyrde daye wheych was Pharaos * byrth daye, that he made a feast vnto all hys seruauntes. And he lyfted vp the head of the chefe buttelar and of the chefe baker amonge hys seruauntes. And restored the chefe buttelar vnto hys buttelarshyppe agayne: wheych also reched the cuppe in to Pharaos hande, but he hanged the chefe baker: euen as Joseph had interpreted vnto them. Neyther dyd the chefe buttelar remembre Joseph, but forgat hym.

¶ The .xli. Chapter.

¶ Pharaos dreames are expouded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer all Egipt. He hath two sonnes: Manasses & Ephraim. The derth begynneth in Egypt.

AND it fortuned after two yeres, that Pharao dreamed, and beholde, he stode by a ryuers syde, & there came out of the ryuer seuen goodly kyne and fatt fleshed, and fedd in a medowe, & .vij. other kyne came vp after them out of the ryuer, euell fauored and leane fleshed, and stode, by the other kyne vpon the brynke of the ryuer. And the euyll fauored and leane fleshed kyne dyd eate vp the seue well fauored and fatt kyne: and Pharao awoke. And he slepte agayne, and dreamed the seconde tyme. And beholde, seuen eares of corne grewe vpo one stalke, ranche and goodly. And agayne, seue thynne eares blasted wyth the east wynde, sprange vp after them and the seuen thynne eares deuowred the seuen ranche and full eares. And Pharao awaked: and se, it was a dreame. And whe the morynge came, his spyrte was troubled. And he sent and called for all the sothesayers of Egypte, and all the wyse men therof, and Pharao tolde the hys dreame: but there was none of the that coulde interpretate it vnto Pharao. Than spake the chefe buttelar vnto Pharao sayinge: I do remembre my fawtes thys daye. Pharao beynge angrie wyth hys seruautes, put me warde [the chefe Stewardes house both me & the chefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one nyght, and eche mannes dreame ofa sondrye interpretacyon.

And there was wyth vs a ponge man, an Hebrue borne, seruaunte vnto the chefe Stewarde. To whom whā we tolde them, he declared oure dreames to vs accordynge to ether of oure dreames. And as he declared the vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. For he restored me to myne office agayne, & hanged hym.

Pharao sent therfore and called Joseph. And they brought hym hastely out of * prison. And he shaued hym selfe, and chaunged hys rayment, and came in to Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: I haue sene a dreame, and no man can interpretate it, and I haue herde saye of the, that as soone as thou hearest a dreame, thou canst interpretate it. Joseph answered Pharao, sayinge: Not I, but God shall geue Pharao an answere of peace. And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: in my dreame me thought I stode by a ryuers syde, and there came out of the ryuer seuen faet fleshed, and well fauored kyne, & fedd in the medowe. And then seuen other kyne came vp after them, poore and very euell fauored and leane fleshed: such as I neuer sawe in all the lande of Egypte, they were so euell fauored. And the seuen leane & euell fauored kyne dyd eate vp the fyrst .vii. fatt kyne. And when they had eaten the vp, a man coulde not perceaue that they had eaten them: but they were still as euell fauored as they were at the begynnynge. And I awoke. And I sawe agayne in my dreame & beholde, .vii. eares sprange out of one stalk, full and fayre. and. vij. other eares agayne, wythered, thynne and blasted with the eest wynde, ſpringe vp after the. And the thynne eares deuowred the. vij. good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto ye ſothſayers, but there was no man that coulde tell, what it meaneth. And Joſeph anſwered Pharao: both Pharaos dreames are one. And God hath ſhewed Pharao what he is aboute to do. The. vij. good kyne are. vij. yeares: and the. vij. good eares are ſeuen yeares alſo, and it is but one dreame. Lykewyſe, ye. vij. thynne and euell fauored kyne that came out after the, are. vij. yeares: and the. vij. emptye and blasted eares ſhalbe. vij. yeares of hunger.

D Thys wherch I haue ſayde vnto Pharao, is it that God is aboute to do, and ſheweth it vnto Pharao.

Beholde there come. vij. yeare of great plenteouſnes throughe out all the lande of Egypte. And agayne there ſhall aryſe after them. vij. yeares of hunger. And all the plenteouſnes ſhalbe forgott in the lãde of Egypte: And the hũger ſhall cõſume the lãde: neither ſhall the plenteouſnes be knowē in the lande. by reaſon of that hunger that ſhall come after, for it ſhalbe exceadinge great. And as concernynge that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the ſecõde tyme, beholde, the thynge is certaynly prepared of God, & God wyll ſhortly bringe it to paſſe.

Nowe therfore, let Pharao prouyde for a man of vnderſtondynge and wyſdome, and ſett hym ouer the lande of Egypte. And let Pharao do thys alſo, that he make offycers ouer the lãde, and take vp the fyfte parte of the lande of Egypte in the. vij. plenteous yeares, and let them gather all the foode of theſe good yeres that come, and lay vp corne vnder the hande of Pharao, that there maye be foode in the cytes, and there let them kepe it: that there maye be foode in ſtoore in the lande, agaynſt the ſeuen yeares of hunger whych ſhall come in the lande of Egypte, that the lande perysshe not thorowe hunger.

E And the ſayinge pleaſed Pharao and all hys ſeruaũtes. Then ſayde Pharao vnto hys ſeruaũtes: where ſhall we fynde ſoch a man as thys is, in whom is the ſpyrete of God? And Pharao ſayde vnto Joſeph: for as moche as God hath ſhewed the all thys, there is no man of vnderſtondynge or of wyſdome lyke vnto ye. Thou therfore ſhalt be * ouer my houſe, and accordynge to thy worde ſhall all my people be ruled, only in ye kynges ſeate wyll I be aboue the. And Pharao ſayde agayne vnto Joſeph: beholde, I haue ſett the ouer all the lande of Egypte. And he toke of hys ryng from hys hande, and put it vpon Joſephs hande, and arayed hym in cloth of rayne, and put a golden cheyne aboute hys necke, and ſett hym vpon the beſt charett that he had, ſaue one. And they cryed before hym: Bowe the knee, and Pharao made hym ruler ouer all the lande of Egypte.

And Pharao ſayde vnto Joſeph: I am Pharao, wythout the ſhall no man lyfte vp hys hãde or fote in all the lande of Egypte. And he called Joſephs name ☞ ſayphnath Parna. And he gaue hym to wyfe Aſnath the daughter of Putiphar preaſt of On. Than went Joſeph abrode in the lande of Egypte. And he was thyrtye yeare olde ☞ when he ſtode before Pharao kynge of Egypte. And Joſeph departynge from the preſence of Pharao, went thorowe out all the lande of Egypte.

And in the ſeuen plenteous yeares they made theues and gathered vp all ye foode of the ſeuē plenteous yeares which were in the lande of Egypte, and layed vp the ſame in the cytes. The foode of the feldes that grewe rownde aboute euery cyte, layed he vp in the ſame. And Joſeph layde vp corne in ſtoore, lyke vnto the ſande of the ſee, in multitude out of meſure, vntyll he left nõbrynge: For it was wythout nombre. And vnto Joſeph were borne two ſonnes (before the yeares of hunger came) whych Aſnath the daughter of Putiphar preaſt of On, bare vnto hym. And Joſeph called the name of ye G fyrſt ſonne * Manaſſe, for God (ſayde he) * Gen. xli. hath made me forgett all my labour ād all my fathers houſholde. The name of the ſeconde called he Ephraim, for God (ſayd he) hath cauſed me to growe in the lande of my trouble.

And when the ſeuen yeares of plenteouſnes that was in the lande of Egypte were ended, then came the ſeuen yeares of * derth * Act. vij. accordyng as Joſeph had ſayde. And ye derth was in all lãdes: but in all the lãde of Egypte was there yet foode. And when the lande of Egypt alſo began to hunger, the people cryed to Pharao for bread. And Pharao ſayde vnto all the Egyptyans, goo vnto Joſeph, and what he ſayth to you, that doo. And the derth was thorow out all the land. And Joſeph opened all that was in the cytes, and ſolde vnto the Egyptyans. For the hunger wared ſore in the lande of Egypte: And all cõtrees came to Egypte to Joſeph for to bye corne: becauſe that the hũger was ſo ſore in all landes.

¶ Joſephs brethren come into Egypte to bye corne. And he knoweth them and reproeth them. Symeon is put in priſon: the other retorne to their father to fetche Ben Jamin, hys father is lothe to let hym go: but at the laſt he graunteth it.

And Jacob

A Nd Jacob seynge ꝓ there was cozne in Egypt, sayde vnto hys sonnes: why gape ye one vpon another? And he sayd: beholde, I haue heard e that there is cozne in Egypte. * Gete you downe thyther & bye vs cozne from thence, that we maye lyue & not dye. So went Josephs ten brethren downe to bye cozne of the Egyptyans. But Ben Jamin Josephs brother wolde not Jacob sende with his other brethre, foz he sayd: lest some mysfoztune happen hym:

And the sonnes of Israel came to bye cozne amonge other that came, foz there was derth in the lande of Canaan. And Joseph was gouerner in the lande, and solde to all the people of the lande. And hys brethren came, and fel flat on the grounde before hym. B When Joseph sawe hys brethren, he knewe them: and made hym selfe straunge vnto them, and spake roughly vnto them, sayinge: Whence come ye? They answered: out of the lande of Canaan, to bye vytayle. And Joseph knewe hys brethren, but they knewe not hym.

And Joseph remembred his * dreames which he dreamed of them, and sayd vnto them: ye are spies, and to se where the lande is weake is youre compynge. And they sayd vnto him: nay my Lozde: but to bye vitayle thy seruauntes are come. We are all one mās sonnes, and meane truly, and thy seruauntes are no spyes. And he sayd vnto them agayne, nay, but euen to se where the lande is weake, is youre compynge. And they sayde: we thy seruauntes are .xii. brethren, the sonnes of one C man in the lande of Canaan. And beholde, the yongest is thys daye wyth oure father, and one, no man woteth where he is. And Joseph sayde vnto them, ꝓ is it that I spake vnto you, sayinge: ye are spyes. Here by ye shall be proued. By the lyfe of Pharao, ye shall not goo hence, excepte youre yongest brother come hyther. Sende out one of you whych maye fett youre brother, & ye shalbe kepte in preson, that youre wordes maye be pued, whether there be any trueth in you: oz els by the lyfe of Pharao, ye are but spies. And he put them in warde thre dayes.

And Joseph sayde vnto them the thyrde daye: Thys doo and lyue, foz I feare God. If ye meane no hurte, let one of youre brethren be bounde in the house of youre preson, and goo ye bzynge the necessarye foode vnto youre housholdes, but bzynge youre yongest brother vnto me: that your wordes maye be tryed, and that ye dye not. And they dyd so.

D And one sayde to another: we haue verely synned agaynst oure brother, in that we sawe the angwyth of hys soull when he besought vs, & we wolde nat heare him: and therfoze is thys troubyll come vpon vs. And Ruben answered them sayinge: sayde I not vnto you that ye shulde not * synne agaynst the lad, and ye wolde not heare. And see, hys bloude is requyred. They were not aware that Joseph vnderstode them, foz he spake vnto them by an interpreter. And he turned from them & wepte * and turned to them agayne, and comened with them, & toke out Symeon from amonge the, and bownde hym before theyr eyes, and Joseph cōmaunded to fyll theyr sackes wyth cozne, and to put euery mans money in hys sacke, and to geue them vytayle to spende by the waye. And thus dyd he vnto the. And they laded theyr asses wyth the cozne and departed thence. And as one of them opened hys sacke, foz to geue hys asse prauender in the Inne, he spyed hys money: foz it was in hys sackes mouth. And he sayde vnto hys brethren: my money is restored me agayne: Foz lo, it is euen in my sacke. And theyr harte fayled them, and they were astonyed, and sayde one to another: why hath God dealt thus wyth vs? And E they came vnto Jacob theyr father vnto the lande of Canaan, and tolde hym all that had happened them, sayinge: The man, euen the Lozde of the lande spake roughly to vs, and toke vs foz spyes of the coūtre. And we sayd vnto him: we meane truely & are no spyes. We be .xii. brethren, sonnes of oure father, one is awaye, and the yongest is thys daye wyth oure father in the lande of Canaan. And the Lozde of the countre sayde agayne vnto vs: here by shall I knowe yf ye meane truly: leaue one of youre brethren here with me, and take foode necessary foz youre housholdes and get you awaye, & bzynge youre yongest brother vnto me, that I maye knowe that ye are no spyes, but meane truely: So wyll I delyuer you youre brother, & ye shall occupye in the lande.

And it foztuned as they emptyed theyr sackes, beholde: euery mans bundell of money was in his sacke. And whē both they & their F father sawe the būdells of money, they were afrayde.

And Jacob theyr father sayde vnto them: Bye haue ye robbed of my chyldren: Joseph is awaye, and Symeon is awaye, and ye take Ben Jamin awaye. All these thynges are agaynst me. Ruben sayde vnto hys father: Slee my two sonnes, yf I bzynge hym not to the agayne. Delyuer hym to my hande, and I wyll bzynge hym to the agayne: And he sayde: my sonne shall not go downe wyth you. Foz hys brother is dead, & he is left alone. If some mysfoztune happen vnto him by the waye which ye go, yet shall * bzynge my gray head with sozowe vnto the graue.

But yf thou wylt not sende hym, we wyll not goo downe: for the mā sayde vnto vs: loke that ye se not my face, excepte youre brother be wyth you. And Israel sayde: wherfore delt ye so cruelly wyth me, as to tell the man that ye had yet a brother? They answered: The mā asked vs straytly of oure kynred sayinge, is youre father yet alyue? haue ye not another brother? And we tolde hym accordynge to these wordes. Could we knowe ꝑ he wolde saye: bringe your brother downe with you? Than sayde Juda vnto Israel hys father: Sende the lade with me, that we maye ryse & goo, & that we maye lyue & not dye: both we, thou & also oure childzen. ¶ The.xlvij Chapter.

¶ Jacob cometh before Pharao: and vnto hym is geuen the lande of Golan. He maketh hys sonne to swere for hys buryall.

Joseph came therfore and tolde Pharao and sayde: my father and my brethrē, theyr shepe and their oxen and all that they haue, are come out of the lande of Canaan, and beholde, they are in the lande of Golan. And Joseph toke of the hynmost of hys brethren: euen fyue men, and presented them vnto Pharao. And pharao sayde vnto hys brethren: what is youre occupacyon? And they answered Pharao: shepherdes are thy seruauntes, both we & also oure fathers. They sayde moreouer vnto Pharao: for to * sogeorne in the lande are we come, for thy seruauntes haue no pasture for theyr shepe, so sore is the famesshment in the lāde of Canaan. Nowe therfore let thy seruauntes dwell in the lande of Golan.

And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: thy father and thy brethren are come vnto the. The lād of Egypte is before the: In the best place of the lande make both thy father and thy brethren dwell: euen in the lande of Golan let them dwell. Moreouer yf thou knowe any men of actiuite amonge them, make them ruelars ouer my catell. And Joseph brought in Jacob hys father, and sett hym before Pharao. And Jacob ☞ blessed Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto Jacob: howe olde art thou? Jacob sayde vnto Pharao: ☞ the dayes of my pilgremage are an hundred and. xxx. yeares. Fewe & euell haue the dayes of my lyfe bene, and haue not attayned vnto the yeares of the lyfe of my fathers in the dayes of theyr pilgremages. And Jacob ☞ blessed Pharao, and went out from hym. And Joseph prepared dwellynges for hys father and hys brethren, and gaue them possessyons in the land of Egypte, in the best of the lande: euen in the lande of Rameses, as Pharao had commaunded. And Joseph made prouisyon for hys father, hys brethren & all his fathers housholde wyth bread, euen as yonge chyldren are fedd.

There was no bread in all the lande, for the derth was exceadynge sore: so that the lande of Egypte and the lande of Canaan, were famesshed by the reason of the derth. And Joseph brought together all the money that was founde in the lande of Egypte and of Canaan, for the corne whych they boughte: and he layde vp the money in Pharaos house. When money fayled in the lande of Egypte & of Canaan, all the Egypcyans came vnto Joseph and sayde: geue vs bred: wherfore suffrest thou vs to dye before the D whan oure money is spent? Then sayde Joseph: bringe youre catell, & I wyll geue yow for your catell, yf ye be without money. And they brought theyr catell vnto Joseph. And Joseph gaue them bread for horses & shepe, and oxen, and asses, and fed the wyth bread for all theyr catell that yeare.

But when that yeare was ended, they came vnto hym the nexte yeare, & sayde vnto him: we will not hyde it from my Lord how y oure money is spent, my Lord also had our catell & beastes, neyther is there ought left in the syght of my Lorde, but euen oure bodies and our lãdes. Wherfore letest thou vs dye before thyne eyes, & the lande to goo to nought? by vs & our lãdes for bread: & both we and oure landes will be bõde to Pharao. Onely geue vs seed, that we maye lyue and not dye, & that the lande goo nat to wast.

E And so Joseph bought all the lãd of Egypte for Pharao. For y Egypcians solde euery man hys lande because the derth was sore vpon thẽ: & so the lãde became & Pharaos. And he appoynted the people vnto y cytes, frõ one syde of Egypte vnto the other: only the lande of the prestes bought he not. For the prestes had an ordinaunce of Pharao, y they shulde eate that which was appoynted vnto thẽ: which Pharao had geuẽ thẽ wherfore they solde not theyr landes.

Thẽ Joseph sayde vnto the folke: beholde I haue boughte you thys daye & youre lãde for Pharao. Take there bread & sede & sowe the lãd. And of the encreace, ye shall geue the fyfte parte vnto Pharao, & .iiij. partes shalbe youre awne, for sede of the feld: & for you, and them of youre houshoulders, and for youre chyldren, to eate. And they answered: Thou haste saued oure lyues. Let vs fynde grace in the syghte of my Lord, & we wyll be Pharaos seruaũtes. And Joseph made it a lawe ouer the lande of Egypte vnto thys daye: that Pharao shulde haue the fyfte parte, excepte the lande of the prestes only, whych was not Pharaos.

And Israel dwelt in Egypte: euen in the coũtre of Golan. And they had theyr possessyons therin, & grewe and multiplied exceadyngly. Wherouer, Jacob lyued in the lande of Egypte .xvij. yeares, so that the hole age of Jacob was an hundred and .xlvij. yeare.

G When the tyme drewe nye, y Israel must dye: he sent for his sonne Joseph, & sayde vnto hym: If I haue foũde grace in thy syghte, oh, put thy hande nowe vnder my thye, and deale mercyfully and truely wt me, that thou burye me not in Egypte: but I will lye with my fathers, and thou shalt carye me out of Egypte, & burye me in theyr buryall. And he answered: I wyll do as thou hast sayd. And he sayde * swere vnto me. And he sware vnto hym. And Israel, & wozshypped toward the bedds head. * Gen.xl. D

And Israel behelde Josephs sonnes and sayde: what are these? Joseph sayd vnto his father: they are my sonnes which God hath geuẽ me here. And he sayde: oh, bringe them to me, & let me bielsse thẽ. And the eyes of Israel were dymme for age, so y he coulde not well see. And he brought them to hym, and he kyssed them and embraced them. And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: I had not thought to haue sene thy face, ãd yet loo, God hath shewed it me and also thy seed. And Joseph toke them awaye from his lappe, & wozshypped on the grounde before hym. C

Israels ryghte hande, & brought them vnto hym. And Israel stretched out hys ryghte & handes & layde it vpon Ephraims heade which was the ponger, & hys lyfte hãde vpõ Manasses heed, gydinge hys handes wysely, for Manasses was the elder. And he blessed Joseph & sayde: God, before whome my fathers Abraham & Isahac dyd walke, God whych hath fedd me all my lyfe longe vnto thys daye, And the angell whych hath delyuered me from all cuyll, bielle these laddes: & let my name be named in them, & the name of my fathers Abrahã & Isahac, & that they maye growe into a multitude in the mydes of the erth.

When Joseph sawe that hys father layde hys ryghte hãde vpon ỹ heade of Ephraim, it displeased him. And he lyfte vp his fathers hande, to haue remoued it from Ephraims
D heade vnto Manasses heade, & Joseph sayde vnto hys father: Not so my father, for thys is the eldest. Put thy ryght hande vpon hys heade. And hys father wolde not, but sayde: I knowe it well my sonne, I knowe it well. He shalbe also a people & shalbe great. But hys ponger brother shalbe greatter than he, and hys seed shall be full of people. And he blessed them that daye and sayde: In the let Israel bielle & saye: God make ỹ as Ephraim and as Manasses. And sett Ephraim before Manasses.

And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: beholde, I dye. And God shalbe wyth you and bryng you agayne vnto ỹ lãde of youre fathers. Moreouer I haue geuen vnto the, a porcyõ boke of Moses: called in the hebrue, Bereschyth, and in the Latyn, Genesis.

¶ The end of the fyrst

¶ The second boke of Moses called in the Hebrue: Ueelleh Schemoth: And in the Latin, Exodus.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ The chyldren of Jacob are nombred. The newe Pharao oppresseth them. The acte of the godly mydwiues.

THese are the names of the childzen of Jsrael, whych came to Egypte wyth Jacob, euery man came wt hys houshold: Rubē, Simeō, Leui, and Juda, Jsachar zabulon, and Beniamin, Dan, Nephtali, Gad and Aser. All the soules þ came out of the loynes of Jacob were.lxx. But Joseph was in Egypte allredie. And Joseph dyed and all hys brethren and all that generacyon, and the * chyldren of Jsrael grewe, encreased, multiplyed, ād warred exceadinge myghtye: and the lande was full of them.

But there rose vp a newe kynge in Egypte wyych knewe not Joseph. And he sayde vnto his folke: beholde, the people of þ chyldrē of Jsrael are greater and myghtyer than we. Come on, let vs playe wisely wyth thē, lest they multiplye, & lest it happen, that (yf there chaunce any warre) they ioyne thē selues vnto oure enemyes and fyghte agaynst vs, and so gete them out of the lande.

Therfore dyd they sette taskmasters ouer them, to kepe them vnder wt burthens. And they bylte vnto Pharao treasurecities: Phiton and Rameses. But the more they vexed thē, the moare they multiplyed and grewe, so that they abhorred the chyldren of Jsrael. And the Egyptiās helde the chyldren of Jsrael in bondage without mercye. Therfore was their lyfe bytter vnto thē in that cruell bondage, in claye & bryche, and all maner of worke i þ felde. For all their bōdage which they serued them, was full of tyrannye.

And the kynge of Egypte sayde vnto the mydwiues of the Hebruel women, of which the ones name was Sephora and the other Phua: when ye do the office of a mydwife to the women of the Ebrues and se in the byrth tyme that it is a boye, ye shall kyll it. But yf it be a daughter, it shall lyue. Not withstondynge the mydwiues feared God and dyd not as the kynge of Egypte cōmaunded them: but saued the men chyldren.

And the kynge of Egypte called for the mydwiues and sayde vnto them: why haue ye delt on thys maner, and haue saued the menchyldren? And the mydwiues answered Pharao, that the Hebrues wemen are not as the wemen of Egypte: for they are sturdie women, and are delyuered yer the mydwyues come at thē. And God therfore delt well with the mydwyues. And the people multiplyed and waxed very myghtye. And it fortuned because the mydwyues feared God, & he made them houses.

And Pharao charged all hys people, sayinge: All the menchyldren that are borne, cast into the ryuer, and saue the maydechyldren alyue.

¶ The seconde Chapter.

¶ Moses is borne and cast into the flagges. He is take vp of Pharaos daughter. He kylleth þ Egyptian. He fleeth and marryeth a wyfe. The Jsraelites crye vnto the Lorde.

ANd ther went a mā of * the house of Leui. And toke a daughter of Leui. And the wyfe conceaued and bare a sonne. And when she sawe that it was a proper chylde * she hyd hym thre monethes. And when she coulde no longer hyde him, she toke a basket of bulrusshes and dawbed it with slyme and pytche, and layde the chylde therin, and put it in the flagges by the ryuers brynke. And his sister stode a farre of, to wete what wold come of it. ‡ And the daughter of Pharao came doune * to washe herselfe in the ryuer, and hyr maydens walked alonge by the ryuers syde. And when she sawe the basket amonge þ flagges, she sent hyr mayde to fetch it. And when she had opened it, she sawe it was a chylde: and beholde, the babe wepte. And she had compassyon on it, and sayde: it is one of the Hebrues chyldren. Then sayde hys syster vnto Pharaos daughter: shall I go and call vnto the a nurse of the Hebrues wemen, to nurse the, the chylde? Pharaos daughter answered her: Goo. And the mayde ranne and called the chyldes mother. To whom Pharaos daughter sayde: Take thys chylde awaye, and nurse it for me, I will rewarde the. And the woman toke the chylde, and nursed it vp.

The chylde grewe, & she brought it vnto Pharaos daughter, & it was made hyr sōne, & she called the name of it Moses, because (sayde she) I toke him out of þ water. And it happened in those dayes, when Moses was waxed wared great, that he went out vnto his brethren and loked on their burdens, & spied an Egyptian smytynge an Hebrue whych was me to Raguel their father, he sayde: howe happeneth it ꝓ ye are come so soone to daye?

And they answered: a man of Egypte delyuered vs frõ the hande of the shepardes, and so drewe vs water, & watered the shepe. He sayde vnto hys daughters. And wher is he?
why haue ye so lefte the man? Call hym that he maye eate bread. And Moses was cõtent pp (And she bare yet another sonne, whom he called Eliezer, sayinge: the God of my father is myne helper, and hath ꝓ me out of the handes of Pharao.)

And it chaunced in processe of tyme, that the kynge of Egypte dyed, and the chyldren of Israel syghed by the reason of bondage, and cryed. And their cõplaynt came vp vnto God from the bõdage: and God hearde their mone. And God remembred hys promyse

And she sayde a bloudy husbande, because of the circumcysion. Then sayde the Lorde vnto Aaron: go vnto Moses in the wilderneße. And he went and met hym in the mount of God, and kyssed him. And Moses tolde Aaron all the wordes of the Lorde which had sent him, and all the tokens which he had charged him with all. So went Moses & Aaron and gathered all the elders of the childre of Israel. And Aaron tolde all the wordes whych the Lorde had spoken vnto Moses, and dyd the myracles in the syght of the people, and the people beleued. And whē they herde that the Lorde had visited the children of Israel and had loked vpon their tribulacyon, they bowed their head, and worshypped.

¶The.v.Chapter.

¶ Moses & Aaron goeth vnto Pharao. The people of Israel are oppressed more and more, & they crye out vpon Moses & Aaron therfore.

AMoses & Aaron went in after warde, and tolde Pharao, thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: Let my people goo, that they maye kepe holye daye vnto me in the wilderneße. And Pharao sayde: who * is ỹ Lorde, that I shulde heare hys voyce, & let Israell goo? I knowe not the Lorde, nether will I let Israel goo. And they sayde: the God of the hebrewes hath mett with vs: and therfore wyll we go. iij. dayes iourney into the deserte, and sacrifyce vnto the Lorde oure God: lest there happen vnto vs ether pestylence or swerde. Then sayde the kynge of Egypte vnto them: wherfore do ye, Moses and Aaron let the people from their worke, get you vnto your labour. And Pharao sayde furthermore: beholde, there is moche people nowe in the lande, and ye make them leaue their worke.

And Pharao commaūded the same daye vnto the taskemasters which were amonge the people, and vnto the officers, sayinge: ye shall geue the people no more strawe, to make brycke wyth all, (as ye dyd in tyme passed.) let them goo and gather them strawe them selues and the nombre of brycke whyche they were wont to make in tyme passed, laye vnto their charges also, and mynyſh not ought therof. For they be ydell and therfore crye sayinge: we wyll goo & do sacrifyce vnto oure God. They must haue more worke layed vpon them, that they maye laboure therin, & not regarde vayne wordes.

Than went the taskemasters of the people and the officers out: and tolde the people Thus sayeth Pharao: I wyll geue you no more strawe, goo your selues and gather you strawe where ye can fynde it, yet shall none of youre labour be minyſhed. And so were ỹ people scatered abrode thorowe out all the lande of Egypte for to gather stubbyll in stead of strawe.

And the taskemasters hasted them forward sayinge: fulfyll youre worke daye by daye, euen as yf ye had strawe. And the officers of the children of Israel whych Pharaos taskemasters had sett ouer them, were beate. And they sayde vnto them: wherfore haue ye not fulfylled youre taske in makinge brycke, both yester daye and to daye, as well as in tymes past?

The officers also of the childre of Israel came & complayned vnto Pharao, sayinge: wherfore dealeſt thou thus wyth thy seruauntes? there is no strawe geue vnto thy seruauntes, and they saye vnto vs: make brycke. And thy seruauntes are beaten, and thy people is foule intreated. He sayde: ydell ar ye, ydell, and therfore ye saye: We wyll goo and do sacrifyce vnto the Lorde. Goo therfore nowe and worke, and ther shall no strawe be geuen you, and yet shall ye delyuer the hole tale of brycke.

And the officers of the children of Israel dyd wyth beuynes loke on them that sayde: ye shall mynyſhe nothynge of youre dayly makynge of brycke. And they mett Moses and Aarō, which stode in there waye as they came out frō Pharao, & sayde vnto thē: The Lorde loke vnto you and iudge you, whych hath made the sauoure of vs stincke in ỹ eyes of Pharao & in the eyes of his seruaūtes, and haue put a swerde in their hande to slee vs.

Moses returned vnto the Lorde & sayde: Lorde wherfore hast thou dealte cruelly wt this people: and wherfore hast thou sent me? For sence I came to Pharao to speake in thy name, he hath fared foule wyth thys folke, and yet thou hast not delyuered thy people at all. Then the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Nowe shalt thou see, what I wyll doo vnto Pharao, for in a mygbtye hande shall he let them goo, and * in a mygbtye hande shall he dryue them out of hys lande.

Or els, yf (ye thou do refuse:) and wylt not let my people go, behold, to morow will

And Pharaos seruaūtes sayd vnto him: Howe longe shall he be a slaunder vnto vs? Let the mē go, that they maye serue ꝑ Lorde their God: knowest thou not yet ꝑ Egipt is destroied? And Moses & Aarō were brought agayne vnto Pharao, and he sayde vnto them: Go, and serue the Lorde youre God. Who are they that shall go? And Moses answered: we will go with oure yonge and with our olde: yee, and with our sonnes and with oure daughters, and with oure shepe, and with oure oxen we must go. For we must holde a feaste vnto the Lorde.

And he sayde vnto them: let it be so. The C Lorde be with you. When I let you go, and your childrē also take hede, for ye haue some mischefe in hande. Naye, not so: but go they that are men, and serue the Lorde: for that was your desyre. And they thrust them out of Pharaos presence.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Stretch out thyne hande ouer the lande of Egipt for grehoppers, that they maye come vpō the lande of Egipt, and eate all the herbes of ꝑ lande, & all that the hayle left behynde. And Moses stretched forth his rod ouer the lāde of Egipt: & the Lorde brought an east winde vpon the lande, all that daye, and all that

Of this maner shall ye eate it: with your

And ye shall eate it in haste: for it is the Lordes passeouer: ℣ for I wyll passe thorowe the lande of Egipt this same nyght, and wyll smytte all the first borne in the land of Egipt, both of man and beaste, and vpon all the goddes of Egipt will I the Lord do execution. And the blonde shalbe vnto you a token in ỹ houses wherin ye are. And when I se the blond, I will passe ouer you, and the plage shal not be vpon you to destroye you, when I smyte the lande of Egipte.

And this daye shalbe vnto you a remembraunce: and ye shall kepe it holy vnto the Lorde, euen thorow out youre generacyons shall ye kepe it holy daie, that it be a custome for euer. ℣ Seuen dayes shall ye eat vnleuended bread: and the fyrste daye ye shall put away leuen out of youre houses. For whosoeuer eateth leuended bread from the fyrst daye vntill the seuenth daye, that soule shalbe plucked out frõ Israel. ℣ The fyrste daye shalbe an holy conuocation, and the seuenth daye shalbe an holy conuocation vnto you. There shalbe no maner of worcke done in them, saue about that onely which euery man must eate, that onely maye ye do. And ye shall obserue vnleuended bread. For this same daye haue I brought your armyes out of the lande of Egypte, therfore ye shall obserue this daye, ỹ all your childrẽ after you, by a custome for euer. ℣ The fyrst moneth and the .xiiij. daye of the moneth at euen, ye shall eate swete bread vnto the .xxj. daye of the moneth at euen agayne. Seuen dayes shall there be no leuended breade founde in youre houses. Ye shall eate nothyng leuended: but in all your habitations shall ye eate swete bread.

Moses called for the elders of Israel, and sayde vnto them: chose out and take you to euery housholde of you a shepe, and kyll it for passeouer. And take a bunche of yssope, ỹ dyp it in the blonde that is in the basen, and stryke the vpperposte and the two syde postes with the blond that is in the basen, and none of you go out at the doze of hys house, vntyll the morowyng. For the Lorde will go about to smyte the Egipcians. And whẽ he seeth the blonde vpon the vpper doze poste ỹ on the two side postes: he will passe ouer the doze, and will not suffer ỹ destroyer to come into your house to plage you. Therfore shall ye obserue this thing, that it be an ordinaũce both to the and thy sonnes for euer.

And whẽ ye become into the land which the Lorde wyll geue you, accordynge as he hath promysed, ye shall kepe thys seruyce.

℣ And when youre chyldren aske you what maner of seruyce is this ye do, ye shall saye: it is the sacrifyce of the Lordes passeouer, which passed ouer the houses of the childrẽ of Israel in Egipte, as he smote the Egyptcians, and saued oure houses. And the people bowed them selues, and worshypped: And the childrẽ of Israel wẽt, and dyd as the Lorde had commaunded Moses and Aaron. Euen so dyd they.

And at ℣ mydnight, the Lorde smote all the fyrst borne in the lande of Egipte, from the fyrst borne of Pharao that satte on hys seate, vnto the fyrst borne of the captyue ỹ was in prison: and all the fyrste gendred of catell. And Pharao arose in the nyghte, he and all his seruauntes and all the Egipciãs: ℣ and there was a greate cryinge in Egipt: for there was no house where there was not one dede.

And he called vnto Moses and Aaron by nyght, saying: ryse vp, and get you oute from amõge my people: both ye and also the childrẽ of Israel, and go and serue the Lorde as ye haue sayde. And take youre shepe and your bzoues with you as ye haue sayde, and departe and ℣ blesse me. And the Egyptcians were fierce vpon the people, that they myght sende them out of the lande in haste: for they sayde: we dye all.

And the people toke their dowgh before it was sowred, and theyr vitayles bounde in clothes vpon theyr shoulders. And the childrẽ of Israel dyd accordyng to the sayyng of Moses: and they borowed of the Egipcyãs ℣ iewelles of siluer, and iewelles of golde, and rayment. And the Lorde gaue the people fauoure in the syght of the Egipcians: so that they graũted soch thinges as they required. And they robbed the Egyptcians. And the ℣ childrẽ of Israel toke their iorneye from Rameses to Suchoth ℣ syxe hundred thousande men of fote, beside childrẽ. And moch comon people went also wt them, and shepe, and oxen, an exceadynge great flocke. And they baked swete cakes of ỹ dowgh which they brought out of Egipt, for it was not sowred. For when they were thrust oute by the Egipcyans, they coulde not tarie to prepare them selues any prouision of meate.

The dwellinge of the childrẽ of Israel, which they dwelled in Egipte, was ℣ .iiij. hundred and .xxx. yeares: and when the .iiij. hundred and .xxx. yeares were expired, euen the selfe same daye departed all the hoostes of the Lorde out of the lande of Egipt, It is a nyght to be obserued to the Lorde, in the which he brought them oute of the lande of Egypte. Thys is that nyghte of the Lorde which all the childrẽ of Israel muste kepe thorowout theyr generations.

And

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses and Aaron: This is the lawe of passeouer: there shall no straunger eate therof. But euery seruaunt that is bought for money (after that thou hast circumcised him) shall eate therof. A straunger and a hyerd seruaunt shall not eate therof. In one house shall it be eaten. Thou shalte carye none of the flesshe oute at the house. * Neyther shall ye breake a + bone therof. All the multitude shall obserue it.

If a straunger also dwell amonge you, & will holde passeouer vnto the Lorde, let him circumcyse all that be males: and then lett him come and obserue it, and he shall be as one that is borne in the lande. For no vncircumcised persone shall eate therof. One maner of lawe shalbe vnto him that is ☞ borne in the lande, and vnto the straunger that dwelleth amonge you. And all the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lorde cõmaunded Moses and Aaron. Euen so dyd they. And ỹ self same daye dyd the Lorde bring the chyldren of Israel out of the lãde of Egipt with their armyes.

¶ The .xiij. Chapter.

¶ The fyrst begotten must be sanctified vnto the Lord. The memoriall of theyr deliuerance. Why they were carryed thorowe the wildernes. The bones of Joseph. The pyller of the cloude.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: * Sãctify vnto me all the first borne, that open all maner matrices amonge the childzen of Israel as well of mã as of beaste: for it is myne. This shalbe a token vpon thyne hande, and a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, ỹ the Lorde brought vs out of Egipte thorowe a mighty hande.

It came to passe, that whan Pharao had lett the people go, God carryed them not thorowe the waye and lande of the Philistines, which was the more nye waye. But God sayde: lest the people happly repẽt whã they se warre: & so turne agayne to Egipte. But God led the people about thorowe the waye of the wildernes of the redd see. C The Israelites come into the desert of Sin. It rayneth quayles and Manna. They grudge.

The † childre of Israel came to Elim where were .xii. welles of water and .lxx. palme trees, and they abode there by the waters. And they toke their iorney from Elim: & all the hole cōpany of the childre of Israel came to the wildernes of Sin, which is betwene Elim and Synai: the .xv. day of the .ij. moneth after their departyng out of ꝑ lande of Egypt. And ꝑ hole multitude of the childre of Israel * murmured agaynst Moses and Aarō in the wyldernes: and the childre of Israel sayde vnto thē: wolde to God we had died by the hande of the Lorde in the lande of Egypte, when we sat by the flesshe pottes, and when we dyd eate bread our belyes full: for ye haue brought vs out into this wyldernes, to kyll thys hole multitude with honger.

Then sayde the Lorde vnto Moses: behold, I wyll rayne * bread frō heauē to you, and the people shall go out, and gather daye by daye that I may proue thē, whither they will walke in my lawe or no. The. vj. daye they shal prepare for thē selues ꝑ which they wyll bryng in, and let it be twise asmoch as they gather in dayly. And Moses & Aaron sayde vnto all the childre of Israel: at euen ye shall knowe that it is the Lorde, which brought you out of the lande of Egypt: and in the morning, ye shall se ☞ the glory of ꝑ Lorde: because he hath heard your grudgynges agaynst the Lorde. And what are we ꝑ ye haue murmured against vs? And Moses sayde: At euen shall ꝑ Lorde * geue you flesh to eate, and in the morning bread ynough:

for the Lorde hath heard your murmurynges which ye murmur agaynst hi: for what are we? your murmuringes are not against vs, but agaynst the Lorde.

And Moses spake vnto Aarō: Saye vnto all the company of the childzen of Israel, come forth before ꝑ Lorde: for he hath heard your grudgynges. And as Aaron spake vnto the hole multytude of the chyldzen of Israel, they loked toward the wildernes: and beholde, the glorye of the Lorde appeared in the cloude. ¶ And ꝑ Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: I haue heard the murmurynge of the chyldzen of Israel, tell them therfore and saye: at euen ye shall eate flesh, and in ꝑ morning ye shalbe fylled with breed, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord your God.

D And at euen the *quayles came and couered the grounde where they laye. And in ꝑ morninge, the dewe laye roūde about the hoste. And when ꝑ dewe was falle: beholde it laye vpon the grounde in the wyldernes, small & round and thyn as the hore frost on the grounde. And when the chyldzen of Israel sawe it, they sayde euery one to hys neyghboure: It is Mān. For they wist not what it was. And Moses sayde vnto the: this is ꝑ breed which the Lord hath geue you to eate. This is the worde which the Lorde hath cōmaūded: gather of it euery mā for him selfe to eate: a gomer full for a man accordyng to the nombre of you, and take euery mā for them which are in his tente.

And the chyldzen of Israel dyd euen so, & gathered some more, some lesse, and when they dyd mete it with a gomer, * vnto hym that had gathered moch, remayned nothing ouer, ād vnto him ꝑ had gathered litle, was there no lacke: euery man gathered sufficient for his eatyng. And Moses sayde vnto the: E De that no man let ought remayne of it tyll the morning. Notwithstondyng they harkened not vnto Moses: but some of the lefte of it vntyll the morning, and it wared full of wormes and stacke, and Moses was angry with them.

And they gathered it all morninges, euery man for hys eatynge. And assoone as the heate of the sunne came, it moulte. And the sixte day, they gathered twise so moch breed two gomers for one man: & all the rulers of the multitude came, & tolde Moses. He sayd vnto the: this is that which the Lorde hath sayde: tomorow is the rest of the holy Sabbath vnto the Lord: bake that which ye will bake, and seth that ye will seth, and ꝑ which F remayneth, laye vp tyll the morninge. And they layde it vp tyll the morninge, as Moses bad: and it stanke not, nether breed there any worme therin. And Moses sayde: eate thys daye: for it is the Sabbath vnto the Lorde: today ye shall not fynde it in the felde. Syxe dayes ye shall gather it, and in the seuēth daye which is the Sabbath, there shalbe none. Notwithstondyng, there went out some of the people in the seuēth daye for to gather, & they founde none. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: howe longe refuse ye to kepe my commaundmentes and my lawes? Se, the Lorde hath geuen you a Sabbath, therfore he geueth you the syxte daye bread for two dayes. Byde therfore euery man at home & lett no man go out of hys place the seuēth daye. And ꝑ people rested the seuenth daye. And ꝑ house of Israel called it Māna. * Nume.xi.b

* And it was lyke vnto coriander sede, whyte: and the taste of it was like vnto wafers made with hony. And Moses sayd: this is that which the Lorde commaundeth, fyll a gomer of it, which maye be kept for youre childzen after you: that they maye se ꝑ bread wherwith I haue fedd you in wyldernesse, whē I brought you out of ꝑ lande of Egipt. And Moses spake vnto Aaron: take a cruse and put a *gomer full of Māna therin, and laye it vp before the Lorde to be kepte for yo childzen after you, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. So Aaron layde it vp before ꝑ testimonye to be kept. * And the chyldzen of Israel dyd eate Manna fourtye yeare, vntyll they came vnto a lande inhabited. And so they dyd eate Māna euen vntyll they came vnto the borders of the land of Canaan. A gomer is the tenth part of an epha. * Deu.xi.b.f * G.Esd.xi.a Judith.v.b Josua.v.b

¶ The Israelites come into Raphidim. They grudge. Water is geuen the out of the rocke. Moses holdeth vp his hādes: & they ouercome the Amalechyter.

AND all the company of the chyldzen of Israel thorowout their armies went from the wyldernes of Sin after the commaundement of the Lorde, and pytched in * Raphidim: where was no water for the people to drincke. And the people chode with Moses, and sayde: geue vs water to drincke. Moses sayde vnto them: why chyde ye with me? wherfore do ye tempte the Lorde? There the people thirsted for water, and the people murmured agaynst Moses, & sayde: * wherfore hast thou thus brought vs oute of Egipte: to kyll vs and oure chyldzen and B catell with thyrste? * Nume.xx.a

And Moses cryed vnto ꝑ Lorde, saying: what shall I do vnto thys people? they be allmoost ready to stone me. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: go before the people, and take w the of the elders of Israel, & thy rod wherwith ꝑ smotest the ryuer, take in thyne hande, and go. Beholde, * I stonde before ꝑ before a rocke that is in Horeb: & thou shalt smyte the rocke, and there shall come water out therof, that the people maye drynck. * pſ.lxxviij.b 1.Cor.x.a Deut.xi.b

* And Moses dyd euē so before the eyes of the elders of Israel. And he called ꝑ name of the * Nume.xx.a C of the place * Masse and + Meriba. because of the chydynge of the childzen of Israel, and because they tempted the Lorde, sayinge: is ꝑ Lorde amonge vs or not?

Then came Amalech and fought with Israel in Raphidim. And Moses sayde vnto Josua: chose vs oute men, and goo fyghte with Amalech. And tomorow I will stonde on the toppe of the hyll, and the rodd of God shalbe in my hande. Josua did as Moses bade hym, & fought with Amalech. And Moses, and Aaron, & Hur went vp to the toppe of the hyll. And it happened, that whē * Moses helde vp his hande, Israel had the better. And when he late hys hande downe, Amalech had the better.

But Moses handes were heuye, and therfore they toke a stone and put it vnder hym, and he satt downe there on. And Aaron and Hur stayed vp his handes, the one on the one syde and the other on the other syde. And hys handes remayned stedye vntyll the goynge downe of the sonne. And Josua discomfited Amalech and hys people, with the edge of the swerde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: write this for a remembraunce in a boke, and cōmite it vnto the eares of Josua, for * I will vtterly put out the remembraunce of Amalech from vnder heauen. And Moses made an alter and called the name of it. ☞ The Lorde is he that worketh myracles for me. For he sayde: the hāde is on the seate of God the Lorde wyll haue warre with Amalech from generacyon to generacyon.

¶ The .xviii. Chapter.

¶ Jethros councell is receaued of Moses.

JEthro the preest of Madiam Moses father in lawe herde of all that God had done for Moses and for Israell hys people, and that the Lord had broughte Israel out of Egypte. * Therfore he toke Zephora Moses wyfe, (After he had sente her backe) and hyr two sonnes, of which the one was called * Gerson, for he sayd: I haue bene an alient in a straunge lande. The name of the other was Eliesar: for the God of my father (sayde he) was myne helpe, and delyuered me frō the swerde of Pharao. And Jethro Moses father in lawe came with his two sonnes & his wyfe vnto Moses into the wildernesse: where he abode by the mount of God. And he sayde vnto Moses: I thy father in lawe Jethro am come to the, and thy wyfe also and hyr two sonnes with her. And Moses went oute to mete hys father in lawe and dyd obeysaunce and kyssed hym and eache asked other of hys health, and they came into the tent. And Moses tolde hys father in lawe all that the Lorde had done vnto Pharao and to the Egyptians for Israels sake, and all the trauayle that had happened them by the waye, and howe the Lorde delyuered them. And Jethro reioyced ouer all the goodnesse whyche the Lorde had done to Israell, and because he had delyuered them out of the hāde of the Egyptians. And Jethro sayde: blessed be the Lorde whiche hath delyuered you oute of the hande of the Egyptians and out of the hande of Pharao, which hath also delyuered hys people from the captyuite of the Egyptians. Nowe I knowe that the Lorde is greater then all goddes, for in the thynge wherby they dealt cruelly wyth them, are they them selues peryshed. And Jethro Moses father in lawe offred burntofferynges and sacrifyces vnto God. And Aaron and all the elders of Israel came to eate breade wyth Moses father in lawe before God.

And it chaunced on the morow, that Moses satt to iudge the people, and the people stode aboute Moses from morynge vnto euen. And whā Moses father in lawe sawe all that he did vnto the people, he sayd: what is this that thou doest vnto the people? why sytteste thou thy selfe alone, and all the people stonde aboute the from morynge vnto euen? And Moses sayde vnto hys father in lawe: because the people come vnto me to seke councell of God. When they haue a matter, they come vnto me, and I iudge betwene euery man and hys neyghboure, and shewe them the ordynaunces of God and hys lawes.

And Moses father in lawe sayd vnto him: it is not well that thou doest. Thou both weryest thy selfe, and thys people that is wt the: for thys thynge is of moze weyght, then * thou art able to perfourme thy selfe alone. Heare nowe therfore my voyce, and I wyll geue the councell, and God shalbe with the. Be thou vnto the people to Godwarde, that thou mayest bringe the causes vnto God, and thou shalt teache them ordinaunces and lawes, and shewe them the waye wherin they must walke, and the worke that they must doo. Moreouer thou shalt seke oute amonge all the people, men of actiuite, and such as feare God: true men, hatynge couetousnes: and make them heedes ouer the people, captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hũdredes, ouer fyftye and ouer ten. And let thẽ iudge the people at all seasons. And euery

* Deut.i.c. * greate matter that happeneth, let them bringe vnto the, but let them iudge all small causes them selues, and so shall it be easyer for thy selfe, and they shall bere with the. If thou shalt do thys thinge, (and God charge the with all) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet the people shall come to theyr place in peace.

And so Moses obeyed the voyce of hys father in lawe, and did all that he had sayde, and chose actyue men oute of all Israel and made them as heedes ouer the people: namely, captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyfty and ouer ten. And they iudged the people at all seasons, but broughte ꝑ harde causes vnto Moses: and iudged all small matters them selues. And Moses let hys father in lawe departe, and he went in to hys awne lande.

Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and layde before theyr faces all these wordes which the Lorde commaũded hym. And the people answered all to gether, and sayde. * All that the Lorde hath sayde, we wyll doo. And Moses brought the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Lo, I come vnto the in a thycke cloud, ꝑ the people maye heare me talkynge with the, and beleue the for euer. Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde. * xro.xviii.d Deute..b.b. and.xxvi.d.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: Go vnto the people, and ☞ sanctifye them to daye and to morowe, and let them wash theyr clothes: & be redy agaynst the thyrde daye. For the thyrde daye the Lorde wyll come downe in the syght of all the people vpon mounte Sinay. And thou shalt set markes rounde aboute the people and saye: beware, that ye go not vp into the mounte, or touche the bordze of it. Whosoeuer toucheth the * mounte, * Heb. xii.c. shall surely dye. There shall not an hande touch it: Els he shall be stoned or shot thorowe: whether it be beast or man, it shall not lyue: when the trompe bloweth longe, than maye they come vp into the mountayne.

And Moses went downe from the moũte vnto the people, and sanctifyed them, and they washed theyr clothes. And he sayd vnto the people: be redye agaynst the thyrde daye, and ☞ come not at youre wyues. And the thyrde daye in the mornynge there was thunder, and lyghtenynge, and a thycke clowde vpon the mounte, and the voyce of the trompe exceadynge lowde, so that all the people that was in the hoste was afrayed. And Moses brought the people oute of the tentes to mete with God, and they * stode * Deu. iiii.b. vnder the hyll.

And mounte Sinay was all to gether on a smoke: because the Lorde descended downe vpon it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascended vp, as the smoke of a kele, and all the mount was exceadyng fearfull. And whan the voyce of the trompe blewe and warred lowder and lowder Moses spake, & God answered hi by a voyce. And the Lorde came downe vpon mounte Sinay, euen in the toppe of the hyll, and whan the Lord called Moses vp into the toppe of the hyll. Moses went vp.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: go downe: charge the people, that they preasse not vp to se the Lorde, and so many of them perish. And let the preastes also whych come to the Lorde sanctifye them selues, lest the Lorde destroye them. And Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: the people cannot come vp into the mounte Sinay, for thou chargedest vs saying: set markes aboute the hyll, and sanctifie it. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: awaye, and get the downe: and thou shalt come vp, thou and Aaron with the. But let not the not the Prestes and the people presume for to come vp vnto the Lorde: lest he destroye the. And so Moses went downe vnto the people and tolde them.

¶ The.xxviij. Chapter.

¶ Aarons apparell and hys sonnes.

AND take thou vnto the Aaaron thy brother and hys sonnes wt him, from amonge the chyldren of Israel, that they maye minister vnto me. Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, Aarons sonnes. And thou shalt make holy rayment for Aaron thy brother, that they maye be vnto glory and bewtye. And thou shalt speake vnto all that are wise harted, and whomsoeuer I haue filled with the spriete of wysdome: that they make Aarons rayment to consecrate him with, ꝑ he maye minyster vnto me.

These are the garmẽtes which they shall make, a brestlap, Ephod, a tunycle, a strayte cote, a miter and a gyrdell. These holy garmentes shall they make for Aaron thy brother and his sonnes, that they maie minister B vnto me. And lett them take golde, yelowe silk, purple, skarlet and whyte twyned silk. They shall make the Ephod of gold, yelow sylke, purple, skarlet and whyte twyned silke with broderd worke. The two sydes shal come together, and be cloied vp in the two edges therof. And the gyrdell of the Ephod shalbe of the same workmanship, and of the same stuffe, euen of golde, yelow sylke, purple, skarlet and whyte twyned sylke.

And thou shalt take two onix stones, and graue in them the names of the chyldren of Israel: syxe names of them in the one stone, and the other syxe in the other stone: accordynge to ye (the order of) their byrth. After the gc worke of a stonegrauer, and of him that graueth signettes shalt thou graue the two stones with the names of the childrẽ of Israel, and shalt make them to be set in golde. And thou shalt put the two stones vpon the two shoulders of the Ephod, that they maye be stones of remembraunce vnto the childrẽ of Israel. And Aaron shall beare their names before the Lorde vpon hys two shoulders C for a remembraunce. And thou shalt make bokes of golde & two cheynes of fyne golde: linkworke and wrethed, and fasten the wrethed cheynes to the bokes.

And thou shalt make the brestlap of iudgement with broderd worke, euen after the worke of the Ephod shalt thou make it: namely of golde, yelow sylke, purple, skarlet, and whyte twyned silke, shalt thou make it. Foure square it shalbe and double, an hande brede longe, and an handbrede broade. And thou shalt fill it with foure rowes of stones. In the first rowe shalbe a Sardions, a Topas, and Smaragdus: in the second rowe, a Ruby, Saphir and Diamond: in the thyrde Lygurios, an Achat, & Amatist: in ꝑ fourth a Turcas, Onix and Jaspis. And they shall be set in golde in their inclosers. And the stones shalbe grauen as sygnettes be grauen wt the names of the childrẽ of Israel, euẽ with twelue names, euery one with his name accordyng to the twelue tribes.

And thou shalt make vpon the brestlapp D two fastenyng cheynes of pure golde & wrethen worke. And thou shalt make lykewyse vpon the brestlap two rynges of golde: and put them on the edges of the brestlap, and put the two wrethen cheynes of golde in the two rynges which are in the edges of ꝑ brestlappe. And the other two endes of the two cheynes, thou shalt fastẽ in two close bokes, and put thẽ vpon the shulders of the Ephod on the foresyde of it. And thou shalt yet make two rynges of golde, which thou mayest put in the two edges of the brestlappe, euen in the borders therof, towarde the insyde of the Ephod oueragenst it. And yet two other ringes of golde thou shalt make: and put thẽ on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth oueragaynst the brestlap, alowe where the sydes are ioyned together vpon the brodered gyrdell of the Ephod. And they shall bynde the brestlappe by hys rynges vnto the ringes of the Ephod with a lace of yelow silke, that it maye lye closse aboue the brodered gyrdell of the Ephod, and that the brestlap be not losed from the Ephod.

And Aaron shall beare the names of the E chyldren of Israel in the brestlapp of iudge-

ment vpon his hert, when he goeth into the holy place for a remembraunce before the Lorde allwaye. And thou shalte put in the ☞ brestlappe of iudgement ☞ Urim and Thumin: and they shalbe euen vpon Arons hert, whē he goeth in before the Lord: and Aaron shall beare the iudgement of the childzen of Israel vpon his herte before the Lorde allwaye.

And thou shalt make the tunycle vnto the Ephod altogether of yelow sylke. And ther shalbe an hole for the heed in the myddes of it, hauyng a bonde of wouen worke rounde about the coler of it (as it were the coller of a partlet) that it rent not. ¶ The.xxxvi. Chapter.

AND * Bezaleel wrought, & Aholiab and all wyse harted me, to whom the Lorde gaue wysdome and vnderstādynge, to knowe howe to worcke all maner worke for the seruyce of the Sanctuary, and all that the Lorde had commaunded. And Moses called Bezaleel, Aholiab and all the wyse herted men and soche as the Lorde had geuen wysdome vnto, and as many as theyr hartes cowraged to come vnto that worcke to worcke it. And they receaued of Moses all the present, whyche the chyldren of Israell had brought for the worcke of the seruyce of the Sanctuary, to make it. And besyde that they brought gyftes vnto it euery daye in the mornynge.

* Exo.xxxi.a

And all the wyse men that wrought all the holye worcke, came euery man from hys worcke whyche they made, and spake vnto Moses, sayinge: the people bringe to moche and more then ynough for the seruyce and worcke whyche the Lord hath commaunded to be made. And then Moses gaue a commaundement, and they caused it to be proclaymed throwe out the hoste sayinge: se ỳ nether man nor woman prepare any moare worcke for the present of the Sanctuary: and so the people were forbydden to bringe: for the stuffe they had, was sufficyent for all the worcke, to make it, and to moche.

* Exo.xxvi.a

* All the wyse harted men therfore, and they that wrought for the habitacyon, made ten curtaynes of whyte twyned sylke, pelowe sylke, purple and scarlet: ❧ with pictures of broderd worcke made he them. The length of one curtayne was .xxviii. cubytes, and the breadth foure and the curtaynes were all of one syse. And he coupled fyue curtayns by them selues, and other fyue by the selues. And he made lowpes of pelowe sylke alonge by the edge of one curtayne, euen in the selnege of the couplynge courtayne. And lyke wyse he made on the syde of ỳ couplynge curtayne on the other syde. Fyftye lowpes made he in the one curtayne, & fyftye in the edge of the couplynge curtayne on the other syde: and the lowpes helde one curtayne to another.

And he made fyftye rynges of golde, and coupled the curtaynes one to another wyth the rynges: and so was it made one dwellynge place.

* Exo.xxvi.b

* And he made .xi. curtaynes of goates herre, to be a tent ouer the tabernacle. The length of a curtayne, had .xxx. cubytes and was foure cubites brode, and they all eleuen of one syse. And he coupled fyue curtaynes by them selues, & syxe by them selues, and he made fyftye lowpes alonge by the border of the vtmost couplynge curtayne, and fyftye in the edge of the other couplynge curtayne. ❧ (That they myght be ioyned together.) And he made fyftye rynges of brasse to couple the tent together, that it myght be one. And he made a coueryng vpon the tent, of rammes saynnes redd, and yet another of taxus skinnes aboue that.

* And he made stondynge bordes (for the tabernacle) of Sethim wodd. The length of a borde was ten cubytes, the breadth one cubyte and a halfe. One borde had two fete, wherby they were ioyned one to another. And thus made he for all the bordes of the Tabernacle. And he made .xx. bordes for the southsyde of the habitacyon, and .xl. sockettes of syluer vnder the .xx. bordes two sockettes vnder one borde, for his two fete. ❧ (Where the sockettes of the tydes ende in the corners.) And for the other syde of the dwelling which is towarde the north, he made twēty bordes, & theyr fourtye sockettes of syluer, two sockettes vnder one borde. And towarde the west ende of the Tabernacle. ❧ (That is to saye, at that ende of the tabernacle which enclineth towarde the west.) he made syxe bordes, and two other bordes made he in the corners of the habitacyon for eyther syde, and they were ioyned closse beneth and aboue with a clampe, and thus they dyd to both the corners. And there were eyght bordes & syxtene sockettes, of syluer, vnder euery borde two sockettes.

And he made barres of Sethim wodd fyue for the bordes of the Tabernacle in the one syde: and fyue for the bordes of the Tabernacle in the other syde, and fyue barres for the bordes of the habitacyon in the west ende. ❧ (Towarde the west.) And he made the myddest barre to shote throwe the bordes: euen from the one ende to the other, and ouerlayde the bordes wyth golde, and made rynges of golde to thrust the barres throwe, and couered the barres wyth golde. And he made an hangyng of pelow sylke, purple, scarlet and whyte twyned sylke, euen with pyctures made he it of broderd worcke. And made ther vnto foure pillers of Sethim wodd, and ouerlayde the with golde. Theyr knoppes were also of golde, and he cast for them foure sockettes of syluer. And he made an hangynge for the tabernacle dore: of pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet and whyte twyned sylke of nedle worcke. And the fyue pylers of it with theyr knoppes, & ouerlayde the knoppes of them & the whopes wyth golde. Their fyue lockettes also were of brasse.

¶ The arcke of witnesse. The mercyseate. The table. The candelstycke. The lyghtes. The altare and the incense.

* Exo. xxv. a.

ND Bezaleel made the * arke of Sethim wodd, two cubites and an halfe long, and a cubite and a halfe brode, and a cubite and a halfe hye: and ouerlayde it with fyne golde within and without, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde aboute, and cast for it foure rynges of golde for the foure corners of it: two rynges for the one syde, and two for the other, and made barres of Sethim wodd, and couered them with golde, and put the barres in the rynges a longe by the syde of the arke, to bere it withall.

C And he made the mercy seate (That is to say, Gods answeringe place.) of pure gold: two cubytes and a halfe was the length therof, and
B one cubyte and a halfe the breadth: & he made two Cherubyns of thycke golde vpon the two endes of the mercyseate. One Cherub on the one ende, and another Cherub on ꝑ other ende. Euen of the mercyseate made he the Cherubins: namely, in the endes therof. And the Cherubynes spred oute theyr wynges aboue an hie, and couered the mercyseate therwith. And theyr faces were one to another: euen to the mercyseate warde, were the faces of the Cherubyns.

* Exod. xxv. c

* And he made the table of Sethim wodd two cubytes was the length therof and a cubyte the breadth, and a cubyte and a halfe the heygth of it. And he ouerlayde it with fyne golde, and made therto a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and made therto an whope of an hande breade, rounde aboute and made vpon the whope a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and cast for it foure rynges of golde, and put the rynges in the foure corners that were in the foure fete therof. Euen harde by the whope were the rynges, into the whiche
C the barres were put, to bere ꝑ table withall. And he made the barres of Sethim wodd, & couered thē with gold to bere the table withall, and made the vessels (for the table) of pure golde: the dishes, sponts, flat peces and pottes to powre withall.

* Exo. xxv. b.

* And he made the candelstycke of pure golde: euen of one pece made he the candelstycke. For hys fote, hys shafte, hys cuppes, his knoppes and hys floures were of one pece. Syx braunches proceding out of the sydes therof, thre out of the one side, and thre out of the other. And in one braunche thre cuppes made lyke vnto almondes with knoppes & floures: and in another braunche thre cuppes made lyke almondes with knoppes ād flowres. And so forowe out the syx braunches that proceded out of the candelstycke. And vpon the candelstick self were iiii. cuppes after the facyon of almondes with knoppes & floures: vnder euery two braunches a knoppe. And the knoppes and the braunches proceded out of it, and it was all one pece of pure thycke golde. And he made hys seuen lampes with the tonges and snoffers therof, of pure golde. Euen of an hundred weyght of pure golde, made he it with all the vessels therof.

D And he made the cens alter of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubyte, & the breadth a cubite, for it was, foure square & two cubytes hye, with hornes proceding out of it. And he couered it with pure golde, both the toppe and the sydes therof rounde about, and the hornes of it, & made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two rynges of golde for it, euen vnder the croune therof in the two corners of it and in the two sydes therof to put barres in, for to bere it withall: & made the barres of Sethim wodd and ouerlayde them with gold. And he made the holy anoyntinge oyle, and the swete pure incens after the apotecaryes crafte.

ND he made the burntoffering * alter of Sethim, wodd fyue cubytes was the length therof, and fyue cubytes ꝑ breadth: euen. iiii. square, & iii. cubytes hye. And he made vnto it hornes in the foure corners of it proceedyng out of it, & he ouerlayde it with brasse. And he made all the vessels of the alter: the cauldrons, shouels, basyns, fleshhokes and colepannes. All the vessels therof made he of brasse.

And he made a brasen gredyron of networcke vnto the alter, rounde aboute alowe beneth vnto the myddes of the altare, & cast iiii. rynges of brasse for the. iiii. endes of the gredyron to put barres in. And he made the barres of Sethim wood and couered them with brasse, and put the barres into the rynges in the foure corners of the altare, to bere it withall, and made the alter holowe wyth in the bordes. And he made ꝑ lauer of brasse, B

And towardes the east syde, were hãgynges of.l. cubytes: the hangynges of ỹ one syde of the gate were fyftene cubytes longe, with thre pyllers, and thre sockettes. And of the other syde of the court gate were hãgynges also of.xv. cubytes longe, with thre pyllers and thre sockettes. All the hangynges of the courte rounde aboute, were of whyte twyned sylke: but the sockettes of the pyllers were of brasse: and the knoppes and the whopes of the pyllers were of syluer, and the couerynge of the heedes was of syluer, and all the pyllers of the courte were whoped about with syluer. And the hangynge of the gate of the courte was nedle worke, of yelowe, sylke purple, scarlet and whyte twyned sylke. xx. cubytes longe, and fyue in the bredth, ouer agaynst the hangynges of the courte. And theyr pyllers were foure and theyr foure sochettes of brasse, and the knoppes of syluer, and the heedes ouerlayed with syluer, and whoped aboute with syluer. and all the pynnes of the tabernacle & of the courte rounde aboute were of brasse.

Thys is the summe of the habitacyon of witnesse, as it was coũted accordynge to the cõmaundement of Moses for the office of the Leuytes by the hande of Ithamar sonne to Aaron the preast. And Bezaleel the sonne of Uri ỹ sonne of Hur of the trybe of Juda, made all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, and with him was Aholiab sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan, a conninge grauer and a worker of nedle worke in yelowe sylke, purple scarlet and whyte twyned sylke.

All the golde that was occupyed for all the worcke of the holy place, was the golde of the wauoffrynge, euen. xxix. hundred weyght, and seuen hundred and. xxx. sycles, accordinge to the sycle of the Sãctuary. And the summe of syluer that came of the multitude, was. v. score hũdred weyght, & a thousande seuen hundred & .lxxv. sycles after the sycle of the Sanctuary. For euery man an halfe weight, euen halfe a sycle after the sycle of the Sanctuary, for all them that went to be nombred from. xx. yeare olde and aboue, euen for. vi. hũdred thousande and thre thousande and. v. hundred and. l. men.

And of the. v. score hũdred weyght of syluer, were cast the sockettes of the Sanctuary, and the sockettes of the vayle: an hundred sockettes of the fyne score hundred weyght, an hũdred weyght to euery sockette. And of the thousande seuen hundred & .lxx. sycles, he made knoppes to the pyllers, and ouerlayde the heedes and whoped them (with syluer.)

And the brasse of the wauofferinge was lxx. hundred weyght, and two thousande, & .iiii. hundred sycles. And therwith he made the sockettes to the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and the brasen altare and the brasengredyren for it, withall the vessels of the altre, and the sockettes of the courte rounde aboute, & the sockettes for the courte gate, & all the pynnes of the habitacyon, and all the pynnes of the courte rounde aboute.

¶ The.xxxix. Chapter.

¶ The apparell of Aaron and his sonnes. All that the Lorde commaunded was offred.

AND of the yelowe sylke, purple & scarlet, they made the vestimentes of ministracyõ to do seruice in the holy place, and made the holy garmentes for Aarõ, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And he made the Ephod of golde, yelow sylke, purple, scarlet & whyte twyned sylke. And they dyd beate the gold into thynne plates, ãd cutte it into wyers: to worke it in the yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and in the fyne whyte, with broderd worke. And they made two sydes for it, to coose them vp by the two edges. And the brodrynge of the gyrdell that was vpon it, was of the same stuffe, and after the same worcke: of golde, yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and twyned whyte sylke, as the Lorde comaunded Moses.

And they wrought Onix stones cloosed in ouches of golde, and graued as sygnettes are graue, with the names of the chyldren of Israel, and put them on the shoulders of the Ephod, that they should be stones for a remẽbraũce of the chyldren of Israel, as the Lord commaunded Moses.

And he made the breastlappe of connyng worcke, and lyke the worcke of the Ephod: euen of golde, yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, & twyned whyte sylke. It was. iiii. square, and they made the breastlappe double, an hande breadeth longe and an hande breadeth brode. And they fylled it with. iiii. rowes of stones. The fyrst rowe: a Sardios, a Topas and * Smaragdus: the seconde rowe, a + Rubye a Saphir and a Diamonde: in the. iii. rowe, Ligurios, an Achat, and an Amatist: in the fourth rowe: a Turcas, and Onix, and a Jaspis. And the. xii. stones were grauen as sygnettes with the names of the chyldren of Israel: euery stone wt hys name, accordynge to the. xii. trybes.

* or an Emeraude. + or a carbuncle.

And they made vpõ the breastlappe, two fastenynge cheynes of wrethen worcke and pure golde. And they made two hokes of golde, & two golde rynges, and put the two rynges in the two corners of the breastlappe And they put the two chaines of golde in the two ringes, in the corners of the brestlappe: And the two endes of the two chaynes they fastened in the two hokes, and put them on the shulders of the Ephod vpon the fore front of it.

And

And they made two rynges of golde, and put them on the two corners of the brestlappe vpon the edge of it whych was on the inlyde by the Ephod. And they made two golden rynges, and put them on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth on the forefyde of it and ouer agaynst hys felowe, aboue vpon the brodrynge of the Ephod, and they straygned the brestlappe by hys rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, wyth a lace of yelowe sylke: that it myght be vpon the brodrynge of the Ephod, and that the brestlappe shulde not be lowsed frō of the Ephod: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

E And he made the tunycle vnto the Ephod of wouen worcke, all together of yelowe sylke, and there was an hole in the myddest of the tunycle, as the coler of a partlet, wyth a bonde rounde aboute the coler, that it shulde not rent. And in the tunycle they made hemmes with pōgranates, of yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke. And they made lytle belles of pure golde, and put them amonge the pōgranates rounde aboute vpō the edge of the tunycle: a bell and a pomgranate, a bell and a pomgranate rounde about the hemmes of the tunycle to mynistre in, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And they made cotes of fyne whyte of wouen worcke for Aaron and hys sonnes, & a mytre of fyne whyte, and goodly bonettes of fyne whyte, and lynen breches of twyned whyte, and a gyrdell of twyned whyte, yelowe sylke, purple and scarlet: euē of nedlewoorcke, as the Lord commaunded Moses. F

And they made the plate for the holy croune of fyne golde, and wrote vpon it wyth grauen worcke, the holynes of the Lorde: and tyed vnto it a lace of yelowe sylke to fasten it an hye vpon the mytre, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

Thus was all the worcke of the habitacyon and of the Tabernacle of witnesse fynyshed. And the chyldrē of Israel dyd accordynge to all that the Lorde had commaūded Moses: Euen so dyd they. And they brought the habitacyon vnto Moses: the tent and all his apparell, buttonces, boordes, barres, pilers & sockettes. the couerynge of rams skynnes redd, and the couerynge of taxus skynnes, and the hangynge vayle, the arcke of witnesse and the barres therof and the mercyseate: the table and all the vessels therof, & the shewbred: the pure candelstycke, with the lampes therof: euen with the lampes to be prepared and all the vessels therof, and the oyle for lyghte: the golden altare, and the anoyntynge oyle, and the swete cens, and the hangynge of the Tabernacle doore, and the brasen alter wyth hys gredyron of brasse. his barres and all hys vessels, the lauer and hys fote: the hangynges of the courte wyth hys pyllers and sockettes: the hangynge to the courte gate, and hys pynnes and coardes, and all the vessell of the seruyce of the habitacyon for the Tabernacle of witnesse: the mynistrynge vestimentes to serue in the holy place, and the holy vestimentes for Aaron the preast, & his sonnes raymentes to mynistre in, accordinge to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses: euen so the chyldren of Israel made all the worcke. And Moses beheld all the worcke, and se, they had done it euen as the Lorde commaunded: euen so had they done, and Moses blessed them. G

¶ The. xl. Chapter.

¶ The Tabernacle is reared vp. The glorye of the Lord appeareth in a clowde couerynge ye Tabernacle.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge. In the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth, shalt thou sett vp the habitacyō, and the Tabernacle of witnesse, and put therin the arcke of witnesse, and couer the arcke wyth the vayle, and brynge in the table and apparell it accordynge to the order therof. And thou shalt brynge in the candelstycke, and lyght hys lampes, and sett the censalter of golde before the arcke of wytnesse, and put the hangynge at the doore of the habitacyon. And set the burntofferyng alter before the doore of the habitacyon and Tabernacle of witnesse, and sett the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of witnesse and the alter and put water therin, and make the courte round aboute, and hange vp the hangynge at the courte gate. A

* And thou shalt take the anoyntynge oyle, and anoynt the habitacyon, and all that is therin, and halowe it with all the vessels therof, that it maye be holye. And thou shalt anoynte the altare of burntofferynge and all hys vessels, and sanctifye the altare, that it may be an altare moost holy. And thou shalt anoynte also the lauer and hys fote, and sanctifye it. * Exo. m. 25

And thou shalt brynge Aaron and hys sonnes vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of witnesse, and washe them with water. And thou shalt put vpon Aaron the holy vestymentes, and anoynte him, and sanctifye hym that he maye mynistre vnto me. And thou shalt bringe his sonnes, and clothe them with garmentes, and anoynte them as thou dydest anoynt theyr father, that they maye mynistre vnto me. For theyr anoyntynge shall be an euerlastynge prestehode vnto them throwe out theyr generacyons. * And Moses dyd accordynge to all that the Lorde commaunded hym: euen so dyd he. * Num.

Thus was the Tabernacle reared vp the fyrst daye in the fyrst moneth in the secōde yere. And Moses reared vp the Tabernacle and fastened hys sockettes, and set vp the boordes C

the bordes therof, and put in the barres of it and reared vp hys pyllers. and spredе abrode the tent ouer the habitacion, & put ☞ the couerynge of the tent an hye aboue it: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

☞ And he toke ☞ the testimonye, and put it in the arcke, & set the barres to the arcke, & put the mercyseate an hye vpon the arcke, & brought the arcke into the habitacyon, & hāged vp the vayle, & courred the arcke of witnesse, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And he put the table in the Tabernacle of witnesse in the northe syde of the habitacyon, (but without the vayle) and set the bread in ordre before the Lorde, euen as the Lord had commaunded Moses.

And he put the candelsticke in the tabernacle of witnesse oueragaynst ỹ table towarde the south syde of the habitacyon, and set vp the lampes before the Lorde: as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he put the golden alter in the tabernacle of witnesse before the vayle, and brent swete cens theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he hāged vp the hangynge at the dore of the habitacyon, and set the burntofferynge alter by the entrynge in of the habitacyō of the tabernacle of witnesse, and offred burntofferynges and meatofferynges theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

D * And he set the lauer betwene the tabernacle of witnesse and the alter, and poured water therin, to wash withall. And Moses Aaron & his sonnes washed their handes ād their fete therat: when they went into the tabernacle of witnesse, & when they went to the alter they washed them selues as the Lorde commaūded Moses. And he reared vp the courte rounde aboute the habitacyon and the alter, & set vp an hangynge at the courte gate: and so Moses fynyshed the worcke.

* And the clowde couered the tabernacle of witnesse, and the glorye of the Lorde fylled the habitacyon. And Moses coulde not entre into the tabernacle of witnesse, because the clowde abode theron, and the glorye of ỹ Lorde fylled the habitacyon. (For the cloude had courred all.)

And when the clowde was taken vp from of the habitacyon, the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iorneys thorowe out theyr armyes. And whan the clowde was not taken vp, they iorneyed not tyll it was taken vp: for the clowde of the Lorde was vpon the habitacyon by daye, and fyre by nyght: in the syghte of all the house of Israel thorow out all theyr armyes.

The fyrst Chapter.

The order of the burntofferynges.

AND the Lorde called Moses, & spake vnto hym oute of the * tabernacle of witnesse sayinge. Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and thou shalt saye vnto them. Yf a man of you brynge a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde, ye shall brynge youre sacrifyce frō amōge the catell, euen from amōge the ore and the shepe. Yf hys sacrifyce be a burntofferynge, let hym offre a male of the orē without blemyshe, and brynge hym (of hys own volūtary wyll) vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of witnesse before the Lorde: And he shal put hys hande vpō the heade of the brent sacrifyce, and it shalbe accepted for him, to be hys attonement. And he shall kyll the calfe of the droue before the Lord. And the prestes Aarons sonnes, shall brynge the bloude, and sprynckle it rounde aboute vpon the altare, yis by the dore of ỹ Tabernacle of witnesse. And then shall he flaye the burntofferynge, and hewe hym in peces. And the sonnes of Aaron the preaste shall put fyre vpon the altare, and put wodd vpon the fyre. And the preastes Aarons sonnes shall laye the partes (euen the heade and the fatt) vpon the wodd that is on the fyre in the altare. But the inwardes and the legges therof shall he washe in water, and the preast shall burne all in the altare, that they maye be a burnt sacrifyce for a swete odoure vnto the Lorde.

And yf his sacrifyce be of the flockes (namely of the shepe or goates) let hym brynge a male without blemysh for a burnt offrring. And let hym kyll it on the northlyde of the alter, before the Lorde. And the Preastes Aarons sonnes shall sprynckle the bloude of it rounde aboute vpon the alter. And it shall be cut in peces: euen with hys heed and hys fatt, and the Preaste shall put them vpon the wodd that lyeth vpon the fyre in the alter. But he shall washe the inwardes and the legges legges with water, and the preste shall bringe all together, and burne it vpō the alter for D a burntofferynge of a swete sauoure vnto ꝑ Lorde. If the burntofferynge for the sacrifyce of the Lorde be of the foules, he shal bring hys sacrifice of the turtill dones or of the yōg pygeons. And the preaste shall bryng it vnto the alter, and wryng the necke a sundre of it, and burne it on the alter. But the bloud therof shall runne oute vpon, by the syde of the alter. And he shal plucke awaye his croppe with hys fethers, and cast them besyde the alter on the easte parte in the place of asshes. And he shall breke the wynges of it, but plucke them not asundre. And the Preaste shall burne it vpon the alter, euen vpon the wodd that is vpon the fyre, that it maye be a burnt sacrifyce for a swete sauoure vnto the Lord.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

¶ The order of meateofferynges.

A When soule that wyll offer a meateofferynge vnto the Lorde, the same offerynge shalbe of fyne floure, and he shall poure oyle, vpon it, and put frankencens theron, and shall bryng it vnto Aarons sonnes the preastes. And he shall take therout his handfull of the floure, and of the oyle wyth all the frankencens, and the preaste shall burne it for a memoriall of hym vpon the alter: to be an offerynge for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And the remnaunt of the meateofferynge shalbe Aarons and his sonnes, a thynge most holy of the sacrifyces of the Lorde: If thou bringe also a meateoffe-
B rynge ꝑ is baken in the ouen, let it be a swete cake of fyne floure myngled with oyle, or an vnleuened wafer anoynted wᵭ oyle. If thy meateofferynge be baken in the fryenge pan, it shalbe of swete floure myngled with oyle. And thou shalt mynce it small, & powre oyle theron, that it maye be a meateofferynge.

And yf thy meateofferynge be a thynge broyled vpon the gredyron, let it be of floure myngled with oyle. And thou shalt bryng the meateofferynge (ꝑ is made of these thynges) vnto the Lorde, and shalt delyuer it vnto the preaste, that he maye offre it vpon the alter, and the preaste shall take of the meateofferynge a memoriall, and shal burne it vpō
C the alter: that it maye be a burntofferyng for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And that whyche is lefte of the meatofferynge shall be Aarons and hys sonnes. It is a thynge most holy of the offerynges of the Lorde.

All the meateofferynges which ye shall bryng vnto the Lord, shalbe made without leuen. For ye shal nether burne leuen nor honye in any offerynge of the Lorde: Notwithstandynge ye shall bryng the fyrstlynges of them vnto the Lorde: but they shall not come vpon the alter for a swete sauoure.

* All the meatofferynges also shalt thou season with salt: neyther shalt thou suffre the salt of the couenaunt of thy God to be lacknynge from thy meateofferyng. but vpon all thyne offerynges thou shalt bryng salt. * Math.5.b Marke.ix.c Colo.iiii.a

And yf thou offre a meateofferynge of thy fyrst fruytes vnto the Lorde, thou shalt offre for the meateofferynge of thy fyrst frutes, eares of corne dryed by the fyre, and corne beaten as meale. And thou shalt put oyle vpon it, and laye frankencens theron, that it maye be a meateofferynge. And the preaste shall burne parte of the beaten corne & parte of that oyle wyth all the frankencens, for a remembraunce. And it shalbe a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde. D

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

¶ The order of peaceofferynges.

And yf his sacrifyce be a peaceofferynge, and he take it from amonge the droues, (whether it be male or female) he shall bryng sochas is without blemyshe, before the Lorde: & put his hande vpon the heed of his offeringe, and kyll it at the dore of ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse. And Aarōs sonnes the Preastes shall sprincle the bloude vpō the alter roundeabout. And he shall offre somwhat of the peaceofferynge to be a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde: euen the * fatt that coureth the inwardes, and all * Exo.xxix. the fatt that is aboute the inwardes: and the B two kydneys, & the fatt that is on them and vpon the loynes: and the abundaunce that is on the lyuer shall he take awaye wyth the kydneyes. And Aarōs sonnes shal burne thē on the alter vpon the burntsacrifyce whyche is vpō the wodd ꝑ is on the fyre to be a burnt sacrifyce for a swete sauoure vnto ꝑ Lorde. A

If he bryng a peaceofferynge vnto the Lorde from of the flocke, let hym offre male or female: but without blemyth. As yf he offre a shepe for hys sacrifyce, he shall bryng it before the Lorde, and put hys hande vpon hys offerynges heed, and kyll it before the dooze of the tabernacle of witnesse, and Aarons sonnes shall sprynkle the bloude therof roundeabout the alter.

And of the peaceofferynge, let hym bryng C a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde: the fatt therof, & the rompe all together, whiche they shall take off, harde by the backe bone: and the fatt that coureth the inwardes, and all the fatt that is vpō the inwardes, and the two kydneyes, and the fatt that is vpō them & vpon the loynes, and the abundaunce that is vpō the lyuer shall he take awaye with the kydneyes. And the preaste shall burne them vpō the alter, to be the foode of a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde.

If hys offerynge be a goate, he shall bringe it

ge it before the Lorde, & put his hande vpon D the heade of it, and kyll it before the Tabernacle of the couenaũt, and the sonnes of Aaron shall sprinkle the bloude therof vpon the alter rounde about. And he shall bryng ther-of, his offering, euẽ a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde: the fatt that couereth the in wardes, and all the fatt that is vpõ the inwardes, and the two kydneyes, & the fatt that is vpon them and vpon the loynes, & the abundaunce vpõ
the lyuer shall he take awaye with the kydneyes. And the preaste shall burne them vpõ the alter for the food of the sacrifyce: that all

¶ The offeryngs made for synnes done of ignorauunce.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye: Yf a soule synne throw-we ignorauunce, and hath done any of those thynges whyche the Lorde hath forbydden in hys commaundementes to be done. As yf
 the Preast that is anoynted do synne,  (accordynge to the synne of the people) let hym bryngе for hys synne whyche he hath synned
a yonge ore without blemyshe vnto ỹ Lorde for a synneofferynge. And he shall bryngе the yonge ore vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse before the Lorde, and shall put hys hande vpon the yonge ores heade, and kill the 25 yonge ore before the Lorde. And the Preaste
b Leui.iy.c. that is anoynted * shall take of the yonge ores bloude, and bryngе it into the tabernacle of witnesse, and the preaste shall dyppe hys fynger in the bloude and sprynkle therof seuen tymes before the Lorde: euen before the hangynge of the holy place. And he shall put some of the bloude before the Lorde, vpõ the hornes of the alter of swete eens, which is in the tabernacle of witnesse, and shall powre all the bloude of the yonge ore vnto the botome of the alter of burntofferynge, whyche is at the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse.
And he shall take awaye all the fat of the ore that is for synne, the fatt that coureth the inwardes, and all the fatt that is aboute the inwardes, and the two kydneyes, and the fatt that is vpon them, and vpon the loynes, and the abundaunce of the lyuer shall he take awaye with the kydneyes: as it was taken awaye in the ore of the peaceofferynges, and let the preaste burne them vpon the altare of ¶ burntofferyng. * But the skyne of the yong Exo.xxix.c. ore, and all hys flesshe, with hys heed, and hys legges, wyth hys inwardes, and hys donge, shall he beare oute and carye the yong ore altogether oute of the hoste vnto a clene place: euen where the asshes are powred out, and burne hym there on wodd in the fyre: euẽ
by the place where the asshes are cast oute, shall he be brent. If the hole congregacyon of Israel synne throwe ignorauunce, and the thynge be hyd from theyr eyes, so that they haue committed any of those thynges which the Lorde hath forbydden to be done in hys cõmaundementes, and haue offended. Whan the synne which they haue synned in, is kno-wne, the congregacyon shall bryngе a yonge ore for the synne, and bryngе hym before the tabernacle of witnesse, and the elders of the multytude shall put theyr handes vpon the heed of the yonge ore before the Lorde. And the yonge ore shalbe slayne before the Lorde.
And the Preast that is anoynted, shall bryn-ge of hys bloude into the tabernacle of wit-nesse, and the Preaste shall dyppe hys fynger in the bloude, and sprinkle it seuen tymes before the Lorde: euen before the vayle. And shall put of the bloud vpon the hornes of the D alter, whiche is before the Lord in the tabernacle of witnesse, and shall powre all ỹ bloud vnto the botome of the alter of burntofferynge whyche is before the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, and shall take all hys fatt from hym, and burne it vpon the alter, and shall do with thys yonge ore, as he dyd with the yonge ore for synne: euen so shall he do wt thys. And the Preaste shall make an attonement for them, and it shalbe forgeuen them.
And he shall bringe thys yonge ore without the hoste, and burne hym as he burned the E fyrst. For it is an oblacyon for the synne of the congregacyon.

When a Lorde synneth, and commytteth throwe ignorauũce any of these thiges (which the Lorde hys God hath forbydden to be done in hys commaundementes) and hath offended. And yf his synne be shewed vnto him which he hath done, he shall bryngе hys offe-rynge: euen an he goate without blemyshe, and laye hys hande vpon the heed of the he goat, and kill it in the place where the burntofferinge is vsed to be kylled before the Lord
For it is a synne offering. And let the preaste take of the bloude of the offerynge with hys fynger, and put it vpõ ỹ hornes of the burntofferinge alter, and powre hys bloude vnto
the botome of the burntofferyng alter, & burne all his fatt vpon the alter, as the fat of the peaceofferynges. And the Preast shall make an attonement for hym, as concernynge his synne, and it shalbe forgeuen hym.

If one of the comen people of the lande F
synne throwe ignorauunce, and commytte any of the thynges whiche the Lorde hath forbydden in hys commaundementes to be done, and so hath trespaced: Yf hys synne whyche he hath synned, come to his knowlege, he shall bryng for his offering, a she goate from amonge the flockes, without blemyshe for hys synne which he hath synned, and laye

hys hande vpon the heed of the offeringe, and * Leui. iii.d. slee it in the place of burntofferynges. * And the preaste shall take of the bloude therof wt hys fynger, and put it vpon the hornes of ꝑ burntofferinge alter, and poure all the bloud vnto the botome of the alter, and shall take awaye all hys fatt, as the fatt of the peace offerynges is takenawaye. And the preaste shall burne it vpon the alter, that it maye be a swete sauoure vnto the Lord, and the prea-ste shall make an attonement for hym, and it shalbe forgeuen hym.

G And yf he brynge a shepe for a synne offering, he shall bringe a female without ble-mysshe, and laye hys hande vpon the heed of the offerynge, and slee it for a synofferynge in the place where they kyll the burntofferyng.
And the preaste shall take of the bloude of the offerynge with hys fynger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burntofferinge alter, & shall poure the bloude therof vnto the botome of *Leuit.iv.d the alter. * And he shall take awaye all the fatt therof, as the fat of the shepe of the peace offerynge is wont to be taken awaye. And the preaste shall burne it vpon the alter, that it maye be the Lordes burntsacrifyce, and the Preaste shall make an attonemente for hys synne, that he hath cõmitted, and it shal-be forgeuen him.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: yf a soule synne and trespace agaynst the Lorde, and denye vnto hys neyghboure that which was taken hym to kepe, or that was put into hys hande, or doth violent robbery or wronge vnto hys neyghboure, or yf he haue solde that whych was loste, and denyeth it, and sweareth falsely, vpon whatsoeuer thynge it be yᵗ a man doth, & synneth therin: yf he haue so synned or trespaced, he shall restore agayne that he toke violently awaye, or the wrõge whych he dyd, or that whych was delyuered him to kepe, or the lost thynge which he founde, and all that, aboute whych he hath sworne falsely, he shall restore it agayne in ῾ whole summe, and shall adde the fyfth parte moare thereto, and geue it vnto hym to whome it pertayneth ῾ same daye that he offereth for his trespace, and let hym bringe for hys trespace vnto the Lord, a Ram wythout blemysshe out of the flocke (῾ is estemed worth a trespace offrynge) vnto the preaste. And the preast shall make an attonemẽt for hym, before the Lorde, & it shall be forgeuen hym, whatsoeuer thynge it be that he hath done & trespaced therin.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Commaunde Aaron and hys sonnes sayinge: this is the lawe of the burntoffring. * The burntoffrynge shall be vpõ the harth of the alter all nyght vnto the morynge, & the fyre shall be kyndled on the alter. And ῾ preaste shall put on hys * lynen albe, and hys lynen breches vpon hys flesshe, and take awaye the asshes vpon the whych the fyre cõsumed the burnt sacrifyce in the alter, and he shall put them besyde the alter, and put of his rayment, and put on other, and carye the asshes out wythout the host vnto a clene place.

The fyre vpon the alter shall burne styll, and neuer be put out. But the preaste shall laye wodd on it euery daye in the morynng, & put the burnt sacrifice vpon it, and he shall burne theron the fatt of the peaceoffrynges. The fyre shall euer burne vpõ the alter, and neuer go out.

* Thys is the lawe of the * meatoffrynge: whych Aarons sonnes shall bringe before the Lorde, euen before the alter: & one of them shall take hys handfull of the floure of the meatoffrynge and of the oyle and all the franckencens whych is vpon the meatoffrynge, and shall burne it vnto a remembraunce vpon the alter for a swete sauoure, euen a memoriall of it vnto the Lord. And of the rest therof, shall Aaron and hys sonnes eate: vnleuened shall it be eaten in the holy place: euen in the courte of the tabernacle of witnesse they shall eate it. It shall not be baken wyth leuen. I haue geuen it vnto them for theyr porciõ of my sacrifyces. It is most holye, as is the synne offrynge and trespace offrynge. All the males amonge the chyldre of Aaron shall eate of it: It shalbe a statute for euer in youre generacyons concernynge the sacrifyces of the Lorde: ☞ let euery one that toucheth it, be holy. ☜

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: this is the offringe of Aaron and of hys sonnes which they shall offer vnto the Lorde in the daye when he is anoynted: the tenth parte of an Epha of floure, for a meatoffrynge perpetuall: halfe in the morynge and halfe at nyghte: In the fryenge pan it shalbe made wyth oyle. And when it is fryed, thou shalt bryngе it in, and the baken offrynges of this oblacyon mynsed small, shalt thou offer for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And that preast of his sonnes that is anoynted in hys stеade, shall offer it: It is the Lordes dutye for euer: it shall be burnt all together. For D euery meateoffrynge that is made for the preaste, shalbe burnt all together, and shall not be eaten. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron, and vnto hys sonnes and saye: Thys is the lawe of ῾ synne offring. In the place where the burntoffrynge is kylled, shall the synne offryng be kylled before the Lorde, for it is ☞ moost holy. ☜ * The preast that offereth it, shall eate it: In the holy place shall it be eaten: euen in the courte of the tabernacle of wytnesse. No man touche the flesshe therof, saue he that is halowed. And who so sprẽkleth of the blonde therof vpon any garment, ☞ thou shalt washe it in the holy place, there as it is sprẽkled vpon. ☜ * But the erthen pot that it is sodden in, shall be broken. And yf it be sodden in a brasen pot, it shalbe scowred, and rynsed in the water. All the males amõge the preastes shall eate therof, for it is most holy. And no synneoffrynge, whose blonde is brought into the tabernacle of wytnesse to reconcyle wythall in the holy place, shall be eaten: but shalbe burnt in the fyre.

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

¶ Trespaceoffrynges. Synneoffrynges, and Peaceoffrynges. The fatt and the blonde maye not be eaten.

THys is the lawe of the trespaceoffrynge: it is most holy. In the place where they kyll the burntoffringe, shall they kyll the trespaceoffring also: and hys blonde shall be sprynkle rouñde aboute vpõ the alter. All the fat therof shall they offer: the roumpe and the fat therof that coureth the inwardes, and the .ii. kydneys, and the fatt that is on them and vpõ the loynes: and the aboundaunce that is on the lyuer shalt thou take awaye wyth the kydneyes: & the Preast shall burne them vpon the altare, to be a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde: for it is a trespace offerynge.

All the males amonge the preastes shall eate therof in the holy place, for it is most holy. As the synne offrynge is, so is the trespace offrynge, one lawe serueth for both, and it shall be the Preastes that receyueth ther w. And the Preaste ꝑ offereth any mans burnt-offrige, ☞ shall haue the skynne of ꝑ burnt-offrige which he hath offred. And all ꝑ meat-offrynge that is baken in the ouen, and that is dressed vpon the gredyron, & in the frye pan, shalbe the Preastes that offereth it. And euery meateofferinge that is myngled with oyle and that is dry, shall pertayne vnto all the sonnes of Aaron, and one shall haue as 25 moche as another. Thys is the lawe of the peaceoffrynge, whā it is offred vnto the Lorde. If he offer it to geue thākes, he shall brige vnto hys thanckoffrynge, swete kakes myngled wyth oyle, & swete wafers anoynted w oyle, and kakes myngled with oyle of fyne floure fryed. He shall brynge hys offerynge vpon kakes of leuended bread for hys peaceoffringes to geue thākes: and of all the sacrifice he shall offer one for an heueoffringe vnto the Lorde, and it shall be the Preastes that sprynckled the bloude of the peaceoffringes. And the flesshe of the thankoffrynge in hys peaceoffrynges shalbe eaten the same daye that it is offred. And let hym laye vp nothynge of it vntyll the morowe. But yf he offre hys sacrifyce by reason of a vowe, or of hys awne free wyll, it shall be eaten the same daye that he offereth hys sacrifyce. And yf ought remayne vntyll the morowe, it maye be eaten: but as moche of the offered flesshe as remayneth vnto the thyrde daye, shalbe burnt wyth fyre. And yf any of the flesshe of hys peaceoffrynges be eaten in the thyrde daye, then shall he that offereth it, obtayne no fauoure ☞ nether shall it be rekened vnto hym: but shalbe an abhomynacyon. Therfore the soule that eateth of it, ☞ shall bear ☜ re hys synne. And the flesh that toucheth any vncleane thynge shall not be eate, but burnt wyth fyre: and all that be cleane, shall eate the flesh. But yf any soule eate of the flesh of the peaceoffrynge that pertayneth vnto the Lorde hauynge hys vnclennesse vpon hym: the same soule shall perysshe frō amonge hys people. Moreouer, the soule that doth touche any vnclene thynge, that is of the vnclennesse of man or of any vnclene beast or any abhomynacyon that is vnclene: and then eate of ꝑ flesh of the peaceoffrynge whych pertayneth vnto the Lorde, that soule shall perysh from hys people.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye.

*Ye shall eate no maner fatt of oxen of shepe and of goates: neuerthelater the fatt of the beaste that dyeth alone, and the fatt of that whych is torne wyth wylde beastes, shall be occupied in any maner of vse, but ye shall in no wise eate of it. For whosoeuer eateth the fatt of the beaste of whych men vse to brynge an offrynge vnto the Lorde, that soule that eateth it, shall perysh from his people. Moreouer, ye * shall eate no maner of bloude, whether it be of foule or of beast. Whatsoeuer soule it be that eateth any maner of bloude, the same soule shall perisshe frō hys people. * Leui.iij.c. * Gene.ix.a. Leui.xvij.c. and.xix.f. Deut.xij.d. 1.Reg.xiiij.c.

And the Lorde talked w Moses, sayinge: D speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye: he that bryngeth hys peaceoffrynge vnto the Lorde, let hym brynge hys gyfte vnto the Lorde of hys peaceoffrynge: let his awne hāds brynge the offrynges of the Lorde: euen the fatt wyth the brest shall he brynge: that the brest maye be waued for a waueoffringe before the Lorde. And the Preast shall burne the fatt vpon the alter, and the brest shalbe Aarons & hys sonnes. And the ryght shoulder shall ye geue vnto the Preaste, for an heueoffrynge, of youre peaceoffrynges. The same that offereth the bloude of the peaceoffringes and the fatt, amonge the sonnes of Aarō, shall haue the ryght shoulder for his parte, for the * waue brest and the heueshoulder haue I taken of the chyldren of Israel, euen of their peaceoffringes, and haue geuen it vnto Aaron & vnto hys sonnes: by a statute for euer of the chyldren of Israel. * Nu.xviij.

Thys is the anoyntynge of Aaron and the anoyntynge of his sonnes in the sacrifices of the Lorde, in the daye when he offered the to be Preastes vnto the Lorde. And these be the sacrifyces which the Lord commaunded to be geuen them (in the daye of theyr anoyntynge) of the chyldren of Israel, by a statute for euer in theyr generacyons. Thys is the lawe of the burntoffrynge and of the meatoffrynge, and of the sacrifyce for synne and trespace, for consecracyon & for the peaceoffrynge: which the Lorde commaunded Moses in the mount of Synai, when he commaunded the chyldren of Israel to offer their sacrifyces vnto the Lorde in the wyldernesse of Synai.

hym, and the people were gathered together vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And Moses sayde vnto the congregacyon: this is the thynge which the Lozde commaũded to be done.

And Moses brought Aaron & hys sonnes, and washed them with water, and put vpon hym the albe, & gyrded him w a girdle, & put vpõ hym the tunycle, (of purpowe sylke) and put the Ephod theron, which he gyrded wyth the brodered gyrdell that was in the Ephod, and bounde it vnto hym therwyth. And he put the brestlappe theron, and put in the brestlappe Urim & thumim. And he put the myter vpon hys heed, and put vpon the myter (euen vpon the forefront of hys face) the goldẽ plate oz the holy croune, as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

* And Moses toke the anoyntynge oyle, and anoynted the Tabernacle, and all that was therin, and sanctified them, and sprynkled therof vpon the alter seuen tymes, and anoynted the alter, and all hys vessels, the laver & his fote, to sanctifye thẽ (wyth the oyle.) And he powred of the anoyntynge oyle vpõ Aarons heed, and anoynted hym, to sanctifye hym. And Moses brought Aarons sonnes, & put albes vpõ them, and gyrded them with gyrdels, & put bonettes vpõ their heedes: as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

* And he brought the yonge oxe foz synne, And Aaron and hys sonnes put theyr hãdes vpon the heed of the yonge oxe that was foz synne. And Moses slewe hym, & toke of the bloude, which he put vpon the hoznes of the alter rounde about wt hys synger, & purifyed it, and powred the bloude vnto the botome of the alter, & sanctifyed it, and reconcyled it. And he toke all the fatt that was vpon the inwardes, and the abundaunce of the lyuer and the two kydneyes, and theyr fatt, & Moses burned it vpon the alter. But the yonge oxe and hys hyde, his flesh and his dõge, he burnt wyth fyre without the hoste, as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

If the dead carkasse of any soche fall vpō any seed vsed to sowe, it shall yet be cleane styll: but and yf any water be powzed vpon the seed, & a deed carkesse fall theron, it shalbe vncleane vnto you.

If any beast of whych ye maye eate, dye and any man touche the dead carkasse therof, he shalbe vncleane vntyll the euē. He that eateth of the dead carkasse of it, shall washe hys clothes and be vncleane vntyll the euē. And he also that beareth the carkasse of it, shall washe his clothes, and be vncleane vntyll euen.

G Let euery crepinge thynge that crepeth vpon the erth be an abhominacyon, and not be eaten. ¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

¶ The Pzeastes must iudge who are Lepers.

AND the Lozde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: when A
there appeareth a rysynge in any mans flesshe, ether a scabbe, or a glysterynge whyte: and the plage of leprosye be in the skynne of hys flesshe, he shall be bzought vnto Aarō the Pzeaste, or vnto one of hys sonnes the Pzeastes: and the Pzeaste shall loke on the sore in the skynne of hys flesshe. And whan the heere in the sore is turned vnto whyte, and the sore also seme to be lower then the skynne of his flesh, it wyll be a plage of leprosye, and the Pzeaste shall loke on hym, and iudge hym vnclene.

If there be but a whyte plecke in the skynne of hys flesh, and seme not to be lower thē the skynne, nor the heere therof is turned vnto whyte, the Pzeaste shall shut him vp seuē dayes. And the Pzeaste shall loke vpon hym agayne the seuēth daye: And yf þ plage seme to him to abyde still, & þ plage growe not in the skynne the Preast shall shutt him vp yet vij. dayes moo. And the Preast shall loke on hym agayne the. vij. daye. Then yf the plage be darcker, & not growen in the skynne, the Preast shall iudge hym clene, for it is but a skyrf. And he shall washe his clothes, & be clene, But & yf the scabbe growe in the skynne after that he is sene of the Preast, & iudged clene, he shalbe sene of the preest agayne. If the preast se ỳ the scabbe be growen abrode in the skynne, the preest shall make hym vnclene: for it is a leprosye.

When the plage of leprosye is in a man he shall be brought vnto the Preast, and the Preast shall se hym. And yf the rysynge be white in the skynne, and haue made the heare whyte, and there be rawe flesshe in the sore it wylbe an olde leprosye in the skynne of his flesh. And the Preast shall make hym vnclene, and shall not shutte hym vp seynge he is vnclene.

If a leprosye breake out abrode in the skynne, & couer all the skynne, from hys heed to hys foote, whersoeuer the Preast loketh, and the Preast loke vpō him. And yf the leprosye haue couered all hys flesh, he shall iudge the plage to be clene because it is all turned into whytnesse, & he shalbe cleane. But ād yf ther be rawe flesshe on hi whē he is sene, he shalbe vncleane. And ỳ Preast shall se ỳ rawe flesh, and declare him to be vnclene. For the rawe flesh is vnclene seynge it is a leprosye. Or yf the rawe flesh departe agayne & chaūge vnto whyte, he shall come to the preste, and the preast shall se him & beholde: If the soore be chaūged vnto whyte (and couer the whole man) the Preast shall iudge the plage cleane & he shalbe cleane: The flesh also in whose skinne there is a byle & is healed, & in the place of ỳ byle there appeare a whyte rysynge, ether a shynynge whyte & somwhat reddish, it shall be sene of the Preast. And yf whē the Preast seyth hym, it appeare lower thā the skynne, & the heare therof be chaunged vnto whyte, the Preast shall iudge hym vncleane: for it is a plage of leprosye, broken out of the byle.

But & yf the Preast loke on it and there be no whyte heares therin, & yf it be not lower then the skynne, but be darcker, the Preast shall shutt hym vp. vij. dayes. And yf it spre de abrode in the flesh, the preest shall make hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage. But and yf the spot stōde styll, & growe not, it is the prynte of an hote byle, and therfore the preest shall declare hym to be cleane. Yf there be any flesh, in whose skynne there is a hote burnynge, and the flesh that burneth haue a whyte spott, somwhat reddysh or whyte, ỳ preest shall loke vpon it. And yf the heare in that bryght spot be chaunged to whyte, and it appeare lower then the skynne, it is a leprosye broken out of the burnynge. And therfore the Preaste shall iudge hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage of leprosye. But yf the preast loke on it & there be no whyte heare in the bryght spott, and be no lower then the other skynne, but be darcker, the preast shall shut him vp seuē dayes. And the preast shall loke on hym the seuenth daye: And yf it be growē abroad in the skynne, the preast shall iudge hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage of leprosye. And yf the spot stonde styll in it, & growe not in the skynne, but is darcke, it is a rysynge of the burnynge, & the Preast shall therfore declare hym cleane, seynge it is the prynte of the burnynge.

Yf man or woman hath a sore vpon the heed or the beard, the preast shall seit. And yf it appeare lower than the skynne, & ther be in it a palowe heare: & thynne (more then it was wont to be) the Preast shall iudge him vncleane, seynge that the same fretynge is a token of leprosye vpon the heed or berde. And yf the preast loke on the sore of the prynt, ād it seme not lower then the skynne, and that the heare is not blacke, the Preast shall shut vp the frettynge sore seuen dayes. And in the seuēth daye the preste shall loke on the sore: and yf the sore be not growen, and there be in it no palowe hayre, and the sore seme not lower then the skynne, he shalbe shauen: but the place of the sore shall he not shaue, & the preest shall shut vp the sore seuen dayes moo. And in the seuenth daye the preste shall loke on the sore: And if the sore be not growē in the skynne, ner seme lower then the other skynne, the preste shall clense hym, & he shall washe hys clothes, and be clene. But yf the sore growe in the flesshe after hys clensynge, the preste shall loke on hym. And yf the sore be growne in ỳ skynne, the preste shall not se ke for yelowe heare, for he is vnclene. But if he se the prynte stonde styll, and that there is blacke heare growne vp therin, the sore is healed, and he shalbe cleane, and the preest shall declare hym to be cleane. Yf there be whyte spottes in the skynne of the flesshe of man or woman, the preast shall loke vpō it. And yf the spottes in the skynne of theyr flesshe be somwhat darcke & whyte wythall, (he maye be sure, that it is no leprosye) it is a frekell growynge in the flesshe: Therfore is he cleane.

And the man (whose heade is destitute of heare, wherby he is made balde) is cleane. And he that hath hys heare out in his forehede, is forehedbalde and cleane. If there be in the baulde heed or baulde forehed a whyte reddysh sore scabbe, there is leprosye spronge vp in hys baulde heed or baulde forehede. And the preast shall loke vpon him, and yf the rysynge of the sore be whyte reddysh in hys baulde heed or balde forehed after the maner of a leprosye which is in the skynne of the flesshe, then he is a leperous mā and vncleane. And the Pzeaste shall make hym vncleane, for the plage therof is in hys heed. The leper in whome the plage is, shall haue hys clothes rent, and hys heed bare and shall put a couerynge vpon hys lyppe, and shalbe called vncleane and defyled. And as longe as the dysease lasteth vpon hym, he shalbe defyled and vncleane: he shall dwell alone, euen * wythout the host shall hys habitacyon be. * Num.v.a. 2.Reg.xv.a

The cloth that the plage of lepzosye is in, whether it be lynen oz wollen, whether it be in the warpe oz woofe of lynen oz of wollen: ether in a skynne oz any thynge made of skynne, yf the dysease be pale oz somwhat reddysh in the cloth oz skynne: whether it be in the warpe oz woofe oz any thynge that is made of skynne, then it is a plage of lepzosye, and shall be shewed vnto the preaste. The preaste therfoze shall se the plage, and shut it vp seuē dayes, and loke on the plage the seuenth daye. Wbych yf it be increased in the cloth (whether it be in the warpe oz woofe, oz in a skynne) oz in any thynge that is made of skynne it is the lepzosy of a fretinge soze: it is vncleane: & that cloth shalbe burnt, ether warpe oz woofe whether it be wollen oz lynnē, oz any thynge that is made of skynne, where in the plage is, foz it is a frettynge lepzosye, it shalbe burnt in the fyze.

If the Pzeaste se that the plage is not growen in the cloth: ether in the warpe oz woofe oz in whatsoeuer thynge of skynne it be, the preast shall commaūde them to wasshe the thynge wherin the plage is, and he shall shut it vp seuē dayes moo. And ỳ preaste shall loke on the plage agayne, after that it is washed. And yf the plage haue not chaunged hys coloure, and is spzede no further abzode, it is vncleane. Thou shalt burne it in the fyze, foz it is freat inwarde: in parte oz in all together. And yf the Pzeaste se that the plage is darcker after that it is washed, he shall rēt it out of the cloth, oz out of the skynne, oz out of the warpe oz out of the woofe. And yf it appeare any moare in the cloth (ether in the warpe oz in the woofe oz in any thynge made of skynne) it is a waringe plage. Thou shalt burne the plage that is in it. ¶ Moreouer the cloth, ether warpe oz woofe oz whatsoeuer thynge of skynne it be wbych thou hast washed, yf the plage be departed there from, it shalbe washed once agayne: and then shall it be cleane. Thys is the lawe of the plage of lepzosye in a cloth whether it be wolten oz lynnen: eyther in the warpe oz woofe, oz in any thynge of skynnes, to make it cleane oz vncleane.

¶ The cleansynge of the leper, and of the houle that he is in.

AND the Lozde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: * thys is the lawe of ỳ leper in the daye of hys clēsynge: he shalbe brought vnto the preaste, and the preaste shall go out wythout the hoste, and loke vpon hym. And yf the plage of lepzosye be healed in the leper, then shall the Pzeaste commaunde that he wbych is to be clensed, brynge two lyuynge byzdes and cleane, and cedar wodd, and purple cloth, and ysope. And the Pzeaste shall commaunde that one of the byzdes be killed in an erthen vessell & vpon rennynge water. And he shall take the lyuynge byzde with the cedar wodd, the purple and the ysope, and shall dyppe them and the lyuynge byzde in the bloude of the slayne byzde, vpon the rennynge water, and spzynkle vpon hym (that must be clensed of hys lepzosye) seuen tymes, and clense hym, and shall let the lyuynge byzde goo fre into the felde. * Leuit.xiij.a. Mar.i.b. Luke.v.c. and.xvij.c.

And he that is clensed, shall wasshe hys clothes, and shaue of all hys heere, and wash hym selfe in water, that he maye be cleane. And after that shall he come into the hoste, & shall tarye wythout hys tent seuē dayes: but in the seuenth daye he shall shaue of all hys heere, namely, hys head, hys berde and hys browes: euen all hys heere shalbe shauen of. And he shall wasshe hys clothes & hys flesshe in water and he shalbe cleane.

In the eyght daye he shall take two lambes wythout blemysshe, and an ye welā be of a yeare olde without blemysh. and thze tenthdeales of fyne floure foz a * meatoffrynge mynngled wyth oyle and ☞ a logge of oyle. And he shall slee the lambe in the place where the synneoffrynge and the burntoffrynge are slayne: euen in the holy place. Foz as the synneoffrynge is, euē so is the trespace offrynge the preastes: seyng it is moost holy. * xij.pinte. ☞ ☞

And the preaste shall take of the bloude of the trespaceoffrynge, & put it vpon the typpe of the ryght eare of hym that is to be clensed, & vpon the thombe of hys ryght hande, and vpon the great too of hys ryght foote. The preaste shall take of the logge of oyle, & powze it into the palme of hys lefte hande, and dyppe hys ryght fynger in the oyle that is in hys left hande, and spzynkle of the oyle wyth hys fynger seuen tymes before the Lozde,

Lozde. And of the rest of ꝑ oyle that is in hys hande, shall the Pzeaste put vpon the typpe of the ryghte eare of hym that is koz to be clensed, and vpon the thombe of hys ryghte hande, and vpon the great too of hys ryghte kote: euen vpon the bloude of the trespace offrynge. And the remnaunte of the oyle that is in the Pzeastes hande, he shall powze vpō the heed of hym that is koz to be clensed: and the Pzeaste shall make an attonemēt koz hym before the Lozde.

And the Pzeaste shall offer the synne offrynge, and make an attonement koz hym that is to be clensed, koz hys vncleannesse. And then shall he kyll ꝑ burntoffrynge, and the Pzeaste shall offre the burntoffrynge and the meatoffrynge vpon the alter: & the pzeste shall make an attonement koz hym, and he shalbe cleane. * If he be pooze, and can not gett so moche, he shall take one lambe koz a trespace offrynge to waue it koz hys clensynge, and a tenth deale of fyne floure myngled wyth oyle koz a meatoffrynge, and a logge of oyle, and two turtyll doues oz two ponge pigeons, suche as he is able to gett, wherof the one shalbe koz synne, and the other koz a burntoffrynge. And he shall bzynge them the viij daye koz hys clensynge vnto the Pzeaste before the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse before the Lozde.

And the Pzeaste shall take the lambe that is koz the trespace, and the logge of oyle, and waue them before the Lozde. And he shall kyll the lambe koz the trespace, and the Pzeaste shall take of the bloude of the trespaceoffrynge, and put it vpon the typpe of hys ryghte eare that is to be clensed, and vpon the thombe of hys ryghte hande, and vpon the greate too of hys ryght kote. And ꝑ pzeaste shall powze of the oyle into hys ryghte hande, and the pzeste shall wyth hys fynger spzynkle of the oyle that is in hys lefte hāde, seuen tymes before the Lozde.

And the Pzeaste shall put of the oyle that is in hys hande vpon the typpe of the ryghte eare of hym that is to be clensed, and vpon the thombe of hys ryghte hande, and vpon the great too of hys ryghte kote: euen in the place where the bloude of the trespaceoffringe was put. And the reste of the oyle that is in the pzestes hande, he shall put vpon the heed of hym that is to be clēsed: that he maye make an attonement koz him before the Lozde. And he shall offer one of the turtyll doues oz of the ponge pigeons, soche as he can gett: the one koz a synneoffrynge and the other koz a burntoffrynge wyth ꝑ meatoffrynge. And the Pzeaste shall make an attonement koz hym that is to be clensed before the Lozde. Thys is the lawe of hym in whom is the plage of lepzosye, and whose hande is not able to gett that whych pertayneth to hys clensynge.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaan whych I geue you in possessyon. And yf I put the plage of lepzosye in a house of the lande of youre possessyon, he that oweth the house shall come, and tell the pzeaste, sayinge: me thynke that there is as it were a lepzosy in the house. And the pzeaste shall cōmaunde them to emptie the house, before the Pzeaste goo into it to se the plage: that all that is in the house be not made vncleane, and then must the Pzeaste go in to se the house.

If the Pzeaste also se that the plage is in the walles of the house, and that there be holowe strakes pale oz rede whych seme to be lower then the wall it selfe, the Pzeaste shall go out at the house dozes, and shut vp the house seuen dayes. And the Pzeaste shall come agayne the seuenth daye, and yf he se that the plage be increased in the walles of the house, the Pzeaste shall commaunde them to take awaye the stones in which the plage is, & let them cast them into a foule place without the cytie, and he shall commaunde the house to be scraped wythyn rounde aboute, and powze out the dust (that they scrape of) wythout the cytie into a foule place. And they shall take other stones, and put them in the places of those stones, and other mozter, to plaster ꝑ house wythall. And yf the plage come agayne and breake out in the house, after that he hath taken awaye the stones & scraped ꝑ walles of the house, and after that he hath playstered the house anewe: ꝑ pzeaste shall come and se it. And yf he perceaue that the plage hath growne further in the house, it is a fretynge lepzosye in the house. It is therfoze vncleane. And he shall breake downe the house. And the stones of it, & the tymbze therof, & all the mozter of the house, shall he carye out of the cytye vnto a foule place. Moreouer he that goeth into the house all the whyle that it is shut vp, shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen: he that lepeth in the house, shall washe hys clothes: he lyke wyse that eateth in the house, shall washe hys clothes.

And yf the Pzeaste come and se, that the plage hath spzede no further in the house (after that it is newe playstered) ꝑ pzeste shall iudge that house cleane, because the plage is healed. And let hym take to clense the house wythall: two byzdes, cedar wodd, purple clothe and yssope. And he shall kyll one of the byzdes in an erthē vessell and vpō runnynge water: & take the cedar wodd, & the yssope, & the purple & the lyuynge byzde, & dyppe thē in the bloude of the slayne byzde, and in the runnynge water, and spzynkle the house seuen tymes, & clense the house with the bloud

¶ What Aaron must do. The cleansynge of the sanctuary. Of the fraute of cleansynge. Aaron confesseth the synnes of the chyldren of Israel.

A
*Leui.r.a. AND the Lord spake vnto Moses * after the deeth of the two sonnes of Aaron, whē they offered before the Lorde, and dyed: And he sayde vnto Moses: speake vnto Aarō thy brother, that he come not at all tymes into the holy place wythin the vayle before ỹ mercyseate, whych is vpō the arke, that he dye not. For I will appeare
*Leui.re.viij.b in the * clowde vpon the mercyseate.

But with thys thynge shall Aaron come ☞ into the holy place: euen wt a bullock ☞ for synne, and wyth a ram for a burntofferynge. He shall put the holy lynen albe vpō him, and shall haue a lynen breche vpō hys flesche, and shall be gyrded wyth a lynen gyrdell, & put the lynen mytre vpon hys heede: These are holy garmentes: therfore shall he washe his flesche in water, whan he doth put thē on. And he shall take of the multitude of ỹ chyldren of Israel, two he goates for synne, and a ram for a burntofferynge.

And Aaron shall offer hys bullock for
*Deu.ix.b. synne, * ☞ and make an attonement for ☞ hym, and for hys house. And he shall take the two goates, and present them before the Lorde at the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And Aaron shall cast lottes ouer the ij goates: one lotte shalbe for the Lorde, and the other for the scapegoate. And Aarō shall brynge the goote vpon whych the Lordes lotte fell, and offer hym for synne. But the goate on whych the lotte fell to scape, shall be sett alyue before the Lorde, to reconcyle wyth, and to let hym goo (as a scape goate) fre, into the wyldernesse. And Aaron shall brynge hys bullock for synne, and reconcyle for him selfe, and for hys house, and shall kyll hys bullock for synne.

And he shall take a censer full of burnynge coles out of the alter before the Lord, and shall fyll hys handfull of swete cens, beaten small, and brynge them wythyn the vayle, and put the cens vpon the fyre before the Lorde: that the cloude of the cens maye couer the mercy seate that is vpon the wytnesse, and that he dye not. *And he shall take
*Deu.ix.d. Leui.r.a. of the bloude of the bullock, and sprynkle it wyth hys synger vpon the mercyseate eastwarde: and before the mercyseate shall he sprynkle of the bloude wyth hys synger seuen tymes.

Then shall he kyll the goate that is the peoples synne offrynge, & brynge hys bloude wythin the vayle, & doo wyth that bloude, as he dyd wt the bloude of ỹ bullock, sprynklynge it vpon the mercyseate, and before the mercyseate. And he shall reconcyle the holy place from the vnclennesses of the chyldrē of Israel, and from their trespaces in all theyr synnes. And so shall he doo for the tabernacle of witnesse that is set amonge them, euen amonge their vnclennesses. D

* And let there be no bodye in the tabernacle of wytnesse, when he goeth in to make an attonement in the holy place, vntyll he come out. And let hym make an attonement for hym selfe and for hys housholde, and for all the multitude of Israel. And he shall go out vnto the alter that is before the Lorde, & reconcyle vpon it, and shall take of the bloude of the bullock, and of the bloude of ỹ goate, and put it vpon the hornes of the altare rounde aboute, and sprynckle of the bloude vpon it with his synger seuen tymes, and clense it, and halowe it from the vnclēnesses of the chyldren of Israel. *Leui.r.a.

And when he hath made an ende of reconcylinge the holy place, and the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the alter, he shall brynge the lyue goate: and Aaron shall put both hys handes vpon the heed of the lyue goate, and confesse ouer hym all the mysdeades of the chyldren of Israell, and all their trespaces, in all their synnes: puttynge them vpon the heed of the goate, and sende hym awaye (by the hande of a conuenient man) into the wyldernesse. And the goate shall bere vpon hym all theyr mysdeades vnto the wyldernesse, and he shall let the goate goo fre into the wyldernesse.

And Aaron shall come into the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and put of the lynen clothes whych he put on (when he went in into the holy place) and leaue thē there. And lett hym washe hys flesche with water in the holy place, and put on hys owne rayment, and then come out, and offer hys burntoffrynge and the burntoffrynge of the people, and make an attonement for hym selfe and for the people, and the fatt of the synofferynge shall F be burne vpon the alter. And he that caryed forth the goate to ☞ Azazell, shall washe D hys clothes, and bathe hys flesche in water, and then come into the hoste.

And the bullock whych is for synne, and the goate that is for synne, (whose bloude was brought in, to clēse the holy place) shall one carye out wythout the hoste to be burnt in the fyre, wyth theyr skynnes, their flesche & their donge. And he that burneth them, shall washe hys clothes, and bathe hys flesche in water, and then come into the hooste. And thys shalbe an ordinaūce for euer vnto you:

that

that in the tenth daye of the seuenth moneth, ye ☞ bible youre soules, and do no worke at all: whether it be one of youre selues or a straunger that sojourneth amonge you, for that daye shall the preest make an attonemēt for you to clense you, and that ye maye be cleane from all youre synnes before the Lorde. G Let it be a Sabboth of rest vnto you, and ye shall humble youre soules, by an ordinaunce for euer.

And the Preaste that is anoynted, and whose hande was consecrated (to mynistre in hys fathers steade) shall make the attonement, and shall put on the lynen clothes & holy vestimentes, and reconcyle the holy sanctuary and the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and shall clense the alter, and make an attonemēt then for the preastes and for all the people of the congregacyon. And this shalbe an * euerlastynge ordinaunce vnto you, that he make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel for all their synnes once a yere: & he dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moses. * Exo.xxx.b.

¶ All sacrifyce must be brought to the dore of the tabernacle. To deuyls maye they not offer.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron & vnto hys sonnes and vnto all the chyldren of Israel and saye vnto them: Thys is the thynge which the Lorde hath charged, sayinge: what man soeuer of the house of Israel kylleth an ore, or lambe or goate in ꝑ hoste, or that killeth it out of the hoste, and bryngeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, to offer an offerynge vnto the Lorde before the dwellynge place of the Lorde, bloude shalbe imputed vnto that man, as though he had shed bloude, and that man shall be roted out from amonge his people.

Wherfore whan the chyldren of Israel bryng their offeringes, that they offer in the wyde felde, they shulde bryng them vnto ꝑ Lorde: euen vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse to the preaste, to offer them for peaceofferynges vnto the Lord. And ꝑ preaste mnst sprynkle the bloude vpō the alter of the Lorde whych is before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and burne the fatt for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And lett thē no moare offer their offeringes vnto deuyls, after whom they haue gone a whorynge. Thys shalbe an ordynaunce for euer vnto them in their generacyons.

And thou shalt saye vnto them: whatsoeuer man it be of the house of Israel or of the straungers whych sojourne amōge you that offereth a burntofferynge or sacrifyce, & bryngeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse to offer it vnto the Lorde, that mā shall perysshe from amonge hys people. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speke vnto Aaron, and saye: Whosoeuer of thy seed in their generacions hath any defaute, let hym not preace for to offer bread vnto his God * for whosoeuer hath any blemyshe, shall not come nere: as yf he be blynde or lame, or that hath a brused nose, or that hath any mysshapen membre, or is broken foted, or broken handed, or ✠ haue no heere on his eye browes, or haue a webbe or other blemishe in his eye, or be mawnge, or skaulde, or hath hys stones broken.

No man that hath a blemyshe, and is of the seed of Aaron the preaste, shall come nye to offer the sacrifyces of the Lorde. Whan he hath a defaute, let him not preace to offer the bread of hys God. Let him eate the bread of hys God: euen of the most holy and of the holy: Onely let him not goo in vnto ỹ vayle, nor come nye the alter, when he is defamed, that he polute not my sanctuary, for I am the Lorde that sanctifye them. And Moses tolde it vnto Aaron and to hys sonnes, and vnto all the chyldren of Israel.

¶ Who ought to abstayne from eatynge the thynges that were offred. Howe, what, and when they shulde be offered.

And the

3 AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto Aarō and hys sonnes, that they be separated from the ☞ holy thynges of the chyldren of Israel, and that they polute not my holy name in those thynges whych they halowe vnto me: I am the Lorde. Saye vnto them: whosoeuer he be of all youre seed amonge youre generacyons after you, that goeth vnto ꝑ holy thynges whych the chyldre of Israel halowe vnto the Lorde, hauynge hys vnclennes vpon hym: that soule shall perysshe from out of my syght. I am the Lorde.

* Leui.xv.a. * What man soeuer of the seed of Aaron is a leper or hath a runnynge yssue, he shall not eate of ꝑ holy thynges vntyll he be cleane. And whoso toucheth any mā that is vncleane ouer the soule of the deed, or a man whose seed runneth from him in hys slepe, or whosoeuer toucheth any wormе, wherby he maye be made vncleane, or a man, of whom he maye take vnclennesse (whatsoeuer vnclennesse he hath) ꝑ same soule that hath touched any soche, shalbe vncleane vntyll euen, and shall not eate of the holy thinges, vntyll he haue washed his flesshe with water. And 7 when the sonne is downe, he shalbe cleane, & shall afterwarde eate of the holy thinges: for * Exo.xxii.c. almoche as it is hys fode. * Of a beast that dieth alone, or is rent wyth wylde beastes (wherby he maye be defyled) he shall not eate: I am the Lorde. Let them kepe therfore myne ordynaunce, lest they for the same lade synne vpon them, and dye for it, yf they defyle it. I the Lorde sanctifye them.

There shall no straunger eate of the holy thynge, neythre a gest of the preastes, neyther shall an hyred seruaūte eate of ꝑ holy thinge. 11 But yf the Preaste bye any soule wyth money, he shall eate of it, lyke as he that is borne in hys house, shall they eate of hys bread. If the Preastes daughter also be maryed vnto a straūger, she maye not eate of the halowed heue offrynges. Notwythstandynge yf the Preastes daughter be a wedowe or denorced & haue no chylde, but is returned vnto her fathers house agayne, she shall eate of her fathers bread, as well as she dyd in her youth. But there shall no straunger eate therof. If 13 a man eate of the holy thynge vnwittingly, he shall put the fyfth parte ther vnto, and geue it vnto the Preaste ☞ wyth the halowed thynge. And the Preastes shall not defyle the holy thynges of the chyldren of Israel (which they offer vnto the Lorde) to lade them selues wt myssdoynge & trespace whyle they eate their holy thynges, for I the Lorde do halowe them.

C And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto Aaron and hys sonnes and vnto all the chyldre of Israel, and saye vnto the: whatsoeuer he be of ꝑ house of Israel or straunger in Israel, ꝑ will offer hys sacrifyce for all his vowes, and for all hys frewyll offeringes which they will offer vnto ꝑ Lorde for a burntofferynge, ye shall offre (to reconcyle youre selues) a male without blemyshe of the oxen, of ꝑ shepe, or of the goates. But whatsoeuer hath a blemyshe, ꝑ shall ye not offre, for ye shall gett no fauoure therwith.

And whosoeuer bringeth a peace offeringe vnto the Lorde (accordynge as he is apoynted) or a vowe, or a frewyll offeringe, in oxe or shepe, that is without defaute, he shall be accepted. There shalbe also no blemyshe therin: blinde, or broke, or wounded, or haue a wen, or be mawnge, or scabbed. Ye shall not offre soche vnto ꝑ Lorde, nor put an offerynge of any soche vpō the alter vnto ꝑ Lorde.

An oxe or a shepe that hath any membre D out of proporcion, mayst thou offer for a frewill offerynge: but for a vowe it shall not be accepted. Ye shall not offer vnto the Lorde ꝑ which is broosed, or broken, or plucked out, or cut awaye, nether shall ye make any soch in youre lande, nether of a straungers hande shall ye offer bread vnto youre God of any soche. Because their corrupcyon is in them, and they haue defaute in them selues, and therfore shall they not be accepted for you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: whē an oxe, or a shepe, or a goate is brought forth, it shalbe seuen dayes vnder ꝑ damme: And frō the .viij. daye forth, it shalbe accepted, for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And whether it be oxe or shepe, ye shall not kill it and her yonge both in one daye.

When ye wyll offre a thankofferynge vnto the Lorde, offre it that ye maye be accepted. And the same daye it must be eaten vp, so that ye leaue none of it vntyll ꝑ morowe. I am the Lorde. Therfore shall ye kepe my commaundementes and do them, I am the Lorde. Neyther shall ye polute my holy name, but I will be halowed amonge the chyldren of Israel. I am the Lorde which halowe you, and that brought you out of the lāde of Egypte, to be youre God: I am the Lorde.

C The.xxiij. Chapter.

C Of the holy dayes, that they shulde kepe.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, A sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, & saye vnto them: These are my feastes, euen the feastes of the Lorde, whych ye shall call holy conuocacyons. * Sixe dayes ye shall worke, but * Exo.xx.
the seuenth daye is the Sabboth of reast, an holy conuocacyon: so that ye doo no worke therin, it is the Sabboth of the Lorde, in all youre dwellynges. These are the feastes of the Lorde, euen holy conuocacyons, whyche ye shall proclayme in their seasons. In the .xiiij. daye of the fyrst moneth at euen is the is the Lordes * Passeouer. And in the fyfteneth daye of the same moneth is the feast of swete bread vnto the Lorde: seuen dayes ye must eate vnleuended bread. * In the fyrst daye ye shall haue an holy conuocacyon: ye shall do no laborious worke therin. 25 But ye shall offer sacrifyces vnto the Lorde thorow out those seuen dayes, and in the seuenth daye is an holy conuocacyon: ye shall do no laborious worke therin.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel & saye vnto them * when ye be come into the lande (whyche I geue vnto you) & repe downe the haruest therof, ye shall bringe a sheffe of the fyrst frutes of youre haruest vnto the preast, whych shall waue the sheffe before the Lorde to be accepted for you: & euen the morowe after the Sabboth the Preaste shall waue it. And ye shall offer that daye whē ye waue the sheffe, an he lābe wythout blemish of a yeare olde, for a burntoffrynge vnto the Lorde: and the meatoffrynge therof, shalbe made of two tenth deales of fyne floure mēgled with oyle, to be a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde for a swete sauoure: and the drynkoffring therof shalbe of wyne, euen the fourth deale of an hyn. And ye shall eate nether bread, nor parched corne, nor furmenty, nor new corne, vntyll the selfe same daye that ye haue brought an offrynge vnto youre God. Let thys be a lawe for euer in youre generacions and in all youre dwellynges.

And ye shall counte from the morowe after the Sabboth: euē from the daye that ye brought the sheffe of the waueoffrynge. vij. Sabbathes complete: euē vnto the morowe after the seuenth Sabbath shall ye nōbre fyfty dayes. And ye shall bringe a new meatoffrynge vnto the Lorde. And ye shall bringe out of youre habitacions two waue loues made of two tēth deales of fyne floure and that are made wyth leuen for fyrst frutes vnto the Lord. And ye shall bringe with the breed * seuen lambes wythout defaymite of one yeare of age, and one ponge oxe & two rammes, whych shall serue for a burntoffrynge vnto the Lorde, wyth meatoffringes and theyr drynkoffrynges, to be a sacrifyce for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

Then ye shall offer an he goate for a synneoffrynge: and two lābes of one yeare olde for a peaceoffrynge. And the preast shall waue the wyth the breed of the fyrst frutes before the Lorde, and wyth the two lambes. And the se holy thynges of the Lorde, shalbe the preastes. And ye shall proclayme the same daye, that it maye be an holy connocacyō vnto you: ye shall do no laboryo⁹ worke therin: let it be a lawe for euer in all your dwellynges, and in all youre generacyons.

* And when ye repe downe your haruest, thou shalt not make cleane ryddaunce of thy felde, nether shalt thou make any aftergathe rynge of thy haruest: but shalt leaue it vnto the poore and the straunger. I am the Lorde youre God.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye: In the seuenth moneth, in the fyrst daye of the moneth shall ye haue rest, * euē the remembraūce of blowynge, an holy connocacyon: ye shall do no laborious worke therin, but offer sacrifyce vnto the Lorde.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: the * tenth daye also of the selfe seuenth moneth, is a daye of reconcilynge, therfore shall it be an holy conuocaciō vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, and offer sacrifyce vnto the Lorde. Ye shall do no worke the same daye, for it is a daye of reconcylynge, to make an atonement for you before the Lorde your God. For whatsoeuer soule it be that humbleth not hym selfe that daye, he shalbe destroyed from amonge hys people. And whatsoeuer soule do any maner worke that daye, the same soule will I destroye from amonge his people. Ye shall do no maner worke therfore: Let it be a lawe for euer in youre generacyons and in all your dwellynges. Let it be vnto you a Sabboth of reste, and ye shall humble your soules in the nynth daye of the moneth at euen: from euen to euen shall ye rest in your Sabboth.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayeg: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye: * the fyftenth daye of the same seuenth moneth is the feast of tabernacles, seuen dayes vnto ỹ Lord. The fyrst daye is an holy connocacyon: ye shall do no laborypous worke. Seuen dayes ye shall offer sacrifyce vnto the Lord, and in the eyght daye shalbe an holy connocacyon vnto you, and ye shall offer sacrifyces vnto the Lorde. It is the collecyon, and ye shall do no laborious worke therin.

These are the feastes of the Lord, whiche ye shall call holy connocacyons, for to offer sacrifyce vnto ỹ Lord, burntoffrynge, meatoffrynge, peaceoffrynge, and drynkeoffrynges, euery daye hys due sacrifyce besyde the Sabbothes of the Lorde, & besyde youre gyftes, besyde all your vowes, and all your free wylloffrynges, whyche ye geue vnto the Lorde.

Moreouer in the fyftenth daye of the seuenth moneth whan ye haue gathered in the frute of the lande, ye shall kepe holy daye vnto the Lorde seuen dayes. The fyrst daye shall be as a Sabboth: lykewise in the eyght daye shalbe the rest of the Sabboth. And ye shall take you in the fyrst daye, the frutes of goodly trees, braunches of palme trees, and the bowes of thycke trees, and wyllowes of the brooke, and shall reioyse before the Lord your God seuē dayes. And ye shall kepe this feast vnto the Lorde seuē dayes in the yeare. It shalbe a lawe for euer in youre generacyons, that ye kepe it in the seuenth moneth. Ye shall dwell in boothes seuen dayes: euen all that are Israelites borne, shall dwell in boothes, that youre childrē after you maye knowe, howe that I made the childzen of Israel to dwell in boothes, when I brought thē out of the lande of Egypt: I am the Lord youre God ✠. And Moses spake vnto the childzen of Israel concernynge the feastes of the Lorde.

¶ The.xxiiij.Chapter.

¶ The oyle for the lampes. He that cursseth must be stoned. He that killeth shalbe killed. &c.

AND the lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: * cōmaunde the childzen of Israel that they bringe vnto the, pure oyle olyue beaten for lyghtes, to cause the lāpes to burne allwaye: wythout the vayle of wytnesse in the tabernacle of wytnesse shall Aaron dresse them both euen and mornynge before the Lorde allwayes. Let it be a lawe for euer in youre generacyons. He shall dresse the lampes vpon the pure candelstycke before the Lorde perpetually.

And thou shalt take fyne flour, and bake twelue wastels therof, two tenthdeales shalbe in one wastell. And thou shalt set thē in two rowes, syxe on a rowe vpō the ☞ pure table before the Lorde, and put pure frankencens vpon the rowes, that they maye be bread of remembraunce, and an offrynge to the Lorde. Euery Sabboth he shall put thē in rowes before the Lorde euermoare: of the childzen of Israel shall they be offred for an euerlastynge couenaunte. * And they shall be Aarons and hys sonnes, whych shall eate them in the holy place. For they are most holy vnto hym of the offerynges of the Lorde by a perpetuall statute.

And the sonne of an Israelitish wife whose father was an Egyptian, went out amonge the childzen of Israel. And thys sonne of the Israelitish wyfe & a man of Israel, stroue together in the hoste. And the Israelitish womās sonne * blasphemed the name of the Lorde, and † cursed, and they brought hym vnto Moses. Hys mothers name was Salomyth, whych was the daughter of Dibzy, of the trybe of Dan: and they * put hym in warde, that the mynde of the Lorde myght be shewed them.

☞ And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: bringe the cursed speaker wythout the hoste, and lett all that heard hym, put theyr handes vpon hys heed, and let all the multitude stone hym. And thou shalt speake vnto the childzen of Israel sayinge: Whosoeuer curseth hys God, shall bere his synne: And he that blasphemeth the name of the Lorde, let hym be slayne, and all the multitude shall stone hym to deeth.

Whether he be borne in the londe or a straunger, whā he blasphemeth the name of the Lorde, let hym be slayne. And * he that killeth any man, let hym dye the death. And he that killeth a beast, let hym make hym good, ☞ soule for soule. And yf a mā mayme hys neyghboure, as he hath done, so shall it be done to hym: broke for broke * eye for eye, and toth for toth: euen as he hath maymed a man, so shall he be maymed agayne. And he that killeth a beast, let him paye for it: and he that killeth a man, let hym dye. Ye shall haue one maner of lawe: euen for the straunger as well as for one of youre selues, for I am the Lorde youre God.

And Moses tolde the childzen of Israel, and they brought hym (that had cursed) out of the hoste, and stoned hym wyth stones. And the childzen of Israel dyd as the Lord commaunded Moses.

¶ The.xxv.Chapter.

¶ The Sabboth of the.vij. yeares, and of the yeare of iubelie, otherwyse called the fyftyth yeare.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses in mount Sinai sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israel, and saye vnto them: when ye be come into the lande whych I geue you, the lande shall rest, & kepe Sabboth vnto the Lorde. * Syxe yeares † shalt sowe thy felde, and syxe yeare thou shalt cut thy vinyarde, and gether in the frute therof. But the * seuenth yeare shall be a Sabboth of rest vnto the lāde. The Lordes Sabboth it shalbe: † shalt nether sowe thy felde, nor cut thy vyneyarde. That which groweth of the owne accorde thou shalt not reape, nether gather † grapes that thou hast left behynde, for it is a yeare of rest vnto the lāde. And the rest of the lāde shalbe meat for you: euen for the, for thy seruaunte, and for thy mayde, for thy hyred seruaunte, and for the straunger that sogeourneth wyth the: and for thy catell, and for the beastes that are in thy lande, shall all the encrease therof be meat. And thou shalt nombre seuen ☞ Sabbathes of yeares vnto the, euen seuen tymes seuen yeare: and the space of the seuen Sabbathes of yeares will be vnto the xlix. yeare. And then thou shalt make a trōpe blowe: in the tenth daye of the seuenth moneth, euen in the daye of attonemēt shall ye make the trompe blowe, throwe out all youre lāde. And thou shalt halowe that yeare: euē the fyftyth yeare, & proclayme lyber-

tye thorowe out the lande vnto all the inhabiters therof, for it shalbe a yeare of ☞ iubelye vnto you, and ye shall retourne: euery man vnto hys possessyon, and euery man vnto hys kynred agayne. A yeare of iubelye shall that fiftieth yeare be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe nether repe that which groweth of it selfe, nor gether the grapes that are left. For that yeare of iubelie shalbe holy vnto you: but ye shall eate of the encrease therof out of the felde. In the yeare of thys iubelye ye shall retourne euery man vnto hys possessyon agayne.

If thou sellest ought vnto thy neyghboure, or byest of thy neyghbours hande, ye shall not disceaue one another: but accordynge to the nombre of yeares after the iubelye yeare thou shalt bye of thy neyghboure, and accordynge vnto the nombre of yeares & ☜ of ỹ frutes, he shall sell vnto the. Accordinge vnto the multitude of yeares, he shall encrease the pryse therof and accordyng to the fewnesse of yeares, he shall minyshe the pryce of it: for the nombre of frutes doth he sell vnto the. * Disceaue not ye therfore euery mā his neyghboure, but thou shalt feare thy God. For I am the Lorde youre God: wherfore ye shall do after myne ordinaūces and kepe my lawes, and do them, and ye shall dwell in the lande in safetye. And the lande shall geue her frute, and ye shall eate youre fyll, and dwell therin in safetye.

And yf ye shall saye: what shall we eate the seuenth yeare, for we shall not sowe, nor gether in oure encrease? I will sende my blessynge vpō you in the syxt yeare, and it shall bryngе forth frute for thre yeares: & ye shall sowe the eyght yeare, and eate yet of olde corne vntyll the .ix. yeare: euen vntyll her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde stoare. The lande shall not be solde to be wast: for * the lande is myne, and ye but straūgers and sotourners with me. In all the lande of youre possessyon, ☞ ye shall graunt a redempcion for the lande.

* Yf thy brother be wared poore, and hath solde awaye of hys possessyon: and yf any of his kyn come to redeme it, let him bye out that whyche hys ☞ brother solde. And yf he haue no man to redeme it, let hys hande get asmuch as maye be sufficyent to bye it oute agayne, and let hym counte howe lōge it hath bene solde, & delyuer the rest vnto the man to whome he solde it, that he maye retourne to hys possessyon agayne. But and yf hys hande cannot gett sufficyent to restore to the other agayne, then that whyche is solde shall remayne in the hande of hym that hath boughte it, vntyll the yeare of iubelye: and in the Jubelye it shall come out, and he shall retourne vnto hys possessyon agayne.

And yf a man sell a house or a dwellynge wythin the walles of a cytie, he maye bye it out agayne wythin a whole yeare after it is solde: euē any daye of the yeare shall he redeme it agayne. But and yf he bye it not out agayne wythin the space of a full yeare, then the house that is in ỹ walled citie, shalbe stablished, and be his owne that boughte it, ād hys successoures after him, and shall not go out in the iubelie. But the houses of vyllages which haue no walles roūde aboute thē, are counted as the felde of the coūtre, & therfore they maye be boughte out agayne, and shall returne in the iubelye.

Notwithstandinge the cyties of the leuytes, and the houses of the cyties of their possession, maye ỹ leuites redeme at all seasons. And yf a mā purchase ought of the Leuites, the house that was solde, and the cite of their possession shall go out in the yeare of iubelie: for the houses of the cyties of the leuites, are their possession amōge the chyldrē of Jsrael. But the felde of the suburbe that is besyde their cyties, maye not be solde: but is theyr perpetuall possession.

If thy brother be waren poore, and fallen in decaye with the, thou shalt releue hi, both the straūger and sotourner, that he maye lyue with the. * And thou shalt take none vsurye of him, or vantage. But thou shalt feare thy God, that thy brother maye lyue with the. Thou shalt not geue hym thy money vpon vsurye, ☞ nor lende him thy corne for increace. ☜ I am the Lorde youre God, which brought you out of the lande of Egypte to geue you the lande of Canaan, & to be youre God.

* ✠ If thy brother that dwelleth by the, be waren poore, and be solde vnto the, thou shalt not compell him to the bondage of seruauntes: but as an hyred seruaunte and as a sotourner he shalbe with the, and shall serue the vnto the yeare of iubelie, & then shall he departe from the: both he and his chyldren with him, and shall retourne vnto his awne kynred agayne, and vnto the possessiō of his fathers: for they are my seruauntes, whych I brought out of the lande of Egypte, and shall not therfore be solde as bondmē. Thou shalt not raygne ouer hym cruelly, but shalt feare thy God. Thy bondseruaunte, and thy bondmayde which thou shalt haue, shalbe of the heythen that are roūde aboute you: of them shall ye purchace seruauntes and maydes, and of the chyldren of the straungers that are sotourners amonge you, & of theyr generacyons that are wyth you, which they begate in youre lande. These shalbe youre possessyon, and ye shall take them as inheritaunce for youre chyldren after you, to possesse them, they shalbe youre bondmen for euer. But ouer youre brethren the chyldren of Jsrael, ye shall not raygne one ouer another ther cruelly.

G Yf a sotourner or straunger ware ryche by the, and thy brother that dwelleth by him ware poore, and sell hym selfe vnto the straunger or sogeourner by the, or to any of the straugers kyn: after that he is solde, he maye be redemed agayne: one of his brethren (that is) ether his vncle or his vncles sonne may bye hym out: or any that is nye of kynne vnto hym of his kynred, maye redeme hym: ether yf his hande can get so moch, he maye be loosed. And he shall reken wyth hym that bought hym, from the yeare that he was solde in, vnto the yeare of iubelye, & the pryce of hys byenge shalbe valued accordynge vnto the nombre of yeares. As a hyred seruaunte shall he be wyth hym. If there be yet many yeares behynde, accordynge vnto the let hym geue agayne for hys deliueraunce, of ye money that he was bought for. Yf there remayne but fewe yeares vnto the yeare of iubelye, let hym counte wyth him agayne, and accordynge vnto his yeares geue hym agayne for hys redempcyon, and he shalbe with hym yeare by yeare as an hyred seruaunte & the other shall not raygne cruelly ouer him in thy sighte. If he be not redemed thus, he shall goo out in the yeare of iubelie, both he and his children with hym: for the children of Israel are my seruauntes, whych I brought out of the lande of Egypte. I am the Lorde youre God.

And yf ye wyll not yet for all thys herke vnto me, but shall walke agaynst me, I will walke contrarye vnto you also in indignacyon, and wyll chastice you seuen tymes for Deut.xxv.b.g your synnes. * And ye shall eate the flesh of youre sonnes and the flesche of youre daughters shall ye deuoure. I wyll destroye youre hye places, and roote out youre ymages, and cast youre carkasses vpon the bodyes of youre ydolles, and my soule shall abhorre you. And I wyll make your cyties desolate, and bringe youre sanctuarye vnto nought, and wyll not smell the swetnesse of youre odoures.

I wyll bringe the lande vnto a wyldernesse, and youre enemyes which dwell therin, shall wondre at it. And I will strawe you amonge the hethen, and will drawe out a swerde after you, and youre lande shalbe waste, and youre cyties desolate. Then shall the lande enioye her Sabbothes, as longe as it lyeth voyde, and ye shalbe in your enemyes lande: euen then shall the lande rest, and reioyse in her Sabbothes. As longe as it lyeth voyde it shall rest, because it dyd not reste in youre Sabbothes, when ye dwelt vpon it.

And vpō them that are left alyue of you, I wyll sende a fayntnesse into theyr hertes in the lande of theyr enemyes: & the sounde of a shakyng leef, shall chace thē, and whā they flee the swerde, they shall fall: no man folowinge vpon them. They shall fall one vpon another, as it were before a swerde, euen no man folowynge vpō them, and ye shall haue no power to stande before your enemyes: And ye shall perish amonge the hethen, & the lande of youre enemyes shall eate you vp.

And they that are left of you, shall pyne awaye in their vnryghteousnes, euē in their enemyes lāde, and in the mysdeades of their fathers shall they consume. And they shall confesse their mysdeades and the mysdeades of their fathers for their trespace, which they haue trespaced agaynst me, and for that also that they haue walked cōtrarye vnto me.
Therfore I also wyll walke contrary vnto them, and wyll bringe them into the lande of their enemyes. And then at the leest waye their vncircumcysed hertes shall be tamed, and they shall make an attonement for their mysdeades.

Deut.iiij.e. And * I will remembre my couenaunt, with Jacob, and my bōde with Isahac, and myne appointment with Abrahā, and will thynke on the lande. The lande shall be lefte of them, and shall enioye her Sabbothes, whyle she lyeth wast without thē. And they shall make an attonement for their mysdeades, because they despised my lawes, and because their soule refused myne ordinaunces: And yet for all that whē they be in the lāde of their enemyes, * I will not cast them a- * Deut.iij.e waye, neyther will abhorre thē, to destroye them vtterly, and to breake myne appoyntmēt with thē: for I am the Lorde their God. I wyll for their sakes remēbre the couenaūt made vnto their fathers, whom I brought out of the lande of Egypte in the syghte of the hethen, that I myght be their God: I am the Lorde.

These are the ordinaunces, and iudgemētes, and lawes, which the Lorde made betwene him and the children of Israel in mouṫ Sinai, by the hande of Moses.

¶ The.xxvij. Chapter.

¶ Of diuerses vowes, and of tythes &c.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the children of Israel, and saye vnto them: If any mā will geue a synguler vowe vnto ỹ Lord accordynge to the value of the soules, the value of the male from twentye yeare olde vnto sixtye shalbe fyftie * sycles of siluer, after the weyght of the sanctuary. And yf it be a female, the value shalbe thyrtye sicles. And from fyue yeares to twentye, the male shalbe set at twentye sicles, and the female at ten sycles. And from a moneth vnto fyue yeare, the male shalbe set at fyue sycles of syluer, and the female at thre. And he that is syxtie yeare olde, and aboue, shalbe valued at fiftene sicles, and the woman at ten. But If he be to poore so to be set, he shall present himselfe before the preast: & the preast shall value him, accordinge as the hande of him ỹ vowed is able to gett, euen so shall the preest value him.

If it be a beaste of which men bringe an offrynge vnto the Lorde: all that any mā geueth of soche vnto the Lorde, & shalbe counted holy, he shall not alter it nor chaunge it: a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. And yf he chaunge beast for beast, then both the same beast and it also wherwith it was chaunged shalbe holy. If it be any maner of vncleane beast, of which men do not offer a sacrifyce vnto the Lord, he shall set the beast before the preast, and the preast shall value it, whether it be good or bad. And as ỹ preast setteth it, so shall it be. But yf he will bye it agayne, he shall geue the fyft parte moare aboue that it was set at.

If any man dedicate his house, to be holy vnto the Lord, the preast shall set it, whether it be good or bad: and as the preast hath set it, so shall the value be. And whan he that & sanctifyed it wyll redeme hys house, lett hym geue the fyft parte of the money that it was iudged at therto, and it shalbe hys:

If a mā & halowe a pece of hys enhereted lande vnto the Lorde, it shalbe set accordynge to ỹ sede therof. If it beare & an bonner of barlye, it shalbe set at fyfftie sycles of syluer. If he halowe his felde immediatly from the yeare of iubely, it shalbe worth accordinge as it is estemed. But and yf he halowe hys felde after the Jubelye, the preast shall reckon the money accordinge to the nõbre of the yeares that remayne vnto the yeare of Jubely folowynge, & there after it shall be lower sett.

If he that consecrated the felde, wyll redeme it agayne, let hym put the fyft parte of the pryce that it was set at there vnto, and it shalbe hys. And yf he wyll not redeme the felde, but selleth the felde to another man, he (that vowed) maye redeme it nomore. But when the felde goeth out in the yeare of iubelye, it shalbe made holy vnto the Lord: euen as a felde that is vtterly put awaye, and it shall be the preastes possessyon.

If a man sanctyfye vnto the Lord a felde, whych he hath boughte, and is not of his enheritaunce, the preast shall reken vnto hym what it is worth vnto the yeare of iubelye, & he shall geue the prye that it is set at, the same daye, as a thynge consecrated vnto the Lorde. And in the yeare of iubelye, the felde shall returne vnto hi of whome he boughte it, cuẽ to him, whose enheritaũce of lãd it is.

And all settynge shalbe accordynge to the * Exo.xxx.b. sycle * of the sanctuary. One sycle cõteyneth twentye halfpens.

* But the fyrst borne of the beastes that is appoynted vnto the Lorde, maye no man sanctifye: whether it be oxe or shepe, for it is the Lordes allredy. If it be an vncleane beast, he shall redeme it, as it is sett at, and geue the fyfth parte moare therto: Or, yf it be not redemed, it shalbe solde, accordynge to the value. * Deu.15.a

Notwithstandynge, no dãned thynge that a man putteth from hym and debycateth vnto the Lorde, of all his good (whether it be mã or beast or lande of hys enheritaunce) maye be sold or redemed: for euery thynge so put awaye, is most holy vnto the Lorde. Let no damned thynge that a mã separateth, be redemed, but dye the death.

Euery tyth of the lande whych is of the sede of the lande, or of the frute of the trees, is the Lordes, and is sanctified vnto ỹ Lord. And yf a man wyll redeme ought of hys tythes, let him adde the fifth parte therto. And euery tyth of oxe and of shepe and of euery beest that goeth vnder the rodde, euen euery tenth shalbe holy vnto the Lord. He shall not loke yf it be good or bad, ner chaunge it. Els, yf he chaũge it, both it, and that it was chaunged withall, shalbe halowed vnto the Lorde, and maye not be redemed.

These are the commaundemẽtes, whych the Lorde commaunded by Moses vnto the chyldren of Israel in mount Sinai.

¶ The fourth boke of Moses called in the Hebrue, Naiedabber, and in the Latyn Numeri.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

¶ All that are apte for batell, are nombred. The tribe of Leui muste mynister in the tabernacle.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the wildernesse of Sinay, in the tabernacle of wytnesse, the fyrst daye of ꝑ seconde moneth in the seconde yeare after they were come out of the lande of Egypte, saynge: * take ye the summe of all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, after theyr kynredes & housholde of theyr fathers wyth the nombre of theyr names, all that are males, heed by heed, from. xx. yeare & aboue: euē all that go forthe to the warre in Israel, thou and Aaron shall nombre them thorowe out theyr armyes, and wyth you shalbe men of euery tribe, wherof euery one is heed mā of the house of hys fathers.

* Exo. xxx. b. Num. xxvi. a & xxxi. xxiij. a

And these are the names of the men that shall stande with you: of (the tribe of) Rubē, Elizur the sonne of Sedeur: of Simeō, Selumiel the sonne of Suri Sadai: of Juda, Nahellon ꝑ sonne of Aminadab: of Israchar, Nathanael the sonne of zuar: of zabulon, Eliab the sonne of Helon. Amonge the chyldrē of Joseph: of Ephraim, Elisama the sonne of Amihud: of Manasse, Gamaliel ꝑ sonne of Peda zur: of Ben Jamin, Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni: of Dan, Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai: of Aser, Pagiel the sonne of Ocran: of Gad, Elisaph the sonne of Deguel: of Nephthali, Ahira the sonne of Enan.

These were of greate fame in the congregacyō, Lordes of the tribes of their fathers, and heades ouer thousandes in Israel. And Moses and Aarō toke these men (which are expressed by theyr names) and gethered all the congregacyon together, the fyrst daye of the seconde moneth, and they were rekened thorowe out their kinredes & houses of their fathers by name from. xx. yeare and aboue, heed by heed. As the Lorde cōmaunded Moses, euen so he nombred them in the wyldernesse of Sinai.

And the chyldren of Ruben Israels eldest sonne thorowe out theyr generacyōs, & their kynredes, & houses of their fathers in the nōbre of names, heed by heed (all males frō. xx. yeare & aboue) as many as dyd goo forth to the warre: the nōbre of thē ꝑ were of the tribe of Rubē, was. xlvi. thousande & .v. hūdred.

Of the chyldren of Simeon thorowe out theyr generacyons and theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers, the summe of thē in the nōbre of names, heed by heed, all the males from. xx. yeares and aboue, whosoeuer myght go forth to the warre: the summe of them that were of the tribe of Simeon. lix. thousande and .iij. hundred.

Of the chyldren of Gad thorowe out their generacyons and theyr kynredes and housholdes of theyr fathers, the nombre of the names from. xx. yeare & aboue, all that wēte forth to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Gad, was. xlv. thousande, fyre hundred and fyfty e.

Of the chyldrē of Juda thorowe out their generacyons and their kynredes and houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from. xx. yeare and aboue, all that were able to go furth to the warre: The nombre of thē that were of the tribe of Juda, was. lxxiiij. thousande and fyre hundred.

Of the chyldren of Israchar thorowe out theyr generacions & theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers: the nōbre of names frō. xx. yeare and aboue which went all furth to warre, the nōbre of thē ꝑ were of the tribe of Israchar, was. liij. thousande & .iij. hundred.

Of the chyldren of zabulon: thorowe out theyr generacyons and theyr kynredes, and houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from. xx. yeare & aboue, whych were all able to go furth in the hoost: The nombre of them that were of the tribe of zabulon, was. lvij. thousande and foure hundred.

Of the chyldren of Joseph: Namely, of the chyldren of Ephraim thorowe out theyr generacyōs and theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers, the nombre of names frō. xx. yeares & aboue, all ꝑ went out to the warre: the nombre of them that were of the tribe of Ephraim was. xl. thousande, & fyue hūdred.

Of ꝑ chyldrē of Manasse thorow out their generacyōs, & theyr kynredes, and houses of their fathers, the nōbre of names frō twētye yeare olde & aboue, all ꝑ wēt out to ꝑ warre: The nōbre of thē ꝑ were of the tribe of Manasse, was. xxxij. thousande & two hundred.

Of the chyldren of Ben Jamin thorowe out their generacyōs, and theyr kynredes & houses of theyr fathers, the nōbre of names frō twentye yeare & aboue, all ꝑ wēte furth to the warre: The nombre of thē that were of the tribe of Bē Jamin was. xxxv. thousande, and. viii. hundred.

Of the chyldrē of Dan thorowe out their generacyons and their kynredes and houses of theyr fathers: the nombre of names from twentye yeare olde and aboue, all that wēt furth to the warre: The nombre of thē that were of the tribe of Dā was. lxii. thousande and. vii. hundred.

Of the childrē of Aser thorowe out their generacyons and their kynredes and houses of theyr fathers, the nōbre of the names frō xx. yeares and aboue, all that wente out to warre: The nombre of thē that were of the tribe of Aser was. xli. thousande and. v. hundred.

Of the chyldren of Nephthali: thorowe out theyr generacyons and theyr kynredes & houses of theyr fathers, the nōbre of names frō. xx. yeares and aboue, all that myght go furth to the warre: The nombre of thē that were of the tribe of Nephthali, was thre ād fyftye thousande and. viii. hundred.

These are the summes whych Moses & Aaron nombred and the princes of Israel: those twelue mē, which were euery one ouer the house of theyr fathers. And all the nombres of the chyldren of Israel, thorowe out the houses of theyr fathers, frō twentie yeare & aboue, all that went furth to the warre in Israel, dyrewe all vnto the summe of *syxe hūdred thousande and thre thousande, fyue hundred and fyftye. But the Leuites after the tribe of theyr fathers were not nombred amonge them.

*Exod. xii. f. Numer. xxvi. f.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Thou shalt not nombre the tribe of Leui, nether take the somme of them from amōge the chyldren of Israel. But thou shalt appoynte the leuites ouer the habytacyon of witnesse, and ouer all the vessels therof, and ouer all thynges that are in it. Yea they shall beare the tabernacle and all the vessels therof, & they shall ministre in it, & shall dwell rounde aboute the tabernacle. And when the tabernacle goeth forth, ꝑ leuites shall take it downe: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, they shall sett it vp: and yf any straunger come nye, he shall dye. And the chyldrē of Israel shall pytch theyr tentes, euery man in hys owne companye, and euery man vnder his awne stāderd thorowe out theyr hostes. But the leuites shall pytche rounde aboute the tabernacle of wytnesse, that there be no wrath vpon the congregacyon of the chyldrē of Israel, and the leuites shall kepe ꝑ watch of the tabernacle of witnesse. And the childrē of Israel dyd accordynge to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, euen so dyd they.

¶ The. ij. Chapter.

¶ The order of the tentes. The heades of the kynredes of Israel.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: euery man of ꝑ childrē of Israel shall pytch vnder his owne standerd & vnder the armes of theyr fathers houses: on ꝑ other syde & roūde aboute the tabernacle of wytnesse shall they pytch.

On the east syde towarde the rysynge of the sonne, shall they of ꝑ stāderd of the hoste of Juda pytch thorowe out theyr armyes: And Nahesson the sonne of Aminadab was captayne of the sonnes of Juda. And his hoste and the nombre of thē. lxxiiii. thousande & vi. hundred. Next vnto him & shall they ꝑ be of the tribe of Jzachar pytche: & Nathaneel the sonne of zuar was captayne of the chyldren of Jzachar: hys hoste & the summe of the nombre therof. liii. thousande & foure hundred.

And then the tribe of zabulō: and Eliab the sonne of Helō, captayne ouer the chyldrē of zabulon, & his hoste & the nombre of them lvii. thousande and. iiii. hundred: so that the whole nōbre of the whole hoste of Juda are an hundred thousande. lxxxvi. thousande. & iiii. hundred thorowe out theyr armyes: and these shall go before.

On the south syde shall the standerd of the hoste of Ruben kepe thorowe theyr companyes: & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ruben, was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And hys hoste and the nombre of thē. xlvi. thousande, and. v. hundred. And fast by hym shall the tribe of Symeon pytche, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Simeon, was Salumuel the sonne of zuri Sadai, and his hoste and the nombre of them. lix. thousande & iij. hundred. And the tribe of Gad also: and the captayne ouer the sōnes of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel: And his hoste and the nombre of them. xlv. thousande. vi. hundred and. l. All that were nombred wyth the tribe of Ruben: an hundred thousande. li. thousande. iiii. hūdred & l. thorowe out their armyes, and they shall go in the secōde place.

And the tabernacle of wytnesse shall go wyth the hoste of the leuites, in the myddes of the hostes: And as they lye in their tētes, euen so shall they procede in the iourney, euery man in hys degree, and vnder theyr owne standerdes.

The west syde shall the standard of the hoste of Ephraim kepe wyth theyr armyes, & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, was Elisama the sonne of Ammihud: hys hoste and the nōbre of them. xl. thousande and fyue hundred.

And fast by hym, shalbe the tribe of Manasse, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Manasse was Gamaliel the sonne of Pedazur. Hys hoste and the nombre of thē. xxxii. thousande and. ii. hundred. And the tribe of

Ben Jamin

Ben Jamin also: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Beniamin was, Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni. Hys hoste and the nombre of thē xxxv. thousande and. iiij. hundred. All that were appoynted with the hoste of Ephraim, were an hundred thousande. viij. thousande and an hundred, thorowe out their armyes & they shall goo in the thyrde place.

The standerd of the hoste of Dan shall kepe the northsyde with their armyes: & the captayne ouer ꝑ childzen of Dan, was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai. His hoste and the nombre of them. lxij. thousande and. vj. hundred. And fast by hym shall the trybe of D Aser pitche: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Aser was Pagiel the sonne of Ocran. Hys hoste and the nombre of them. xlj. thousande & v. hundred. And the trybe of Nephthali also, and the captayne ouer the childzē of Nephthali: was Ahira ꝑ sonne of Enan. Hys hoste and the nombre of them. liij. thousande and. iiij. hundred. All they that were appoynted wyth the hoste of Dan, was an hundred thousande. lvij. thousande and. vj. hundred. And they shall go hynmost wyth their standerdes.

These are the summes of the childzen of Israel thorowe out ꝑ houses of their fathers: euen all the nombres ꝑ pytched thorowe out their hostes. vi. hundred thousande. iii. thousande. v. hūdred and fyftie. But the Leuites were not nombred amonge the childzen of Israel, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the childzen of Israel dyd accordynge to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, for so they pytched with their stāderdes, & so they iourneyd thorowe out their kynredes, & thorowe out ꝑ housholdes of their fathers.

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

¶ The Leuites go not to batell, but mynistre in the sanctuary. They pytche their tentes nerre to the habitacyon.

A These are the generacyons of Aarō and Moses, in ꝑ daye that the Lord spake wᵗ Moses in mount Synai, & these are the names of the sonnes of Aaron: Nadab the eldest ꝑ Nu.xbi.g. sone, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. * These are the names of the sonnes of Aaron which Nu.bij.a. were * Preastes anoyntrd, & whose hande was consecrated to minystre. * And Nadab * Leu.x.a. and Abihu dyed before the Lorde whan they offred straunge fyre before the Lorde in the wylderneslle of Synai, and had no childzen. And Eleazar and Ithamar mynistred in the syght of Aaron their father.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge. B brynge the trybe of Leui, and set them before Aarō the Preast * that they maye serue * Nu.xbi.b. and.xbij.a. him and wayte vpon hym and vpon all the multitude, before the tabernacle of witnesse, to do the seruyce of ꝑ habitacyō. They shall kepe all ꝑ apparell of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and wayte vpō the chyldzen of Israel, to do the seruyce of the habitacion. And thou shalt geue the Leuites vnto Aaron and hys sonnes, for they are geuē and delyuered vnto him of the chyldzen of Israel. And thou shalt appoynte Aarō & hys sonnes to wayte on their Preastes offyce: and the straunger that commeth nye, shall be slayne.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: C beholde I haue taken the Leuites frō amonge ꝑ childzē of Israell * for all the fyrst * Exo.xiij.a. Nu.bij.c. borne ꝑ openeth the matrice amonge ꝑ childzen of Israel, and the Leuites shalbe myne: because all the fyrst borne are myne: for the same daye ꝑ I smote all the fyrst borne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me all the fyrst borne in Israel, both man & beast, and myne they shalbe: I am the Lorde.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the wylderneslle of Synai sayinge: Nombre the childzen of Leui after the houses of their fathers in their kynredes. All that are males, from a moneth olde and aboue shalt ꝑ nombre. And Moses nombred them, accordynge to the cōmaundement of the Lord, and as he had cōmaunded. * And these were the chyl- * Exo.vi.c. dzen of Leui in their names: Gerson, & Cahath and Merari. And these are the names of the childzen of Gerson in their kynredes: Libni and Semei. The sonnes of Cahath in their kynredes: Amram, Jezehar, Hebron & Oziel. And the sonnes of Merari in their kynredes Maheli and Musi. These are the kynredes of the Leuites, accordynge to the houses of their fathers.

Of Gerson came the kynred of the Libnites and the kynred of the Semeites. These D are the kynredes of the Gersonites. And the summe of thē (after the nōbre of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was. vii. thousande and fyue hundred. And the kynredes of the Gersonytes shall pitche behynde the habitacyon west warde. The captayne & most aunciēt of the house of the Gersonites, was Eliasaph the sonne of Lael. And vnder the keppynge of the childzen of Gerson in the tabernacle of witnesse was the habita- E cyon and the tente, the coucrynge therof, and the hangynge of the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the hangynges of the courte, and the curtayne of the doze of the courte: which is rounde about the Tabernacle, and the alter, and the cozdes of it foz all the seruyce therof. And of Cahath came the kynred of the Amramites, and ꝑ kynred of the Jezeharites: the kynred of the Hebzonites, and the kynred of the Ozielites: These are the kynredes of the Cahathites. And the nombze of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue, was. viij. thousande and syxe hũdzed: and these shall kepe the thynges that are to be kepte in the holy place. And the kynred of the chyldzen of Cahath shall pytche on the southsyde of the Tabernacle. The captayne and most auncient of the house of the kynred of the Cahathites, was Elisaphan the sonne of Oziel, and vnder their kepynge was the arche, the table, the candelstyck, and the alters, and all the vessels of the sanctuary ꝑ they mynistre in, and the vayle, and whatsoeuer belonged to the mynistracyon therof. And Eleazar the sonne of Aarõ the Preaste, was captayne ouer all the captaynes of the Leuites, and had the ouersyghte of thē that wayted vpon the sanctuary.

And of Gerari came the kynred of the Mahelites, and the kynred of the Musites: These are the kynredes of Gerari. And the summe of them accozdynge to the nombze of all the males, from a moneth olde and aboue was. vj thousande and. ij. hundzed. The captayne and the most auncient of their house that were of the kynred of Gerari, was zuriel the sonne of Abihael: and these shall pytche on the nozth syde of the tabernacle. And vnder the custody of the sonnes of Gerari shalbe the bozdes of the dwellynge, and the barres, pyllers and sockettes therof, all the vessell therof, and all that serueth therto: & the pyllers of the courte rounde aboute with their sockettes, their pynnes & their cozdes. But on the fozefront of the habitacyon befoze the Tabernacle of wytnesse eastwarde, shall Moses & Aaron and his sonnes pytche, and wayte to kepe the sanctuary, and to kepe the chyldzen of Israel. And ꝑ straunger that commeth nye, shall be slayne. And the hole summe of ꝑ Leuites whych Moses and Aaron nombzed, at the commaundement of the Lozde thozowe out their kynredes (euen all the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was ✻ ☞ xxij. thousande.

And the Lozde sayde vnto Moses: Nombze all the fyzst bozne that are males amõge the chyldzen of Israel (from a moneth olde and aboue) and take the nombze of their names. And the Lozde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: Take the summe of the chyldzē of Cahath from amonge the sonnes of Leui, after theyr kynredes and houses of their fathers, (from. xxx. yere and aboue vntyll fyftie) all that are able to go furth to the warre, foz to do the wozke in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The offyce of the chyldzen of Kahath in the tabernacle of wytnesse, ☞ is moost holy. And when the hoste remoueth, Aaron & hys sonnes shall come & take doune the vayle, that hãgeth betwene, & wzappe ꝑ Arke of wytnesse in it: and shall put theron a couerynge of taxus skynnes, & shall spzede vpõ it a cloth that is altogether of yelow silke, and put in the barres therof. And vpon the shewe table, they shall spzede abzode a cloth of yelowe sylke, & put theron the dysches, spones, flatpeces, and pottes to powze wyth, and there shalbe bzeed theron continually: & they shall spzeade vpon them a couerynge of purple, and couer the same with a couerynge of taxus skynnes, and put in the barres therof.

And they shall take a cloth of yelow silke, and couer the cãdelstycke of lyght, with his lampes, tõges, and snoffers, and all the oyle vessels which they occuppe aboute it, & they shall put both it, and all the vessell therof within a couerynge of taxus skynnes, & put it vpon a barre. And vpon the golden alter they shall spzede a cloth of yelowe sylke, and

couer it with a couerynge of taxus skynnes, & put in ꝑ barres therof. And they shall take all the thynges (whych they occuppe to mynistre within ꝑ holy place) and put a cloth of yelowe sylke vpon them, and couer them vꝑ
B a couerynge of taxus skynnes, and put them on a barre. And they shall take awaye the asshes from ꝑ alter, and spreade a purple cloth theron: and put vpō it all the vessels therof, that they mynistre wythall: euen ꝑ cole pannes, the flesshe hokes, the shouels, the basens and ꝑ other vessels of ꝑ alter, and they shall spreade vpō it a couerynge of taxus skynnes, and put in the barres of it. And when Aaron and hys sonnes haue made an ende of couerynge the holy thinges, and all the vessels of the sanctuarye (agaynst that the hoste remoue) then the sonnes of Cahath shall come in for to beare, but they shall not touche any holy thynge, least they dye. And thys is the charge of the sonnes of Cahath in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And to the office of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Preaste pertayneth the oyle for the lyghte, the swete cens, the dayly meatoffrynge, & the anoyntynge oyle, and the ouerlyghte of all the tabernacle, and of all that therin is, both in the sanctuary and in all the vessels therof.

C And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and
F Aaron, sayinge: & ye shall not destroye the trybe of the kynred of the Cahathites, from amonge ꝑ Leuites. But thus do vnto them, that they maye lyue and not dye, when they go vnto the most holy thynges: Let Aaron and his sonnes go in, and take them downe, to euery one after hys seruyce, and after hys charge. But let them not go in, to se when ꝑ the holy thynges are folden vp, lest they dye.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge. Take also the summe of the chyldren of Gerson, thorowe out the houses of their fathers, and thorowe out their kynredes: from xxx. yere and aboue, vntyll l. shalt thou nōbre them, all that are able to goo forth to the warre for to do seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the seruyce of the kynred of the Gersonites, to serue and to beare. They shall beare the curtaynes of the dwellynge, and the rouffe of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, hys couerynge, & the couerynge of taxus skynnes, that is an hye aboue vpō it, and the hangynge of the doze which is in the tabernacle of wytnesse: & the hangynges of the courte, & the hangynge that is in the entrynge in of the gate of ꝑ courte roūde about the dwellynge & the altare, with the cordes, & all the instrumentes that serue vnto them, and all that is made for to serue them. At the mouth of Aaron and hys sonnes, shall all the seruyce of the chyldren of the Gersonytes be done, in all their charges and in all their ser-
F uyce, and ye & shall nombre vnto them all their burthens to kepe. And thys is the seruyce of the kynred of the chyldren of Gerson in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, & their watche shalbe vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Preaste.

And thou shalt nombre the sonnes of Merari after their kynredes, & after the houses of their fathers: from xxx. yeres & aboue vnto l. shalt thou nombre them, euery one that is able to go forth to the warre, to do the seruyce of ꝑ Tabernacle of wytnesse. And thys is the charge that they must wayte vpō, accordynge to all their seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The bordes of ꝑ dwellynge, with the barres, pyllers, & sockettes therof, and the pyllers that are rounde aboute the courte, wꝺ their sockettes, pynnes & cordes, & withall the instrumentes of it, for all their seruyce. And by name ye shall reken ꝑ thynges ꝑ they must wayte vpon to beare. This D is the seruice of the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari accordynge to all their office in the Tabernacle of wytnesse vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Preaste.

And Moses & Aaron & the prynces of the multitude nōbred ꝑ sonnes of ꝑ Cahathites, after their kynredes and houses of their fathers from xxx. yere & aboue vnto fyftie, all that were able to go forth to the warre, to do seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And ꝑ nōbres of them thorowe out their kynredes were two thousande, seuen hūdred & l. This is the nōbre of the kynredes of Cahath: namely, all that myght do seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse, whych Moses and Aaron dyd nombre, accordynge to the commaūdement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses.

These are ꝑ nōbres of the sonnes of Gerson thorowe out their kynredes & houses of their fathers, from xxx. yere vp vnto fyftie all ꝑ were able to go forth to the warre, for to do seruyce in the Tabernacle of witnesse. And ꝑ nōbres of thē thorowe out their kynredes, and houses of their fathers, were two thousande. vj. hūdred & xxx. Thys is the nōbre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Gerson, of all ꝑ dyd seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse, which Moses & Aarō dyd nōbre accordynge to the commaundement of the Lorde.

And these are ꝑ nōbres of the kynredes of ꝑ sonnes of Merari thorowe out their kynredes & houses of their fathers, frō xxx. yere vp vnto fyftie: all ꝑ wente forth to ꝑ warre, & seruyd in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And ꝑ nōbres of them after their kynredes were, thre thousāde & two hūdred. This is ꝑ summe of the kynredes of the sonnes of merari, whiche Moses & Aarō nōbred accordynge to the worde of ꝑ Lorde, by ꝑ hande of Moses.

And so all the nombres of the Leuites which Moses, Aaron, and the Lordes of Israell nōbred, after their kynredes and hou-

sholdes of their fathers, from .xxx. yere vp vnto .l. euery one that came to do hys office and seruyce and to beare hys burthen in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: were (whan they were nombred.) viij. thousande, fyue hundred and .lxxx. ❧ Accordynge to the worde of the Lorde dyd (Aaron) nombre them by the hande of Moses, euery one accordynge to their seruyce and charge, and accordynge to their offyces: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

¶ The .v. Chapter.

¶ The knowleegynge of synne. The cleansynge of synners. The lawe of the fyrst frutes, and of gelousye.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: commaunde the childzen of Israel that they * put out of the hoste, euery leper and euery one that hath an yssue, and whosoeuer is defyled vpon a soule. Both male & female shall ye put out: out of the hoost shall ye put them, that they defyle not the tentes amonge which I dwell. And the childzen of Israel dyd so, and put them out of the hoste, euē as the Lorde spake vnto Moses, so dyd the childzen of Israel.

* Leui. xiij. g.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israel: whether it be * man or woman. Yf they haue cōmytted any synne that a man doeth, and haue trespaced agaynst the Lorde, that soule hath done amisse: Therfore they shall knowledge their synne, whyche they haue done, and let hym restore agayne the hurte that he hath done in the hole, and put the fyft parte of it moare thereto, & geue it vnto hym whō he hath trespaced agenste. But and yf there be not a man to restore the hurte vnto, ner a kynsman of hys, let ỹ trespace be made good vnto the Lorde, and it shalbe the Preastes, beside the ram of the attonement wherby an attonement shalbe made for him. And euery heueofferinge that is made of the holy thynges of the childrē of Israel whych they bringe vnto the Preaste, shall be hys: and euery mans halowed thinges shalbe his: and whatsoeuer any man geueth the Preaste, it shalbe hys.

* Leui. v. a.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto the childzen of Israel, and saye vnto them: Yf any mans wyfe goo a syde, and trespace agaynst hym, so that another man lye wyth her fleshely, and it be hyd from the eyes of her husbande, and is not come to lyghte that she is defyled and ther is no wytnesse agaynst her, neyther she taken with the maner, and the spyrete of gelousye cōmeth vpon hym, so that he is gelouse ouer hys wyfe whych is defyled: or yf the spyrete of gelousye come vpon hym, so that he is gelouse ouer his wyfe whych is yet vndefyled: then let the man bringe his wyfe vnto the Preaste, and bringe wyth her an offerynge for her: ỹ tenthe parte of an Epha of barlye meale, but let him powre none oyle vpon it, nor put frankencens theron: for it is an offerynge of gelousye, an offerynge for a remēbraūce, causynge ỹ synne to be thought vpō.

And the Preaste shall bringe her and set her before the Lorde, and let him * take holy water in an erthen vessell, & of the dust that is in the floore of the habitacyon, and put it into the water. And let the Preaste set the woman before the Lorde, and vncouer the womans head, and put the memoryall of the offerynge in her handes whyche is the gelousye offerynge, and ỹ Preaste shall haue bytter and cursyd water in hys hande, & the preest shall charge her, and saye vnto the woman. Yf no man haue lyen wyth the, nether haste gone asyde to vnclennesse without thy husbande, then haue thou no arme of thys bytter, and cursyd waters.

* Gene. xviij. c.

But and yf thou hast gone asyde behynde thyne husbāde, and art defyled, and some other man hath lyen with the besyde thyne husbande. (& the preaste shall charge the woman with an horrible curse, & the preste shall saye vnto the woman) the Lorde make the to be an abhominacyon and a curse amonge thy people: when the Lorde doth make thy thye rotte, and thy bely swell: These cursyd waters goo into the bowels of the that they maye make thy bely swell, & thy thye rotte, and let the woman saye, Amen Amen.

And let the Preaste wryte these curses: And whan they be clensed, let him cast them into bytter waters, & geue the woman those bytter & cursed waters to drincke, that those cursed & bytter waters maye entre into her, And then the Preaste shall take the gelousy offrynge out of the womans hande, & waue it before the Lord, & bringe it vnto the alter & the preste shall take an handefull of the offerynge for a memoryall, & burne it vpō the alter, & then make the woman drynke ỹ water: & when he hath made the woman drinke the waters (yf she be defyled & haue trespaced agaynst her husbāde:) then shall the cursyd & bytter waters goo into her, & her bely shall swell, & her thye shall rotte, & ỹ woman shalbe a curse amonge her people. And yf the woman be not defiled but is cleane, she shall haue no harme, but shall conceaue and beare.

Thys is the lawe of gelousye, whē a wyfe goeth a syde behynde hyr husbande, and is defyled, or when the spyrye of gelousye commeth vpon a man, & he beynge gelouse ouer hys wyfe, doth bringe her before the Lorde, And the preaste shall do accordynge vnto all this lawe: and the man shalbe giltlesse, & the woman shall beare her synne.

¶ The .vj. Chapter.

¶ The lawe of abstynēce. The blessynge of the people.

A AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israel, and saye vnto them: when ether mā or woman doth separate them selues to vowe a vowe of ☞ an abstemer, and appoynte them selues vnto the Lorde, he shall separate hym selfe from * wyne and stronge dryncke, and shall dryncke no vynagre of wyne nor of stroge drynke, nor shall drynke whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes: & shall eate no fresshe grapes nether yet dryed. As loge as hys abstinēce endureth, shall he eate nothynge that is made of the vyne tre, or of the cornels, or of the huske of the grape.

* Iudi. xiij.a Luce.j.d.

B And as longe as he voweth, and is separated, there shall no rasure come apon hys heed: But vntyll hys dayes be out, in the which he separateth him selfe vnto the Lorde, he shalbe holy, and shall let the lockes of hys heere growe. As longe as he consecrateth hym selfe vnto the Lorde, he shall come at no deed bodye: he shall not make hym selfe vncleane at the death of hys father, mother, brother or syster: because that the vowe of the abstinence of hys God is vpon hys heade. All the dayes of hys abstinence he is holy vnto the Lorde.

And yf it fortune that any man by chaunce dye sodenly before hym, the heed of hys abstinence shalbe defyled, and he shall * shaue hys heed the daye of hys cleansynge: euen the seuenth daye he shall shaue it. And the eyght daye he shall brynge two turtels or two ponge pigeons to the Preaste, before the dore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the Preaste shall offer the one for synne and the other for a burntofferynge, and make an attonement for hym, as concernynge that he synned vpon a soule, and shall halowe hys heed the same daye, and he shall consecrate hym selfe vnto the Lorde (☞ tyme of hys abstinencye) and shall brynge a lambe of a yere olde ☞ for trespace: but the dayes that were before are lost, because hys abstinēcie was defyled. Thys is the lawe of the abstemer, when the tyme of hys abstinence is out, he shalbe brought vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and he shall brynge hys offerynge vnto the Lorde: an he lambe of a yere olde without blemyshe for a burntofferynge, and a she lambe of a yere olde without blemyshe for synne, a ram wythout blemyshe also for a peaceofferynge, and a basket of swete breed, cuē cakes of fyne floure myngled with oyle, and wafers of swete bread anoynted wyth oyle wyth their meatofferynges and drynkofferynges.

* Leui.vij.d.

And the Preaste shall brynge hym before the Lord, and offer hys synofferynge and his burntofferynge, and shall offer the ram for a peaceofferynge vnto the Lorde, wyth the basket of swete breed, and the Preaste shall offer also his meatofferynge and his drynkofferynge. And he shall shaue the heed of the abstemer in the dore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse: euen the heed of his abstinence, and shall take the heere of his sober heed, and put it in the fyre, which is vnder the peaceofferynge. And the preaste shall take the sodden shoulder of the ram, and one swete cake out of the basket, and one swete wafer also, and put them vpon the handes of the abstemer (after he hath shaue his abstinēce of) and the Preaste shall ☞ (take them of hym, and) waue thē before the Lorde. And these holy thynges shalbe the prestes, wyth the wauebrest and heue shoulder: and then the abstemer maye drynke wyne. Thys is the lawe of the abstemer whych hath vowed his offrynge vnto the Lorde for his consecracyon: Besydes ☞ those thynges that hys hande can gett, accordynge to the vowe whych he vowed, euen so he must do after the lawe of hys abstinence.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes sayinge: of thys wyse ye shall bielle the childzen of Israel, and saye vnto them.

The Lorde bielle the, and kepe the.

The Lorde ☞ make hys face shyne vpō the, and be mercyfull vnto the.

The Lorde ☞ lyfte vp countenaunce vpō the, and geue the peace. And they shall put my name vpon the childzen of Israel, and I wyll bielle them.

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

¶ The offrynge of the Lordes 6 heades of Israell.

A AND it fortuned in ỳ daye, when * Moses had full sett vp the habitacyon & anoynted it & sanctifyed it, & all ỳ apparell therof, the alter also and all the vessels therof: and had anointed them & sanctifyed them, then the princes of Israell heedes ouer the houses of their fathers whych were the Lordes of the trybes, stondynge in their offices, offered & brought their sacrifices before ỳ Lorde: syx couered charettes & .xij. oxen: one charet for two Lordes, & for one, an oxe, & they brought them before the habitacyon.

* Exo.xl.b.

And ỳ Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge take it of them, that they maye be to do the seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse, & thou shalt geue them vnto the Leuites, to euery man accordynge vnto his office. And Moses toke the charettes & the oxen, & gaue them vnto the Leuites. ij. charettes & .iiij. oxen he gaue vnto the sonnes of Gerson accordynge vnto their office. And .iiij. charettes & eyght oxen he gaue vnto the sonnes of Merari (accordynge vnto their offices) vnder the hāde of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Preaste.

* But vnto the sonnes of Cahath he gaue none

¶ The order of the lampes. The forme of the candelstycke. The clēsynge & offrynge of the Leuites.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron, and saye vnto hym: * when thou puttest on the lampes, the same seuē lampes shall geue lyght towarde the forefrōt of the candelstycke. And Aaron dyd euen so, and lyghted ỹ lāpes towarde the forefront of the candelstycke, as ỹ Lorde commaunded Moses, and the worke of the candelsticke was of styffe golde, both the shaft and the floures therof: accordinge vnto ỹ vysyō whiche the Lord had shewed Moses euen so he made the cādelsticke. * Exo. xxv. a.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: take the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, and cleanse them. But thus shalt thou do vnto them, when thou cleansest thē: sprynckle water of purifynge vpon them, and let them make a rasure to runne alonge vpon all the flesshe of them, and let them washe their clothes, and so make them selues cleane. Then let them take a bullocke with his meatofferynge: euē fyne floure myngled wyth oyle: and another bullocke shalt thou take for synne.

And whan thou doest brynge the Leuites before the tabernacle of wytnesse, thou shalt gether the hole multitude of the chyldren of Israel together, and brynge the Leuites before the Lorde, and ỹ chyldren of Israel shall put their handes vpon the Leuites. And Aaron shall waue ỹ Leuites before the Lorde, for a waueofferynge of the chyldrē of Israel, that they maye execute the mynystracyō of the seruyce of the Lorde.

And the Leuytes shall put their handes vpon the heedes of the bullockes, and thou shalt offer the one for synne, and the other for a burntofferynge vnto the Lorde, that thou mayest make an attonemēt for ỹ Leuites. And

tes. And thou shalt sett ꝑ Leuites before Aaron and his sonnes, & waue them for a waue offerynge before the Lorde. And thus thou shalt separate the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, and the Leuites shall be myne: after that, shall the Leuites goin, to do the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnesse.
And thou shalt cleanse them and waue the, C for they are geuen and deliuered vnto me from amonge the chyldren of Israel, for such as open euery wombe: euē for the fyrst borne of all the chyldren of Israel haue I taken the vnto me.

* Exo.xiij.a. Le.x.b. * For all the fyrst borne of the chyldren of Israel are myne both man and beest: sens the daye that I smote euery fyrst borne in ꝑ lande of Egypte, I sanctifyed them for my selfe: and I haue taken the Leuites for all the fyrst borne of the chyldrē of Israel, and haue geuen the Leuites as a gyfte vnto Aaron & hys sonnes from amonge the chyldren of Israel, to do the seruyce of the chyldren of Israel in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, to make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel, that there be no plage amonge the chyldren of Israel, yf the chyldren of Israel come nye vnto the holy thynges.

D And Moses and Aaron and all the congregacyon of the chyldrē of Israel dyd with the Leuytes, accordynge vnto all that the Lorde commaunded Moses cōcernynge the Leuytes: euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel vnto them. And the Leuites were purifyed, and washed their clothes. And Aaron waued them before the Lorde, and made an attonement for them, and cleansed them. After that went the Leuytes in to do theyr seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse, before Aaron and hys sonnes: as the Lorde had commaunded Moses concernynge the Leuytes, euē so they dyd vnto them.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: thys is it that belongeth vnto the Leuytes: * from .xxv. yere vpwarde they shall go in to wayte vpon the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and from the age of fyftye yeare, they shall ceasse waytynge vpon the ☞ seruice therof, & shall serue no moare: ☞ but shall mynistre vnto theyr brethren in the tabernacle of wytnesse, to wayte, but shall do no moare seruyce. Thus therfore shalt thou do vnto the Leuites in their watche.

¶ The .ix. Chapter.

¶ The passeouer. Of the cloude.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in ꝑ wylderneese of Synay, in the fyrste moneth of the secōde yere, after they * were come out of the lande of Egypte, sayinge: let the chyldren of Israel offre Passeouer in hys season: euē the .xiij. daye of thys moneth at euen let them kepe it in hys season, accordynge to all the ceremonyes of it, and accordynge to all the maners therof. And Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, that they shulde offer Passeouer, and they offered Passeouer the .xiij. daye of the fyrst moneth at euen in ꝑ wylderneese of Synai: accordynge to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses, euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel.

And certayne men were defyled ☞ vpō ☞ the soule of a man, that they myght not offer Passeouer the same daye. And they came be- 25 fore Moses and Aaron the same daye. And ꝑ men sayde vnto hym: We are defyled vpon ꝑ soule of a man: wherfore are we kepte backe, that we maye not offer an offerynge vnto the Lorde in the due season, amonge ꝑ chyldrē of Israel. And Moses sayde vnto the: Stond styll, & I wyll heare what the Lorde will cōmaunde cōcernynge you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto ꝑ chyldren of Israell and saye: If any man amonge you or youre chyldren after you be vncleane by the reason of a cearse, or is in the waye farre from you, and will offer Passeouer vnto the Lorde: the .xiij. daye of the secōde moneth at euē let them offre it, and eate it with swete breed and sowre herbes: let them leaue none of it vnto the morynge * nor breake any bone of it: But accordynge to all the ordinaunce of the Passeouer let them offer it.

* Exo.xij. Iohn.xix.

But the man that is cleane and is not in a iourney, & yet was negligēt to offer Passeouer: the same soule shall perysshe from hys people, because he brought not the offerynge of the Lord in hys due season: that man shall C bere hys synne. And yf a straunger dwell amonge you, and wyll offer Passeouer vnto the Lorde, accordynge to the ordinaunce of Passeouer and maner therof, he shall offre it thus: Ye shall haue one lawe both for ꝑ straunger, and for hym that was borne at home in the lande.

And the same daye that the Tabernacle was reared vp, a * cloude couered the habi- * Exo.xl. 10.xiij.b tacyon, whych was as a tabernacle of the wytnesse: and at euen there was vpō the habitacyō, as it were the similitude of fyre vntyll the morynge. So it was alwaye, the cloude couered it by daye, and the similitude of fyre by nyght. And when the cloude was taken vp frō of the tabernacle, then the chyldrē of Israel iourneyed: and where the cloude abode there the chyldren of Israel pitched theyr tentes. At the ☞ mouthe of the Lorde ☞ the chyldren of Israell iourneyed, and at the mouth of the Lorde they pytched. And as lōge as the cloude abode vpon the habitacyon they laye styll: and when the cloude taryed D styll vpon the habitacyon longe tyme, the chyldren of Israell kepte the watche of the Lorde, and iourneyed not.

And

And it chaunced ꝑ whã the clowde abode a few dayes vpon the habitacyõ, they abode in their tentes, accordyng to the commaũdement of the Lorde: and they iorneyed also at the cõmaundment of the Lorde. And it happened that whan the cloude abode vpon the habitacion frõ euen vnto the morowyng, and was takẽ vp in that morning, then they iorneyed. Whether it was by daye or by nyght that the cloude was takẽ vp, they iorneyed. Or ꝑ the cloud taryed two dayes or a moneth, or a longe ceason vpõ the habitacyon, and remayned theron, the chyldren of Israel abode styll, and iorneyed not. And assone as the cloude was taken vp, they iorneyed. At the mouth of the Lorde, they rested in the tẽtes, and at the commaundment of the Lord, they iorneyed, kepyng ꝑ watche of the Lord, at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

¶ The trompettes of syluer. The Israelites departe from Sinai. The captaynes of the host are nombred. Hobab refuseth to go with Moses.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayyng: Make the two trompettes of syluer: of an whole pece shalt thou make thẽ, ꝑ thou mayst vse them to call the congregacyon together, and when the hoost shall iorneye. Therfore shall they blowe with thẽ, that all the multitude maye resorte to the before the dore of the tabernacle of witnes. And yf they blowe but one trompet, then the princes which are heedes ouer ꝑ thoulandes of Israel shall come vnto the. But yf ye trompe, the hostes ꝑ lye on the eastpartes shall go forward. And ye trompe the second tyme, the hoost ꝑ lyeth on the south syde shall take their iorneye: for they shall trompe when they take their iorneyes. But when the congregacion is to be gathred together they shall blowe only, and not tröpe. And the sonnes of Aaron ꝑ preast shal blowe w̃ their tröpettes, & ye shall haue thẽ as a lawe for euer in your generacions.

B And yf ye go to warre in your lãde against your enemyes that vexe you, ye shall blowe with the trompettes: and ye shalbe remembred before the Lorde your God, to be saued from your enemies. Also in the daye of your gladnes, and in your feaste dayes, and in the begynning of your monethes, ye shall blow the trompettes ouer your burntsacrifyces & peaceoffringes, that they maye be a remembraunce for you before youre God. I am the Lorde youre God.

And it came to passe the twẽtyth daye of the second moneth in the second yeare, that ꝑ cloude was taken vp from of the habitacion of wytnesse. And the chyldren of Israel toke their iorney out of the desert of Sinai, & the cloude rested in the wyldernesse of Pharan. And the fyrst toke their iorney at the mouth of the Lorde, by the hande of Moses. In the first place went the standart of the hoost of Juda, accordyng to their armies, whose captayne was Nahasson the sonne of Aminadab. And ouer the hoost of the tribe of ꝑ children of Isachar, was Nathanel the sonne of Zuar. And ouer the hooste of the trybe of the children of Zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helon. And the habitacyon was takẽ downe: and the sonnes of Gerson & Merari went forth bearyng the habitacyon.

And the hoost of Ruben went forth with C their standart and armyes, whose captayne was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the hooste of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeõ was Salamiel the sõne of Suri Saddai. And ouer the hoost of the trybe of ꝑ children of Gad was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel. The Cahathites also went forewarde and bare the sanctuarye, & and the other dyd set vp the habitaciõ agaynst they came. And the standart of the hoost of the chyldren of Ephraim went forth accordynge to theyr armyes, whose captayne was Elisama the sonne of Amiud. And ouer the hooste of the tribe of the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamaliel the sõne of Pedazur. And ouer the hoost of the trybe of the sonnes Ben Jamin was Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni.

And the standart of the hoost of the chyldrẽ of Dan came forth (hauing all the hostes together) throwout their armyes: whose captayne was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hooste of the trybe of the chyldrẽ of Aser, was Pagiel the sonne of Ochram. And ouer the hoost of the trybe of the chyldren of Nephtali, was Ahira ꝑ sõne of Enã. These are the iorneyes of the chyldrẽ of Israel throwout theyr armyes: and thus the hostes remoued.

And Moses sayde vnto & Hobab the sonne of Raguel the Madianite: which was D Moses father in lawe: we go vnto the place of which the Lorde sayd: I wyll geue it you. Come thou therfore with vs, & we wyll do the good: for the Lorde hath promysed good vnto Israel. And he answered hym: I wyll not go: but will departe to myne awne land and to my kynred. He sayde: Oh naye, leaue vs not: for thou knowest oure mansyons in the wyldernesse: and thou hast bene to vs in steade of & eyes. And yf thou go with vs loke what goodnesse the Lorde sheweth vnto vs, the same wyll we shewe vnto the.

And they departed from the mount of the Lorde, thre dayes iorneye: and the arcke of the testament of the Lord went before them in the thre dayes iorneye, to serche oute a restyng place for them. And the Lorde made a shadowe for thẽ thorowe the cloude by day, when they went out of the tentes.

And it foꝛtuned, that whā the arck went
* Pſ.xviii.a forth, Moſes ſayde: * Ryſe vp Lozde, and let thyne enemyes be ſcatered: and let them that hate the, flye before the. And when the arck reſted, he ſayde: Returne O Lozde vnto the many thouſandes of Iſrael.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

¶ The people murmureth. They deſyre fleſhe. They lothe manna. The wauering faith of Moſes. The Lozd beareth the burden of Moſes to ſeuentye of the auncyentes. and they prophelye. It rayneth quayles. The fleſh tasteners are punyſhed.

And it foꝛtuned, ꝓ whan * ✠ the
* Exo.xvii.a. people dyd wyrkedlye, it was a dyſpleaſure in the eares of the Lozd. And whē the Lozd heard ☞ it, ☞ his coūtenaūce was pꝛouoked to wꝛath, & the fier of the Lozd burnt among thē, & cōſumed thē ꝓ were vnto Moſes. And whā Moſes made interceſſiō vnto ꝓ Lozd, ꝓ fier quēched. And ꝓ name of ꝓ place was called ☞ Thaberah, becauſe ꝓ fier of the Lozd burnt among them.

And the raſcall people that was amonge them, fell a luſtyng, and turned them ſelues and wepte (euen as dyd alſo the chyldꝛen of Iſrael) and ſayde: who ſhall geue vs fleſh to eate? we remembꝛe the fyſhe which we dyd eate in Egipt foꝛ naught, & the Cucumbers,

now oure ſoule is dꝛyed awaye, foꝛ we can

* Exo.xvi.g. The manna was as * coꝛiander ſeed, and (to ſe to) lyke Bedellū. And the people wēt about and gathered it, and groūde it in mil-les, oꝛ bet it in mozters, and baked it in pan-nes, and made kakes of it. And the taſte of it was lyke vnto the taſte of an oyle kake. And whan the dewe fell downe vpon the hooſte
in the nyght, the Manna fell vpon it.

¶ And whan Moſes herde the people wepe

lxx. elders of the people, and ſet them rounde aboute the tabernacle. And the Lozde came downe in a cloud, and ſpake vnto hym, and toke of the ſpꝛete that was vpon hym, and gaue it vnto the. lxx. elders. And it foꝛtuned F that when the ſpꝛete reſted vpon them, they ꝓphecied, & did not ceaſſe. But there remayned two of the men in the hooſt: the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of ꝓ other Medad. And the ſpꝛete reſted vpon them, and they were of them that were wꝛytten, and went not out vnto the tabernacle, but pꝛophecied in the hooſt. And there ran a pōg man, and tolde Moſes and ſayd: Eldad and Medad do pꝛophecye in the hooſte. And Jo-vp, and all that day and all ẏ nyght, and on the mozowe they gathered quayles. And he that gathzed a lytle, gathzed ten homers ful.

And they spzed them abzode rounde aboute
the hoost. * And whyle the flesh was yet be-twene their teth, and ẏer it was chewed vp:
beholde, the countenaunce of the Lozde was moued agaynst ẏ people, & the Lozd * slewe
the people with an exceadynge great plage.

¶ The.xij. Chapter.

¶ Aaron & Mir Jam grudge agaynst Moses.
Mir Jam is stricken with lepzosy, and healed at the prayer of Moses.

AND * Mir Jam and Aarō spake agaynst Moses, because of ẏ woman of Inde which he had taken: foz he had taken to wyfe one of Inde. And they sayde:
hath the Lozde in dede spoken only thozow Moses? hath he not spokē also by vs? And the Lozde hearde it. But Moses was a very * meke mā, aboue all the men of the earth. And the Lozde spake at once vnto Moses vnto Aaron and to Mir Jam: come out ye thze vnto * the tabernacle of witnes, and they came out all thze.

And the Lozde came downe in the * pyller of the cloude, and stode in the * doze of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Mir Jam:
And they went out both of thē. And he said:
heare my wozdes. If there be a pzophete of the Lozdes amonge you, I wylbe knowne of him in a vysyō: and wyll speake vnto him in slepe. Ny seruaūt Moses is not so, which is faithfull in all myne house. Unto him wil
I speake * mouth to mouth in a vysyon: but in ryddels and symylitudes doth not he se the Lozd. Wherfoze then were ye not afrayed to speake agaynst my seruaunt Moses? And the Lozde was moued vnto wzath agaynst them, and he went his waye: and the cloude departed from the tabernacle. And beholde, Mir Jam was become * lepzous, as it were snowe. And Aaron looked vpon Mir Jam, and beholde, she was lepzous, and Aaron sayde vnto Moses: I beseche the my Lozde, put not the synne vpon vs, which we haue folishly commytted and synned. Oh, let her not be as one that commeth out of hys mothers wombe, and whose halfe flesh is eaten awaye.

And Moses cryed vnto the Lozde, saying:
heale her, O God, I beseche the. And the Lozde sayde vnto Moses: If her father had spyt in her face, shulde she not be ashamed seuen dayes? let her be shutte out of the hoost seuen dayes, and after that, let her be receaued in agayne. And Mir Jam was shut out of the hoost seuē dayes: and the people remoued not, tyll she was bzought in a-gayn. * And after ward the people remoued from Hazeroth, and pitched in the wyldernes of Pharan.

¶ The.xiij. Chapter.

¶ Certayne men are sent to searche the lande of Canaan.

AND the Lozde spake vnto Moses saying: * Sende mē out to searche the lande of Canaan, which I gene vnto the chyldzen of Israel: of euery trybe of their fathers shall ye sende a man, and let them all be suche as are rulers among them. And Moses at the commaun-dement of the Lozde sent fozth out of the wyldernes of Pharan suche men as were all heades of the chyldzen of Israel: Their names are these.

Of the trybe of Ruben, Sammua the sonne of Zacur. Of the trybe of Symeon, Saphat the sonne of Hozi. Of the trybe of Juda, Caleb the sonne of Jephune. Of the trybe of Jsachar, Igeal the sonne of Joseph.
Of the tribe of Ephzaim, Osea the sonne of Nun. Of ẏ trybe of Ben Jamin, Pal-thi the sonne of Raphu. Of the trybe of za-bulon, Gadiel the sonne of Sodi. Of the tribe of Joseph, namelye of the trybe of Manalle, Gaddi the sonne of Suli. Of the tribe of Dan, Amiel the sonne of Gemali. Of the trybe of Aser, Sethur the sonne of Michael. Of the tzybe of Nephtali, Nahebi the sonne of Uaphsi. Of the trybe of Gad, Guel the sonne of Machi. These are the names of the men, which Moses sent to spye oute the lande. And Moses called the name of Osea the sonne of Nun, Josua.

And Moses sent them fozth to spye oute
the lande of Canaan, and sayde vnto them:
get you vp thys waye southwarde, that ye maye go vp into the hye contrey, and se the lande what maner thyng it is, & the people that dwelleth therin: whyther they be stroge oz weake, ether fewe oz many, and what the lande is ẏ they dwell in, whyther it be good oz bad: and what maner of cyties they be, ẏ
they dwell in, whyther they dwell in tentes oz walled townes: and what maner of lāde it is: whether it be fat oz leane, and whether there be trees therin oz not. Be of a good co-rage, and bzynge of the frute of the lande.
And it was about the tyme that grapes are fyzst rype.

And so they went vp, & searched out the lande from the wildernesse of zin vnto Rehob, as men come to Hemath, & they ascended vnto the south, and came vnto Hebzon, where Ahimā was & Sesai & Thalmani,

the sonnes of Enach. Hebron was buylt seuen yere before Zoan in Egipt. And they came vnto ꝑ ryuer of Escol, and cut downe there a braunch with one clouſtre of grapes and twayne bare it vpon a ſtaffe: and they brought alſo of the pomgranates and of the fygges. And the place was called the ryuer Escol: becauſe of ꝑ clouſtre of grapes which the childzen of Iſrael cut downe thence.

D And they turned back agayne from ſtarchynge of the lande after fourty dayes. And they went and came to Moſes and Aaron, and vnto all the multitude of the childzen of Iſrael, in the wilderneſs of Pharan: which is Cades, and brought them wozde, and alſo vnto all the cõgregacion, and ſhewed thẽ
the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym, and ſayde: we came vnto the lande whether thou ſendeſt vs, and ſurely it floweth with mylke and honye: and here is of the frute of it. Neuertheleſſe, the people be ſtronge that dwell in the lande, and the citys are walled and exceadynge greate: and moreouer, we ſawe the childzẽ of Enach there. The Amalekites dwell in the ſouth contrey, and the Hethites, Iebuſites, & the Amozites dwell in the mountaynes, & the Cananites dwell
by the ſee, and by the coaſte of Jozdan.

28 And Caleb ſtylled the 28 (murmur that was rayſed vp.) of the people befoze Moſes, ſaying:
we wyll go vp, and conquerre it: foz we be able to ouercome it. But the men that went vp with hym, ſayde: We be not able to go vp againſt ꝑ people: foz they are ſtrõger thã
we. And they brought vp an euell repoꝛte of the lande which they had ſearched, ſaying vnto the childzen of Iſrael: The land which we haue gone thozowe to ſearche it out, is a lande that eateth vp the inhabiters ther-of: and the people that we ſawe in it, are mẽ of a greate ſtature. And there we ſawe alſo gyauntes, the childzen of Enack, which come of the gyauntes. And we ſemed in oure ſyght as it were grethoppers, and ſo we did

The.xiij. Chapter.

The people murmur agaynſt God, and wolde haue ſtoned Caleb & Joſue. The ſearchers of the lande dye. Amaleth kylleth the Iſraelites.

AND all the multitude of ꝑ people cryed out, and wepte thorowout that nyght, and all the childzen of Iſrael murmured agaynſt Moſes and Aaron.
And the whole congregacyon
ſayde vnto them: wolde God that we hadd dyed in the lande of Egypte, eyther that we had dyed in thys wilderneſs. Wherfoze hath the Lozde brought vs vnto thys lande to fall vpon the ſwearde: and that our wyues, and oure childzen ſhulde be a praye? Were it not better, that we retourne vnto Egypte agayne? And they ſayde one to another: We wyll make a captayne, and retourne vnto Egipt agayne.

But Moſes and Aaron fell on theyꝛ fa- 25
ces befoze all the congregacyon and multy-tude of the childzen of Iſrael. And Joſua the ſonne of Nun, and Caleb the ſonne of Je-phune (which were of them that ſearched the lande) rent theyꝛ clothes, and ſpake vnto
all the companye of the childzen of Iſrael, ſayinge: The lande which we walked tho-

But all they which were in that multy-tude, bade ſtone them with ſtones. And the glozye of the Lozde appeared in the tabernacle of wytneſſe, befoze all the childzen of Iſrael. And the Lozde ſayde vnto Moſes: C How longe do this people pꝛouoke me, and howe longe will it be yer they beleue me: foz
all ꝑ ſignes which I haue ſhewed amõg thẽ?
I wyll ſmyte them with the peſtilence and deſtroie them: and wyll make of the a grea-

And Moſes ſayde vnto the Lozde: then the Egipcyans ſhall heare it, foz ꝑ bꝛought-

And nowe I beſech the, let the power of my Lozde be greate, accozdyng as thou haſt ſpoken, ſaying: the Lozde is longe yer he be

To morowe turne you, and get you into the wildernesſe: euen by the waye of the redd ſee.

And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moſes & Aaron, ſaying: howe longe doth this euell multitude murmur agaynſt me? I haue heard ꝑ murmuringes of the chyldre of Iſrael with the which they murmur agaynſt me. Tell them therfore: As truly as I lyue (ſayth the Lorde) I will do vnto you, euen as ye haue ſpoken in myne eares. Youre carkaſſes ſhall lye in this wildernes. And Moſes tolde theſe ſayinges vnto all the chyldren of Iſrael, and the people toke great ſorowe.

And they role vp early in the morninge, and gat them vp into the toppe of the mountayne, ſayinge: *Lo, we be here, and wyll go vp vnto the place of which the Lorde ſayde vnto vs, for we haue ſynned. And Moſes ſayde: wherfore wyll ye go on thys maner, beyonde the worde of the Lorde? it will not come well to paſſe: go not vp therfore: (for the Lorde is not amonge you) that ye be not ſlayne before your enemyes. ¶ The drynckofferinges of them that enter into the lande. The punyſhement of hym that ſynneth of arrogancye or pryde.

vnto them: ye make moche to do, seynge all the multitude are holy euery one of the, and the Lorde is amonge them: Why heaue ye your selues vp aboue the congregacyon of the Lorde?

And when Moses heard it, he fell vpon his face, and spake vnto Corah and vnto all his company, saying: to morowe the Lorde will shewe who are his, who is holy, & who ought to approch nye vnto him, and whom he hath chosen to come to him. This do therfore, take you fyerpannes, both Corah and all his company and do fyer therin, and put cens in them before the Lorde to morowe. And the man whom the Lorde doth chose, the same shalbe holy. Ye make much to do, ye chyldren of Leui.

And Moses sayde vnto Corah: * heare ye chyldren of Leui: Is it but a small thinge vnto you, that the God of Israel hath separated you from the multitude of Israel: and brought you to him selfe, to do the seruyce of the dwelling place of the Lord, and to stãde before the multitude, and to mynistre vnto him? he hath take the to him and all thy brethren the sonnes of Leui with the, and seke ye the offyce of the preaste also. For which cause both thou and all thy cõpany are gathered together against þ Lorde? And what is Aaron, that ye murmur agaynst him?

And Moses sent, and called Dathã and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, which sayde: we wyll not come vp. Is it a small thynge, that thou hast brought vs oute of a lande that floweth with mylke and hony, to kyll vs in the wildernes, and to raygne ouer vs also? hast thou brought vs vnto a lande þ floweth with mylke and hony, and geuen vs inheritaunce of feldes and vynegardes? Wilt thou pull out the eyes of these men? we wyll not come vp.

And Moses waxed very angry, & sayde vnto the Lorde. Turne not thou vnto their offeryng. I haue not taken so muche as an asse from them, neyther haue I hurte any of them. And Moses sayde vnto Corah: Be thou and all thy company before the Lorde both thou, they, and Aaron tomorowe. And take euery man his censer, and put cens in them, that ye maye offre before the Lorde: euery man of the two hundred and fyftye take his censoure, thou also Aarõ, that euery one maye haue his censer. And they toke euery man hys censer, and put fyer in them, and layed cens theron, and stode in the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse with Moses and Aaron. And Corah gathered all the cõgregacyon agaynst them vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnes.

And the glory of the Lord appeared vnto all the cõgregacion. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saynge: seperate your selues from amonge this congregaciõ, that I maye cõsume them atonce. And they fell vpon their faces and sayde. * O moost myghtye God of the spyrites of all flesche, yt one man hath synned, wylt thou be wroth with all the multitude? And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: speake vnto the congregacyon and saye: Get you awaye from about the dwellyng of Corah, Dathan and Abiram. And Moses rose vp, and went vnto Dathan and Abirã, and the elders of Israel folowed him. And he spake vnto þ congregacion, saying: departe from the tentes of these wicked men, and touche nothing of theirs: lest ye perysh in all their synnes. And so they gate them from the dwellyng of Corah, Dathan and Abirã on euery syde. And Dathan and Abiram came out and stode in the doze of their tentes with their wyues, their sonnes and their lytle chyldren.

And Moses sayd: Herby ye shall knowe þ the Lorde hath sent me to do all these wozkes, and that I haue not done them of mine awne minde. If these men dye þ comen deth of all men: oz yf they be vysyted after the vysitacyon of all men, then the Lorde hath not sent me. But and yf the Lorde make a newe thyng, and the earth open her mouth and swalowe them vp w all that they haue: and they go downe quycke into hell: then ye shall vnderstande, that these men haue prouoked the Lorde.

And it fortuned þ assone as he had made an ende of speakyng all these wordes, * the grounde cloue asonder that was vnder thẽ: & the erth opened her mouth, and swalowed them vp, and their houses, and all the men that were with Corah and all their goodes. And they and all that they had, went downe alyue vnto hell, and the earth closed vpon them: and they perysshed from amonge the congregacion. And all Israel þ were about them fledd at the crye of thẽ. And they sayd: lest the earthe swalowe vs vp also. And there came oute a fyer from the Lorde, and consumed the two hundred and fyftye men that offred cens.

And þ Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preaste, that he take vp the censers oute of the burnynge, and shatter the fyer here and there, for the censers of these synners are halowed in their deathes: and let them make of them thinne beaten plates for a couerynge of the aultare. For they offered them before the Lord, and therfore they are halowed, and they shalbe a sygne vnto the chyldren of Israel.

And Eleazar the preast toke the brasen censers which they that were burnt had offered, and beate them thinne for a couering of the aultare, to be a remembraunce vnto

the chyldren of Israel, that no straunger which is not of the seed of Aaron, come nere to offer cens before the Lord, that it happen not vnto hym lyke as vnto Corah and hys company, as the Lorde sayde of him by the hande of Moses.

But on the morowe all the multitude of the childzen of Israel murmured agaynste Moses and Aaron, sayinge: ye haue kylled the people of the Lord. And it fortuned that when the multitude was gathred agaynst Moses and Aaron, they loked towarde the tabernacle of witnes. And beholde, (when they were entred into it) the cloude covered it, and the glory of the Lorde appeared. And Moses and Aarō came before the tabernacle of witnes. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Get you from amonge thys congregacion, that I maye consume them quickly. And they fell vpon their faces.

And Moses sayde vnto Aarō: take a censer, and put fier therin out of the aulter, and powre on cens, and go quyckly vnto the cōgregacion, for thou mayest obteyne forgeuenes for them. For there is wrath gone oute from the Lorde, and there is a plage begōne. And Aaron toke as Moses cōmaūded him, and ran into the middes of the cōgregacion: and beholde, the plage was begonne among the people, and he put on cens, and made an atonement for the people. And when he stod bet wene the deed and them that were alyue, the plage ceased. They that dyed in ye plage, were .xiiij. thousande and seuen hundred: beside them that dyed aboute the busynes of Corah. And Aaron went againe vnto Moses before the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, and the plage ceased.

¶ Aarons rodd budded & beareth blossomes.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the childzen of Israel: and take of euery prynce of them a rodd, after the houses of their fathers, euen twelue roddes: and write euery mans name vpō his rodd. And wryte Aarōs name vpō the rodd of Leui: for euery rodd is for a house of their fathers. And put them in the tabernacle of witnes, euē in the place where I mete you. And the mans rod whom I chose, shall blossome. And I wyll make cease from me the grudgynges of the chyldren of Israel, whereby they grudge agaynst you.

And Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and all the prynces gaue hym euery prince ouer their fathers houses, a rod, euen twelue roddes: and the rodd of Aaron was among the roddes. And Moses put the roddes before the Lorde in the tabernacle of witnes. And on the morowe, Moses went into the tabernacle of witnes: and beholde, * the rodd of Aaron for the house of Leui was budded, and bare blossomes and almōdes. And Moses brought out all the roddes from before the Lorde vnto all the chyldren of Israel: and they loked vpon them, and toke euery man his rodd. * Heb. ij.a

And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: bring Aarons rod agayne before the witnes to be kepte for a token of the childzens rebellyon, and that their murmuring maye cease from me, and that they dye not. And Moses dyd as the Lorde cōmaūded him, euen so dyd he. And the childzen of Israel spake vnto Moses, saying: beholde, we are wasted awaye & consumed: we all come to naught: whosoeuer commeth nye the dwellyng of the Lord, dyeth. Shall we vtterly consume awaye?

¶ The lawe of the heritage of the daughters of Zelaphead. The lande of promes is shewed vnto Moses: in whose stede is appointed Josua.

And þ daughters of *Zelaphead the sonne of Heber the sonne of Gilead the sōne of Machir the sonne of Manasse, of the kinred of Manasse the sōne of Joseph (whose names were Mahela, Noha, Hagla, Melcha and Thirza) came, and stode before Moses and Eleazar the preest, and before the lordes, and all the multitude by the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, saying: oure father dyed in the wyldernes: and *was not in the companye of them that gathered them selues together against the Lorde in the congregacyon of Corah.

B But & dyed in hys awne synne, and had no sonnes. Wherfore then is the name of our fathers taken awaye from amonge his kinred, because he hath no sonne? *Geue vnto vs therfore a possession among the brethren of oure father.

And Moses brought theyr cause before the Lorde. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: The daughters of Zelaphead speake ryght: thou shalt geue them a possessyon to enherit amonge theyr fathers brethren, & shalt turne the enheritaunce of their father vnto them. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, sayinge: If a man dye and haue no sonne, ye shall turne his enheritaunce vnto hys daughter. If he haue no daughter, ye shall geue his enheritaunce vnto hys brethren. If he haue also no brethren, ye shall geue his enheritaūce vnto his fathers brethren. And yf his father haue no brethren, ye shall geue his enheritaunce vnto him that is next to him of his kinred, and he shall possesse it. And thys shalbe vnto the C children of Israel & a lawe of iudgement, & as the Lorde hath commaunded Moses.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: *get the vp into this mount Abarim, and behold the lande which I haue geuen vnto the children of Israel. And when thou hast sene it, & thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people also, as Aaron thy brother was gathered. For ye were disobedyent vnto my mouthe in the desert of Sin, in the stryfe of the congregacyon. Neyther dyd ye sanctifye me in the waters before their eyes. *That is the water of stryfe in Cades in the wildernesse of Sin. And Moses spake vnto the Lorde sayinge: let the Lorde God of the spretes of all fleshe sett a man ouer the congregacyon, which maye & go out and in before them, and leade them out and in: that the congregacyon of the Lorde be not as shepe which haue not a shepherde. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: take Josua the sonne of Nun, in whom is & the spyrete, and putt thyne handes vpon hym, & set hym before Eleazar the preast, and before all the congregacyon: and geue hym a charge in theyr syght. But ye shall offre a burntofferinge, a sacrifyce foꝛ a swete sauoure vnto the Loꝛd: one bullock, one ram and seuen yerelynge lambes without spot. Let theyꝛ meat and dꝛynckofferynges vnto the bullocke, ram and lambes be accoꝛdyng to the nombꝛe, and accoꝛdyng to the maner. And an hegoate foꝛ synne, besyde the dayly burntofferynge and hys meate and dꝛynckofferynges.

These thinges ye shall do vnto the Loꝛde in youre festes: besyde youre vowes and frewyllofferynges, in youre burntofferynges, meateofferynges, dꝛyncke offerynges, and peaceofferynges. And Moses tolde the chyldꝛen of Israel all that the Loꝛde commaunded him.

C The.xxx. Chapter.

C Of vowes when they shalbe kept, and when not.

AND Moses spake vnto the heades of the tribes of the childꝛen of Israel, saying: this is ꝓ thig which the Loꝛde hath cōmaunded. * If a man vowe a vowe vnto the Loꝛd, oꝛ swere an oth to bynde his soule: he shall not go back with his woꝛde: but shall fulfyll all that is pꝛoceded out of his mouth. A *Deu.xxiij.d

If a woman also vowe a vowe vnto the Loꝛde, and bynde her selfe beynge in her fathers house in the tyme of her youth, and her father heare her vowe and bonde which she hath made vpō her soule, and holde his peace therto: then all her vowes & bōdes which she hath made vpon her soule shall stande in effect. But and yf her father foꝛbyd her the same date ꝓ he heareth it, none of her vowes noꝛ bondes which she hath made vpon her soule shalbe of value: and ꝓ Loꝛde shall foꝛgeue her, because her father foꝛbade her. 25

If she had an husbande when she vowed oꝛ pꝛonoūced ought out of her lippes, wherwith she bonde her soule, and her husbande heard it and held his peace there at the same daye he heard it, then her vowes and her bondes wherwith she bounde her soule, shall stande in effecte. And yf her husbande foꝛbade her the same daye that he heard it: and made her vowe which she hath vpon her of none effecte, and released the openyng of her lyppes, wherwith she bounde her soule, the Loꝛde shall foꝛgeue her.

But euery vowe of a wedowe and of her C that is deuozed (ꝑ they haue bosided & their soule withall) shall stande in effect wᵗ them.

If she vowed in her husbandes house, oꝛ bounde her soule with an oth, and her husbande heard it, and helde his peace, and forbad her not, then all her vowes and bondes wherwith she bounde her soule, shall stande. But yf her husbande disannulled them the same daye that he heard them, then nothing ꝑ proceadeth out of her lippes in vowes and bondes (wherwith she bounde her soule) shall stande in effecte: foꝛ her husbande hath lowsed them. And the Lorde shall forgeue her.

D All vowes and othes that binde to humble the soule, maye her husbande stablysh oꝛ breake. But yf her husbande holde his peace from one daye vnto another, then he stablisheth all her vowes & bõdes which she had vpon her, because he helde his peace the same daye that he heard them: But yf he breake thẽ, & after that he hath heard thẽ, he shall beare her synne him selfe.

These are the ordynaunces whiche the Lorde commaunded Moses, betwene a mã and hys wyfe: and betwene the father and his daughter, beynge yet a damsell in her fathers house.

¶ The.xxxi. Chapter.

¶ The Madianites and Balaam are slayne. The praye is equallye deuyded. A present geuen of Israel.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: * auenge the children of Israel of the Madianites, and afterwarde shalt thou be gathered vnto thy people.

And Moses spake vnto ꝑ folke sayinge. Harnelle some of you vnto warre, and let them go vpon the Madianites, and auenge the Lorde of the Madianites. Lett there be chosen a thousãde out of euery tribe of Israel, that out of all ꝑ tribes ye may send some to the warre. And there were taken & out of the thousandes of Israel, twelue thousande prepared vnto warre, of euery trybe a thousande. And Moses sent them to the warre, euen a thousande of euery trybe, and with them, Phineas the sonne of Eleazar the preaste, and & the holy vesselles: and the * trompettes to blowe were in hys hande. And they warred agaynst the Madianites, as the Lorde cõmaunded Moses, & slue all the males. And they slue the kinges of Madian amonge other that were slayne: Namely Eui, and Rehem, zur and Hur and Reba: fyue kinges of Madian wᵗ Balaã the sonne of Beoꝛ, whõ they slue wᵗ the sweard: And the chyldren of Israel toke all the wemen of Madian preſoners, & their chyldren: and spoiled all their catell, and all their flockes, and all their goodes. And they burnt al their cityes wherin they dwelt, and all their castels with fier. And they toke all ꝑ spoyle and all that they coulde catch both of mẽ and beastes. And they broughte the captiues and that which they had take and the spoile vnto Moses and Eleazar the preaste, and vnto the company of the childre of Israel, euen vnto the hoost ꝑ were in the feldes of Moab by Iordan, oueragaynst Jericho.

B And Moses and Eleazar the preast, and all the lordes of the congregacion went out of the hoost against them. And Moses was angrye with the officers of the hoost, with ꝑ captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes, which came frõ the warre and battayll: and Moses sayde vnto them: Haue ye saued all the wemen alyue? beholde, * these caused the children of Israel thoꝛow & the counceil of * Balaam, to commyt treſpace against the Lorde, in the busynes of Peoꝛ, & there folowed a plage among the congregacion of the Lorde. Nowe therfoꝛe, * sleye all the men children, and the wemen ꝑ haue lien with men fleshly. But all the wemen childre that haue not lyen with men, kepe alyue foꝛ your selues. And ye shall remayne without the hoost seuen dayes, all ꝑ haue kylled any persone: * & all that haue touched any deed body, and purify both your selues and your preſoners, the.iij. daye & the.vij. And sprynkle all your raymentes and all that is made of lynnen, and al wozke of goates heer, and all thinges made of wodd.

And Eleazar the preaste sayde vnto the men of warre, which came from the battayll: this is the ordinaunce of the lawe which the Lorde commaunded Moses: Golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, tyn and lead, and all that maye abyde the fier, ye shall make it go thoꝛowe the fier, and it shalbe cleane. Neuertheleſſe, it shalbe sprynkled with sprynkling water. And all that suffreth not the fier ye shall make go thoꝛowe the water. And washe youre clothes the seuenth daye, and ye shalbe cleane. And afterwarde come into the hoost.

And ꝑ Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: take the summe of the praye that was take both of the wemen and of catell, thou & Eleazar the preaste, and the auncient fathers of of the congregacyon. And deuyde it into two partes, betwene them ꝓ toke the warre vpon them, and wēt out to battayll: and all the congregacion. And take a pozcyon vnto the Lozde of the men of warre, which went out to battayll: ☞ one soule of fyue hundzed, both of the wemen and of the oxen, and of the asses, and of the shepe: and ye shall take it of theyr halfe, and geue it vnto Eleazar the preast, as an heueoffering of ꝓ Lozd. And of the halfe of the chyldzen of Israel, ꝓ shalt take one pozcion of fyfty, of the wemē, of the oxen, of the asses and of the shepe, and of all maner of beastes: and geue them vnto the Leuites, which wayte vpon the habitacyon of the Lozde.

And Moses and Eleazar the preaste dyd as the Lozde commaunded Moses. And the botye and the praye which the men of warre had caught, was fyxe hundzed thousande, and.lxxv. thousande shepe: and.lxxij. thousande oxen. lxj. thousande asses: and. xxxij. thousande soules of wemen, that had lyen by no man.

And the halfe which was the parte of the that went out to warre, was thze hundzed thousande and seuen and thirtye thousande and. v. hūdzed shepe. And the Lozdes part of the shepe was fyxe hundzed and.lxxv. And the oxen were. xxxvi. thousande, of which ꝓ Lozdes parte was. lxxii. And the asses were xxx. thousande and fyue hundzed, of which the Lozdes parte was. lxi. And the soules of wemen were. xvi. thousande, of whyche ꝓ Lozdes parte was. xxxij. soules. And Moses gaue that summe which was the Lozdes heue offeryng, vnto Eleazar the preaste: as the Lozde commaunded Moses. And the other halfe of the chyldzen of Israel whiche Moses separated from the men of warre, (ꝓ is to wete the halfe ꝓ perteyned ☞ vnto the congregacion) was. iij. hundzed thousande, and. xxxvij. thousande & fyue hundzed shepe: and. xxxvi. thousande oxen: and. xxx. thousand asses, and fyue hundzed and. xvi. thousande soules of wemen. And Moses toke of his halfe that perteyned vnto the chyldzen of Israel, one pozcyon of fyfty, both of ꝓ wemen and of the catell, and gaue them vnto ꝓ Leuites, which wayted vpon the habitacyō of the Lozde, as the Lozde cōmaunded Moses. And the officers of thousandes of the hoofte, the captaynes ouer the thousandes, and the captaynes ouer the hundzedes came forth, and sayde vnto Moses: Thy seruaūtes haue taken the summe of ꝓ men of warre, which are vnder oure auctozyte, and there lacketh not one man of vs. We haue therfore brought a present vnto the Lozde what euery man foūde of iewels of golde, cheyns, bracellettes, rynges, earynges and spāgels, to make an atonement for our soules before the Lozde.

And Moses and Eleazar toke the golde of them, iewels of all maner fashions: And all the golde of the heueoffering that they heued vp to the Lozde, (of the captaynes ouer thousandes and hundzedes) was. xvi. thousande. vij. hundzed and fyfty sycles, for the men of warre had spoyled, euery man for him selfe. And Moses and Eleazar the preest toke the golde of the captaynes ouer ꝓ thousandes and of the captaynes ouer the hūdzedes, & brought it into the tabernacle of witnes, for a memoriall of the chyldzen of Israel before the Lozde.

The. xxxij. Chapter.

To Ruben and Gad and to halfe the tryde of Manasses, is promysed the possessyon beyonde Iozdan eastwarde.

THe chyldzen Ruben and the chyldzen of Gad had an exceadynge greate multitude of catell. And when they sawe the lande of Jazer and the lande of Gilead that it was apte place for catell, the chyldzen of Ruben and the chyldzen of Gad came & spake vnto Moses and Eleazar the preast and vnto the lozdes of the congregacyō, saying: The lande of Ataroth and Dibō, Jazer and Nemrah, Hesbon and Elealeh, Sabam and Nebo and Beon: which contreye the Lozde smote before the congregacyon of Israel: is a lande mete for a catell, and we thy seruaūtes haue catell: wherfore (sayde they) yf we haue founde grace in thy syght, let this land be geuen vnto thy seruaūtes to possesse, and bryng vs not ouer Jozdan.

And Moses sayde vnto the childzē of Gad and of Ruben: shall youre brethren goo to warre, and ye shall syt here? Wherfore discozage ye the hert of the chyldzen of Israel, that they shulde not goo ouer into the lande, which the Lozde hath geuen them? * Thus dyd youre fathers, when I sent them frō Cades Barne to se ꝓ lāde. For when they wēt vp euen vnto the riuer of Escol, and sawe ꝓ lande: they discozaged the hert of the childrē of Israel, that they shulde not go into the lande, which the Lozde hath geuen them.

And the Lozde was wroth the same tyme and sware, saying: * None of the men ꝓ came out of Egipte from twentye yere olde and aboue, shall se the lande which I sware vnto Abzaham, Isaac and Jacob, because they haue not wholy followed me: saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Kenesite, and Josua the sonne of Nun: for they haue followed the Lozde. And the Lozde was angry with Israel, and made them wandze in the wildernes fourty yere, vntyll all the generacyon that had done euell in the syght of the Lozde were consumed.

And beholde, ye are rysen vp in youre fathers stede, as an encrease of synfull men, to augmente the fearce wrath of the Lorde, to Israel warde. For yf ye turne awaye frō after hym, he will yet agayne leaue the people in the wyldernesse, and ye shall destroye all thys folke. And they went nere him, and sayde: we will buylde shepefoldes here for a oure shepe and for oure catell, and a (walled) cityes for our chyldren. But we our selues will goo ready armed before the chyldren of Israel, vntyll we haue brought them vnto D their place. And our childzen a (and whatsoeuer a we maye haue) shall dwell in the fenced cityes, because of the inhabiters of the lande. We wyll not returne vnto oure houses, vntyll the childzen of Israel haue enhereted, euery man his enheritaunce. Neyther will we enheret with them on yonder syde Jordan forwarde, because oure enheritaunce is fallen to vs on this syde Jordan eastwarde.

And Moses sayde vnto them: yf ye will do this thinge, and goo harnessed before the Lorde to warre, and wyll go all of you in harnesse ouer Jordan before the Lorde, vntyll he haue cast out his enemies before him: and vntyll the lande be subdued before the Lorde, then ye shall returne and be without synne before the Lord and before Israel, and this lande shalbe youre possession before the Lorde. But and yf ye wyll not do so, beholde, ye haue synned agaynst the Lord: and be sure, youre synne wyll synde you out.

Nowe therfore, buylde cityes for youre
E childzen, and foldes for your shepe, and do that ye haue spoken. The childzen of Gad and the childzen of Ruben spake vnto Moses, sayinge: thy seruauntes wyll do as my lorde commaundeth. Our chyldren, our wyues, oure shepe and our catell shall remayne
* Iosu.iiij.c here in ỹ cityes of Gilead. But * thy seruautes wyll goo all harnessed for the warre, and vnto battayll before the Lorde, as my lorde sayth.

F And for theyr sakes, Moses commaunded Eleazar the preast, and Josua the sonne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel: and Moses saide vnto them: If the childzen of Gad and the childzē of Ruben wyll go with you ouer Jordā, all prepared to fyght before ỹ Lord, then when the lande is subdued before you, ye shall gene them the lāde of Gilead to possesse: but and yf they wyll not go ouer with you in harnesse, they shall haue their possessions amonge you in the lande of Canaam. And the childzen of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben answered, sayinge: As the Lorde hath sayde vnto thy seruauntes, so wyll we
* Iosu.xxij.a do. * We will go harnessed before the Lorde into the lande of Canaan, that the possession of oure enheritaunce maye be on thys syde Jordan.

And Moses gaue vnto the chyldren of Gad and to the childzen of Ruben, and vnto halfe the tribe of Manasse the sonne of Joseph, the kingdome of Sehon kynge of the Amorites, and the kingdome of Og king of Basan, the lāde wᵗ the cityes therof in ỹ coastes and cityes of the coūtrey rounde about.
G And the childzē of Gad buylt Dibon, & Ataroth, & Aroer, and Atroth, Sophan Jaeser, & Jegabea, Bethnimra, & Betharan, fenced cities, & they buylt foldes for the shepe. And the childzē of Ruben buylt Helbon, Eleale, H Kiriathaim, Nebo, Baal, Meon, & turned their names, & Sibama also: and gaue other names vnto ỹ cityes which they builded. And the childzen of Machir the sonne of Manasse went to Gilead, and toke it, & put out the Amorites that dwelt therin. And
* Deute.iij.b Moses gaue Gilead vnto Machir the sonne of Manasse, and he dwelt therin. And * Jahir the sonne of Manasse went and toke the small townes therof, and called them Hauoth Jair. And Nobah went and toke Kenath, and the townes longyng therto, & called it Nobah after his awne name.

¶ The. xxxvi. Chapter.

¶ An order for the mariage of the daughters of Zelaphead. One of the trybes maye not marye wyth another.

AND the auncient fathers of the chyldren of Gilead the sonne of Machir the sonne of Manasse of the kynred of the chyldrē of Joseph, came forth & spake before Moses and the prynces, and auncyent fathers of the chyldren of Israel, and sayde: * The Lorde commaunded my Lord, to geue the lāde to enheret by lotte * Nu.xxvi.f. to the chyldren of Israel. And my Lorde cōmaunded in gods behalfe, to geue the enheritaunce of * zelaphead oure brother vnto hys * Nu.xxvii.a daughters. Whom yf any of the sonnes of the other trybes of Israel take to wyues, then shall they? enheritaunce be takē from the enheritaunce of oure fathers, and shall be put vnto the enheritaūce of the tryb which they are receaued into: and shalbe taken from the lotte of oure enheritaūce. And when the yere of iubelye of the chyldren of Israel commeth then shall they? enheritaūce be put vnto the enheritaunce of the trybe wherin to they are receaued: and so shall they? enheritaūce be taben awaye from the enheritaunce of the trybe of oure fathers. B

And Moses commaunded the chyldren of Israel accordynge to the worde of the Lorde sayinge: the chyldren of the trybe of Joseph haue sayd well. This therfore doeth the Lorde commaunde the daughters of zelaphead sayinge * let them be wyues to whom they * Nob.f.b. and.bb.c. thē selfe thynck best, onely to the kynred and trybe of they? father shall they marye, so shal not the enheritaunce of the chyldrē of Israel remoue from trybe to trybe, whan the chyldren of Israel abyde euery man in the enheritaunce of the trybe of his fathers. And euery daughter that possesseth any enheritaunce in any trybe of the chyldren of Israel, shalbe wyfe vnto one which is of the kynred of the trybe of her father, that the chyldren of Israel maye enioye euery man the enheritaunce of hys father. Neyther ought the enheritaunce to go from one trybe to another: but euery one of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel, must abyde in hys awne enheritaunce.

And as the Lorde commaunded Moses euen so dyd the daughters of zelaphead. And Mahela, Thirza, Hagla, Milcha and Noa were maryed vnto they? fathers brothers sonnes, which were of the kynred of the chyldren of Manasses the sonne of Joseph: and so they? enheritaunce remayned in the trybe of the kynred of they? father. D

These are the commaūdementes & lawes which the Lorde commaunded by the hande of Moses, vnto the chyldren of Israel in the feldes of Moab by Jordane ouer agaynst Jericho.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

These be ꝑ wordes which Moses spake vnto all Israel, on the other syde Jordan in the wildernesse, in ꝑ plaine ouer agaynst ꝑ redd see, betwene Pharan and Tophel, Labā, Hazeroth and Dizahab, cleuē dayes iourney frō Horeb vnto Cades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the fyrst daye of ꝑ eleuenth moneth in ꝑ fortieth yere, that Moses spake vnto the chyldrē of Israel accordinge vnto all that the Lorde had geuē him in cōmaundemēt vnto thē, after that he had smytē * Sehon the kynge of the Amorites which dwelt in Hesbon, and Og kyng of Basā which dwelt at Astaroth in Edrai. * Num.xxi.c

On the other syde Jordan in the lande of Moab, began Moses to declare thys lawe sayinge: the Lorde oure God spake vnto vs in Horeb saying: Ye haue dwelt lōge ynough in this mount. departe therfore & take youre iourney, and go vnto the hyll of the Amorites and vnto all places nye there vnto: both vnto the playne, and hylles and dales: to the south, to the sees syde, to the lande of Canaā, and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the greate ryuer Euphrates. Beholde, I haue set the land before you: goo in and * possesse the lande whych the Lorde sware vnto youre fathers Abrahā, Isaac and Jacob, to geue vnto thē and their seede after them. * Gene.xv.d. and. xvii.b.

And I spake vnto you the same season sayinge: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde youre God had multiplyed you: and beholde, ye are thys daye as the starres of heauen in nombre (the Lorde God of youre fathers make you a thousande tymes so many moo as ye are, and blesse you as he hath promysed you) howe can * I my selfe alone, beare the combraunce, charge and stryfe that is amonge you: bringe (from amonge you) men of wysdome and of vnderstandynge, and experte, accordynge to youre * Exo.xviii.c tribes, and I wyll make them rulers ouer you. And ye answered me and sayde: that whyche thou hast spoken is good for vs to do. And out of youre tribes I toke the captaynes, (men of wysdome and that were experte) and made them rulers ouer you: captaynes ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes ouer fyftye and ouer ten, and officers amōge youre tribes.

And I charged youre Judges that same tyme saying: heare the cause of your brethrē and * iudge ryghteously betwene euery mā and hys brother, and the straunger that is with hym. Se that ye knowe no (☞ faces in Judgemēt: * but heare the small as well as the greate, and be afrayed of no man, for the iudgement is Gods. And the cause that is to * harde for you, bringe vnto me, and I will heare it. And I commaunded you the same season, all the thynges whyche ye shulde do. And when we departed frō Horeb, we went thorowe all that greate and terrible wyldernesse, as ye haue sene alonge by the waye of the hyll of the Amorites, as the Lorde oure God commaunded vs, and came to Cades Barne. And I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hyll of the Amorites, which ꝑ Lorde oure God wyll geue vnto vs. Beholde, the Lorde thy God hath set the lande before the: goo vp and conquere it, as the Lorde God of thy fathers hath sayde vnto the * feare not, neither be discouraged. But ye came vnto me euery one and sayde * we wyll sende mē before vs, to searche vs oute the lande, and to bringe vs worde agayne, what waye we must go vp by, & vnto what cyties we shall come. And the sayinge pleased me well, and I toke twelue mē of you, of euery tribe one, whych departed, and went vp into the hye cōtrey, and came vnto the ryuer Escoll, and serched it out, & toke of the frute of the lande (to declare the pleasauntnesse therof) in their hādes & brought it vnto vs, and brought vs worde agayne, & sayde: it is a good lande, whych the Lorde oure God doth geue vs. * Exo.xviii.c * Deut.i.a * Num.xiii.a

Notwithstandynge ye wolde not consente to goo vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouth of the Lord youre God, and murmured in youre tentes, & sayde: because the Lorde hateth vs, therfore hath he brought vs out of the lande of Egypte, to deliuer vs into the hāde of the Amorites, and to destroye vs. Howe shal we goo vp? Oure brethrē haue discouraged oure herte, sayinge: * the people is greater & taller then we, and haue cyties greate and walled euen vp to heauen, & moreouer we haue sene the sonnes of the Enakims there. * Deu.ix.a

And I sayde vnto you: dreade not, nor be afrayed of the. The Lorde youre God which goeth before you, he shall fyghte for you, accordynge to all ꝑ he dyd vnto you in Egypte before before youre eyes. In the wylderneſſe also thou haſt ſene howe that the Lorde thy God bare the, euen as a man doth beare hys ſonne, in all the waye whyche ye haue gone by, vntyll ye came vnto thys place. And yet in this thyng ye dyd not beleue the Lorde youre God. he went in the waye before you, to ſerche you out a place to pytche youre tentes in, * in fyre by nyght, ℣ ye myghte ſe what waye to go, and in a cloude by daye.

Then ye anſwered ℣ ſayde vnto me: * We haue ſynned agaynſt the Lorde: we wyll go vp and fyghte, accordynge to all that the Lord oure God cõmaũded vs. And when ye had gyrde on euery mã his weapõs of warre, beholde, ye were ready to goo vp into the hyll. And the Lorde ſayde vnto me: ſaye vnto thẽ, that they go not vp, and that they fyghte not, for I am not amõg you: leſt ye fall before youre enemyes I tolde you therfore, and ye wolde not heare, but diſobeyed the mouth of the Lorde, ℣ went preſumptuouſly vp into the hyll.

And the Lord sayde vnto me: feare him not, for I wyll delyuer hym, & all his people and hys lande into thy hande, and thou shalt do vnto him, as thou dyddest vnto Sehon kinge of the Amorites, which dwelt at Hesbon. And so the Lorde oure God delyuered into oure handes, Og also the kynge of Basan and all hys folke. And we smote him, vntyll none was lefte hym alyue.

And we toke all his cyties the same season (nether was there a cytie which we toke not from them) euẽ thre score cyties thorow out all the regiõ of Argob, the kyngdome of Og in Basan. All these cyties also were made stronge with hye walles, gates and barres, besyde vnwalled townes a greate meanye. And vnto the Rubenites and Gaddites I gaue halfe Gilead vnto the ryuer of Arnon, halfe the valey & beyonde, euen vnto the ryuer Jabock, which is the border of the childzen of Ammon: the playne also (of the wyldernesse) and Jordã and the coast therof, frõ Ceneroth euen vnto the see whych is in the playne, euen the salt see vnder the sprynges of the hyll, eastwarde.

* And I commaunded you the same tyme sayinge: the Lorde youre God hath geuen you thys lande to enioye it: ye shall go harnessed before youre brethren the chyldren of Israel, all that are mete for the warre. Youre wyues onely, youre chyldren, and youre catell (for I wote that ye haue moche catell) shall abyde in youre cyties which I haue geuen you, vntill the Lorde haue geuē rest vnto youre brethren as well as vnto you, and vntyll they also haue conquered the lande, whyche the Lord youre God hath geuē them beyonde Iordan: and then shall ye returne agayne, euery man vnto hys possession which I haue geuen you.

* And I warned Iosua the same tyme sayinge: thyne eyes haue sene all ꝑ the Lorde youre God hath done vnto these two kinges euē so shall he do vnto all kyngdomes whyther thou goest. Ye shall not feare them, for the Lord youre God, he shall fyghte for you.

And I besoughte the Lorde the same tyme sayinge: O Lorde God, thou hast begonne to shewe thy seruaunte thy greatnesse and thy myghtye hande, for els where is there a God in heauē or in erth, that can do after thy workes and after thy power: let me go ouer and se the good lande that is beyonde Iordā, that goodly ☞ mountayne, and Libanon. * But the Lorde was angrye wyth me for youre sakes, and wolde not heare me. But charge Iosua: and courage him, & boldē him. * For he shal go before this people, and he shall deuyde vnto them the lande whyche thou shalt se. ¶ The ten commaundermentes.

AND Moses called all Israel, & sayed vnto thē. Heare O Israel the ordinaunces & lawes which I speake in youre eares this daye, that ye maye lerne them, and fullfill them in dede The Lorde oure God made an apoyntment with vs in Horeb. The Lorde made not this bonde with oure fathers, but with vs: euen with vs, which are all here alyue thys daye.

The Lorde talked with you face to face in the mount, oute of the myddes of the fyre. And I stode betwene the Lorde and you the same tyme, and shewed you the worde of the Lorde. For ye were afrayed at the syght of the fyre, and went not vp into the mount, & he sayed * I am the Lorde thy God, which brought the oute of the lande of Egypte frō the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my presence.

* Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage of any maner of lykenesse þ is in heauē aboue and that is in erth beneth, and that is in the waters benethe the erth. Thou shalt nether bowe thy selfe vnto them, nor serue thē, for I the Lorde thy God, am a gelouse God, visytinge the wyckednesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren, euen in the thyrde & fourth generacyon, amonge thē that hate me: & shewe mercye vpon thousandes, amōge them that loue me, and kepe my commaundementes.

* Thou shalt not take the name of þ Lord thy God in vayne: for the Lorde wyll not holde him gyltlesse, þ taketh his name in vayne. Kepe the Sabboth daye, that thou sanctifye it, as the Lorde thy God hath cōmaunded the * Syxe dayes thou shalt laboure and do all that thou hast to do, but the seuenth daye is the Sabboth of the Lorde thy God: thou shalt not do any worke, thou and thy sonne, thy daughter, thy seruaunte and thy mayde, thyne oxe and thyne asse, and all thy catell, and the straunger that is within thy gates, that thy seruaunte & thy mayde maye rest as well as thou. Remembre, that thou wast a seruaunte in the lande of Egypt, and howe that the Lorde thy God brought the out thence thorowe * a myghtye hande and a stretched out arme. For whyche cause the Lorde thy God commaunded the, to kepe the Sabboth daye.

Honoure thy father and thy mother, as the Lorde thy God hath commaunded the: þ thy dayes maye be prolonged, & that it maye go well with þ in the lande, which the Lorde thy God geueth the.

Thou shalt nol slaye.

Thou shalt not breake wedlocke.

Thou shalt not steale.

Thou shalt not beare false witnesse agaynst thy neyghboure.

Thou shalt not luste after thy neygbores wyfe: þ shalt not couet thy neyghbours house, hys felde, hys seruaunte, or hys mayde, hys oxe, hys asse, or ought that thy neyghboure hath. These wordes the Lorde spake vnto all your multitude in the mount out of the myddes of the fyre, cloude and darcknesse, with a greate voyce, added nomore therto, and wrote them in two tables of stone, and delyuered them vnto me.

And it fortuned, that whan ye herde the voyce out of the myddes of the darcknesse, & sawe that the hill dyd burne with fyre, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of youre tribes and youre elders: and ye sayde: beholde, the Lorde oure God hath shewed vs his glorye and his greatnesse, & * we haue herde his voyce out of the myddes of the fyre: we haue sene thys daye, that God doth talke wyth a man, and he yet lyueth. Nowe therfore, why shulde we dye, that thys greate fyre shulde consume vs? If we heare the voyce of the Lorde oure God any moare, we shal dye. For what flesshe hath hit bene, that euer harde the voyce of the lyuynge God speakinge out of the myddes of the fyre (as we haue done) and yet dyd lyue? Go thou and here all that the Lorde oure God sayeth, and tell thou vnto vs all that the Lorde oure God sayeth vnto the * and we wyll heare it and doit.

And the Lorde harde the voyce of youre wordes when ye spake vnto me, & the Lorde sayde vnto me: I haue herde the voyce of the wordes of thys people which they haue spoken vnto the, they haue well sayed all þ they haue spoken. * Oh þ ther were such an hert in thē þ they wolde feare me, & kepe all my commaundementes alwaye, that it myghte go wel with them, and with theyr chyldren for euer. Go and saye vnto them: gett you into youre tētes agayne, but stande thou here by me, and I wyll tell the all the commaundementes, ordinaunces and lawes, which thou shalt teache them, that they maye do them in the lande which I geue them to possesse.

Take hede therfore, that ye do in dede as the Lorde youre God hath commaūded you, & * turne not asyde: ether to the ryghte hāde or to þ lefte: but walke in all þ wayes which the Lorde youre God hath commaūded you, that ye maye lyue, and that it maye go well with you, and that ye maye prolonge youre dayes, in the lande which ye shall possesse.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

¶ The lawe of God maye not be forgotten.

These are the cōmaundementes, ordinaunces and lawes whych the Lorde youre God cōmaunded me to teach you that ye might do them in the lande whether ye go to possesse it: namely, þ thou myghtest * feare the Lorde thy God, and kepe all hys ordinaunces and hys cōmaundementes whych I commaunde the: thou and thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne all dayes of thy lyfe, that thy dayes maye be prolōged. Heare therfore, O Israel, and take hede, that thou do therafter, that it maye go well with the, and that ye maye encrease myghtely, euē as the Lorde God of thy fathers hath promysed the a lande, that floweth wyth mylcke and hony.

¶ What thou oughtest to do whē thou fyndest thy neyghbours beast goynge astraye. A mã shall not beare womens clothynge or a woman mannes clothynge. To weare a cotte of woolle and of flaxe is also forbydden. The punyshement of hym that accuseth a man vnryghteously: of an aduouter also and of hym that rauysheth a mayde.

Thou shalt not se thy brothers oxe or sheepe go astraye, ℣ withdrawe thy selfe from them: But shalt brynge the agayne vnto thy brother. And yf thy brother be not nye vnto ℣, or yf thou knowe hym not, then brynge bryngē it vnto thyne awne house, & it shall remayne wyth the, vntyll thy brother aske after them, and then delyuer him the agayne. In lyke maner shalt thou do with his asse and so shalt thou do with hys rayment: and with all lost thynges of thy brother which he hath lost & þ hast founde, shalt thou do lykewise, and þ mayst not withdraw the selfe.

*Exo.xxiii.a
Deu.xxii.a.* Thou shalt not se thy brothers asse or ore falle doune by the waye, & wythdraw the selfe from them: but shalt helpe hym to heue them vp agayne.

The woman shall not weare that whiche pertaynyth vnto the man, nether shall a mā put on womans rayment. For all that do so, are abhominacyon vnto the Lorde thy God.

If thou chaunce vpon a brydes nest by the waye, in what soeuer tree it be or on the grounde, whether they be younge or egges, and the damme sytynge vpō the younge or vpō the egges: Thou shalt not take the damme with the younge. But shalt in any wyse let the damme go, and take the younge to the, that thou mayst prosper and prolonge thy dayes.

When thou bildest a newe house, thou shalt make a batelment on the rouffe, that thou lade not blonde vpon thyne house, yf any man fall therof.

Leu.xix.d. Thou shalt not sowe thy vyneyarde with dyuerse seedes: lest the frute of the seede which thou hast sowen, and the frute of thy vyneyarde be defyled.

Thou shalt not plowe with an ore & an asse together. Thou shalt not weare a garment made of woll and flaxe together.

Numc.xv.d.* Thou shalt make þ gardes (in þ bimes.) vpon the.iiij. quarters of thy vesture, where with thou couerest thy selfe.

If a man take a wyfe, and when he hath lyen wyth her, hate her, and laye shamefull thynges vnto her charge, and brynge vp an euell name vpon her, and saye: I toke thys wyfe, and when I came to her, I founde her not a mayde: Then shall the father of the damsell and the mother brynge forth the tokens of the damsels virginite, vnto the elders of the cytie in ☞ the gate. And þ damsels father shall saye vnto the elders: I gaue my daughter vnto this man to wyfe, and he hateth her: and lo, he layeth shamefull thynges vnto her charge, sayinge: I founde not thy daughter a mayde. And yet these ar the tokēs of my daughters virginyte. And they shall sprede the vesture before the elders of the cytie. And the elders of that cytie shall take that man and chastyce him, and mearce hym in an hundred sycles of syluer, and geue them vnto the father of the damsell, because he hath brought vp an euell name vpon a mayde of Israel. And she shalbe hys wyfe, & he maye not put her awaye all hys dayes.

But and yf the thynge be of a suertye, that the damsell be not founde a virgen, they shall brynge the damsell ☞ to the doze of her fathers house, and the men of that cytie shall stone her wyth stones to death, because she hath wrought folye in Israel, to playe the whore in her fathers house. And so þ shalt put euell away from the.

Leu.xx.b. If a man be founde lyenge wyth a woman, that hath a wedded husbāde, they shall dye ether other of them: both the man þ laye with the wyfe, & also the wyfe: and so thou shalt put away euell from Israel.

If a mayde be handfasted vnto an husbande, and then a man fynde her in þ towne and lye with her, ye shall brynge them both out vnto the gates of the same cytie, & shall stone them with stones to death: The damsell, because she cryed not beynge in the cytie: And the man, because he hath humbled hys neyghbours wife, and thou shalt put away euell from the.

But yf a man fynde a betrouthed damsell in the felde, and forze her, and lye wyth her. Then the man that laye wyth her shall dye alone, but vnto the damsell thou shalt do no harme: because there is in the damsell no cause of death. For as when a man ryseth agaynste his neyghboure & sleyeth him, euen so is thys matter. For he founde her in þ feldes, and the betrouthed damsell cryed: and there was no man to succoure her. Exo.xxii.c If a mā fynde a mayde that is not betrouthed, and take her, and lye with her, and they be founde: Then the man that laye wyth her, shall geue vnto the damsels father. l. sycles of syluer. ¶ The.xxx. Chapter.

¶ The worde of God is at hande.

WHen all these wordes are come vpon the, the blessynge and the curse which I haue set before the, thou shalt turne vnto thine hert, amonge all the nacyons whether the Lorde thy God hath thrust the, and come agayne vnto the Lorde thy God, and herken vnto his voyce in all these thynges that I commaunde the thys daye: thou & thy children wyth all thyne herte and all thy soule: And the Lorde thy God wyll turne thy captiuite, and haue compassyon vpon the, & wyll turne, and fet the agayne frō all the nacions, amonge whych the Lorde thy God shall haue scattered the. Though thou wast cast vnto the extreme partes of heauen: euen from thence wyll the Lorde thy God gether the, & frō thence wyll he fett the, & the Lorde thy God wyll bringe the into the lande whych thy fathers possessed, & thou shalt enioye it. And he wyll shewe the kyndnesse, and multiplie the aboue thy fathers. * And the Lorde thy God wyll circumcyse thyne hert, and the hert of thy seed, that þ mayest loue the Lord thy God wyth all thyne hert, and all thy soule, þ thou mayst lyue. And the Lord thy God wyll put all these curses vpon thyne enemyes, and on them þ hate the, & þ persecute the.

But thou shalt turne, and herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde, and do all hys commaundementes, which I commaunde the thys daye. And the Lord thy God wyll make the plentyous in all the workes of thyne hande, in the frute of thy bodye, and in the frute of thy catell, and in the frute of thy lande for thy welth. * For the Lorde wyll turne agayne and reioyse ouer the to do the good, as he reioysed ouer thy fathers: If thou herken onely vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, to kepe his commaundementes and his ordinaūces whych are wrytten in the boke of this lawe, and yf thou turne vnto the Lorde thy God wythall thyne hert and all thy soule.

* For the commaundement which I commaunde the this daye, is not separated from the, nether farre of. It is not in heauen, that thou readest to say (complayne) saye: who shall go vp for vs to heauē, and fet it vs, that we maye heare it, and do it? Nether is it beyōde the see: that thou shuldest saye: who shall go ouer the see for vs, and fet it vs, þ we maye heare it, and do it? But the worde is very nye vnto the: euē in thy mouth and in thyne hert, that thou do it.

* Beholde I haue set before the this daye lyfe and good, death and euell: For where as I commaunde the thys daye, to loue the Lorde thy God, to walke in hys wayes, and to kepe hys commaundementes, his ordinaunces, and hys lawes (yf thou so do) þ shalt lyue and multiplye, and the Lorde thy God shall blesse the in þ lande, whether thou goest to possesse it.

But and yf thyne herte turne awaye, so that þ wylt not heare: but shalt goo astraye, and worshippe straunge goddes, and serue them, I pronounce vnto you also this daye, that ye shall surely perysh, and that ye shall not prolonge youre dayes vpon the lande whether thou passest ouer Jordan, to go and possesse it.

* I call heauen & erth to recorde this daye agaynst you, that I haue set before you lyfe and death, blessynge & cursynge: Therfore chose lyfe, that both thou and thy seed maye lyue, that þ mayest loue the Lorde thy God, and be obedient to hys voyce, & cleaue vnto him. For he is thy lyfe, and the length of thy dayes, that thou mayst dwell vpon the erth whych the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers: Abraham, Isahac and Jacob, to geue them.

¶ The.xxxj. Chapter.

¶ Moses depute readye to dye ordereth Josue to rule the people in hys stede. This boke Deuteronomy is wrytten and layde, in the tabernacle beside the arche. The Lewites are charged to reade it to the people.

AND Moses went and spake these wordes vnto all Israel, and sayd vnto them: I am an hundred and xx. yeare olde this daye, and can nomore go out and in. Also the Lorde hath sayde vnto me * thou shalt not goo ouer thys Jorda. The Lorde your God he wyll go ouer before the, and he wyll destroye these nacyons before the, & thou shalt conquere them. * And Josua he shall go before the, as the Lorde hath sayde. * Perfecte

a Gene.i.d. Gen.xlix.d. * Perfecte is the worke of ỹ moste myghtye God: for all hys wayes are iudgement. He is a God of trueth, without wickednesse: ryghteous, and iust is he.

 Frowardly haue they done against him thorowe their deformities: not his owne children, but a wycked & frowarde generacyon. Do ye so rewarde the Lorde, O foolyshe nacyon & vnwyse? * Is not he thy father & thyne owner? * hath he not made the, and ordeyned the? Remembre the dayes of the worlde that is past: cõsydre the yeres from tyme to tyme. * Aske thy father, and he wyll shewe the: thy elders, & they wyll tell the. When the moste highest, deuyded the nacyõs, and whan he separated the sonnes of Adam, he put the borders of the nacyons, fast by the multitude of the chyldren of Israel.

For the Lordes parte is hys folke, and Jacob is the porcyon of hys enheritaunce.

☞ He founde him in a deserte lande, in a voyde grounde, & in a rorynge wyldernesse. He led hym aboute, he gaue hym vnderstandynge, and kepte him as the apple of his eye.

As an egle ỹ stereth vp her nest and flotereth ouer her yõge, & stretcheth out hir winges, so doth he take them vp, & beareth thẽ on his shoulders. The Lorde alone was hys gyde, & there was no straunge God w̃ him.

He caried him vp to an hye lande, that he myght eate the encrease of the feldes. * And he fedd him wyth honye out of the rocke, and with oyle out of the moste harde stone. Wyth butter of kyne, & mylcke of the shepe, wyth fat of the lambes and of fat rammes and he goates, with ỹ fat of moste plẽteous wheate: ☞ and that thou myghtest drynke ☞ the moste pure blonde of the grape.

But he that shulde haue bene vpryght, whan he waxed fatt, spurned with his hele. Thou art well fedd, ỹ art growen thick: thou art euen laden with fatnesse.

And he forsoke God his maker, & regarded not the God of his saluacyõ. They prouoked hym to angre with straunge goddes: euẽ w̃ abhominacyons prouoked they him * They offered vnto deuels, and not to God, euen to goddes whõ they knewe not: to newe goddes that came newly vp, whõ their fathers feared not. Of the rocke that begat the, thou arte vnmyndefull, and hast forgotten God that made the. The Lorde therfore sawe it, and was angrye, because of the prouokynge of hys sonnes and of hys daughters.

And he sayde: I wyll hyde my face from them, & will se what their ende shall be. For they are a very frowarde generaciõ, chyldrẽ in whom is no fayth. They haue angred me wyth that whych is no God, and prouoked me wyth their vanyties. * And I also wyll prouoke them with those ☞ whych are no people, I wyll anger them wyth a folysche nacion. * For fyre is kyndled in my wrath, & burneth vnto the botome of hell. And hath cõsumed the earth with her encrease, and sett a fyre the botoms of the mountaynes. I will heape mischeues vpon them, & wyll destroye them wyth myne arowes.

They shalbe burnt with hunger, and cõsumed w̃ heate, and with bytter destruccion: * I wyll also sende the teeth of beastes vpõ them, with the furiousnes of serpentes in the dust. Without forth, shall ỹ swerde robbe thẽ of their chyldren: and within in the chamber, feare: both younge men and younge wemen, and the suchelynges wyth the men of gray heades. I haue sayde: I will shater them abrode, and make the remembraũce of them to ceasse from amonge men. Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemye, lest their aduersaries shulde vtterly wythdrawe thẽ selues, and lest they shulde saye: oure hye hande hath done all thys, and not the Lorde.

For it is a nacyõ without forecast, nether is there any vnderstãdynge in them: O that they were wyse, and vnderstode thys, that they wolde consyder their later ende.

Howe shulde one chace a thousande, and two put ten thousande to flyght: excepte their maker had solde them, and excepte the Lorde had shutt them vp?

For their God is not as oure God * oure enemyes also themselues are iudges.

For their vyne is of the vinyarde of Sodome, and of the feldes of Gomorra: Their grapes are grapes of gall, and their clusters be bytter.

Their wyne is the poyson of dragons, & the cruell gall of aspes. Is not thys layde in store with me, & sealed vp amonge my treasures? * Vengeaũce is myne, and I wyll rewarde: their fete shall slyde in due tyme. For the daye of their destruccyon is at hande, and the thynges that shall come vpon thẽ, make haste.

* For the Lorde shall iudge hys people, and haue compassyon on hys seruauntes: whan he seyth that their power is gone, and that they be in a maner shut vp, or brought to naught and forsaken.

And he shall saye * whet are their goddes? their God, in whom they trusted?

The fat of whose sacrifyces they dyd eate and dranke the wyne of their drynckte offringes? let them ryse vp and helpe you, and be youre protectyon * (in necessyte.)

G And Moses came and spake all the wordes of thys songe in the eares of the people, he and Josua the sonne of Nun. And Moses spake all these wordes vnto the ende to all the people of Israel, and sayde vnto them:

* Deut.vi.b. and.xi.a. * Sett youre herte vnto all þ wordes which I ☞ testifye vnto you thys daye: and ye ☞ shall commaunde them vnto youre chyldren, that they maye obserue and do all the wordes of thys lawe. And let it not be a vayne worde vnto you: for it is youre lyfe, and thorowe thys worde ye shall prolonge youre dayes in the lande whether ye go ouer Jordan, to conquere it.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses þ selfe same daye, sayinge: get the vp in to this mountayne Abarim, עב (That is to saye a passage) vnto mount Nebo, whych is in the lande of Moab ouer agaynst Jericho. And beholde the lande of Canaan, which I geue vnto the chyldren of Israel to possesse: And dye in the mount whych thou goest vp vnto, and thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people. * As

¶ The boke of Josua

whom the Hebrues call Jehosua.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

¶ The Lorde encourageth Josua to inuade the lande of promesse, and commaundeth him continually to reade Deuteronomie.

A Ater the deth of Moses the seruaũt of the Lorde, it happened also that the Lorde spake vnto Josua the sonne of Nun Moses minister saying: Moses my seruaũt is deed. Now therfore vp and goo ouer Jordan: thou and all this people, vnto the lande the which I geue vnto the childre of Israel. * All the places that the sooles of youre fete shall treade vpon, haue I geuen you, as I sayde vnto Moses: from the wildernes and this Libanon vnto the greate ryuer Euphrates: all the lande of the Hethites, euen vnto the great see towarde the going downe of the sonne, shalbe youre coaste. There shall not a man be able to withstande the all the dayes of thy lyfe. * For as I was with Moses, so will I be with the * and will not fayll the, nor forsake the. * Be strõg therfore and bolde: for vnto this people shalt thou deuyde the lãde which I sware vnto their fathers to geue them. Onely be thou strõg and as bolde as thou canst, that thou mayest obserue and do according to all the lawe, which Moses my seruaũt cõmaunded the. * Tourne therfrom neither to the right hãd, nor to the lefte: that thou mayste do wysely in all thou takest in hande: * let not the boke of this lawe departe out of thy mouthe: But ¶ recorde therin daye and night that thou mayst obserue, and do according to all that is writtẽ therin. For then shalt thou make thy waye prosperouse, and then thou shalt do wysely. Haue not I cõmaũded the, that thou shuldest be stroge and hardye, and not feare ner be fayntharted? For I the Lord thy God am with the, whether soeuer thou goest.

Then Josua commaunded the officers of the people, sayinge: Goo thorowe the myddes of the hoste, and cõmaũde the people, saying: prepare you vitayles: for after thre dayes ye shall passe ouer this Jordan, to goo in and enioye the lande which the Lord youre God geueth you, to possesse it.

And vnto the Rubenites, Gadites, and half the trybe of Manasses spake Josua saying: * Remember the worde, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde cõmaunded you, saynge: the Lorde youre God hathe geuen you reast, and hathe geuen you this lãd. Youre wyues, youre childre, and youre catell shall remayne in the lãde which Moses gaue you on this syde Jordan: But ye shall go before youre brethren armyd, all the men of warre, and helpe them vntill the Lorde haue geuẽ youre brethren reast, as he hathe you, and vntill they also haue obtayned the lande, which the Lorde youre God geueth them. And then shall ye retourne vnto the lande of youre possession and enioye it, which lãde Moses the Lordes seruaũt gaue you on this syde Jordã towarde the sonne rysynge. And they answered Josua sayinge: * All that thou hast cõmaunded vs, we will do, and whether soeuer thou sendest vs, we wyll go. Accordyng as we obeyed Moses in all thinges, so wyll we obeye the: onlye the Lorde thy God be with the as he was with Moses. And whosoeuer he be that doth disobeye thy mouth, and will not herken vnto thy wordes in all that thou commaundest him, let him dye: Onlye be strong and of good courage.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

¶ Josua sendeth spyes to Jericho, which were hyd of Rahab.

AND Josua the sonne of Nun sent out of Settim two men to spye secretlye, sayinge: go and vewe the lãde and also Jericho. And they went, and came into a harlotes house, named Rahab, and lodged there. And it was tolde the kynge of Jericho, and sayd: Beholde, there came men in hyther to nyght, of the childre of Israel, to spye out the countrey. And the kyng of Jericho sent vnto Rahab sayinge: bringe forth the men that are come to the, and which are entred into thyne house: for they be come to searche out all the lande.

And the woman toke the two men * and hid them. And sayde thus: in dede there came men vnto me, but I wist not whence they were. And aboute the tyme of the shuttynge of the gate when it was darcke, the men wẽt out, whether the men went I wot not: folowe ye after them quyckly, and ye shall ouer take them. But she brought them vp to the roofte of the house, and * hydd them wt the stalckes of flaxe, which she had lyinge abroade vpon the roofte. And the men of the cytye pursued after them, the waye to Jordan, euen vnto the ferie, and as sone as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shutt the gate.

And or euer they were a slepe, she came vp vnto them vpon ꝑ rooffe, & sayde vnto the men: I knowe, ꝑ the Lorde hathe geuen you the lãde * for the feare of you is fallen vpon vs, & the enhabiters of the land faynt at the presence of you. For we haue heard, how ꝑ Lorde * dried vp ꝑ water of the redd see before you when you came out of Egypte, & what you dyd vnto ꝑ two kynges of the Amorites, that were on the other side Jordan * Sehon, & Og, whom ye vtterlye destroyed. And as sone as we had heard these thynges ℟ (we were sore afraied, ℟) oure herte dyd faile. And there remayned no more courage in any man at the presence of you. For the Lorde youre God, he is ꝑ God in heauen aboue, & on the erth benethe.

Now therfore (I pray you) sweare vnto me * by the Lorde, ꝑ as I haue shewed you mercie, ye shall also shewe mercie vnto my fathers house, & geue me a true token. And that ye shall saue alyue, bothe my father, & my mother, my brethren, & my systers, and all that they haue. And that ye shall delyuer ℟ oure soules from death.

And the men answered her: oure liues for you to dye, yf ye vtter not this oure busines. And when ꝑ Lord hathe geuen vs the lãd, * we will deale mercifully & truly with the. And then she lett them downe by a corde * thorow a windowe: For her house was by the towne wall. And she dwelt by the towne wall. And she sayd vnto them: gett you into the mountayne, lest the pursuers mete you, & hyde youre selues there thre dayes, vntill the pursuars be returned and then shall ye goo youre awne waye.

And the men sayde vnto her: we will be blameles of this thy othe, which thou hast made vs sweare. Beholde, when we come into ꝑ lãde, ꝑ shalt bynde this purple coarde in the widow, which ꝑ latte st vs downe bye. And thou shalt bring thy father, & thy mother, thy brethren, and all thy fathers houshold, euen into thy house. And then whosoeuer doth go out at the dores of thy house, into the strrat, ℟ his bloude shalbe vpon his awne head, & we wilbe giltles. And whosoeuer shalbe with the i the house, hys bloude shall be on oure heade, yf any mannes hãde touche him: And yf thou vtter these oure wordes, we wilbe quyte of thy othe, which thou hast made vs sweare. And she sayde: accordige vnto youre wordes, so be it: and she sent them awaye to departe. And she bounde the purple coarde in the window.

And they departed, and came into ꝑ mountayne, and there aboade thre dayes, vntill the pursuars were returned. And the pursuars sought them thorowe out all ꝑ waye but founde them not. And the two men returned, & descended from the mountayne, and passed ouer, and came to Josua the sonne of Nun, and tolde hym all that had chaunced them. And they sayd vnto Josua: the Lord truly hathe delyuered into oure handes all ꝑ lãde, and all the inhabiters of the contrey faynte at the presence of vs.

¶ Josue with the people passe ouer Jordan.

AND Josua rose erlye: and they remoued from Settim, & came to Jordã, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there, before they went ouer. And after thre dayes it fortuned, that the officers went thorow out the hoste, and cõmaũded the people sayinge: when ye se ꝑ arcke of the testament of the Lord youre God, & the preastes that are Leuites bearing it: ye shall departe from youre place, & go after it. So yet that there shall be a space betwene you & it, aboute a two thousande cubites by measure. And ye shal not come nye vnto it, that ye maye knowe the waye, by which ye must go: for ye haue not gone this waye in tymes past ℟ (ꝑ beware, that ye approche not nye vnto the arke) And Josua sayd vnto the people: * ℟ Sanctifie youre selues, for to morowe the Lorde shall do wonders amonge you.

And Josua spake vnto the preastes, saying: Take vp the arcke of ꝑ couenaũt: & go before the people. And they toke vp the arcke of the testamẽt, and went before the people.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Josua: this daye will I begynne to ℟ magnifie the, in the syght of all Israel, ꝑ they maye knowe how that * as I was with Moses so wyll I be with the. And thou shalt commaunde the preastes that beare the arcke of the couenaunt saying: when ye are come to the edge of the waters of Jordan, ye shall stãde still in it.

And Josua sayde vnto ꝑ children of Israel: come hither, & heare the wordes of the Lord youre God. And Josua sayde, Herbye ye shall knowe that the liuyng God is among you, & that he will wythout fayle cast out before you, ꝑ Cananites, & the Hethites, ꝑ Heuites, ꝑ Pherezites, ꝑ Gergesites, ꝑ Amorites, & ꝑ Jebusites. Beholde, the arcke of ꝑ apointmẽt of ꝑ Lord of all ꝑ worlde goeth before you into Jordã. Now therfore take from amõge you twelue mẽ out of ꝑ tribes of Israel, out of euery tribe a man. And as sone as ꝑ soles of ꝑ fete of ꝑ preasts (ꝑ beare the arcke of the Lord the Gouernour of all the worlde) tread in the waters of Jordan, the waters of Jordan ℟ (that are beneth, shall renne downe, ℟) shall be deuided: & the waters that come from aboue, shall stande shall stande still vpō an heape. And it fortuned, that when the people were departed frō their tētes to goo ouer Jozdā, the preastes bearyng *ꝑ arcke of the appointment, wēt before the people. And as sone as they that bare ꝑ arcke came vnto Jozdan, & the fete of the preastes that bare ꝑ arcke were dipped in the brym of ꝑ water *(For Jozdan vseth to fill all hys bāckes all the tyme of haruest) the waters also that came downe frō aboue, did ryse vp vpō an heape (and appeared as great as a mountayne,) and departed farre frō Adam, ꝑ was beside zarthan, And the waters that were beneth toward the see of ꝑ wildernes, fell awaye & departed into the salt see, and the people * went rycht ouer agaynst Jericho. And the preastes ꝑ bare the arcke of the appointemēt of the Lozde, stoode drye within Jozdane rea dy prepared, & all the Jsraelites went ouer thozow the dryc, vntill all the people were gone cleane ouer thozow Jozdan,

AND it fortuned, that whan the people were all gone *ouer Jordan, the Lozde spake vnto Josua, sayinge: Take you twelue men out of the people, out of euery trybe a man. And commaunde you them, sayinge: take you hence out of the myddes of Jozdan (euen out of the place where the preastes stoode in a redynes) twelue (of the most hardest) stones, which ye shall take awaye with you, and leaue them in ꝑ place, where you shal lodge this night. And Josua called the twelue men, which he had prepared of the childzen of Jsrael, out of euery trybe a man, and Josua sayde vnto them: gett you before the arcke of the Lozd youre God, euen thozow the myddes of Jozdā *and take vp euery man of you a stone vpon his shulder, accozding vnto the nombze of the trybes of the childzen of Jsrael, that this maye be a signe among you. And the childzen of Jsrael dyd euen so as Josua commaunded, and toke vp *twelue stones out of the myddes of Jozdan, as the Lozde sayde vnto Josua, accozdynge to ꝑ nōbze of ꝑ tribes of the childzen of Jsrael, & carped them awaye with them vnto the place where they lodged, & layed thē doune there. And Josua set vp twelue stones also in the myddes of Jozdan, in the place where the fete of the preastes which bare the arcke of the testament, stode. And there haue they cōtinued vnto this daye. For the preastes which bare ꝑ arcke stode in the myddes of Jozdan, vntill all was finished that the Lozde cōmaunded Josua to saye vnto the people, accozdig to all that Moses charged Josua. And ꝑ people hasted, and wēt ouer. It fortuned also, that whā all the people were cleane ouer, ꝑ arke of ꝑ Lozd went ouer also, & ꝑ preastes before the people. * And the childzē of Ruben, & the childzen of Gad, & halfe the tribe of Manasses went before the childzen of Jsrael armed, as Moses charged thē. And the Lozd spake vnto Josua, saying: cōmaūde the preastes that beare the arcke of witnesse, to come vp out of Jozdan. And the people came vp out of Jozdan the tenth daye of the fyrst moneth, and pitched in Gilgal, euen in the east bozder of the cyte Jericho.

And the twelue stones which they toke out of Jozdan, did Josua pitche in Gilgal. And he spake vnto the childzen of Jsrael, saying: * Yf youre childzen aske their fathers in tyme to come, & saye: what meane these stones? ye shal shewe youre childzē, & saye: Jsrael came ouer this Jozdan on dzie lād. The.vi. Chapter.

The walles of Jericho fall, and it is destroyed.

AND Jericho was shut vp, ⁊ locked A because of ꝑ childzē of Jsrael, nether myght anye man go out oz in. And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: beholde, I haue geuen into thyne hand Jericho and her kynge and the strong men of warre.

And ye shall cōpasse the cytie, all ye that be men of warre, ⁊ go roūde aboute it once and so shall you do syxe dayes. And seuen preastes shall beare before the Arke, seuen trōpettes of rāmes hornes (that be vsed in the 60 Jubile). And the seuenth daye, ye shal compasse the cytie seuen tymes, and the preastes shall blowe with the trompettes. And when they make a longe blaste wyth the rammes horne, ⁊ ye heare the sounde of the horne, all the people shal showte wt a great showte. And thē shall the wall of ꝑ citie 65 fall doune, and the people shall ascende vp, euery man streight before him. And Josua the sonne of Nun, called the preastes, and sayde vnto them: take vp the arcke of the appointement, ⁊ lett seuen preastes beare seuen trompettes of rāmes hornes before the arcke of the Lorde. And he sayde vnto the people, go and compasse the cytie: and lett him ꝑ is harnessed, go before the arcke of the Lorde. And when Josua had spoken vnto the people, the seuen preastes bare the seuen trompettes of rammes hornes, and went forth before the arcke of the Lorde, ⁊ 25 blewe with the trompettes, and the arcke of the couenaūt of the Lorde folowed thē.
And all the men of armes went before the Preastes, that blewe with the trōpettes, and the commen people came after the ar-ke: and the preestes that went blewe with trōpettes. And Josua cōmaunded the people sayinge: Ye shall not showte, ner make any noyse wt youre voyce, neither shal any worde proceede out of youre mouthe, vntill ꝑ daye I bid you showte, then shall ye sho-wte. And so ꝑ arcke of the Lorde compased the cytie, and went aboute it once: and they retourned into the hoste, and lodged there.
And Josua rose erly in the mornyng, and the Preastes toke vp ꝑ arcke of the Lorde, and seuen Preastes bare seuen trompettes of rammes hornes, ⁊ went before the arcke of the Lorde, and blew with the trompet-tes. And all the men of armes went before them, but the comen people came after the arcke of the Lorde, which wēt before with the blowing of the trompettes. And the seconde daye they compased the cytie once, ⁊ retourned agayne into the hoste, ⁊ so they dyd syxe dayes.

And when the seuenth daye came, they rose erlye: euen with the dawninge of ꝑ daye, and compased the cytie after the same maner seuen tymes: only that daye they compased the cytie seuen tymes.

And at the seuenth tyme, whan ꝑ preastes blewe wᵗ the tröpettes, Josua sayd vnto ꝑ people: showt, for ꝑ Lorde hath geuen you ꝑ cytie. And the cytie shalbe dāned ⁊ bothe it and all that are therin, vnto the Lorde: onlye Rahab the harlot shall lyue, and all that are with her in the house, because she *hidd the messengers that we sent. And in anywise be ye ware of the excommunicate thinges, lest ye make youre selues excōmunicate, ⁊ take of the excōmunicate thinges, and make ꝑ hoste of Israel excōmunicate and trouble it. But all ꝑ siluer, golde, vesselles of brasse, ⁊ ꝑ shalbe consecrate vnto the Lorde, ⁊ shal come into his treasurie.

And the people showted, and blewe wyth trompettes. And when the people heard ꝑ soūde of the tröpe, they showted wᵗ a great showt: ⁊ the* wall fell downe, so ꝑ the people wēt vp into ꝑ cytie, euery man streyght before him, ⁊ toke ꝑ citie. And they vtterly destroyed all ꝑ was in the cytie, bothe man and woman, younge and olde, oxe, shepe ⁊ Asse, with the edge of the swerde.

Then Josua sayde vnto the two mē that had spyed out ꝑ contreye: *goo into ꝑ harlottes house, and bringe out thense the woman, and all that she hath, *as ye sware to her. And the younge men that were spyes, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father and mother and her brethrē, and all ꝑ she had. And they brought out all her kined, ⁊ put them without the hoste of Israel

And they burnt the cytie with fier, and all that was therin. Only the siluer and ꝑ golde, the vessels of brasse and yron, they put vnto ꝑ treasure of the house of ꝑ Lord *And Josua saued Rahab the harlott, ⁊ her fathers houshold, and all that she had, ⁊ she dwelt in Israel, euen vnto this daye because she hidd the messengers, which Josua sent to spye out Jericho.

And Josua sware at that tyme, sayinge: cursed be the man before the Lorde, that riseth vp, ⁊ buildeth this citie Jericho: he shall laye the foundacion * in his ⁊ eldest sonne, and in his youngest sonne shal he sett vp the gates of it. And so the Lord was wᵗ Josua, and his fame was noysed thorowe out all landes.

¶ The. vii. Chapter.

That is spyed out. Acan is stoned.

BUt yet ꝑ childzen of Israel trespased in the * excommunicate thynges: And *Acan the sonne of Carmy, the sonne of zabdi, the sonne of zareh of the tribe of Juda, toke of the excommunicat thinges. And the wrath of the Lorde waxed whote agaynst the childzen of Israel.

And Josua sent mē from Jericho to Hai, which is besyde Bethauen, on the east syde of Bethel, ⁊ spake vnto them, sayinge: gett you vp, ⁊ vewe the countrey. And the men went vp, ⁊ spyed out Hai. And retourned to Josua, and sayde vnto him, lett not all the people go vp, but let as it were a two or thre thousande men goo vp, and smyte Hai and make not all the people to laboure thether, for they are but fewe.

And so there went vp thether of ꝑ people, aboute a thre thousande men, ⁊ they fledd before the men of Hai. And the men of Hai smote of them vpō a thyrtye and sixe men: for they chased them frō before ꝑ gate euen vnto Sebarim, ⁊ smote them in the goyng doune. Wherfore ꝑ hertes of ꝑ people * for feare melted awaye like water. And Josua rent his clothes, and fell to the erth vpon his face before ꝑ arcke of the Lorde vntill the euen tyde, he and the elders of Israel, ⁊ put erth vpon their heddes.

And Josua sayde* Alas, O Lorde God, wherfore hast ꝑ brought thys people ouer Jordan, to dilluer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroie vs: wold to God we had ⁊ bene content, ⁊ dwelt on the other syde Jordan. Oh Lorde what shall I saye, when Israel turneth their backes before their enemyes: Surely the Cananites, and all ꝑ enhabiters of ꝑ lande shall heare of it, ⁊ shall conspire agaynst vs, ⁊ destroye the name of vs out of the worlde. And what wilt thou do vnto thy myghtie name?

And the Lorde sayde vnto Josua, gett ꝑ vp, wherfore lyest thou thus vpō thy face? Israel hath synned, ⁊ they haue transgressed myne appointement, which I cōmaunded them: for they haue taken of the excōmunicate thinges, and haue stolen, and dissembled, ⁊ put them vnto their awne stuffe And therfore is it that ꝑ childzen of Israel cannot stande before their ennemyes, but shall turne their backes before their ennemyes because they be excommunicate. Nether will I be wᵗ you any moare, excepte ye rote out ꝑ excōmunicate frō amonge you.

*Up therfore, ⁊ sanctifie ⁊ the people, and saye: sanctifie youre selues against to morowe: for so sayd ꝑ Lord God of Israel There is a damned thinge amōge you (O Israel) ⁊ therfore ye cannot stande against youre ennemyes, vntill ye haue put ꝑ damned thinge from amonge you. To morowe morning therfore ye shall be brought accordīg to youre tribes. And ꝑ tribe which the Lord taketh, shal come accordīg to ꝑ kynreds therof. And ꝑ kynred which the Lord shall fide gyltie, shall come by houholders And ꝑ houholde which ꝑ Lord shall finde fautye, shall come man by man. And he ꝑ is foūde in ꝑ excōmunicacion, shalbe burnt with fire, he and all that he hath, because he hath transgressed the couenaunt of the Lord and wrought folye in Israell.

And so Josua rose vp erly in the morning and brought Israell by their tribes: and ꝑ tribe of Juda was caught. And he brought the kynredes of Juda, and toke the kynred of ꝑ zarehites. And he brought the kynred of the zarehites, man by man, ꝑ zabdi was caught. And he brought his housholde mā by man, and Acan the sonne of Carmy, the sonne of zabdi, the sonne of zareth in the tribe of Juda was caught.

D And Josua sayde vnto Acan: my sōne, I beseche the, geue glorie to ꝑ Lord God of Israell, ꝑ geue hi praise, ꝑ shewe me what thou hast done, hyde it not from me. And Acan answered Josua, ꝑ sayde: of a truthe I haue synned agaynst the Lorde God of Israell, ꝑ thus ꝑ thus haue I done. I sawe among the spoyle a goodlye Babylonithe garment, ꝑ two hundred sicles of siluer, ꝑ a tonge of golde of fyftie sicles weyghte, and I coueted them, ꝑ toke them. And beholde, they lye hydde in the erthe in my tente and the siluer is ther vnder.

And so Josua sent messegers: which whā they ranne vnto his tēt, beholde, they were hid in his tent, and the syluer there vnder. Therfore they toke thē out of the myddest of his tent, and brought them vnto Josua, and vnto all the childre of Israell, ꝑ layed them out before the Lorde.

And Josua toke Acan the sonne of zareth, and the siluer, ꝑ the garment, and the tōge of golde, and his sonnes ꝑ his daughters, his oxen, ꝑ his asses, his shepe, ꝑ his tent, ꝑ all that he had: and all Israell wyth hym brought them vnto the valeye of Achor.

And Josua sayde: In as moche as thou haste troubled vs, the Lord shall trouble ꝑ this daye. And all Israell stoned him with stones, and burned thē with fire, and ouerwhelmed them with stones. And they cast vpō him a great heape of stones vnto this daye. And so the Lorde turned from the wrathe of his indignacion. And the name of the place is called ꝑ valeye of Achor vnto this daye.

¶ The. viii. Chapter.

¶ The feare and wynnyng of Hai. The kyng therof is hāged. Josua setteth vp an altar. He blesseth the people,

AND the Lorde sayde vnto Josua: *feare not, nether be thou fayntharted. Take all ꝑ men of warre wyth the and vp, and gett the to Hai. Beholde, I haue geuen into thy hande, the kyng of Hai, and his people, hys cytie and hys lande.

And so Josua arose, and all the men of warre, to go vp agaynst Hai. And Josua chose oute thyrtie thousande stroge men of warre, ꝑ sent thē awaye by nyght. And he cōmaunded them, sayinge: beholde, ye shall lye awayte vnto ꝑ towne on the backesyde therof. Go not very farre from ꝑ cytie, but be all readye. And I and all ꝑ people ꝑ are with me, will approche vnto the cytie. And 25 when they come out agaynst vs, as they did at the first tyme thē will we flee before thē. For they will come oute after vs ꝑ we will bring them out of the cytie. For they will saye: they flee before vs, as at ꝑ first tyme: ꝑ we will flee before thē. In the meane tyme shall ye ryse vp frō lying awayte, ꝑ destroye ꝑ cytie: For ꝑ Lorde youre God will deliuer it into youre hāde. And whan ye haue taken ꝑ cytie, ye shall set it on fire. Accordinge to the commaundement of the Lord shal ye do: beholde, I haue charged you. Josua therfore sent thē forth, ꝑ they went to lye awayte, ꝑ abode betwene Bethel and Hai, on the west syde of the cite of Hai. But Josua lodged that nyght amōge the people. And Josua rose vp erlye in the morninge, and nombred the people, ꝑ wēt vp, he ꝑ the elders of Israel before the people agaynst Hai. And all the men of warre that were with him, wēt vp and drue nye, and came agaynst the cytie, and pitched on the north syde of Hai, ꝑ there was a valeye betwene them and Hai. And he toke vpō a fyue thousande men, and put them to lye awayte, betwene Bethel ꝑ Hai, on ꝑ west-syde of ꝑ cytie. And they put ꝑ people (euē all the folke that were on the northsyde) agaynst the cytie, and the spers awayte on the west. And Josua walked ꝑ same nyght in the myddes of the valeye.

And it fortuned, ꝑ when the kyng of Hai sawe it they hasted and rose vp earlye, and the men of the cytie went oute agaynst Israell to battell, he ꝑ all his people, at a tyme apoynted, euen before the playne, and wist not that there were spers awayte on the backsyde of the cytie.

And Josua ꝑ all Israel fayned them selues to be put to the worse before thē, ꝑ fled towarde the wildernesse. And all ꝑ people of ꝑ towne were called together, to folowe after them. And they folowed after Josua ꝑ were drawē a waye from the cytie: And there was not a man left in Hai ꝑ in Bethel, ꝑ wēt not out after Israell. And they left the cytie open, ꝑ folowed after Israell.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Josua: stretch out ꝑ spere ꝑ is in thine hād, towarde Hai, for I will geue it into thy hād. And Josua stretched

And they had no leysure to flee ether thys waye or þ, & the people þ fledd to þ wyldernesse, turned backe agayne vpon the folowers.

E And when Josua & all Israel sawe that the lyers awayte had take the citie, & that the smoke of it alcẽded, they turned agayne and layed on the men of Hai. (I saye) abode in the myddes of heauẽ and hasted

hasted not to goo doune by ꝑ space of a whole daye. And there was no daye lyke that, before it, or after it, that the Lorde heard ꝑ voyce of a man. For the Lorde fought for Israell.

D And Josua returned and all Israell with hym, vnto the hoste to Gilgall: but the fyue kynges fledde, and were hyd in a caue at Maketa. And it was tolde Josua of one saying, the fyue kynges are founde hid in a caue which is at Maketa. And Josua sayd rowle great stones vpon the mouthe of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them. And stande ye not stylle, but folowe after youre enemyes, and smyte all the hyndmost, And suffre them not to entre into theyr cyties, for the Lorde youre God hath delyuered them into youre hande. And it fortuned, when Josua and the chyldren of Israell had made an ende of slaying them wyth an exceedinge great slaughter tyll they were wasted, the rest that remayned of them, entred into walled cyties.

And all the people returned to the hoste, to Josua at Maketa in peace, neither dyd any man moue hys tong agaynst the chyldren of Israel. Then sayde Josua: open the mouth of the caue, and bryng oute these .v. kynges vnto me oute of the caue. And they dyd so, and brought those fyue kynges vnto hym, oute of the caue, euen the kynge of Jerusalem, the kyng of Hebron, the kyng of Jarmuth, the kyng of Lachis, and the kynge of Eglon.

E And it fortuned, that when they brought oute those kynges vnto Josua: Josua called for all the men of Israell, and sayde vnto the chefe of the me of warre, which wēte with hym: come nere, & put youre fete vpō the neckes of these kynges. And they cam neare: and put their fete vpō the neckes of them. And Josua sayde vnto thē: Ye shall not feare, ner be faynt harted. But be strōg and plucke vp youre hertes, for thus shall the Lorde do to all youre enemyes agaynst whom ye fyght.

And then Josua smote them, and slewe them, & hanged thē on fyue trees. And they hāged stull vpō ꝑ trees vntill the euening. And at ꝑ goig doune of ꝑ sonne it fortuned that Josua gaue cōmaundement, and they *Josu. viii. f toke thē doune of ꝑ * trees, ād cast thē into ꝑ caue, (where in they had bene hyd), & layed great stones on ꝑ caues mouthe, which remayne vnto this daye.

And that same daye Josua toke Maketa, and smote it wyth ꝑ edge of the swerde, *Deu. xx. d. and the kynge therof also * destroyed he vtterly, wyth all the soules that were therin, and let nought remayne. And he dyd *Josu. viii. d. to the kynge of Maketa * as he dyd to the kynge of Jericho.

Then Josua went from Maketa, and all Israell with hym vnto Libna, & fought against Libna. And the Lorde delyuered it and the kynge therof into the hand of Israell, and he smote it wyth the edge of the swerde, ād all the soules that were therin. He let nought remayne in it, but dyd vnto the kyng therof as he dyd vnto the kynge of Jericho.

And Josua departed from Libna, and F all Israell wyth hym, vnto Lachis, ād beseged it, and assaulted it. And the Lord delyuered Lachis into the hande of Israell. which toke it the secōde daye, and smote it with the edge of the swerde, & all the soules that were therī, doing accordyng to all, as he had done to the cite of Libna.

Then Horam kynge of Geser came vp to helpe Lachis: And Josua smote hym & his people, vntill naught remayned of hym.

And from Lachis Josua departed, vnto Eglon, and all Israell with hym, and they beseged it, and assaulted it, and toke it the same daye, ād smote it with the edge of the swerde, and all the soules that were therin he vtterlye destroyed the same daye, according to all that he had done to Lachis.

And Josua departed vp from Eglon and G all Israel with him, vnto Hebrō. And they fought agaynst it, and whan they had takē it, they smote it with the edge of ꝑ swerde, and ꝑ kyng therof, and all the townes that pertayned to it, ād all the soules that were therin, and he lefte nought remayning: but did accordig to all, as he had done to Eglō, and destroyed it vtterlye, ād all the soules that were therin.

And Josua returned, and all Israell with him to Dabir, and fought agaynst it. And whan he had taken it, and the kyng therof, and all the townes that pertayned therto. they smote them with the edge of ꝑ swerde, ād vtterlye destroyed all the soules ꝑ were therin, nether let he ought remayne. Euen as he dyd to Hebrō, so he dyd to Dabir and ꝑ kyng therof, as he had done also to Libna and her kynge.

Josua therfore smote all the hill contreys, and the southe contreys, and the valeyes, and the hill sydes, & all their kynges, & lett nought remayne of thē, but vtterly destroyed all that * breathed, as the Lorde God of Israell commaunded. And Josua *Deu. xx. d. smote them from Cades barne vnto Asah, and all the contrey of Golan, enē vnto Gibeon. All those kynges and their lande dyd Josua take at one tyme: because the Lorde God of Israell fought for Israell. And Josua and all Israel returned, vnto the hoste that was in Gilgall.

¶ The battell of Josua with dyuers kynges.

And

A AND it fortuned, that when Jabin kyng of Hazor had hearde those thinges: he sent to Jobab kynge of Madō, & to the kyng of Simrō, and to the kynge of Achlaph, and vnto the kynges that are by northe in þ moūtaynes, & playnes toward the southeslyde of Ceneroth, ād in the lowe countreys, & in þ borders of Dor westward and vnto the Cananytes bothe by Easte & weste, & vnto the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, and Jebusites in the moūtaynes: & vnto the Heuites that were vnder Hermō in the lande of Mizpa: And they came out ād all their hostes with them, a multytude of folke, euen as the sande that is on the see shore in a greate nōbre with horsses & charettes exceding manye. And all these kynges mett together, and came, and pytched together at the waters of Merom, for to fight agaynst Israell.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Josua: be not afrayde at the presence of them: for tomorowe aboute this tyme will I delyuer them all slayne before Israell: thou shalt hough their horsses, & burne their charettes with fire. And so Josua came and all the men of warre with hym agaynst them by the waters of Merom, & sodenlye fell vpon them. And the Lorde delyuered them into þ hāde of Israell: and they smote them, and chased them vnto great Sidon, & vnto the whott waters, ād vnto þ valeye of Mizpa which is Eastwarde: and smote them vntyll they had none remaynyng of them. And Josua dyd vnto them, as the Lorde bad hym: he houghed their horsses, and burnt their charettes with fyer.

And Josua at that tyme turned backe, & toke Hazor, & smote the kyng therof with the swerde. And Hazor before tyme was þ head of all those kigdomes. And they smote all the soules þ were therī with the edge of the swerde, vtterlye destroying all: & no thing that breathed, was let remayne. And he burnt Hazor wt fyer. And all þ cyties of those kynges, and all the kynges of them, dyd Josua take, and smote them wyth the edge of the swerde, and vtterlye destroyed them * as Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded.

But Israell burnt none of þ cyties þ stode styll in their strēgth, saue Hazor ōlye that Josua burnt. And all the spoyle of the sayde cyties ād the catell, the childrē of Israel caught vnto them selues. But the men onlye they smote with the edge of þ swerde vntill they had destroyed them nether left they ought that had breath. As the Lorde commaunded Moses hys seruaunt, so dyd Moses commaūde Josua, and euen so dyd Josua * so that he mynyshed no worde, of all that the Lorde commaunded Moses.

* Deute. j. c.

And so Josua toke all the lande, the hylles and all the southe contreye, and all the lande of Goshan, and the lowe contrey, and þ playne, and the mountayne of Israell, & & the lowe countrey of the same, euen from the mounte of partyng, þ gothe vp to Seir vnto the playne of Gad in the valeye of Libanon, vnder mounte Hermon. And all the kynges of the same he toke, & smote them, and slewe them.

Josua made warre longe tyme wt those kynges: nether was there anye citie þ made peace with þ childrē of Israell, saue those Hethites that enhabited Gibeon, and therfore all other they toke wyth battell, for it came of the Lorde, wich dyd harden theyr hartes, that they shulde come agaynst Israell in battell: & that they shulde destroye them vtterlye, and shewe them no mercy, but to bryng them to naught, As the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And that same ceason came Josua, and destroyed the Enakites out of the mountaynes: Namely, out of Hebron, Dabir, Anab, and out of all the moūtaynes of Juda, and out of all the mountaynes of Israell. And Josua destroyed them vtterlye with their cities. There was not one Enakite leafte in the lande of the chyldrē of Israell, only in Asah * Geth, and Asdod, there remayned of them. * Iosu. xvij.

And Josua toke þ whole lande, accordyng to all that the Lorde sayd vnto Moses, and Josua gaue it for a possessiō vnto Israel * accordyng to their partes and trybes: & the lande rested from warre. * Iosu. xxij.

D And Moses gaue enheritaūce vnto the trybe of Gad, euen vnto ꝑ chyldren of Gad he gaue by theyr kynredes. And theyr costes were Jazer, & all the cyties of Gilead, and halfe the lāde of ꝑ chyldrē of Ammon, vnto Aroer ꝑ lyeth before Rabba. And frō Hesbon vnto Ramoth, Mazphah, & Betonim: and frō Mahanaim vnto ꝑ borders of Lidbir. And in ꝑ valeye they had Bethārā Bethnimra, Socoth, and zaphon, ꝑ rest of the kyngdome of Sehon kyng of Hesbon, vnto Jordan and the costes that lye therō, euen vnto the edge of the see of Cenereth, on the other syde Jordā eastward. This is the enheritaunce of the childrē of Gad after their kynredes, theyr cyties and villages.

And Moses gaue enheritaūce vnto the halfe trybe of Manasses. And this was ꝑ possession of ꝑ halfe trybe of Manasses by theyr kynredes. Theyr coste was frō Mahanaim, euē all Basan, & all ꝑ kyngdom of Og kynge of Basan, and all ꝑ townes of Jair which lye in Basan, euē thre score cyties, & halfe Gilead, Astaroth, & Edrai, cyties of ꝑ kyngdome of Og in Basan * which pertayne vnto the chyldrē of Machir ꝑ sonne of Manasses, euē ꝑ halfe porcion of the chyldren of Machir by theyr kynredes. * Num. xxxii c.

¶ The lotte of the chyldren of Juda & the names of the cyties and vyllages of the same.

T This was the lotte of the trybe of the A chyldrē of Juda by theyr kynredes: Namely, towarde the border of Edom in the wyldernesse of zin, southwarde, euen from the vtmoost parte of the southe coste. * And theyr south coste was from the * nu. xxxiiii b brynke of the salt see, from a rock that leaneth southward. And it wēt out to ꝑ south syde toward the goynge vp to Acrabim, & went a longe to zinna, and ascended vp on the south syde vnto Cades Barne, & went a longe to Hezron, and went vp to Adar, and fette a compase to Karca. From thēce went it a longe to Azmon, and reached vnto the ryuer of Egypt: and the ende of that cost was on the west syde. And this is theyr south coste.

Their east coste is the salt see, euen vnto B the edge of Jordan. And their border in the nor-

north quarter was frō the rocke of the see and frō the edge of Jordan. And the same border went vp to Bethhagla, and went a long by the northside of Betharabah, and vp from thēce to the stone of Bohen ꝑ sonne of Ruben. And agayne, the same border went vp to Dabir frō the valeye of Achor, and so northwarde, turnyng towarde Gilgall, that lieth before ꝑ goyng vp to Adonim, whych is of the southe syde of the ryuer. And the same border wēt vp to ꝑ waters of the fountayne of the Sōne, and ended at the * well of Rogell. And then went vp to the valeye of the sonne of Hennō, euē vnto the southe syde of Jebusi: the same is Jerusalem. And then went vp to the toppe of the hille that lyeth before the valeye of Hennon, westwarde, and by the edge of the valeye of the Giauntes northwarde: And then it compaseth frō the toppe of the hill vnto the fountayne of the water of Nephthoah, and gothe out at the cities of moūt Ephron: and draweth to Baala, whiche is kiriathiarim, ✠ (That is, a cytie of wodes.) and then it compaseth from Balah westwarde vnto moūt Seir, & then goeth a longe vnto the syde of moūt Jarim, (which is Chesalon) on ꝑ north syde. And cometh downe to Bethsames, and gothe to Thamnah, āð gothe out agayne vnto the syde of Akarō northwarde: And then draweth to Secron and gothe a longe to mounte Balah, and goeth out at Jabnel: & the endes of the coastes leaue at the west see. And the west border was the gaeat see, and the same coaste was the coast of the chyldrē of Juda roūde about in theyr kynredes.

And vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune dyd Josua geue a parte among the childrē of Juda, accordynge to the mouthe of the Lorde, euen * kiriatharbe of the father of Enock, whiche cytye is Hebrō. And Caleb droue thence the thre sonnes of Enack, Sesai, and Ahman, āð Thalmai, which were, the sonnes of Enack. And he wēt vp thēce, to the enhabitoures of Dabir. And the name of Dabir in the olde tyme was kariath sephar. ✠ (That is, a cytye of letteres.) And Caleb sayde: * he that smyteth kariath sepher, & taketh it: to hym wyll I geue Achah my daughter to wyfe. And Othniel, the sonne of kenes, the brother of Caleb toke it. And he gaue hym Achah hys daughter to wyfe. And as she went in vnto hym, she moued hym, to aske of her father a felde. And she alyghted of her asse. And Caleb sayde vnto her, what ayleth the? Who answered: gyue me a blessyng: for thou hast geuen me a south ✠ (and drye) lande: geue me also sprynges of water. And he gaue her sprynges of water, bothe aboue and benethe. Thys is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the childrē of Juda by their kynredes.

And the vttmost cyties of the tribe of the childrē of Juda, towarde ꝑ coastes of Edom southwarde, were: Kabzel, Eder & Jagur: kinah, Dimonah, and Adada: kedes, Hazor and Jethnan: ziph, Telem and Baloth, Hazor, Hadathah, karioth, Hesrō (which is Hazor) Eman, Sami, and Moladah: Hazargadah, Halmon & Bethpheleth: Hasar sual, Berlabe, and Bazothah: Baalah, Jim, and Azen: Eltholad, Cesill, and Horma: ziklag, Medemenah & Sensenah: Labaoth, Selhim, Ain and Rimō: all these cyties are twentye and nyne with their villages. And in ꝑ lowe cōtreye they had Esthaol, zareah, and Asenah: zoreah, Enganim, Thaphuah & Enam: Jarmuth Adulā, Socoh, & Azkah: Saarem, Adithaim, Gederah, and Gederothaim: Fourtene cyties with their villages.

Ze nan, Hadazah, and Magdalgad: Deleam, Mizpa, and Jekthel: Lachis, Bazcath and Eglon: Cabon, Lahamam, and Cethlis Gaderoth, Bethdagon, Naamah and Makedah: Syrtene cyties with their villages.

Lebnah, Ether, and Asan: Jephthah, Asnah, and Nezib: keilah, kahezib and Maresah: nyne cyties wyth theyr vyllages. Akron with her townes & villages. From Akrō & from ꝑ west, all that lyeth aboute Asdod w̄ their villages. Asdod with her townes & villages. Azah with her townes & villages, euen vnto the ryuer of Egypte and the great see was their coaste.

And in the moūtaynes, they had Samir Jathir, and Socoh, Danah: and kariah senath, which is Dabir: Anab, Esthemoh, & Anim, Gozen, Holon, & Giloh, a leuen cyties with their villages. Arab, Dumah, & Esean: Janim, Beththaphuah & Aphekah: Humatah, & kariath arbe: which is Hebrō and zior: nyne cyties wyth their villages. Maon, Carmel, Siph, & Jutah: Jesracll, Jukadan, āð Danoeh: Cain, Gabaah, and Thamnah: ten cyties with their villages. Halhull Bethzur and Gedor: Maarath, Bethanoth, & Elthecon: Sixe cyties with their villages. kariath Baal whych is kariath Jarim ✠ (the cytie of wodes) and Harabba: two cyties with their villages.

In the wildernesse they had Betharabah, Meddin & Sacacah: Nebson, the cytie of salt, and Engaddi: Syxe cyties wyth their villages. Neuertheles, the Jebusites that were ꝑ enhabiters of Jerusalem, coulde not ꝑ childrē of Juda cast out. But the Jebusites dwell with the childrē of Juda vnto this daye.

the enheritaunce of the childzen of Simeō.
For the parte of the childzen of Juda was to moche for them: and therfore the childzē of Simeon had their enheritaunce in the enheritaunce of them.

And the thyrde lotte arose for the childzē of zabulō thorow out their kynredes. And the coastes of their enheritaunce came to ron, Jedalah, and Bethlehē: twelue cyties wyth their villages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldzen of zabulon thorowe out their kynredes, and these are the cyties

with their villages.

And ꝑ fourth lott came out for ꝑ childzen of Isacar by theyr kiredes. And their coast was Jesraelah, Casuloth, & Sunem, Hapharaim, Sion, and Anaharath: Harabith kision, and Abez: Rameth. Enganim, Enhadah, & Bethphazez. And his coaste reacheth to Thabor, & Sahazimah & Bethsemes, and endeth at Jordan. Syxtene cy-ties with there villages. This is ꝑ enheritaunce of the trybe of ꝑ childzen of Isacar by their kynredes. And these are the cyties
with their villages.

C And the fifte lotte cam out for the trybe
of the childzen of Aser by their kynredes.
And their coaste was: Helkath, Hali, Betē & Achsap: Alamelech, Amaad and Misheal:
& came to Carmel westwarde, & to Sihor Labanath, and turneth towarde the sonne rysyng to Bethdagon, and commeth to za-bulon & to the valeye of Jephthahell, tow-arde ꝑ northsyde of Bethemek & Negel, & goeth out on ꝑ lifte syde of Cabul: & to Hebron, Rohob, Ramon, & Kanah, euen vnto great Sidō. And then the coast turneth to Ramah and to the strong cytie of Sor, and turneth to Hosah, & endeth at the see, by ꝑ possessiō of Achzibah: Amah also & Aphek and Rohob: Twentye and two cities with their villages. This is ꝑ enheritaunce of ꝑ childzen of Aser by their kynredes: These are the cyties with their villages.

And the Sixte lotte cam out for the childzen of Nephthali by their kynredes. And their coaste was from Heleph & frō Elom to zaananim, Adami, Nekeb and Jabneel euen to Lakum, and doth go out at Jordā.
And then the coast turneth westwarde to Asanoth Thabor, and thē goeth out from thence to Hukokah, and reacheth to zabulō on ꝑ southe syde, & goeth to Aser on ꝑ west syde, and to Juda vpon Jordan towarde ꝑ sonnerysynge. And their stronge cyties are zidim, zer, Hamah, Racath and Cenereth, Adamah, Hermah & Hazor: Kedes, Edrai, and Enhazor: Jeron, Magdelel: Horē, Be-thanah & Bethsames: nyne tene cyties wt their villages. This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the childzen of Nephthali by their kynredes: these also are the cyties & their villagts.

D And the seuenth lotte came out for ꝑ try-be of the childzē of Dan by their kynredes.
And the coaste of their enheritaunce was:
zaraah, Esthaol. * Jrsames, Saelabin, Aialō Jethlah: Eglon & Thēnathah & Akarō: Elthekeh, Gibethon & Baalath: Jehud Banebarah & Gathermon, Meiericon and

And out of the halfe trybe of Manasses, Thanach with her suburbes: and Gathremon with her Suburbes: two cyties. All the cyties for the other kynredes of ꝓ childzen of Cahath, were ten with their Suburbes.

And vnto the childzen of Gerson which were of the kynredes of the Leuites, they gaue out of ꝓ other halfe trybe of Manasses, the cytie of refuge for the slear: Golan in Basan with her Suburbes: & Beesthera with her Suburbes: two cyties. And out of the trybe of Jsacar, kision with her Suburbes: and Daberah with her Suburbes: & Jarimoth with her Suburbes: Enganim with her Suburbes: foure cyties.

Neuertheles the lorde rayled vp Judges, which delyuered them out of the hãdes of their oppressers, and yet for all that they wold not harken vnto their Judges: But rather went a whoryng after straũge goddes, and bowed them selues vnto them, and turned quickly out of ꝑ waye, which their fathers walked in, obeying the cõmaundementes of the Lord: But they dyd not so.

And when the lord rayled them vp Judges, he was with the Judge, and delyuered them out of the hãdes of their enemyes all the dayes of the Judge * for the Lorde had compassyon ouer their sore wynges, whych they had, by the reason of them ꝑ oppressed them ꝛ vexed them: yet for all ꝑ * as lone as the iudge was dead, they turned and dyd worsse ꝑ their fathers, in folowinge straũge goddes, and in serueng them, and ceased not from their owne inuencyons, nor from their malycyouse waye.

And the wrath of the Lorde was moued agaynst Jsrael, ꝛ he sayde: because this people hath transgressed myne appointement which I commaunded their fathers, ꝛ haue not herkened vnto my voyce, I wyll hence furth not cast out before the one man of the nacyons, which Josua leaft when he dyed, ꝑ through them I maye * proue Jsrael, whether they wyll kepe the waye of the Lorde, ꝛ walke therin, as their fathers dyd or not

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

¶ Othoniell delyuereth Israel. Ahud kylleth kyng Eglon. & amgar kylleth the Philistines.

These are þ nacyõs which þ lord left, that he myght proue Israel by thẽ: euen as manye of Israell as had not knowen all the warres of Canaam: Onlye for þ lernyng of þ generacyon of the childrẽ of Israel: þ he also myght teach them warre, in asmuch as they þ were before them, knew nothing therof, Of those whõ he left, there were fyue lordes of the Philistines, & all the Cananites, & the Sidonites, and the Heuites that dwelt in moũt Libanon: euen from mount Baal hermon vnto Hemath. Those remayned to proue Israel by, and to wete, whether they wold herken vnto the commaundementes of the lorde, which he commaũded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

And the childrẽ of Israel dwelt amonge the Cananites, Hethites, Amorites, Pherezites, Heuites, and Jebusytes, * & toke the daughters of them to be their wyues, & gaue their owne daughters to their sonnes, & serued their Goddes. And the childrẽ of Israell did wickedlye in the syght of the lord, and forgate the lord their God, and serued Baalim & Asteroth. Therfore the lord was angrye with Israel. & delyuered thẽ into þ hãdes of Chusan Risathaim kyng of Mesopotamia, and the childrẽ of Israell serued Chusam Risathaim. viii. yeres.

And when the childrẽ of Israel cryed vnto the lorde, the lorde stered vp a sauer, to þ childrẽ of Israel. & saued thẽ: one Othoniel the sonne of kenes. Calebs yõnger brother. And the spyrete of the lorde came vpon him. And he iudged Israel, and wẽt out to warre. And þ lorde delyuered Chusan Risathai kyng of Mesopotamia into his hande, & his hande preuayled agaynst Chusan Risathaim. And þ lande had * rest fourtye yeres. and Othoniel þ sonne of kenes died. And the childrẽ of Israel wẽt to agayne, & cõmitted wickednesse in the sight of þ lord. And the Lord strengthed Eglon the kyng of the Moabites, agaynst the childrẽ of Israel, because they had cõmitted wickednesse before þ lord. And this (Eglõ) gathered vnto hym the childrẽ of Ammon, and the Amalekites, and went and smote Israel, & cõquered the citye of Paulme trees. And so the childrẽ of Israel serued Eglon the kyng of Moab. xviii. yeres. But whẽ they cryed vnto the lorde, the lorde stered thẽ vp a sauer, Ahud the sonne of Gera the sone of Jemini. a man that coulde do nothing handsomlye with his ryght hande.

And by him the childrẽ of Israel sent a present vnto Eglon the king of Moab: but Ahud made him a dagger with two edges, of a cubyte length, & he byd gyrde yt vnto his rayment vpon his right thygh, and caryed the present vnto Eglon the kynge of Moab: And Eglon was a very fatte man. And it fortuned that whẽ he had presented the present, he sent the people that bare it awaye. but he him selfe turned agayne (frõ þ place of grauẽ ymages, that was by Gilgal) and sayde: I haue a secret errãd vnto the, O kyng. Which sayde: kepe sylence. And all that stode before hym, went out from hym.

And Ahud came vnto hym, and in a somer parler, which he had, sat he hi selfe alone, and Ahud sayde * I haue a message vnto þ frõ God. And he arose out of hys seate. And Ahud put forth hys lefte hande, & toke þ dagger frõ his ryght thygbe, & thrust it into hys belye, and the haft went in after the blade. And the fatte, closed the haft, so þ he myght not drawe the dagger out of hys belye, but the dyrt came out. Ahud gat him out at a posterne doze, and shut the dozes of the parler about him, and locked them.

When he was gone out, hys seruauntes came, and whan they sawe that the dozes of the parler were locked, they sayde: peraduẽture he couereth hys fete in hys somer chãber. And they taried tyll they were ashamed, and beholde: seyng he opened not the dozes of the parler: they toke a keye, ãd opened them. And beholde, their Lord was fallen downe dead on the erthe. And Ahud eskaped (whyle they taryed) and was gone beyonde, to the place of the grauẽ ymages, and eskaped into Seirath.

And whẽ he was come * he blewe a trompette in moũt Ephraim. And the childrẽ of Israel wẽt downe wyth hym from the hyll and he went before them. And he sayde vnto them, folowe me: for the Lord hath delyuered youre enemyes, the Moabytes into youre hande. And they descended after him, and toke the passages of Jordan, towarde Moab, and suffered not a mã to passe ouer. And they slew of the Moabites þ same tyme vpon a ten thousande men, which were all fatte & men of warre, & there eskaped not a mã, * so Moab was subdued that daye, vnder the hande of Israel: and the land had rest. lxxx. yeres.

After hym was Samgar the sonne of Anath, whych slewe of the Philistines. vi. hundred men with an oxe goade, and delyuered Israel also.

AND the childzen of Israel beganne agayne to do wickedly in the syght of the Lozd, whē Jhud was dead. And the Lozd ☜ solde them into the hāde of Jabin kyng of Canaan, ꝑ raygned in Hazoz, whose captayne of warre was called Sisara, which dwelt in Haroseth ofꝑ gētiles. ☜ And the childzen of Israel cryed vnto the Lozde: foz he had nyne hundred charrettes of yzon, & twēty yeres he troubled the childzen of Israel very soze.

And Deboza a Pzophetysse, the wyfe of Lapidoth Judged Israel the same tyme, & ꝑ same Deboza dwelt vnder a paulme tree betwene Ramath and Bethell, in mounte Ephzaim.

And the childzen of Israel came vp to her *Judi.b.d. foz iudgement. And she sent & called * Barak ꝑ sonne of Abinoā, out of Kedes Nephthalim, and sayde vnto him. Deboza wēt with Barak to kedes. And Barak called zabulō & Nephthalim to kedes, & led after hym ten thousande men: and Deboza went vp with him.

But Haber the kenite (which was of the *Num.x.d. childzen of * Hobab the father in lawe of Moses) remoued from the other kenytes, & pytched hys tēte vntyll the playne of zaanaim, wheych is by kedes.

And they shewed Sisara, ꝑ Barak the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mount Thaboz. And Sisara gathered together all his charettes, cuē. ix. hūdzed charettes of yzon, & all the people ꝑ were wᵭ him from of Haroseth of the gentyles, vnto the ryuer ☾ of kyson. And Deboza sayde vnto Barak: vp, foz this is the daye in which the Lozde hath delyuered Sisara into thyne hāde: Is not the Lozde gone out before the? And so Barak wēt downe from mount Thaboz, & ten thousande men after him.

But the Lozde destroyed Sisara and all his charettes, & all his hoste with the edge of the swerde, before Barak: so ꝑ Sisara lyghted downe of his charett, & fled awaye on hys fete. But Barak folowed after the charettes and after the hoste, euē vnto Haroseth of the gentyles. And all the hoste of Sisara fell vpō the edge of the swerde, and there was not a mā leafte. How be it Sisara fled awaye on his fete to the tent of Jael the wyfe of Haber the kenite: foz there was peace betwene Jabin the kyng of Hazoz, & the houshold of Haber the kenite.

And Jael went out to mete Sisara, and sayde vnto him: turne in my lozd, turne into me, feare not. And whā he had turned in vnto her into her tēt, she couered hym with a mātell ☜. And he sayd vnto her, geue me ☜ a lyttel water to dzynk, foz I am thirsty. And she opened * a bottell of mylke, & gaue *Judi.b.b hym dzynck, & couered him. Then Jael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tente, & an hammer in her hand, & went softlye vnto hym, and smote the nayle into the temples of his head, and fastened it into the ground, foz he slombered soze, and was weery: And so he dyed.

And Beholde, as Barak folowed after Sisara, Jael came out to mete hī, & sayde vnto him: come, & I wyll shew the the mā, whom ꝑ seke. And when he came into her tēte: Beholde, Sisara laye deed, & ꝑ nayle was in his tēples. And so God dzought Jaben the kyng of Canaā into subiectyō that daye before the chyldzē of Israel. And the hande of the childzen of Israel pzospered, & pzeuayled agaynst Jaben the kyng of Canaā, vntill they had bzought hī to naught.

My hart loueth the gouerners of Israel, and them that are willing amonge the people. O prayse ye the Lorde.

The. vi. Chapter.

Israell is oppressed of the Madianites: Gedeon is sent of God to be their deliuerer.

AND the chyldrē of Israell * cōmitted wyckednes in the sight of the Lord. And the Lord delyuered them into the hādes of Madiā seuen yeres. And the hande of Madian preuayled agaynst Israel, & because of the Madianites, the chyldrē of Israel made them dennes in the moūtaynes & caues and stronge holdes. And whē Israel had sowē, the Madianites, the Amalechites & they of the east contreye came vp togethez against them: & pytched their tētes against them, & destroyed the encrease of the erthe, euen till they come vnto Azah: & lefte no substinaūce for Israell, nether shepe, ore or asse: for they went vp, they and their cattell, & came w̄ their tētes as a multitude of grashopers: so that bothe they & also their camels were w̄ out nōbre. And they entred into the lāde to destrope it. And so was Israel exceadingly impouerished in the sight of the Madianites, & cryed vnto the Lord. And when the chyldrē of Israel cryed vnto the Lord because of the Madianites, the Lord sent vnto them a prophet, which sayd vnto thē: Thus sayth the lord god of Israel: I lette you frō Egypt & brought you oute of the house of bondage, & I rydd you out of the hande of the Egyptiās, & out of the hand of all that oppressed you & cast thē out before you, & gaue you their land. And I sayd vnto you: I am the Lorde youre God, * feare not the goddes of the Amorytes in whose lande you dwell. But you haue not obeyed my voyce. And the Angell of the Lorde came, & sate vnder an Oke which was i Ephrah, that pertayned vnto Joas the father of the Esrites. And his

his sonne Gedeō pressed out whete out of þ eares in a presse, to hyde it from the Madia nites: & the angell of the Lord apeared vn-C to hym, & sayde: the Lord is wyth the, thou red him: Oh my Lord, yf the Lord be wyth

re be all hys myracles which oure fathers tolde vs of, and sayde: Did not þ lord bring vs out of Egypte? But now þ Lorde hath forsaken vs, & delyuered vs into the hādes of the Madianites. And þ Lord loked vpō him, & sayd: Go hēce in this thy might, and thou shalt delyuer Israel out of þ hādes of the Madianites: haue not I sent the? And he answered him: Oh lord, wherwith shall I saue Israel? Beholde, my kinred is poore in Manasses, and I am lytle in my fathers house. The Lord sayde vnto him: I will be with the: and thou shalt smyte the Madia-nites, as they were but one mā. And he answered him: Oh yf I haue foūde grace i thy syght, thē shewe me a sygne, that it is thou that talkest wt me. Departe not hence, vntill I come agayne vnto the, and till I brig
myne offryng, & haue sett it before the.
D And he sayde: I wyll tarye vntyll thou come agayne. And Gedeon went in, & made redye a kydd, and swete kakes of an Epha of flowre, & put it wt the flesshe in a basket, & put þ broth i a potte, & brought it out vnto hym vnder the Oke, & presented it. And the angell of God sayd vnto him: take the flesh & þ swete kakes, & laye thē vpō this rocke, & powre out the broth. And he dyd so. Thē the angell of the Lord put forth the ende of the staffe þ he helde in his hande, & touched the flesshe and the swete kakes. And * there arose vp fyre out of þ rocke, & cōsumed the flesh & the swete kakes. But þ angell of the Lord vanished out of his syght. And when Gedeon perceaued that it was an angell of the Lord, he sayd: Alas, O Lord God, * haue I therfore sene an angell of the lord face to face, þ I shulde dye? And the Lord sayde E vnto him: peace be vnto the, feare not, thou shalt not dye. Thē Gedeō made an aultare there vnto the Lord, & called it: The Lorde of peace. And vnto thys daye it is yet in Ephiath, þ pertayneth vnto the father of the Eserites. And it fortuned that þ same nyght the Lord sayde vnto him: take a pōg bullock out of thy fathers droue, & another of. vii. peres olde, & destroye the aultare of Baal þ thy father hath, & cutte downe the groue þ is by it, & make an aultare vnto þ Lord thy God vpō þ toppe of this rocke in a cōuenient place. And take the secōde bullock, & offer burnt sacrifice vpon þ wodd of þ groue, which þ shalt cut downe. Thē Ge-deō toke ten mē of his seruaūtes, & dyd as þ Lord bad him. But because he durst not do it by daye for feare of his fathers houshold & of the mē of the cytie, he dyd it by nyght.

And when the mē of the cytie were vp er-lye in the morning: Beholde, the aultare of F Baal was broken, & the groue cut downe þ was by it, & the secōde bullock offered vpon the aulter that was made. And they sayde one to another: who hath done this thyng: & whā they enquered & asked, they sayde: Gedeon þ sonne of Joas hath done this thyng.
Then the mē of the cytie sayde vnto Joas:
bringe out thy sonne, that he maye dye: because he hath destroyed þ aulter of Baal, & cut downe þ groue þ was by it. And Joas sayde vnto all þ stode by him: will ye leade Baals cause? or will ye be his defēders? he þ hath medled agaynst hi, let him dye or the morynynge. If he be a God, let him be auenged of him, that cast downe hys aulter.
And from þ daye was Gedeon called: Jero baal, because his father had sayde: Let Baal be auenged of hym, that hath broken downe his aulter.

All the Madianites therfore, & the Ama G lekites & they of the east, were geathered to geather, & wēt, & pitched in þ valeye of Jesrael: but þ sprete of the Lord came vpō Ge-deō. * And he blewe a tröpette, & called † Ab * Num.x.d

out all Manasses, & called them, which also dyd folowe him. And he sent messēgers vnto Aser, zabulō and Nephthalim, and they came to mete hym.

And Gedeon sayd vnto God: wilt þ saue
Israel in my hāde, as þ hast sayde: Beholde, I wyll put a fleece of wolle in the threasshyng place. And yf þ dewe come on þ fleece onlye, & it be drye vpon all the erth beside, then shall I be sure, þ þ wilt saue Israel by my hāde, as þ saydest. And it came so to pas se. For he rose vp erlye on the morowe, and thrust the fleece togeather, and wronge the dewe therout, & fylled a bowle of water: & Gedeō sayd agayne vnto God: be not angrye wt me, þ * I speake once moare. For I * Gen.xviii.g wyll proue once agayne by the fleece. Let it be drye onlye vpon the fleece, and dewe vpō nyght: for it was drye vpon the fleece one-ly, & there was dew on all the grounde.

Madianites into their handes, lest Israel make their vaunte agaynst me and saye: myne awne hande hathe saued me. Now therfore make a proclamacyō in ꝑ eares of the people, & saye: * yf any mā dreade or be aferde, let him returne. And ꝑ people arose erlye. And there departed & returned of the people which weare at mount Gilead. xxii. thousand, and there abode ten thousande.

* Deut. xx. d. Iudith. vii. g

B And the Lord sayde vnto Gedeon: ꝑ people are yet to many, dryng them downe vnto the water, and I wyll trye them vnto ꝑ there. And of whom I saye vnto the, thys shall go with the, the same shall go with ꝑ. And of whō soeuer I saye vnto ꝑ, this shall not go wyth the, the same shall not go. So he brought downe the people vnto the water, and ꝑ Lord sayde vnto Gedeon: as many as lappe the water wyth theyr tonges, as a dogge doth, them put by them selues, & so do them ꝑ knele downe vpon their knees to drincke. And the nōbre of them that put there handes to their mouthes and lapped, were. iii. hundred men. But all ꝑ remnaunt of ꝑ people kneled downe vpon their knees to dryncke water. And the Lorde sayde vnto Gedeon: By these thre hūdred men that lapped water, wyll I saue you: and delyuer the Madianites into thyne hande. And let all the other people go euery man vnto his place.

They therfore of the people toke vitailes with them, & their trompettes. And he sent all ꝑ rest of Israel, euery mā vnto his tent, and confortred those thre hūdred with him. And the host of Madian was benethe hym in a valeye. And it fortuned that the same nyght the Lorde sayd vnto him: Aryse, get the downe vnto ꝑ hoste, for I haue delyuered it into thyne hande. But & yf thou feare to go downe, then go ꝑ & Pharah thy ladde downe to the hoost, & thou shalt herke what they saye, & so shall thyne handes be strōg, to go downe vnto the hoste.

Then went he downe and Pharah hys ladde, euen harde vnto ꝑ men of armes that were in the hoste. And the Madianites, the Amalekites, and all they of the East, lay a longe in ꝑ valeye, lyke a multitude of grethopers, and their cameles were without nombre, euen as the sande by the see syde in multitude. And when Gedeon was come:

D Beholde, there was a mā that tolde a dreame vnto his neyghboure, & sayde: Behold, I dreamed a dreame, and me thought that a losse of barley bread, tombled into ꝑ hoste of Madian, and came vnto a tente, and smote it that it felle, & ouerturned it, that the tente laye a longe. And his felowe answerd and sayde: this is nothing elles saue the swerde of Gedeon the sonne of Joas a man of Israell: for into his hāde hath God delyuered Madian, and all the hoste.

When Gedeon hearde the tellynge of the dreame, and the interpretacion of the same, he worshypped, and returned vnto the hoste of Israel: and sayde: vp, for the Lorde hathe delyuered into youre hande the hoste of Madiā. And he deuyded the thre hundred men into thre companies, & gaue euery man a trompet in his hande, wyth an emptye pytcher, and lampes therin, and sayde vnto them: loke on me, and do lyke wyse: that when I come to the syde of the hoste, euen as I do, so do you: When I blowe wyth a trompet and all that are wyth me, blowe ye with trōpettes also on euery syde of the hoste, & saye: here is the swerde of the Lorde and of Gedeon. 28

And so Gedeon & the thre hundred men ꝑ were with him, came vnto the syde of the hoste in ꝑ begynnig of the myddell watche, & reysed vp ꝑ watche men. And they blewe with their trōpettes, & brake the pytchers ꝑ were in theyr hādes. And all ꝑ thre cōpanyes blewe w trompettes & brake the pytchers, & helde the lampes in their lefte handes, and the trompettes in their ryght, to blowe wythall. And they cried: the swerde of the Lord and of Gedeon. And they stode still, euery man in his place rounde about the hoste. And they wythin the hoste, rāne, & cryed & fled. And the thre hundreth blewe wyth trompettes, & the Lorde sett * euery mānes swerde vpon hys neyghboure, thorow out all the hoste. And the hoste fled to Bethsitah, to zererath, & to the edge of the playne of Meholah vnto Tabath. And the men of Israel beynge geathered together out of ꝑ tribe of Nepthalim, of Aser, & of all Manasses folowed after the Madianites. And Gedeon sent messengers vnto all moūt Ephraim, sayig: come downe against ꝑ Madianites, & take before thē ꝑ waters vnto Bethbarath & to Jordā. Then all ꝑ men of Ephraim geathered together, & toke the waters vnto Bethbarath, & to Jordan. And they toke two captaynes of the Madianites, Oreb and zeb, and slew Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and zeb at the presse zeb, & folowed after Madian. And brought the heades of Oreb and zeb, to Gedeon on the other syde Jordan. * f. xx. viii. d. Paralip.

Gedeon sayde, therfore whē the Lord hath delyuered zebah and zalmona into myne hande, I wyll teare the flesshe of you with the thornes of the wilderness and wt briers.
And he went vp thence to Phanuel, & spake vnto them lykewyse. And the men of Phanuel answered hym, as dyd the men of Socoth. And he sayde also vnto the men of Phanuel: when I come agayne in peace, I C wyll breake downe this towre. zebah and zalmona were in Carkar, and their hostes with them, vpon a. xv. thousand mē, which were all that were lefte of all the hostes of Nobah and Jebahah, and smote the hoste:

for the hoste did cast no perrelles. And whā zebah and zalmona fledde, he followed after them, and toke the two kynges of Madiā, zebah and zalmona, and discomforted all the hoste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Joas returnesse of the and them is all one, euē after the fassyon of the chyldren of a kynge. And he sayde: they were my brethren, euen my mothers chyldren. As trulye as the Lorde ly-awaye the ornamentes, that were on their

Then the men of Israel sayde vnto Ge-

Gedeō sayd vnto them: I wyll not raygne

¶ Abymelech is made kyng.

Abimelech

A Abimelech the sonne of Jerobaal wẽt to Sichem, vnto his mothers Brethren, and comuned with them and with all his mothers fathers kired, saying saye I praye you, in the eares of all the inhabytoures of Sychem: whether is better for you, that all the sonnes of Jerobaal (which are. lxx. persõnes) raygne ouer you, ether that one raygne ouer you? Remember, that I am of youre bone, and of youre flesshe. And his mothers brethren spake of hym in the audience of the men of Sichem all these wordes, and their hartes were moued to folowe Abimelech. For they sayde: he is oure brother. And they gaue hym. lxx. peces of syluer out of the temple of Baal Berith, where wyth Abimelech hyred vayne and lyght personnes which wẽt with him. And he went vnto hys fathers house at Ephrah * and slewe all his brethren, the sonnes of Jerobaal, euẽ. lxx personnes  with one stone. Not withstandynge, yet Joatham the youngest sonne of Jerobaal escaped, for he hyd hym selfe. And all the men of Sichem gathered together, and all the house of Mello, & came and made Abimelech kyng in the playne, where ỳ great stone was by Sichem.

And when they tolde it to Joatham, he went and stode in the toppe of mount Garizim, and lyfte vp hys voyce, and cried, and sayde vnto them: herkẽ vnto me you men of Sichem, ỳ God maye herkẽ vnto you.* The trees wẽt forth to anoynt a king ouer them, and sayde vnto ỳ olyne tree: raygne thou ouer vs. But the olyue tree sayd vnto them: shulde I leaue my fattenesse, wherby both goddes and men prayse in me, and go to be promoted ouer ỳ trees? And the trees sayde to the fygge tree: come thou, and be king ouer vs. The figge tree answered thẽ: shuld I forsake my swetnes, and my good frute, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayde the trees vnto the vyne: come thou and be kyng ouer vs. The vyne sayde vnto them: shuld I leaue my wyne wherby I cheare bothe goddes and men, and go to be promoted ouer the trees? Thẽ sayde all the trees vnto the fyre bushe: come thou, & raygne ouer vs. And the fyre bushe sayde vnto ỳ trees: yf it be true ỳ ye will anoynt me kynge ouer you, then come, & put youre trust vnder my shadowe. Yf no, the fyre come out of the fyre bushe, and waste the Cedre trees of Libanon.

C Now therfore, yf ye do trulye and vncorruptly, to make Abimelech kyng: and yf ye haue dealte well with Jerobaal and his house, & haue done vnto hym accordyng to the deseruyng of his handes, iudge ye. For euen he (my father) fought for you, and aduentured his lyfe, and rydde you out of the hande of Madian. And ye are rysen vp agaynst my fathers house this daye, and haue slayne hys chyldren, euen. lxx. personnes with one stone, and haue made Abimelech the sonne of his mayde seruaũt, kyng ouer the men of Sichem, because he is youre brother: yf ye thẽ haue dealte trulye and purelye with Jerobaal and with his house thys daye, then reioyse ye wyth Abimelech, and let him reioyse with you. But yf you haue not dealt trulye, then I praye God a fyre maye come out of Abimelech, and consume the mẽ of Sichem and the house of Mello. And that there maye come a fyre frõ amõg the men of Sichem, and out of the house of Mello, and consume Abimelech. And Joatham ranne awaye, and fledde, and went to Beer and dwelt there, for feare of Abimelech his brother. Whẽ Abimelech had raygned thre yere, God sent a spryte of hate betwene Abimelech, & ỳ men of Sichẽ. And ỳ citezens of Sichẽ rayled vpon Abimelech, & willed ỳ the wickednes done to ỳ. lxx. sõnes of Jerobaal myght come on him, and ỳ god wolde laye the bloude of them vnto Amelech their brother which slewe thẽ, and vpõ the other men of Sichem which ayded him in the kylling of his brethrẽ. And ỳ cytezens of Sichẽ set men to laye awayte for hym in the toppe of the mõtaynes, which mẽ (whyle they taried for his commyng) robbed all that came a longe the waye by them. And it was tolde Abimelech.

D And Gaal the sonne of Abed came wyth his brethren, and they gat thẽ to Sichem. And the men of Sichẽ put their confidence in him. And they went out into the feldes, & geathered ỳ their grapes, and troade them, and made mery: and went into the house of their goddes, and dyd eate and drynke, and cursted Abimelech. And Gaal the sonne of Abed sayde: what is Abimelech? and what is Sichẽ? that we shulde serue him? Is he not the sonne of Jeroboal? and zebul is his officer? Serue soche as come of * Hemor ỳ father of Sichẽ, for what reason is it that we shulde serue him? wold God this people were vnder my hãde, thẽ wolde I take Abimelech out of ỳ waye. And he spake against Abimelech: make thyne hoste greater, & go out. And when zebull the ruler of the cytie hearde the wordes of Gaal ỳ sõne of Abed, he was wroth, and sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuely, saying: Behold, Gaal the sonne of Abed and his brethrẽ be come to Sichem: & beholde, they sett the cytie agaist ỳ. Nowe therfore vp by myght, thou and all the people ỳ is wyth the, and lye in wayte in ỳ felde. And ryse erlye in the morninge as sone as the sonne is vp, and fall vpõ the citie. And Gaal þ sone of Abed wēt out, & stode in þ entring of þ gate of the cytie. And Abimelech rose vp, & þ folcke þ were wt him, frō layig awayt. And when Gaal saw þ people, he sayd to zebul: beholde, there come people downe frō þ top of þ moūtaynes. And zebul sayd vnto him: þ shadow of þ hylles seme mē vnto þ (& by that errour art thou disceaued.) & Gaall answered agayne, & sayd: se, there come folcke downe by þ myddell of þ lād, & another cōpany come a lōg by þ playne of þ charmars. Then sayd zebul vnto hī: where is now thi mouth þ sayd: what felow is Abimelech, that we shuld serue hī? Is not this þ people þ þ hast despysed? Goo out now & fyght with thē. And Gaall went out before the cytizēs of Sichē, & fought wt Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him, þ he fledd before hī (and he drove him in to the cyte) & many were ouerthrowen & wounded, euē vnto þ entering of þ gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah. And zebul thrust out Gaal & his brethren, þ thei shulde not dwell in Sichē (& suffred them not to tarye therin.) And on þ morow, it happened þ the people wēt out into þ felde. And they tolde Abimelech. And he toke the people, & deuided them into thre cōpanies, and layd awayte in the felde, and loked, & beholde, the people were come out of the cytie, and he ranne vpon them, and smote them.

And Abimelech, & the cōpanies þ were wt him, reached forther, & stode in the entrige of the gate of þ cytie. And the two other cōpanies ranne vpō all the people þ were in the feldes, & slue thē. And when Abimelech had fought agaīst þ cytie all that daye, he toke it, & slew þ people þ was therin, & destroyed þ cytie & sowed salt thorow it. And whē all þ mē of þ towre of Sichē heard þ, they entered into a strong holde of the house of their God Baall Berith (where they made a bonde with him: a therof byd the place take the name which place was exceadyng strong) And it was tolde Abimelech, that all the mē of the tower of Sichem were geathered together, & Abimelech gat him to mount zelmon, bothe he & all the people þ were wt him, & toke axes wt him and cut downe bowes of trees, & toke them & bare them on his shulder, & sayde vnto the folcke þ were with hym * what ye haue sene me do, spede youre selues, and do lykewyse as I haue done. And all þ men þ were amōg the people, cut downe bowes, and folowed Abimelech, and put thē into the holde, and sett the holde a fier by them: so that (with smoke and fyre) all the men of the tower of Sichē were slayne, vpon a thousande men and wemen.

Then wēt Abimelech to Thebez, and beseged it, and toke it. But there was a strōg towre with in the cytie, and thither ranne all the men and wemen, and all the chefe þ were in the cytie, and shut it to them, and got them vp (by the bolworkes) to the toppe of the towre. And Abimelech came vnto þ towre, and fought agaynst it, and wēt harde vnto the doze of the towre, to set it on fier. And a certayne woman * cast a pece of a mylstone vpon hys head, and all to brake hys brayne panne.

Then Abimelech called hastelye vnto the young man that bare hys harnesse, & sayd vnto him: * drawe thy swerde and slee me, þ mē saye not of me: a womā slew him. And hys ladd thrust him thorow, and he dyed.

And when the men of Israel sawe þ Abimelech was deed, they departed, euery man vnto his awne house. And thus * the wyckednesse of Abimelech whych he dyd vnto his father, in sleynge his seuentye brethrē and therto all the wyckednesse of the mē of Sichem, dyd God bring vpon their heedes And vpon them came the curse of Joathā the sonne of Jerobaal.

¶The.x.Chapter.

¶Thola and Jair are Judges of Israel.

After Abimelech there arose, to defende Israel, one Thola (the sonne of Phuah) his vncles (vncle) sōne, a mā of Jsakar, which dwelt in Samir in moūt Ephrai. ¶ Jephthah delyuereth Israel from the Ammonites.

AND there was one Jephthah a Gileadite, a strong man, ꝑ sonne of an harlott: and Gilead begat Jephthah. A

And Gileads wyfe bare him sonnes, which when they were come to age, thrust out Jephthah, and sayd vnto him: ꝑ shalt not enherit in oure fathers house, for ꝑ art the sonne of a straung woman. Then Jephthah fledd frō his brethren, & dwelt in the lād of Tob. And there geathered ydle (chefe) men to Jephthah, and wēt out w̄ him. And it chaunced in processe of tyme, ꝑ the childꝛē of Ammon made warre agaynst Israel. And whan the childꝛen of Ammon fought thus agaynst Israel, the elders of Gilead wēt to fett Jephthah out of the lād of Tob (to bringe them) and sayd vnto him: come & be oure captayne, ꝑ we maye fyght w̄ the childꝛen of Ammō. Jephthah answered ꝑ elders of Gilead: did not ye hate me & expell me out of my fathers house? how happeneth it thē, ꝑ you come vnto me now i tyme of youre tribulacion? And the elders of Gilead sayde vnto Jephthah: Therfore we turne agayne to the now, ꝑ ꝑ mayest go w̄ vs, & fight agaynst the childꝛen of Ammon and be oure heed ouer all the enhabiters of Gilead. And Jephthah sayde vnto ꝑ elders of Gilead: If ye bringe me home agayn, to fight with the childꝛen of Ammon, then yf the Lord deliuer them before me, shall I be your heed? And ꝑ elders of Gilead sayde to Jephthah: ꝑ Lorde be witnesse betwene vs yf we do not accordig to thy wordes. Thē Jephthah went wyth the elders of Gilead. And the people made hym heed and ruler ouer thē. And Jephthah rehearsed all hys wordes before the Lorde in Mizpa.

And Jephthah sēt messengers vnto ꝑ king of the childꝛē of Ammō, saying: what hast thou to do w̄ me, ꝑ ꝑ art come agaynst me, to fight in my lād? The king of ꝑ childꝛē of Ammon answered vnto the messengers of Jephthah: Because Israel toke awaye my lād, whē they came out of Egypt: euē from Arnon vnto Jabok, and vnto Jordā. Now therfore restore those lādes agayne w̄ faire meanes. And Jephthah sēt messegers again vnto the childꝛē of Ammon, and sayd vnto hī: thus sayth Jephthah: * Israel toke not awaye the lād of Moab, nor ꝑ lād of ꝑ childꝛē of Ammō. But Sehon cōsēted not to Israel, ꝑ he shulde go thorow hys coast: but gathered all his people togeather, & pitched i Jazah, & fought w̄ Israel. And ꝑ Lord God of Israel delyuered Sehō & all his folke into ꝑ hādes of Israel. And so Israel smote thē & cōquered all ꝑ lād of the Amozites, the enhabiters of the sayde cōtrey. And they conquered all the coastes of the Amozites, frō Arnō vnto Jabok, & frō the wildernesse vnto Jordā. Do now, seyng the Lorde God of Israel hath cast out the Amozites before hys people Israel, shuldest thou possesse the land? Naye, but what people, Camos thy God dryueth out, that land possesse ꝑ. The maryage of Samson. He hylleth a lyon. He propoundeth a tydde. He kylleth thyrtye men. Hys wyfe forsaketh hym, and taketh another.

SAmson wēt downe to Thānath, A and sawe a woman in Thānath of the daughters of the Philystines, and he came vp, and tolde hys father and hys mother, and sayde: I haue sene a woman in Thānath of the daughters of the Philistynes. And now geue me her to wyfe. Then hys father and mother sayde vnto hym: * Is there neuer a woman amōg * Deu.vii
the daughters of thy brethren, and amonge all my people, but that thou must go, and take a wyfe of the vncircumcysed Philisty-nes? And Samson sayde vnto his father: geue me thys woman, for she pleaseth me well.
But hys father and mother wyst not that it was the Lordes doynge, and that he soughte an occasion agaynst the Philistynes, for at the tyme the Philistines raygned ouer Israel.

Then went Samson and hys father and B his mother downe to Thamnath, and came to the vynyardes of Thānath. And behold a ponge (wood) lyon roared vpon hym. And the spyrite of the Lorde came vpon hym. And he tare hym, as he wolde haue rent a kydde, and yet had nothynge in hys hande, nether
tolde hys father & mother what he had done.
And he went downe, & talked with the woman, which semed well fauored in the syght of Samson.

And within a shorte space after, as he went thyther agayne to take her to wyfe, he turned oute of the waye, to se the carkasse of the lyon. And beholde, there was a swarme of bees, and honye in the carkasse of the lion.
And he toke of the honye in hys handes, and wente eatynge, and came to hys father and mother, and gaue them also. And they dyd eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken the honye oute of the carkasse of the lyon.

And so hys father came vnto the woma, C and Samson made there a feaste, for so vsed the ponge men to do. And ✠ when they ✠ (the ꝑsechens of that place) sawe him, they brought .xxx. companions to be with hym. And Samson sayd vnto them: I will now put forth a ryddle vnto you. And yf you can declare it me within .vij. dayes of the feast, & fynde it out, I will geue you .xxx. shertes, and .xxx. chaunge of garmētes: But & yf you cannot declare it me, then shall ye geue me .xxx. shertes and .xxx. chaunge of garmētes. And they answered hym: put forth thy ryddle, that we maye heare it. And he sayd vnto them: Out of the eater came meate: and out of the stronge came swetnes. And they coulde not .iij. dayes expounde the ryddle. And when the seuenth daye was come, they sayde vnto Samsons ✠ wyfe: flater thyne husband, ✠ (and persuade hym) D that he maye declare vs the ryddle, lest we burne the & thy fathers house with fyer. Haue ye called vs hyther, to make vs beggers? And Sāsons wyfe wepte before hym ✠ (complayned) and sayde: Surely thou hatest me and louest me not: for thou hast put forth a ryddle vnto the chyldren of my folcke, and hast not tolde it me. And he sayde vnto her: Beholde, I haue not tolde it my father and my mother, and shall I tell it the?

And Samsons wyfe wepte before hym .vij. dayes, whyle the feast lasted. And ꝑ. vii. daye he tolde her, because she laye so sore vpō him. And she tolde it the children of her folke. And the men of the cytie sayd vnto hym the seuēth daye, before the sonne went downe. What is sweter then honye, & what is strōger then a lyon? Then sayde he vnto thē: If ye had not ☞ plowed with my cauise, ye had not founde out my ryddle. And the spyrete of the Lorde came vpon hym. And he went downe to Aschalon, and slewe thyrty men of them, and spoyled them, and gaue chaunge of garmentes vnto them whych expounded the ryddle. And he was wroth, and wēt vp to hys fathers house. But Samsons wyfe was geuen to one of hys companyons, that he had taken vnto hym.

¶ The .xv. Chapter.

¶ Samson tyeth fyrebrandes to fore tayles. With the Jawe bone of an asse he killeth a thousand men. Out of a great tothe in the Jawe God geueth hym water.

A BVt it chaunced within a whyle after, euen in the tyme of whete haruest, that Sāson visited hys wyfe with a kydde, sayenge: I wyll go vnto my wyfe into the chaumber: but her father wolde not suffre hym to go in. And her father sayd: I thought that thou haddest hated her, and therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy cōpanions. Is not her yonger sister fayrer then she? Take her in stede of the other. Samson sayd vnto them: Now am I more blameles then the Philistines, and therfore wyll I do them displeasure.

And Samson went out, and caught thre hundred foxes, and toke fyrebrādes, and fastened tayle to tayle, and put a fyer brand in the myddes betwene two tayles. And whā he had set the brandes of fyer, he sent thē out ✠ (that they myght renne abrode, which went immediatly) & into the stāding corne of the Philistines, and burnt vp both the reped corne and also the standing, with the vyneyardes and olyues. B Then the Philistines sayde: who hath done thys? And it was tolde them that Samson the sonne in lawe of the Thammite, because he had taken hys wyfe, and geuen her to hys cōpanyon. And the Philistines came vp and burnt her and her father with fyer.

And Samson sayde vnto them: Though ye haue done this, yet will I be auenged of you, and then I wyll cease. ✠ And he smote them legge and thygh with a myghtye plage. And then he went and dwelt in the caue of the rocke Etam.

Then the Philistines came vp, & pitched in Juda, and laye in ✠ (a place, that was afterwarde called) Lehi ✠ (that is a Jawe bone, wher theyr hoost was stationed abode.) And the mē of Juda sayde, why are ye come vp vnto vs? They answered: to binde Samson are we come vp, and to do to hym as he hath done to vs. Then thre thousande men of Juda went downe to the caue C of the rocke Etam, and sayde to Samson: wotteste thou not that the Philistines are rulers ouer vs? Wherfore then hast thou done thus vnto vs? He answered them * as they dyd vnto me, so haue I done vnto them. * Leui. xxiiij. & Judi. j. d

And they sayd vnto hym agayne: we are come downe to bynde the, and to delyuer the into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson sayd vnto them: swere vnto me ✠ (and promes me) that ye shall not fal vpon me your selues. They answered hym, sayenge: No, but we wyll bynde the, and delyuer ꝑ vnto their handes: But we wyll not kyl the. And they bounde him with two new cordes, & brought hym from the rocke. And when he came to Lehi, the Philistines showted agaynst him. And the spyrete of the Lord came vpon hym, and the cordes that were vpon hys armes, became as flaxe that was burnt w fyer, so the bandes lowsed from of hys handes. And he founde a rotten Jawe bone of an asse, and put forth hys hande, and caught it, and slue a thousande men therwith.

And Samson sayde: with the Jawe of D an asse, haue I made heapes of them: with the Jawe of an asse haue I slaine a thousand men. And when he had left speakyng, he cast awaye the Jawe bone out of hys hand, and called the place: ☞ Ramath Lehi. ✠ (That is by interpretacyon the lyftynge vp of the Jawe bone.) And ✠ he was sore a thyrst, and called on ꝑ Lorde, & sayde: Thou hast geuen this great victory, in the hande of thy seruaũt. And now I must dye for thyrst, and fall into the handes of the vncircumcised. But God brake a great toth that was in the Jawe, and ther came water therout. And when he had dronke, his spryte came agayne, and was refreshed, wherfore

the name therof was called, vnto this daye, the well of the caller on, which came of the Jawe. And he iudged Israell in the dayes of the Philistines, twenty yeares.

¶ The .xvj. Chapter.

¶ Samson lyeth by the gates of Gaza, He was deceaued by Dalila: He pulleth downe the house vpon
the Philistines, and dyeth with them.

*Otherwise called Gaza.

Then wente Samson to Azath, *and sawe ther an harlot, and went in vnto her. And it was tolde the Azathites, sayeng: Sãson is come hither. And they went aboute, & layde a wayte for hym there, all nyght in the gate of ỹ cytie, and were still all the nyght, sayeng: in the morneng whan it is daye, we shall kyll hym. And Samson toke his rest tyll mydnyght, & arose at mydnyght, and toke the dores of the gate of the cyte, and the two syde postes, and rent them of, with the barre and all, and put them vpõ his shoulders, and caryed them vp to the top of an hyll, that is before Hebron.

And after thys, it fortuned, that by the ryuer of Sorek, he loued a woman, called Dalila: vnto whom came the Lordes of the B Philistines, and sayde vnto her: persuade hym, and se wherin his great strength lieth, and by what meane we maye ouercome him that we maye bynde him, to bryng him vnder, and euery one of vs shal geue the a leuen hundred syluerlynges.

And Dalila sayde to Samson: Oh, tell me where thy great strength lieth, and how thou myghtest be bounde, and brought vnder. Samson answered vnto her: If they bynde me with seuen grene withes ỹ were neuer dryed, I shalbe weake as other men.
And then ỹ lordes of ỹ Philistines brought her seuen wythes that were yet grene and neuer dryed, and she bounde hym therwith.
Notwithstandynge she had men lyinge in wayte with her in the chãbre. And she sayd vnto hym: the Philistines be vpõ the Samson. And immediatly he brake the cordes as a strynge of towe=(that is wynnet) breaketh, when it sealeth fier. And so his strẽgth was not knowen.

And Dalila sayde vnto Samson: Se, ỹ
C hast mocked me & tolde me lyes. Now therfore tel me, wherwith ỹ mightest be bounde.
He answered her: yf they bynde me wyth
new ropes that neuer were occupyed, I shal be weake, and as another man. Dalila therfore toke new ropes, and bounde hym ther-with, and sayde vnto him: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And there were lyers of wayte in the chamber, & he brake them from of hys armes, as they had bene but a threde.
And Dalila sayde vnto Samson: hytherto thou hast begyled me, and tolde me lyes: yet tell me, how thou myghtest be bounde. He sayde vnto her: If thou plattedest the .vij. lokes of my head with an heare lace. And she fastened them with a nayle, and sayde vnto hym: the Philistines be vpõ the Sãson. And he awaked out of his slepe, & plucked awaye the nayle, that was in the plattinge with the heare lace. And she sayde vnto hym agayne:
How canst thou saye that thou louest me,
when thyne herte is not with me? beholde, ỹ D hast mocked me thys thre tymes, & hast not tolde me, wherin thy greate strength lyeth.
And as she laye vpon him with her wordes continually veryng of hym, hys soule was encombred euen vnto the death. And so he tolde her all his hert, & sayd vnto her: *there * Numer.vi.
neuer came raser vpon myne heed, for I haue Iud.xiii.b
bene an abstayner=(that is to saye consecrate) vnto God, euen from my mothers wõbe: therfore whan I am shauen, my strength wyll go from me, and I shall waxe weake, and be lyke all other men. And when Dalila sawe that he had tolde her all his hert, she sent and called for the lordes of ỹ Philistines, sayẽg:
come vpyet this once, for he hath shewed me
all hys herte.

Then the lordes of the Philystines came vp vnto her, & brought ỹ money in their hã-
des. And she made him slepe vpon her knees =(& to laye hys heed downe in her lappe,) & she sent for a man, & he dyd shaue of the seuen lockes of his heed, & begãne to vexe him, & his strẽgth was gone frõ him. And she sayde: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he awoke out of his slepe, & sayd: I wil go out now as at other tymes before, & shake my selfe, & he wist not ỹ the Lorde was departed frõ him. E
But the Philistines toke hym, and put oute his eyes, & brought hym downe to *Azath, * Or Gaza.
and bounde hym with two fetters of brasse.
And he dyd grynde in the prison house, howbeit the heare of hys head beganne to growe agayne after that he was shauen.

Then the lordes of ỹ Philistines gathered them together, for to offer a solempne offrynge vnto Dagon their God, and to re-ioyse: for they sayde, oure God hath delyue- F red Samson oure enemy into oure handes.
And when the people sawe hym, they praysed their God: for they sayde: our God hath delyuered into oure handes oure enemy, and destroyer of oure countreye, whych slue ma-nye of vs. And when their hertes were merye, it fortuned, that they sayde: sende for Samson, that he maye make vs laugh.
And they fette Samson oute of the prison house, and he played before them, and they set hym betwene the pyllers. And Samson G

layd vnto the ladd that leed him by the hād: lett me that I maye touche the pyllers, that the house stande vpon, and that I maye leane to them. And the house was full of men & women. And there were all the lozdes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the rouse a thze thousande men and wemen, that beheilde whyle Samson played.

And Samson called vnto the Lozd, and sayde: O Lozde God, thyncke vpon me, and strengthen me, at thys tyme onlye, O God, that I maye be aduenged of the Philistines foz my two eyes. And Samson caught the two middel pillers on which the house stode, and on which it was bozne vp, the one I hys ryght hande, and the other in hys lefte, and sayde: my soule shall dye with the Philistines, and bowed them with all hys myghte. And the house fell vpon the lozdes and vpon all the people that were therin. And so the deed which he slewe at hys deeth, were moo then they whych he slewe in hys lyfe. And then hys brethren and al the house of hys father came downe, & toke him vp, & brought hym, and buryed hym betwene zarah and Estahol, in the burynge place of Manoah hys father. And he iudged Israell twentye yeares.

¶ The.xvij.Chapter.

¶ Of Micah whose mother made hym an Idoll of syluer.

1 THere was a man in mount Ephzai named Micah, and he sayde vnto hys mother: the leuen hundzeth syluerlynges that were taken frō the, aboute which thou curseds̄t, & spakest it in myne eares. Behold, the syluer is with me, I toke it awaye. And hys mother sayde: blessed be þ my sonne, in þ Lozde. 2 And when he had restozed the leuen hūdzed syluerlynges to his mother agayne, his mother sayde: I vowed the syluer vnto þ Lozd of myne hande foz the my sonne: that þ shuldest make a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall. Now therfoze, I wyll geue it the agayne. And when he restozed the moneye againe vnto his mother, his mother toke two hundzeth syluerlynges, and gaue them to a goldsmyth, which made therof a grauē image, and a ymage of metall, and it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah had a temple of goddes, and made an Ephod and 3 Theraphim, (That is to saye, a garment for the preste, and Idols.) and fylled the hande of one of hys sonnes which became hys preaste. * In those dayes there was no kyng i Israel, but euery man dyd that which was good in hys awne eyes.

And there was a yonge mā out of Bethlehem Juda, of the kynred of Juda: which yonge man was a Leuite, & sotourned ther. And the man departed oute of the cytie of Bethlehē Juda, to go dwel whēre he coulde fynde a cōuenīēt place. And he came to moūt Ephzaim, to the house of Micah as he iourneyed. And Micah sayde vnto hym. whence commest thou? The leuite answered hym. I am of Bethlehē Juda, & go to dwell where I maye fynde a place. (and where I maye thye it to be for my profyt.) And Micah sayde agayne vnto him: dwell with me, and be vnto me a father and a preste. And I wyll geue the ten syluerlynges by yeare, two garmentes, and thy meate and dzyncke.

And the Leuite was content to dwell wt the man, and was vnto hym as one of hys awne sonnes. And Micah cōsecrated þ hāde of the leuite, and the yonge man became his preste, and was i the house of Micah. Then sayde Micah: now I am sure, that the Lozd wyll be good vnto me, seynge: I haue a leupte to my preste.

* Num.xiij.a go vp agaynst them, * for we haue sene the lande: surely a very good one. And do ye sytt stil/ be not slouthful to departe: But come to b conquere the lande. b (It shalbe no labour.) Yf ye wyll go, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no pareles, & it is a very large coūtre: which God hath geuen into your handes. It is also a place, which doth lacke nothynge þ is in the worlde.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Dannites, euen out of zaraah and Esthaol, syxe hundred men appoynted with instrumētes of warre. And they went vp, and pitched in kariath Jarim which is in Juda.
D Wherfore they called the place, the hoost of Dan, vnto thys daye: and it is on the backsyde of kariath Jarim. And they went thēce vnto mount Ephraim, & came to the house of Micah. Then answered the fyue men that went to spye out the countre of Lais, & sayde vnto their brethren: wot ye not þ there is in ☞ these houses an Ephod, ☞ Theraphim, a grauen ymage, & an ymage of metall/ Now therfore consydre what ye haue to do.

And they turned thitherwarde and came to the house of þ yong man the Leuite, euen vnto the house of Micah, and saluted hym peasably. And the syxe hundred men gyrded with weapons of warre, which were of the chyldren of Dan, stode by þ entryng of the gate. And the fyue men that went to spye out the lande, went in thyther and toke the kerued Image, and the Ephod, Theraphim, ād
E the ymage of metall. And the preste stode in the enterynge of the gate with the syxe hundred men þ were armed vnto batayl, whyle the other wente into Michas house, and fet the kerued ymage, the Ephod, Theraphim, and the ymage of metall. Then sayd þ preste vnto the/ what do ye/ They answered hym:
☞ holde thy peace, ☞ laye thyne hande vpon thy mouth, and come with vs, to be our father & preste. Is it better for the to be a preste vnto the house of one man, then to be a preste vnto a trybe or a kynred in Jsrael/ And the preste was glad and toke the Ephod, and Theraphim, and the grauen ymage, & went with the people. And they turned and departed, and put the chyldren, the catell and their other substaunce before them.

F And when they were a good waye from the house of Micah, the men that were in þ houses, and in Micahs house, made an oute crye, and folowed after the chyldren of Dan, and called vnto them. And they turned their faces, and sayde vnto Micah: what ayleth the, þ thou makest an oute crye/ And he sayd: ye haue taken awaye my goddes whych I made, and also the preste, ād go your wayes with the. And what haue I more/ how then saye ye vnto me, what ayleth the/ And the chyldren of Dan sayde vnto hym: let not thy voyce be heard amonge vs, lest angrye fellowes rūne vpon the, and thou loose thy lyfe with the lyues of all thyne housholde. And so the chyldren of Dan wente their wayes. And when Micah sawe that they were to stronge for hym, he turned and went backe vnto hys house agayne.

And they toke the thynges which Micah had made, & the preste which he had, & came G vnto Lais, euen vnto a people that were at reast & without mistrust, & smote them with the edge of the sword, & burnt the cytie with fyre. And there was no mā to helpe, because Lais was farre from Sidon, & they had no medelyng with any other man. And the cyte stode in the valey that lyeth by Bethrehob. And they bylt the there a cytie, & dwelt therin. * And called it Dan, after þ name of Dan * Jos.xix their father which was borne vnto Jsrael. Howbeit, in very dede the name of the cytie was Lais at the begynninge.

And the chyldren of Dan set them vp the grauen ymage. And Jonathan the sonne of Gerson, the sonne of Manasses and hys sonnes were the prestes in þ trybe of Dan * vntyll they were caryed awaye out of the land captyue. And they sett them vp the kerued ymage which Micah made, all the whyle þ the house of God was in Silo. * Jud.xviij

¶ The xix. Chapter.

¶ Of the Leuyte, whose wyfe was villanously kylled in Gibea.

IT chaunced in those dayes, when there was no kyng in Jsrael, that A a certayn leuyte sogeurnynge on the syde of mount Ephraim, toke to wyfe a concubyne out of Bethlehem Juda: and hys concubyne played the whore by hym, and went awaye from hym, vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda, and there continued foure monethes. And her husbāde arose, and went after her, to speake frendely vnto her, and to bring her home agayne, hauynge hys ladd with hym, and a couple of asses. And she brought him vnto her fathers house, and when the father of the damosell sawe hym, he reioyced of hys comyng. And his father in lawe the damoseis father kept him. And the Leuyte aboode with hym thre dayes, and so they dyd eate and drincke, and lodged there.

The fourth daye whan they arose erly in the morynge, the man stode vp, to departe. B
And the damoselles father sayd vnto his sōne in lawe: confort thyne hert with a morsell * of bread, ād then go your waye. And they * Gen.xviij sate downe, and dyd eat and drincke both of them togeather. And the damoselles father sayd vnto the man: Be cōtent I praye the, & tarye all nyght, and let thyne herte be mery. And when the man stode vp to departe, hys father in lawe cōpelled him to turne againe: and to and to tarie all nyght there. And he rose vp erlye the fyfth daye to departe, and the damoselles father sayde, comforte thine herte: & they taried vntyll after middaye. And they dyd eate bothe of them to geather.

C And when the man arose to departe with his concubine and his ladd, his father in law the damoselles father sayde vnto hym: beholde, the daye gothe fast awaye & drayweth towarde euen, tary all nyght: at ỹ least waye tarye this daye here, that thyne hert maye be merye. And to morowe get you erlye vpon your waye, that thou mayest get the to thy tent. Neuerthelater the man wolde not tary, but arose and departed, and came as ferre as Jebus, (which is Jerusalem) and his two asses laden, and his concubine and his ladd with him. And when they were fast by Jebus the daye was sore spent, and the younge man sayd vnto his master: come I praye the and let vs turne in, into this cytie of the Jebusites and lodge all night there. His master answered him: we will not turne into a straũge cytie that are not of the chyldrē of Israel: we wyll go forth to Gibea. And he sayd vnto hys ladd, go forwarde, and we shall come to one of these places to lodge all night ether in Gibea or in Rama. And they went forwarde vpon theyr waye, and the sonne wēt downe vpon them, when they were fast by Gibea which belongeth to them of Ben Jamin. And they turned thither warde to go in, and lodge all nyght in Gibea. And when he came, he sat him downe in a streat of the cytie, for there was no man that toke them to lodginge. And behold, there came an olde man from his worke, out of the felde at euē, which was also of mount Ephraim, & dwelt as a straunger in Gibea. But the men of the place were the children of Jemim. And whē he had lyfte vp his eyes, he sawe a wayefaring man in the streate of the cytie. And the olde man sayde: whether goest thou? And whence comest thou? He answered him: we come from Bethlehem Juda towarde the syde of mount Ephraim: from thence am I, and I wēt to Bethlehem Juda, and go now to the house of the Lord. And there is no mā that receaueth me to house. We haue strawe and prauender for oure Asses, and bread ād wyne for me and thy handmayde, and for the ladd that is with thy seruaunt, and we lacke nothynge.

The olde man sayd: peace be with the, all F that thou lackest shalt thou fynde with me: onelye abyde not in the streate all nyght, and so he brought him into his house, and gaue fodder vnto his Asses. And they washed their fete, and dyd eate and drynck. And as they were makynge their herttes merye, beholde, the men of the cytie which were wicked, set the house roūde abonte, and thrust at the doze, and spake to the man of the house, the olde man, sayinge: bryng forth the man that came into thyne house, that we maye knowe hym.

And * the man of the house, the olde man * Genesis.19 went out, and sayde vnto thē, Oh, naye my brethrē, do not so wickedlye, seyng that this man is come into myne house: do not so vnmete a thing. Beholde, here is my daughter a mayden, and this mannes concubine, them I wyll bringe out now vnto you, and hūble them, and do with them what semeth you good: but vnto this man, do not so abhomnable a thinge. But the men wolde not herken to him. And the man toke his concubine, and brought her out vnto thē, which knewe her, and abused her, all the nyght, euen vnto the morninge. And when the daye beganne to springe, they let her go.

And then came the woman in the dawG nyng of the daye, ād fell downe at the doore of the mannes house, where her Lorde was, tyll it was daye. And her Lorde arose vp in the morninge, and opened the dores of ỹ house, and went out to go hys waye. And beholde, the woman, euen his concubine laye a longe before the doze of the house, & her handes stretched out vpon the thresholde. And he * (thinkyng her to haue bene asleepe) sayde vnto her: H vp and let vs be goynge. But she answered not. Then the man * (perceauyng that she was dead) I toke her vp vpon an Asse, and rode vp, and gat him vnto his awne home. And when he was come vnto his house, he toke a knyfe, & caught hys concubine, and deuided her with the bones into twelue peces, and sent her into all quarters of Israell. And all that sawe it, sayde: there was no soche dede done or sene sence the chyldrē of Israel cā out of Egipt vnto this daye, * conlyder the matter, take K aduisement, and saye youre myndes.

C The.xx. Chapter

C The batell of the Israelites ag wynst the tribe of Ben Jamin for the Leuites wyfe which was kylled.

When all the chyldrē of Israel went A out: and the congregacyon was gathered togeather as it had bene but one man, euen from Dan to Berseba and vnto the lande of Gilead, vnto the Lorde ✠ in Mizpa, and D there stode folke out of al quarters and of all the trybes of Israell, in the congregacyon of the people of God, foure hundred thousande fote men that dre we swerdes. And whan the chyldren of Ben Jamin hearde that the chyldren of Israell were gone vp to Mizpa, and had sayde. O ye chyldren of Israell, tell vs how this wickednesse happened. And the Leuite, the womans husbāde that was slayne, answered and sayde, I came into Gybea that is in Ben Jamin with my concubyne to lodge all nyght. And the men of Gibea rose agaynst me, and set the house rounde about vpon me by nyght, and thought to haue slayne me: and my concubyne haue they so forced, that she is deed. And I toke my concubyne, and cutt her in peces, and sent her thorow out all the landes of the enheritaunce of Israell. For they haue commytted abhominacyon and folly in Israell. Beholde, ye are all chyldren of Israell. Ponder thys matter, and geue youre aduyse in the case.'

And all the people arose, as it had ben one man, saying, there shall not a man of vs go to his tent, neither turne into his house. But this shalbe it that we will do to Gibea: We will go vp by lotte agaynst it. And we will take ten men of the hundred thorowe out all the trybes of Israell, and an hundred of the thousande, and a thousande out of ten thousande, to fett vitayle for the people to make that they maye go agaynst Gibea Ben Jamin, because of all the abhominacyon, that they haue wrought in Israell. And so all the men of Israell gathered to geather agaynst the cytie, knyte to geather, as it had ben but one man. And the trybes of Israell sent men thorow all the trybe of Ben Jamin sayinge
*Iosu.xxij.d * what wyckednesse is this that is happened amonge you? Now therfore delyuer vs the men, those chyldren of Belial which are in Gibea, that we maye slay them, and put awaye euell from Israell.

Neuertheles the chyldren of Ben Jamin wolde not herke vnto the voyce of their brethren the chyldren of Israell: but gathered them selues to geather out of the cyties vnto Gibea, to come out and fight agaynst the chyldren of Israell. And the chyldre of Ben Jamin were nombred at that tyme, out of ꝑ cyties .xxvj. thousand men that drewe swerdes, beside the enhabiters of Gibea, which were nombred seuen hundred chosen men. And amonge all these folke were seuen hundred left hãded men, which euery one couldе slyng stones at an heare breadeth, and not mysse. And the chyldren of Israell beside Ben Jamin, were nombred foure hundred
C thousande men that drew swerdes, ād were all men of warre.

And the chyldren of Israell arose, & went vp to Bethel, & asked councell of God, who shulde begynne the battell agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin? And the Lord sayd. Juda shall begynne. And the chyldren of Israel stode vp erlye and beseged Gibea. And the men of Israell went out to battell agaynst Ben Jamin, and the men of Israel put them selues in araye to fyght agaynst the, beside Gibea. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came out of Gibea, and destroyed of the Israelites that daye .xxij. thousande men, and brought them to the erth.

And the folke of the chyldren of Israell plucked vp their hertes, and wēt to agayne, ād made battell in the same place where they dyd the fyrst daye. And the chyldren of Israel went vp, and wept before the Lord vnto euen, and asked of the Lord, saying, shall we go agayne to battell agaynst the chyldrē of Ben Jamin oure brethren? And the Lord sayde: go vp agaynst thē. And the chyldrē of Israel came out agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin the seconde daye. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin went agaynst them out of Gibea, the seconde daye, and destroyed to the erth of the chyldren of Israell once agayne .xviij. thousande mē that drew swerdes euery man of them.

Then the chyldren of Israell and all the people went vp and cam vnto Bethell, and wepte and sat there before the Lord, and fasted the same daye vnto euē, & offered burnt offerynges and peaceofferynges before the Lorde. And the chyldren of Israel asked the Lord: for there was the arcke of the apoyntmēt of God, in those dayes. And ꝙ Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron waytynge vpon it at that tyme, sayde: shall I get me vp to go out any moare to battell agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin my brethren, or shall I cease? The Lorde sayde: go, for to morowe I will delyuer thē into youre hãdes. And Israell sett layers awayte roũde about Gibea. And the chyldrē of Israel wēt vp agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin the thyrde tyme, and put them selues in araye agaynst Gibea, as twyse before. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came out agaynst ꝑ people, and were drawen awaye from the cytie: And they beganne to smyte of the people deed (as twise before, by two hye wayes of which one gothe vp to Bethell ād ꝑ other to Gibea thorowe the felde) vpon a thyrtye men of Israell. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin sayde. They are fallen before vs, as at the fyrst. But the chyldren of Israell sayde: let vs flye and plucke them awaye from the cytie, vnto the hye wayes.

And all the men of Israell rose vp out of their place, and put them selues in araye at Baal Thamar. And lyke wyse the layers in wayte of Israel came forth out of their places, euen out of the medowes ꝑ were aboute Gibea, & came agaynst Gibea: ten thousande chosen men out of all Israel, and there was a sore battell. But the other wist not that so great euyll was so nye them. And the Lorde plaged Ben Jamin before Israel, & the chyldren of Israel destroyed of the Beniamites
K the same daye .xxv. thousande and a hũdred men, that drue swerdes euerye one of them. And whan the chyldrē of Ben Jamin sawe that they were put to the worse, the men of

Israel

Israel gaue rowme to the Beniamites, because they trusted vnto the layers in wayte which they had layde beside Gibea. And the layers in wayte hasted, and ranne vpon Gibea, and went and smote all the cytye with the edge of the swerde. And an apoyntment had the men of Israell from the layers in wayte that they shulde make a greate smoke ryse vp out of the cytie. And whan the men of Israel fledd in the battell Ben Jamin began to smyte deed of the chyldren of Israel, aboute a thyrtie parsonnes, and sayde: the other are put to the worsse before vs, as in the fyrst batell. But whan there began to aryse out of the cytie a pyller of smoke, the Beniamites loked backe: and beholde, the wastynge of the hole cytie began to ascende vp to heauen.

When the men of Israell also turned agayne, the men of Ben Jamin were abasshed: for they saw that euel approched them. And therfore they turned their backes before the men of Israel vnto the waye that leadeth to the wildernesse, but the men of warre ouertoke thē. And beside that, they which came out of the cytie, destroyed them in the myddle of them. And thus they compassed the Beniamites aboute, and chased them to Henuha, and ouerranne them to Gibea on the east syde: and there were slayne of Ben Jamin. xviij. thousande, which were all mē of warre. And they turned and fledd to the wyldernesse warde, and vnto the rocke of Rymmon. And the other slue by the waye of the rest of them, fyue thousande men, and stycked vnto them, vntyll they cam to Gidrom and slue two thousande men of them. So that all that were slayne that same daye o Ben Jamin were. xxv. thousande men that dzue swerdes, which were all men of warre: onelye. vj. hundzed men turned and fledd to the wyldernesse, vnto the Rocke of Rymmon, and abode there. iiij. monethes. And the men of Israell turned backe agayne vnto the chyldren of Ben Jamin, & smote them with the edge of the swerde in the cyties, bothe man and beast and all that came to hande, and sett on fyer all the cyties that they coulde come by.

¶ The enhabitoures of Gilead are vtterly destroyed.

AND euery man of Israel sware in Mizpa, sayinge: there shall none of vs geue hys daughter vnto any of Bē Jamin to wyfe. And the people came to Bethell & abode there tyll euen before God, & lyfte vp theyr voyces and wept sore, and sayde. O Lorde God of Israel, why is thys chaunced in Israel, that there shulde be thys daye one trybe lackynge in Israell? And on the morow the people rose vp by tyme, and made there an altare, and offered burntofferinges and peaceofferynges.

And the chyldren of Israell asked, who are they amonge all the tribes of Israel, that came not vp with the congregacyon vnto ꝑ Lorde? for they had made a greate othe cōcernynge him that came not vp to the Lord to Mizpa, sayinge: he shall suerlye dye. And the chyldren of Israell had pytie on Ben Jamin theyr brethren, and sayde: there is one trybe cut of from Israell thys daye: what shall we do vnto the remnaunt of them, that they maye haue wyues? we haue swore by the Lorde, that we will not geue thē of oure daughters to wyues. And they sayde: Is there any of the trybes of Israel, that came not vp to Mizpa to the Lorde? And beholde, ther came none of the enhabitoures of Jabes Gilead vnto the hoost and congregacyon. For the people were vewed: and beholde, there were none of the enhabiters of Jabes Gilead there. And they sent thether a multitude, euen. xij. thousande men of the strongest of them, and commaunded them, sayinge: go and smyte the enhabiters of Jabes Gilead with the edge of ꝑ swerde, both wemen and chyldren. * And this is it that ye shall do: vtterlye destroye all the males and all the wemen that haue lyen by men. And they founde amōge ꝑ in habiters of Jabes Gilead foure hundzed damosselles, virgines, that had knowen no man, by lyeng with any male. And they brought them vnto the hoost to Silo, which is in the lande of Canaan.

* Nu xxxi.c.

And the hole congregatiō sent and spake with the chyldren of Ben Jamin that were in the Rocke of Rymmon, and called peceablye vnto them: and Ben Jamin came agayne at that tyme, and they gaue them wyues, which they had saued alyue of the wemen of Jabes Gilead. But they sufficed them not. And the people had compassyon on Ben Jamin, because that God had made a gappe in the trybes of Israel. And then the elders of the congregacyon, sayde: what shall we do to the remnaunt of them, to get them wyues, seinge all the wyues of Ben Jamin are destroyed? And they sayde: there must be an enheritaūce for them that be escaped of Ben Jamin, that a trybe be not destroyed out of Israell: howbeit, we maye not geue them wyues of oure daughters. For the chyldren of Israell had swore, sayinge: cursed be he, that geueth a wyffe to Ben Jamin.

Then they sayde: beholde, there is a feast of the Lord yearly in Sylo, which is on the northsyde of Bethel, and on the east syde of the waye the waye that goeth from Bethel to Sichem and south from Libanon. Therfore they cõmaunded the chyldrẽ of Ben Jamin, sayinge: go and lye in wayte in the vynyardes. And when ye se that the daughters of Silo come out to daunce in a rowe, then come ye out of the vyneyardes, and catch you euerye man a wyfe of the daughters of Ben Jamin. And whan theyr fathers or brethren come vnto vs to complayne, we wyll saye vnto them: haue pytie on vs for theyr sakes, because we reserued not to eche man his wyfe in tyme of warre, (☞ Neither haue ye geuen vnto thẽ, that ye shulde synne at this tyme.

And the chyldren of Ben Jamin dyd euen so: and toke them wyues accordynge to the nombre of them that daunced, whom they caught. And they went, and returned vnto theyr enheritaunce, and repayred the cyties, and dwelt in them.

And the chyldrẽ of Israell departed thẽce at that tyme, and wẽt euery man to hys tribe, and to hys kynred, and went out from thence euery man to hys enheritaunce. * In those dayes there, was no kynge in Israel: but euerye mã dyd ỹ which semed ryght in his awne eyes. * Jud xvii.b and xviii.a.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

¶ Elimelec goeth with hys wyfe and chyldren into the lande of Moab.

IT fortuned, that (in the dayes of a certayne iudge) whẽ the Judges iudged, there fell a darth in the lande, and a certen mã of Bethlehem Juda went for to sotourne in the contreye of Moab: he and hys wyfe, and hys two sonnes. The name of the man was Elimelec, and the name of hys wyfe, Naomi: and the names of hys two sonnes were, Mahlon and Chilion, and they were Ephratites, out of Bethlehem Juda. And whẽ they came into the land of Moab, they contynued there. And Elimilec Naomies husband dyed, and she remayned with her two sonnes, which toke them wyues of the nacions of the Moabites: the ones name was Orpha, and the others Ruth. And they dwelled there about a ten yere. And Mahlõ and Chilion dyed also euen both of them, and the woman was lefte desolate of her two sonnes and of her husbande. Then rode she vp with her daughters in lawe, and returned from the countrey of Moab: for she had herde saye in the countrey of Moab, how that the Lorde had vysyted hys people, and geuen them bred. Wherfore she departed out of the place where she was, and her two daughters with her. And they went on theyr waye to returne vnto the lande of Juda. And Naomi sayde vnto her two daughters in lawe: go and returne eche of you vnto your mothers house: and the Lord deale as kyndlye with you, as ye haue dealt with the dead, and with me. And the Lorde geue you, that you maye fynde rest, ether of you in the house of her husbande. And whan she kyssed them, they lyft vp theyr voyce, and wepte, and sayde vnto her: we wyll go with the vnto thy folke. And Naomi sayde: turne agayne my daughters: for what cause wyll you go with me? Are ther any mo chyldren in my wombe, to be your husbandes? Turne agayne my daughters, and go: for I am to olde to haue an husbande. And yf I sayde, I haue hope, yf I toke a man also this nyght: yee and though I had all readye borne sonnes, wolde ye tarye after them, tyll they were of age? or wolde ye for thẽ so long refrayne from takynge of husbandes? Not so my daughters: for it greueth me moch for youre sakes, that the hande of the Lorde is gone out agaynst me.

And they lyft vp their voyces, and wepte agayne, & Orpha kyssed her mother in lawe, but Ruth aboade styll by her. And Naomi sayde: se, thy syster in lawe is gone backe agayne vnto her people and vnto her goddes: returne thou after her: And Ruth answered: entreate me not to leaue the, and to returne frõ after the: for whether thou goest, I will go also, & where thou dwellest, there I wyll dwell: thy people shalbe my people, and thy God my God, where thou dyest, there wyll I dye, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so ād so to me, yf ought but death onelye departe the and me asondre.

When she sawe ỹ she was stedfastly mynded to go with her, she lefte speakynge vnto her. And so they went both, vntyll they came to Bethlehem. And when they were come to Bethlehem, it was noysed of thẽ thorow all the cytie, and the wemen sayd: is not this Naomi? And she answered thẽ: call me not Naomi (that is to saye, bewtyfull) but call me Mara, (that is to saye, bytter.) for ỹ Almyghtye hath made me verye bytter. I went out full: and ỹ Lorde hath brought me home agayne emptie. Why then call ye me Naomi: seynge the Lord hath hũbled me, and the almyghtie hath brought me vnto aduersyte? And so Naomi with Ruth the Moabitesse her daughter in lawe returned out of the countreye of Moab, and came to Bethlehem, in the begynninge of barley haruestе.

¶ The.ij. Chapter.

¶ Ruth gathereth corne in the feldes of Booz.

AND Naomis husbād had a kinsman of strength, and myght, (which was of the kynredd of Elimelec) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabitesse sayd vnto Naomi: let me go to the felde, ād geather eares of corne * (such as the reapers leane) after any man in whose syght, I synde grace. And she sayde vnto her: go my daughter. And she went, and came to the felde, and geathered after the reapers, and her chaunce was, that the same felde pertayned vnto Booz, which was of the kynred of Elimelec. And behold, Booz came from Bethlehem, and sayd vnto the reapers: the Lorde be with you. And they answered him: the Lorde blesse the. Thē sayd Booz vnto his younge man that stode by the reapers. Whose damosell is this? And the younge man that stode by the reapers, answered, and sayde: it is the Moabityshe damosell, that came with Naomi out of the countrey of Moab, and she sayde vnto vs: Oh, let me lease ꝫ geather after the reapers, the eares that remayne: and so she came, and hath continued euen from the morneng vnto now, saue that she taried a litle in ꝑ house.

Then sayde Booz vnto Ruth: hearest ꝑ my daughter: go to no nother felde to geather, nether go from hence: but abyde here by my maydens. Let thine eyes be on the felde that they reape, and go thou after the maydens. Haue I not charged the young men, that they shal do ꝑ no hurt? Moreouer when thou art a thyrst, go vnto the vessels, and drinck of that which the laddes haue drawē.

Ruth. a Then she fell on her face and * bowed her selfe to ꝑ grounde, and sayd vnto him: how is it that I haue founde grace in thine eyes, ād that thou shuldest knowe me, seing I am an aliaunt?

¶ And Booz answered and sayde vnto her: all is tolde ād shewed me, that thou hast done vnto thy mother in lawe, sence ꝑ death of thyne husbande, how thou hast lefte thy father and thy mother, and ꝑ lande where thou wast borne, ād art come vnto a naciō which thou knewest not in tyme passed. The Lorde quyte thy worcke, and a full reward be geuen the of the Lorde God of Israell, vnder whose wynges thou art come to abyde. Thē she sayde: let me synde fauoure in thy syght my Lorde, thou that hast confortedd me, and spoken hartely vnto thy mayde, which yet am not like vnto one of thy maydens. Booz sayde vnto her agayne: in tyme of refectyon come thou hither, and eate of the breed, and dypp thy soppe in the vinegre. And she sate downe by ꝑ reapers, ꝫ he reached her * parched corne: of the which she dyd eate, ād was sufficed, and lefte parte. And when she was rysen vp to gather, Booz commaunded hys young mē, saying: let her gather euē amonge the heapes, and forbydde her not. And leaue her some of the sheues for the nonce, and let it lye, ꝑ she maye gather it vp, * (without shame) & rebuke her not. And so she geathered in the felde, vntyll euen, and threshed that she had geathered, and it was in measure vpon an Epha * (that is three bushels) of barleye. And she toke it vp, and went into the cytie: and whan her mother in lawe had sene what she had gathered, she plucked out also, ꝫ gaue to her that she had reserued, whē she had eaten ynough. And her mother in lawe sayd vnto her: where hast thou gathered to daye? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he, that knewe ꝑ. And she shewed her mother i lawe how she had wrought with him, and sayde: the mannes name with whom I wrought to daye is Booz. And Naomi sayd vnto her daughter in lawe: blessed be he of the Lorde, for he ceasseth not to do * good to the lyuing and to the deed. And Naomi sayde agayne vnto her: the man is nye vnto vs, ād of oure nerr kynne. And Ruth the Moabite sayde: he sayde vnto me also. Thou shalt be wt my young men, vntyll they haue ended all my haruest. And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her daughter in lawe: it is best my daughter that thou go out with hys maydens, that they fall not vpon the in any other felde. And so she kept her by the maydens of Booz, to gather, vnto the ende of barley haruest and of whete haruest also: and dwelt with her mother in lawe.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

¶ Ruth sleapeth at Booz fete. and is knowen hys kynswoman.

THen Naomi her mother in lawe sayde vnto her: my daughter, shal I not seke reast for the, that thou mayst prosper? And is not Booz oure kynsman, with whose maydens thou wast? Beholde, he wenoweth barleye to nyght in the threshynge floure: washe thy selfe therfore, and anoynt the, and put thy rayment vpon the, and gett the downe to the barne. But let not a man knowe of the, vntyll he haue leaft eatynge and drynckyng. And when he goeth to slepe, marcke the place where he layeth hym downe, and then go and lyfte vp the clothes, that are on his fete, and laye the downe there, and so shall he tell the what thou shalt do. And she answered her: all that thou byddyst me, I wyll do. And so she went downe vnto the barne, and dyd accordynge to all that her mother inlawe bade her.

And when Booz had eaten ꝫ dronckē, and made made him merye, and was gone in, to lye downe beside the heape of corne, she came softly, and lifte vp the clothes of his fete, and layde her downe. And at mydnight the man was afrayde and groped. And beholde: a woman laye at his fete. And he sayde: what art thou? she answered: I am Ruth thine hād mayde, spreade thy wynge ouer thine hand mayde, for thou art the nerr of the kynne.

He sayd: blessed be ꝑ in the Lorde my daughter, for thou hast shewed more goodnesse in the later ende, then at the beginnynge, in as moche as thou folowedest not younge men, whether they were poore or riche. And now my daughter feare not, I will do to the all ꝑ thou requirest, for all the cytie of my people doth knowe, that thou art a woman of vertue. And it is true that I am of thy nerr kynne: howbe it, there is one nyer then I. Tary this nyght. And when morynyng is come, yf he will marye the, it is good, let him do. But and yf he will not haue the, as sure as the Lorde lyueth I will haue the: lye styll vntill ꝑ morning. And so she laye at his fete vntill the morninge. And she arose vp before one coulde knowe another. And he sayde: let no man knowe, that there came any woman into the barne. And he sayde agayne: bringe thy mātell that thou hast vpon the, and holde it vp. And whan she helde it vp, he mette in sixe measures of Barleye, ād layed it on her. And she gatt her into the cytie: and whā she came into her mother in lawe, she sayde: how is it with ꝑ my daughter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her. And sayde also: these sixe measures of barlye gaue he me, and sayd: thou shalt not come emptie vnto thy mother in lawe. Then sayd she, my daughter, syt still, vntill ꝑ knowe how the matter will chaunce. For the man wyll not be in reast, vntill he haue fynyshed the thinge this same day.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

¶ Booz taketh Ruth to wyfe, of whom he begetteth Obed.

Then went Booz vnto the gate ād sate him downe there: ād beholde, the kynsmā of which Booz spake, cam by. Vnto whom, he sayde: come and sytte downe here, and called him by his name. And he turned in, and sate downe. And he tolde ten mē of the elders of the cittie, and sayd: syt ye downe here. And they sat downe. And he sayde vnto the kynsman: Naomi that is come agayne out of the cōtrey of Moab * will sell a parcell of lande, which was oure brother Elimeleces. And I thought to do the to wete, and bid the bye it before the enhabitoures and elders of my people. Yf thou be disposed to redeme it, do: but and yf thou wilt not pourchase it, then tell me, ꝑ I maye knowe. For there is none to calenge it, saue thou, and I nexte the. And the other answered: I will pourchase it.

Then sayde Booz, what daye thou biest the felde of the hand of Naomi, thou must take also Ruth the Moabite the * wyfe of the deed, to stere vp the name of the deed vpō his enheritaūce. The kinsmā answered: I cānot purchase it, for marringe of myne awne enheritaunce: take thou my right to the, for I cānot purchase it. Now, this was the maner of olde tyme in Israell concerninge purches and chaunging, for to stablithe all thinge: that a man must plucke of his showe, ād geue it his neyghboure, and this was a sure witnesse in Israell.

Therfore the kinsman sayde to Booz: Bye it thou: and so dyue of his showe. And Booz sayde vnto the elders and vnto all the people: ye are witnesses this daye, that I haue bought all that was Elimeleces, and all that was Chilions and Mahlons, of the hand of Naomi. And moreouer, Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of Mahlon, haue I purchased to be my wyfe, to stere vp the name of the deed vpon his enheritaunce, and that his name be not put out from amonge his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this daye.

And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders sayde: we are wytnesses: the Lord make the woman that is come into thyne house, lyke * Rahel ād Lea, which twayne dyd builde the house of Israell: do thou also valeauntly in Ephrata, and be famouse in Bethlehem. Thy house be like ꝑ house of Pharez * whō Thamar bare vnto Juda, euen of the sede which the Lorde shall geue the of this younge woman.

And so Booz toke Ruth, and she was his wyfe. And whā he wēt in vnto her, the Lorde gaue, that she cōceaued, and bare a sonne. And the wemen sayde vnto Naomi: blessed be the Lorde, the which hath not left ꝑ without a kinsman, to haue a name in Israell, ād that shall bring thy life agayne, and cherisshe thine olde age. For thy daughter in lawe which louyth the, hath borne vnto him: and she is better to the then seuen sonnes. And Naomi toke the childe, ād layed it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neybours gaue it a name, saying: there is a childe borne to Naomi, and called it, Obed. The same is the father of Jsai, the father of Dauid. These are the generacions of * Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron: Hezron begat Ram, Ram begat Aminadab, Aminadab begat Nahson, Nahson begat Salmon, Salmon begat Booz. Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Jsai, Jsai begat Dauid.

¶ Elkana hath .ii. wiues, Hanna and Phenenna.

THere was a mā of one of the two Ramaths (of ꝑ kinred of Zophim, of mount Ephrai) named * Elkana ꝑ sonne of Jeroha, ꝑ sonne of Elihu, the sonne of Thohu, the sonne of Zuph, an Ephrathite: whych had two wyues, ꝑ one called Hāna, & the other Phenenna. And Phenēna had children, but Hanna had none. * And the sayd mā wēt vp out of his citye euery feastfull daye, to prayе & to offer vnto ꝑ Lord of hostes in Silo, where were the two sonnes of Eli (Hophni & Phinehes) ꝑ lordes prestes. And it fell on a solempne daye, ꝑ Elkana offered, ād gaue to Phenenna his wife & to all her sonnes and daughters porcyōs. But vnto Hanna he gaue a porcion wt a heuye chere, for he loued Hanna, and the Lord had made her barren. And her enempe (Phenenna) vexed her sore cōtynually, to moue her, because ꝑ lord had made her barrē. And so did she yere by yere as ofte as she wēt vp to the house of ꝑ lord. And so chafed her, which wepte, ād did not eate. Thē sayde Elkana her husbād to her: Hanna, why wepest thou? and why eatest ꝑ not? and why is thyne herte troubled? am not I better to the, thē ten sonnes? So Hāna rose vp after ꝑ they had eaten & dronke in Silo. And Eli the preaste sate vpon a stole by one of the syde postes of the temple of the Lorde. And she was troubled in her mynde, and prayed vnto the Lord, & wepte sore, and vowed a vowe, and sayd: O Lord of hostes, yf thou wylt loke on the trouble of thine handmayde, & remēbre me, and not forget thine handmayde, but geue vnto thine hādmayde a māchylde: I wyll geue him vnto ꝑ Lord all ꝑ dayes of his lyfe, * & there shall no raser come vpō his heed. And as she cōtinued praying before ꝑ lord, it fortuned, ꝑ Eli marked her mouth. For Hanna spake i her herte, & her lyppes did but moue onely, but her voyce was not heard: & therfore Eli thought she had bene dronken, and Eli sayd vnto her: How lōg wylt ꝑ be dronken? put awaye from the, the wyne ꝑ thou hast. Hanna answered and sayde: not so my Lord, I am a woman of a sorowfull herte: I haue droncke nether wyne nor stronge drynck, but haue * powred out my soule before ꝑ Lord. Count not thyne handmayde to be lyke a daughter of Belial, for out of the aboundance of my heuynes & greafe: haue I spoken hitherto.

Eli answered her agayne: & sayde go in peace: ꝑ God of Israell graunt the thy peticyon, ꝑ thou hast asked of hym. She sayde: let thyne hād mayde fynde grace i thy sight And so ꝑ woman went her waye, & dyd eat, & loked no more so sadde. And they rose vp earlye, & worshipped before ꝑ lord, & thē returned, & came to theyr house to Ramath. And whā Elkana knew hāna his wyfe, ꝑ Lord remēbred her: for in procesle of tyme it came to passe, ꝑ she cōceaued, & bare a sonne, & called his name Samuel (sayeng:) because I haue asked him of ꝑ Lord. And Elkana & all his house went vp to offer vnto the Lord, the offerynge due for ꝑ feast, & also his vowe: Neuertheles, hāna wēt not vp, but sayde vnto her husbāde: I wyll tarye vntill ꝑ ladde be wened, & then I wyll bring him ꝑ he maye apeare before ꝑ Lord, & there abide for euer. Elkana her husband answered her: do what semith ꝑ best: tarye at home, vntill ꝑ hast wened hi, & I beseech ꝑ Lord, to make good his sayēg. And so the womā abode, & gaue her sonne sucke, vntill she wened him. And whē she had wened him she toke hym with her, with thre bullockes & an Epha of floure, & a bottel of wyne, and brought him vnto ꝑ house of ꝑ Lord in Silo, & the child was yet but tēder of age. And they slue a bullocke, & brought in ꝑ ladd to Eli, and she sayd: Oh my Lord: as truly as thy soule lyueth my Lord, I am the womā ꝑ stode before the here, prayeng vnto ꝑ Lorde. For this ladde I prayed, and the Lorde hath geuē me my desire, whych I asked of him: and therfore I haue geuen hym vnto the Lord, as long as he is mete for the lorde. And they worshipped the Lorde there.

A And Hanna prayed and sayde: myne
C herte reioyseth in ꝑ Lord, and myne horne is exalted in the Lorde. My mouth is wyde open ouer myne enemyes, for I reioyse in thy saluacyō. There is none so holye as the Lord, for without the, is nothing. Nether is there any of strength as let olde thynges depart out of your mou-thes, for the Lorde is a God of knowledge, C and his purposes come to passe. The bowe with the mightye men are broken: and they that were weake, haue girded the sel-ues wt strength. They that were full, haue hired out them selues for breed, & they that were hongrye, ceasse so to be, tyll the baren

C keth alyue: bryngeth downe to the graue and fetcheth vp agayne. The Lorde ma-keth poore, & maketh ryche: bringeth lowe,
* pſ.c.xiii.b and heueth vp on hye. * He reyseth vp the poore out of the dust, and lyfteth vp ꝑ begger from the dong hyll: to sett them amoge princes, and to enherett the with the seate of glorye. For the pillers of the erth are the lordes, and he hath sett the roumbe worlde vpon the. He wyll kepe the fete of hys sayn tes, and the wycked shall kepe sylence in
* Deu.xxxii.d darcknesse, & * in his awne myght shall no mā be stroge. The lordes aduersaries shall be destroyed of hym: and out of heauē shall he thūder vpon euery one of the. The lorde shall iudge the endes of the worlde, & shall gyue myght vnto his kynge, and exalte the C horne of his anoynted. And Elkana went to Ramath to his house, & the ladd dyd my-nistre vnto the lorde before Eli the preaste.

12. But the sonnes of Eli were chyldren of Belial, and knewe not the lord. And the Preastes made a lawe for ꝑ people, ꝑ whensoeuer any man offered any offeryng, the Preastes ladd came, while the flesshe was in sething, & a flesshoke wyth thre tethe in his hand, and thrust it into the pāne: ketle, caldren, or potte. And all that the flesshe hoke brought vp, that the Preaste toke awaye.
And so they did vnto all ꝑ Israelites, that came thyther to Silo. Yee & therto, before they burnt ꝑ fatte, the Preastes ladd came and sayd to the man that offered: geue flesh that I maye dresse it for the Preaste, for he wyll not haue sodde flesshe of the, but rawe.
D And yf any man sayde vnto hym: let them burne the fatt accordyng to the daye, & then take as moche as thine herte desyreth. The ladd wold answere him, yee, ꝑ shalt geue it me now: and yf thou wylt not, I wyll take it with violence. And the synne of ꝑ young-men was very great before the Lorde. For men abhorred the offeryng of the Lorde.

22. But the child Samuel ministred before the Lorde, girded about wyth a lynen Ephod. Moreouer, hys mother made him a lytle coate, & brought it to him from yere to yere, whē she came vp with her husbande to offer the offeringe in the solempne feastes: and Eli blessed Elkana & his wyfe, and sayde: the Lorde geue the seede of thys womā, for the peticyō that she asked of the lorde. And they went vnto their awne home. And the lorde visited Hāna, so that she conceaued & bare thre sonnes & two daughters. And the chylde Samuel grewe before the lorde.

Eli was very olde, & herde all that his E sonnes dyd vnto all Israel, and how they laye with the wemen ꝑ wayted at the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, & he sayde vnto them: why do ye soche thynges? For of all these people I heare euell reportes of you. Oh, naye my sonnes: for it is no good reporte that I heare, how that ye make the lordes people to trespasse. If one mā synne agaynst another, ye dayesmen maye be iudges: but yf a man synne agaynst the lorde who will be his dayesman? Notwythstan-dyng, they herkened not vnto the voyce of their father, because the lorde wolde slaye them. The chylde Samuel prospered* and * Luce.ii.d grewe, and was in fauoure both with ꝑ lorde, and also with men.

And there cam a man of God vnto Eli, F & sayd vnto him: thus sayeth the lorde: dyd not I apeare vnto the house of thy father, whē they were in Egipte subiect vnto Pha raos house? And I chose thy father out of all ꝑ trybes of Israel to be my Preaste, for to offer vpon myne aultare, & to burne incense, * and to weare an Ephod before me. * Exod.xl.b
And I gaue vnto ꝑ house of thy father all Deute.xii.
the burnt offeryngs of the chyldren of Israel. Wherfore treade ye downe my sacrifice and myne offeryng, which I commaun ded to be made in the Tabernacle, & honorest thy chyldren aboue me, to make youre selues fatt of the fierst frutes of all the offerynges of Israel my people? Wherfore the G lorde God of Israell sayeth: I sayde, that thy house and the house of thy father shuld walke before me for euer. But now the lorde sayeth: that be farre from me: for them that worshipe me, I will worshipe, & they ꝑ despyse me, shall come to shame. Beholde, the dayes come, ꝑ I will cut of thyne ar me, & the arme of thy fathers house, ꝑ there shal not be an elder i thine house. And thou shalt se thyne enemye in the tabernacle of ꝑ lorde, & in all that welthe which God shal geue Israell, & there shall not be an elder in thyne house for euer. Neuertheles, I wyll not destroye all the males that come of the fro myne aultare. But to make thyne eyes dase, & to make thyne hert melte. And all they

they ꝑ be multiplyed in thyne house, * shall dye, ꝑt they be men.

And this shalbe a signe vnto the, that shall come vpon thy two sonnes * Hophny & Phinehes: euen in one daye they shall dye both. And I wyll stere me vp a faythfull preste, ꝑ shall do accordynge to my herte and mynde: And I will buylde him a sure house. And he shall walke before myne anoynted for euer. And they ꝑ are lefte in thyne house, shall come, and crouch to him for a lytle pece of syluer & a cake of bread, & shall saye: put me (I praye the) in one office or other amonge the prestes, that I maye eate a morsell of bread.

¶ The. iij. Chapter.

¶ The Lorde calleth Samuel thre tymes.

AND the chylde Samuel mynistred vnto the Lorde before Eli: & ꝑ worde of the Lorde was precious in those dayes, nether was there any open vysyon. And it chaūsed at ꝑ tyme, that Eli laye in his place, and hys * eyes beganne to waxe dymme that he coulde not se. And yet the lāpe of God went out, Samuel layde hym downe to slepe in the tēple of the Lord, where the arcke of God was. And the Lorde called Samuel, & he sayde, here am I, and he ran vnto Eli, & sayd: here am I, for ꝑ calledst me. And he sayd: I called the not: go agayne, & slepe. And he went, and layde him downe to slepe. And the Lorde called once agayne: Samuel, & Samuel arose & went to Ely, & sayd, I am here, for thou byddest call me. And he answered: I called ꝑ not, my sonne. Go agayne, and take thy rest: & Samuell knewe not yet the Lord, nether was ꝑ worde of ꝑ Lord yet opened vnto hym. And the Lorde went to, & called Samuel ꝑ thyrd tyme. And he arose, & went to Eli, & sayde: I am here, for ꝑ hast called me. And Eli perceaued ꝑ the Lorde had called the chylde. Therfore, Eli sayde vnto Samuel: go, & lye downe: & ꝑ he call the agayne, then saye, speake on Lorde, for thy seruaunt heareth. So Samuel went, & layed hym downe in hys place. And the Lord came, & stode, & called as before, Samuel Samuel. Samuel answered: speake on: for thy seruaunt heareth. And the Lord sayde to Samuel: beholde, I will do a thinge in Israel, ꝑ both the eares of as many as heareth it, shall tyngle. In ꝑ daye I wyll rayse vp agaynst Eli, all thynges whyche I haue spoken concernynge his house: from the begynnyng to the endyng. I haue tolde him, * that I wyll iudge hys house for euer. For ꝑ wickednes which he knoweth. & For whē the people cursed hys sonnes for ꝑ same wickednes, he hath not corrected thē. And therfore, I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, ꝑ the wycke dnesse of Elies house, shall not be purged wt sacrifyce nor offering for euer. Samuel laye tyll the mornynge, and opened the dores of the house of the Lorde.

And Samuel feared to shewe Eli the vysyon. Then Eli called Samuel, & sayde: Samuel my sonne. And he answered: here I am. He sayde: what is that the Lorde hath sayde vnto the? I praye the, se thou hyde it not frō me. * God do so, & so to the, ꝑt thou hyde any thyng from me, of all that he sayde vnto the. And Samuel tolde hym euery whytte, and hydd nothynge from hym. And he sayd: it is the Lorde, let him do what semeth hym best.

And Samuel grewe, & the Lorde was wyth him, & left none of hys wordes vnperformed. And all Israel from Dan to Bersabe wyst that faythfull Samuel was made the Lordes prophete. And the Lord appered agayne in Silo: for the Lorde opened hym selfe to Samuel in Silo, thorow the worde of the Lorde.

AND Samuel spake vnto all Israel. (And it fortuned that in those dayes the Philystynes came together to fyght.) And Israel went out against the Philistynes to battayle, and pytched besyde the * helpe stone. And the Philistynes pytched in Aphek. And put them selues in araye against Israel. And whē they ioyned the battell, Israel was put to the worse before the Philistines. And the Philistynes slue in araye alonge by the feldes, about a foure thousande men.

And when the people were come into their tentes, the elders of Israel sayde: wherfore hath the Lorde cast vs downe this daye before the Philistines? let vs fetch the arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde oute of Silo vnto vs, ꝑ whē it cōmeth amōge vs, it maye saue vs, oute of the hāde of oure enemy. And so the people sent to Silo, & fet frō thens the arcke of the appoyntmēt of the Lord of hoostes, which dwelleth betwene the cherubins. And there were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni & Phinehes with the arcke of the appoyntment of God. And it fortuned, ꝑ whē the arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde came into the hoost, all Israel showted a myghtie showte, so that the erthe rangge agayne.

And whā the Philistines herde the noyse of the showte, they sayd: what meaneth ꝑ lōde of this mighty showt in ꝑ host of ꝑ Ebrues? And they vnderstode, howe that the arcke of the Lorde was come into the hoost: And the Philistines were afrayed, and sayde: God is come into the hoost. And they sayd agayne: Wo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this: Wo vnto vs, who shall delyuer vs out of ꝑ hande of these mighty Goddes? these are the Goddes that smote the Egyptians with so many plages in the wyldernes. Be stronge and quite youre selues lyke men, O ye Philistynes, that ye be no seruauntes vnto the Ebzues, * as they haue bene to you. Be of a manly cozage therfoze & fyght. And the Philistines fought, & Israel was put to ꝑ wozse & fledd euery mā into his tēte. And ther was an exceading great slaughter foz there were ouerthrowē of Israel .xxx. M. fotemen. And the arcke of God was taken, & the two son-nes of Eli, * Hophni, & Phinehes were deed.

And there ran a mā of Ben Jamin out of the arape, and came to Silo the same daye with his clothes rent & earth vpon hys heed. And when he came, Eli sate vpon a stole, and loked toward the waye: foz his hert feared foz the arcke of God. And when the mā came in to the cytie, and tolde it, all the cytie cryed.

And when Eli herde the noyse of the cryēg
he sayd: What meaneth this noyse of the tumoz? And ꝑ mā came in hastely, & tolde Eli.
Eli was .xcviij. yeare olde, and * hys syght fayled him ꝑ he could not se. And the mā sayd vnto Eli: I am he ꝑ came out of the arape, & fled this daye out of the hoost. And he sayde:
what thing is foztuned my sonne? The messenger answered & sayd. Israel is fled befoze the Philistines, & there is a greate slaughter chaunced amonge the people, & thy two son-nes, Hophni & Phinehes are deed, & the arcke of God is taken. And it foztuned that whan he made menciō of the arcke of God, Eli fell from of hys stole backwarde vpon the thresholde of the gate, and hys necke brake, and he dyed: foz he was an olde man and heuye, and iudged Israel fourtye yeares.

And his daughter in lawe Phinehes wife was wt childe & nye the byrthe. And whē she herde the tydinges ꝑ the arcke of God was taken, & ꝑ her father in lawe, & her husbāde were deed, she bowed her self, and traueled, foz her paynes came vpon her. And about ꝑ

¶ Dagon the God of the Philistines is cast flat befoze the arcke.

AND the Philistynes toke the arcke of God, and caryed it from the helpe stone vnto Asdod, agayne the Philystyn-nes toke the arcke of God, & brought it into the house of Dagō, and sett it by Dagō. And when they of Asdod were vp in the nexte daye in the moznynge, beholde, Dagon laye
vpon the erth befoze the arcke of the Lozde.
And they toke Dagon, & set him in hys place agayne. And when they were vp erly in the nexte moznyng, beholde, Dagō laye vpō the grounde befoze the arcke of the Lozde, and his sholde, so that only the shape of a fyzst was left on hym. And therfoze isit, ꝑ the prestes of Dagō (nether any mā that cōmeth into Da-gons house) treade not on the thzesholde of Dagon in Asdod, vnto thys daye. But the hāde of the Lozde was heuy vpon the of Asdod, & he destroyed the, & smote the wēme-rodes, bothe Asdod & in all ꝑ coastes therof.

(The byllages atte & the feldes in the myddes of the cun-tre were full, & ther came vp myce, & ther was a confusyon of great death in the cytie.) And when the men of Asdod sawe ꝑ it was so, they sayde: the arcke of the God of Israel shall not abyde here with vs, foz hys hāde is loze vpō vs & vpō Dagō

the lozdes of ꝑ Philistines vnto the, & sayde:
what shall we do wt the arcke of the God of Israel? They answered: let ꝑ arcke of ꝑ God of Israel be caryed aboute vnto Gath. And they caryed the arcke of the God of Israel about. And it foztuned, that whē they had ca-ryed it about, there was by the hande of the Lozde a myghtye greate noyse in the cytie, & he smote the men of the cytie both small and greate: & they had secrete dispaires, (And the Gethites toke councell, & made them selues pzeuye spates of thynnes.) Therfoze they sent the arcke of God to Akaron. And assone as the arcke of God, came to Akaron, the Akaronites cryed out saying: they haue brought the arcke of ꝑ God of Israel to vs, to slee vs and oure people:

And so they sent, and gathered together all the lozdes of the Philistines & sayde: send awaye the arcke of the God of Israel, to go agayne to his awne place, that it slee vs not

THE arcke of the Lozd was in the cōtrey of the Philistines seuen mone-thes: and the Philistynes called foz
the prestes & ꝑ sothsayers, sayinge:
what shall we do wyth the arcke of the Loz-de? tell vs, where with we shall sende it home agayne? They sayde: Yf you sende the arcke of the God of Israel home agayne, sende it not emptye. But rewarde it wt a trespalle offrynge: and then ye shalbe whole, and it shalbe knowen to you, why hys hāde departeth not from you.

Then sayde they: And what shalbe the trespalle offrynge, whych we shall rewarde hym wt? They answered: fyue golden arses
and

and .v. golden myce, accordyng to the nombre of the lordes of the Philistines. For it is one maner of plage on you all, & on your lordes. Wherfore ye shal make ymages like to your arsses, and ymages lyke to your myce ꝑ corrupt the lande, and ye shall geue glory vnto the God of Israel: that he maye take his hād from of you, and frō of your goddes, and frō of your lande.

B Wherfore do ye harden your hertes as ꝑ Egiptians and Pharao hardened their hertes, which when he toke on agaynst thē, dyd they not let the people go, & they departed? Now therfore, make a newe carte, and take two meiche kyne: on whose neche there hath come no yock. And tye the kyne to the carte, and bring the calues home frō them. And take the arck of the Lord, and laye it vpon the carte, and put the iewels of golde (which ye rewarde him with for a synoffering) in a cofre by the side therof: and send it awaye, ꝑ it maye go. And yf ye se ꝑ he go vp by ꝑ waye of his awne coaste to Bethsames: then it is he ꝑ dyd vs this great euyll. Yf no, we shall knowe then, that it is not his hande ꝑ smote vs: but it was a chaunce that happened vs.

And the mē dyd euen so: and toke two kyne C that gaue mylke, and tyed them to the carte, and kept the calues at home, and they layde the arck of the Lorde vpon the carte and the cofer wt the myce of gold, and wt the ymages of their arsses. And the kyne toke ꝑ streyght waye to Bethsames, & went on ꝑ streyght waye: & as they wēt, lowed, & turned nether to the right hāde ner to the left. And the lordes of the Philistines went after them, vntyll the borders of Bethsames.

And they of Bethsames were reappynge their wheate haruest in the valey. And they lift vp their eyes, and spied the arck. And reioysed whē they sawe it. And the carte came into the felde of one Iehosua a Bethsamite, and stode still there. There was also a great stone. And they claue the wod of the carte & offred the kyne a burntoffring vnto ꝑ Lord. And the Leuites toke downe the arck of the Lorde & the cofer that was with it, wherin the iewels of golde were: and put them on the great stone. And the men of Bethsames sacrificed burntsacrifice, and offered offeringes ꝑ same daye vnto the Lorde. And when D the fyue lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Akarō the same daye. And these are the golden arsses which the Philistines gaue to amēdes for a trespaceoffring, to the Lorde: for Asdod one: for *Gaza one: for Askalō one: for Gath one: and for Akaron one. And golden myce, accordyng to the nombre of all the cityes of the Philistines, euen accordynge to the fyue lordes, both of walled townes and of townes vnwalled: euen vnto the greate stone of lamentacyon, wherō they set downe the arcke of the Lord: which stone remaineth vnto this daye in the felde of Iehosua the Bethsamite. And he plaged the men of Bethsames, because they had sene the arcke of the Lorde. And he slue amonge the people lifty thousande and three score and ten men. And the other people lamēted, because the Lorde had slayne the people with so great a slaughter. Wherfore the men of Bethsames sayde: who is able to stande before the Lord so holy a God: and to whom shall he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the enhabiters of Kariath Iarim, saying: The Philistines haue brought agayne the arke of the Lorde: come ye downe therfore, and fet it vp to you.

And they gathred together to Mizpa, and drewe water: and powred it out before the Lorde, & fasted the same daye and sayde there: we haue synned against the Lorde. And as Samuel offred ꝑ burntoffering, the Philistines came to fyght agenst Israel. But the Lorde thondered a great thonder ꝑ same daye amonge the Philistines, and scatered them, ꝑ they fell before Israel. And there was peace betwene Israel & the Amorites. Samuel iudged Israel all the dayes of his lyfe, and wēt about yere by yere to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpa, & iudged Israel in all those places, & came agayne to Rama: for there was his house, & ther he iudged Israel also, & there he buylt an auiter vnto the Lorde.

A SAmuel sayd vnto all Israel: beholde, I haue herkened vnto your voyce in all that ye sayde vnto me, & haue made you a kynge. Nowe therfore, youre kynge walketh before you. And I am olde and graye headed: and behold, my sonnes are with you, and I haue walked before you from my childehode vnto thys daye. Beholde, here I am: beare recorde of me before the Lorde and before hys anoynted: * Whose ore haue I taken? or whose Asse haue I take? whō haue I done wrōg to? ↦ Whom haue I hurt? Or of whose hande haue I receaued any brybe, to blynde myne eyes therwyth? & I wyll restore it you agayne. They sayde: thou hast done vs no wrōge, nor hurt vs, nether hast thou take ought of any mannes hande. He sayde vnto them agayne: the Lord is witnesse agaynst you, & hys anoynted is wytnesse thys daye, ꝑ ye haue founde naught in my hādes. And they answered: he is wytnesse. And Samuel sayd vnto the people: it is ↦ the Lorde, ꝑ made Moses & Aarō, & ꝑ brought youre fathers out of the lāde of Egypte. Nowe therfore stāde still, ꝑ I maye reason wt you before the Lorde, according to all the ☞ ryghtousnesses of the Lord, which he shewed both you and youre fathers.

* After ꝑ Jacob was come into Egypte, and youre fathers cryed vnto the Lorde: the Lorde sent Moses & Aaron, which brought your fathers out of Egipt, & made the dwell in this place. * And whā they forgat the lord their God, he delyuered the into the hand of Sisara captaine of the hoost of Hazor * and into the hande of the Philistynes, and * into the hande of the kynge of Moab, and they fought agaynst them. And they cryed vnto the Lorde, & sayde: we haue synned, because we haue forsaken the Lorde, and haue serued Baalim and Astharoth. Nowe therfore delyuer vs out of the handes of oure enemyes and we wyll serue the. And the Lorde sent ☞ Jerobaal * Badan * Jephthah, & * Samuel, and delyuered you out of the handes of youre enemyes on euery syde, and ye dwelled safe. And for all that, whē you sawe that Nahas the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon cam agaynst you, ye sayde vnto me: * not so but a kyng shall raigne ouer vs, whē yet the Lorde youre God was youre kynge. Nowe therfore, beholde, the kinge whō ye haue chosen, and whom ye haue desyred: lo, the Lord hath set a kynge ouer you. Yf ye wyll feare the Lorde & serue hym, and heare hys voyce, & not disobeye the worde of the Lorde: both ye & the kynge that raygneth ouer you, shall folowe the Lorde youre God: Yf ye wyll not herken vnto the voyce of the Lord, but disobeye the Lordes mouth: then shall the hande of the Lorde be vpon you and on youre fathers. Nowe also stande, and se thys great thynge, whych the Lord will do before your eyes: is it not now wheatharuest? I will call D vnto the Lorde, and ☞ he shall sende thunder and rayne: that ye maye perceaue and se, howe that youre wickednes is great, which ye haue done in the syght of the Lorde, in askynge you a kynge. And so, Samuel called vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde sent thunder and rayne the same daye. And all the people feared the Lorde and Samuel exceadyngly. And all the people sayde vnto Samuel: praye for thy seruauntes vnto the Lord thy God, that we dye not: for we haue synned in askynge vs a kynge, beside all the synnes ꝑ euer we dyd.

And Samuel sayde vnto the people: feare not. Ye haue in dede done all thys wickednesse, yet departe not from folowynge of the Lorde. But serue hym euen wyth all youre hertes. Nether turne ye after vayne thinges whych are not able to profyt you, for they are but vanitye. For the * Lorde wyll not forsake hys people, because of hys great names sake: because ↦ it hath pleased the Lord, to make you his people. Moreouer God forbydde, that I shulde synne agaynst the Lorde, and ceasse prayeng for you, but to shewe you the good & ryght waye. Therfore feare you the Lorde, and serue hym in the trueth, and wyth all youre hertes: & consydre, howe great thinges he hath done for you. But and yf ye do wickedlye, then shall ye perysshe, both ye and youre kynge.

¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

¶ The Philistines are smytten of Saul and Jonathas. Saul beyng disobedyent to Gods commaundement, is shewed of Samuel, that he shall not raygne.

A SAul had bene kynge one yere (whā these thynges came to passe) and he raygned two yeares ouer Israel. And Saul chose him thre thousand men of Israel. Two thousande were wyth Saul in Michmas and in mount Bethel, & a thousande wyth Jonathas in Gibea Ben Jamin. And the rest of the people he sent, euery man to hys awne house agayne. And Jonathas smote the holde of the Philystines, ꝑ was in the hyll, and it came to the Philistines eares. And Saul blewe the trōpet thorowe rowe out all the lãde, layẽge: let the Ebzues heare. And all Jsrael heardẽ saye, howe that Saul had destroyed an holde of the Philystines, wherfoze & Jsrael stanche bi foze ꝑ Philystines. And the people gathered togeather after Saul to Gilgal.

V. The Philistines also geathered them selues togeather to fyght wyth Jsrael, thirtye thousand charettes and syxe thousand hozsemen, with other people lyke the * sand by the sees syde in multitude, and came vp, and pitched in Wichmas eastwarde from Bethauen. And when the mẽ of Jsrael sawe it, they were in a strayte, & feare came vpõ the people, and they hydd them selues in caues, and in pzeup holes, and in rockes, and in hye places, & in pittes. And some of the Ebzues wẽt ouer Jozdan to go vnto the lande of Gad & Gilead. And Saul was yet in Gilgal, & all the people that folowed him were astonyed. And he taryed seuẽ dayes, euen vnto ꝑ tyme * 1. Reg. 13. ꝑ Samuel had appoynted. But Samuel came not to Gilgal, & the people were therfoze skatered frõ him. And Saul sayd: bzing a burntsacrifyce to me & peaceoffringes. And he offered burnt sacrifyce. And as sone as he had made an ende of offerynge ꝑ burntsacrifyce, beholde, Samuel cam. And Saul wẽt agaynst him, to bielle him. And Samuel sayde, what hast thou done? Saul sayde: because I sawe that the people skatered frõ me, and ꝑ ye camest not wtin the dayes apoynted, and ꝑ the Philistines geathered thẽ selues to geather to Wichmas: therfoze sayd I: ꝑ Philistines shall come downe nowe vpon me to Gilgal, & I haue not made supplicatiõ vnto the Lozd. And whã I had ouercome my selfe, at the last I offered a burntofferynge. * Gen. xxii. d. & Par. xvi. c. And Samuel sayde to Saul * ꝑ art become a fole, thou hast not kept the cõmaũdment of the Lozd thy God, which he cõmaunded the. Foz at this tyme wold ꝑ Lozd haue stablysshed thy kingdome vpõ Jsrael foz euer, But * 1. Reg. xvi. e nowe, thy kyngdome shall not cõtinue we. * The Lozde hath gought him a man after his awne hart, & the Lozd hath commaũded him to be captayne ouer his people: because thou hast not kept ꝑ whych the Lozde commaũded the. And Samuel arose & gat hym vp from Gilgal to Gibea Bẽ Jamin. (and the remnaunt of the folke went vp after Saul, to mete the people, whych fought agaynst them, as they were comming from Gilgal to Gabaa in the hyll of Ben Jamin.) And Saul nõbzed the people that were founde wt him, & they were about a syxe hundzed men. And Saul and Jonathas his sonne and the people that were founde wyth thẽ, had theyr abydynge in the hyll of Bẽ Jamin. But the Philistines pitched in Wichmas. And there came out of ꝑ host of ꝑ Philistines thze cõpanies, to destroye: one companye turned vnto the waye ꝑ leadeth to Ophza vnto the lande of Saul. And a nother companye turned the waye to Bethozon. And the thyde cõpany turned to the waye of ꝑ coste ꝑ is sene aboue the valeye of zeboim towarde the wylderneste. There was no smyth founde thozowe out all the lãde of Jsrael. Foz the Philistines sayde: Lest happily the Ebzues make them swerdes oz speres. But all ꝑ Jsraelites wẽt downe to the Philistynes, to mende euerye man his share, his mattock, his axe & his necessary toles: And then the edges of the shares, mattockes, dõge fozkes, and axes were blunt, and also the fozkes were to be set in. And so in tyme of battell there was nether swerde noz spere founde in the hãdes of any of the people that were wyth Saul and Jonathas. But with Saul and Jonathas hys sonne was there somwhat founde. And the watch of ꝑ Philistines came out, to go ouer vnto Wichmas.

¶ The. xiiij. Chapter.

¶ Jonathas and hys harneste bearer putteth the Philistines to flyght. He taketh the honye.

AND it fortuned the same tyme, ꝑ A Jonathas the sonne of Saul sayd vnto hys younge man that bare hys harnes: come, and let vs go ouer to the Philistines watche that are ponder on the other syde, and he tolde not his father. And Saul taryed in the vttmost parte of Gibea vnder Rimmon, whych is in Migron, & the people that were wyth him were vpon a syxe hũdzed men. And Ahia the sonne of Ahitob Jehabods bzother, the sonne of Phinehes, the sonne of Eli, was the Lozdes preaste in Silo, & ware an Ephod. And the people wyst not that Jonathas was gone.

And in the myddes of the passage (by which Jonathas sought to go ouer vnto the Philistines watch) were there two sharpe rockes, euen one on the one syde, & the other on the other syde: the one called Bozez, & the other Sẽne. The fozefront of the one, leaned noztheward towarde Wichmas, & the other was southward, towarde Gibea: And Jonathas sayd to the youge man that bare his harneste: come and let vs go ouer vnto the watch of these vncircumcised, paraduenture the Lozde will wozke wt vs: foz it is no hardneste wt ꝑ Lozd * to saue ether in manye oz in fewe. Philistines. And ꝑ Philistines sayde: se, the Hebrues come out of ꝑ holes where they had hydd thē selues in. And ꝑ men of the watche answered Jonathas and his harnesbearer, & sayde, come vp to vs, and we will shew you a thinge. And Jonathas sayde vnto his harnesbearer, come vp after me, for ꝑ Lord hath delyuered them into the hāde of Israel. And Jonathas clame vp vpō handes & fete, & his vs harnesberer after him. And (so when they had slayne Jonathas) they fell before Jonathas: & his harnesberer slue thē after hym. And that first slaughter which Jonathas and his harnesberer made, was vpon a twētie men, within the compasse as it were about an halfe
C aker of lāde. And ther was a feare in ꝑ host, in the felde, & amonge all people: in so moche that they ꝑ were gone out of the watche to robbe, were afrayde also: and the erth trymbled, for the feare that was sent of God. And the watche men of Saul in Gibea Ben Jamin, sawe. And beholde, the people (of the Philistines) were shattered & were smytte as they went. Then sayde Saul vnto the people ꝑ was with him. Searche and se, who is gone away frō vs. And when they had nōbred, beholde, Jonathas & hys harnesbearer were not there. And Saul sayde vnto Ahia: bringe hither the arcke of God. For the arcke of God was at that tyme wyth the chyldren of Israel. And it fortuned ꝑ while Saul talked vnto the preaste, ꝑ noyse that was in the hoste of the Philistines spred further abrode, vs & increased (by lytle and lytle, and gaue a more cleare sounde.) And Saul sayde vnto the preaste: wdrawe thyne hādes. And Saul ioyned hymselfe vnto all ꝑ people that were with him, & they came to the battell. And beholde * euery Iudi. vij. c. 1. Para. xx. c. mānes swerde was agaynst his felowe, and there was a very greate rumore. Howeouer, the Ebrues ꝑ were wyth the Philistines before that tyme, and were come with them in all partes of the hoste, turned, to be with the Israelites ꝑ were wyth Saul & Jonathas. And all ꝑ men of Israel also, which had hydd them selues in mount Ephraim, as sone as they hearde howe that the Philistines were D fledd, they folowed after them in the battell. And so God holpe Israel that daye. And the battell continued vnto Bethauen.

And whyle the men of Israel were kepte downe wyth honger that daye, Saul charged the people with an ooth sayinge: Cursed be the man ꝑ eateth any foode vntyll nyght, tyll I be auēged of myne enemyes: And so, none of ꝑ people tasted any sustinaunce. And all the inhabiters of the lāde came to a wood where honye laye vpon the groūde. And the people came into the wood: And beholde, the honye dropped, and no man moued hys hande to his mouth, for the people feared the ooth. But Jonathas hearde not whē hys father charged the people with the ooth, wherfore he put forth ꝑ ende of the rodd that was in his hande, and dipt it in an honye combe, & put his hande to his mouth, and his eyes
E receaued syght. Then answered one of the people and sayde: thy father adiured the people, sayinge: Cursed bethe man that eateth any sustinaunce this daye, & the people were fayntye. Then sayde Jonathas: my father hath troubled the lande: se howe myne eyes hath receaued syght, because I tasted a lytle of this honye: howe much more then to daye yf the people had eaten of the spoyle of their enemyes whych they founde. And had there not bene then a moche greater slaughter amonge ꝑ Philistines? And they layed on the E Philistines ꝑ daye, from Michmas to Ataló. And the people were exceedinge fayntie.

And ꝑ people gat thē to the spoyle, & toke shepe, oxen, & calues, & slue thē on the groūde, * Leu. vij. c. & ꝑ people dyd eate thē * wt the bloude. Then 3. Esd. i. men tolde Saul, sayinge: Beholde, the people synne agaynst the Lord, in that they eate with ꝑ bloude. And he sayde: ye haue trespaced. Rowle a great stone vnto me this daye, and Saul sayde agayne: Go abroade amōge the people & bydd them bringe me euery mā his ore & euery man his shepe, and slaye them here, and synne not agaynst the Lorde in eatynge wt the bloude. And the people brought euery man hys ore in his hande, by nyght, & slue them there. And Saul made an altare vnto the Lorde. And that was ꝑ fyrst altare ꝑ he made vnto the Lorde. And Saul sayde: lett vs go downe after the Philistines by nyght and spoyle thē, vntyll it be daye in the mornynge, & lett vs not leaue one mā of thē. And they sayd: do whatsoeuer thou thinkest best. Then sayde the preast: lett vs come hi-
F ther vnto God. And Saul asked of God: shall I go downe after the Philistines? Wilt thou delyuer them into the hādes of Israel? But he answered him not at that tyme. And Saul sayde: let the people come hyther out of all quarters, and knowe & se by whō thys synne is chaunced this daye: for as truly as ꝑ Lorde lyueth which saueth Israel, though it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye the death. But there was no man amonge all the people that answered him.

Then he sayde vnto all Israel: be ye on one syde, and I & Jonathas my sonne wilbe on the other syde. And the people sayde vnto Saul: what thou thynkest best, ꝑ do. Therfore Saul sayde vnto the Lorde God of Is-
G rael: geue a perfect lott (Lorde God, geue ꝑ the iudgement. Howe happeneth it, that thou geuest thy seruaūte no answere to daye? If this synne be in me or in Jonathas my sōne, shewe it, or yf this iniquite be in thy people.) And Saul & Jonathas were caught, but the people skaped free. And Saul sayde, cast lottes betwene me & Jonathas my sonne. And Jo-

Gnathas was caught. Then Saul sayde to Jonathas: tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathas tolde him, & sayde. I tasted a lytle honye with the ende of the rodd that was in myne hande: and lo, I must dye.

*Ruth.i.c. Saul answered: * God do so and so to me, thou shalt dye the death Jonathas. And the people sayde vnto Saul: shall Jonathas dye, which hath so myghtelye helped Israel? God forbyd. As truly as the Lorde lyueth

And so Saul helde the kyngdome ouer Israel, & fought agaynst all his enemyes on euery syde: agaynst Moab: agaynst the chyldren of Ammon: agaynst Edom: agaynst þ kynges of Zoba, and agaynst the Philistines. ¶ The.xv. Chapter.

¶ Saul is commaunded to slaye Amaleck. He is disobedient to the voyce of God. Samuel mourneth for Saul.

A Samuel sayde vnto Saul: *þ

*1.Reg.ix.c. Lord sent me to anoynt þ, to be kynge ouer his people Israel. Nowe therfore herken thou vnto the voyce of the wordes of the Lorde. Thus sayth the Lorde of hoostes: I

And Saul gathered the people together,

*1.Reg.xi.c & * nombred them in Telaim, two hundred thousande foote men, and ten thousande mē of Juda. And Saul came vnto a cytie of A-

25 maleck, & set watche in þ valeye. And Saul sayde vnto the kenites: go, & departe, & gett you downe from amonge the Amalekites, lest I destroye you with them: for ye shewed mercy to all the children of Israell, whē they came out of Egypt. And so the kenites departed from amonge the Amalekites.

And Saul smote the Amalekites from Hevila, as thou commest to Sur, that lyeth before Egypt, and toke Agag þ kinge of the Amalekites alyue, & vtterlye destroyed all the people with þ edge of the swerde. * But *Nu.xxiiij.

Saul and the people spared Agag, and the better shepe, & the fatter oxen, & the lambes, and all that was good, & wolde not destroye them. But all þ was foule & naught worth, that they destroyed vtterlye. Then came the C worde of þ Lorde vnto Samuel, sayinge: it *repenteth me, þ I haue made Saul kynge. *Gen.vi.d. For he is turned from me, and hath not performed my cōmaundemētes. And Samuel was euell apayed, and cried vnto the Lorde all nyght. And whan Samuel rose erlye, to mete Saul in þ morninge, it was tolde Samuel, that Saul was come to Carmel, & beholde, he hath made him there a place, & D is turned, and departed, and gone downe to Gilgall.

And Samuel came to Saul, & (Saul offered burnt sacrifyces vnto the Lorde of the fyrst of þ spoyles, whych he had brought frō Amalec. And whan Samuel was come vnto Saul,) Saul sayde vnto him: Blessed be thou in the Lorde. I haue fulfylled the cō-maundemēt of þ Lord. Samuel sayde: what meaneth then the bleatyng of the shepe in myne eares, and the noyse of the oxen which I heare? Saul answered: they haue brought them from the Amalekites. For the people spared the best of the shepe and of the oxen, to sacrifyce them vnto the Lorde thy God. And þ remnaunt haue we destroyed vtterly.

Samuel sayde to Saul: lett me tell the what the Lorde hath sayde to me this nyght. And he sayde vnto hym: saye on. Samuel sayde * when þ wast lytle in thyne awne syght, wast þ not made the heed of the trybes of Israel? And the Lorde anoynted the kyng ouer Israel. And the Lorde sent the on a iourneye, & sayde: Go, & vtterlye destroye those synners the Amalekites, and fyght agaynst them, vntill thou vtterlye destroye them. And wherfore hast thou not herkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde, but hast turned E to þ praye, and hast done þ whych is wycked in the syght of the Lorde?

And Saul sayde vnto Samuel: yee, I haue harkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde, & haue gone the waye which þ Lorde sent me vnto, and haue brought Agag the kyng of Amaleck, and haue vtterlye destroyed the Amalekites. But þ people toke of þ spoyle shepe, oxen, and the chefest of the thynges whych shulde haue bene destroyed, to offer vnto þ Lorde thy God in Gilgall. And Samuel muel sayde: hath the Lorde as great pleasure in burnt sacrifyces & offeringes, as whan the voyce of ꝑ Lord is obeyed? Behold, to obeye is better then sacrifyce, & to herken, is better then the fatt of rammes. For rebellyon is as a.Ecc.xvii.c. Deut.xviii.b the synne of * witchcraffte, and stoburnesse is as the wickednesse of Idolatrie. Because thou hast cast awaye ꝑ worde of the Lorde, therfore hath the Lorde cast awaye the also, from beynge kynge.

And Saul sayde vnto Samuel: I haue synned, for I haue gone farther then the sayinge of the Lorde and thy wordes, because I feared ꝑ people, & obeyed their voyce. Nowe therfore take awaye my synne, and turne agayne with me, ꝑ I maye worshypp the Lord And Samuel sayde vnto Saul: I wyll not returne with the: for thou hast cast awaye ꝑ worde of the Lorde, and the Lorde hath cast awaye the, that thou shalt not be kynge ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned hym selfe to go awaye, he caught the lappe of hys coate, & it rent. And Samuel sayde vnto hym: the Lorde hath rent the kyngdome of Israel frō the this daye, & hath geuē it to a neyghboure ☞ of thyne, that is better then thou. ☞ The strength of Israel wyll not begyle nor repēt: for he is not a man, that can repent.

He sayde: I haue synned. But nowe honoure me before the elders of my people, and before Israel, & turne agayne with me, that I maye worshippe ꝑ Lorde thy God. And so G Samuel turned agayne, and folowed Saul. And Saul worshipped ꝑ Lorde. Then sayde Samuel: Brynge ye hither to me, Agag the kynge of the Amalechites. And Agag came ☞ vnto hym ☞ delycately. And Agag sayde: truly the bytter deeth cometh on. And Samuel sayde: As thy swerde hath made wemē childeleslle, so shall thy mother be childeslesse aboue other wemen. And Samuel hewed Agag in peces before the Lorde in Gilgal. d.Reg.vb.d And then * Samuel departed to Rama. And Saul went home to his house to Gibea Saul. And Samuel came nomore to se Saul vntill the daye of his deeth. Neuertheless Samuel mourned for Saul, & the Lord ☞ repented, that he had made Saul kynge ouer Israel.

¶ The.xvj.Chapter.

¶ Dauid is annoynted kyng. An euell spyrete cometh vpon Saul.

THe Lorde sayde vnto Samuel: howe longe wylt thou mourne for Saul, seynge I haue cast hym awaye from raygnynge ouer Israel? Fyll thyne horne with oyntmēt, and come, that I maye sende the to Jsai the Bethlehemite, for I haue prouided me a kynge amonge hys sonnes. And Samuel sayd: howe can I goo? For ꝑ Saul heare it, he will kyll me. The Lorde answered: Take an heifer wt the, and saye: I am come to offer to the Lorde. And call Jsai to the offerynge, and I wyll shewe the, what ꝑ shalt do: And thou shalt anoynt hym whom I name vnto the. And so Samuel dyd as the Lorde bad him, and came to Bethlehem, and the elders of the towne were astonnied at his cōmyng, and sayde: * Commest thou peaceably? He *1.Reg.vj.d answered: Yee, I am come to offer vnto the B Lorde. ☞ * Sanctifye youre selues, & come ☜ with me to the offerynge. And he sanctifyed * Num.xi.b. Josua.iij.b. and.by.c. Jsai & his sonnes, & bad thē to the offerynge. And whē they were come, he loked on Eliab, & sayde: ☞ Surely the Lordes anoynted is ☜ before hym. But the Lorde sayde vnto Samuel: loke not on his fashyon, or on ꝑ heyght of hys stature, because I haue refused hym: for God seyth not as man seyth. For man loketh on the outwarde apperaūce but God beholdeth the harte. Then Jsai called Abinadab, and made him come before Samuel. And he sayde: nether hath the Lorde chosen thys. Then Jsai made Samma come, and he sayde: nether yet hath the Lorde chosen him. Agayne, Jsai made seuē of his sōnes to come before Samuel. And Samuel sayde vnto Jsai: the Lorde hath chosen none of these.

And Samuel sayde vnto Jsai: are here C all thy chyldren? He sayde: there is yet a lytle one behynde, that kepeth the shepe. And Samuel sayd vnto Jsai: sende and fetche him, for we will not sytte downe, tyll he be come hyther. And he sent, & brought hym in. And he was browne, and of an excellēt bewtye, *& * Ge.xxxix.b wellfauored in syght. And the Lorde sayde: Aryse, and anoynt him, for this is he. Therfore Samuel toke the horne wyth the oyntment, & anoynted him in the myddes of hys brethren. And the spyrete of the Lorde came vpō Dauid, from that daye forwarde. And Samuel rose vp, and went to Rama.

But the spyrete of the Lorde departed frō Saul, and an euell spyrete sent of the Lorde vexed him. And Sauls seruaūtes sayde vnto him: Beholde, an euell spyrete sent of God vexed the, lett oure Lord therfore cōmaunde his seruauntes (that are before the) to seke a man, ꝑ is a connynge player wyth an harpe: that when the euell spyrete sent of God commeth vpon the, he maye playe with hys hāde and thou shalt be eased. Saul sayde vnto his seruauntes: prouide me a man then that can playe well, and bringe him to me. Then an- D swered one of his seruauntes and sayde: Behold, I haue sene a sonne of Jsai the Bethlehemite, that can playe vpon instrumētes, and is an actiue felowe, and a man of warre and prudēt in doynge of feates, & well made and the Lorde is with hym. Wherfore Saul sent messengers vnto Jsai, and sayde: sende me Dauid thy sonne, which is wyth ꝑ shepe. And Jsai toke an asse laden with breed, and a flacket a flacket of wyne, and a kyd, and sent them by Dauid his sonne vnto Saul. And Dauid came to Saul, & stode before him, & he loued him very well, and he was made his harnesbearer. And Saul sent to Jsai, sayinge: lett Dauid remayne with me, for he hath founde fauour in my syght. And so it fortuned, that when the euell spyrite sent of God came vpon Saul, Dauid toke an harpe, & played wyth his hande, & so Saul was refreshed, & dyd amende, and the euell spyrite departed frō him.

¶ Dauid ouercommeth great Goliath.

THe Philistines gathered their hoste to battel, and came together to Socoth which is in Juda, and pitched betwene Socoth & Azekah, in ꝑ coast of Dammin. And Saul and the mē of Jsrael came together, and pitched in the Oke valley, and put them selues in araye, to fyght agaynst the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde, and Jsrael stode on an hyll on the other syde; and there was a valeye betwene them: And there came a man betwene them both, out of the tentes of the Philistines, named Goliath * of Gath syxe cubytes and an handbredth lōge, and had an helmet of brasse vpon hys heed, and a coate of mayle about hym. And the weyght of hys coate of mayle was fyue thousande syckles of brasse. And he had bootes of brasse vpon his legges, and a thylde of brasse vpon his shoulders. And the shafte of his spere was like a weuers beame. And his speare heed weyed. vj. hundred sickles of yron. And one bearynge a thylde went before hym.

* Iosu. xi. b

And he stode and cryed agaynst the hoste of Jsrael, & sayde vnto thē: Why are ye come out in araye to battell? am not I a Philistine and you seruauntes to Saul? chose you a mā from amonge you, & lett him come downe to me. And yf he be able to fyght with me, & to beate me, then will we be youre seruauntes. But yf I can ouercome him and beate him, then shall ye be oure seruauntes, & serue vs. And the Philistine sayde: I defye the host of Jsrael this daye, geue me a man, ꝑ we maye fight together. When Saul and all Jsrael heard those wordes of the Philistine, they were discouraged, & greatly afrayed. Dauid was the sonne of an Ephrathite (of whō mention is made afore) of Bethlehem Juda, named Jsai, whych had eight sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul, and came to age amonge men. And the thre eldest sonnes of Jsai went, and followed Saul to the battell. And the names of hys thre sonnes that went to battell, were: Eliab the eldest, & the next, Abinadab, and the thyrde Sāma, and Dauid was ꝑ least. And the thre eldest went after Saul. Dauid also went and departed frō Saul, to fede his fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philistine came forth in the mornynge and euenynge, and ꝯ continued fourtye dayes.

And Jsai sayde vnto Dauid his sonne take for thy brethrē an Epha of this parched corne and these ten loaues, and bryngе it vnto the hoste to thy brethrē. And carye these ten fresshe cheses vnto ꝑ captayne, & loke howe thy brethren fare, and ꝯ fett out their pledge. And Saul and they, and all the mē of Jsrael were in the oke valey, fightinge with ꝑ Philistines. And Dauid rose vp erlye in the mornynge, and lefte ꝑ shepe with a keper, & toke and went as Jsai had commaūded him, and came with in ꝑ compasse of the host. And the hoste went out in araye, and showted in the battell: for Jsrael & the Philistines had put thē selues in araye, the one agaynst ꝑ other. And Dauid toke downe the gear from him, and put them vnder the handes of the keper of the vessels, & ranne into ꝑ hoste, and came, and saluted his brethren. And as he talked wt them, Beholde: there stode a mā in the myddes (Goliath ꝑ Philistine by name) of Gath out of the araye of the Philistines, & spake of the maner afore rehersed, that Dauid hearde it. And all the men of Jsrael, when they sawe the man, ranne awaye from hym, and were sore afrayed. And euery man of Jsrael sayde: Sawe ye thys man come forth? euen to reuyle Jsrael is he come. * And to hym ꝑ beateth hym, will the kynge geue great ryches, and will geue him his daughter therto: yee & make his fathers house free in Jsrael.

* Iosu. xi.

And Dauid spake to the men that stode by, and sayde: What shalbe done to the man that beateth this Philistine, & taketh awaye the shame frō Jsrael? And what is thys vncircumcised Philistine, that he shulde reuyle the hoste of the lyuinge God? And the people answered him (after this maner,) sayinge: so shall it be done to the mā, that beateth hym. And Eliab his eldest brother hearde whē he spake vnto the men, and Eliab was angrye wt Dauid, and sayde: Why camest ꝑ downe hither? and with whom hast thou lefte those few shepe in ꝑ wildernesse? I know thy pryde, and the malyce of thyne herte, ꝑ thou art come downe to se ꝑ battell. And Dauid sayd:

And

And what haue I nowe done? is there not a wozde? And he departed from hym into the presence of another, and spake of ꝑ same maner, and the people answered hym agayne, as before.

And they that heard the wordes whych Dauid spake, rehearsed them before Saul, which caused him to be fett. And Dauid sayd to Saul: Let no mannes hert fayle hym because of him. Thy seruaunt wyll go, & fyght with yonder Philistine. And Saul sayde to Dauid agayne: ꝑ art not able to go agaynst yonder Philistine, to fyght wt̄ him. For thou art but a chylde, but he is a mā of warre euē frō his youth. Dauid answered vnto Saul. Thy seruaunt kept his fathers shepe, & there
1.sam.xvij.b xx.vj.f. came * a Lyon and lyke wise a Beare, & toke a shepe out of the flocke. And I went out after him, and smote hym, and toke it out of his mouth. And when he arose agaynst me, I caught him by the beard, and smote hym, & slue hym. And so thy seruaunt slue the Lyon & ꝑ beare (also) hath thy seruaūt slayne. And truly thys vncircūcised Philistine shalbe as
E one of thē. (Now, wyll I go, & take awaye the rebuke of the people, for what is thys vncircumcysed Philistine?) seynge he hath rayled on the hoste of ꝑ lyuing God. And Dauid spake moreouer: the Lorde that deliuered me out of the hande of ꝑ Lyon & out of the hande of ꝑ beare, he shall deliuer me also out of the hande of this Philistine.

And Saul sayde vnto Dauid: Go, and the Lorde shall be with the. And Saul put hys rayment vpon Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpon hys heed, & put a coate of mayle vpō him, and gyrded Dauid with hys awne swerde vpon his rayment And he assayed to go. And because he neuer proued it, Dauid sayde vnto Saul: I cannot go with these, for I haue not vsed my selfe therto: and Dauid put them of hym, and toke hys staffe in hys hande, and chose him fyue smoth stones oute of a broke, and put the in a shepherdes bagge which he had, & in a slynge poke: & his slynge was in his hāde, & he went to the Philistine.

And the Philistine came and drue nere agaynst Dauid, and the man ꝑ bare the shilde went before hym. And when the Philistine
F loked about, and sawe Dauid, he disdayned him, for he was but yōge, and well coloured, and goodlye to loke vpon. And the Philistine said vnto Dauid: am I a dogge, that thou comest to me with a staffe? and the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of his goddes. And the Philistine sayde to Dauid: come to me, & I wyll geue thy flesche vnto the foules of the ayre, & to the beastes of the felde. Then sayde Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me wyth a swerde, a speare and a shylde: But I come to the in the name of the Lord of hostes, the God of the hoste of Israel, whom thou hast rayled vpon. This daye shall the Lorde delyuer the into my hande, and I shall smyte the, & take thine heed from the, and wyll geue ꝑ karcases of the hoste of the Philistines thys daye vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the erth, that all they whych be in the worlde, maye knowe, that there is a God in Israel. And all thys congregacyon shall knowe, that the Lord saueth not with swerd and speare. For ꝑ battell is the Lordes, and he shall geue you into oure handes.

And whē the Philistine arose to come and drawe nie vnto Dauid, Dauid hasted, & rāne into the battayll euen agaynst the Philistine. And Dauid put his hande in hys bagge, and toke out a stone, and slange it, & smote the Philistine in his forheed, ꝑ the stone sounck into his forheed * and he fell grouelynge *Ecc.xlvj.a to the erth. And so Dauid ouercame the Philistine with a slyng and a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slue hym, euen whan Dauid had no swerde in hys hande. But Dauid rāne, and stode vpon the Philistine, & toke hys G swerde, and drue it out of hys sheth, and slue hym, & cutte of hys heed therwith. And when the Philistines sawe, that theyr champyon was deed * they fled. And the men of Israel *Iud.xiij.f. and of Iuda arose, and showted, & folowed after the Philistines, vntyll they came to the valeye, and vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fell downe wounded by the waye to Saaraim, euen vnto Gath & Akaron. And the chyldren of Israel returned frō chasynge after the Philistines, and spoyled theyr tentes. And Dauid toke the heed of the Philistine, and brought it to Ierusalē: But he put his armoure in hys tente.

When Saul sawe Dauid go forth agaynst the Philistine, he sayde vnto * Abner ꝑ cap- * j.Regum. tayne of his hoste: Abner, whose sonne is this xiiij.g. yong man? Abner answered: as truly as thy soule lyueth (O kynge) I cānot tell. And the kynge sayde: Enquere thou, whose sonne the youngelynge is. And when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke hym, and brought hym before Saul, wyth the heed of the Philistine in hys hande. And Saul sayde to hym: whose sonne art thou, thou ponge man? Dauid answered: I am the sonne of thy seruaunt Isai the Bethlehemite.

¶ The. xviij. Chapter.

¶ The bonde betwene Dauid and Jonathas. Saul goeth about to slee Dauid.

AND when he had made an ende A of speakynge vnto Saul, the soule of Jonathas was knyt wyth the soule of Dauid, and Jonathas loued hym as hys awne soule. And Saul toke him that daye, and wolde let him go nomore home to hys fathers house. And Jonathas made a couenaunt wyth Dauid, because he

loued him as his awne soule. And Jonathas put of his awne coate that was vpon him, & gaue it Dauid, & therto his cloke, his swerd, his bowe and hys gyrdle. And Dauid went oute whether soeuer Saul sent hym, and behaued him selfe wysely. And Saul sett hym ouer hys men of warre, and he was accepted in the syght of all the people, and in the syght of Sauls seruauntes.

B And it happened as they went, when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, ꝑ wemen came out of all cyties of Jsrael syngynge & daunsyng, agaynst kynge Saul, and with tymbrelles, with ioye, and with instrumentes of musick. And the wemē answered one another in theyr playe, & sayde * Saul hath slayne his thousande, and Dauid hys ten thousande. And Saul was exceadyng wroth, and the sayinge displeased him, and he sayde: they haue ascribed vnto Dauid ten thousande, and to me but a thousande, & what can he more haue, saue the kyngdome? Wherfore Saul loked on syde of Dauid from that daye forwarde. And it happened on the C morowe, that the euell spyrete sent of God came vpō Saul, and ☞ he prophesyed in the mydde of ꝑ house. And Dauid played with hys hande lyke as at other tymes, and there was a tauelyng in Sauls hande. And Saul toke the tauelyng, & sayde: I wyll naple Dauid to the wall with it. And Dauid auoyded oute of hys presence two tymes. And Saul was afeard of Dauid, because ꝑ Lord was with hym, & was departed frō Saul. Therfore Saul put him from hym, and made him ☞ a captayne ouer a thousand, and ☞ he went out & in before ꝑ people. And Dauid behaued him selfe wysely in all his wayes, & the Lord D was with him. Wherfore when Saul saw ꝑ he was so excedynge wyse, he was afrayd of him. But all Jsrael and Juda loued Dauid, because he went out and in before them. And Saul sayde to Dauid. Beholde, my eldest daughter Merob, her I wyll geue ꝑ to wyfe. Only playe the man with me, and fyght the Lordes batelles. For Saul thought: myne hande shall not be vpon hym, but the hand of ꝑ Philistines. And Dauid answered Saul: what am I? and what is my lyfe or the kynred of my father in Jsrael, that I shulde be sonne in lawe to the kynge? howbeit when E the tyme was come ꝑ Merob Sauls daughter shulde haue bene geuē to Dauid, she was gruen vnto Adriel a Meholathite, to wyfe. howbeit, Michol Sauls daughter loued Dauid. And they shewed Saul: & the thynge displeased him not. And Saul sayde: I wyll geue hym her ꝑ she maye be a snare to hym, & that the hande of the Philistines maye be agaynst him. Wherfore Saul sayde to Dauid: thou shalt this daye be my sonne in lawe in the other daughter. And Saul commanded hys seruauntes, to comē wyth Dauid secretlye & to saye: Beholde the kyng hath a fauoure to the, and all his seruauntes loue the, be nowe therfore the kynges sonne in lawe.

And Sauls seruauntes spake those wordes in the eares of Dauid. And Dauid sayde: F semeth it to you a lyght thynge to be a kynges sonne in lawe: I am a poore man and of smalle reputaciō. And the seruaūtes brought Saul worde agayne, sayinge: of this maner spake Dauid. And Saul sayd: this wise shal ye saye to Dauid: the kynge carreth for no nother dowrye, but for an hundred foreskynnes of the Philistines, to be auenged of the kynges enemyes. But Saul thought to make Dauid fall into the hādes of the Philistines. And when hys seruaūtes tolde Dauid these wordes, it pleased Dauid well to be the kynges sonne in lawe. And ☞ or ꝑ dayes were ☞ G erpyred, Dauid arose with his men, and wēt & slue of the Philistines, two hundred men, and Dauid brought theyr foreskynnes, and satisfyed the kynge therof, to be hys sonne in lawe. * Wherfore Saul gaue hym Michol * ij. Regum. iij. c. hys daughter to wyfe. And Saul sawe and vnderstode, howe that the Lorde was with Dauid, and that Michol his daughter loued hym, and he was the moare afrayed of Dauid, and Saul became alwaye Dauids enemie. The lordes of ꝑ Philistines vsed ☞ to ☞ go furth. And it forturned ꝑ whan they went furth, Dauid behaued hym selfe wyselier thē all the seruauntes of Saul: so that his name was moche set by.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Saul commaundeth to slee Dauid. Michol hys wyfe sauyth hym.

SAul spake to Jonathas hys sonne, A and to all hys seruaūtes, that they shulde kyll Dauid. * But Jonathas Sauls sonne had a greate fauoure to Dauid, and Jonathas tolde Dauid sayinge: Saul my father goeth aboute to slaye the. Nowe therfore take hede to thy selfe vntyll the morynynge, and abyde in some secret place, and hyde thy selfe. And I wyll go oute, and stande by my father in the felde where thou art, and wyll comen wyth my father of the, and whatsoeuer I se, I wyll tell the.

And Jonathas spake good of Dauid vnto Saul hys father, and sayde vnto hym: let not the kynge synne agaynst hys seruaunt Dauid, for he hath not synned agaynst the, and hys workes haue bene to the ward very good. For he dyd * ☞ put hys lyfe in hys D hande, and slue the Philistine, and the Lorde brought to passe a greate health for all Jsrael. Thou sawest it, and thou reioysedest, wherfore then wilt thou synne against innocēt bloude, and slaye Dauid without a cause? And Saul harkened vnto the voyce of B Jonathas, Jonathas, and swore: as truly as the Lorde lyueth, he shall not dye. And Jonathas called Dauid, and shewed hym all those wordes, & brought Dauid to Saul. And he was in his presens as in tymes past.

And the warre began agayne, and Dauid went out and fought wyth the Philistines, and slue them with a great slaughter, & they fledde frō him. And the euell spyrete sent of the Lorde was vpō Saul, as he sat in hys house hauinge a Jauelinge in his hāde, and Dauid played with his hande. And Saul entended to nayle Dauid to the walle with the Jauelynge. But he ryd hym selfe out of Sauls presens, as he smote the speare (with a dagne stroke) into ꝑ walle. And Dauid fledde & was saued the same nyght. Saul also sent messengers vnto Dauids house, to watch him, and to slaye him in ꝑ mornynge. And Michol Dauids wyfe tolde it him, sayinge: If thou saue not thy selfe this night, to morowe ꝑ wilt be slayne. And so * Michol lett Dauid downe thorowe a wyndowe, and he wēt, & fled, and was saued. And then she toke an Jmage and layed it in the bed, and put a pyllowe stuffed with goates heare vnder the heed of it, and couered it with a clothe. And whē Saul sent messengers to fetche Dauid, she sayde, he is sycke. And Saul sent the messengers agayne to se Dauid, sayinge: bringe him to me, bed & all, ꝑ I maye slaye him. And when ꝑ messengers were come in: Beholde, there laye an ymage in the bed, with a pyllowe of goates heare vnder the heed of it. And Saul sayde vnto Michol: why hast thou mocked me so, and sent awaye myne enemy that he is escaped? Michol answered Saul. For he sayde vnto me, let me go, or elles I wyll kyll the. And so Dauid fledde, and escaped, & came to Samuel to Rama, tolde hym all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went, & dwelt in ☞ Naioth.

D And one tolde Saul, sayinge: Beholde, Dauid is at Naioth in Rama. And Saul sent messengers to fett Dauid. And when ☞ they sawe a companye ☞ of prophetes prophesyenge, & Samuel stādynge fast by thē, the spyrete of God fell vpō the messengers of Saul, and they prophesyed to. And when it was tolde Saul, he sent other messengers, & they prophesyed lyke wyse. And Saul sent messengers yet agayne the thyrde tyme, and they prophesyed also. Then wēt he hym selfe to Rama, & came to a great well that is in Sechu, & he asked and sayde: where are Samuel and Dauid? And one sayde: Beholde, they be at Naioth in Rama, & he went thyther, euē to Naioth in Rama, and the spyrete of God came vpon him also, & he went prophesyinge, vntyll he came to Naioth in Rama. And he ☞ stripte of his clothes, & prophesyed before Samuel in lyke maner, and ☞ fell naked all that daye & all that nyght. ☜

* And therof it is, that they saye: is Saul also amonge the prophetes? *1.Re.19.c.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

¶ Dauid complayneth vnto Jonathas.

ND Dauid fled from Naioth which is in Rama, came, & sayde before Jonathas. What haue I done? wherin am I faultie? what is the synne that I haue committed before thy father, that he seketh my lyfe? he sayde vnto him: God forbyd, ꝑ thou shalt not dye. Beholde, my father will do nothynge ether great or small, but that he will shewe it me. And howe shulde my father hyde thys thynge from me? he wyll not do it. And Dauid swore againe, and sayde, thy father knoweth that I haue founde ☞ grace ☜ in thyne eyes, and therfore he sayeth: Jonathas shall not knowe it, leste he be sorye. And in very dede, euen as truly as the Lorde lyueth, and as truly as thy soule lyueth, there is but a steppe betwene me and deeth. Then sayde Jonathas vnto Dauid: whatsoeuer thy soule desyreth that I wyll do vnto the. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas: Beholde to morowe is the begynnynge ☞ of the moneth, and I shulde sytt wt the kynge at meate. But let me go, that I maye hyde my selfe in the feldes vnto the thyrde daye at euen. If thy father speake of me, then saye, Dauid asked leaue of me, that he myght go to Bethlehem to his awne cytie, for there is holden a yerely feast for all ꝑ kynred. And yf he saye: it is well done, then thy seruaunt shall haue peace. But and yf he be angrye, then be sure that wyckednesse is vtterlye concluded of hym. And then thou shalt shewe mercye vnto thy seruaunt * for thou hast made wyth me thy seruaunt a bonde in the Lorde. Notwithstandynge, yf there be in me any trespace, then sleye me thy selfe, and bringe me not to thy father. *1.Re.xvij.d. and.xxij.c.

And Jonathas answered, God kepe that from ꝑ (neyther is it possyble to come to passe.) For yf I knowe, that wyckednesse were concluded of my father, to come vpon the, thynkest thou that I shulde not tell it the? Then sayde Dauid, who shall tell me, yf thy father answere cruelly? And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid, come and lett vs go out into ꝑ felde. And they went out both of them into the felde.

And Jonathas sayde vnto Dauid: ¶ The Lorde God of Jsrael loke on it, when I haue groped my fathers mynde, one tyme or other within this three dayes, yf it stande well with Dauid. If I then sende not vnto the & shewe it the, the Lord do so and so vnto Jonathas. But yf my father haue any pleasure to do ꝑ euell, I wyll shewe the also, and sende the awaye that thou mayst go in peace. And the Lorde be wyth the, as he hath bene with my father.

father. And thou shalt perfourme vnto me the mercy of the Lorde, not onely whyle I lyue but euen whē I am deed, and plucke not thy mercy awaye from my house for euer:
No not when the Lorde hath destroyed the enemyes of Dauid, euery one from the face of the erth.

And so Jonathas made a bonde with the house of Dauid, desyringe ꝑ the Lord shulde seke it out by the hādes of Dauids enemyes (yf it were broke.) And vō other wordes dyd Jonathas sweare vnto Dauid, because he loued him. For he loued hi, as his awne soule.

D Then sayde Jonathas to Dauid: to-morowe is the firste daye of the mone, And thou shalt be missed, because the place where thou wast wont to sytt, shall be emptye. Therfore this daye thre dayes come downe I anye wyse vnto the place where thou dyddest hyde thy selfe, and whan the busynes was in hande:
euen by ꝑ stone Esell. And I wyll shote thre arowes by the one syde therof, as though I shott the at a marke, & will sende a lad, and byd hym go seke the arowes. And yf I saye vnto the lad: se, the arowes are on thys syde
the, bringe them: then come ꝑ: for it is peace, & no hurte, as sure as the Lorde lyueth. But and yf I saye vnto the lad, beholde, the arowes are be yonde the, then go (in peace) for ꝑ Lord hath sent ꝑ awaye. And as touchynge this which thou and I haue spoken: beholde
the Lorde be betwene the & me for euer.
And so Dauid hyd him selfe in the felde. And when the newe mone was come, the kynge
E sat him downe to eate meate. And the kynge sat him downe after the olde maner, in hys seate by the wall. And Jonathas arose and Abner sate by Sauls syde, & Dauids place was emptye. Neuertheles, Saul sayde no-thinge at all that daye. For he thought: some thynge hath chaunced him ꝑ he is not cleane.
But on the morowe which was the seconde daye of ꝑ newe mone, it happened that Da-uids place was emptye agayne. And Saul sayde vnto Jonathas his sone. Wherfore cōmeth not ꝑ sonne of Jsai to meate, nether yesterdaye nor to daye? And Jonathas answered vnto Saul. Dauid asked lycence of me, to go to Bethleē, for he sayde: let me go I praye
the for oure kynred bothe holde an offeringe in the cytie, and my brother hath sent for me.
And therfore yf I haue foūde fauoure in thy-ne eyes, lett me go, and se my brethren. This F is the cause, that he cōmeth not vnto the kynges table. Then was Saul angrye with Jo nathas, & sayde vnto him: Thou wycked rebell, do not I knowe, ꝑ thou hast chosen the sonne of Jsai vnto thyne awne rebuke, & vnto the rebuke & shame of thy mother? For as longe as the sonne of Jsai lyueth vpon the erth, thou shalt not be stablished, nor yet thy kingdome, wherfore now sende and fett him vnto me, * for he is the chylde of deeth. *1. Reg. 20.
6. Reg. 14.

And Jonathas answered vnto Saul his father, and sayde to him. Wherfore shulde he dye: what hath he done? And Saul lyfte vp a speare to hyt him, wherby Jonathas wyst well, ꝑ it was vtterlye determined of his father, to slaye Dauid. And so Jonathas arose frō the table in a greate anger, & dyd eate no meate the seconde daye of ꝑ moneth, for he was sory for Dauid, because hys father had done him shame. On ꝑ nexte morning, Jonathas wēt out into the felde, at the tyme apoynted with Dauid, & a lytle ladd with him. And he sayde vnto his boye: runne & seke out myne arowes whych I shote. And as the boye ran he shot an arowe beyonde him. And when ꝑ lad was come to ꝑ place whether Jonathas G had shot the arowe, Jonathas cryed after ꝑ lad, and sayde: Is not the arowe beyonde
the? And Jonathas cried after ꝑ lad agayne:
make spede, and stande not styll. And Jona-thas lad gathered vp the arowes, & came to his master. But the lad wist nothinge of the matter. Onely Jonathas and Dauid wist it.
And Jonathas gaue his weapōs vnto ꝑ lad that was with him, & sayde vnto him: go & carye them to the towne. And as sone as the lad was gone, Dauid arose out of a place ꝑ was toward the south, and fell on hys face to the grounde, and worshipped thre tymes.
And they kissed ether other, & wept together so lōge, tyll Dauid exceaded in weping. And Jonathas sayde to Dauid: go in peace. And ꝑ thynges which we haue sworne both of vs in the name of the Lorde, sayinge: ꝑ Lorde be betwene ꝑ & me, & betwene thy sede & myne, let thē stonde for euer. And he arose, & departed. And Jonathas went into the towne.

¶ The. xxj. Chapter.

¶ Dauid fleeth into Nob to Ahimelech the preast, and getteth of hym the shewe breade to satisfye his hunger. After warde he fleeth to kynge Achis, and there fayneth hym selfe to be mad.

A Then came Dauid to Nob to Ahimelech the preast: And Ahimelech was astonyed at the sodayne cōmynge of Dauid, & sayd vnto him:
Why art thou alone, & no man wt ꝑ? And Dauid sayde to Ahimelech ꝑ preaste:
the kynge hath commaunded me to do a certeyn thynge, and hath sayde vnto me, let no man knowe where aboute I sende the, and what I haue commaunded the to do. And I haue appoynted my seruaūtes, to soche and soche places. Nowe therfore yf ꝑ hast ought breade, or what cometh to hande.

And the preast answered Dauid, and sayde: there is no comen bread vnder myne hā-de, but here is halowed bread, yf the youngs men haue kepte them selues from vncleā-ne thynges especiallye wemen. Dauid answered the preaste, and sayde vnto hym: B of a truth wemen hath bene locked vp from vs about a thre dayes. when I came out, & the vesselles of the young men were holy. How be it this waye is vnpure, and how much more shal there be holynes in the vessell. * And so the preast gaue hi halowed bred, for there was no nother bred there, saue the shewebreds, that were take from before the Lorde, to put fresshe bred there, the daye that it was taken awaye.

And ther was there the same daye a certe man of the seruauntes of Saul abydyng before the Lorde, named Doeg an Edomite, the chefest of Sauls hearde men.

And Dauid sayd vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thyne hãde other speare or swerde? for I haue nether brought my swerde nor my harnesse with me, because the kynge busines required haste. And the preast sayd: the swerde of Goliath the Philistine whome thou slouest in ỹ Oche valley, beholde, it is here wrapt in a cloth behynd the Ephod. If thou wilt take that, take it, for there is no nother saue that here. And Dauid sayd: there is none to that, gene it me.

And Dauid arose and fled the same daye from the presence of Saul, & wẽt to Achis the kyng of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis sayd of him: is not this Dauid the kyng of the lande? dyd they not syng vnto him, in daunses saying * Saul hath slayne his thousand, & Dauid his ten thousãd? And Dauid put those wordes into his hearte, & was sore afrayed of Achis the kyng of Geth. And he chaunged his speche before them, & fayned him selfe madd in their handes, & scrabled on the dores of the gate, and let his spittel fall downe vpon his beard. Then sayde Achis vnto his seruaũte: Loo, ye se ỹ this man is beside hym selfe, wherfore then haue ye brought hym to me? Haue I nede of madd mẽ that ye haue brought this felow to playe the mad mã in my presence? Shall he come into my howse?

The. xxii. Chapter.

Doeg betrayeth Dauid. Ahimelech is accused of treason and slayne. & lxxxv. preastes mo with him because they receaued Dauid. Nob is destroyed of Saul, Abiathar fleeth to Dauid.

Dauid therfore departed thence, and escaped, and came vnto the caue Odollam. When his brethren also ãd all his fathers house heard it, they went downe thither to hym. And there gathered vnto him all men that were in combraunce, and in dett, and troubled in their mindes, & he became a captayne ouer them And there were with hym vpon a foure hundred men. And Dauid went thence to Mizpa in the lande of Moab, and sayde vnto the kyng of Moab: Let my father & my mother (I praye the) come forth vnto you, tyll I knowe what God will do for me. And he brought them before the kig of Moab. And they dwelt wt hi all the while that Dauid kepte him selfe i hold. And the prophet Gad sayde vnto Dauid: abide not in holde, but departe and go into the lãd of Juda. Then Dauid departed and came into the forest Hareth. And Saul heard ỹ Dauid was come abrode, and also the mẽ that were wyth hym. And Saul satt in Gibea vnder a tree in Rama, hauyng hys speare in his hand, & all his men stode about hym And Saul sayde vnto his seruauntes that stode about hi. Heare I praye you ye sonnes of Jemini: will the sone of Jsai gene euery one of you feldes and vineardes, & make you all captaynes ouer thoulãdes & ouer hundredes? that ye haue also cõspired agaynst me, and there is none that telleth it me in myne eare. * And where as my sonne hath made a bonde wt the sonne of Jsai, ther is none of you that mourneth for me, or sheweth it in myne eare: beholde, my sõne hath stered vp my seruaũt to lye awayte agaynst me thys same daye.

Then answered Doeg the Edomite which also stode by the seruauntes of Saul, and sayde: Jsaw the sonne of Jsai, whẽ he cam to Nob, to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob, which asked councell of the Lorde for hym & gaue hym vitayles, & the swerde of Goliath the Philistine also. Then the kynge sent & called for Ahimelech ỹ preast ỹ sonne of Ahitob, & all his fathers house: that is to saye, the preastes that were in Nob. And they cam all to the kyng. And Saul sayde: heare now ỹ sonne of Ahitob. He answered: here I am, my Lorde. And Saul sayde vnto hym: why haue ye conspired agaynst me, ỹ & the sonne of Jsai, in ỹ thou halt geuen him vitaile, & a swerde, and hast asked councell of God for hi, that he shuld aryse agaynst me, & lye awayte for me this daye? Ahimelech answered the king & sayd who is so faithfull amõg all thy seruaũtes as Dauid, & therto the kinges sõne in law, & goeth at thy bydding, & is had in honoure in thyne house? haue I this daye begõne first to aske cõcell of God for hi. That be farre frõ me: yf I had knowen it, lett not ỹ kyng put soch a thyng vnto his seruaũt, in all ỹ house of my father. For thy seruaunt knew nothig of all this, ether lesse or moare. The king sayde: thou shalt surely dye Ahimelech, thou and all thy fathers house And the king sayde vnto the fote men that stode about him: turne, & sley the preastes of the Lord, both because their hãd is with Dauid, & because they knewe when Dauid fled, & shewed it not to me. But ỹ seruaũtes of tes of the kyng wolde not moue their han-des,to fall vpon the preastes of the Lorde.

And the kyng sayde to Doeg: turne thou, and fall vpon the preastes. And Doeg the Edomite turned,and ranne vpon the prea-stes,and slue that same daye foure skore &
fyue persones,þ dyd weare a lynnē Ephod.
And Nob the cytie of the preastes smote
he wyth the edge of the swerde,both men & wemen,childzen and sucklynges, oxen and asses and shepe.

And one of the sonnes of Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob (named Abiathar) escaped & fled to Dauid. And Abiathar shewed Dauid,how that Saul had slayne the lor-des preastes. And Dauid sayde vnto Abia thar: I wist it the same daye, whan Doeg
the Edomite was there, that he wolde tell Saul. And I am cause of the deeth of all þ soules of thy fathers house. Abide thou w̄ me,and feare not: For yf anye mā seke my soule,he shall seke thyne also, w̄ me thou shalt be in sauegard.

¶The.xxiii.Chapter.

¶Dauid fleeth into the wilderney of ziph.

¶ Then they told Dauid sayīg: Behold
the Philistines fight agaynst keilah, and spoyle the barnes.

Therfore Dauid asked the Lorde adupse,saying:shall I goo and smyte these Phi:
listines? And the Lorde answered vnto Dauid:go and smyte the Philistines, and saue keilah. And Dauids men þ were with him,sayd vnto him:se, we be afrayed here in Juda: how much more then yf we come to keila agaynst the host of the Philistyn-nes? Then Dauid asked þ Lorde agayne.
And the Lord answered him and sayde: Aryse,& go downe to keila, for I will delyvuer the Philistines in to thyne hande.
And so Dauid and his men went to keila, and fought with the Philistynes,& droue awaye their cattell,and smote them with a great slaughter. And so Dauid saued the enhabiters of keila. And it chaunced,when ¶ Abiathar the sonne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to keila,that he brought an Ephod with him in his hande.

And it was tolde Saul,that Dauid was come to keila. And Saul sayde: God hath delyuered hi into myne hād. For he is shut in now þ he is come into a towne that hath gates & barres. And Saul called all þ people together to warre, for to go downe to keila,and to besege Dauid & his men. And Dauid hauig knowlege that Saul imagined myschef agaīst him,sayd,to Abiathar
þ preast: * Bryng the Ephod. Then sayde *1.sa.xxx.d Dauid: O Lord God of Israel,thi seruaūt hath heard,þ Saul is about to come agaīst keila to destroye þ cytie for my sake: Wyll
the men of keyla delyuer me into hys han-de? And will Saul come downe, as thy ser uaunt hath heard saye? O Lord God of Is rael,tell they seruaūt. And the Lorde sayde: he will come downe. Then sayd Dauid:
will the men of keila delyuer me and þ men that are with me into the hand of Saul? &
the Lord sayde: they will betraye you.

Then dauid & his men which were vpon
a syre hūdred,arose & departed out of keila & wēt whether they could. And it was told Saul,that Dauid was fled from keila, & he let the iourney a lone. Dauid abode i the wildernesse in strōg holdes, & remayned in a moūtayne in the wildernesse of ziph. And Saul sought hi euery daye,but God dely- ¶ uered him not into his hād. And Dauid saw þ Saul was come out,to seke his life. And Dauid was in the wyldernesse of ziph in a thickett. And Jonathas Sauls sōne arose, & went to Dauid in to the thicket, & cō-forted his hand in God,& sayde vnto hym:
feare not, for the hand of Saul my father shall not fynd the,& thou shalt be kīg ouer Israel,& I must be nexte vnto the. And that both Saul my father know. And they ma- *1.sa.xxiii.i the Lorde. And Dauid taryed styll in the thickett,and Jonathas went to his house.

Then came þ ziphites to Saul, to Gibea, saying: Doth not Dauid hyde hi selfe fast by vs in strōg holdes,in a thyckett that is by þ hyll of Hachila,on the ryght syde of þ wildernesse? Now therfore kyng,þ mayest come downe according to all the lust of thy soule: come downe, & oure parte shalbe to delyuer hym into the kynges hande. And Saul sayde: Blessed are ye in the Lord: for ye haue cōpassion on me. Go I praye you,& ordre the matter well,know & se his haunte,where hys fote hath bene, and who hath sene him there: for it is tolde me, that he is very subtel,& worketh craftely. Se therfore,& know all þ lourkyng places, where he D hideth him selfe, and come ye agayne to me with the certentye,& I will go wyth you.
And yf he be in the lād, I will serche hi out thorow out all the thousandes of Juda.

And they arose, and went to ziph before Saul. But Dauid and his men were in the wildernesse of Maon,in the playne þ is,on the rigbt

the ryght hand of Jesimon. Saul also and his men wente to seke: and they tolde Dauid. Wherfore he went vnto a Roche, and abode in the wildernesse of Maō. And whē Saul heard that, he folowed after Dauid in the wildernesse of Maon. And Saul & his men went on the one syde of the mountayne, & Dauid & his men on the other syde. And Dauid toke thought, how to get frō Saul. For Saul & his mē cōpased Dauid & his men, rounde about, to take them.

But there cam a messēger to Saul, sayig Haist the, & come, for the Philistines are come into the lād. Wherfore, Saul returned from persecuting Dauid, & went agaynst the Philistines. And therfore is it, þ they called the place: The rock of separacion. And Dauid went thence, & dwelt in strong holdes at Engadi.

¶ The.xxiiii. Chapter.

¶ Dauid fleeth into Engadi and there hydeth hym in a caue. Saul commeth in thither to do hys easement.

1 When Saul was come agayne from folowig after the Philistines, it fortuned, that there were, which told hī saying: beholde, Dauid is in þ wildernesse of Engadi. Then Saul toke thre thousād chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seke Dauid and his mē in the heigth of the Rockes, where wilde gootes remayne.

2 And he cam to the flockes of shepe in the waye. And Saul went in to a caue ☞ to couer his fete. And Dauid and hys mē remayned in the inward partes of the caue. 3 And the men of Dauid sayd vnto him: se, þ daye is come, of which the Lorde sayde vnto the: Beholde: I will delyuer thyne enemyes into thyne hād, & þ shalt do to him as it shall seme good in thy syght. Then Dauid arose and cutt of a lappe of Sauls garment priuelye. 4 And immediatly ☞ Dauids hert smote hym because he had cutt of a lapp of Sauls garment. 5 And he sayde vnto his men: the Lorde kepe me frō doing that thig vnto my master þ Lords anoynted, to laye mine hande vpō hym, seyng he is the anoynted of the Lorde. 6 (For as truly as the Lord liueth, excepte the Lorde smyte him, or excepte his daye come, or yf he go not downe to warre and perisher the Lorde be mercifull vnto me, that I laye not my hād vpon the Lorder anoynted.) And so Dauid kept of hys seruauntes with these wordes, and suffred them not to ryse agaynst Saul.

But Saul rose vp out of the caue & went awaye, Dauid also arose and went out of of the caue, and cryed after Saul, saying: My Lorde kyng. And when Saul loked behynde hym. Dauid stowped to the erth, and bowed him self, & sayd to Saul: wherfore geuest thou an eare to mennes wordes that saye, Dauid seketh euell agaynst the? 7 Beholde, this daye thyne eyes haue sene how that the Lord had delyuered the thys daye into myne hand in the caue. And some bad me kyll the, but I had compassion on the, and sayde: I will not laye my handes on my master, for he is the Lordes anoynted. 8 And moreouer, my father, behold, & se yet the lapp of thy garment in my hand: in as moch as I kylled the not, when I cutt of þ lapp of thy garment. Understande therfore & se, þ there is nether euell nor wickednesse in me, and that I haue not synned agaynst the. And yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. 9 The Lord be iudge betwene the and me, and the Lord auenge me of the. But myne hand be not vpon the. 10 Accordyng as the olde prouerbe sayeth: wyckednesse proceadeth from the wycked: But myne hande be not vpon the. After whom is the kyng of Israel come out? After whō dost thou moue persecutiō? after ☞ a deed dogg, and after a flee. 11 The Lorde be iudge, and iudge betwene the and me, & se & pleate my cause, and auēge me of thyne hande. 12 When Dauid had made an ende of speakig these wordes to Saul, Saul sayde * is this thy voyce my sone Dauid? and Saul lyfte vp his voyce, and wepte, and sayde to Dauid: thou art ryghteouser then I, for thou hast rewarded me with good, where as I haue rewarded the wyth euell. 13 And thou hast shewed thys daye, how that thou hast dealt louyngly wyth me, for as moche as whē the Lorde had locked me in thyne hādes, þ kylledst me not. 14 For who shall finde his enemye, & lett him depart in to a good waye? Wherfore the Lord reward þ with good, for that thou hast done vnto me this daye. 15 And now beholde, I wote well that thou shalt be kyng, and that the kingdom of Israel shalbe stablysshed in thyne hāde. 16 Swere now therfore vnto me by the Lord that thou shalt not destroye my seade after me, & that thou shalt not put my name out of my fathers house. 17 And Dauid ☞ sware vnto Saul, and Saul wēt home. But Dauid and his men gatt thē vp vnto an hold.

¶ The.xxv. Chapter.

¶ Samuel dyeth. Dauid fleeth into the wyldernesse of Pharan.

1 And * Samuel dyed, and all the Israelites geathered togeather and lamented hym, and burped hym in his owne house at Rama.

A * 1.re.xxviii.a.

And Dauid arose, and gat hym to þ wildernesse of Pharan. And there was a man in Maon whose possession was in Carmel, and the man was exceadyng myghtie, and had thre thousād shepe & a thousād gootes. And he was sheryng his shepe in Carmell. 2 The name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wyfe was Abigail, and she was a woman of a singuler wisdome and bewtifull. But the man was churlysshe, ād of shrewde condicions, and was of the kynred of Caleb. And Dauid heard in the wilderneſſe, ꝓ Nabal dyd shere hys shepe. And 25 Dauid sent out ten young men, and sayde vnto them: get you vp to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and grete hym in my name. And thus shal ye saye: peace be to ꝓ, peace be to thyne house, & peace be vnto all that thou hast. Beholde, I haue heard saye, ꝓ ꝓ hast sherers. Now, thy sheperdes were with vs c.a (in the wilderneſſe,) and we dyd thē no spyte, b.a nether was there ought c.a (of the flocke) mysling vnto them, all the whyle they were in Carmel: aske thy laddes, & they will shew the. Wherfore let these young men fynde fauor in thine eyes (for we come in a good

* 1.reg.vii.a ceason) and* geue I praye the whatsoeuer commeth to thyne hande, vnto thy seruaūtes, and to thy sonne Dauid.

And whan Dauids poūgmen came, they tolde Nabal all those wordes in ꝓ name of Dauid, & thē helde theyr peace. And Nabal answered Dauids seruaūtes, & sayde: what is Dauid? & what is the sōne of Isai? there is plentye of seruauntes now a dayes, that breake awaye euery man from his master. Shal I thē take my breed, my water & my fleisshe, ꝓ I haue kylled for my sherers, & geue it vnto mē whō I wote not whēce they be? And so Dauids seruauntes turned their
C waye, and went agayne, and came and told him all those sayinges. And Dauid sayd vnto hys men: gyrde euery man hys swerde aboute him. And they gyrded euery mā his swerde aboute him, & Dauid was gyrded with his swerde. And there folowed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stuffe. But one of the laddes tolde Abigail Nabals wyfe, saying: Beholde, Dauid sent messegers vnto oure master out of the wilderneſſe to salute him & he rayled on thē. And yet the men are very good vnto vs, & dyd vs no displeasure, nether missed we any thing, as long as we were conuersant with thē, when we were in the feldes. They were a wall of defence vnto vs both by nyght & daye, all the whyle we were with thē keping shepe. Now therfore, take hede, and se what ꝓ hast to do, for there is an occasion of euell geuen agaynst oure master and all his houshold, seyng: he D is as a sonne of belial vngracious to speake to. Then Abigail made hast, & toke two hūdred loues, & two bottelles of wine, and fyue shepe readye dressed, and fyue measures of parched corne, and an hundred frayles of reasynges, and two hundred topmettes of fygges, and laded thē on asses, & sayde vnto her young mē: go ye before me. Beholde, I come after you. But she tolde her husbād Nabal nothing therof. And as she rode on her asse she came preuely downe ꝓ syde of the hyll, & beholde, Dauid and hys mē came downe agaynst her, & she met thē.

And Dauid sayde: in vayne haue I kept all that this felow hath in ꝓ wilderneſſe: so that nought was myssed of all ꝓ pertayned vnto hym. And he hath quite me euell for good. So and so do God vnto the enemyes of Dauid, yf I leaue of all that pertayne to him, by the dawnyng of the daye, any thig m that pisseth agaynst the walle.

And when Abigail saw Dauid, she hasted & lyghted of her asse, and fell before Dauid on her face, and bowed her self to ꝓ ground and fell at his fete, and sayde: Let this vnhappie deade be counted myne, my Lorde, & let thine handmayde speake in thine audience, and heare the wordes of thy handemayde. Let not my Lorde c.a (the kyng) regard n this vnthryftye mā Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: for Nabal is his name, & folie is wt hī. But I thine hādmayd saw not ꝓ young men of my Lorde whō ꝓ sendest.

Now therfore my Lorde, as sure as ꝓ lord lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, ꝓ Lorde hath withholden the frō cōming to shede bloud, & withdrawn ꝓ thine hand frō bloude sheade Now, I praye God, ꝓ thine enemyes & they ꝓ entende to do my Lorde euel, may be as Nabal. And now this is the m blessyng
o which thyne hād mayde hath brought vnto my Lord: & lett it be geuen vnto ꝓ poūg men, that folow my Lorde. Forgeue the treſpace of thine handmayde, for the Lord will make my Lorde a sure house, because my Lord fyghteth ꝓ batayles of ꝓ Lorde, and there coulde none euel be founde in the in all thy dayes. And yf any man ryse to persecute the, & to seke thy soule, ꝓ soule of my Lorde shall be bound as m in ꝓ bōdell p of ꝓ lyuing wt ꝓ Lord thy God. And ꝓ soules of thy enemyes shal God cast out, euen as out of the myddle of a slyng. And when ꝓ Lord shall haue done to my Lord all the good ꝓ he hath promised ꝓ, & shall haue made the ruler ouer Israel: then shall it be no decaye vnto the, ner discourage of herte vnto my Lorde, ꝓ thou hast not shedde bloud causelesse, ner auenged thy self,

But when the Lord shall haue dealt well with my Lorde, thē thynck on thyne handmayde. And Dauid sayd to Abigail: blessed q be the Lorde God of Israel, which sent the this daye to mete me. Blessed is thy sayēg, & blessed art thou, which hast kept me thys daye from coming to shede bloud, and from auengyng my self with myne awne hand. For in very deade, as sure as ꝓ Lord God of Israel lyueth, which hath kept me backe from hurtyng the, excepte thou haddest hasted and met me, thinkest ꝓ, there had bene left vnto Nabal by the dawnyng of the daye, a

daye, a piller agaynst the wall. And so Dauid receaued of her hād, that which she had brought him & sayd to her: go vp in peace to thyne house. Beholde, I haue herde thy voyce, and haue accepted thy persone.

And Abigail came to Nabal: and behold, he held a feast in his house, lyke the feest of a kyng, & Nabals herte was mery within hi, for he was very droncke. Wherfore she tolde him nothing, nether lytle nor moare, vntill ꝓ morow daye. But in ꝓ morynng, whē the wine was gone out of Naball, hys G wife tolde him these wordes, and his herte dyed within him, and he became as a stone & vpon a ten dayes after, the Lorde smote Nabal, ꝓ he dyed. And when Dauid heard that Nabal was deed, he sayde: Blessed be the Lorde that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hād of Nabal, and hath kept his seruaunt from euell, and hath recōpensed the wickednesse of Nabal vpō his awne heed. And Dauid sent to comen w Abigail: to thyntēt to take her to his wife. And when the seruauntes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake vnto her saying: Dauid sent vs vnto the, to take ꝓ to his wife. And she arose, & bowed her self on her face to the erth, and sayde: Beholde: let thy handmayde be a seruaunt, to washe the fete of the seruauntes of my Lord. And Abigail hasted, and arose, and gat her vp vpon an Asse, w fyue damoselles of hers ꝓ went at her fete, and she went after ꝓ messengers of Dauid, and became hys wife. Dauid also toke Ahinoam of Jezrahel, & they were both his wines. But Saul gaue
*ii.Reg.iii.c * Michol hys daughter Dauids wyfe to phalti ꝓ sōne of Lais which was of Galli.

¶ The. xxvi. Chapter.

¶ Saul sleapeth in his tent: and Dauid taketh awaye his spear and a cruse of water, that stode at his heed.

A The ziphites came vnto Saul to Gibea, saying: Doth not Dauid hyde hym self in the hill of Hachila which is before Jesimon? Saul arose, and went downe to the wyldernesse of ziph, hauyng three thousande chosen mē of Israel with hym, for to seke Dauid in the wildernesse of ziph. And Saul pitched in the hyll of Hachila which lyeth before Jesimon, by ꝓ waye side. But Dauid dwelt in ꝓ wildernesse. And he saw that Saul cam after hym into he wildernesse. Dauid therfore sent out spyes, & vnderstode, that Saul was come i very dede.

And Dauid arose and came to the place where Saul had pitched, & Dauid beheld the place, where Saul laye, and Abner the sōne of Ner which was his chefe captayne Saul laye within, & the people & the hooste rounde about him. Then answered Dauid and spake to Ahimelech the Hethite, & to Abisai the sonne of zaruia and brother to Joab, saying: who will go downe with me to Saul to the hoste? And Abisai saide: I will go downe with the. B

And so Dauid and Abisai came downe to ꝓ people by nyght. And beholde, Saul laye sleping within the hooste, & his speare stacke in the ground at his heed. But Abner & the people laye round about hym. Then sayde Abisai to Dauid: God hath deliuered thyne enemye into thyne hāde this daye. Now therfore, lett me smyte hym once with my speare to the erth, & I wyll not smyte hym the secōde tyme. And Dauid sayde to Abisai: destroye him not. For who can laye his hāde on the Lordes anoynted, & be gyltles? And Dauid sayde furthermore: as sure as the Lorde lyueth, the Lorde shall smyte hi or his daye shall come to dye, or he shall descende into battell, & there perishe. The Lord kepe me from laying myne hāde vpō the Lordes anoynted: But take thou now the speare that is at his heed, & the crewse of water, & let vs go. And so Dauid toke ꝓ speare & the crewse of water from Sauls heed, and they gatt them awaye, and no man sawe it or marked yt or awaked. For they were all a slepe, because the Lorde had sent a deade sleape vpon thē. Then Dauid went ouer to the other syde, and stode on the toppe of an hyll a farre off (a great space beyng betwene them) and Dauid cryed to the people, and to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying: Hearest thou not Abner? Abner answered, and sayde: What art thou that? crypest to the kīg? and Dauid sayd to Abner: art not thou a man: and who his lyke the in Israel? Wherfore thē hast thou not kept thy Lord the kyng? For there came one of the folke in, to destroy the kyng thy lord. It is not good that ꝓ hast done. ¶ The.xxvii.Chapter.

¶ Dauid fleeth to Achis kyng of Geth.

AND Dauid sayde in his hert: I shall perisshe one daye or other by the hand of Saul. Therfore is there nothing better for me, then to flee and saue my selfe in the land of the Philistines,and Saul shall cease & seke me nomore in all the coastes of Israel, & so shall I escape out of his hand. And Dauid arose, & he & ꝓ fyue hundred mẽ ꝓ were wt him went vnto Achis, ꝓ sonne of Maoch,king of Geth. And Dauid dwelt wt Achis at Geth,both he & his men,euery mã wt his household, & Dauid wt hys two wiues: Ahinoã ꝓ Jezrahelite, & Abigail Nabals wife of Carmell. And it was tolde Saul,ꝓ Dauid was fled to Geth, and he sought no moare for him. And Dauid sayd vnto Achis: If I haue now found grace in thine eyes,lett thẽ geue me a place in some towne i ꝓ feldes,ꝓ I maye dwell there. For why shulde thy seruaũt dwell i ꝓ head cytie of ꝓ kingdome wt ꝓ? Then Achis gaue hym Ziklag ꝓ same daye, for which cause Ziklag pertaineth vnto the kynges of Juda vnto thys daye. And ꝓ tyme that Dauid dwelt i ꝓ cõtreye of the Philistines,was foure monethes,and certayne dayes. And Dauid & his men wẽt vp,and ranne vpõ the Gesurites,the Gerzites & ꝓ Amalechites: For those nacions were frõ the begynnyng the enhabiters of the lande, as men go to Sur, vnto the lãde of Egypte. And Dauid smote the land,and left neither man ner woman alyue.and droue awaye the shepe,the oxen, the asses,camelles,and clothes,and returned,and came to Achis. And Achis sayde: where haue ye bene a ronig this daye? And Dauid answered: Toward ꝓ south of Juda,& towarde ꝓ south of the Jezrapelites, & towarde the south of the Jenites. And Dauid saued nether mã nor woman alyue ner suffred them to come to Geth, for feare (sayeth he) leste they shuld telle on vs saig so dyd Dauid & so wylbe his maner all the while he dwelleth in the cõtreye of the Philistines. And Achis beleued Dauid saying He abhorreth his people of Israel, & therfore he shalbe my seruaunt for euer.

¶ The Philistines moue warre agaynst Saul which seketh after an enchaunter.

AND it chaunced in those dayes, that the Philistines gathered their hoost together to warre, to fyght with Israel. And Achis sayde to Dauid: Be sure, thou shalt goo out with me to the battell,thou & the men ꝓ are with the. And Dauid sayde to Achis: then ꝓ shalt know, what thy seruaunt can do. And Achis sayde agayne to Dauid: Then I will make ꝓ keper of my heed for euer * Samuel was then deed,& all Israel had lamẽted hym, & buryed him i Rama his owne cytie.* And Saul hat put ꝓ wemẽ that had spyrites of prophesye,& ꝓ Sothsayers out of the lãd. And the Philistines gathered together, & came,& pitched in Sunem. And Saul gathered all Israel togeather, & they pitched in Giboa: And whẽ Saul saw the hoste of the Philistines,he was afrayed, & his hert was sore astonyed. And whan Saul asked councell of the Lorde, the Lorde answered hi not,nether by dreames,nor by Urim nor yet by prophetes. Thẽ sayd Saul vnto his seruauntes * seke me a woman that hath a spyrite of prophesye, ꝓ I maye go to her & aske of her. And hys seruauntes sayde to him: Beholde,there is a woman that hath a spyrite of prophesye at Endor.

And Saul chaunged him self, and put on other rayment, & then went he & two men with hym,and they came to the woman by nyght. And he sayde: prophesye vnto me by ꝓ spyrite, & brig me him vp whõ I shall name vnto the. And the womã sayde vnto hym: Beholde thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath destroyed ꝓ wemen that had prophesyig spyrites, & the Sorcerars out of the lãde. Wherfore then seketh thou an occasion agaynst my soule,that he maye kyll me? And Saul swar to her by the Lorde sayig: As suerly as ꝓ Lorde lyueth,there shall no harme chaũce ꝓ for this thyng. Thẽ sayd ꝓ womã: whõ shall I fetche vp vnto the? he answered: Brig me vp Samuel. Whẽ ꝓ woman saw Samuel,she cryed wt a lowde voyce, and spake to Saul saying: why hast thou disceaued me? for ꝓ art Saul. And ꝓ kyng sayde vnto her, be not afrayde: What seest thou? And Saul perceaued ꝑ it was ☞ Samuel & he stouped w his face to the grounde, & bowed hym selfe. And Samuel sayd to Saul: why hast thou vnquieted me, to make me be brought vp? Saul answered: I am sore encombred. For the Philystynes make warre agaynst me, & God is departed from me and answereth me no more, nether by ꝓphetes, nether by dreames. And therfore I haue called the, ꝑ thou mayest tell me, what I shall do. Then sayd Samuel: wherfore doest ꝑ aske of me, whyle ꝑ Lorde is gone from the, & is become thyne enemye? Truly ꝑ Lord hath done for hym selfe, euen as he spake ☞ by my hād. * For the Lorde hath rent the kingdome out of thyne hande, & geue it thy neyboure Dauid. ¶ Dauid goeth wyth kynge Achis to fyght agaynst Saul.

The Philistines were gathered togeather w all their armyes vnto Aphec: And ꝑ Israelites pitched in Ahin, which is i Jesrahel. And ꝑ Lordes of the Philistines wēt forth w the hūdreds & thousandes. But Dauid & his mē came behinde w Achis. Then sayde the Lords of the Philistines, what are yōder Ebrues? I haue founde no fault in hym, sence he fell vnto me vnto thys daye. And the Lordes of the Philistines were wroth wyth hym and sayde vnto hym: Make this felowe returne, that he maye go agayne to hys place whych thou hast appoynted hym: and let hym not go downe wyth vs to battell, lest in the battell he be an aduersarye to vs. For wherwyth coulde he better obtayne the fauoure of hys master, then wyth the heedes of these men? Is not thys Dauid, to whō they sange in daunses: * Saul slue hys thousande, and Dauid hys ten thousande? Then Achis called Dauid, and sayde vnto hym: As sure as the Lorde lyueth, thou hast bene honest, and good in my syght, whan thou wentest out & in wyth me in the hoost: neythet haue I founde euell with the, sence thou camest to me vnto thys daye: Neuerthelesse the Lordes of ꝑ Philistines fauoure the not: Wherfore now returne, & go in peace, that thou displeasest not the Lordes of the Philistynes. And Dauid sayde vnto Achis: And what haue I done? what hast thou founde in thy seruaūt, as lōg as I haue bene wyth the vnto thys daye, ꝑ I maye not go fyght against the enemyes of my Lorde the kynge?

Achis answered & sayd to Dauid: I know that thou art good, & art in my syght, as an Angell of God. Not wythstandinge the Lordes of the Philistynes haue sayde: Let hym not go vp w vs to battell. Wherfore nowe ryse vp early in ꝑ morninge w thy masters seruauntes that are come to the: and when ye be vp early (as sone as ye haue lyght) departe. ¶ The.xxx. Chapter.

¶ Dauid returnynge from kynge Achis fyndeth zikleg burnt.

But whan Dauid & hys men were come to zikleg the thirde daye, the Amalekites had rushed in vpon the south, and vpon zikleg, & had smytten zikleg, & burnt it w fyre, & had taken the wemē (ꝑ were therin) prysoners, both small & great: but slewe not a mā, saue carryed them w thē, & wēt theyr wayes. So Dauid and the fyue hundred men that
C were with hym, went & cam to the riuer Besor, where a part of them abode. But Dauid and foure hundred men folowed: For two hundred abode behinde, beynge to werye to go ouer the ryuer Besor. And they founde an Egyptian in the felde, and brought hym to

And when he had eaten, hys spirite cam agayne to hym: for he had eaten, no bread nor dronke no water in thre dayes & thre nyghtes. And Dauid sayd vnto him: to whom belongest thou? & whence art thou? he sayd: I am a yonge mā of Egypte and seruaunt to an Amalekite: and my master left me behynde, because it is thre dayes agone, sith I fell sycke: we came a rouyng vpō the south of Chrethi, and against Juda, and towarde the south of Caleb. And we burnt Siklag wyth fyre. And Dauid sayde to hym: canst thou bringe me to this company? And he sayde: swere vnto me by God, that thou wylt neither kyll me, nor delyuer me into the handes of my master, and I will bringe the to the compayne. And whē he had brought hym thyther, beholde, they laye shattered abroade vpō the erth, eatynge & drinckynge, & daunsynge, because of the plenteous & great pray, that they had caried awaye out of the land of the Philistines, & out of the lāde of Juda.

And Dauid toke all the shepe, & the oxen. And they drawe them before his catell, & sayd: this is Dauids pray. And Dauid came to the two hundred me, that were so werye for to folowe Dauid, whom they had made also to abyde at the ryuer Besor. And they cam to mete Dauid, & the people that were wyth him. Then sayde Dauid: ye shall not do so (my brethren) with that which the Lord hath geuen vs, & hath preserued vs, & delyuered the compayne that came agaynst vs, into oure handes. For who shuld herke vnto you in thys matter? * But as hys parte is that goeth downe & fyghteth, so shall his parte be, that tarieth by the stuffe, that it maye be parted alyke. ¶ The lamentacion of Dauid for Saul & Jonathas.

After the deeth of Saul when Dauid was returned from the *slaughter of the Amalekites, and had bene two dayes in Ziklag: Beholde, there came a mā the thyrde daye out of the hoste from Saul, with his clothes rent and erth vpon hys heed. And when he came to Dauid, he fell to the erth and dyd obeysaūce. Dauid sayde vnto him: whence comest thou? he sayde vnto him: Out of the hoste of Israel am I escaped. And Dauid sayde vnto him. And what is chaūced? tell me. he sayde: the people is fled from the battell: and many of the people are ouerthrowen, and deed: and Saul & Jonathas his sonne are deed also.

And Dauid sayde vnto the younge man that tolde him these thynges: How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathas hys sonne be deed? The younge man that tolde him, answered: I came by chaunce to mount Gilboa: And beholde, Saul leaned vpon his speare. For the charettes and companyes of horsemen folowed harde after him. And whan he loked backe he sawe me, and called me. And I answered: here am I. And he sayde vnto me: what art thou? I answered hym: I am an Amalekite. He sayde vnto me agayne: Stonde vpō me, and slee me: For anguysshe is come vpon me, though my lyfe be yet all in me. And so I stode vpō hym, and slue him: for I was sure ꝑ he coulde not lyue, & after that he had fallen. And I toke the crowne ꝑ was vpon hys heed, and the Bracelet that was on hys arme, and haue brought them hyther vnto my Lorde.

Then Dauid toke holde on hys clothes, *and rent them, and so dyd all the men that were wt him And they mourned, and wepte, and fasted vntyll euen, for Saul and Jonathas his sonne, & for the people of the Lorde, and for the house of Israel, because they were ouerthrowen with the swerde. *ij. reg. iii. f. and. xiij. f.

And Dauid sayde vnto the younge man that brought him these tydinges. Whēre art thou? And he answered. I am the sonne of an alyaunt an Amalekite. And Dauid sayde vnto him: Howe is it ꝑ thou wast not afrayed, to laye thyne hande on the Lordes anoynted, to destroye hym? And Dauid called one of his younge men and sayde: Go to, and runne vpon him. After thys it fortuned, that Dauid * asked councell at the Lorde, sayinge: shall I go vp into any of the cyties of Juda? And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: go. And Dauid sayde agayne: Whither shall I go? he answered: Unto Hebron. And so Dauid went thither with his two wyues, Ahinoam ꝑ Jesrahelite, & Abigail Nabals wyfe the Carmelite. And the men that were wyth him, dyd Dauid carye vp also, euery man with his housholde. And they dweit in the townes of Hebron. And the men of Juda came, and there they anoynted Dauid kynge, ouer the house of Juda. And they tolde Dauid sayinge: It is * the men of Jabes in Gilead ꝑ buryed Saul. And Dauid sent messengers vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead, and sayde vnto them: blessed are ye vnto the Lorde, that ye haue shewed soche kyndnesse vnto youre Lorde Saul, and haue buryed him. And nowe the Lorde shewe mercye & trueth vnto you. And I wyll do you also soche kyndnesse as ye haue done in thys thynge. Therfore nowe let youre handes be stronge, and playe ye the me: For your master Saul is deed. And they that are of the house of Juda, haue anoynted me kynge ouer them. But Abner the sonne of Ner that was captayne of Sauls host, toke Isboseth the sonne of Saul, and brought him to Mahanaim, and made hym kynge ouer Gilead, and ouer the Assurites, & ouer Jesrahel, Ephraim, Ben Jamin, and ouer all Israel. And Isboseth Sauls sonne was fourtye yere olde, when he began to raygne ouer Israel, and raygned two yere. But the house of Juda followed Dauid. * And the tyme which Dauid raygned in Hebrõ ouer the house of Juda, was. vij. yere and syxe monethes. And Abner the sonne of Ner and the seruauntes of Isboseth the sonne of Saul went out of Mahanaim, to Gibeon. And Joab the sonne of Zaruia and the seruauntes of Dauid went out, and mette them by the Pole of Gibeon. And they satt downe the one, on the one syde of the Pole, and the other on the other syde. And Abner sayde to Joab: let the younge men aryse, and ꝛc playe before vs. And Joab sayde: Let them aryse. Then there arose and went ouer. twelue of Ben Jamin by nombre, which pertayned to Isboseth the sonne of Saul, and twelue of the seruauntes of Dauid. And euery one caught hys felowe (that came agaynst hym) by the heed, and thrust hys swerde in hys syde, and so they fell downe together. Wherfore the place was called: The felde of the myghtye. And it is in Gibeon. And there beganne an exceadinge cruell battell that same daye. For Abner and the men of Israel fell before the seruauntes of Dauid.

And there were thre sonnes of Zaruiah there: Joab, Abisai and Asahel. And Asahel was as lyght of fote as a wylde Roo, and Asahel followed after Abner, and * turned nether to the ryght hand nor to the lefte, frõ Abner. And Abner sayde agayne to Asahel departe fro me. Wherfore shulde I smyte the to the groũde, and not be able to holde vp my face to Joab, thy brother? Howbeit, whan he wolde in no wyse departe, Abner with the hynder ende of the speare smote hym vnder * ꝑ short rybbes, that the speare cam out behynde hym: ꝑ he fell downe in ꝑ same place, and dyed there. And as many as cam to the place where Asahel fell downe and dyed, stode still. Joab also & Abisai followed Abner. And the sonne went downe, when they were come to ꝑ hyll Ama that lyeth before Giah by the waye ꝑ goeth thorowe the wyldernesse of Gibeon. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin geathered them selues together on a heape, to Abner, & stode on the toppe of an hyll. Then Abner called to Joab, and sayde: shall the swerde deuoure styll for euer? knowest thou not, that it wylbe ꝛc bitternesse in the latter ende? howe longe shall it be, per thou bydde ꝑ people returne from folowynge their brethren? And Joab sayde: as truely as God lyueth ꝛc yf thou haddest not spoken in the morynge, the people had bene departed, euery one from persecutynge hys brother. And so * Joab blewe a trompet, and all the people stode styll, and pursued after Israel no more nether foughte they any more. And Abner & his men walked all that nyght thorowe the playne, & went ouer Jordan, & past thorowe all Bethhoron tyll they cam to Mahanaim.

And

And Joab returned frō persecuting Abner. And whā he had geathered all ꝑ people together, there lacked of Dauids seruaūtes nyntene men, ꝛ Asahel. But the seruaūtes of Dauid had slayne of Beniamin, and of Abners men, thre hūdred ꝛ thre skore men. And they toke vp Asahel, and buryed hym in the sepulchre of his father i Bethlehem. And Joab and his men went all nyght, vntyll the dawnyng of the daye, and came to Hebron.

These were borne to Dauid in Hebrō. And it fortuned, that whyle there was warre betwene the house of Saul and the house of Dauid, Abner helde vp the house of Saul. And Saul had a concubyne named Rizpa, the daughter of Aia. And Isboseth sayde to Abner: Wherfore hast thou ¶ gone into my fathers concubyne? Then was Abner very wroth for the wordes of Isboseth, ꝛ sayde: Am I not a * dogges heed, which agaynst Juda do shewe mercye thys daye vnto the house of Saul thy father, ꝛ to his brethren and frendes, and haue not delyuered the into the hande of Dauid: and thou fyndest a fault in me this daye for this woma̅? * So and so do God to Abner. For as the Lorde hath swore to Dauid, so wyll I be on hys syde, to bryng the kyngdom from the house of Saul, that the throne of Dauid maye be stablysshed ouer Israel, and ouer Juda euē from Dan to Bersabe. And he coulde geue Abner neuer a woorde to answer, because he feared hym.

And Abner sent messengers to Dauid ꝛ secretely, saying: Whose is ꝑ lande? Make a bonde with me, and beholde, my hande is wyth the, to bryng all Israel vnto the. Now then do it: for the Lorde hath sayd of Dauid: By the hād of my seruaūt Dauid, I will saue my people Israel, out of ꝑ handes of the Philistines, and out of the hande of all their enemyes. And Abner spake in ꝑ eares of Beniamin, and went to tell in the eares of Dauid in Hebron, all that Israell was content wyth, and the whole house of Beniamin. And so Abner came to Dauid to Hebron, hauyng twentye men wt hym, ꝛ D Dauid made hym ꝛ the men that were with him a feast. And Abner sayde vnto Dauid: I wyll vp, and go geather all Israell vnto my Lorde the kyng, that they maye make an appoyntment wyth the, and that thou mayst commaunde all, as thyne hart desyreth. And whan Dauid had lett Abner departe, he went in peace.

And so Dauid dwelt in the towre, & called it the citye of Dauid, & buylt round about it frō Millo inwarde. And Dauid prospered & grew, and the Lord God of hostes was with him. And Hiram kyng of Tire sent messengers to Dauid, and Cedar trees, and carpenters & Masons for walles: and they builte Dauid an house. ¶ And Dauid perceaued, that þ Lord had stablissched hym kynge ouer Israel, & that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Israels sake. And Dauid toke him moo concubynes and wyues out of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron, & moo sonnes, & daughters were yet borne to Dauid. 1 Par. iii. b * And these be the names of the sonnes þ were borne vnto hym in Jerusalem: Sāmua, Sobab, Nathan, & Salomō, Jibhar also and Elisua, Nepheg, & Japhia, Elisama Eliada, and Eliaphelet.

But when the Philistines heard, þ they had anoynted Dauid kīg ouer Israel, they cam all vp to seke Dauid. And as sone as Dauid heard of it, he gat hym to an holde. And whan the Philistines cam, they layde thē a long in þ valeye of Raphaim. 1 Par. xiiii. a 2 Reg. ii. a * And Dauid asked councell of the Lord sayeng: shall I go vp to the Philistines? wilt þ deliuer them into my hādes? And þ lord answered vnto Dauid: go vp, for I will doutlesse delyuer þ Philistines into thy handes. ¶ And Dauid cam to the playne of Perazim, and smote them there, and sayd: the Lord hath deuided myne enemyes asondre before me, as waters be deuyded asondre. And therfore, þ name of the place was called: þ playne of Perazim: And there they left their Jmages, & Dauid & his men toke them vp. And the Philistines cam yet agayne, and layd them selues in the valeye of Rephaim. And whā Dauid asked at the Lord: ☜ (Shall I go vp against þ Philistines? & wilt thou delyuer them into my handes?) he answered: Thou shalt not go vp: but compasse them on the backsyde, & come vpon thē ouer against the Peretrees. And when þ hearest the noyse of a thing going in the toppe of the Peretrees, then remoue. For thē shall the Lord go out before the, to smyte the hoste of the Philistines. And Dauid did as the Lord had commaunded hym, & smote the Philistines from Geba, vntyll thou come to Gazer.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

¶ The arcke is brought forth of the house of Abinadab. Oza is stryken & dyed, Dauid daunceth before it, & therfore despysed of hys wyfe Michol.

AGaine: Dauid gathered together all the chosen men of Israel, euen thirtye thousand, & arose, & went withall the folke that were with hym of the men of Juda, to fett ☞ awaye from thence, the Arck of God: whose name is called the name of the Lorde of hostes that dwellyth vpon it, betwene the cherubyns. And they put the Arck of God vpon a new cart, and brought it out * of the house of Abinadab þ was at Gibea. 1 Par. xiii. a. And Uza ād Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab drawe the new carte. And whē they brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibea, with the Arck of God, Ahio wēt before the Arck. And Dauid and all the house of Jsrael playde before the Lorde in sondrye instrumentes made of Cedre wodd, with harpes, psalteries, tymberelles, fedylles, and cymbals.

And when they cam to Nachons threshyng floure, Uza put his hand to the arck of God, and held it, for the oxen stombled. And the Lorde was wroth wyth Uza, and God smote him ‖ the same place ☞ for his fault, and there he dyed before the Arcke of God. And Dauid was displeased, because the Lord had smytten Uza. And the name of the place was called Perez. The rētyng of Uza, vntyll thys daye. And Dauid was then afrayed of the Lorde, and sayde: how shall the Arcke of the Lorde come to me? And so Dauid wolde not bryng the Arcke of the Lorde vnto him into the citye of Dauid. But Dauid caried it into the house of Obeth Edom a Gethite. And the Arcke of the Lord continued in the house of * Obeth Edom the Gethite, thre monethes, and the Lorde blessed Obeth Edom, and all hys houlhold. 1 Par. xiii. a And one tolde kynge Dauid, how that the Lorde had blessed the house of Obeth Edom, and all that pertayned vnto hym, because of þ Arcke of God. ¶ And Dauid went and brought the Arck of God from the house of Obeth Edom, into the citye of Dauid wyth gladnes. ☜ (And there were with Dauid seuen sortes of dauncers, & calues for sacrifice.) And when they that bare the Arcke of the Lorde, had gone syx spaces, he offered an oxe and a fat shepe. And Dauid ☜ (played on harpe stringes, and) daunsed before the Lorde withall his myght, and was gyrded with a lynnen Ephod. So Dauid and all the house of Jsrael brought þ arck ☜ (of the couenaūt) of the Lorde, wyth showtyng and trompet blowyng.

And it fortuned, that as the arcke of the Lorde cam into the citye of Dauid, Michol Sauls daughter loked thorow a windowe, and saw kynge Dauid springe, and daunce before the Lorde, and she dyspysed hym in her hert. And when they brought in þ Arck of the Lorde, they set it in his place, euen in D the myddes of the tabernacle ꝑ Dauid had pitched for it. And Dauid offered burnt of-

And Dauid toke ꝓ shildes of gold that belonged to the seruauntes of Hadarezer, & brought them to Jerusalem. And out of Beta & Berothai (cities of Hadarezer) did Dauid brĩg exceding moch brasse. ✠ (wherof Salomon made all the brasen vessell in the temple, ꝓ the brasen Lauatorye, and the pyllers, and the altare.)

* Whẽ Thoi kyng of Iamath heard how Dauid had smytten all the hoste of Hadarezer, he sent Joram his sonne vnto kynge Dauid, to salute hym with peace, & ☞ to blesse hym, because he had fought agaynst Hadarezer, and beaten hym: for Thoy had greate warre wt Hadarezer, which (Joram) brought with hi, vesselles of siluer, vessels of golde, and vessels of brasse: Which brasse kyng Dauid dyd dedicat vnto the Lord wt the syluer and golde that he had cõsecrated of all nacyons, whych he subdued: of Syria of the Moabites, & of the chyldren of Ammon, of the Philistines, & of Hamalek, and of the spoyle of Hadarezer sonne of Rehob kyng of zoba. And Dauid gat hym a name after that he returned & had smytten of the Syriens in the valeye of Salt. xviii. thousand men. * And he put kepers in Edõ, euen thorow out al Edõ put he soudyoures, & all they of Edom becam Dauids seruauntes, And the Lorde kept Dauid whatsoeuer he toke in hand. And Dauid raygned ouer all Israel, and executed ryght, & Justice vnto all his people. And * Joab the sonne of Zaruiah was ouer the hoste, and Jehosaphat ꝓ sõne of Ahilud was recorder. And Sadoch the sonne of Ahitob, & Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the Preastes, and Saraia was the Scrybe. And ✠ Banaiahu ꝓ sonne of Jehoiada was ouer ☞ the Crethites and the Phelethites: & Dauids sonnes were chefe rulars.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

¶ Dauid restoreth all the feldes of Saul, to Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas.

AND Dauid sayd: is there yet any mã left of ꝓ house of Saul? For I will shew hym mercye for Jonathas sake. And there was of ꝓ household of Saul a seruaũt whose name was ziba: & whan they had called hym vnto Dauid, the kyng sayd vnto him: art thou ziba? he sayd: thy seruaunt is he. And ꝓ kyng sayde: remayneth ther yet any man of ꝓ house of Saul, whõ I maye shew the mercye of God vpõ? ziba answered the kynge: * Jonathas hath yet a sonne, which is lame on his fete. The kig sayd vnto him where is he? ziba sayd vnto the kynge: behold, he is in the house of Machir ꝓ sonne of Amiel of Lodeber. Then kyng Dauid sent, & fett hym out of the house of Machir the sonne of Amiel, out of Lodeber. Now when Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas, ꝓ sonne of Saul was come vnto Dauid, he fell on his face, and did reuerẽce. And the kyng sayde: Miphiboseth? he answered: Behold thy seruaunt. Dauid sayde vnto him: feare not, for I will surely shew the kindnesse for Jonathas thy fathers sake, & will restore ꝓ all the feldes of Saul thy father, & þ shalt eate bred on myne awne table cõtinually. And he bowed hym self and sayde: what is thy seruaũt, that thou shuldest vouchesafe to loke vpon soche a deed dogg as I am?

Then the kyng called vnto Siba Sauls yoūg man & sayd vnto him: I haue geuen vnto thy masters sonne, all that pertayned to Saul and to all his house. Se therfore þ thou, & thy sonnes and thy seruauntes tyll the lande, and bryng in, that * thy masters sonne maye haue fode to eate. But Miphiboseth thy masters sonne shal eate bred allwaye vpon my table. For Siba had fiftene sonnes and twentye seruaũtes. Then sayd Siba vnto the kyng: Accordyng to all þ my Lord the kyng hath commaunded his seruaunt, so shall thy seruaũt do. Well (sayd þ kyng) Miphiboseth shall eate vpon my table, as one of the kynges sonnes. Miphiboseth had a sonne that was younge, named Micha, and all that dwelled in the house of Siba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelt in Jerusalem, for he dyd eate euer at the kynges table, * and was lame on both his fete.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

¶ The messengers of Dauid are vyllanously entreated of the kyng of Ammon.

IT happened after this, þ the kyng of the childzen of Ammon died, & Hanon his sonne raygned in his steade. Then sayd Dauid: I will shew kyndnesse vnto Hanon þ sonne of Nahas, as hys father shewed kyndnesse vnto me. And Dauid sent to conforte hym by the hand of his seruaũtes ouer (the death of) hys father. And Dauids seruauntes came into the lande of the childzē of Ammon, and the Lordes of the childzen of Ammon sayd vnto Hanon their Lord: thynkest thou þ Dauid dothe honoure thy father, that he hath sent cõfortoures to the? hath not Dauid rather sent his seruaũtes vnto þ, to searche þ cytie, & to spye it out, and to ouerthrow it?

Wherfore, Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, & shaued of the one halfe of euerye mannes berd and cut of their garmentes in the myddle, euen harde to the buttockes of thē, & sent them awaye. When they tolde it vnto Dauid, he sent to mete thē (for they were men exedingly ashamed) & the kyng sayd: tarie at Jericho vntill your beerdes be growen, and then returne. And when the childzen of Ammon saw that they stancke in þ sight of Dauid, they sent and hired the Syrians of the house of Rehob, & the Syrians of zoba. xx. thousand fote men, and of kyng Maacha a thousand mē, & of Istob twelue thousand men. And when Dauid hearde of it, he sent Joab & all the host of strong men. And the childzen of Ammon came out, and waged battell at the entring in of þ gate, & the Syrians of zobah, of Rehob, Istob and Maacah were by them selues in the felde.

When Joab saw þ the front of the battell was agaynst hym before and after, he chose of all the freth young men of Israell, & put them in araye agaynst the Syrians. And the rest of the people he delyuered into the hãd of Abisay hys brother, þ he myght put thē in araye agaynst þ childzen of Ammon. And he sayd, yf the Syrians be stronger then I, thou shalt helpe me. But yf the childzen of Ammon be to strong for the, I will come ād succoure the. Therfore quyte the lyke a man, & let vs stonde stiff for oure people, & for the cities of oure God. And the Lord do þ which is good in his owne eyes. And Joab proceded forth, & þ people þ was with hym, to fight with the Syrians. But they fled before him. And when the childzen of Ammon saw that the Syriãs were fled, thē fled they also before Abisay, and entred into the citye. And so Joab returned from þ childzē of Ammon, & came to Jerusalem. And when the Syriãs saw that they were put to þ worse before Israel, they gathered them together. And Hadarezer sent, & brought out the Syrians þ were beyounde the ryuer. And they came with their armye and Hobah the captayne of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

And when it was shewed Dauid, he gathered all Israel together, ād passed ouer Jordan, & cam to Helam: And the Syrians set them selues in araye agaynst Dauid, & fought with him: and the Syrians fled before Israel. And Dauid destroyed seuen hundred charettes of the Syrians, and fourtye thousand horsemen, and smote Sobah the captayne of their host, which also dyed there. And when all the kinges (that were seruauntes to Hadarezer) saw that they were put to the worse before Israell, they made peace with them, & serued them. And so the Syrians feared to helpe þ childzen of Ammon any moare.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

¶ The aduoutrye of Dauid with Bethsabe the wyfe of Vrias.

And it came to passe þ (after the yeare was expyred) in the tyme when kynges vse to go forth to battell, Dauid sent Joab and hys seruauntes wyth hym, and all Israel, whych * destroyed the chyldren of Ammon, and beseged Raba. But Dauid taryed styll at Jerusalem. And it chaūced in an euenynge, that Dauid arose out of hys bed, and walked vpon the roufe of the kynges palace, and from the roufe he sawe a woman * washynge her selfe: and the womā was very bewtyfull to loke vpō. And he sent to enquyre what womā it should be, sayenge: is it not Bethsabe the daughter of Eliam, and wyfe to Urias the Hethite? And dauid sent messengers, and fett her. And she came in vnto hym * & he laye wyth her. And (immediatly) she was purifyed from her vnclennesse, and returned vnto her house. And the woman conceaued, & sent and tolde Dauid, & sayd: I am wyth chylde. And Dauid sent to Joab, (sayenge:) sende me Urias the hethite. And Joab sent Urias to Dauid. And whē Urias was come vnto hym. Dauid demaunded of him: howe Joab dyd, and howe the people fared, and howe the mē of warre prospered. And Dauid sayd to Urias: go downe to thyne house, and washe thy fete. And Urias departed out of the kynges palace, and there folowed hym a seruyce from the kinges table. But Urias slept at the doze of the kynges palace wythall the seruauntes of hys Lozde, and wēt not downe to hys house.

Which whē they had tolde Dauid (sayēge: Urias wēt not downe into hys house.) Dauid sayde vnto Urias: Camest thou not frō thy iozney? why dyddest thou not go downe then vnto thyne house? Urias answered Dauid. The arcke & Israel and Juda dwell in pauylyons: and my Lozde Joab and the seruauntes of my Lozde lye vpon the flatt erthe: and shall I then go into myne house, to eate, and to drynche, and lye wyth my wyfe? * By thy lyfe and by the lyfe of thy soule, I wyll not do thys thynge. And Dauid sayde vnto Urias: * tarye here this daye also, and to mozowe I wyll lett the depart. And so Urias abode in Jerusalem that daye, and the mozowe. And whā Dauid had called hym, he dyd eate and drynche before hym, and he made hym dronke. And at euē he went out to lye on hys couche wyth the seruauntes of his Lozd, but went not downe to hys house. On þ mozow Dauid wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hande of Urias. And he wrote thus in þ letter, sayēg: put Urias in the fozefront of the sharpest battell, and come ye backe from hym, that he maye be smytten and dye. So whan Joab beseged the cytie, he assygned Urias vnto a place, where he wyst that stroge men were. And the mē of the cytie cam out, and fought wyth Joab. And there were certē ouerthrowen of the people, and of the seruauntes of Dauid, and Urias the Hethite dyed also.

Then Joab sent, and tolde Dauid all the thynges concernynge the warre, and charged the messenger, sayenge: when thou hast made an ende of tellynge the matters of the warre vnto the kynge, yf he begynne to fume, and saye vnto the: wherfoze approched ye so nye vnto the cytie, whan ye dyd fyght/ wyst ye not that they wolde hurle and shote from the wall? who smote Abimelech sonne of Jereboseth? * dyd not a woman cast a pece of a mylstone vpon hym from of the wall, and he dyed in Thebes? why went ye nye the wall? then saye thou: thy seruaunt Urias the Hethite is deed also.

So the messenger went, and came, and shewed Dauid all that Joab had sent hym foz, and the messaunger sayd vnto Dauid: þ mē prenayled agaynst vs, and cam out vnto vs into the felde, & we (with violence.) stacke vnto them, euen vnto the entrynge of the gate. And the shoters shotte from the walles, vpon thy seruauntes, and some of the kinges seruaūtes be deed. And thy seruaunt Urias the Hethite is deed also. And Dauid sayde vnto the messenger: thus shalt þ saye vnto Joab: let not that thynge trouble the. For (the chaunce of warre is vncerte, and) þ sworde deuoureth one as well as another: make thy battell moze stronge agaynst the cytye to ouerthrowe it, & se that thou courage Joab. And when the wyfe of Urias heard that her husbande was deed, she mourned foz hym. And whan the mournynge was past, Dauid sent and fett her to hys house, and she became hys wyfe, and bare hym a sonne. But this thynge that Dauid dyd, displeased the Lozde.

¶ The. xij. Chapter.

¶ Dauid is reproued foz the slaughter of Urias The chylde conceaued in aduoutrye dyeth. Actes xij. in Salomon dozne.

And the Lozde sent Nathan vnto Dauid. And he came vnto hi and tolde hym: there were two men in one cytie, the one ryche, and the other pooze. The ryche man had exceadynge many shepe and oxen. But the pooze had nothynge saue one lytle shepe, whych he had bought, and nozyshed vp. And it grewe vp wyth hym and wyth hys chyldren also, and dyd eate of hys awne meate, and drancke of hys awne cuppe, and slept in hys bosome, and was vnto hym as hys daughter. And there cam a straunger vnto the ryche mā. And he coulde not fynde in hys heart to take of hys awne shepe, and of hys awne oxen, to dresse foz the straunger that was come vnto hym. But tooke the poozes mānes shepe, and dressed it foz þ man

C Nowe therfore, the swerde shall neuer depart from thyne house, because thou hast despysed me, and taken the wyfe of Urias the Hethite, to be thy wife. And Nathã sayd vnto Dauid: the Lorde also hath put awaye thy synne, thou shalt not dye. howbeit, because in doyng thys deade, thou hast geuen the enemyes of the Lord a cause to raple, the chylde that is borne vnto the, shall surelye dye. And Nathan departed vnto hys house. And the Lorde stroke the chylde that Urias wyfe bare vnto Dauid, and it sickened sore. Dauid therfore besought God for ỹ chylde, and fasted and went in, and laye all nyght vpon the erthe. And the elders of hys house arose and went to hym, to take him vp from ỹ erth. But Dauid seynge hys seruauntes whysperynge, perceaued, that the chylde was deed, & Dauid sayd vnto hys seruauntes: is the chylde deed? They sayde: yee. And Dauid arose frõ the erth, and washed and anoynted him selfe, and chaũged his apparell, & came into the house of the Lorde, & worshypped, & afterward cam to hys awne house and badd ỹ they shulde set ☞ bred before hym, and he dyd eate. C The. xiij. Chapter.

C Amnon Dauids sonne defyleth hys syster Thamar. Absalom therfore kylleth Amnon.

A Fter this it chaunced that Absalom the sonne of Dauid had a fayre syster, named Thamar, whom Amnon the sonne of Dauid loued. And he was so sore vexed, that he fell sycke for the loue of hys syster Thamar: for she was a virgyn, and he thought it harde for hym to haue hys purpose of her. But Amnon had a frende, called Jonadab, ỹ sonne of Simeah Dauids brother: and ☞ Jonadab was a very wyse mã. And he sayde vnto him: howe cometh it, that thou beyng the kinges sonne, art thus consumed euery daye? Wylt thou not tell me? Amnon answered hym: I loue Thamar

Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Jonadab sayde vnto him: laye ꝑ downe on thy bedde, & make thy selfe sicke. And when thy father is come to se the, saye vnto hym: Oh let my syster Thamar come, and geue me meate, & dresse it in my syght, that I maye se it and eate it of her hande.

25 And so Amnon laye downe, & made hym selfe sycke. And whē the kynge was come to se him, Amnō sayde vnto him: Oh let Thamar my syster come, & make me a couple of frytters in my syght, that I maye eate of her hande. Then Dauid sent home to Thamar, sayēg: go now to thy brother Amnōs house, and dresse him meate. So Thamar wente to her brother Amnōs house, and he was layed downe. And she toke floure, and made paste, and dressed frytters in his syght, & bad bake them, and toke a platter, & powred them out before him, but he wolde not eate. And Amnon sayde: haue out all men from me. And they went all out from hym. And Amnon sayde vnto Thamar: bryng the meate into the chambre, that I maye eate of thyne hād. And Thamar toke the frytters, whych she had made, & brought them into the chambre to Amnon her brother. And whā she had set thē before him, to eate, he toke her, and sayd vnto her: come lye w̄ me my syster. And she C answered him: nay my brother, do not force me, for there hath no such thinge bene done in Israel: do not thou this abhominacion. ☞ For whither shall I be able to go w̄ my shame? And thou shalt be as one of the foles in Israel. O speake vnto the kynge, and he shall ☞ not denye me vnto the.

Howbeit he wolde not herken vnto her voyce but toke her, & *forced her, and laye w̄ her. And thē Amnon hated her exceedyngly: so that ꝑ hate wher wyth he hated her, was greater then ꝑ loue, w̄ which he before loued her. And Amnon sayde vnto her: vp, & get ꝑ hēce. She answered hi: Thou hast no cause. This euell ꝑ ꝑ puttest me awaye is greater then ꝑ other that ꝑ diddest vnto me. Neuertheles he wolde not heare her, but called his boye that serued him, & sayd: put awaye this woman frō me, & bolt ꝑ doze after her. And she had a kirtell of diuerse colours vpō her: for w̄ suche were ꝑ kynges daughters (that D were virgines) appareled. The his seruaūt brought her oute, ād locked ꝑ doze after her. And Thamar toke & put all hes on her heed, & rent her gaye kyrtell ꝑ was on her, & layed her hande on her heed, & so wēt: & as she wēt, cryed. And Absalom her brother sayde vnto her: hath Amnon thy brother bene with the? Now yet be still my syster: he is thy brother. Let not this thynge greue thine hert And so Thamar remayned desolate in her brothers Absaloms house. But whan kynge Dauid heard of all these thiges, he was very wroth. (And he wolde not hēre the spirite of Amnon hys sonne, for he loued hym, because he was his firstborne.) And Absalom sayde vnto hys brother Amnon nether good ner badd. Howbeit Absalom hated Amnon because he had forced hys syster Thamar.

And it happened after two yere, that Absalō had *shepe shearers in ꝑ playne of Hazor besyde the trybe of Ephraim, & bad all ꝑ kynges sonnes, and cam to the kyng, & sayd: beholde, thy seruaunt hath shepe sherers, let the kynge w̄ his seruauntes come to thy seruaunte. The king answered Absalom: naye my sonne. We will not go all, ner be chargeable vnto the. And Absalom laye sore vpon hym: howbeit he wolde not go, but blessed hym. Then sayd Absalom: yf thou wylt not come, then let my brother Amnon go w̄ vs. And the kynge answered hym: what nedeth it, that he go wyth the? But Absalom made soche instāce that he let Amnon, & all ꝑ kynges chyldren go with hym.

Nowe had Absalom cōmaūded his younge men, sayenge: marke when Amnons hert is mery wyth wyne, & when I byd you smyte Amnon, then kyll hym: and feare not, haue not I bydden you? be bolde therfore, & playe the men. And the younge men of Absalō dyd vnto Amnon euen as Absalom had cōmaūded. And all the kynges sonnes arose, & euery man gat hym vp, vpon hys Mule, & fled. And it fortuned, that whyle they were yet in the waye, ty dynges cam to Dauid sayēg: Absalō hath slayne all the kynges sonnes, & there is none left alyue. Then Dauid arose, & *tare his garmentes, and laye along on ꝑ erth: & all his seruauntes stode by with theyr clothes rent. And Jonadab the sonne of Shimeah Dauids brother, answered, and sayde: let not my Lorde suppose ꝑ they haue slayne all the younge men the kynges sonnes, saue Amnon only is deed. For that hath bene determined in Absaloms mynde, sence he forced hys syster Thamar. Nowe therfore, let not my Lorde the kynge take the thynge so grenously, to thincke that all ꝑ kinges sonnes are deed, saue Amnon only is deed.

But Absalom fled. And the younge man that kept the watche, lyfte vp hys eyes, and loked: And beholde, ther cam moche people by a waye, a longe by the hynder parte on an hylles syde. And Jonadab sayde vnto the kynge: beholde, the kynges sonnes come: As thy seruaunt sayde, so it is. And as sone as he had lefte speakynge: beholde, the kynges sonnes came, and lyfte vp theyr voyces, and wepte. The kynge also and all hys seruauntes wepte exceedyngly. But Absalom escaped, and wēt to Thalmai the sonne of Amihus kynge of Gesur. And Dauid mourned for hys sonne every daye. And so Absalom escaped and went to Gesur, and was there thre yeares. And kynge Dauid desyred to go forth vnto Absalom: For where as Amnon was dede, he was comforted ouer hym.

¶ The. xiiij. Chapter.

¶ Wy the wysdome of the woman of Thekoa Absalom is called agayne.

A IOab the sonne of Saruia perceaued, that the kynges hert was towarde Absalō, & he sent to Thekoa, and fett thence a wyse woman, and sayde vnto her: fayne thy selfe to be a mourner, and put on mournynge apparell. And anoynt not thy self with oyle. but be as a woman that had longe tyme mourned for some dede bodye. And come to the kynge, and speake of thys maner vnto hym. And so Joab taught her what she shuld saye

And when the woman of Thekoa had fallen on her face to the grounde, and done
B obeysaunce, she sayde vnto the kynge: helpe me O kynge. The kynge sayde vnto her: what ayleth the? She answered: I am a wedowe, and myne husbande is dede. And thy handmayde had two sonnes, and they two fought together in the felde, (where was no man to go betwene them) but the one smote the other and slewe hym. And beholde, the whole kynred is rysen agaynst thy handmayde, and they sayd: * delyuer vs him that

C vnto the woman: go home to thyne house, I wyll geue a charge for the. And the woman of Thekoa sayde vnto the kynge: Wy Lorde O kynge, thys trespace be on me and on my fathers house, and the kynge and hys seate be guiltlesse. And the kynge sayd: yf any man saye ought vnto the, bryng hym to me, and he shall hurte the no moare. Then sayde she: let the kynge remember hys Lorde God, that the auenger of the bloude geather not on heapes together to destroye, and that they slaye not my sonne. And he answered:

Let the kynge therfore fynde ꝓ meanes, ꝓ hys banyshed be not vtterly expelled frō hym. Nowe therfore am I come, to speake of this thing vnto the kynge my Lorde: For they ꝓ be of the people, haue feared me. And thy handmayde sayde: Nowe wyll I speake vnto ꝓ kyng, parauenture the E kynge will perfourme ꝓ requeste of his handmayde. And the kinge shall heare his handmayde, to delyuer her out of the hande of the man that wolde haue destroyed me and also my sonne out of ꝓ enheritaunce of God. And thyne handmayde sayde: the worde of my Lorde the kynge shall nowe be comfortable: For my Lorde the kynge is as an Angel of God, in hearyng of good and badd: therfore the Lorde thy God be with the.

Then the kynge answered, & sayde vnto ꝓ woman: hyde not from me (I praye the) the thynge that I shall aske the: And the womā sayde: let my Lorde the kyng nowe saye on.
F And the kynge sayde: Is not the hāde of Joab wyth the in all this matter? The woman answered, and sayde: * as sure as thy soule lyueth my Lorde kynge, there is els no man on the ryght hande nor on the leaft) but as my Lorde the kynge hath spoken, thy seruaunt Joab he bad me, and he put all these wordes in the mouthe of thyne handmayde. For to the intent that I shulde alter my cōmunicacyō, hath thy seruaūt Joab done this thinge. And my Lord is wise, euē as an Angell of God, to vnderstand all thynges that are in the erthe. And the kynge sayde vnto Joab beholde, I am contēt to do this thing. Go, and fett home the chylde Absalō agayne. And Joab fell to the grounde on his face,
G and bowed hym selfe, & blessed the kynge And Joab sayde: nowe thy seruaunt knoweth, that I haue founde grace in thy syght (my Lorde O kynge) in that the kynge hath fulfylled the requeste of hys seruaunt. And so Joab arose, and wēt to Gesur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. And the kyng sayd: let him turne to hys awne house, and not se my face. And so Absalom returned to hys awne house, and sawe not the kynges face.

But in all Israel there was not so goodlye a mā as Absalō, for he was very bewtifull: fro the sole of his fote to ꝓ toppe of his heed, there was no blemesshe in him. And whē he shaued hys heed (for at euery yeares end he shaued it, because ꝓ heer was heuie on hym, hym and muste nedes shaue it) the heere of his heed wayed two hundred cycles after the kynges weyght. And this Absalō had three sonnes borne hym and one daughter, named Thamar, whyche was a fayre womā to loke vpō. So Absalom dwelt two yere in Jerusalem, & sawe not the kynges face. Therfore Absalō sent for Joab, to haue sent hym to the kinge, But he wolde not come to him. And whan he sent agayne, he wolde not come. Therfore he sayde vnto hys seruauntes: beholde, Joab hath a parcell of lande fast by my place, and he hath barlye therin. Go, and set it on fire. And Absaloms seruauntes sett it on fyre. ✠ (And Joabs seruauntes came wyth theyr garmētes rent, and sayde: Absaloms seruauntes haue burnt the pece of lande wyth fyre.

Then Joab arose & came to Absalō vnto his house, & sayde vnto him: wherfore haue thy seruauntes burnt my felde wyth fyre. And Absalom answered Joab: beholde, I sent for the, desyringe the to come, because I wolde haue sent the to ỹ kinge, for to saye: wherfore am I come from Gesur. It had bene better for me, to haue bene there styll. Nowe therfore, wolde I se the kynges face. And yf there be any trespace in me, kyll thou me. And so Joab came to the kynge, & tolde him: whych whan he had sent for Absalom, he came to the kynge, and fell to the grounde on hys face before hym. And the kynge kyssed Absalom.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

¶ Absalom maketh insurrecpon agaynst hys father. Dauid is fayne to flee for feare of hym.

AFter this it fortuned, that Absalom gatt hym charettes and horsses, and fyfty men to runne before him. And he roase vp early in the mornynges, and stode in the place of the entring in of the gate. And euery man that had anye matter and came to the kynge for iudgement, him dyd Absalō call vnto hym, and sayde: of what cytie art thou? he answered: thy seruaunt is of one of the trybes of Israel. And Absalom sayde vnto hym: se, thy matter is good and rygh teous, but there is no man deputed of the kynge to heare the. Absalō sayde moreouer: Oh, that I were made iudge in the lande, that euery man which hath anye pleye and matter in the lawe, myght come to me, and that I myght do him iustice! And whā any man came nye to hym, and dyd him obeysaunce, he put forth his hande and toke hym to hym, and kyssed hym. And on this maner dyd Absalom to all Israel that came to the kynge for Judgement, and ☞ he stale the hertes of the men of Israel. And ☞ after fourtye yeres it fortuned that Absalō sayde vnto the kynge: let me go nowe ☞ to Hebron, and paye my vowe which I haue vowed, vnto the Lorde: for thy seruaūt vowed a vowe * (when I was in Gesur in the lāde of Siria) sayeng: yf the Lord shall bringe me agayne to Jerusalē, I will ☞ serue ỹ Lord. And the kynge sayde vnto hym: go in peace. And so he arose, and went to Hebron. * ij. reg. xv. a

But Absalom sent spyes thorowe out all ỹ tribes of Israel sayēge: as sone as ye heare the voyce of the tropet blowe, ye shall saye: Absalō raigneth kynge in Hebrō. And with Absalom went two hūdred men out of Jerusalem, that were called. And they went vp pure hertes, not knowinge of any thynge. And Absalom sent also for Ahithophel the Gilonite Dauids counseller, that he shulde come out of hys cytie Gilo, whyle he offered sacrifyces. And there was wrought stronge treason. For the people went and increased vp Absalom in multitude. And there cam a messenger to Dauid & sayd: the hertes of the men of Israel are turned after Absalō. And Dauid sayde vnto all his seruauntes ỹ were wt him at Jerusalē: vp, ỹ we maye be gone, for we shall not else escape from Absalom. Make spede, to departe: leste he come sodēlie, and catche vs, & bringe some myschefe vpō vs, and smyte the cytie with the edge of the swerde. And ỹ kynges seruaūtes sayde vnto hym: beholde, thy seruauntes are redye, to do whatsoeuer my Lord ỹ kyng shall apoynte.

And the kynge & all his houshold departed a fote. And he left behinde hym * ten ☞ concubines, to kepe the house. And so ỹ kynge & all the people went out a fote, & taryed in a place that was farre of. And all his seruaūtes wēt about him. And all the Cerethites and all the Phelethites and all ỹ Gethites ✠ (myghtie men of warre) (euen. vj. hundred men whych were come a fote from Geth) went before the kynge. Then sayde ỹ kynge to * Ithai the Gethite, wherfore commest thou wyth vs? Returne and abide with the kynge, for thou art a straunger, and art remoued frō thyne awne place. Thou camest but yesterdaye, and shulde I vnquyet the to daye to go wt vs? I wyll go whether I can. Therfore returne thou, & carye agayne thy brethrē. Mercye and truthe ✠ (shall the Lord shew vnto the.) And Ithai answered the kynge and sayd: as truly as God lyueth & as my Lord the kinge lyueth, in what place my Lord the kynge shalbe, whether in deeth or lyfe, euen there also wyll thy seruaūt be. And Dauid ỹ kynge sayde to Ithai: come then, and go forwarde. And Ithai the Gethite went forth, & all hys men, & all the chyldren that were wt hym. And all the countrepe wepte wyth a loude voyce, & so dyd all the people that wēt forth. The kynge also hym selfe passed ouer the broke Kydron. me both it, & the tabernacle therof. But and there come some worde from you to be tolde

me. Sadock therfore and Abiathar caryed the Arcke of God agayne to Jerusalem, and they taryed there. And Dauid went vp on mount olyuet, and wepte as he went, and had his heed couered, & went barefote. And all the people that was wyth hym, had eue-

¶ The.xvj. Chapter.

¶ Siba bryngynge presentes to Dauid, bothe taketh accuse Miphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid, & hurleth stones at hym. Absalom (by the counsell of Ahithophel) lyg-

AND when Dauid was a lytle past the toppe of the hyll: beholde Siba the seruaunt of Miphiboseth came to mete hym with a couple of Asses sadeled, and vpon them two hundred loues and one hundred bonches of Relynges, and an hundred frayles of dryed frygges, and a bottell of wyne. And the kyng sayd vnto Si-ba: what meanest thou wyth these? And Si-ba sayde. They be Asses ☞ for the kynges housholde to ryde on, and bread and frute for the younge men to eate, and wyne: that such as be faynt in the wyldernesse, maye drynk.
And the kynge sayde: where is thy masters sonne? Siba answered vnto ỹ kynge: beholde, he taryeth styll at Jerusalem. For he sayde:
thys daye shall the house of Israel restore me the kyngdome of my father. Then sayde the kyng to Siba, beholde, thyne are all that pertayned vnto * Miphiboseth. And Siba sayede: I do homage to the. I beseche the that I maye fynde grace in thy syght, my Lorde, O kynge.

And when kynge Dauid came to Bahu-rim: beholde, thence cam out a man of the kynred of the house of Saul, named * Semei the sonne of Gera, and he cam out cursynge. And he cast stones at Dauid, and at all the seruaũtes of kynge Dauid: And all ỹ people also and all the men of warre were on hys ryght hande, and on hys lefte. And thus sayde * Semei whan he cursed: come forthe, come forth thou bloudesheder, and thou man steade thou hast raygned, and the Lord hath delyuered the kyngdõ into the hande of Ab-

Then sayde Abisai the sonne of Zaruia vnto the kynge: why doth thys deed dogg curse my Lorde the kynge? let me go nowe, and take of the heed of hym. And the kynge sayde: what haue I to do wyth you ye sonnes of Zarnia: let hym curse: for the Lorde hath bydden hym curse Dauid. Who dare then saye: Wherfore hast thou done so? And Dauid sayde to Abisai, and to all his seruan-tes, beholde, my sonne whych cam of myne

more then maye thys sonne of Jemini do it?
*iii.reg.ii.j. Suffre him to curse * for the Lord hath byd-

and his men went by the waye, Semei wẽt alõge on the hylles syde ouer agaynst hym, & cursed as he wẽt, and threwe stones at him, and cast dust. And the kynge and all ỹ were with him cam werye, and refreshed thẽ sel-

And Absalom and all the people of the men of Israel came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel was wyth him. And as sone as Hu-sai the Arachite was come vnto Absaló, he sayde vnto hym: God saue the kynge, God saue ỹ kyng. And Absalom sayde agayne to Husai: is this ỹ kyndnesse thou owest to thy frende? Why wenteſt thou not wyth hym? Huſai anſwered vnto Abſalō: naye not ſo, but whom the Lorde and this people and all the men of Iſrael chooſe, hys will I be, and with hym wyll I dwell. Moreouer, vnto whome ſhall I do ſeruice, but euen to hys ſonne? And as I was ſeruaunt before vnto thy father, euen ſo ſhall I be with the. Then ſpake Abſalom to Ahithophell: geue councell, what is beſt for vs to do. And Ahithophell ſayde vnto Abſalom: get the in vnto thy fa

And he went in vnto hys fathers concubynes in the ſyght of all Iſrael.

And the councell of Ahithophel which he counceled in thoſe dayes, was as a man had aſked councell of God: euen ſo was all the councell of Ahithophel, both wyth Dauid and wyth Abſalom.

¶ Ahithophel, ſeynge hys councell diſalowed of Huſai and forſaken, hangeth hym ſelfe.

AHithophel * ſayde vnto Abſalō: let me chooſe out nowe twelue thouſande men. And I will vp, & folowe after Dauid thys nyght. And I wyll come vpon hym, whyle he is werye and weake handed, and wyll feare hym: And all the people that are with hym, ſhall flee. And ſo will I ſmyte the kynge onlye, and wyll bryng agayne all the people vnto the, euen as eaſely as ꝓ I wolde brynge anye other thing. And whan I haue ſlayne the man whom thou ſeeke, all the people ſhall haue reſt. And ꝓ ſaying pleaſed Abſalom well, and all the elders of Iſrael. Then ſayde Abſalom: call alſo Huſai ꝓ Arachite, and let vs heare his councell. Whē Huſai was come to Abſalom, Abſalō ſpake vnto hym, ſayinge: Ahithophel hath geuen ſoche coūcell: Shall we do after his ſaying, or no? tell thou.

Huſai anſwered vnto Abſalō: the coūcell that Ahithophel hath geuen, is not good at this tyme: For (ſayd Huſai) ꝓ knoweſt thy father, & his men, howe that they be ſtrong. And they be chafed in their myndes, and are
* Oſe. xiij.b euen as a * Beare robbed of her whelpes in the felde. Thy father is a man alſo practiſed in warre, & maketh no tarienge with ꝓ people. Beholde he lurketh now in ſome caue, or in ſome other ſtroge place. And though ſome of his men be ouerthrowē at the fyrſt brunt, yet they that heare it will ſaye: The people that foloweth Abſalō, be put to the worſſe. And the beſt men thou haſt whoſe hertes are as the hertes of Lyōs, ſhall ſhrynke therat. For all Iſrael knoweth, that thy father is a myghtye man, and they wyth him are all men of warre.

Therfore my councell is, that all Iſrael C be geathered vnto the, from Dā to Beerſeba, (which are as ꝓ ſande of the ſee in nōbre) and that thou go to batayle in thyne awne perſon. For ſo ſhall we come vpō him in one place or other, where we ſhall fynde hym, & we will fall vpon him, euen as thicke as the dewe falleth on the groūde. And of all ꝓ men that are wyth hym, we ſhall not leaue hym one. Moreouer, yf he be gotte into a towne, then ſhall all the men of Iſrael bringe ropes to that cytie, and we wyll drawe it into the ryuer, vntyll there be not one ſtone founde there. And Abſalom and all the men of Iſrael ſayde: the councell of Huſai the Arachite is better, then the councell of Ahithophell. * For it was euen the Lordes determinacyon to deſtroye the good councell of D Ahithophel: that the Lorde myght bryng euell vpon Abſalom. Then ſayde * Huſai * ii.reg.xv.g vnto Sadock and Abiathar the Preaſtes: of this and that maner dyd Ahithophel and the elders of Iſrael councell Abſalom. And thus and thus haue I counceled. Nowe therfore ſend quicklye, and ſhewe Dauid ſaying: tarye not all nyght in the feldes of the wyldernelle, but gett the ouer, leſt the kynge be deuoured and all the people that are wyth hym. Nowe Jonathas and Ahimaaz abode by ꝓ well Rogell: (for they myght not be ſene to come into the cytie.) And a wēche went and tolde them. And they went, & ſhewed kynge Dauid. E

Neuertheleſſe a lad ſawe them, and tolde it to Abſalom. But they went both of them awaye quyckly, and cam to a mānes houſe in Bahurim, which had a well in his yarde, into the whych they went downe. And a woman toke and ſpredde a couerlet ouer the welles mouth, and ſtrawed fyrmentie corne theron. And the thynge was not eſpyed. And when Abſalōs ſeruauntes came to the wyfe to ꝓ houſe, they ſayde. Where is Ahimaaz & Jonathas? The woman anſwered thē: they be gone ouer the lytell broke of water. And when they had ſought them and coulde not fynde them, they returned to Jeruſalem. And as ſone as they were departed, ꝓ other came out of the well, and went and tolde kynge Dauid, and ſayde vnto hym: vp, and get you quyckly ouer the water for ſoche councel hath Ahithophel geuen, agaynſt you. Then Dauid aroſe, & all ꝓ people that were wyth hym, and they were come ouer Jordan be F that it was daye: ſo ꝓ there lacked not one of thē, ꝓ was not come ouer Jordā. And when Ahithophel ſawe, ꝓ his councell was not folowed, he ſadelled his Aſſe, & aroſe, & gate hym home to hys awne houſe, and to hys awne cytie, and put hys houshold in order, and hanged him selfe, and dyed, and was buryed in the sepulchre of hys father.

Then Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed ouer Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him. And Absalō made Amasa captayne of ẏ hoste in stede of Joab, whych Amasa was a mannes sonne named Jethra an Israhelite, that went into Abigail the daughter of Nahas syster to zeruia Joabs mother. So Israel and Absalō pytched in the lande of Gilead. And whē Dauid was come to Mahanaim, Sobi the sonne of Nahas out of * Rabba the citie of the chil dren of Ammon, & Machir the sonne of Ammiel out of Lodeber, and * Berzelai the Gileadite out of Roglim, brought beddes, basens, erthen vesselles, wheat & barly, floure, and parched corne, beanes, rice, oatmell, hony, butter, shepe and chese of kyene, for Dauid and all the people that were with him, to eate. For they sayd: The people is hongrye, weerye, and thyrsty in the wylderneſſe.

¶ The. xviij. Chapter.

¶ Absalom is ouercome in battell. He hangeth by the heere in an Oke. He is killed & put in a dytche. Dauid is so sorowfull for the death of Absalom that he weepeth.

AND Dauid nombred the people that were wyth hym, and sett captaynes of thousandes and of hundredes ouer them. And Dauid sent forth ẏ thirde parte of the people vnder the hande of Joab, and another parte vnder the hande of Abisai the sonne of zeruia Joabs brother, and the other thyrde parte vnder the hande of Ithai the Gethite. And the kynge sayde vnto the people: I wyll go with you also. And the people answered: Thou shalt not go forth: for yf we flē, oure aduersaries will not care for vs: nether shall they regard vs, though halfe vs were slayne: but ẏ art worth ten thousande of vs: Wherfore it is better, ẏ thou succoure vs out of the cytie. And the kynge sayde vnto them: what semeth you best, that wyll I do.

And the kynge stode by the gate syde, and all the people came out by hundredes and by thousandes. And ẏ kynge cōmaunded Joab & Abisai, & * Ithai sayeng: intreate ẏ yonge man Absalom gently for my sake. And all the people hearde, that the kynge gaue all ẏ captaynes charge concernynge Absalō. And so the people wēt out into the felde agaynst Israel, and the battel was in the woode of Ephraim: Where the people of Israel were put to the worsse before the seruauntes of Dauid, & there was a great slaughter that daye, euen of twentye thousande men: For ẏ felde was fought there in dyuerse places, all abroade vpon the erthe. And ☞ ẏ wodd denoured moo people that daye, than dyd the swerde. And Absalom came before the seruauntes of Dauid rydynge vpon a Mule, whych carryed hym vnder ẏ thicke bowes of a great Oke. And ☞ his heed was caught of the Oke, and he was lifte vp betwene heuen & erthe: & ẏ Mule that was vnder hym, wēt his waye. And one ẏ saw it tolde Joab, sayeng: beholde, I sawe Absalō hange in an Oke: and Joab sayde vnto the man ẏ tolde him. yf thou dydest se hym, why dydest not thou there smyte him to the groūd, & I wold haue geuen the ten sicles of syluer, & a girdle.

The man sayde vnto Joab: though thou woldest laye a thousande sycles of syluer in my hande, yet wolde I not stretche out myne hande agaynst the kynges sonne. For we hearde with oure eares whē the kynge charged the, and Abisai and Ithai, sayenge: Beware, ẏ none touch the yonge mā Absalom. Moreouer, yf I had done it, I shulde haue done agaynst myne owne life: for there is no matter hyd from the kinge: yee and thou thy selfe woldest haue bene agaynst me. Then sayde Joab: I may not stande thus tarryeng wyth the.

And he toke thre speares in his hande, & thrust them thorowe Absalō, while he was yet a lyue on the bodye of the tree. And ten seruauntes that bare Joabs wepōs, turned, and smote Absalom and slue him. And whē Joab blewe the trompet, the people returned from folowynge Israel: for Joab spared the people. And they toke Absalom, and cast hym into a great pytt in the wood, & layed a myghtie great heape of stones vpon hym. And all Israel fled to their tentes. And thys Absalom yet in hys lyfe tyme * toke counsell & reared vp a piller, whyche is in kynges dale. For he sayd: I haue no sonne. And therfore to kepe my name in remembraunce do I it. And he called the pyller after hys awne name. And it is called vnto thys daye: Absaloms pyller.

Then sayde Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadoch: let me runne nowe, and beare the kyng tydinges, how ẏ the Lorde hath iudged hym quyte of the hande of hys enemyes. And Joab sayd vnto hym: ẏ art no man to beare good tydynges to daye: ẏ shalt beare tydynges another tyme: but to daye ẏ shalt beare none, because the kynges sonne is deed. Thē sayde Joab to Chusi: go and tell the kynge, what thou hast sene: And Chusi bowed him selfe vnto Joab, and ranne. Then sayd Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadoch agayne to Joab: come what come wyll, let me also runne after Chusi. And Joab sayd: Wherfore wilt thou runne my sonne? seing that for the tydynges thou shalt haue no rewarde: well (sayde he) come what will, let me runne. He sayd vnto him: runne. Thē Ahimaaz rāne by ẏ playne waye, and came before Chusi.

And

F And Dauid sat betwene the two gates. And the watcheman went vp to the rouffe ouer the gate vnto the walle, & lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe: & beholde, there cam a man runnynge alone. And ꝑ watcheman cryed, & tolde ꝑ kynge. And the kynge sayde: yf he be alone, there is good tydinges in his mouth. And he came, & dre we nye. And ꝑ watchemā sawe another man runnynge, and he called vnto the porter and sayde: beholde, there cōmeth another man runnynge alone. And the kynge sayde: he is also a tydinges brynger. And the watcheman sayde. me thynketh the runnynge of the formoft is lyke ꝑ runnynge of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock The kynge sayde: he is a good man, and commeth with good tydinges. And Ahimaaz called, & sayde vnto the kynge: good tydinges, and he fell downe flatt to the erth vpon his face before the kynge, and sayde: blessed be the Lorde thy ☞ God, which hath ☞ shutt vp the men that lyft vp their handes agaynft my Lorde the G kynge. And the kynge sayde: is the younge mā Absalom safe? Ahimaaz answered: Whē Joab sent (Chusi) the kynges seruaunt, and me thy seruaunt, I sawe much a doo. But I whotte not what it was. And ꝑ kynge sayde vnto him: turne, and stande here. And he turned, and stode styll.

And beholde, Chusi came also, and sayde: Good tydinges my Lorde the kynge, for ꝑ Lorde hath quytte the thys daye out of the hande of all them ꝑ rose agaynft the. And the kynge sayde vnto Chusi. Is the younge mā Absaló safe? Chusi answered: The enemyes of my Lord the kynge, and all that ryse agaynft ꝑ, to do the hurt, be as that younge man is. And the kynge was moued, and went vp to a chambre ouer the gate, and wept. And as he went, thus he sayde: O my sonne Absalom, my sonne, my sonne Absalom, wolde God I had dyed for the: O Absaló my sonne, my sonne.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Dauid is reconsyled to his kyngdome, and brought agayne to Jerusalem.

A And it was tolde Joab: beholde, ꝑ kynge wepeth and mourneth for Absalom. And the victorie of that daye was turned into mournynge vnto all ꝑ people. For the people hearde saye that daye, howe the kynge sorowed for hys sonne. And the people stale awaye that daye from goynge into the cytie, as people confounded stele awaye, when they flee in battel. But the kynge hyd his face, and cryed with a loude voyce. O my sōne Absalom, O Absalon my sonne, my sonne.

And Joab came into the house to ꝑ kynge, and sayde: thou hast shamed this daye the faces of all thy seruaūtes, which this daye haue saued thy lyfe, and the lyues of thy sonnes and of thy daughters, & the lyues of thy wiues, and of thy concubynes, in that thou loueft thyne enemyes, and hateft thy frendes. For thou haft declared thys daye, that thou regardeft nether thy Lordes nor seruauntes. B And this daye I do perceaue, that yf Absalom had lyued, & all we had dyed this daye, that had pleased ꝑ well. Nowe therfore vp, and come out, and speake kyndely vnto thy seruauntes: For I swere by the Lorde, except thou come out, there will not tarye one man with the thys nyght. And that wilbe worse vnto the, then all the euell that fell on the from thy youth vnto thys houre. Then the kynge arose, and satt downe in the Gate. And they tolde vnto all the people, sayinge: Beholde, the kynge doth sytt in ꝑ Gate. And all the people came before the kinge. But Israel fled, euery man to hys tent.

And it forturned ꝑ all the people were at stryfe thorowe out all the trybes of Israel, sayinge: the kyng saued vs out of the hāde of oure enemyes, he delyuered vs out of ꝑ hāde of ꝑ Philistines, and nowe he is fleed out of the lande for Absalom. But Absaló whō we anoynted ouer vs, is dead in battell. Therfore, why are ye so styll, that ye brynge not ꝑ kynge agayne? And kyng Dauid sent to Sa C dock and Abiathar ꝑ preastes, sayinge: speake vnto the elders of Juda & saye: why are ye behynde, to brynge ꝑ kynge agayne to his house, seynge that soch tydinges is come frō all Israel vnto the kynge euen to hys house? (For the kynge had sayde: Thus shall ye saye vnto the people of Juda.) Ye are my brethren, my bones & my flesche: wherfore then are ye the last that bringe the kynge home agayne? And saye ye to Amasa: art thou not of my bone & of my flesche? God do so and so to me, yf thou be not captayne of ꝑ host to me for euer in ꝑ roume of Joab. And he bowed the hertes of all the men of Juda, euen, as the hert of one man: so ꝑ they sent this worde to the kyng: Returne thou with all thy seruauntes. So the kynge returned, & came to Jordan. And Juda came to Gilgal, for to go downe to mete ꝑ kynge, & to cōueye him ouer Jordā. And Simei * ꝑ *16. Re. fbi.b sonne of Gera, the sonne of Jemini, whych was of Bahurim, hasted, and came with the men of Juda to mete king Dauid, and there were a thousande men of Beniamin wt hym, & * Ziba the seruaunt of the house of Saul *16. Re. fbi.a. and his. xv. sonnes and twentye seruauntes with him. And they went quyckly ouer Jordan before the kynge. And there went ouer a boate that carred ouer ꝑ kynges housholde and they dyd him pleasure.

And Simei the sonne of Gera fell before E the kynge (as he was come ouer Jordā) and sayde vnto hi: let not my Lorde impute wickednesse vnto me, ner remember the thinges (that they seruaunt dyd wickedly when my Lorde the kyng departed out of Jerusalem) that the kyng shulde take it to herte. For thy seruaunt doth knowe, howe ỹ I haue done amysse. And therfore beholde, I am the fyrst this daye of all the house of Joseph, that am come to go downe, to mete my Lorde the kynge. But Abisai ỹ sonne of zeruia answered, and sayde: shall not Semei dye for this, because he cursed the Lords anoynted? And Dauid sayde: what matter is betwene you and me ye sonnes of zeruia? For thys daye ye be aduersaryes vnto me. Shall there any mã dye this daye i Israel? Do not I knowe, that I am this daye kynge ouer Israel? And therfore the kynge sayde vnto Semei: thou shalt not dye, & the kynge sware vnto him.

E And Miphiboseth the sonne of Saul came also to mete the kynge, & had nether washed his fete, ner shauen his beerde, ner washed his clothes from the tyme the kynge departed, vntyll he came agayne in peace. And it fortuned that when he was come to Jerusalem, and mett the kynge, the kynge sayde vnto him: wherfore wentest not thou wyth me Miphiboseth? He answered: my Lorde, O kynge, my seruaunt deceaued me. For thy seruaunt sayde I wolde haue mine Asse sadled to ryde theron, for to go to the kynge, because thy seruaũt is lame. And ziba hath falsely reported of thy seruaũt vnto my Lorde the kynge. And my Lorde the kynge is as an angel of God: do therfore what semeth good in thine eyes. For all my fathers house were but deed mẽ before my Lorde the kynge: and yet dydest thou put thy seruaũt amonge thẽ ỹ dyd eate at thyne awne table. What ryght therfore haue I yet, to crye any more vnto ỹ kynge? And the kynge sayde vnto him: Why speakest thou yet in thyne awne cause? (He is determyned, that) I haue sayde: thou and ziba deuide the landes betwene you. And Miphiboseth sayde vnto ỹ kynge: yee lett him take all: for so moch as my Lorde the kynge is come agayne in peace vnto his awne house.

F And Berselai the Gileadite came downe from Roglim, and went ouer Jordan with the kyng, to conuaye him ouer Jordã: Berselai was a very aged man, euen foure skore yere olde, & prouyded ỹ kynge of sustenaũce, whyle he laye at Mahanaim: for he was a man of verye great substaũce. And ỹ kynge sayde vnto Berselai: come thou with me, & I will fede the with me in Jerusalem. And *ii.kin.xix.g *Berselai sayde vnto the kynge: I am thus olde, and howe am I able to go vp with the kynge vnto Jerusalẽ? I am this daye foure skore yere olde: and can I decerne betwene good and euell? hath thy seruaunt any taste in that he eateth or drincketh? Can he heare any more the voyce of synginge men & women? Wherfore then shulde thy seruaunt be yet a burthen vnto my Lorde the kynge? Thy seruaũt will go a lytle waye ouer Jordan with the kynge: and why wyll ỹ kynge reconrpence it me with soch a rewarde? O let thy seruaũt turne back agayne, that I maye dye in myne awne cytie, and (be buryed) in ỹ graue of my father and of my mother. Beholde, here is thy seruaunt Chimeam: let him go with my Lorde the kynge, and do to him, what shall please the: H

And the kynge answered: Chimeam shall go with me. And I will do to him that thou shalt be content with. And whatsoeuer thou shalt requyre of me, that same will I do for the. And all the people went ouer Jordan: And whẽ the kynge was come ouer Jordã, he kyssed Berselai, and blessed him, & he wẽt backe agayne vnto his awne place. And then the kynge went to Gilgal, and Chimeã wẽt with him, & so dyd all the people of Judã, and brought ouer the kynge, and there were but halfe the men of Israel.

And beholde, all the men of Israel came to the kynge, and sayde vnto him, why haue oure bretheren ỹ mẽ of Juda stolen the awaye and haue brought the kyng & his housholde, and all Dauids men with him ouer Jordan? And all the men of Juda answered the men of Israel: the kynge is nere of kynne to vs: wherfore be ye angrye for ỹ matter? thynke ye that we eate of ỹ kynges cost, or that we take vs any gyftes? And the men of Israel answered ỹ men of Juda and sayde: we haue ten partes in the kynge, & haue therto more ryght to Dauid then ye. Why then dyd ye despyse vs, ỹ oure aduise shulde not be fyrst had in restoringe oure kynge agayne? And ỹ wordes of the mẽ of Juda were fearcer, then the wordes of the men of Israel.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

¶ Seba the sonne of Bichri reyseth Israel agaynst Dauid. Joab killeth Amasa trayterously. The heed of Seba is deliuered to Joab. Dauids receauers are nombred.

A Whan there cam thither a certayne mã of Belial (named Seba, the sonne of Bichri, a mã of gemini) he blew a trõpet & sayde: we haue no parte in Dauid, neither haue we enheritaunce in the sonne of Jsai, let the men of Israel departe vnto therr tentes. And so euery euery man of Israel went from Dauid, and folowed Seba the sonne of Bichri. But the men of Juda claue fast vnto their kynge, fró Jordan to Jerusalem.

And Dauid came to his house to Jerusalem, * and toke the ten women his concubines, that he had left behynde him to kepe the house, and put them in warde, and fedd thē: but laye no moare wyth them. And so they were enclosed vnto the daye of their deeth, lyuynge in wedowhode. *16.xv.d. 20.xvi.d.

Then sayde the kynge to Amasa: call me the men of Juda togeather agaynst the thirde daye, and be thou here also. And so Amasa went to gather the men of Juda to geather: but taried lōger, then the tyme which he had appoynted him. And Dauid sayde to Abisai: nowe shall Seba the sonne of Bichri do vs more harme, then dyd Absalom. Take thou therfore thy Lordes seruaūtes, & folowe after him: lest he gett him walled cyties, and escape vs. And there went out after hym Joabs men, and the Crethites and the Pheletites, and all the myghtiest mē. And they departed out of Jerusalem to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And when they were at the great stone in Gibeon, Amasa went before them. And Joabs garmēt (that he had about him) was gyrde vnto him, and he had gyrded theron, a knyfe, which was toyned fast to hys loynes, in soch a sheth, þ (as he wēt) it fell some tymes out. And Joab sayde to Amasa: art thou in health my brother? And Joab toke Amasa by the chynne with the ryght hande, to * kysse hym. But Amasa toke no hede to the knyfe that was in Joabs hande, for therwith he smote hym * in the short rybbes, and shed out hys bowelles to the grounde, and thrust at him no more, and he dyed. *ij.Reg.xx.a. *ij.Reg.ij.f.

So Joab and Abisai his brother folowed after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And one of Joabs men stode by him, and sayde: he þ beareth any fauoure to Joab, or good will to Dauid, let him go after Joab: And Amasa laye walowed in bloude, in the myddes of the waye. And there was a man, which whē he sawe that * all the people stode styll, he rowled Amasa out of the waye into the felde, & cast a cloth vpon him, because he sawe that euery one that came, stode styll by hym. And as sone as he was tombeled out of the waye, all the people went after Joab, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri. *ij.Reg.ij.g.

And he went throwe all the trybes of Israel vnto Abel, and to Bethmaacha and all the places of Barim. And they geathered togethet, and went after him. And they came, & beseged him in Abel & in Bethmaacha And they cast vp a bancke agaynst the cytie that stode in the valleye. All the people that was with Joab, thrust at the wall to ouerthrowe it. Then cryed a wyse woman out of the cytie, heare heare, byd Joab come hither, that I maye speake with hym. When Joab was come vnto her, the woman sayde: art þ Joab? he answered: I am he. She sayde vnto him: heare the wordes of thy handmayde? And he answered: I do heare. And she sayde agayne: * They spake in the olde tyme, sayinge: men must aske peace first, how more rather shulde they so do to Abell? For so haue they contynued hytherto: I am one of them that are peaceable and faythfull in Israel. And thou goest about to destroye a citie and a mother in Israel. Why wilt thou deuoure the enheritaunce of the Lorde? *

And Joab answered, and sayde: God forbyd, God forbid it me, that I shulde ether deuoure or destroye. The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim (Seba þ sonne of Bichri by name) hath lyfte vp his hāde agaynst the kynge, euen against Dauid. Deliuer vs him only, and I will departe from the cytie. And the woman sayde vnto Joab: Beholde, his heed shalbe throwē to the, ouer the wall. And then the woman went vnto all þ people with her wisdome. And they smote of the heed of Seba þ sōne of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab. * And he blewe a trompet, and they scatered from the cytie, euery man to his tent. And Joab returned to Jerusalem, vnto the kynge. *ij.Reg.ij.g.

Joab was ouer all the hoste of Israel. And Banaia þ sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites & Pheletites. And Aduram was ouer the tribute. And Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud was Recorder. Seua was scribe. And Sadoek & Abiathar were the preastes. And Ira the Jairite was Dauids preast.

¶ The. xxj. Chapter.

¶ Thre deare yeres. The dengeaunce of the synnes of Saul lyghteth on hys seuen sonnes, whych are hāged. Foure great batelles, whych Dauid had agaynst the Philistines.

When there fell an hongre in the dayes of Dauid, thre yeres together. And Dauid enquired of the Lorde. And the Lorde answered: it is for Saul, and þ house of bloude, because he slue the * Gibaonites. *i.re.xxii.d. And the kynge called the Gibaonites, & sayde vnto them (Nowe the Gibaonites were, not of the * chyldren of Israel, but a remnaunt of the Ammorites, and the chyldren of Israel sware vnto them: And Saul soughte to slay them, for a zele that he had to the children of Israel and of Juda.) Wherfore Dauid sayde vnto thē, what shall I do for you, and wherwith shall I make the attonemēt, that ye maye blesse the enheritaunce of the Lorde? *Josua.ix.c.

The Gibaonites answered him: we wyll haue no syluer ner gold, of Saul ner of hys house: nether is it oure mynde, þ thou shuldest beste kyll any man in Israel. He sayde: what saye ye then þ I shall do for you? They answered the kinge: the man that cõsumed vs, & ymagened to dryngе vs to nought him will we destroye, that nought of him continewe in any of the coastes of Israel. Let seuen men of his sonnes be delyuered vnto vs, and we will hange them vp vnto the Lorde, in Gibeah of Saul, whom the Lorde dyd chose. And the kynge sayde: I will geue them you.

But the kynge had cõpassyon on Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas, the sonne of Saul, because of the Lordes othe þ was betwene them: euẽ betwene Dauid and Jonathas the sonne of Saul. But he toke the two sonnes of Rizpa the daughter of Aia (whõ she bare vnto Saul) euen Armoni and Miphiboseth, & the fyue sonnes of Michol (the daughter of Saul) whom she bare to Adriel the sonne of Barsilai þ Meholathite. And he delyuered them vnto the handes of the Gibeonites, which hanged the in the hill before the Lorde. And they fell all seuen to geather, and were slayne in the dayes of heruest: euen in the fyrst dayes, and in the begynnynge of Barley heruest:

And Rizpa the daughter of Aia toke sackclothe and & hanged it vp for the vpon the Rocke, euen from the begynnunge of haruest vntyll rayne dropped vpon them out of heuen: and suffered nether the byrdes of the ayre to fall on them by daye, nor beastes of the felde by nyght. And it was tolde Dauid what Rizpa the daughter of Aia the concubyne of Saul had done: and Dauid went, & toke the bones of Saul and of Jonathas his sonne, fro the men of Jabes in Gilead (which had stolen them from the strete of Bethsan, where the Philistines had hanged them whe the Philistines had slayne Saul in Gilboa.) And he brought thence the bones of Saul, and þ bones of Jonathas his sonne, & they toke vp the bones of them that were hãged. And the bones of Saul and Jonathas hys sonne buryed they in the contrey of Benjamin, in Sela, in the sepulchre of Cis hys father. And when they had performed all that the kynge commaunded, God was then at one with the lande.

It fortuned, that the Philistines had yet warre agayne with Israel. And Dauid wẽt downe & his seruauntes with hym, & fought agaynst the Philistines. And Dauid waxed fayntie, and Jesby of Nob one of the sonnes of the gyauntes (the ꝑson of whose speare wayed & thre hũdred sycles, and he beynge gyrded with a newe swerde) thought to haue slayne Dauid. * But Abisai the sonne of Saruia succoured hym, and smote the Philistine, and killed him. Then the seruauntes of Dauid sware vnto him, sayinge: Thou shalt go no moare out with vs to battell, that þ quench not & the lyght of Israel. And yet after this, there was a battell with the Philistines at Nob, and then Sibbechai the Husathite slewe Saph which was one of the sonnes of the gyauntes.

And there was yet another battell in * Nob with the Philistines, where Elhanam the sonne of Jaare Orgim, a Bethlemite slue one Goliath a Gethite: the staffe of whose speare was as great as a weuers clothbeame. *1. Par. xx.

And there was yet another battell i Geth where was a man of a great stature, & had on euery hand. vj. fyngers and on euery fote vj. toes. xxiij. in all. And was borne also of the kynred of the giaũtes in Geth. And whã he defyed Israell, Jonathas the sonne of Simea the brother of Dauid slewe hym These foure gyauntes were borne in Geth, & fell into the hande of Dauid and into the hãdes of his seruauntes.

¶ The. xxij. Chapter.

¶ The songe of Dauid for hys delyueraunce from hys enemyes.

AND Dauid spake the wordes of thys songe vnto the Lorde, what tyme the Lorde had delyuered him out of the hãde of all his enemyes, and out of the hande of Saul.

And he sayde: the Lorde is & my rocke, and my castel, and my delyuerer. God is my strength, in him will I trust: he is my shylde, and the horne of my saluacyon: my worshyp and my refuge: my sauiour, thou shalt saue me from wronge.

* I will call on þ Lorde which is prayse worthy, and so shall I be saued from myne enemyes. For the corrupcyons of deeth closed me about: the floudes of Belial put me in feare. The sorowes of hell compassed me about: the snares of deeth ouertoke me. In my tribulacyon will I call vpon the Lorde, and crye to my God. And he shall heare my voyce out of his temple, and my crye shall enter into his eares. The erth trimbled and quaked: & the foundacyons of heuen moued and shoke, whan he was angrye. *Psal. xvij. 2.

Smoke went vp in his wrath, and consumynge fyre out of hys mouth, coles were kendled therof. And he bowed heuẽ, and came downe, and there was darcknesse vnder his fete. And he satt vpon Cherub & dyd flye he & was seue carped vpon the wynges of the wynde. He made darcknesse a tabernacle rounde about hym, with waters geathered to geather in thycke cloudes. Thorowe the brightenesse of his presence were the fyre coles kyndled.

God thundred from heuen, and he that is most hye, doth put out his voyce. He shotte arowes, and shatered them: he hurled lyghtenynge, tenynge, and ouerthrewe them. The flowinges of the see appered, and the foundacyons of the worlde were sene, by the reason of the rebukinge of the Lorde, and thorowe the blastynge of the breeth of hys nostrelles. He shall sende from heauen, and fett me, he shall plucke me out of many waters.

He shall delyuer me from my myghtye aduersatye, and fro myne enemyes, for they are to stronge for me. When they had ouertaken me in the daye of my calamytye ꝑ Lorde stayed me vp. For he brought me out into rowmth: he delyuered me, because he had a ℭ lowe vnto me.

enoma.6.b. * The Lord will rewarde me accordinge to my ryghtwysnelle: accordynge to the purenelle of my handes will he recompense me. For I haue kept the wayes of the Lorde, & done no wyckednelle agaynst my God. For all his lawes are in my syght, & his statutes wyll not I put awaye fro me. In his syght ☞ also haue I bene vndefyled, & ☞ haue kepte me fro myne awne iniquite.

And the Lorde dyd to me agayne, accordynge to my ryght wesnes, euē after my purenelle in his eyesyght. Wyth the godly thou shalt be godly, and wt the man that is vncorrupt, thou shalt be vncorrupt. With the pure thou shalt be pure, & with the frowarde thou shalt be frowarde. And the pore people ꝑ are in aduersyte, ꝑ shalt helpe. And on ꝑ proude shalt thou cast thine eyes. Thou art my light O Lorde: ꝑ Lorde shall lyght my darknelle.

For with thy helpe I will runne thorowe ☞ an hoste of men, and in ☞ my God wyll I ☞ sprynge ouer a walle. ☞ God is vncorrupt in his waye: the worde of the Lorde is tryed in the fyre: he is the defender of all them that trust in him.

For who is a God, saue the Lorde? & who is myghtie, saue oure God? God strengtheth ☞ me with power, and ☞ ryddyth the waye in batteil cleare before me. He maketh my fete lyke hartes fete, & setteth me fast vpon my hye holde.

Psa.xviiii. * he teacheth my handes to fyght, ꝑ eue a bowe of steele is to weake for myne armes.

Thou hast geuen me the shild of thy saluacyō, and with thy louinge meuenelle thou dost multiplie me. Thou shalt make me space to walke in, and my legges shall not fayle me. I will folowe vpon myne enemyes and destroye them, and turne not agayne vntyll I haue consumed them.

I will waste them and smyte them, that they shall not be able to aryse: yee, they shall fall vnder my fete.

Thou hast gyrded me about with myght to battell, and them that roase agaynst me, hast thou subdued vnder me.

And thou madest myne enemyes (& them that hated me) to turne their backes to me, that I myght destroye them. They loke for helpe, but there is none to saue them: Yee, euen vnto the Lorde do they crye, but he heareth them not.

I will beate them as smalle as the dust of the erth: I will stampe them as the dyrte of the strete, and will spreade them abroade.

Thou shalt delyuer me from the dissencyon of my people: thou shalt kepe me to be an heed ouer nacyons: the people whych I knewe not, shall serue me.

Straūge childrē dissemble with me: At the hearynge of the eare they obeye me.

Straūge chyldrē will shrynche awaye, and they shalbe smytten with feare in their preuye chamber. Godis a lyue, and blessed be my maker: magnifyed be God, my moste stronge saluacion. It is God that aduengeth me, and bryngeth downe the people vnder me. He delyuereth me fro myne enemyes, ꝑ also shalt lyfte me vpon hye from them that ryse agaynst me, thou shalt delyuer me from the wicked men.

And therfore I will prayse ꝑ (O Lorde) amonge the nacyons, and wyll synge vnto thy name. Whych sheweth greate saluacyō for his kynge, and dealeth mercyfully with his anoynted: euen wyth Dauid, and wyth his sede for euermore.

These bē ☞ the last sayinges of Dauid. Dauid the sonne of Jsay sayde. ☞ And the mā (which was made, the anoynted of the God of Jacob, and the noble Psalmist of Jsrael) sayde: ꝑ spirite of the Lorde spake by me, & his worde was in my tonge. The God of Jsrael spake ☞ of me, euen ꝑ moste myghtie of Jsrael, sayde: he ꝑ beareth rule ouer mē, ought to rule iustlye in ꝑ feare of God. And as ꝑ morninge lyght when the sonne is vp, a morninge in whych are no clowdes to lett the bryghtnelle, and as the grasse of the erth is by the vertue of the rayne. ☞ Shall not my house be so wt God? ☞ * For he hath made with me an euerlastinge conenaunt, perfecte and sure in all poyntes: & this is truly all my healthe, all my desire ꝑ it growe but not as grasse. But ꝑ vngodly mā of Belial shall be as a thorne cleane plucke vp, which can not be taken wt handes: But the man that shall touche them, must haue yron, or a longe helue. * Or els must they be burnt with fyre in the same place.

These be the names of the myghtye men whom Dauid had: ☞ one ꝑ satt in ꝑ seat of wisdome, beinge chefest amōge thre, pleasaūt was he and stronge: he slue eyght hundred at one tyme. After him was Eleazar the sonne of Dodi the sonne of Ahohi, one of the thre worthies

worthies vñ Dauid, which defyed the Philistines that were there gathered together to battell: whã the men of Israel were gone vp. he arose & layed on the Philistines, vntyll hys hande was werye, and claue vnto the swerde. And the Lorde gaue great victorye the same daye. And the people (which had fled) returned, and went after him to runne to the spoyle. After him was Samma the sonne of Age the Hararite: and the Philistines gathered together beside a towne. (Where was a parcell of lande full of ryce) and the people fled from the Philistines. But he stode in the myddes of the grounde, and defended it, and slue the Philistines. And the the Lorde gaue great victorye.

1. Para. 11. d. * These thre (which were of the thirtye chefe captaynes) went downe to Dauid in ꝑ haruest tyme vnto the caue Adullam, & the hoost of the Philistines abode in the valeye of Geauntes. And Dauid was then in an holde. And the Soudioures of the Philistines were in Bethlehem. And Dauid longed and sayde. Oh, that I had of the water that is in the well by the gate of Bethlehem, for to drincke. And the thre myghtie brake thorowe the hoost of the Philistines, & fett water out of the well of Bethlehem that was by the gate, and toke and brought it to Dauid: Neuertheles he wolde not dryncke ther of, but offered it vnto the Lorde, and sayde: the Lorde forbyd that I shulde do so. Is not this the bloude of the men that wente in ieopardye of their lyues? and therfore he wolde not dryncke it. And these thinges dyd these

¶ Dauid causeth the people to be nombred, and therfore is Israel plaged with pestilence: so that in thre dayes there dyed .lxx. thousande.

AGayne, the Lorde was wroth agaynst Israel, and ꝑ he moued Dauid agaynst thẽ, in ꝑ he sayde: * go and nõbre Israel and Juda. For the kynge sayde to Joab the captayne of his hoost: go thou abroade nowe, thorow out all the trybes of Israel, euen from Dan to Beer Seba, & nombre ye the people, that I maye knowe the nombre of them. And Joab sayde vnto the kynge: I beseche ꝑ Lorde thy God, to make ꝑ people as many moo as they be: ye and an hũdred tymes so many mo, and that the eyes of my Lorde the kynge maye se them. And what is the cause ꝑ my Lorde the kynge hath a lust to this thinge? Notwithstãdynge the kynges worde preuayled agaynst Joab and agaynst the captaynes of ꝑ hoste:

And Joab and the captaynes of the hoost went out from the presence of the kynge, to nombre the people of Israel. And they passed ouer Jordan, and pitched in Aroer on the ryght syde of the cyte that lyeth in the myddes of the valeye of Gad, ouer agaynst Jazer. And then they came to Gilead, and to the nether lande, where was a newe habitacyõ, & from thẽce they came to Dan Jaan about to Sidon, & came to the stronge holde of Tyre, and to all the cyties of the Heuites and of the Cananites, & then went out to ꝑ South of Juda, euẽ to Beersheba. And so, whẽ they had bene abroade thorowe out all the lande, they returned to Jerusalẽ agayne, after the ende of nyne monethes and twentye dayes. And Joab deliuered vp the nõbre and summe of the people vnto the kynge. And there were in Israel eyghte hũdred thousande men of myght ꝑ bare swerdes. And the men of Juda were fyue hundred thousande men.

And Dauids hert smote hym, after that he had nõbred the people. And Dauid sayde vnto the Lorde: I haue synned exceedyngly in that in that I haue done. And nowe Lorde take awaye the treſpace of thy ſeruaũt: for I haue done very folyſhely. And when Dauid was vp in a morninge, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophet Gad Dauids ſear, ſayinge: go and ſaye vnto Dauid, thus ſayth ꝑ Lord: I offer the thre thynges, chooſe ꝑ which of them I ſhall do vnto the.

So Gad came to Dauid, and ſhewed him, & ſayde vnto him. Wilt thou haue ſeuen yeres hunger to come in thy lande, or wilt ꝑ flee. iij. monethes before thyne enemies, they folowinge the, or that there be thre dayes peſtilence in thy lande? Nowe therfore aduyſe the, & ſe, what anſwere I ſhall geue to him ꝑ ſent me. And Dauid ſayde vnto Gad: I am in extreme trouble. * We will fall now into the hãde of the Lorde, for moch is his mercye, and lett me not falle into the hande of man.

And ſo ꝑ Lorde ſent a peſtilẽce in Iſrael. frõ the morninge vnto the tyme appoynted. And there dyed of the people from Dan to Beerſeba ſeuẽty thouſande men. And when the Angell ſtretched out his hãde vpon Jeruſalem to deſtroye it, the Lorde had cõpaſſion to do that euell, and ſayde to the Angell that deſtroyed ꝑ people: it is nowe ſufficient: holde thyne hande. And ꝑ angell was by the threſhinge place of Arefna the Jebuſite. And Dauid ſpake vnto the Lorde (when he ſawe the angell that ſmote the people) and ſayde: loo, it is I that haue ſynned, and I ꝑ haue done wyckedly. But theſe ſhepe, what haue they done? lett thyne hande (I prayе the) be againſt me and againſt my fathers houſe.

And Gad came the ſame daye to Dauid, and ſayde vnto him: go vp and reare an aultare vnto the Lorde in the threſhinge flowre of Arefna the Jebuſite. And Dauid (accordinge to the ſayinge of Gad) wẽt vp, as the Lorde commaunded. And Arefna loked, and ſawe the kynge and his ſeruauntes cominge towarde him. And Arefna wẽt out, and bowed him ſelfe before the kynge flat on his face vpon the groũde, and Arefna ſayde: wherfore is my Lorde the kynge come to his ſeruaunt? Dauid anſwered: to bye the threſhynge flowre of the, and to make an aultare vnto the Lorde, that the plage maye ceaſe from the people.

And Arefna ſayde vnto Dauid: let my Lord the kynge take and offer what ſemyth him good in his eyes: Beholde, here be oxen for burnt ſacrifyce, and ſleades and the other inſtrumentes of the oxen for wood. All theſe thynges dyd Arefna geue vnto the kynge, & ſayde moreouer vnto the kynge: ꝑ Lorde thy God accepte the. And the kynge ſayde vnto Arefna: not ſo, but I wyll bye it of the at a pryce, and wyll not offer ſacrifyce vnto the Lorde my God of ꝑ which doth coſt me nothinge. And ſo Dauid bought ꝑ threſhynge flowre, & the oxen & for fyttle ſpeies of ſylner. And Dauid buylt there an aultare vnto ꝑ Lorde, & offered burnt ſacrifyces and peace offeringes. And ſo the Lorde was intreated for the lãde. And the plage ceaſed frõ Iſrael.

¶ The ende of ꝑ ſecond boke of Samuel: other wyſe called the ſeconde of the kynges.

¶ The thirde boke of the kynges after the reckonynge of the Latyniſtes: which thirde boke and the fourth alſo, is but one with the Hebrues.

¶ The fyrſt Chapter.

¶ The younge virgin Abiſag kepeth Dauid in his extreme age. Adonia occupieth the realme bitwix tynge to his father. Salomõ is annoynted kynge, and ſo Adonia getteth him awaye.

NO kynge Dauid was olde & ſtrykē in yeres: ſo ꝑ whan they coue red hym wt clothes, he caught no heat. wher fore his ſer naũtes ſay de vnto hi: let there be ſought for my Lord ꝑ kynge a younge mayden, to ſtonde before ꝑ kynge and to cheryſhe hi. And let her lye in thy boſome, ꝑ my Lorde the kinge maye get heate. And ſo they ſought for a fayre damoſell thorow out all ꝑ coaſtes of Iſrael, & foũde one Abiſag a Sunamite, & brought her to the kynge. And the damoſell was exceadinge fayre, & cheriſched ꝑ kynge, & miniſtred to hi. But ꝑ kyng knewe her not.

And Adonia the ſonne of Hagith exalted him ſelfe, ſayinge: I willbe kyng. And he gatt him charettes & horſmen, and fyftie men to runne before him. And his father wolde not diſpleaſe him at anye tyme, nor ſayd ſo moch to him as, why doeſt thou ſo? And he was a goodlye mã, & his mother bare him next after Abſalom. And he toke counſell at Joab the ſonne the sonne of Sarui̇a, & at Abiathar ꝑ preast. And they helped Adonia. But Sadock the preast, Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada, Nathā the prophet, Semei and Rei, and all the men of myght which were with Dauid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrifyced shepe and oxen, and fatt catell, by the stone of Zodeleth, which is fast * by the well of Rogell, and called all his brethren the kynges sonnes, and the men of Juda the kynges seruauntes. But Nathan the prophet and Banaiahu, and the other myghtie men, and Salomon his brother, he called not.

Wherfore, Nathan spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomon, sayinge: hast ꝑ not heard howe that Adonia ꝑ sonne of Hagith doth rayne, and Dauid oure Lord knoweth it not? Nowe therfore come, & I will geue ꝑ counsell, howe to saue thyne awne lyfe, & the lyfe of thy sonne Salomon. Go and get the in vnto kynge Dauid, and saye vnto him: bidest not ꝑ (my Lorde O kynge) swere vnto thy handmayde, sayinge: Salomō thy sonne shall rayne after me, & he shall sytt vpō my seate: why is then Adonia kynge? Beholde, whyle thou yet talkest there with ꝑ kyng, I will come in after ꝑ, & confirme thy wordes.

And Bethsabe went in vnto the kynge into the chābre. And the kinge was very olde, and Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto ꝑ king. And Bethsabe stowped, & made obeysaunce vnto the kynge. And ꝑ kynge sayde: what is thy matter? She answered him: Thy Lorde, thou swarest by the Lorde thy God vnto thyne handmayde: Salomō thy sonne shall rayne after me, & he shall sytt vpō my seate. And beholde, nowe is Adonia kynge, & my Lord the kynge wotteth not of it. And he hath offered oxen, fat catell, & many shepe, and hath called all the sonnes of the kynge, & Abiathar the preast, and Joab the captayne of the hoste. But Salomon thy seruaunt hath he not bydde. And nowe my Lorde (O kynge,) the eyes of all Israel wayte on the, ꝑ thou shuldest tell them, who ought to sytte on the seate of my Lord the kynge after him. For elles when my Lorde the kynge shall sleape with his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe (as) synners.

And whyle she yet talked with the kynge, Nathā ꝑ prophet came also. And they tolde the kynge sayinge: beholde, here cōmeth Nathan the prophete. And whē he was come in to the kynge, he made obeysaunce before the kynge vpon his face on the ground, & Nathā sayde: Thy Lorde (O kynge) hast thou sayd, Adonia shall rayne after me, & he shall sytt vpon my seate? For he is gone downe this daye, & hath slayne many oxen, & fat shepe, and hath called all the kynges sonnes, & the captaynes of the hoste, & Abiathar the preast. And beholde, they eate and drynche before him, and saye: God saue kynge Adonia. But me thy seruaūt, and Sadock the preast, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, & thy seruaunt Salomon hath he not called. Is this thynge done of my Lorde the kynge, & ꝑ hast not shewed it vnto thy seruaūt, who shulde sytt on ꝑ seate of my Lord ꝑ kyng after him?

Then kyng Dauid answered & sayde: call me Bethsabe. And she came into the kynges presence, and stode before him. And ꝑ kynge ware sayinge. As truly as the Lorde lyueth (ꝑ hath redd my soule out of all aduersyte) euen as I swarе vnto the by the Lorde God of Israel, sayinge: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, & he shall syt vpon my seate for me, so will I do this daye. Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to the erth, & dyd reuerence vnto the kyng, & sayde. I praye God ꝑ my Lorde kyng Dauid (as) maye lyue euer. And kyng Dauid sayde: call me Sadock the preast, & Nathā the prophet, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada. And they came before the kynge. The kinge also sayde vnto them: take vnto you the seruauntes of youre Lorde, & set Salomon my sonne vpon myne awne Mule, & carye him downe (as) to Gihon. And let Sadock the preast, & Nathā the prophet anoynte him there, kynge ouer Israel. And blowe ye with trōpettes, & saye: God saue kyng Salomō. And then come vp after him, that he maye come and sytte vpon my seate. For he shalbe kynge in my stеade. And I will cōmaunde him to be captayne ouer Israel and Juda. And Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada answered the kynge, & sayde, Amen. I praye God ꝑ the Lorde God of my Lorde ꝑ kynge saye so to. And as God hath bene with my Lorde the kynge, euē so be he with Salomō also, & make his seate greater, then the seate of my Lorde kynge Dauids hath bene.

And so Sadock the preast, and Nathan the prophet, & Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, & the Crethites and Phelethites went downe, & sett Salomon vpō kynge Dauids Mule, and brought him to Gihon. And Sadock the preast toke an horne of oyle out of the tabernacle, and anoynted Salomō. And all they of the people blewe trompettes, and sayde: God saue kynge Salomō. And all the people cam vp after him, pyping with pipes and reioysynge greatlye, so ꝑ the erth range with the sounde of them.

And Adonia and all the gestes ꝑ he had called vnto him, hearde it, euen as they had made an ende of eatynge. And when Joab hearde the sounde of the trompet, he sayde: howe happeneth it ꝑ there is soche a noyse in the cytie? And as he yet spake: beholde, Jonathas ꝑ sonne of Abiathar ꝑ preast came. And Adonia sayde vnto him: come in, for ꝑ art a valeaūt man, and bryngest good tydynges. And Jonathas answered & sayd to Adonia:

Verely

uerely oure Lorde kynge Dauid hath made Salomon kyng. And the kynge hath sent wt him, Sadock the preaste, & Nathan the prophet, and Banaiahu the sonne of Iehoiada, and the Crethites, and the Phelethites, and they haue set him vpon ỹ kynges mule. And Sadock the preast, and Nathan the prophet haue anoynted hym kyng in Sihō. And they came vp agayne, and reioysed, that the cytie dyd sounde agayne. And that is the noyse, that ye haue hearde. And Salomon sytteth on the seate of the kingdome. And moreouer the kynges seruauntes came to bielle oure Lorde kinge Dauid, sayinge: thy God make the name of Salomon more honorable then thy name, and make hys seate greater then thy seate. And the kynge bowed hym selfe vpon the bedd. And thus sayde the kynge: Blessed be the Lorde God of Israell: which hath made one to syt on my seate thys daye, myne eye seynge it.

And all the gestes that were with Adonia were afrayed, and rose vp, and went euery man hys waye. And Adonia fearyng the presence of Salomon, arose, and went, & (in to the tabernacle of the Lorde) and caught holde on the hornes of the aultare. And one tolde Salomon, sayinge: beholde, Adonia doth feare kynge Salomon: for he hath * caught holde on the hornes of the aultare, saying: let kyng Salomon swere vnto me thys daye that he wyll not sley his seruaūt with the swearde. And Salomon sayde: yf he wylbe a chylde of vertue, there shall not an heer of hym fall to the earth. But and yf wickednes be foūde in him, he shall dye. And so kynge Salomon sent, and they brought hym frō the aultare. And he came, and dyd obeysaūce vnto kyng Salomon. And Salomon sayde vnto hym: gett the to thyne house.

The. ij. Chapter.

Dauid dyeth. Adonia requyreth to haue Abisag to hys concubyne, and therfore Salomon commaundeth to slaye hym. Abiathar is put from his priesthode. Semei and Ioab are slayne.

The dayes of Dauid drewe nye ỹ he shulde dye, and he charged Salomon hys sonne, sayinge. I go the waye of all the worlde, * be thou stronge therfore, and shewe thy selfe a man. Kepe thou the watch of the Lorde thy God, that thou walke in hys wayes, and kepe his ☞ statutes, and his precepte, hys iudgementes, and hys testimonyes, euen as it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses: that thou mayest prospere in all that thou doest, and in euery thynge that thou medlest withall. That the Lorde also maye make good hys worde which he spake vnto me, sayinge: yf thy chyldren take heade to theyr waye, that they walke before me in truethe, with all their hertes, and with all their soules, * then shalt thou not be without a man on the seat of Israell.

* Moreouer, thou wottest howe Ioab ỹ sonne of zaruia serued me, and what he dyd to that two captaynes of the hoostes of Israell: vnto Abner the sonne of Ner, and vnto Amasa the sonne of Iether: whom he slue and shed bloude in tyme of peace (euen as it had bene in warre) ☞ and put the bloude of warre vpon hys gyrdle that was about hys loynes, and in hys shoes that were on hys fete. Deale with hym therfore accordynge to thy wysdome, and bryngе not hys hoore heed downe to the graue in peace. * But shewe kyndnes vnto the sonnes of Berselai the Gileadite, that they maye eate at thy table. For they came to me, when I fled from Absalon thy brother.

* And beholde, thou hast with the Semei the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Gemini, of Bahurim, which cursed me with an horryble curse, in the daye whā I went to Mahanaim. But he came to mete me at Iordan, and I sware to hym by the Lorde, sayinge: I wyll not sley the with the swearde: But thou shalt not counte him as vngyltie. For thou art a man of wysdome, and knowest what thou oughtest to do vnto hym. His hoore heed shalt thou bryngе to the graue with bloude.

And so * Dauid slepte with hys fathers, and was buryed in the cytie of Dauid. And the dayes which Dauid raygned vpon Israel, were fourtye yeares: seuen yeares raygned he in Hebron: and thirtye and thre yeares raygned he in Ierusalē. * Then satt Salomon vpon the seate of Dauid his father, & his kyngdome was stablished mightely.

And Adonia the sonne of Hagith came to Bethsabe the mother of Salomon. And she sayde: * Commest thou peaceably? And he sayde: peaceably. He sayde moreouer: I haue somwhat to saye vnto the. She sayde: saye on. And he sayde: thou knowest that the kyngdome was myne, and that all Israell set their faces on me, that I shulde raygne, howbeit, ỹ kingdome is turned awaye, and geuē to my brother: for it is appoynted him of the Lorde: and nowe I aske a petition of the: denye me nott. And she sayde vnto him: Saye on. And he sayde: speake, I praye the, vnto Salomon the kinge, for he will not saye the naye, that he geue me Abisag the Sunamite to wyfe. And Bethsabe sayde: well, I will speake for the vnto the kinge.

Bethsabe therfore went vnto the kinge Salomon, to speake vnto him for Adonia. And the kinge rose vp to mete her, and bowed him selfe vnto her, and satt him downe on his seate. And there was a seate sett for the kinges mother, and she sat on his right syde. Then she sayde: I desyre a lytell petition of the, I praye the, saye me not naye. And the kynge sayde vnto her: Aske on, my mother: for I will not saye the naye. Ode sayde: lett Abisag the Sunamite be geuen to Adonia thy brother to wyfe. And kinge Salomon answered and sayde vnto his mother: why doest thou aske Abisag the Sunamite for Adonia? aske for him the kyngdome also: for he is myne elder brother, and hath for hym Abiathar the preaste and Joab the sonne of Zaruia. Then kyng Salomon swarе by the Lorde, sayinge: God do so, and so to me, yf Adonia haue not spoken this word agaynst his awne lyfe. Nowe therfore, as trulye as the Lorde lyueth, which hath ordeyned me, and set me on the seate of Dauid my father, and ℭ made me an house, as he promised, E Adonia shall dye thys daye. And kyng Salomon sent by the hande of Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and he smote hym, that he dyed.

And vnto Abiathar the preste, sayde the kynge: get the to Anatoth vnto thyne awne feldes: for thou arte worthy of deeth: but I wyll not at this tyme kyll the, because thou barest the arche of ꝑ Lorde God before Dauid my father, and because thou hast suffred with my father in all hys afflictyõs. And so Salomon put awaye Abiathar from being preste vnto the Lorde: that he myght fulfill the wordes of the Lord which he spake ouer the house of Eli in Silo. Then tidynges came also to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonia, though he turned not after Absalom. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lorde, and caught holde on the hornes of the aultare. And it was tolde kynge Salomon, howe that Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lorde, and stode by the aultare. Then Salomon sent Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, sayinge: go and fall vpon him. And Banaiahu came into the tabernacle of the Lord, and sayde vnto hym, Thus sayeth the kynge: come out. And he sayde: naye, but I will dye euē here. And Banaiahu brought the kynge worde agayne, saying: thus sayd Joab, and thus he answered me.

And the kynge sayde. Do euen as he hath sayde: smyte hym, and burye hym, that thou mayest take awaye the blonde, which Joab shed causelesse, from me, and from the house of my father. And the Lorde shall bryng hys blond vpon his awne heed, for he smote two men right wyser and better then he, and slue them with the swerde, my father Dauid not knowynge therof: euen Abner the sonne of Ner, captayne of the hoost of Jsrael, and Amasa the sonne of Jether captaine of ꝑ hoost F of Juda. Theyr blonde shall therfore returne vpon the heed of Joab, and on the heed of hys seed for euer. But vpon Dauid, and vpõ his seed, and vpon hys house, and vpon hys seate shall there be peace for euer of the Lord.

So Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada wēt vp, and smote hym, and slue hym, and buryed hym in hys awne house in the wylderneſſe. And the kynge put Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada in hys rowme ouer the hoost and put Sadock the preste in the rowme of Abiathar.

And the kynge sente and called Semei, and sayde vnto hym: buylde the an house in Jerusalem, and dwell there: and se that thou go not forth thēce any whether. For be thou sure, that the daye that thou goest out, and passest ouer the ryuer of Cedron, thou shalte dye ꝑ daye, and thy blonde shalbe vpon thyne awne heade. And Semei sayde vnto the kynge. Thys is a good thinge: as my Lorde the kynge hathe sayde: so wyll hys seruaunt do. And Semei dwelt in Jerusalem many a daye. And it chaunced after thre yeres, that two of the seruaūtes of Semei ranne away vnto Achis, sonne of Maacha king of Geth. And they tolde Semei, sayinge: beholde, thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Semei stode vp, & sadled hys asse, and gat hym to Geth to Achis, to seke hys seruauntes, and returned, and brought hys seruauntes agayne from Geth.

And it was tolde Salomon, howe that Semei hathe gone from Jerusalem to geth, G and was come agayne. And the kynge sent, and called Semei, and sayd vnto hym: Dyd I not charge the by the Lorde with an othe, and testifyed vnto the, sayinge: be sure, that whensoeuer thou goest out, and walkest abroade any whether, thou shalt dye ꝑ deeth? And thou saydest vnto me: it is good tidynges that I haue hearde. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of the Lorde, and the commaundement that I charged the withall?

The kynge sayde moreouer to Semei: *thou remembrest all the wyckednesse which thyne hert knoweth, and that thou dyddest to Dauid my father. The Lorde also shall bryngе thy wyckednesse vpon thyne awne heed: and kyng Salomon shalbe blessed, and the seat of Dauid stablysshed before ꝑ Lord for euer. So the kynge commaunded Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada: which went out, and smote hym that he dyed: And the kyngdome was stablysshed in the hande of Salomon. *3.Reg.2.

ℭ The. iij. Chapter.

ℭ Salomon taketh Pharaos daughter to wyfe. The Lord appeareth to hym and geueth hym wysdome. The pleadynge of the two harlottes who shulde owe the yrpynge chylde: and Salomons sentence therin.

SAlomon made affinite with Pharao kynge of Egypt, & toke Pharaos daughter, and brought her in A to ℭ the cytie of Dauid, vntyll D he had made an ende of buyldinge his awne his awne house, & the house of the Lord, and the wall of Jerusalem roundeabout. Onely the people sacrificed in aultars made on hylles, because there was no house buylte vnto the name of ꝑ Lord, vntill those dayes. ✠ Then came there two wemen, that were harlottes, vnto the kynge. and stode before hym. And the one woman sayde: Oh my Lorde, I and thys woman dwell in one house. And I was delyuered of a chyld with her in the house. And the thyrde daye after that I was delyuered, she was delyuered also: and we were together, and no straunger with vs in the house, saue we two. And thys wyues chyde dyed in the nyght, for she smothered it. And she rose at mydnyght, and toke my sonne from my syde, whyle thyne handemayde slepte, and layde it in her bosome, and putt her deed chylde in my bosome. And when I rose vp to geue my chylde sucke: beholde, it was deed. But whā I had loked vpon it in the morynynge, beholde, it was not my sonne, which I dyd beare.

The other woman sayde: it is not so: but my sonne lyueth, and thy sonne is deed. And ℣ she sayde agayne: No, but thy sonne is deed, and my sonne is alyue. And thus they pleated before the kynge. Then sayde the kyng: the one sayth, this that is alyue is my sonne: and the deed is thyne. And the other saythe, naye: but thy sonne is the deed, & the lyuinge chylde is myne. And the kynge sayde: bryng me a swearde. And they brought out a swearde before the kynge. And the kynge sayde. Deuyde the lyuinge chylde in two, and geue the one halfe to the one, and the other to the other.

Then spake the woman, whose the lyuynge chylde was, vnto the kynge, for her bowelles yerned vpon her sonne, and sayde: I beseche the my Lorde, geue her the lyuyng chylde, and in no wyse slaye it. But the other sayd: let it be nether myne nor thyne, but deuyde it. Then the kynge answered and sayde: *geue her the lyuing chylde, and slaye it not: * Luke. viii. c for she is the mother therof. And all they of Israel hearde of the iudgement, which the kynge hath iudged, and feared the kynge: for they sawe that the wysdome of God was in hym, to do iustice.

And in the wall of the house, he made chāhouse) rounde about the temple & the queer:

and made sydes rounde about. The nether-

And in all the walles of the house round about, he made fygures of carued and syled wozke: as namely, pictures of Cherubs and Palmetrees and grauen floures, both within in the queer, & without in the temple. And the floure of the house he couered with golde both within in ꝑ queer and also without in the temple. And in the enteryng of the queer he made two dozes of Olyuetree. And both the vpper & two syde postes were .v. square. The two dozes also were of Olyue tree, and he graued them with grauynge of Cherubs and Palmetrees, and grauen floures, & couered them with gold, and layed thynne plates of golde vpon the Cherubs and Palmetrees. And in like maner dyd he in the doze of the temple, sauynge that the postes were of Oliuetree foure square. ¶ The buyldynge of the house of Salomon. The house of Pharaos daughter. The sorme of the pyllers of brasse, of the brasen see &c.

A BVt Salomon was buyldyng his awne house thirtene yere, & fynysshed it all. And he buylt the house ☞ in the wodd of Libanon, an hundred cubytes longe, and fyftye cubytes broad, & xxx. cubytes hye. And it stode vpon foure rowes of Cedar pyllars, and Cedar beames were layed vpon the pyllers. And the dozes with the syde postes, and the vpperposte were foure square, and had windowes one agaynst another thre folde.

And he made a pozch by the pillars, that bare vp the house. l. cubites longe, and. xxx. cubites broad: & that pozch was before those & the other pillers. For there was ☞ a thick tree set before them. Then he made a pozche to syt a iudge in, syled with Cedar ☞ thorowout all the pauementes. And all these were of the best stones, hewed after a measure, and sawed wt sawes within and without, from the foundacion vnto the beames that laye aboue, after the measure, & euen so on the outsyde towarde the great court. And the foundacyon was layed vpon ryche stones & ꝑ very great stones: wherof some were. x. cubites, & some viij. cubites. And aboue were good stones squared after a certayn rule, & couered wt Cedar. And the great court roūd about was wt thre rowes of hewed stone, & one rowe of Cedar plāches, after ꝑ maner of the ynner court of the house of the Lozde, & of the pozch of the temple. * And kyng Salomon sent and fett * 2. par. ii.

were ther. ij. C. pomgranates in two rowes round about. And he set vp the pillers in the porch of the tẽple. And whẽ he had set vp the right piller, he called ꝑ name therof * Joachi: & whã he had set vp the left piller, he called ꝑ name therof * Boaz. And in the toppe of the pyllers was a worke of roses, and so was ꝑ workmanshyp of the pyllers finyshed.

And he made a molten lauatory, ten cubytes wyde frõ brym to brym, roũd in compasse, & .v. cubytes hye. And a stryng of thirtye cubytes dyd cõpasse it about: and vnder the brym of it there were knoppes round about, ten in one cubite: and they cõpassed the lauatory round about. And ꝑ knoppes were cast wt it, in two rowes, when it was caste. And it stode on twelue oxẽ: of which thre loked toward the nozth. iij. towarde the west. iij. towarde the south, & iij. toward the east. and the lauatory stode vpõ them, & all theyr hinderpartes were inward. It was an hand breadeth thycke, & ꝑ brym wrought lyke the brim of a cup wt floures of lylies. And it conteyned two thousande ☞ bates.

And he made. x. sokettes of brasse. iiij. cubites longe, and. iiij. cubites broade a pece, & iij. cubites hye. And the worke of the sokettes was on this maner. They had sides, and the sydes were betwene the ledges. And on the sydes that were betwene the ledges, were lyons, oxen and cherubs. And lykewyse, vpõ the ledges that were aboue: and beneth the lyons and oxen were certayne addicions made of thynne worke. And vnder euery soket, were foure brasen wheles, and bordes of brasse. And in the foure corners therof, were vndersetters vnder the lauatory, cast eche ouer agaynst hys felowe.

And the stalke of the lauatory was in the myddle of it, (where it is tene on the out syde) one cubite hye, and a cubite and an halfe rounde: and in the heigth of it were grauen workes, whose sydes were made foursquare, and not rounde. And vnder the sydes were. iiij. wheles: and the axeltrees ioyned fast to the bottome. And the heygth of euery whele was a cubyte and an halfe. And the workmanshyp of the wheles was lyke the worke of a charet whele. And the axeltrees, the naueiles, spokes and shaftes were all molten: And there were foure vndersetters in the. iiij. corners of one socket: and the vndersetters were of the very bottome selfe. And in ꝑ heygth of the bottome was there round compasse of a cubite hye: and in that heygth of the bottome, there proceaded both ledges & sydes out of the same. For in the bordes of the ledges, and on the sydes, he had grauen pyctures of cherubins, lyons and palme trees, one by an other rounde aboute. Thus made he the ten sokettes after this maner. And they had all one fashion of castyng: one measure, and one size. Then made he. x. lauers of brasse, one lauer conteyning. xl. bates: and one lauer was foure cubytes, and vpon euery one of the ten sokettes, he put one lauer. And he put fyue of those sokettes on the right side of ꝑ house and other fyue on the lefte. And he set the lauatory on the ryght syde of the house eastwarde and towarde the south.

And Hiram made pottes, shouels and basens, and so finyshed all the worke ꝑ he made kyng Salomon for the house of the Lorde: ꝑ is to saye, two pillers, two roũd heed peces, that were to be sett on the toppes of the two pillers. ii. net workes to couer the two roũd heed peces set vpõ the toppes of the pyllers, and. iiij. C. põgranates for the two net workes, euẽ two rowes of pomgranates in one net worke, to couer the two heed peces that were to be sett on the toppes of the pyllers. And the ten sokettes, and ten lauers on the sokettes. The lauatory and. xij. oxen vnder it: and pottes, shouelles and basens. And all these vessels which hirã made to kyng Salomõ for the house of ꝑ Lord, were of bright brasse. In the playne of Jordan did the king cast them: euen in the thycke claye betwene Sococh and zarthan. And Salomon left all the vessels vnwayed, because they were so exceadyng many, neyther founde they oute the weyght of the brasse.

And so Salomõ made all the vessels that pertayned vnto the house of the Lorde: the golden aulter and the golden table, wheron the shewe bread was. And fyue candelstykes, for the ryght syde, and fyue for the lefte before the queer of pure golde: with floures, lampes, and snoffers of golde: & boules, flat peces, basons, spones and maloures of pure golde: and hindges made he of golde for the dores of the queer, the place mooste holy, and for the dores of the temple also.

And so was ended all ꝑ worke that kyng Salomon made for the house of the Lorde. And * Salomõ brought in ꝑ thinges which Dauid his father had dedicated: euen the siluer, golde, & vessels: and layed thẽ vp amõge the treasures of the house of the Lorde. * 1. par. xiii. a

And it was in the herte of Dauid my father to builde an house for ꝑ name of ꝑ Lord God of Israel. And the Lord sayd vnto Dauid my father. Where as it was thyne herte to buylde an house vnto my name, thou diddest well, ꝑ thou was so mynded. And I am rysen vp in the rowme of Dauid my father, and sytt on the state of Israel as the ℂ Lorde promised and haue buylt an house for the name of the Lorde God of Israel. And I haue prepared therin a place for the arcke wherin is the couenaũt of the Lorde, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the lande of Egypte, Salomon stode before the aultare of the Lorde in the syght of all the congregacyon of Israel, and stretched out hys handes towarde heauen, and sayde: * Lorde God of Israel, ther is no *6.par.a God like the in heauen aboue, or in the earth beneth, thou that kepest couenaunt and mercy for thy seruauntes that walke before the with all their hert: thou that hast kept with thy seruaunt Dauid my father, ꝑ thou promysedest hym. For they be thy people, and thyne enherytaunce, which thou broughtest out of Egypte, euen from the myddes of the fornace of yron. And let thyne eyes be open vnto the prayer of thy seruaunt, and vnto the prayer of thy people Israel * to herken vnto thẽ, in all that they call for vnto ỹ. * And when Salomõ had made an ende of prayinge all thys prayer and supplicacyõ vnto the Lorde, he arose from before the aultare of the Lorde, and from kneelynge on hys knees, and from stretchynge of his hãdes vp to heauen, and stode and blessed all the congregacion of Israel with a loude voyce, saying. Blessed be the Lorde, that hath geuen reste vnto hys people Israel, accordyng to all that he promised, * there hath not fayled one word of all the good promyse, whych he promysed by the hande of Moses hys seruaunt. And these my wordes whych I haue prayed before the Lorde, be nye vnto the Lorde oure God daye and nyght, that he defende the cause of his seruaũt, and the cause of hys people Israel (what thynge soeuer chaunce at any tyme) that all nacyons of the erth maye knowe, that the Lord is God, and none but he. Let youre herte therfore be perfecte with the Lord oure God, that ye walke in hys statutes, and kepe hys commaundementes, as thys daye.

And the kynge and all Israel with hym, offered offerynges before the Lorde. * And Salomon offered a sacrifyce of peace offeringes vnto the Lorde, and he offered vnto the Lorde. xxii. thousande oxen and an hũdred & twenty thousande sheype. And so the kynge & all the chyldren of Israel dedicated the house of the Lorde. The same daye dyd the kynge halowe the myddel of the courte, that was before the house of the Lorde: for there he offered burntofferynges, meate offerynges and the fat of ỹ peace offeringes: because ỹ brasen aultare that was before ỹ Lord, was to lytle to receaue ỹ burntofferinges, meateofferynges, and the fatt of the peace offrynges.

And Salomon helde that same tyme an hye feast & all Israel with hym, a very great congregacyon, euen from the entrynge in of Hemath vnto the ryuer of Egypt, before the

For Pharao kynge of Egypte went vp, & toke Gazer, and burnt it with fyre, and slue the Cananites ỹ dwelt in the cytie, and gaue it for a present vnto hys daughter, Salomons wyfe. And Salomon buylt Gazer and Beth horon the nether: and Baalath and ☞ Thamar in the wyldernesse and in the D

And all the people that were lefte of the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, Heuites ād Jebusites, (whych were not of the chyldren of Israel) theyr chyldrē that were lefte after them in the lande, whom the chyldren of Israel also were not able to destroye. Those dyd Salomon compell to bryng tribute vnto thys daye. But of the chyldren of Israel dyd Salomon * make no bondemen. But they were men of warre, hys ministers, hys * Exo. iii. D
Lordes, his captaynes, and rulers of his charettes, and of hys horsemen. And these were the Lordes, that were sett ouer Salomons wyfe: euen fyue hūdred were they and fyftye, and they ruled the people that wrought the worcke.

And Pharaos daughter came vp oute of the cytie of Dauid vnto the house which Salomō had buylt for her. And then dyd he also buylde Hillo. And thryse a yere dyd Salomon offer burntofferinges and peace offeringes vpon the aultare, whyche he buylt vnto the Lorde. And he burnt incense vpon the altare that was before the Lorde, and so he fynished the house.

And kynge Salomon made a nauye of shyppes in Azion Gaber whyche is beside Eloth, on the bryncke of the redd see, in the lande of Edom. ¶ The. x. Chapter.

¶ The quene of Saba commeth to heare the wysdome of Salomō, whose royaltye is here described.

AND the * Quene of Saba hearynge the fame of Salomon (concernynge the name of the Lorde) came to proue hi with harde questyons. And she came to Jerusalem with a very great trayne: with Camelles that bare swete odoures, and golde exceadynge moche, and precioule stones. And she came to Salomon and comoned with him of all that was in her hert. And Salomon declared vnto her all her questiōs, so that there was not one thinge hydd from the kynge, which he expounded not vnto her.

And the quene of Saba cōsydred all Salomons wysdome, and the house that he had buylded, and the meate of his table, & the syttynge of hys seruauntes, the order of hys mynisters, and theyr apparell, hys dryncke, and his burnt sacrifices that he offered in the house of the Lorde, and she was astonnied. And she sayde vnto the kynge. It was a true worde that I hearde in myne awne lande of thy sayinges, and of thy wysdome. Howbeit I beleued it not, tyll I came, & sawe it wyth myne eyes. And beholde, the one halfe was not tolde me: for thy wysdome and prosperite exceadeth the fame whych I hearde of the. Happy are thy men: and happye are these thy seruauntes, which stāde euer before the, and heare thy wysdome. Blessed be the Lord thy god, which loued the, to set the on the seat of Israel, because þ Lord loued Israel for euer, and made the kynge, to do equyte and ryghtewysnesse:

And she gaue the kynge syxe score hundred weight of golde, and of swete odoures exceadynge moch, and precioule stones. There came no more soche aboundaunce of swete odoures, as the quene of Saba gaue to kynge Salomon. The naupe also of the * shyppes of hyram (that carped golde from Ophyr) brought lykewyse greate plenty of Almuge tre and precioule stones. And þ kynge made of the Almuge trees, pillers for þ house of the Lorde and for the kynges palace, and made harpes and psalteryes for syngers. There came no moare suche Almuge trees, nor were anye moare sene vnto thys daye. And kyng Salomon gaue vnto the Quene of Saba accordynge to all her desyre whatsoeuer she asked: besydes that he gaue her of a fre wyll with his awne hande. And so she returned vnto her awne countrey: both she, and her seruauntes.

¶ The weyght of golde that came to Salomon in one yeare, was syxe hundred thre score and syxe talentes of golde, besydes that he had of chapmen and of marchauntes and of Potycaryes, and of all the kynges of Arabye, and of the Lordes of the countreye. And kynge Salomon made two hundred bucklers of beate gold, syxe hūdred sycles of gold went to a buckler. And he made thre hūdred shyldes of beaten golde, thre pounde of golde went to one shylde, and the kynge put them in the * house of the wood of Libanon. * 16. Reg. vij. a

And the kynge made a great seate of yuorye, and couered it with the best golde. And the seate had syxe steppes. And the toppe of the seate was rounde behynde, & there were pomelles on ether syde on the place of þ seate and two Lyons stode besyde the pomelles. And there stode. xii. Lyōs on the steppes. vi. on a syde. Ther was none lyke (worke) sene in any kyngdome. * And all kynge Salomons drynckynge vesselles were of golde, & lykewyse al the vesselles of the house of the wood of Libanon were of pure gold. And as for syluer, it was nothing worth in þ dayes of Salomō, for þ kinges naupe of shyppes wēt on the see vnto Tharsis wt the naute of hyrams shippes: euē once in the yere wēt the naupe to Tharsis, & brought golde and syluer, Elephantes teth, apes and pecokes. * And so kynge Salomon exceaded all the kynges of the erth both in richesse & wysdome. And all the worlde resorted to Salomon, to heare his wysdome, which God had put in hys herte. And brought him euery mā his present, vessels of syluer and vessels of golde, rayment, harnesse, and swete odoures and horses and Mules, yere by yere. And Salomon gathered together charettes and horsmen: and he had a thousande and foure hundred charettes, & twelue thousande horsemen, whom he bestowed in the charette cyties, and with the kynge at Jerusalem.

* And the kynge made syluer in Jerusalem as plenteous as stones, & Cedar as plenteouse as the wylde kygge trees that growe aboundauntly in the feldes. The bryngyng of horses also out of Egypte: & the collection of the wares: dyd the kynges marchauntes take agayne, and sold the stuffe for a pryce. A charet came vp out of Egypte for syxe hundred sycles of syluer: that is one horsse for an hundred and fyftye. And euen so so for all the kinges of the Hethithes and for the kynges of Syria, dyd they bryng them oute thorowe theyr handes.

The. xi. Chapter.

¶ Salomō hath seuen hundred quenes and thre hūdred Concubynes, which dryue hym to Idolatrye. His aduersaryes rebell agaynst hym. He dyeth.

BVt kynge * Salomon loued many outelandishe wemen: and the daughter of Pharao: and wemen of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonites,

For it came to passe, when Salomon was olde, hys wyues turned his herte after other Gods: and his herte was not perfecte with the Lorde his God, as was the herte of Dauid his father: for Salomon folowed Astaroth the God of the zidons, and Milcom, the abhominacion of the Ammonites. And Salomō wrought wyckednesse in the sight of the Lorde, & folowed
B not the Lorde perfectly, as dyd Dauid hys father. For than did Salomō buylde an hye place for Chamos the abominacyon of Moab, in the hyll that is before Jerusalem, & vnto Moloch the abhominacyon of the chyldren of Ammon. And lykewise dyd he for all his outlādishe wyues, which burnt incense and offered vnto theyr gods. And the Lorde was angrye with Salomon, because hys hert was turned from the Lorde God of Is-
* iii.Mo.iii.a and.xv.a. rael * which had appeared vnto him twyse, and gaue him a charge (cōcerninge this thinge) that he shuld not folowe other gods. But he kepte not that, which the Lorde commaūded him, wherfore the Lord sayde vnto Salomon: for as moch as this is done of the, and thou hast not kepte myne appoyntmēt, and my statutes (which I commaunded the) I wyll rent the kyngdome from the, and wyll geue it to thy seruannt. Notwithstandynge in thy dayes I will not do it because of Dauid thy father but will take it frō the hāde of C thy sonne. Howbeit, I will not take awaye all the kyngdome: but will geue one trybe to thy sonne, because of Dauid my seruaunt, and because of Jerusalē which I haue chosen.

And the Lorde stered vp an aduersarye vnto Salomō: euen one Hadad an Edomite of the kynges sede, which was in Edō. For whē Dauid was in Edom, and Joab the captayne of the hoste was gone vp to burye thē that were slayne, he smote all the men chyldren in Edom. For syx monethes dyd Joab remayne there and all Israel, tyll he had destroyed all the men chyldren in Edom. And hys Hadad fled and certen other Edomites of hys fathers seruauntes with him, to come
D into Egipte: Hadad beyng yet a lytle chylde. And they arose out of Madian, and came to Paran, and toke mē with them out of Parā and came to Egypte vnto Pharao kynge of Egipte, which gaue him an house, & appoynted him victayles, and gaue him lande.

And Hadad gat greate fauoure in the syght of Pharao, so that he gaue hym to wyfe the systar of his awne wyfe, euen the systar of Thahpenes the quene. And the sister of Thahpenes bare him Genubath his sonne, whom Thahpenes norished i Pharaos house. And Genubath was of Pharaos household amonge the sonnes of Pharao. And when Hadad heard in Egypte, that Dauid was layde to slepe wyth hys fathers, and that Joab the captayne of the host was deed also, he sayd to Pharao: let me departe, that I maye go to myne awne contreye. Pharao sayde vnto hym: what hast thou lacked here with me, that thou woldest thus go to thine awne cōtreye? he answered. Nothing. Howbeit, let me go And God stered him vp an other aduersary, one Rezon the sonne of Eliada, whyche fled from his Lorde Hodadezer kynge of Zoba. And he gathered men vnto hym, and became captayne ouer the companye, when Dauid slewe them. And they went to Damasco, and dwelt there, and raigned in Damasco: Therfore was he an aduersarye to Israel all the dayes of Salomō. And this was the myschefe, in that Hadad dyd abhorre Israel, and raygned ouer Syria

And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat an Ephrathite of zareda (whose mother was called zeruah, which was a wydowe, and he Salomons seruaunt) lyfte vp his hande D agaynst the kynge. But this was the cause, that he lyfte vp his hande agaynst the kyng. Salomon buylte Mello, & mended the broke places of the cytie of Dauid his father. And this felowe Jeroboam was a man of warre. And Salomon sawe the younge man, that he was able to do the worke, he made hym ruler ouer all the tribute of the house of Joseph. And it chaunced at that season, that Jeroboam went out of Jerusalē, and the prophete Ahiah the Silonite mett him by the waye haynge a newe mantell on hym, and they two were alone in the felde. And Ahiah caught the newe mantell that was on hym and rent it in twelue peces, and sayde to Jeroboā take the ten peces. For thus sayth the Lorde
F God of Israel: behold, I wyll rent the kyngdome oute of the handes of Salomon, and wyll geue ten tribes to the * and he shall haue one, for my seruaunte Dauids sake and for Jerusalem the cytie whyche I haue chosen out of all the trybes of Israel: because they haue forsaken me, and haue worshypped vnto Astharoth the God of the zidons, & Chamos the God of the Moabites, and Milcom the God of the chyldren of Ammon, and haue not walked in my wayes (to fulfyll my pleasure, my statutes and my lawes) as dyd Dauid hys father.

* ii.Pa.i

I wyll not take the whole kyngdome out of his hāde: but wyll make hym chefe all hys lyfe longe, for Dauid my seruauntes sake, whom I chose: because he kepte my cōmaun-dementes and my statutes. * But I wyll take the kyngdome out of his sonnes hande, & wyll geue it vnto the, euen ten tribes of it: and vnto hys sonne wyll I geue one trybe, ỳ Dauid my seruaunt maye haue a lyght allwaye before me in Jerusalē, the cytie which I haue chosen me, to put my name there. And I wyll take the, & thou shalt raygne accordynge to all that thy soule desyreth, & shalt be kynge ouer Jsrael. And yf thou herkē vnto all that I commaunde the, & wylt walke in my wayes & do that is ryght in my syght, that thou kepe my statutes ād my commaūdementes (as Dauid my seruaunt dyd) then wyll I be with the, & buylde the a sure house that shall contynewe, as I buylte for my seruaunt Dauid, and wyll geue Jsrael vnto the And I wyll for thys offence (which Salomon hath commytted) vexe the seede of Dauid, but not for euer.

Salomon sought therfore to kyll Jeroboam, and Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypte vnto Sisak kynge of Egypte, and cōtinued there in Egypte vntyll the deeth of Salomon. The rest of the wordes that concerne Salomon, and all that he dyd, and hys wysdome: are they not wrytten in the boke of the wordes of Salomon? The tyme that Salomon raygned in Jerusalē vpon all Jsrael, was fourtye yere. And Salomon slepte and he layde him with hys fathers, and was buryed in the cytie of Dauid his father, and Rehoboam his sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ The .xii. Chapter.

¶ The kingdome is deuyded, Rehoboam raygneth ouer .ii. trybes, and Jeroboā ouer .x. Aduram is stoned. Jeroboam maketh golden calues.

AND * Rehoboam went to Sichem: for all Jsrael were come to Sichem, to make him kynge. And Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat (which was yet in Egypte) heard of it * for he fled to Egypte from the presence of kyng Salomon, & dwelt in Egypte. So they sent and called hym. and Jeroboam and all the congregacyon of Jsrael came, and spake vnto Rehoboam, sayenge thy father made oure ☞ yocke greuouse, nowe therfore, make thou the greuouse seruice of thy father and hys sore yocke which he putt vpon vs, lyghtter, & we wyll serue the. And he sayde vnto them: departe yet for the space of thre dayes, and then come agayne to me. And the people departed.

And kynge Rehoboam toke cōcell with the olde men that stode before Salomon hys father, while he yet lyued, and sayde: what cōcell geue ye, that I maye haue matter to answere thys people? And they sayde vnto hym: If thou be a seruaunt vnto thys people this daye, and folowe theyr myndes and answere them, and speake kynde wordes to them: they wyll be thy seruauntes for euer.

But he forsoke the councell that the olde mē had geuen him, and called vnto hys councell yonge men, that were growen vp with him, and wayted on hym.

And he sayde vnto them: what councell geue ye, that we maye answere thys people? for they haue commoned with me, sayenge: make the yocke which thy father dyd putt vpon vs, lyghtter? And the younge men that were growen vp with hym, spake vnto hym sayenge: Thus shalt thou speake vnto thys people (that haue sayde vnto the: thy father made oure yocke heuye, butt make thou it vs lyghtter) Euen thus shalt thou saye vnto them: My lytle fynger shalbe wayghtier, thē my father was in the loynes. And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the thyrde daye, as the kynge had apoynted, sayenge: come to me agayne the thyrde daye. And the kyng answered the people churlyshly, and lefte the olde mens councell (that they gaue hym) & spake to them after the councell of the younge mē, sayenge. My father made youre yocke greuouse, and I will make it greuouser. My father also chastised you with whyppes, but I wyll chastise you with scorpyons. And so Jsrael departed vnto theyr tentes. Howbeit, ouer the chyldren of Jsrael which dwelt in the cytie of Juda, dyd Rehoboam raygne styll. Then kynge Rehoboam sent Adurā the receauer of the tribute. And all they of Jsrael stoned hym to deeth. But kynge Rehoboā made spede to gett hym vp to hys charet, and to flye to Jerusalem. And they of Jsrael rebelled agaynst the house of Dauid, vnto thys daye. ¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

¶ Jeroboam doinge sacrifyce vnto the calues, is reprehended of the Prophete. Hys hande dryed vp, whyle he puttech it out agaynst the Prophete. The Prophete is kylled, and buryed.

ANd beholde, there came & a man of God out of Juda (by the worde of the Lord) vnto Bethel, & Jeroboam stode by the aulter to put incēse. And he cried agaynst the aultare in the worde of the Lord & sayde. O aultare, aultare, thus sayth the Lord: Beholde A chylde shall be borne vnto the house of Dauid, (Josia by name) & vpon the shall he offer the preastes of the hillaultares that burne incense vpon the, & mennes bones shalbe brent vpon the. And he gaue a token the same tyme, sayenge: thys is the token, that the Lorde hath spoken it. Beholde, the aulter shall rent, and the asshes that are vpon it, shall fall out.

And when the kynge hearde the sayenge B of the mā of God (which had cryed agaynst ỹ aulter in Bethel) he stretched out hys hande from the aultare, sayenge: hold him. And his hande which he put forth agaynst him, dryed vp, & he coulde not pull it in agayne to hym: the aulter also claue asunder, and the asshes fell out from the aulter, accordinge to the token which the man of God had geuen by the worde of the Lorde. And the kynge answered, and sayde vnto the man of God. * Oh
* Exod.viii. Numer.xii. Actor.viii.c praye vnto the Lorde thy God, and make intercessyon for me, that my hāde maye be restored me agayne. And the man of God besought the Lorde, and the kynges hāde was restored agayne, & became as it was afore.

And the kynge sayde vnto the mā of God come home with me, that thou mayest dyne, and I wyll geue the a rewarde. And the mā of God sayde vnto the kynge: yf thou woldest geue me halfe thyne house, I will not go in with ỹ, nether wyll I eate breade or drincke water in thys place. For so was it charged me, thorowe the worde of the Lorde, C

And there dwelt & an olde prophet in Bethel, & hys sonne came, and tolde hym all the D

And he lyed vnto hym. And so he went agayne with hym, and dyd eate

all his dayes. He brought in the holy vessels of his father, (& þ he had dedicat) vnto þ house of the Lorde: golde & syluer, & Jewelles. And there was warre betwene Asa & Baasa kynge of Israell all theyr dayes.

*And Baasa kynge of Israel, went vp agaynst Juda, & buylt Rama, so þ he wolde let none go out or in, to Asa kynge of Juda. Then Asa toke all the syluer & golde, that was lefte in the treasures of the house of the Lorde, & the treasures of the kynges house, and deliuered them vnto the handes of hys seruauntes, & Asa sent them to * Benhadad the sonne of Tabrimon the sonne of Hezion kynge of Syria, (that dwelt at Damasco,) sayenge: there is a bonde betwene me & the, betwene my father and thy father. And beholde, I haue sent vnto the a present of syluer & golde þ thou come & breake the bonde þ thou hast w̄ Baasa kynge of Israell, that he maye departe from me. So Benhadad herkened vnto kyng Asa, and sent the captaynes of the hostes (which he had) agaynst the cyties of Israel, & smote Hyon, & Dā, & Abel, Beth Macah, & all the region of Cineroth with all the lande of Nephthali. And when Baasa heard therof, he lefte buylding of Rama & dwelt i Thirza. Then kyng Asa made a proclamacyō throwout all Juda, þ none shuld be excused. And so they toke the stones of Ramah & the tymber (wherwith Baasa had buylded,) & kyng Asa buylt with them the hyll of Ben Jamin and Mizpa.

The remnaunt of all the wordes that concerne Asa, and all hys myght and all that he dyd, & the cyties whych he buylded, are they not wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? Neuertheless in hys olde age he was diseased in hys fete. And Asa slepte wyth hys fathers, & was buryed besyde his fathers in the cytie of Dauid hys father. And * Jehosaphat his sōne raygned in his steade. And Nadab the sonne of Jeroboam beganne to raygne vpon Israel the seconde yere of Asa kynge of Juda, and raygned vpō Israel two yere. And he dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, walkynge in the waye of hys father and in hys synne wherwith he made Israel synne. And Baasa the sonne of Ahia (whych was of the house of Jsachar) cōspired agaynst hym, and Baasa smote him at Gibbethon which is a cytie of the Philistines: for Nadab & all Israel layed seage to Gibbethon. Euen in the thirde yere of Asa kynge of Juda, dyd Baasa slaye hym, and raygned in his steade. * And it fortuned that whan he was kyng, he smot all þ house of Jeroboā, and lefte him naught that breathed, vntyll he had put hym cleane out, according vnto the sayeng of the Lord, which he spake by his seruaunt Ahia the Selonite: because of the synnes of Jeroboā wherwyth he synned and made Israel synne, whan he wyth hys prouocacyon angred the Lorde God of Israel.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Nadab, and all that he dyd, are they not wrytte in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And there was warre betwene Asa and Baasa kynge of Israel all theyr dayes.

So in the thyrde yere of Asa kynge of Juda, began Baasa the sonne of Ahia to rayne ouer all Israell in Thirza. xxiiij. yeare. And he dyd þ which is euell in the syght of þ Lorde, walkynge in the waye of Jeroboā, & in his synne, which made Israel to synne.

¶ The. xvj. Chapter.

¶ Jehu prophesyeth agaynst Baasa, whom Ela succedeth. Zimri kylleth hys master Ela, and destroyeth þ house of Baasa. Ahab succedeth Amri, and taketh to wyfe wycked Jezabel.

Then the worde of the Lorde came to Jehu the sonne of Hanani agaynst Baasa, sayēg: for as moche as I exalted the out of þ dust, & made the captayne ouer my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the waye of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to synne, to angre me w̄ theyr synnes: Beholde, I wyll roote out the posterite of Baasa, and the posterite of hys house, and wyll make hys house lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat. * That man of Baasa whych dyeth in the cytie, him shall the dogges eate: and that man of hym whych dyeth in the felde, shall the foules of the ayre eate. * iii. re. xxiii. & and. xxi. l.

The rest of þ wordes þ cōcerne Baasa, & what he dyd, & his power, are they not wrytten in þ boke of þ chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And so Baasa slepte w̄ hys fathers, & was buried in Thirza. And Ela his sonne raygned in his steade. And by the hāde of the prophete Jehu þ sonne of Hanani, came the worde of the Lorde agaynst Baasa, and agaynst his house, & agaynst all the wyckednesse that he dyd in the syght of the Lorde (in angringe him w̄ the worke of his awne handes) that he shulde be lyke the house of Jeroboam, & because he kylled hym. * (that is to saye Jehu the sonne of Hanani the prophete.

The. xxvj. yere of Asa kynge of Juda beganne Ela þ sonne of Baasa to raygne ouer Israel in Thirza, two yere. And his seruaūt Zimri (which was captayne of halfe his charettes) conspired agaynst hym, as he was in Thirza drynckynge: and was droncken in þ house of Arza stuard of hys house in Thirza. And Zimri came, and smote him, and kylled hym in the xxvij. yere of Asa kynge of Juda, and raygned in hys steade. And it fortuned that whan he was kynge * and satt on hys seate, he slue all the house of Baasa, not leauynge therof, one to pisse agaynst a wall: Yee, he slue hys kynsfolkes and frendes, also.

* Ero. xvij. d. Deu. xxv. d.

And thus dyd zimri destroye all the house of Baala, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde, whych he spake agaynst Baala by the hande of Jehu the prophet, for all the synnes of Baala & synnes of Ela hys sonne, whych they synned, and made Israel to synne, and angre the Lord God of Israel with their vanities. The rest of ꝑ wordes ꝑ concerne Ela, & all he dyd, are they not wrytte in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel?

In the. xxvij. yere of Asa kynge of Juda, dyd zimri raygne. vij. dayes in Thirza, and the people was then in the hoost besegynge Gebethon a citie of ꝑ Philistines. And ꝑ peo
D ple in the hoost heard one saye: zimri hath cõspired, & slayne ꝑ kynge: Wherfore, all they of Israell made Amri (the captayne of the hoost) kyng ouer Israel that same daye, euẽ in ꝑ hoost. And Amri departed vp frõ Gibbethon, and all Israel with hym, & they beseged Thirza. And when zimri sawe ꝑ the citie must nedes be taken, he went into the palayse of the kynges house, and burnt him selfe and the kynges house wt fyre, and so dyed, for his synnes whych he synned, in doynge ꝑ which is euell in the syght of the Lorde, and in walkynge in the waye of Jeroboam and in hys synnes whych he dyd, and in that he made Israel to synne.

The rest of the wordes ꝑ concerne zimri and the treason ꝑ he wrought, are they not
E wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? Then were the people of Israel deuyded into two partes, for halfe ꝑ people folowed Thibni ꝑ sonne of Ginath, makynge hym kynge: & the other halfe folowed Amri. But the people that folowed Amri, preuayled agaynst the people that folowed Thibni the sonne of Ginath. And so Thibni dyed, and Amri raygned.

In ꝑ. xxxi. yere of Asa kynge of Juda, beganne Amri to raygne ouer Israel. xii. yere. Sixe yere raygned he in Thirza. He bought the hyll ↠ Sohomron of one Schemar for F two talentes of syluer, and buylt in the hill, and called the name of the cytie whych he buylt, after the name of Schemar whych had bene owner of the hyll Schomron. But Amri wrought that which is euell in ꝑ eyes of the Lorde, and dyd worse then all ꝑ were before hym. For he walked in all ꝑ waye of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, & in hys synnes, ꝑ made Israel synne, to anger ꝑ Lorde God of Israel wt their vanyties. The rest of the wordes ꝑ cõcerne Amri, & all ꝑ he dyd, & his strength ꝑ he shewed, are they not wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of ꝑ kynges of Israel? And so Amri slepte wt hys fathers and was buryed in Schemaron, and Ahab his sonne raygned in hys steade.

In ꝑ. xxxviij. yere of Asa kynge of Juda, beganne Ahab the sonne of Amri to raygne ouer Israel, and the same Ahab the sonne of Amri raygned ouer Israell (Samaria. xxij yere. And Ahab the sonne of Amri dyd euell in the syght of the Lord, aboue all that were G before. And behold, I am gatheringe two stickes for to go in, & dresse it for me and my sonne, that we maye eate it, and dye.

And Elia sayde vnto her: feare not, come and do

& do as thou hast sayde: but make me therof a lytle cake fyrst of all, & bringe it vnto me: and afterwarde make for the and thy sonne. For thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: the meale in the barell shall not be wasted neither shall the oyle in the cruse be mynished, vntyll the Lorde haue sent rayne vpon the erthe. And she went, and dyd as Elia sayde. And Elia toke the boye, and brought hym downe out of the chambre into the house, & delyuered hym vnto hys mother, and Elia sayde: beholde, thy sonne lyueth. And the woman sayde vnto Elia: nowe I knowe, that thou art a man of God, and that the worde of the Lorde in thy mouth, is true. ✠

¶ The. xviij. Chapter.

¶ Elia is sent to Ahab. Obadia (otherwyse called Abdia) hydeth an hundred ppbetes. Elia kylleth all Baals prophetes: & afterwarde obtayneth rayne.

After procesle of many dayes ꝑ worde of the Lorde came to Elia in the thyrde yeare, sayinge: go shewe thy selfe vnto Ahab, and * I wyll sende rayne vpon the erth. And Elia went to shewe hym selfe vnto Ahab, & ther was a great famyshement in Schomron. And Ahab called Obadia, whych was the gouerner of hys house: & Obadia feared God greatlye: For when Jezabell destroyed the prophetes of ꝑ Lorde, he toke an hundred prophetes and hyd thē, fyftie mē in one caue & fyftie in another, & prouyded bred & water for thē. And Ahab sayde vnto Obadia: Go into the lāde, vnto all fountaynes of water, & vnto all brokes, yf happlye we maye fynde grasse, to saue the horses ād the mules, & that we destroye not some of the beastes. And so they deuyded the lāde betwene thē, to walke thorow it. Ahab went one waye by hym selfe, and Obadia went another waye by hym selfe.

And it chaunced that as Obadia was in the waye, Elia mett hī. And Obadia knewe hym, & fell on hys face, & sayde: art not ꝑ my Lord Elia? And he answered hym: I am he. Go and tell thy Lorde: beholde, Elia is here. He sayde: what haue I synned, that ꝑ woldest delyuer thy seruaūt into ꝑ hād of Ahab, to sley me? As truelie as the Lord thy God lyueth, there is no nacyon or kyngdome, whether my Lorde hath not sent, to seke the. And when they sayde: he is not there, he tooke an othe of the kyngdome & nacyō, whan he kounde the not. And nowe thowe sayest: goo & tell thy Lorde, that Elia is here. And assone as I am gone from the, the spyrete of the Lord shall carie the into some place that I do not knowe. and so when I come and tell Ahab, & he canne not finde the, he shall sley me. But I thy seruaūt feare the Lorde from my youth vp. Was it not tolde my Lorde, what I dyd, when Jezabell slue the prophetes of ꝑ Lorde howe I hydde an hundred men of the Lordes prophetes, fyftie mē in one caue and fyftie in another, and prouyded thē of bred and water? And nowe thou sayest, goo thou nowe and shewe thy Lorde. Beholde, Elia is here, that he maye sley me?

And Elia sayde: as truly as the Lorde of hoostes lyueth, before whō I stande, I wyll shewe my selfe vnto him this daye. So Obadia went to mete Ahab, and tolde hym. And Ahab went to mete Elia. And it fortuned ꝑ whan Ahab sawe Elia, he sayde vnto him: art thou he that troubleth Israel? he answered: it is not I that haue troubled Israel, but thou, and thy fathers house, in that ye haue forsaken the commaundementes of the Lorde, and thou hast folowed Baal. Nowe therfore sende and geather to me all Israel vnto mount Carmel, and the prophetes of Baal * foure hundred and fyftie, and the prophetes of the Idols groues foure hūdred, which eate of Jezabels table. So Ahab sent vnto all the chyldren of Israel, & gathered ꝑ prophetes togeather vnto mount Carmel. *iii. re. xviii. a nions (If the Lord be God, folowe hym: but yf Baal be he, then go after hym. And the people answered hym not one worde. Then sayde Elia vnto the people agayne. I onely remayne a prophete of ỹ Lorde: but Baals prophetes are foure hundred and fyftie. Let them therfore geue vs two oxen, & let them chose the one, & cut hym in peces, & laye hym on wodd, and put no fyre vnder: and I will dresse the other oxe, & laye him on wodd, and will put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of youre God, & I wyll call on the name of the Lorde: and then the God that answereth by fyre, let him be God.

And Elia came vnto all the people, and sayde: howe lōge halte ye betwene two oppy-

* And all the people answered & sayde. yt is well spoken. And Elia sayd vnto the prophetes of Baal: chose you an oxe, and dresse hym fyrst (for ye are many) and call on the name of your goddes, but put no fyre vnder. And they toke the one oxe that he dyd geue them, & they dressed it * & called on the name of Baal from morninge to noone: sayeng: O Baal heare vs. But there was no voyce nor one to answere. And they lepte vpō the aulter that they had made. And at none it fortuned, that Elia mocked them, and sayde: crye lowde, for he is a God: peraduenture he is talkinge or occupyed (in folowinge vpon his enemyes) or is in his iourneye, or happely he slepeth, & must be awaked with youre crye. And they cryed lowde, and cut the selues, as their maner was, wt knyues & lasters, tyll the bloude folowed on them. And it chaunced, ỹ when myddaye was passed they prophesyed vntill ỹ tyme of ỹ euenyng sacrifyce. But there was nether voyce ner one to answere, ner any ỹ regarded the.

And Elia sayde vnto all the folke: come to me. And all ỹ people came to hym. * And he repayred the aulter of the Lord, that was broken. * And Elia toke .xij. stones accordig to the nombre of the .xij. trybes of the sonnes of Jacob (vnto whō the worde of the Lorde came, sayeng. * Israel shalbe thy name. And with the stones he made an aultare in the name of the Lorde. And he made a dyche rounde about ỹ aulter, as brode as two forowes of the corne felde. And he put the wodd in order, & hewed the oxe in peces, & layed hym on the wodd, and sayde: fyll foure barels wt water, and powre it on the burntsacrifyce & on the wodd. And he sayd: do so agayne. And they dyd so the seconde tyme. And he sayde agayne: do it the thyrde tyme. And they dyd it the thyrde tyme. And the water ranne rounde about the aulter, and he fylled the pitte wyth water also.

And it fortuned whē ỹ tyme came (wherin ỹ burntsacrifyce of ỹ euentnge vsed to be offred) Elia the prophete came & sayd: Lord God of Abrahā, Isahac & of Israel, it shalbe knowē this daye, that thou art the God in Israel, & that I am thy seruaunt, & ỹ I haue done all these thynges at thy cōmaūdemēt. Heare me (O Lorde) heare me, ỹ this people maye knowe, that thou art ỹ Lorde God, & ỹ hast turned theyr herte agayne now at the last. * And the fyre of the Lord fell, & consumed the burntsacrifyce & ỹ wodd, the stones & the dust, & lycked vp the water ỹ was in ỹ pitte. And whē all ỹ people sawe it, they fell on their faces, & sayd. The Lord, he is God, ỹ Lord, he is God. And Elia sayde vnto thē. Take the prophetes of Baal, & let not one of them escape. And they toke them, and Elia brought thē vnto ỹ brooke Kison, & slue thē there. And Elia sayd vnto Ahab: gett ỹ vp, eate and drinch, for ther is a soūde of moche rayne. And so Ahab went vp to eate and to drinch, & Elia wēt vp to ỹ toppe of Carmel. And he layed hī selfe flatt vpō the erth, & put his face betwene his knees, & sayd to his seruaūt: go vp (I praye ỹ) & looke towarde the waye of the see. And he wēt vp & loked, & sayde: there is nothyng. And he sayde: go agayne. vij. tymes. And it fortuned, ỹ at ỹ seuēth tyme he sayd: behold, there ariseth a litle clowde of the see, lyke a mānes hande. He sayde: go, & saye vnto Ahab, Make fast thy charet, & gett the downe, ỹ the rayne stoppe the not. And it came to passe, ỹ in the meane while, ỹ heuē was blacke wt clowdes & wilde, & there was a great rayne. And Ahab gatt vp & came to Jezreel. And the hād of ỹ Lord was on Elia, & he gyrded vp hys loynes, & ranne before Ahab, tyll he came to Jezreel.

¶ The .xix. Chapter.

¶ Elia fleing from Jezabel is nourished of the Angell of God, and is commaūded to annoynte Azabel, Jehu and Eliseus, whom the Hebrues call, Elisa.

AND Ahab tolde Jezabel, all that Elia had done, and howe he had slayne all the prophetes wyth the swerde. Then Jezabel sent a messenger vnto Elia, sayēge: * so & so let the goddes do to me, yf I make not thy soule lyke one of theyrs, by to morowe thys tyme. When he sawe that, he arose & went for his lyfe, and came to Beerseba in Juda, & left his seruaunt there. But he hym selfe went a dayes iourney into the wyldernesse, and came and satt downe vnder a Juniper tree, and desyred for his soule, that he myght dye, and sayde, * it is nowe ynough (O Lorde) take my soule, for I am not better then my fathers.

And as he laye and slepte vnder the Juniper tree: beholde, an Angell touched hym, and sayde vnto hym: vp, and eate. And whā he loked aboute hym: beholde, there was a loafe of broyled breade & a vessell of water at his heed. And he dyd eate and drincke, and layde him downe agayne to slepe. And the Angell of the Lorde came agayne the seconde tyme, and touched him, and sayde: vp, and eate, for thou hast yet a great iourneye.

And

And he arose, and dyd eate and dryncke, and walked in the strength of that meate * fourtye dayes & fourtye nyghtes, euen vnto Horeb the moũt of God. ¶ Whan he came thether into a caue, he lodged there in, all nyght.

And beholde, the worde of the Lorde came to him & sayde vnto hym: what doest þ here Elia? And he answered. I haue bene gelous for the Lorde God of hoostes sake. For the chyldrẽ of Israel haue forsakẽ thy couenãt, * broken downe thyne aulters and slayne thy prophetes with the swerde, and I only am lefte, and they seke my lyfe to take it awaye. And he sayde: come out & stande vpon the mount, before the Lord. And beholde * þ Lorde went by, & a myghtie stronge wynde that rent the mouũtaynes & brake the rockes before the Lorde. But the Lorde was not in the wynde. And after the wynde came an erth quake. But the Lorde was not in the erthe quake. And after the erthe quake, came fire: but the Lord was not in the fyre. And after the fyre, came a small styll voyce. And when Elia heard it, he couered his face with hys mantle, & went out & stode in the entringe in of the caue. And beholde, there came a voyce vnto him, & sayd. what doest thou here Elia? And he answered. I haue bene gelouse for þ Lorde God of hoostes sake: because the chyldren of Israel haue forsaken thy couenaunt, cast downe thyne aulters, & slayne thy prophetes with the swerde, & I only am lefte, & they seke my lyfe to take it awaye. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: go & turne thy waye to the wilderneſſe vnto Damasco, that thou mayest annoynte * Hazael, kynge ouer Syria. And * Jehu þ sonne of Nimsi, shalt thou annoynte kyng ouer Israel. And Elysa the sonne of Saphat of Abel Meholoh shalt þ annoynte to be prophete in thy rowme. And it shall come to passe that whoso escapeth þ swerde of Hazael, hym shall Jehu slaye: and yf any man scape the swerde of Jehu, hym shall Elisa put to death. And therto * I haue lefte me seuen thousande in Israel, of whych neuer man bowed his knees vnto Baal, nor kyssed him wyth hys mouthe.

So he departed thẽce, & founde Elisa the sõne of Saphat plowyng, & hauyng twelue yocke of oxen be fore him, & he wt the twelue. And Elia wẽt by him, & cast his mãtell vpõ him. And he lefte the oxẽ, & ranne after Elia & sayde: * let me I praye the, kysse my father & my mother, & then I will folowe þ. He sayd vnto him: go backe agayne, for what is it, þ I haue done to þ? And whã he wẽt backe agayne frõ hum, he toke a couple of oxẽ, & slue them, and dressed the flesshe wyth the instrumentes of the oxen, & gaue vnto the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose, & went after Elia, and ministred vnto hym.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

¶ The first and seconde tyme þ Samaria was besieged of Benhadad kynge of Syria.

AND Benhadad the kyng of Syria gathered all his hoste together, hauynge. xxxij. kynges wt hym, and horses and charettes: & went vp and besieged Samaria, & warred agaynst it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kynge of Israel into the cytie, and sayde vnto him: thus sayeth Benhadad. Thy syluer and thy golde is myne, and the fayrest of thy wyues, and of thy chyldren be myne. And the kyng of Israel answered and sayde. My Lorde kynge according to thy sayeng, I am thyne and all that I haue.

And whan the messengers came agayne, they sayd: thus sayeth Benhadad. For as mche as I haue sent vnto the, sayinge: thou shalt delyuer me thy syluer & thy golde, and thy wyues, & thy chyldren. I wyll therfore sende my seruaũtes vnto þ to morow this tyme: & they shall serche thyne house, & the houses of thy seruaũtes. And whatsoeuer is pleasaunt in thyne eyes, they shall take it in their hãdes, and bringe it awaye. Then the kyng of Israel sent for all the elders of the lande, & sayde: take hede I praye you & se, howe thys felow goeth about myscheefe. For he sẽt vnto me, for my wyues, for my chyldrẽ, for my syluer & for my golde: & I denyed hym not. And all the elders & all the people sayde: herken not vnto hym, nor consent.

Wherfore he sayde vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tell my Lorde the kynge, all that thou dyddest send for to thy seruaunt at the fyrst tyme, that I wyll do, but this thing I maye not do. And the messengers departed, and brought answer agayne. And Benhadad sent vnto hym agayne, and sayd: and thus do the Gods vnto me, yf þ dust of Samaria be ynough for all the people that folowe me, to take euery man an hãdfull. And the kynge of Israel answered, & sayde: tell hym: let not him that putteth on his harneſſe boste hym selfe, as he that putteth it of. And it fortuned, that whẽ Benhadad heard that tydynges, as he was wt þ kynges dryuyng with in the pauylyons, he sayde vnto his seruauntes, put on yo harneſſe. And they set them selues in araye agaynst the cytie.

And beholde there came a Prophet vnto Ahab kynge of Israel, sayinge: thus sayeth the Lorde. Hast thou sene all this great multitude? beholde, I wyll delyuer it into thyne hande this daye, and thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lorde. And Ahab sayd: By whõ? he sayde: thus sayeth the Lorde: euen by the seruaũtes of þ gouernoures of the sheres. He sayde agayne: Who shall ordre the batayll? And he answered: thou. Then he nombred the seruauntes of the gouerners of the shyres: and they were two hundred and. xxxij.

And after them also, he nombred all the people, all the chyldrē of Israel, euen seuen thousande. And they went out at none. but Benhadad dyd dryncke tyll he was droncken in the pauylyons both he and ꝑ kynges: euen. xxxij. kynges, that holpe hym. And the seruaūtes of the gouernours of the shyres wēt out fyrst.

And Benhadad sent out, and they shewed hym, sayeng: there are mē come out of Samaria. He sayde. Whether they be come out for peace, take them a lyue: or whether they D be come out to fyght, take them yet a lyue. And so those younge men of the gouernours of the shyres came out of the cytie, and the host after them, and they slue euery one hys enemye that came in his waye. And the Siriens fled, and they of Israel folowed after them. And Benhadad the kynge of Syria scaped on a horsse, wyth his horsemen. And the kynge of Israel went out, and smote the horsses & charettes, & wyth a great slaughter slue he the Sirians.

And there came a Prophete to the kynge of Israel, and sayde vnto hym: go forth and playe the man, be wyse and take hede what thou doest: for when the yere is gone about, the kynge of Siria wyll come vp agaynst the. And the seruauntes of the kyng of Siria sayde vnto hym. The Gods of the hilles are theyr Gods, and therfore they had the better of vs: but let vs fyght agaynst them in the playne, and for what ye will, we shall haue the better of them. And this do: take ꝑ kynges away euery man out of his place, & put dukes in their rowmes. And do thou nombre the an hoste, lyke the host that thou hast loste. soche horsses & soch charettes, and we will fyght agaynst them in the playne, & thou shalt se vs gett the better of them. And he herkened vnto their voyce, & dyd euen so.

And it fortuned, that after the yere was gone aboute, Benhadad nombred the Syri- E ans, and wēt vp to Aphek to fyght agaynst Israell. And the chyldrē of Israel were nombred, & with theyr whole nombre went they agaynst them, and the chyldrē of Israel pitched before them, lyke two lytle flockes of kyddes: but the Siriās fylled the coūtreye. And there came a mā of God, and sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: thus sayth the Lorde: Because the Sirians haue sayed: the Lorde is but God of the hylles, and not God of the valeys: therfore will I deliuer all this great multitude into thine hāde, & ye shall knowe, that I am the Lorde. And they pitched one ouer agaynst the other. vij. dayes, & it came to passe, ꝑ in the seuenth daye ꝑ batayle was ioyned. And ꝑ chyldrē of Israel slue of ꝑ Siriās an hūdred thousand fote mē I one daye. But the rest fled to Aphek into ꝑ cytie. And there fell a walle vpon. xxvij. thousand of ꝑ men ꝑ were lefte. And Bēhadad fled, & came into the cytie, from chambre to chambre.

And his seruaūtes sayde vnto hym. Beholde, we haue herde saye, that ꝑ kynges of the house of Israel are mercyfull kinges. We will therfore put sacke cloth about o loynes and ropes about oure neckes, & go out to the kyng of Israel: yf happyly he wyll saue thy lyfe. And so they gyrded sacke clothe aboute theyr loynes & put ropes aboute theyr heedes, & came to ꝑ kyng of Israel, & sayde. Thy seruaunt Benhadad sayth, I praye ꝑ let me lyue. He sayde: is he yet a lyue? he is my brother. And they toke ꝑ worde for good lucke & hastely caught it out of his mouth & sayde: yee thy brother Bēhadad. He sayd: go, bring hym hyther. And Benhadad came out vnto hym, & he caused him to come vp into ꝑ charett. And he sayd vnto him: the cyties whych my father toke frō thy father, I wyll restore agayne. And thou shalt make streates for ꝑ in Damasco, as my father dyd in Samaria. F And I wyll make an apoyntment with D the, & send the awaye. And so he made an apoyntment with him, and sent hym awaye.

And there was a certen man of ꝑ childrē of ꝑ prophetes, which sayde vnto his neyghboure in the worde of the Lorde: smyte me I praye the. And the mā wold not smyte him: Then sayde he vnto him. Because thou hast not herkened vnto ꝑ voyce of the Lorde: beholde as soone as ꝑ art departed from me, a lyō shall slaye the. And it came to passe, ꝑ as soone as he was departed frō him, * a Lyon * iii. Reg. xiij. founde him, & slue him. Then he founde another man & sayde: smyte me I praye the. And G the man smote him, so that in smytinge he woūded hym. So ꝑ Prophete went forth, & wayted for the kyng by the waye, & put him selfe out of knowledge wt asshes, which he layed vpon hys face. And whē the kyng came by, he cryed vnto ꝑ kyng, & sayd: thy seruaūt went out in ꝑ myddes of ꝑ battell. And beholde, there wēt a waye a man, whō another man brought vnto me, and sayde: kepe this man. And yf he be myssed or lost, thy lyfe shall go for his: or else, thou shalt paye a talent of syluer. And as thy seruaūt had here & there to do, he was gone. And the kyng of Israel sayde vnto hym: euen so shall thy iudgement be, as thou hast defyned it thy selfe.

And he hasted, & toke ꝑ asshes away frō his face: & the kyng of Israel knewe him, ꝑ he was of ꝑ Prophetes. And he sayde vnto him: thus sayth ꝑ Lorde: because thou hast lett go a man that I haue in my curse, thy lyfe shall D go for his lyfe, and thy people for his people. And ꝑ king of Israel wēt to his house, wayward, & displeasure, & came to Samaria.

¶ Iesabel commaundeth to kyll Naboth, for the hyr regard that he refused to sell to Ahab. Helias reproueth Ahab, and he repenteth.

After

After these thynges, it chaūced, ꝓ Naboth the Jezrahelite had a vyneyarde in Jezrahel, harde by ꝓ palace of Ahab kyng of Samaria.
*iiii Reg. viii.e And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, sayēge. * Geue me thy vyneyarde, ꝓ I maye make me a garden of yerbes therof, because it lyeth so nye my house: & I will geue the for it a better vyneyarde then it is: or rather yf it please the, I will geue the, ꝓ woꝛthe of it in money. And Naboth sayde to Ahab: the Lorde forbyd ꝓ frō me, that I shulde geue the enheritaunce of my father vnto the.

And Ahab came into hys house heuye. & cuell a payde, because of the woꝛde which Naboth the Jezrahelite had spoken to him, for he had sayde: I wyll not geue the the enheritaunce of my fathers. And he layde him downe vpon his bed, and turned awaye his face, (to the wall) and wolde eate no breād.

But Jezabell hys wyfe came to him, and sayde vnto hym: why is thy spyrete so wayward, that thou eatest no breade? And he sayde vnto her: For I spake vnto Naboth the Jezraelite, and sayde vnto hym: geue me thy vyneyarde for money: or else yf it please ꝓ, I wyl geue the another vyneyarde for it. And he answered: I wyl not geue the my vyneyarde.

And Jezabell his wyfe sayde vnto hym: Wost thou thus gouerne the kyngedom of Israel? vp, & eate breād, and set thyne hert at rest, I will geue the, ꝓ vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezraelite. And so she wrote a letter in Ahabs name, and sealed it wyth hys seale and sent the lettre vnto the elders and to the nobles that were in hys cytye dwellinge wyth Naboth. And she wrote in ꝓ letter, sayenge: proclayme a fast, and set Naboth on hye amonge the people, and set two vnthryftes before him, to beare (raise) witnesse agaynst him, sayenge: & thou dydest blaspheme God and the kyng. And then carye hym out, and stone hym to deeth.

And the men of his cyte: that is to saye, which dwelt in his cytie, did as Jezabel had sent vnto them, and as it was wrytte in the letter whych she had sent vnto them. They proclamed fastyng, and set Naboth among the chefe of the people, & there came in two men (the children of Belial) and sate before him. And the two vnthryftie persones wytnessed agaynst Naboth, in the presence of ꝓ people, sayēge: Naboth dyd blaspheme God
*Num. viii.g and the kyng. * And they caried hym out of ꝓ cytie, and stoned hym wyth stones that he dyed. And then they sent to Jezabel, sayēge: Naboth is stoned to dethe. And it fortuned when Jezabel heard that Naboth was stoned to deeth: she sayde to Ahab: vp, & take possession of the vyneyarde of Naboth, the Jezrahelite, which he denied to geue the for money, for Naboth is not alyue, but deed. And when Ahab hearde that Naboth was deed, he stode vp to go downe to the vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrahelite, and to take possession of it.

And the woꝛde of the Lorde came vnto Elia the Thelbite, sayēge: vp and go downe to mete Ahab kynge of Israel, which is in Samaria. For lo, he is gone downe to ꝓ vineyarde of Naboth: to take possession of it. And therfore shalt thou saye vnto him thus sayth the Lorde: hast thou kylled, & gotten possession? And thou shalt speake vnto him sayeng: thus sayth the Lorde * in the place where dogges lycked the bloud of Naboth, shall dogges licke euen thy bloud also. And Ahab sayde to Elia: hast thou founde me, o thou myne enemye? He answered: I haue founde the: for ꝓ art euē & solde to worcke wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde. Behold, I will bring euell vpon the, and will make cleane riddance of thy posterite & wil *destroye frō Ahab, euē him ꝓ maketh water agaynst ꝓ wall, & him ꝓ is shut vp & left behynde in Israel: & will make thyne house, lyke the house of Jeroboā the sonne of Nebat, & lyke the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahia, for the prouocacion, wherwith ꝓ hast prouoked, and made Israel to synne.

And of Jezabel spake the Lorde sayeng: *dogges shall eate Jezabell, in the possessiō of Jezrahel. * And he that dyeth of Ahab in ꝓ towne, him shal dogges eate: & he ꝓ dyeth in the feldes, him shal the foules of the ayre eate. But there was none lyke Ahab which dyd euen sell hym selfe, to worcke wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde, and that because Jezabel hys wyfe prycked hym forwarde. He dyd exceadynge abhominablye, in folowyng foule Idoles, according to all thynges, as did the Ammorites * whom the Lorde cast out before the children of Israel.

And it fortuned, that when Ahab hearde those woꝛdes, * he rent hys clothes, and put sackecloth about his flesh, and fasted, and laye in sack and went ↠ bare fote. And the woꝛde of the Lorde came to Elia, the Thelbyte, sayenge: seest thou how Ahab humbleth hym selfe before me? because he so submytteth hym selfe before me, I wyl not bringe that euell in his dayes: but in his sonnes dayes, wyll I bringe euell vpon hys house. And they continued three yere without warre betwene Siria and Israel.

And he sayde vnto him, thus sayth the Lorde: for as moch as thou hast sent messengers to aske councell at Beelzebub the God of Ekron as though there had bene no God in Israel whose worde ꝑ mightest seke after: therfore thou shalt not come downe of the bedd on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And so he dyed accordynge to the worde of the Lorde which Elia had spovp ken. And Iehoram * (his brother) beganne to raygne in his steade, in the seconde yeare of Iehoram the sonne of Iehosaphat kyng of Iuda, because he had no sonne. The rest of ꝑ wordes that concerne Ahazia, what thynges he dyd, are they not wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israel?

¶ The .ij. Chapter.

¶ Elia deuideth the waters with his mantell, he is taken vp in to heuen. The better & venemouse waters are healed. The children that mocke Eliseus (otherwyse called Elisa) are rent in peces.

1 AND it chanced, that whā the * Lorde
* Gene.v.c. ☞ wolde take vp Elia in to heauē ☞ by a whorle wind, Elia went with Elisa from Gilgal. And Elia sayde vnto Elisa tary here I praye the, for the Lorde hath sent
* 1.Ma.rrvij. me to Bethel. Elisa sayde vnto him: * as surely as the Lorde liueth, and as thy soule lyueth, I will not leaue the. And they came downe to Bethel. And the chyldren of the Prophetes ꝑ were at Bethel, came out to Elisa, & sayde vnto him: knowest thou not, howe that the Lorde will take awaye thy master ☞ frõ thy head this daye? He sayde: I know- ☜ we it also holde ye youre peace.

And Elia sayde vnto him. Elisa, tary here 3
I praye the, for the Lorde hath sent me to Iericho. He sayde: as surely as the Lord lyueth and as surely as thy soule lyueth, I will not leaue the, & so they came to Iericho. And the chyldren of the prophetes ꝑ were at Iericho came to Elisa and sayde vnto him: knowest thou not, that the Lord will take awaye thy master from thy head thys daye? he answered: I knowe it also, holde ye your peace. And Elia sayde vnto him: tarye I praye the here, for the Lorde hath sent me to Iordan. He sayde: as surely as the Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth, I will not leaue ꝑ. And so they two went togeather. And fyftie men of the sonnes of ꝑ prophetes came and stode on ꝑ other syde afarre of, and they two stode by Iordan.

And Elia toke his mantell and wrapte it togeather, & smote the waters, and they were deuided, parte the one waye & parte ꝑ other, so that they two went ouer thorowe drye lande. And it fortuned, that as sone as they were ouer, Elia sayd vnto Elisa: aske what I shall do for the, ere I be take awaye from the. And Elisa sayde: I praye the ☞ let thy ☜

He toke vp also the mantell of Elia that fell from him, & went backe agayne & stode by Iordans syde, & toke the mantell of Elia (that fell from him,) and smote the waters ☞ (and they parted not a sunder,) and he sayd: where ☜ is the Lorde God of Elia, and he him selfe? And when he had smyten the waters, they parted this waye & that waye, & Elisa went ouer. And whan the chyldren of the prophetes which were at Jericho sawe hym from a farre, they sayde: the spyryte of Elia dothrest on Elisa, and they came to mete him, and fell to the grounde before him, & sayde vnto him. Se: there be with thy seruaūtes fyftye stroge men ☞ let them go & seke thy master: happlye the spyryte of the Lorde hath taken hym vp, and cast hym vpon some mountayne or in to some valeye. And he sayde. Ye shall sende none. And whan they laye vpon him tyll he was ashamed, he sayde. Send. They sent therfore fyftye men, which sought him thre dayes and thre nyghtes, but founde him not. And whan they came agayne to him, which tarryed at Jericho, he sayde vnto thē: dyd I not saye vnto you, that ye shulde not go?

D And the men of the cytie sayde vnto Elisa beholde, Syr, the dwellynge of this cytie is pleasaunt as thou thy selfe seest: but the water is naught & the grounde baren. he sayde. Brynge me a newe cruse, and put salt therin. And they brought it to him. And he wēt vnto the sprynge of the waters, and cast the salt in thither, & sayde: thus sayth ꝑ Lorde. I haue healed this water, ther shall not come hēcefor the ether deth or barennesse. So ꝑ waters were healed vnto this daye, accordinge to the sayinge of Eliseus, which he spake.

And he went vp frō thence vnto Bethel. And as he was goinge vp the waye, there came lytle chyldrē out of the cytie, & mocked him, & sayd vnto him. Go vp thou bald heed, go vp thou bald heed. And he turned backe, and looked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lorde. And there came two lhe Beares out of that woode, & tare .xlij. chyldren of them. And he went from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence he turned agayne to Samaria.

¶ The .iij Chapter.

¶ The kynges of Israel, Juda and Edom lacke water, which they obtayne throughe the prayer of Eliseus. The kynge of Moab fighteth against Israel.

IEhozam the sonne of Ahab beganne to raygne vpon Israel in Samaria the .xviij. yere of Iehosaphat kynge of Juda, and raygned twelue yeres. And he wrought euell in the syght of the Lorde: but not lyke his father and lyke his mother, for he put awaye ꝑ ymages of Baal, that his father had made. ☞ Neuertheles, he ☞ cleaued vnto the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat (which made Israel to synne) and departed not ther from.

And Mesa kynge of Moab was a Lorde of shepe, and rendered vnto the kynge of Israel an hundred thousande lambes & an hundred thousande rammes with ꝑ wolle. But whan Ahab was deed, it fortuned, that the kynge of Moab rebelled agaynst the kynge of Israel. And kynge Jehozam went out of Samaria the same season, and nombred all Israell, & wēt, & sent to Iehosaphat ꝑ kynge of Juda, sayinge: the kynge of Moab hath offended agaynst me, wilt thou come wᵗ me agaynst Moab to battell? he answered: I wyll come vp, for as I am, so art ꝑ ☞ and as my people be, so are thy people, & thy horses as myne. And he sayde. what waye shall we go vp? And he answered. The waye thorowe the wildernesse of Edom.

And so the kynge of Israel toke his iourneye, and the kynge of Juda, & the kynge of Edom. And when they had cōpassed ꝑ waye seuen dayes, they had no water for the hoost and for the cattell that folowed them. And ꝑ kynge of Israel sayde. Alas, ꝑ Lorde hath called these thre kynges together, to delyuer thē ouer into the hande of Moab. But Iehosaphat sayde: * is there not here a prophet of the Lorde, that we maye enquyre of ꝑ Lorde by him? And one of the kynge of Israels seruauntes answered and sayde: here is Elisa ꝑ sonne of Saphat, which ☞ powred water on the hādes of Elia. And Iehosaphat sayde Is not the worde of the Lorde wᵗ hym? And so the kynge of Israel, & Iehosaphat and the kynge of Edom went downe to him.

And Elisa sayde vnto the kynge of Israel. what haue I to do with the? Get the, to the prophetes of thy father, and to the prophetes of thy mother. And the kynge of Israel sayde vnto him. ☞ Oh naye, for the Lorde hath called these thre kynges together to delyuer thē into the hāde of Moab. And Elisa sayde: as sure as ꝑ Lord of hoostes lyueth (in whose syght I stand) and it were not, ꝑ I regarde ꝑ presence of Iehosaphat the kynge of Juda, I wolde not loke towarde the, nor yet se the. But nowe bringe me a mynstrell. And whā the mynstrell played, the hande of the Lorde came vpō him. And he sayde. Thus sayeth ꝑ Lorde. Make this playne grounde full of diches. For thus sayth the Lorde: ye shall se nether wynde nor rayne, & yet the broke shalbe fylled wᵗ water, that ye maye drincke, both ye, and youre beastes, and youre cattell. And this is yet but a small thynge in the syght of the Lorde, for almoch as he will geue ouer ꝑ Moabites also into youre handes. And ye shall smyte euery stronge towne, and euery goodlye cytie, and shall fell euery pleasaunt tree, and stoppe euery well of water, and marre euery good platte of grounde with stones. And in the morninge, whan the meate offeringe was offred, it fortuned, that there came water by the waye from Edom, and the contreye was fylled with water.

And when all the Moabites hearde ꝑ the kynges were come vp to fyght agaynst thē, they gathered all to geather, frō ꝑ youngest

that

that was able to put on harneſſe and ſo vpwarde, and ſtode in the border of the lande.

And they were vp early in the morninge and the ſonne ſhone vpon the water, that the Moabites ſawe the water a farre of as red as bloude, and they ſayde. This is ꝑ bloude of ſlaughter: the kynges are ſlayne and one hath ſmytte another. Nowe therfore Moab gett the to the ſpoyle. And whē they came to the hoſte of Iſrael, the Iſraelytes ſtode vp and ſmote the Moabites, ſo that they fledd before them, but they followed vpon them, & ſmote Moab. And they ouerthrewe the cyties, & on euery good parcell of lāde, caſt euery mā his ſtone, and fylled it, and they ſtopte all the welles of waters, and felde all ꝑ good trees. Onely in the cytie of Kirkhareſeth they the ſtones therof: howbeit they went aboute it with ſlynges, and ſmote it.

And when the kynge of Moab ſawe, that the battell was ſore agaynſt hym, he toke wt him ſeuen hundred men that drewe ꝑ ſwerde to haue gone thorowe, euen vnto ꝑ kynge of Edō: but they coulde not. And then he toke his eldeſt ſonne (that ſhulde haue raygned in his ſtrade) & offered him for a burnt offering vpon the wall. And ther was great indignacyon agaynſt Iſrael, and they departed from him, and returned to their awne lande.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

¶ God geueth a certen poore woman oyle & floure by Heliseus. Heliseus (whom the text calleth Elisa) obtayneth of God a chylde for hys hoſteſſe: which dyeth and is after rayſed to lyfe. He maketh ſweete the potage: and multiplieth the loaues.

AND there cryed a certen woman of the wyues of the prophetes vnto Elisa, ſayinge: thy ſeruaunt my huſbāde is deed, and thou knoweſt, that thy ſeruaunt dyd feare the Lorde. And the creditor is come, to fett my two ſonnes, to be his bondemen. Elisa ſayde vnto her. Tell me what ſhall I do for ꝑ? What haſt thou in thyne houſe? She ſayde, thyne handmayde hath nothinge at all in ꝑ houſe, ſaue a pitcher with oyle. He ſayde vnto her: Go & borowe veſſell for the, of them that are without euen of all thy neyboures, emptie veſſelles and that not a fewe. And when thou art come in, thou ſhalt ſhutt the doze after the and after thy ſonnes, and powre out into all thoſe veſſelles, and ſett aſyde ꝑ which is full.

And ſo the woman went from him, and ſhutt the doze after her and after her ſonnes. And they brought to her, & ſhe powred out. And it came to paſſe, that when the veſſelles were full, ſhe ſayde vnto her ſonne: bringe me yet a veſſell. And he ſayde vnto her: I haue no mo. And the oyle ceaſed. Then ſhe came, and tolde the man of God. And he ſayde: go & ſell the oyle, & paye thē ꝑ thou art in dett vnto, but lyue ꝑ & thy chyldren of ꝑ reſt.

And it fell on a daye, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a great woman, ꝑ toke him in, for to eate breed. And ſo it came to paſſe, that frō that tyme forth (as ofte as he came ꝑ waye) he turned in thither to eate breed. And ſhe ſayde vnto her huſbāde. Beholde, I perceaue, that this is a holy man of God, that cōmeth ſo oft by oure place. Lett vs make him a chambre (I praye the) with walles, & let vs ſet him there a beed, & a table, a ſtole & a candelſticke: that he maye turne in thyther when he commeth to vs.

And it fortuned on a daye, ꝑ he came thither & turned into the chambre, & laye there in, and ſayde to Gehezi his ſeruaūt: call this Sunamite. And whan he called her, ſhe preſented hyr ſelfe before hym. And agayne he ſayde vnto him: Tell her. Beholde, thou haſt bene carefull for vs, and haſt made all thys prouiſiō. what ſhall we nowe do for ꝑ? wolde ſt thou be ſpoken for to the kynge or to the captayne of the hoſte? She anſwered I dwell amonge myne awne people. And he ſayde agayne, what is to be done for her? Gehezi anſwered. Verely ſhe hath no chylde, & her huſbande is olde. And he ſayde: call her. And whan he had called her, ſhe ſtode in the doze. And he ſayde * by ſuch a tyme, and as ſone as the frute can liue, thou ſhalt embrace a ſonne. And ſhe ſayde: Oh naye my Lorde, ꝑ mā of God, do not lye vnto thyne hādmayd. And the wyfe conceaued, and bare a ſonne ꝑ ſame ſeaſon that Eliseus had ſayde vnto her as ſone as the frute coulde haue lyfe. * Gen. xviij. Rom. ix.

And when the chylde was growne, it fell on a daye, that he wēt out to his father, and to the reapers. And he ſayde vnto hys father, my heed, my heed. And he ſayd to a lad. Carye him to his mother. And whan he had taken him and brought him to his mother, he ſate on her knees tyll none, and then dyed. And ſhe went vp, and layde him on the bed of the man of God, and ſhut the doze about him, and went out, and called vnto her huſbande and ſayde: ſende with me (I praye ꝑ) one of the younge mē & one of the aſſes, For I wyll runne to the man of God, and come agayne. And he ſayde: wherfore wylt thou go to him ſeinge that to daye is neither newe mone nor Saboth daye. She anſwered: For health. Then ſhe ſadelled an Aſſe, & ſayde to hir ſeruaunt: leade awaye the aſſe, and make her not to go ſlowly (becauſe I ryde vpon her) but whan I byd the.

And ſo ſhe went & came vnto the man of God, to mount Carmel. And it fortuned: that when the mā of God ſawe her farre of, he ſayde to Gehezi his ſeruaūt. Beholde, yōder is the Sunamite. Rūne therfore to mete her, and ſaye vnto her: Is all well with the and with thy huſbāde, & with the ladd? And ſhe anſwered. All is well. And whē ſhe came to the

to the man of God vp to the hyll, she caught him by the fete. But Gehezi went to her, to thrust her awaye. And ỹ man of God sayde: let her alone, for her soule is vered within her, and the Lorde hath hidd it from me, and hath not tolde it me. Then she sayde: dyd I desyre a sonne of my Lorde? dyd I not require the, that thou shuldest not disceaue me?

Then he sayde to Gehezi: * gyrde vp thy loynes, and take my staffe in thyne hãde, and go thy waye. * If ỹ mete anye mã ☞ salute him not. And yf any salute the, ani were him not agayne. And laye my staffe vpõ the face of the chylde. And the mother of the chylde sayde: * as sure as the Lorde lyueth, & as thy soule liueth. I will not leaue ỹ. And he arose and folowed her. Gehezi went before them, & layed the staffe vpon the face of the chylde. But there was neither voyce nor any feling. Wherfore he went agayne to mete him, and tolde him, sayinge: the childe is not awaked.

And when Elisa was come into ỹ house: Beholde, the chylde was dead and layde vpõ his bed. he went in therfore, & shut the dore to the ladd and him, and prayed vnto ỹ Lorde. * And went vp & laye vpõ the ladd, & put his mouth on his mouth, & his eyes vpõ his eyes, & his handes vpon his hãdes, and whã he so laye vpon the chylde, the flesshe of the chylde wared warme. And ☞ he wẽt agayne, & walked once vp and downe in ỹ house, and then went vp, and layed him selfe vpon him agayne. And then ỹ chylde galped seuen times and opened his eyes. And he called Gehezi, & sayde: Call for this Sunamite. So he called her: which whẽ she was come in vnto him, he sayde vnto her: * take thy sõne. Therfore she went in, and fell at his fete, & bowed her selfe to the grounde, and toke vp her sonne, and went out. ✠ Elisa came agayne to Gilgal, and there was a derth in the lande, and the chyldrẽ of the prophetes dwelt with him. And he sayde vnto his seruaunt. Set a great pot on the fyre, and make pottage for the chyldren of the prophetes. And one went out into the felde, to gather herbes, & founde (as it were) a wilde vyne, and gathered therof wylde Coloquyntydas his lappe full, & came, & shred them into the potte of potage: for they knewe it not. So they powred out for the men to eate. And it fortuned, ỹ when they tasted of the pottage, they cryed out, and sayde: O thou man of God ☞ there is derth in the pot: and they coulde not eate therof. But he sayde: brynge meale. And he cast it into ỹ pot, & sayde: fyll for the people, that they maye eate, and there was no more harme in the pot.

There came a man from Baal Salisa, & brought the man of God bread of ỹ fyrst frutes, euẽ .xx. loaues of barlye, and newe corne which was yet in his bagges. And he sayde: Geue vnto the people, that they maye eate. And his mynister answered: why, shall I set this before an hundred men? he sayde agayne: geue it vnto the people that they maye eate. For thus sayth the Lorde * they shall eate, and ther shalbe left ouer. And so he sett it before them, & they dyd eate, and left ouer, according to the worde of the Lorde. * Iohn. vi. a.

¶ The. v. Chapter. ✠

¶ Naaman the Sirian is healed of hys leprosye. Gehezi is stryken with a leprosye, because he toke money and rayment of Naaman.

NAaman, captayne of the hoste of the kynge of Siria, was a greate man, and honorable in the syght of his master: because ỹ by him the Lorde had geuẽ * healthe vnto Siria. he was also a myghtie man, and expert in warre, but he was a leper. And the Syrians had gone out by cõpanies, & had brought out of the contreye of Israel a lytle mayde, & she was with Naamãs wyfe. And she sayde vnto her ladye: I wold to God my Lorde were with the prophet that is in Samaria: for he wolde delyuer him of his leprosie. And ☞ he went in, and tolde his Lorde, sayinge: thus and thus sayde the mayde, that is of ỹ lãde of Israel. And ỹ kynge of Syria sayde: Come and entre in and I wyll sende a letter vnto the kynge of Israel. And he came, and toke with him ten talentes of syluer, and .vj. thousande peces of golde, & ten chaunge of raymẽtes, and brought the letter to ỹ kynge of Israel contayninge this tenoure: Nowe when this letter is come vnto the: Beholde, I haue therwith sent Naaman my seruaunt to the, that thou mayest rydde him of his leprosie. And it fortuned, that when ỹ kynge of Israel had redde the letter, he rent his clothes, and sayde: * am I God, that I shulde slaye, & make alyue? for he doth sende to me that I shulde delyuer a man frõ his leprosie. Wherfore cõsyder (I praye you) and se howe he seketh a quarell agaynst me. which when Elisa the man of God had hearde, howe that the kynge of Israel had rent his clothes, he sent to ỹ kynge, sayinge. Wherfore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come nowe to me, & he shall know, ỹ there is a prophet in Israel. * Deut. xxxii. f.

And so Naaman came wt his horsses and with his charettes, ãd stode at the dore of the house of Elisa. And Elisa sent a messenger vnto him, sayinge: go and washe ỹ in Iordã seuen tymes, & thy flesshe shall come agayne to the, & thou shalt be cleansed. But Naamã was wroth, & wẽt awaye, & sayde. Beholde I thought wt my selfe: he wolde surely come out, and stande & call on the name of ỹ Lorde his God, and put his hande on the place that he maye heale the leprosie. Are not Ihana & Pharphar, ryuers of Damasco, better then all the waters of Israel? yf I washe me also in them tn them, shall I not be clensed? And so he turned him, and departed with displeasure. And his seruauntes came, & cõmoned with hym, and sayde: Father, yf the prophete had bydd the do some great thinge, oughtest thou not to haue done it? how moch rather then, whã he sayth to the: washe, and be cleane? Then went he downe, & washed him selfe seuẽ tymes in Jordã, accordynge to the sayinge of þ man of God, & his flesshe chaũged, like vnto *Luke.iiij.a. þ flesshe of a lytle chylde, * & he was cleãsed.

And he turned agayne to the man of God, he and all his cõpanie, and stode before him, and sayde: Beholde, I knowe nowe þ there is no God in all the worlde, but in Israel. Nowe therfore take a blessinge of thy ser- *iiij.m.v.b. uaũt. But he sayde: * as surely as the Lorde liueth (before whom I stãde) I will receaue none. And whan the other wolde haue constrayned hym to receaue it, he wolde not. And Naaman sayde: (Euen as thou wylt, but I beseche the.) Shall there not be geuẽ to thy seruaũt as moch of this erthe as two mules maye beare? For thy seruaũt will here forth offer nether burnt sacrifyce nor offeringe vnto any other God, saue vnto the Lorde. Butherin the Lorde be mercyfull to thy seruaũt, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon, & doth worshyppe there, & leaneth on my hande, and I also worshyppe in the house of Rimmon. (Whan I do worshyppe I saye) in the house of Rimmõ, the Lorde be mercyfull vnto thy seruaunt because of thys thinge. Unto whõ he sayde: go in peace. And when he was departed from him as it were a furlonge of grounde, Gehezi the seruaunt of Elisa the man of God, sayde: beholde, my master hath spared Naaman thys Syrian, that he wolde not receaue of hys hande those thynges þ he offered. As surely as the Lorde lyueth, I wyll runne after him, & take some what of him. And so Gehezi folowed Naaman. And whẽ Naamã sawe him runninge after him, he lyght downe from the charet, *iiij.m.iiij.b to mete him, and sayde: * is all well? he answered: All is well. Beholde, my master hath sent me, sayinge: se, there be come to me euen nowe frõ mount Ephraim two yonge men of the chyldren of the prophetes: geue them I praye the, one talẽt of syluer and two chaunge of garmẽtes. And Naamã sayde: With a good will. Take two talentes: & he compelled him to bynde two talentes of syluer in two bagges, with two chaunge of garmentes, and layed them vpon two of his seruauntes, to beare them before him. And whan he came in to a secrete place, he toke them frõ their hande, & bestowed it in the house, & the men were let go, and they departed.

But he went in, and stode before his master. And Elisa sayde vnto him: whence commest þ Gehezi? He sayde: thy seruaunt went no whether. But he sayde vnto hym: went not myne hert with the, when the man turned agayne from his charet to mete the? Is it nowe a tyme to receaue monepe, to receaue garmentes, olyue trees, vyneyardes, shepe and oxen, men seruauntes & mayde seruauntes? The leprosye therfore of Naaman shall cleaue vnto the, and vnto thy seed for euer. * And he went out from his presence *iiij.m.v.a. vj.m.vij.a a leper, as whyte as snowe.

The. vj. Chapter.

Eliseus maketh yron to swymme about the water. The Syrians besiege Israel, so that two women agree together to eate their owne chyldren.

The chyldren of the prophetes sayde vnto Elisa: Beholde, the place where we dwell with þ, is to lytle for vs. We wyll therfore go vnto Jordane, and take thence euery mã a beame, and buylde vs a place, to dwell in. And he answered: goo. And one sayde: be content I praye the, and come with thy seruaũtes. And he answered: I wyll come, and so he went with them.

And when they came to Jordan, they cutt downe wood. But it fortuned, that as one was fellinge downe of a tre, the axe heed fell into the water. And he cryed, & sayde: Alas master, it was lent me. And the man of God sayde. Where fell it? And he shewed him the place. And he cut downe a stycke, & cast it in thither, & immediatly the yrõ dyd swymme. Therfore sayde he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hande, and toke it vp.

But the kynge of Syria warred agaynst Israel, & toke councell with his seruauntes, and sayde: In yonder secrete place shalbe my remaynynge. And the man of God sent vnto the kynge of Israel, sayinge: Beware, that thou go not ouer to soch a place, for there the Syrians are lurkynge. Therfore the kynge of Israel sent to the place which the man of God tolde him, and warned him of, and saued him selfe from it, not once nor twyse.

And the hert of the kynge of Syria was troubled for this thinge, and he called for his seruaũtes and sayde vnto them: wyll ye not shewe me, which of oure mẽ (betrayeth me) to the kynge of Israel? And one of his seruaũtes sayde: none my Lorde o kynge. But Elisa the prophet, that is in Israel, telleth the kynge of Israel, yea euen, the wordes þ thou speakest in thy preuye chãbre. He sayde: go, & spie where he is, that I maye sende and fett him. And one tolde him, sayinge: beholde, he is in Dothã. Therfore sent he thither horses and charettes, and a myghtye hoste. And they came by nyght, & cõpassed þ citie about.

And when the seruaunt of the mã of God rose vp early to go out: Beholde, there was an hoste round about the towne with horses and charettes. And his seruaunt sayde vnto him:

him: Alas master, what shall we do? He answered * feare not, for they that be with vs, are moo then they that be wyth them. And Elisa prayed and sayde: Lorde (I beseche ꝑ) open hys eyes, that he maye se. And the Lorde opened the eyes of the yonge man. And beholde, the mountayne was full of horses, and charettes of fyre rounde aboute Elisa. And when they came downe to hym, Elisa prayed vnto the Lorde, and sayde: Smyte thys people (I praye the) with * blindnesse. And he smote them with blindnes, accordinge to the desyre of Elysa. And Elisa sayde vnto them this is not the waye, nether is this the towne: folowe me, and I wyll bringe you to the mā whom ye seke. But he ledd them to Samaria.

And it fortuned, that when they were come to Samaria, Elisa sayde: Lorde, open their eyes that they maye se. And the Lorde opened their eyes, and they sawe. And beholde, they were in the myddes of Samaria. And the kynge of Israel sayde vnto Elisa, when he sawe them: Shy father, shall I smyte them: And he answered: Thou shalt not smyte them. But smyte those that thou hast taken with thyne awne swerde, and w̄ thyne awne bowe. But rather set bread and water before them, that they maye eate and drincke, and go to their master. And he prepared a great refeccyon for them. And when they had eaten and dronke, he sent thē awaye and they went to their master. And so the ☞ soudyoures of Syria ☞ came nomore into the lande of Israel.

¶ After thys it chaunced, that Benhadad kynge of Syria gathered all his hoste & wēt vp, and besieged Samaria. But there was a greate derth in Samaria: and beholde, they besieged it, vntyll an Asses heed (was solde) for foure skore syluer pens, and the fourth ☞ part of ☞ a Cab of doues donge for fyue sicles. And as ꝑ kynge of Israel was gonge vpō the wall, there cryed a womā vnto him sayinge: helpe, my Lorde O kynge. He sayd: yf ꝑ Lord do not succoure the: wherwith can ☞ I helpe the: ☞ w̄ the barne, or w̄ the wyne presse? And the kynge sayde vnto her: what wilt ꝑ? She answered: ponder womā sayde vnto me: bringe thy sonne, ꝑ we maye eate him to daye, and we wyll eate myne to morowe. * And so we dressed my sonne and dyd eate him. And I sayde to her the other daye: bringe thy sonne ꝑ we maye eate hym, and she hath hyd her sonne. And it came to passe, that when the kynge hearde ꝑ wordes of the woman, he rent his clothes, and went vp on the wall. And the people loked: and beholde he had a sacke cloth vnder, vpon hys flesshe. Then he sayde: * God do so & so to me, yf the heed of Elisa ꝑ sonne of Saphat shall stāde on him this daye. But Elisa satt in his house and the elders satt by him, & the kynge sent a man before him. But yer the messenger came to him, he sayde to the elders: haue ye not sene, howe that ☞ the sonne of this murtherar hath sent, to take awaye myne heed? be circumspect when the messenger commeth, and shut the doore, and holde him at the doore: is not the sounde of hys masters fete behinde him? Whyle he yet talked with thē: Beholde ꝑ messenger came downe vnto him, & sayde beholde, ☞ this euell is of ꝑ Lorde, & what more shall I loke for of the Lorde?

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

¶ Elisa prophesyeth plentyousnes of victuailles and other thynges to Samaria. The Syrians runne awaye & haue no man folowynge them. The Lorde that wolde not beleue the worde of Elisa is troden to deeth.

Then Elisa sayde: heare ye the worde of the Lorde: thus sayth ꝑ Lorde. * to morowe thys tyme shall a bousshell of fyne floure be solde for a Sicle, and two bousshelles of Barley for a Sycle in the gate of Samaria. Then a certayne Lorde (on whose hand the kynge leaned) answered the man of God, and sayde: beholde, yf the Lorde wolde make wyndowes in heuen, myghte this sayinge come to passe? He sayde: Beholde, thou shalt se it w̄ thyne eyes, but shalt not eate therof.

And there were foure leperous men at ꝑ entringe in of ꝑ gate. And they sayde one to another, why sytt we here, vntill we dye? yf we saye: we will entre into the citie, beholde: the derth is in the cytie, and we shall dye therin. And yf we sytt styll here, we dye also. Nowe therfore come, and let vs fall vpō the hoste of the Syrians: If they saue oure lyues we shall lyue: yf they kyll vs, then are we deed. And so they arose in the nyght, to go to the hoste of ꝑ Syrians. And when they were come to the vtmost parte of the hoste of Syria: beholde, there was no man there.

For the Lorde had made the hoste of the Syriās * to heare a noyse of charettes and a noyse of hosses, & the noyse of a great hoste. In so moch ꝑ they sayde one to another, lo, ꝑ kynge of Israel hath hyred agaynst vs ꝑ kynges of the Hethites, and the kynges of the Egypcyans, to come vpō vs. Wherfore they arose and fled in ꝑ nyght, and left their tētes their hosses, and their Asses, and the felde which they had pytched euē as it was, & fled for their lyues. And when these lippers came to the edge of the host, they wēt into a tent, & dyd eate, & dronke, & caryed thence syluer, & gold and raymēt, and went and hyd it: came agayne and entred into another tent, and caryed thence also, and went and hidd it.

Then sayde one to another: We do not well thys daye, for asmoch as it is a daye to bringe good tydinges, & we holde oure peace yf we tarye tyll ꝑ daye lyght, some mischefe wyll wyll come vpon vs. Nowe therfore come, that we maye goo, and tell the kynges houshold. And so they came, & called vnto the porter of the cytie, and tolde them sayinge: we came to the pauilions of the Syrians: & se, there was no man there, nether voyce of man, but horses and Asses tyed, and the tentes were, euen as they were wont to be.

And so the man called vnto the porters, & they tolde the kynges houle within. And the kynge arose in the nyght, and sayde vnto his seruauntes. I wyll shewe you nowe, what the Syrians haue done vnto vs. They knowe that we be hungrye, & therfore are they gone out of the pauylions, to hyde them selues in the felde, sayinge: Whā they come out of the cytie, we shall catch them alyue, and get into the cytie. And one of his seruauntes answered, and sayde. Let men take (I praye you) fyue of ỹ horses that remayne, and are lefte in the multitude. Beholde & they are euen as all the multitude of Israel that are lefte in ỹ cytie: beholde (I saye) they are euen as all the multitude of ỹ Israelytes that are consumed, & we wyll sende, & se. They toke therfore the horses of two charettes, and the kynge sent after the hoste of the Syrians, sayinge: go, & se. And they went after them, euen vnto Iordan: and lo, all the waye was full of clothes and vesselles which the Syrians had cast from them in their haste.

And the messengers returned, and tolde the kynge. And the people went out, & spoyled the tentes of the Syrians. And so it came to passe, that a bushel of fyne flowre was sold for a sycle, and two bushelles of barley for a sycle * accordynge to the worde of the Lorde. And the kynge appointed ỹ Lorde (on whose hand he leaned) to be at the gate. And ỹ people trode vpon him in the gate, and he dyed, accordynge to the worde of the man of God which he sayde, when ỹ kynge came downe to him. And so came the thynge to passe ỹ the man of God had spoken to ỹ kynge, sayinge: two bushelles of barley for a sycle, & a bushell of fyne floure for another, shalbe * to morowe this tyme in the gate of Samaria. Wher vnto that Lorde answered the mā of God, and sayde. Yee, and yf ỹ Lorde made wyndowes in heauē myght it come to passe? And he sayde: Beholde, thou shalt se it with thyne eyes, & shalt not eate therof. And euen so chaunced it vnto him: for the people troad vpon him in the gate, and he dyed.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

¶ Elisa prophesieth vnto the Sunamite ỹ derth of .vij. yere. After ỹ deth of Benhadad raygneth Hazael in Siria. Iehoram ỹ sonne of Iehosaphat raygneth in Iuda. Edom falleth from Iuda. Ohosiah succedeth Iehoram.

Then spake * Elisa vnto the womā (whose sonne he had restored to lyfe agayne) sayinge: vp and go, thou and thyne houle, & sojourne where-soeuer thou canst, for ỹ Lorde hath called for a derth, and the same shall come vpō ỹ lande seuen yeres. And the woman arose, and dyd after the sayinge of ỹ man of God, and went both she and her houshold, & sojourned in the lande of the Philistines seuen yere. And at ỹ seuen yeres ende, it fortuned, that the woman came agayne out of the lande of ỹ Philistines, and went out to call vpō the kynge for her houle and for her land. And the kynge talked with Gehezi the seruaunt of the man of God, sayinge: tell me I praye the all the great deades that Elisa hath done: he tolde ỹ kynge, howe he had restored a deed bodye to lyfe agayne: but in the meane tyme ỹ woman (whose sonne he had rayfed vp agayne) cryed to ỹ kynge for her houle & for her lāde. And Gehezi sayde: My Lorde O kyng, thys is the woman, and thys is her sonne whom Elisa rayfed vp agayne. And whan ỹ kynge asked the woman, she tolde hym. And so the kynge delyuered her a chāberlayne, sayinge: restore thou vnto her all that are hers, and all the frutes of the felde, sence the daye that she left the lande, vnto this tyme.

And * Elisa came to Damascon, & Benhadad the kynge of Siria was sycke. And one tolde him sayinge. The mā of God is come hither. And ỹ kynge sayde vnto Hazael: * take a present in thine hāde, and goo mete the man of God, that thou mayest aske the Lord by him, whether I shall recouer of this disease. And so Hazael wēt to mete him and toke the present with him, and of euery good thinge of Damasco, euē as moch as fourtye Cameles coulde beare, and came & presented hym selfe before hym, and sayde: Thy sonne Benhadad kynge of Siria hath sent me to the, sayinge, shall I recouer of this dysease?

And Elisa sayd vnto him: go & saye vnto him: thou shalt recouer, howbeit ỹ Lorde hath shewed me, ỹ he shall surely dye. And he loked aside, and was ashamed, and ỹ man of God wepte. And Hazael sayde: why wepeth my Lord? he answered: for I know the cuyll thinges that thou shalt do vnto the chyldren of Israel: for their stronge cyties shalt thou sett on fyre, and their yonge men shalt thou slay with ỹ swerde & shalt dashe out the brayns of their luckynge chyldren, & all to teare their wemen with chylde.

But Hazael sayde: what is thy seruaūt, a dogge, that I shulde do this great thynge? And Elisa answered: the Lorde hath shewed me, that thou shalt be kynge of Siria. And so he departed from Elisa, & came to his master, which sayde to him. What sayde Elisa to the? he answered: he tolde me, that thou shuldest recouer. And on the morowe it fortuned, that he toke a thicke cloth, and dypt it in water, and & spred it on his face, and he dyed, and Hazael raygned in his steade.

The fyfte

The fyfte yeare of Jehoram the sonne of Ahab kynge of Israel, Jehosaphat beynge also kinge of Juda, Jehozā the sonne of Jehosaphat kynge of Juda, begāne to raygne.
*xxxii. yere olde was he, when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned eyght yere in Jerusalem. And he walked in the wayes of the kinges of Israel, as they that were of ꝑ house of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was his wyfe, and he dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde. And ꝑ Lorde wolde not destroye Juda, and that because of Dauid hys seruaunt, *as he promysed hym to geue hym all waye a lyght amonge hys chyldren.

*In those dayes Edō dyd wickedly whē he was vnder the hande of Juda. For they made them a kynge of theyr awne. So Jehoram went to zair, he and all his charettes with hym. And he rose by nyght, and smote the Edomites, which cōpassed hym in, with the captaynes of hys charettes, & the people fledd into theyr tentes. But Edom rebelled, so that he wold not be vnder the hāde of Juda vnto thys daye. And then Lobnah began to be disobedient euen that same tyme.

The rest of the wordes that cōcerne Joram and all that he dyd, are they not wrytte in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Joram rested with hys fathers, and was buryed beside his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And ☞ *Jhaziahu his sonne raygned in his steade. In the.xij. yere of Joram the sonne of Ahab kynge of Israel, dyd Jhaziahu the sonne of Jehozā kinge of Juda begynne to raygne. Two & twentye yere olde was Jhaziahu when he begāne to raygne, and he raygned one yere in Jerusalem, and hys mothers name was Athaliahu the daughter of Omri kynge of Israel. But he walked in the waye of the house of Ahab, and dyd euell in the sight of the Lorde, euen as dyd the house of Ahab. For he was ꝑ sōne in lawe of the house of Ahab.

And he went with Jozā the sonne of Ahab to warre agaynst Hazael kynge of Siria, in Ramoth Gilead, & the Sirians wouñded Jozam. And *kynge Jozam went back agayne to be healed in Jesrahel of the wouñdes which the Siriās had geuē hym at Ramoth, when he fought agaynst Hazael king of Siria. And Jhaziahu the sonne of Jehoram kynge of Juda went downe to se Jozā the sonne of Ahab in Jesrael, because he was sycke there.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

¶ Jehu is made kyng of Israel, and killeth Jehozā the kyng therof, and Jhaziahu, otherwyse called Ochozias, the kynge of Juda also, and causeth Jezabell to be caste downe out of a wyndowe, and the dogges eate her.

AND Eliśa the prophete called one of the chyldren of the prophetes, & sayd vnto him: *gyrde vp thy loynes, and take thys boxe of oyle in thyne hande, and get the to Ramoth in Gilead. And when thou commest thyther, loke where is Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat, the sōne of Nimśi, and go to him, and make him aryse vp from amonge hys brethren, & carye hym to a secret chambre. Then take the boxe of oyle, and powre it on hys heed, and saye: thus sayth the Lorde: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel. And then open the doze, and flee without any tarynge. And so the seruaunt of the prophete gat him to Ramoth Gilead: and when he came in, beholde, the captaynes of the hooste were syttynge together. And he sayde: I haue an errand to ꝑ, o captayne. And Jehu sayde: vnto which of all vs? he sayde: to the, o captayne. And he arose, and went into the house.

And he powred the oyle on hys heed, and sayde vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: * I haue anoynted the to be kinge ouer the people of the Lorde, euen ouer Israel. Thou shalt smyte ꝑ house of Ahab thy master, that I maye auēge the bloud of my seruauntes the prophetes, and the bloude of all the seruauntes of the Lorde, of the hande of Jezabel, for the whole house of Ahab shall be destroyed, and * I will destroye from Ahab, euen hym ꝑ maketh water agaynst the wall, and him that is preserued and forsaken in Israel: and I will make the house of Ahab lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, and lyke the house of Baasa ꝑ sonne of Ahia. And as for Jezabel * the dogges shall eate her in the felde of Jezrael, and ther shalbe none to burye her. And he opened the dore, and fledd.

Jehu came out to the seruauntes of hys lorde, and one sayde vnto hym, is all well? Wherfore came thys madd felowe to the? And he sayde vnto thē: ye knowe what maner of man it is, and what hys cōmunicacyō is. They sayde vnto hym agayne: it is not so, tell vs. He sayde: thus and thus spake he to me, sayinge: Thus sayth the Lorde: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel.
Then they ⁊ hasted the bozologye hasted, and toke euery man hys garment, and put it vnder hym, and blewe with trompettes, sayinge: Jehu is kynge. And so, Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat the sonne of Nimśi conspyred agaynst Jozam. Jozam kepte Ramoth Gilead, he and all Israel because of Hazael kynge of Siria: and *kynge Joram returned to be healed in Jezrahel, of the wounded which the Sirians had geuen him, when he fought with Hazael kynge of Siria.

And Jehu sayde: If it be youre myndes, then let no man departe and scape out of the citye, to go, & tell in Jezrahel. So Jehu gatt vp into a charette, and wente to Jezrahel, where Jozam laye, & Jhaziahu kyng of Juda was come downe thither to se Jozā. And the watchman that stode on ꝑ towze in Jezrael, spyed the company of Jehu as he came, and sayde: I se a companye. And Jehozam sayd: take an horsmā, and sende to mete thē, that he maye aske whether it be peace. And so there went one on horsbacke to mete him, and sayde: thus sayth the kynge: is it peace? and Jehu sayde: what hast thou to do with peace? turne the behynde me. And the watchman tolde, sayinge: the messenger came to them, but he commeth not agayne.

Then he sent out another on horsbacke, which came to them, and sayde: thus sayth the kynge: is it peace? Jehu answered: what hast thou to do with peace? turne the behind me. And the watchman tolde, sayinge: he came to them also, and commeth not agayne, and the drsyuynge is lyke the dryuynge of Jehu the sonne of Nimsi: for he dryueth the charet as he were madd. And Jehozam sayde: make ready. And ꝑ charet was made ready. And Jehozam kinge of Israel, and Ahaziahu kynge of Juda went out ether of them in hys charet agaynst Jehu, and met hym in ꝑ furlonge of Naboth ꝑ Jezraelite. And it fortuned, that when Jehozam sawe Jehu, he sayde: is it peace Jehu? he answered: What peace shulde there be, so lōge as ꝑ whordoms of thy mother Jezabel, and her witchcraftes are so great? And Jehozā turned his hādes, and fledd, and sayde to Ahaziahu: ther is falsshed, o Ahaziahu. And Jehu toke a bowe in hys handes, and smote Jehozā betwene the armes, & the arowe went thorowe hys hert. And he fell downe flatt in hys charet. Then sayde Jehu to Bidkar a captayne: take him, & cast him in the platt of the grounde of Naboth the Jezraelite. For I remēbre ꝑ whan I and ꝑ rode together in a charet after Ahab his father, ꝑ Lorde layed this heuy burthē vpō hym. I haue sene yesterdaye ꝑ bloud of Naboth, & the bloude of his sonnes, sayde the Lord: & I will qupte it the in this grouñ, sayth the Lorde. Nowe therfore take him, & cast hym in the plat of ground, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde. But whē Ahaziahu the kynge of Juda sawe this, he fledd by the waye of the gardē house. And Jehu folowed after hym, & sayde: smyte him also in the charet: (and they smote hym) in hys charet at ꝑ gounge vp to Gur by Jibleā, & he fled to Magiddo, & ther dyed. And his seruaūtes caried hym in a charet to Jerusalem, & buryed hym there in his sepulchre, wt his fathers, in ꝑ citie of Dauid. And in the .xi. yere of Jozā ꝑ sonne of Ahab, beganne Ahaziahu to raygne ouer Juda. And whē Jehu was come to Jezrahel Jezabel hearde of it, & starched her face, & tired her heed, & loked out at a windowe. And as Jehu entred at ꝑ gate, she sayde: had zimri peace which slue hys master? And he lyft vp his eyes to the windowe, and sayde: who is of my syde, who? And ther loked out to hym two or thre chamberlaynes. And he sayde: throwe her downe. So they threwe her downe, and her bloude dasshed towarde the wall, & toward the horses, and he troade her vnder fote.

And when he was come in, he dyd eate & dzincke, & sayde: go & vyset I praye you ponder cursed creature, and burie her: for she is a kynges daughter. And so when they came to burye her, they founde nomore of her then the skulle, and the fete, and the palmes of her handes. Wherfore they come agayne, & told hym. And he sayde: thys is the worde of the Lorde, which he spake by the hāde of his seruaunt Elia the Thesbite, sayinge: * in the felde of Jezrahel shall dogges eate the flesh of Jezabel. And so ꝑ carkas of Jezabel was euen as donge vpon the earth, in the felde of Jezrahel: so that no man myght saye: Thys was Jezabel.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

¶ Jehu causeth the .lxx. sonnes of Ahab to be slayne and after ꝑ .xlij. of hys brethren. He fyndeth a meane also to kyll all the prestes of Baal. After hys death, hys sonne raygneth in hys stede.

Ahab had *.lxx. sōnes in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria vnto ꝑ rulers of Jezrael, to the elders, and to them that brought vp Ahabs children, sayinge: nowe whan thys letter commeth to you, ye ꝑ haue with you your masters sōnes, ye haue with you both charettes and horses: a strong citye haue ye also: and harnes, loke which of your masters sōnes is best and most mete, and set hym on hys fathers seate, & fyght for your Lordes house. But they were exceadingly afrayde, & sayde: se, two kinges were not able to stande before hym, how shall we then be able to stande? And he that was gouerner of Ahabs house, and he that ruled the citye, ꝑ elders also, & ꝑ tutours sent to Jehu, sayeng: we are thy seruaūtes, & will do all ꝑ ꝑ shalt byd vs: we wyll make no man kynge: therfore do ꝑ what semeth good i thine eyes.

A * Jos. xxi.

Then he wrote another letter to thē, sayinge: If ye be myne, and wyll herken vnto my voyce, then take the heades of the mē that are youre masters sonnes, and come to me to Jezrahel by to morowe thys tyme. And the kynges sonnes were .lxx. persones, and they were with the great men of the citye, which brought them vp. And when the letter came to them, they toke the kynges children, and slue them, euen .lxx. persones, & layed their heades in basuettes, and sent them to him to Jezrahel. And there came a messenger, and tolde hym, sayinge: they haue brought the heades of the kynges sonnes. And he sayde: let them laye them on two heapes in the enterynge in of the gate, vntyll the morynge.

And

C And whā it was daye, he went out, and stode, & sayde to all ꝑ folke: ye be ryghteous. Beholde, I cōspired against my master, and slue him. But who slue all these? Lerne here, ꝑ ther shall fall vnto the erth nothyng of the wozde of ꝑ Lozde, which he spake cōcerning the house of Ahab. Foz ꝑ Lozd hath brought to passe the thinges ꝑ he spake ☞ by ꝑ hāde of his seruaūt * Elia. And so Jehu slue all ꝑ remayned of the house of Ahab, in Jezrahel: and all ꝑ were great wt him, & his kynsfolkes and his prestes, so ꝑ he let nothing of him remayne. And he arose, & departed, & came to Samaria. And whā Jehu was in the waye to the house where the shepherdes dyd shere their shepe, he met wt the brethren of Ahaziahu king of Juda, & sayde: what are ye? They answered: the brethren of Ahaziahu are we, and go downe to salute ꝑ children of ꝑ kinge and of ꝑ quene. And he sayde: take thē alyue. Whō when they had taken them alyue, they slue them at the well which was beside the house where the shepe are shozen, euen two and fourtye men, nether left he any of them.

D And when he was departed thence, he met wt Jehonadab ꝑ sonne of * Rechab cōmynge agaynst him. And ☞ he blessed him, & sayde to hym: is thyne hert ryght, as myne hert is true wt thine? And Jehonadab answered: yea that it is, ☞ (yet if, he sayed he) then geue me thyne hande. And whā he had geuen him his hand, he toke him vp to him into ꝑ chartt, & sayde: come wt me, & se the zeale that I haue foz the Lozd: & so they made him ryde in hys charet. And when he came to Samaria, he slue all ꝑ remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria, tyll he had wypte him out, accozdyng to the saying of the Lozde which he spake to Elia.

And Jehu gathered all ꝑ people together and sayd vnto thē: * Ahab serued Baal a lytle. But Jehu shall serue hym moze. Nowe therfoze call vnto me all ꝑ prophetes of Baal all soch as serue him, & all his prestes, and let none be lackyng. Foz I haue a greate sacrifyce to do to Baal: & therfoze, whosoeuer is myssed, he shall not lyue. But Jehu dyd it foz a sutteltye, to the intēt that he might destroye ꝑ seruaūtes of Baal. And Jehu sayde: Proclayme an holy conuocacyon foz Baal, and Jehu sent vnto all Jsrael. And all ꝑ seruauntes of Baal came, ꝑ ther was not a mā lefte behynde that came not. And they came into the house of Baal, & the house of Baal was full from one ende to another.

And he sayde vnto hym that was the keper of the vestrye, bringe fozth garmētes foz all the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought them out garmentes. And when Jehu went with Jehonadab the sonne of Rechab into ꝑ house of Baal, he sayde vnto the seruauntes of Baal: searche, and loke, that there be here wt you none of the seruauntes of the Lozde, but the seruauntes of Baal only. And when they wēt in to offer sacrifice & burntoffringe: Jehu appoynted lxxx. men without, & sayd: If any of the mē whom I haue brought vnder youre handes, escape, he that letteth him go, shall dye foz hym.

And it foztuned, ꝑ assone as he had made an ende of offering the burntsacrifyce, Jehu sayde to the men of warre and to the captaines: go in, and slaye them, let none come out. And they smote them with the edge of the swearde. And the men of warre and the captaynes cast them out, and went vnto the cytye of the tēple of Baal, and fet the ymages out of the temple of Baal, and burnt them. And they brake the ymage of Baal, & brake the house of Baal, & made a draft house of it vnto thys daye. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Jsrael. But frō ꝑ synnes of Jeroboā the sōne of Nebat, which made Jsrael to synne: Jehu departed not, nether from folowing of them ☞ (nether foztoke he) ☞ the goldē calues that were in Bethel and in Dan.

And the Lozde sayde vnto Jehu: because thou hast done ryght well, in bryngynge to passe the thynge that is ryght in myne eyes, and hast done vnto the house of Ahab accozdinge to all thinges ꝑ are in myne hert, therfoze shall * thy children vnto the fourth generacyon syt on the seate of Jsrael. But Jehu cared not foz this, to walke in the lawe of the Lozd God of Jsrael with all his hert: foz he departed not from the sinnes of Jeroboā, which made Jsrael to synne.

☞ In thole dayes the Lozde began to cut Jsrael shozt: * and Hazael smote thē in all ꝑ coastes of Jsrael, frō Jozdan eastwarde: euē all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, the Rubenites, and thē ꝑ were of Manasses, frō Aroer vnto the ryuer of Arnon: euen Gilead & Basan. The rest of the wozdes ꝑ cōcerne Jehu, & all ꝑ he dyd, and all his power, are they not writtē in the boke of the Chronycles of the kynges of Jsrael? And Jehu slept wt hys fathers, & they buryed him in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his sonne raygned in hys steade. And the tyme that Jehu raygned vpon Jsrael in Samaria, is xxviij. yeres.

C The. xj. Chapter.

C Athalia putteth to deeth all the kynges sonnes except Jehoaz ꝑ sonne of Ohozias, which is hyd: den and after her deeth is made kynge.

AND Athalia the mother of Ahaziahu, when she sawe that her sonne was deed, she arose, and destroyed all the kinges seede. But Jehosaba the daughter of kynge Jozam, and syster of Ahaziahu, toke Joas the sonne of Jhaziahu, and stale hym from amonge the kynges sonnes that were slayne, ād his nource with hym, out of a slepynge chābre, and hyd hym from Athalia, that he was not slayne. And he was with her hyd in the house of ꝑ Lozde

vij. yere. And Athalia did raigne ouer ꝑ lãde.

And the. vij. yere Jehoiada sent and fet ꝑ rulers ouer hũdzedes, ẃ the captaynes, & thẽ of the garde, and toke them to hym into the house of the Lozde, and made a bonde ẃ thẽ, and toke an othe of them in the house of the Lozde, and shewed them the kynges sonne. And he cõmaũded thẽ, saying: thys is it ꝑ ye must do: one thyrd parte of you, whose dewty is to come on ꝑ Sabboth daye, shall kepe the watch of the kynges house. And another thyrde parte shall kepe the gate of Sur: and another thyrd parte shall kepe ꝑ gate, which is beyonde them of the garde: and so ye shall kepe the watche of the house of Wessah, & two partes of you, that is, all that go out on the Sabboth daye, shall kepe the watche of the house of the Lozde about the kynge, and ye shall cõpasse the kynge rounde about, and euery mã shall haue his weapen in his hãde. And whosoeuer cõmeth with in the ranges, let hym be slayne. And se that ye be with the kynge as he goeth out and in.

And the captaynes ouer ꝑ hũdzedes dyd, accozding to all thinges that * Jehoiada the preste cõmaunded: and they toke euery man hys mẽ, that were to come in on ꝑ Sabboth daye with thẽ that shuld go out on ꝑ Sabboth, and came to Jehoiada the preste. And to the captaynes ouer hundzedes, dyd the preste geue kinge Dauids speares & shyldes that were in the tẽple. And they of the garde stode, & euery man had his weapen in hys hande rounde about the kynge, frõ ꝑ ryght cozner of the temple to the left, alonge by the aultar and the tẽple. And he brought out the kynges sonne, & put the crowne vpon him: & delyuered hym * the witnesse, and made him kyng, & anoynted hym. And they clapte their handes, and sayde: God saue the kyng:

* And when Athalia heard the noyse of ꝑ rũnynge of the people, she came to the people into the tẽple of the Lozde. And when she loked, behold, the kyng stode by a piller, as the maner was, and the syngers & the trõpettes by the kynge, and all the people of the lande reioysed, and blewe ẃ trõpettes. And Athalia rent her clothes and cryed: treason, treason. But Jehoiada the preste commaunded the captaynes of the hundzedes that had the rule of the hoost, and sayd vnto thẽ: haue her out without the tẽple, ꝑ she maye be within the ranges, and yf any folowe her, kyll hym with the swearde: foz the preste had sayd she maye not be slayne in the house of the Lozd. And they layde hãdes on her tyll she came in to the waye, by the which the hozses went in to the kinges palace: & there was she slayne.

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene the Lozde and the kinge, and the people, that they shuld be the Lozdes people, and also betwene the kynge and the people. And all the people of the lãde wẽt into ꝑ house of Baal, and destroyed it, his aultars also, & his ymages brake they downe lustely, and slue Mathan the preaste of Baal before the aultars. And the preste set a watch ouer the house of the Lozde, and toke the rulars ouer hundzedes, the captaynes & them of the garde, and all the people of the lande. And they brought the kynge from the house of the Lozde: and came by the waye of the gate of them of the garde to the kynges palace. And he sat hym downe on the seate of the kynges. And all the people of the lande reioysed, and the cytye was in quyet. And they slue Athalia ẃ the swearde beside the kinges palace. Seuẽ yeare olde was Jehoas, when he beganne to raygne.

¶ Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu is delyuered into the handes of the Syrias, & dyeth. Joas hys sonne raygneth in hys stede. Elisa dyeth.

IN the.xxiij.yeare of Joas the sonne of Jhaziahu kynge of Juda, Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu beganne to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria seuētene yeare. And he wrought that whych was euell in the syght of the Lorde, and folowed the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat whych made Israel to synne, and departed not ther frō. And the Lorde was angry wyth Israel, and delyuered them into the hand of Hazael kynge of Siria, and into the hande of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael all theyr dayes. A

And Jehoahaz besought the Lorde, & the Lorde heard him. For he cōsidred the trouble of Israel, wher with the king of Siria troubled them. And the Lorde gaue Israel a delyuerer, so that they went out from vnder the subiectyon of the Syriās. And the chyldrē of Israel dwelt in theyr tentes as before tyme. Neuertheles they departed not frō the synnes of the house of Jeroboam, whych made Israel synne, but walked ī thē. And there remayned an Idols grone styll also in Samaria. Neither dyd he leaue of the people to Jehoahaz, but fyftye horsemē ten charettes, & ten thousande fotemen * for the kynge of Siria destroyed them, and made them lyke threshed dust. ¶ Azaria the kynge of Juda becommeth a leper. Of Jothā, Sallum, Menahem, Pekahia, Uzias, Jotham and Ahaz.

A 4 reg. 15. a

IN the .xxvij. yere of Jeroboā kinge of Israel, beganne Azaria sonne of Amazia kynge of Juda to raygne. Syxtene yeare olde was he when he was made kinge, and he raygned two and fyftye yeare in Jerusalem, and hys mothers name was Jecholeiahu of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which was ryght in the syght of the Lorde, accordynge to all thynges as dyd hys father Amaziahu: saue ꝑ the hylaultars were not put awaye: for the people offered, and burned incense styll on the hylaultars.

B And the Lorde smote the kynge, and he was * 2 reg. 5. 2 Paral. 26. b a leper vnto ꝑ daye of his deeth, * and dwelt in a seuerall house at libertye, and Jothā the kynges sonne gouerned the palace, and iudged the people of the lande. The reste of the wordes ꝑ concerne Azaria and all ꝑ he dyd, are they not written in the boke of ꝑ chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And so Azaria slepte with his fathers, and they buryed him with hys fathers in the citye of Dauid, and Jotham hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

In the .xxxviij. yere of Azaria kynge of Juda dyd zacharia the sonne of Jeroboā raigne vpon Israel in Samaria .vj. monethes: and wrought ꝑ which was euell in ꝑ syght of the Lorde, as dyd hys fathers: and turned not awaye from the synnes of Jeroboā the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne. And Sallum the sonne of Jabes conspyred against hym, & smote hym in the syght of the people, & kylled him, & raygned in his steade.

The rest of the wordes that concerne zacharia, beholde, they are wrytten in the boke of the Chronycles of the kynges of Israel. Thys is also the worde of the Lorde, which he spake vnto Jehu, sayinge: * thy sonnes shall syt on the seate of Israel in ꝑ fourth generacion after the. And it came so to passe. C * 4 reg. 10. f

Sallum the sonne of Jabes beganne to raygne in the .xxxix. yere of Azaria kynge of Juda: & he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Menahē the sonne of Gadi went vp frō Thirza, & came to Samaria, & smote Sallum the sonne of Jabes in Samaria, & slue him, & raygned in his steade. The rest of the wordes that concerne Sallum, & the treason which he cōspired, beholde, they are wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israel. The same tyme Menahem destroied Thiphlah, & all ꝑ were therin, & the coastes therof frō Therzahi. And because they opened not to hym, he smote it, and rypte vp all their wemen with chylde. D

The .xxxix. yere of Azaria king of Juda began Menahē the sonne of Gadi to raygne vpon Israel ten yeare in Samaria. And he dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, & turned not awaye all his dayes frō the synne of Jeroboā the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to synne. And Phul the kinge of Assiria came vpō ꝑ lāde. And Menahē gaue Phul a M. talētes of syluer, that his hand might be with him and stablyshe the kyngdome in his hande. And Menahem made a proclamacīō for the money in Israel, that all men of substaunce shulde geue the kynge of Assiria fyftye sycles of syluer a pece. And so the kyng of Assiria turned backe agayne, and tarved not there in the lande. The rest of the wordes ꝑ concerne Menahem, and all that he dyd, are they not wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of the kinges of Israel? And Menahē slepte with his fathers, & Pekahia his sonne dyd in his steade succede him in the kyngedome. E

In the fyftyth yeare of Azaria kynge of Juda, beganne Pekahia the sonne of Menahem to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria two yere, & dyd that which was euell in the sight of the Lorde: and lefte not of frō the synnes of Jeroboā the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel synne. But Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, which was a captayne of his, conspired agaynst hym, and smote hym in Samaria, euen in the palace of the kynges house with Argob and Aria: and with him were fyftye men of the Gileadites: and he kylled hym, and raygned in hys rowme. In the.lij yere of Azaria kynge of Juda began Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria.xx. yeare, & dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, and turned not a waye fro the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, that made Israel synne. In the dayes of Pekah kyng of Israel, came Thiglath Peleser kynge of Assiria, and toke Jion, Abel, Bethmaacha, Janoah, Kedes, Hazor, Gilead, Galile, and all the lande of Nephthali, & caryed the awaye to Assiria:

And Hosea ꝑ sonne of Ela cõspired treason agaynst Pekah the sonne of Remaliah, and smote him, and slue him: and raygned in hys steade in the.xx. yere of Jotham the sonne of Uziahu. The rest of the wordes ꝑ concerne Pekah and all that he dyd, behold, they are wrytte in the boke of the chronycles of the kynges of Israel.

The seconde yeare of Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu kinge of Israel, beganne Jothã the sonne of Uziahu kynge of Juda to raygne. Fyue and twentye yere olde was he whẽ he began to raygne: and he raygned syxtene yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Jerusa the daughter of Zadok. And he dyd ꝑ which is right in the syght of the Lorde: euẽ accordynge to all as dyd his father Uziahu, so dyd he. But the hylaulters were nott put awaye: for the people offered ād burnt incẽse styll in the hylaulters: he buylt the hyghe dore of the house of the Lord. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jotham, and all that he dyd, are they not wrytte in the boke of the chronycles of the kynges of Juda. In those dayes the Lorde beganne to sende into Juda, Rezin the kyng of Siria, and Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu. And Jotham slepte wt his fathers, and was buried wt his fathers in the cite of Dauid hys father, and Ahaz hys sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ The.xvj. Chapter.

¶ Ahaz kynge of Juda consecrateth hys sonne in fyer, and hath many battayles agaynst the kynge of Israel. In the steade of Ahaz raygneth Hezekia hys sonne.

In the.xvij. yeare of Pekah ꝑ sonne of Remaliahu kynge of Israel, Ahaz the sonne of Jotham kynge of Juda, beganne to raygne. Twentye yere olde was he, when he was made kynge: and raygned syxtene yere in Jerusalem, and dyd not that which was right in the eyes of the Lorde hys God, lyke Dauid hys father: But walked in the waye of the kynges of Israel, yee, and made * hys sonne to go thorowe the fyer, after the abhominacyons of the Heythen, whom the Lorde cast out before the chyldren of Israel. And he offered and burnt incẽse in the hilaulters and on the hylles, and vnder euery thick tree. * Then Rezin kynge of Siria and Pekah sonne of Remaliahu kynge of Israel came vp to Jerusalem to fyght. And they fought agaynst Ahaz, but could not ouercome hym. At the same tyme Rezin kynge of Siria brought Elath agayne to Siria, and rydd the Jewes thence. And the Sirians * came to Elath, and dwell therin vnto thys daye.

So Ahaz sent messengers to Thiglath Peleser kynge of Assiria, sayinge: I am thy seruaunt and thy sonne, come vp and deliuer me out of the hande of the kynge of Siria, & out of the hande of the king of Israel, which ryse vp agaynst me. And Ahaz toke the syluer and the golde that was founde in ꝑ house of the Lorde, and in the treasures of ꝑ kinges house, and sent a rewarde to the kyng of Assiria. * And the kynge of Assiria consented vnto hym. vnto thys daye.

And the kynge of Aſſyria brought men from Babylon, from Cutha, from Iua, frō Hanath, and from Sepharuaim, and put thē in the cyties of Samaria, in ſteade of the chyl-drē of Iſrael. And they poſſeſſed Samaria, E and dwelt in the cyties therof. And it fortuned, that at the begynnynge of theyr dwel-linge there, they feared not the Lorde. And the Lorde ſent lyons amonge them, which ſlue them. Wherfore, men ſayde to the kynge of Aſſyria. The nacyons which thou haſt trāſ-not the lawe of the God of the lande, therfore he hath sent lyons vpon them: and beholde they slaye them, because they knowe not the maner of worshyppyng of ꝑ God of the lãde.

Then the kynge of Assyria commaunded sayenge: carye thether one or twayne of the Preastes, whom ye brought thence, and let them go, and dwell there, and teache them ꝑ fassyon howe to serue the God of the cõtreye. And then one of the Preastes which they had caryed thẽce came, and dwelt in Bethel, and taught them howe they shulde feare the Lorde. Howbeit euery nacyon made them Gods of theyr awne and put them in the houses of the hyllaulters which the Samaritans had made, euery naciõ in their cyties wherin they dwelt. The mẽ of Babylõ made ☞ Socoth Benoth: and the men of Cuth made Nergal: and the men of Hamath made Asima. The Auites made Nibhaz, and Tharthak. And the Sepharuites burnt theyr chyldren in fyre for Adramelech and Anamelech, the Gods of Sepharuaim. And so they feared the Lorde, and made them Preastes of the hyllaulters, which sacrifyced for them in the houses of the hyllaulters. And so they feared the Lorde, and serued theyr awne Gods after the maner of the people, whom they caryed thence.

And vnto this daye they do after the olde maner: and nether feare God, nether do after ☞ theyr ordinaũces and customes, and after the lawe and commaundement which the Lorde commaunded the chyldren of Jacob, * whõ he called Israel. And the Lorde made an appoyntement wyth them, and charged them, sayenge: * feare none other Goddes, nor bowe youre selues to them, nor serue thẽ nor sacrifyce to thẽ: but feare the Lord which brought you out of the lãde of Egypte with greate power and a stretched out arme: hym feare, and to hym bowe, and to hym do sacrifyce. Howbeit, they dyd not herken, but dyd after theyr olde custome. And so these nacions feared the Lorde, and serued theyr ymages also: lyke as dyd theyr chyldren and theyr chyldrens chyldren. Euen as dyd theyr fathers, so do they vnto thys daye.

And Hezekia sayde vnto Isay. what shalbe the signe, that the Lorde wyll heale me, and that I shall go vp into the house of the Lord the thyrde daye? Isay answered: thys sygne shalt thou haue of the Lorde, that the Lorde will do that he hath spoken. * Shall the shadowe go forwarde ten degrees, or go backe agayne ten degrees? And Isay the prophete came vnto kynge Hezekia, and sayde vnto hym. What sayed these men, and from whẽce came they to the? And Hezekia sayde: they be come from a farre countree, euen from Babilon. And he sayde agayne: what haue they sene in thy house? Hezekia answered: all the thynges that are in my house haue they sene: there is nothynge amõge my treasures, that I haue not shewed them. And Isay sayde vnto Hezekia: heare the worde of the Lorde: Beholde, the dayes come, that all that is in thy house, and what soeuer thy fathers haue layde vp in store vnto thys daye * shalbe carryed into Babylon, and nothynge shalbe lefte sayth the Lorde. And of thy sonnes (that shall proceade oute of the, and which thou shalt begette) shall they take awaye, and they shalbe chamberlayns in the palayce of the king of Babilon. And Hezekia sayde vnto Isay: welcome be the worde of the Lorde which thou hast spoken: And he sayde: shall ther not be peace and truthe in my dayes?

The remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Hezekia, and all hys power, and howe he made a pole and a conduyte, and brought water into the cytie, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? * And Hezekia slepte ẅ his fathers, & Manasse hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

¶ Wycked Manasseh restoreth agayne the Idolles and after dyeth, in whose steade Amõ hys sonne succedeth, which is kylled of hys awne seruauntes. After hym raygneth Kyng Iosia, whom we vse to call Iosias, or Josiahu.

M Anasse * was twelue yere olde, when he beganne to raygne and raygned fyfty & fyue yere in Ierusalẽ: hys mothers name also was Hephziba. And he dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, euen after the abhominacyons of the hethen whom the * Lorde cast out before the chyldren of Israel. For he went and buylt vp the hyllaulters, * which Hezekia hys father had destroyed. And he reared vp aulters for Baal, and made Idoll groues (as dyd Ahab kynge of Israel,) and worshypped all the hoste of heauen, and serued them. And he buylt aulters in the house of the Lorde, of which the Lorde sayde: * in Ierusalẽ wyll I put my name. And he buylt aulters for all the hoste of heauen, euẽ in two courtes of the house of the Lorde. * And he offered hys sonnes in fyre, and gaue hede vnto witchecraft and sorcery, and mayntened worthers with spyrites, and tellers of fortunes: and brought moche wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde to angre hym.

And he put an ymage of a groue (that he had made) euen in the temple, of which the Lorde had sayde to Dauid and to Salomon his sonne, * in thys house and in Ierusalem (which

(which I haue chosen out of all trybes of Israel) wyll I put my name for euer. Neither will I make the fete of Israel moue any moare out of the lande, which I gaue their fathers: so that they wyll obserue and do all that I haue commaunded them, and accordynge to all the lawe that my seruaunt Moses commaunded them. But they herkened not: and Manasse ledd them out of the waye to do moze wyckedlye then dyd the hethen people, whom the Lord destroyed before the chyldren of Israel.

And the Lorde spake by his seruauntes ꝑ prophetes, sayinge: because Manasse kynge of Juda hath done soche abhominacions, and hath wrought moze wyckedlye then all that the Amorites (which were before hym) dyd: & hath made Juda synne also with hys Idoles. Therfore thus sayth the Lorde God of
* Jere. xix. a. Israel. * Beholde, I wyll brynge soche euell
C vpon Jerusalem and Juda, that who so heareth of it both his eares shall tyngle. And I ☞ wyll stretch ouer Jerusalē ☞ the squaryng lyne of Samaria, and the plommeth of the house of Ahab. And I wyll wype out Jerusalem, as a mā wypeth a dysshe, and when he hath wyped it, turneth it vp syde downe. And I wyll leaue the remnaunt of myne enheritaunce, and delyuer them into the hande of their enemies, and they shalbe robbed and spoyled of all their aduersaries: euen because they haue done euell in my syght, & haue angred me, sence the tyme their fathers came out of Egypte vnto this daye.

And Manasse shedd innocent blonde excedynge moche, tyll he replenysshed Jerusalem from corner to corner, beside hys synne wherwith he made Juda to synne, and to do euell in the syght of the Lorde.

The rest of the wordes ꝑ concerne Manasse, and all that he dyd, and hys synne that D he synned, are they not written in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Manasse slepte with hys fathers, and was buryed in his awne house, euē in the gardē of Uza: & Amō his sonne raygned in hys steade.

* ii. Para. xxxiii. b. * Amon was. xxii. yeare olde whē he begānne to raygne, and he raygned two yeare in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Mesulemeth the daughter of Harum of Jotba. And he did euell in the syght of the Lorde (as his father Manasse dyd,) and walked in all the waye ꝑ his father walked in: & serued the ꝑdoles ꝑ his father serued, & worshypped thē. And he forsoke the Lorde God of hys fathers, & walked not in the waye of the Lorde.

And the seruauntes of Amon conspyred agaynst hym, and slue the kyng in hys awne house. And the people of the lande slue all thē that had conspyred agaynst kynge Amon, & the people made Josia hys sonne kynge, in hys steade. The rest of the wordes that concerne Amon, what thynges he dyd, are they not wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And they buryed hym in hys sepulchre, in the garden of Uza: & Josia hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

C The. xxii. Chapter.

C After Josiah hearde of the boke of the lawe that was founde in the temple, he sendeth to Oldah the prophetisse for councell.

A JOsia was * eyght yere olde when he begāne to raygne, and he raygned. xxxi. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Jedida the daughter of Adaia of Bozcath. He dyd that which is ryght in the syght of the Lorde, and walked in all the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed nether to the ryght hande or to the lefte. * ii. Para. xxxiiii. a.

* And it came to passe, that in the. xviii. ‡ ii. Para. xxxiiii. b. yeare of the raygne of kynge Josia, ꝑ kynge sent Saphan the sonne of Azalia the sonne of Mesulā the scribe, to the house of the Lorde, sayenge: * go vp to Helkia ꝑ hye Preast, * iiii. Reg. xii. b. that he maye somme ꝑ syluer which is brought into the house of the Lorde, which the kepers of ꝑ porche haue gathered of the people, and let them delyuer it into the hande of them that do the worcke, and that haue the ouersyght of the house of the Lorde: and let B them geue it to them that worke in the house of the Lorde (to repayre the decayed places of the temple,) euen vnto carpenters & misons, and workers vpon the walles, and for to bye tymbre and fre stone to repayre the temple. Howbeit, let no rekonynge be made with thē of the moncye that is delyuered into their hāde, for their vse is to deale faithfully.

* And Helkia the hye preste sayd vnto Sa- ‡ ii. Para. xxxiiii. c. phan the scribe: ☞ I haue founde the boke ☞ of the lawe in the house of the Lorde, and Helkia gaue the boke to Saphan, and he red in it. And Saphan the scrybe came to the kynge, and brought him worde agayne, and sayde: thy seruauntes haue bestowed ꝑ money (that was founde in the temple) & haue delyuered it vnto them that do the worke, & C that haue the ouerlyght of the house of the Lorde. And Saphan the scrybe shewed the kynge, sayeng: Helkia the preaste hath delyuered me a boke. And Saphan red in it before the kynge.

And it forturned, ꝑ whan the kynge had hearde ꝑ wordes of the boke of the lawe, he rent his clothes. And the kyng commaunded Helkia the Preast, & Ahikam ꝑ sonne of Saphan, and Achbor the sonne of Michaia, and Saphan the scrybe, and Asahia a seruaunt of the kynges, sayenge: * go ye and enquyre * Jere. xxi. a. of the Lorde for me and for the people, and for all Juda, cōcernynge the wordes of thys boke that is founde. For great is the wrath of the Lorde that is kendled agaynst vs, because cause oure fathers haue not herkened vnto the wordes of thys boke, to do accordinge vnto all that which is written therin for vs.

So Helkia the hye preaste and Ahikam, Achbor, and Saphan, and Asahia went vnto Hulda the prophetisse the wyfe of Sulla the sonne of Thikua the sonne of Harham keper of the wardrope: whyche prophetisse dwelt in Jerusalē in the ☞ house of the doctrine, and they commoned with her. And she answered them: thus sayth the Lord God of Israel. Tell the man that sent you to me: thus sayth the Lord: beholde, I wyll bringe euell vpon thys place, and on the inhabiters therof. (euē all the wordes of the boke which the kynge of Juda hath red) because they haue forsaken me, and haue burnt incense vnto other Gods, to angre me with all the workes of theyr handes: My wrath also shalbe kyndled agaynst thys place, and shall not be quenched.

But to the kynge of Juda (which sent you to aske councell of the Lorde,) so shall ye saye: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel as touchynge the wordes which ye haue heard: Because thyne herte dyd melt, and because thou hast hūbled thy selfe before me the Lorde, when ꝓ heardest what I spake agaynst thys place, and agaynst the enhabiters of the same (howe that they shulde be destroyed and acursed:) and hast rent thy clothes and wepte before me: of that also haue I hearde, sayth the Lorde. Beholde therfore, I wyll receaue the vnto thy fathers, and thou shalt be put into thy graue in peace, and thyne eyes shall not se all the euell, which I wyll bringe vpon this place. And they brought the kyng worde agayne.

¶ The. xxiii. Chapter.

¶ Josia readeth Deuteronomye before the people. He putteth downe the Idolles, after he had kylled the preastes therof. He keepeth passeouer. He was kylled in Mageddo, and hys sonne Jehoahaz raygneth in hys steade. After he was taken, hys sonne Jehoakim was made kynge.

AND then * the kynge sent, and there gathered vnto hym all the elders of Juda and of Jerusalē. And the kyng went vp into the house of the Lorde, with all the men of Juda and all the enhabitoures of Jerusalem, with the preastes, and prophetes and all the people both small and greate. And he red in the eares of them * all the wordes of the boke of the couenaunt, which was founde in the house of the Lorde. And the kynge stode by a pyller * and made a couenaunt before the Lorde, that they shulde walke after the Lord, and kepe his cōmaundmētes, hys wytnesses, & hys statutes with all theyr herte, and all theyr soule, and make good the wordes of the sayde appoyntment that were wrytte in the forsayde boke. And all the people consented to the appoyntment.

And the kynge commaunded Helkia the hye preaste, and the inferioure preastes and the kepers of the ornamentes, to bringe out of the temple of the Lorde, all the vesselles ꝓ were made for Baal, for the Idole groues, & for all the hoste of heauen. And he burnt thē without Jerusalem in the feldes of Cedron, and caryed the asshes of them into Bethel. And he put downe ☞ ꝓ ministers of Baal whom the kynges of Juda had founded to burne incense in the * hyllaulters and cyties of Juda, that were rounde aboute Jerusalem, and also them that burnt incense vnto Baal, to the sonne, to the mone, to the planetes, and to all the hoste of heauen. And he brought out the groue from the temple of ꝓ Lorde without Jerusalē vnto the broke Cedron, and burnt it there at the broke Cedrō, and stampte it to pouldre, and ☞ cast the duste therof vpon the graues of the chyldren of the people. And he brake downe the celles of the male stues that were by the house of ꝓ Lorde, where the wemen woue hangynges for the Idole groue.

And he brought all the preastes out of the cyties of Juda, and defyled the hyllaulters, where the preastes had burnt incēse: euen frō Geba to Beersheba, and destroied the aulters of the Gates, that were in ꝓ enterynge in of the gate of Josua the gouernoure of the citie which were (as a man goeth in) on the lefte hande of the gate of the cytie. Neuertheles the preastes of the hyllaultares came not vp to the aulter of the Lorde in Jerusalem, saue onlye they dyd eate of ꝓ swete breade among theyr brethren.

And he defyled ☞ * Topheth, which is in the valeye of the chyldren of Hinnom, because no man shulde offer hys sonne or hys daughter in fyre to Molech: he put downe ☞ the horses that the kynges of Israel had geuen to the sonne at the entrynge in of the house of the Lorde, by the chābre of Nathanmelech the chamberlaine which was ruler of the suburbes, and burnt the charettes of the sonne with fyre. And the aulters that were on the toppe of the parloure of Ahaz (which ꝓ kynges of Juda had made) and the * aulters which Manasse had made in ꝓ two courtes of the house of the Lorde, dyd the kynge breake downe, and ranne thence, and cast the dust of them into the broke Cedron.

And the hyllaulters that were before Jerusalē on the ryght hande of the mounte Olinete * (which Salomon the kynge of Israel had buylded for Astaroth the Idoll of the zidons, and for Chamos the Idoll of the Moabites, and for Milchom the abhompnable Idoll of ꝓ childrē of Ammon) those the kinge ☞ defyled: and brake the ymages, and cut downe ꝓ Idoll groues, and fylled theyr places with the bones of men.

Moreouer * the aulter that was at Bethel, the hyllaulter made by Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat (which made Israel synne) bothe the aulter and also the hyll, he brake downe and burnt the hyll alter and stampte it to powder, and burnt ꝑ Idole groue. And as Josia turned hym selfe, he spyed the graues that were in the mount, and sent and fett the bones out of the graues, and burnt them vpon the aulter, to polute it, accordynge to ꝑ worde of the Lord that the man of God proclaymed * which tolde the same wordes.

* iii. Regũ. xiii.a.

* iii. Regũ. xiii.a.

Then he sayde: what graue stone is yonder that I se? And the men of the cytie tolde hym, it is the sepulchre of the man of God, whych came from Juda, and tolde the selfe same thynges that thou hast done to the aulter of Bethel. And he sayd let hym be: se that no man moue hys bones. And so hys bones were saued with ꝑ bones of a prophete that came out of Samaria.

And all the houses of the hyllaulters in the cyties of Samaria which the kynges of Israel had made, to angre (the Lorde) with all: those Josia put out of the waye, and dyd to them accordyng to all the actes that he had done in Bethel. And he sacrifyced all ꝑ preastes of the hylaulters ꝑ were ther euen vpon the aulters, and burnt mennes bones vpon them, and returned to Jerusalem.

And the kynge commaunded all the people, sayeng: * kepe the feast of passeouer vnto the Lorde youre God * as it is wrytten in the boke of thys couenaunt. * There was no Passeouer holden lyke that, from ꝑ dayes of the iudges that iudged Israel, and in all the dayes of the kynges of Israel and of the kynges of Juda. In the. xviii. yere of kynge Josia was this Passouer holden to the Lorde in Jerusalem.

* ii. Para. xxx. d. 19. Exod. i. a. 3 Deu. xvi. a. * ix. Esd. i. c.

And therto workers with spretes, & sothsayers, ymages, ydoles, and all the abhominacyons that were spyed in the lande of Juda and in Jerusalem, those did Josia put out of the waye, to perfourme the wordes of the lawe, which were wrytten in the boke, that Helkia the preaste founde in the house of the Lorde: lyke vnto him was there no kyng before hym, that turned to the Lorde with all hys herte, with all his soule & all hys myght accordynge to all the lawe of Moses, nether after hym arose there any soche as he.

Not withstandinge the Lorde turned not frõ the fearcenesse of hys great wrath (wherwith he was angrie agaynst Juda) because of all the prouocacions that Manasse had prouoked hym withall. And the Lorde sayde: * I wyll put Juda also, out of my syght, as I haue done awaye Israel, and wyll cast of thys cytie Jerusalem which I haue chosen, and the house of whyche I sayde: my name shalbe there.

* iii. Regũ. xxiii. a

The rest of the wordes that concerne Josia and all that he dyd, are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronycles of the kynges of Juda?

* In hys dayes Pharao ☞ Necho kyng of Egypte wẽt vp agaynst the kynge of Assyria to the ryuer of Euphrates. And kynge Josia went agaynst hym, and was slayne of hym at Magiddo, when he had sene hym. And hys seruauntes caryed hym deed from Magiddo, and brought hym to Jerusalem & buryed hym in hys awne sepulchre. And the people of the lande toke ☞ Jehoahaz the sonne of Josia, and anoynted hym, and made hym kynge in hys fathers steade.

* ii. Para. xxv. d.

Jehoahaz was. xxiii. yere olde when he beganne to raygne, and raygned thre monethes in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Hamiel ꝑ daughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he dyd euell in the syght of ꝑ Lorde, accordinge to all thynges as his fathers had done. And Pharao Necho put hym in bondes at Ribla in the lande of Hamath, that he shulde not raygne in Jerusalem, and put the lande to a trybute of an hundred talentes of syluer and a talent of golde. And Pharao Necho made Eliakim ꝑ sonne of Josia kyng in the rowme of Josia his father, and turned hys name to Jehoakim, and toke Jehoahaz awaye, whych when he came to Egypte, dyed there.

And Jehoakim gaue the syluer and the golde to Pharao: & taxed the lande, to geue the moneye accordinge to the requeste of Pharao: requyringe of euery mã (accordynge to theyr abylite) syluer and golde: euen of the people of the lãde, to geue vnto Pharao Necho. Jehoakim was. xxv. yere olde when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned a. xi. yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Zebuda the daughter of Pedaia of Ruma. And he dyd that which was euell in ꝑ syght of the Lorde, accordynge to all thynge as his fathers had done.

¶ The. xxiiii. Chapter:

¶ Jehoakim dyeth. Jerusalem is besieged of the Babylonians. Jehoakim yeldeth hym selfe to the kyng of Babylon. And in hys rowme came Mathaniah, which was called Zedekiah.

IN hys dayes came Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babylon vp, and Jehoakim became hys seruaunt thre yere, and then turned, and rebelled agaynst hym. And the Lorde sent vpõ him ☞ men of warre from amonge the Caldeys, from amonge the Syrians, out of the Moabites, and from the chyldren of Ammon: and sent them agaynst Juda, to destroye it, accordynge to the sayinge of the Lorde, which he spake by hys seruauntes the prophetes. Onely, at the bydynge of the Lorde happened it so to Juda, to put them out of his syght, for the synnes of Manasse, accordynge accordynge to all that he dyd: and for the innocent bloude that he shed, and fylled Jerusalem with innocent bloude: and the Lorde wolde not be reconcyled.

B The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehoakim, & all that he dyd, are they not written in the boke of the chronycles of the kynges of Juda? And so Jehoakim slepte wt hys fathers: and * Jehoachin hys sonne raygned in hys steade. And the kynge of Egipt came nomore out of his lande: for the kynge of Babylō had taken frō the ryuer of Egipt vnto the ryuer of Euphrates, all ỳ pertayned to the kynge of Egipte. Jehoachin was xviij. yere olde, & raygned in Jerusalem thre monethes. His mothers name also was Nehusta, ỳ daughter of Elnathā of Jerusalem. And he dyd ỳ which was euell in the sight of the Lorde, accordyng to all as hys father had done. * In that tyme came the seruauntes of Nabuchadnezar kyng of Babylō vp against Jerusalē, & the citye was beseged. And Nabuchadnezar the king of Babylō came agaynst the citye: & his seruauntes dyd besege it.

C * And Jehoachin ỳ kyng of Juda came out to the kynge of Babylō, he and hys mother, hys seruauntes, hys lordes, and hys chāberlaynes. And the kyng of Babilon toke him, in the eyght yere of hys raygne.

* And he caryed out thence all the treasures of the house of the Lorde, & the treasure of the kynges house: and brake all the vessels of golde, which Salomon kynge of Israel had made in the temple of the Lorde, as the Lorde had sayde. And he caryed awaye all Jerusalē, and all the lordes, and all the stōg men of warre, euen. x. M. into captiuite: and all craftes men and kepers, none remaynyng saue the poore commen people of the lande.

D And he caryed awaye Jehoachin to Babylon, and the kynges mother, and the kynges wyues, his chamberlayns, and thē that were myghty in the lande: those caryed he awaye into captiuyte frō Jerusalē to Babylō. And all the actiue mē of warre, euen. vij. M. and craftesmen, and pozters. M. all ỳ were stronge and apte for warre, dyd the kinge of Babilon bryng to Babilon captyue. * And the kynge of Babylon made Mathania hys fathers brother, kynge in his steade, & chaūged hys name to zedekia.

* zedekia was. xxj. yere olde when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned eleuē yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Hamital the daughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he dyd euell in the syght of the Lord, accordynge to all as Jehoachin had done. For the wrath of the Lorde was moued agaynst Jerusalem and Juda, vntyll he cast thē out of hys syght. And zedekia rebelled agaynst the kynge of Babylon.

C The. xxv. Chapter.

C Jerusalē is beseged of Nabuchodonozar, otherwyse called, Nebuchadnezer, and it and the temple are bothe burnt. The sonnes of zedekia are slayne before hys eyes, and after are hys awne eyes putt out. Juda is brought to Babylon, and after is Jehoachin exalted.

AND it fortuned, * that in the nynth yere of hys raygne, the tenth daye of the tenth moneth: Nebuchadnezar kynge of Babilon came, he and all his hoost agaynst Jerusalem: and pitched agaynst it, and made engynes agaynst it on euery syde. And the citye was beseged vnto the eleuenth yere of kinge zedekia. * And the nynth daye ☞ of the moneth, there was so greate hongre in the citye, that there was no ☞ breed for the people of the lande.

And the citye was brokē vp: and all the men of armes fledd by nyght, by a waye thorowe a gate which is betwene two walles, by the kynges garden: the Chaldees lyinge about the citye.

And the kynge went the waye towarde the playne. And the soudyers of ỳ Chaldees folowed after the kynge, and toke him in the playne of Jericho, and all hys armye were scatered awaye from hym, ☞ (and lefte hym.)

So they toke the kynge, and brought hym to Nebuchadnezar the kynge of Babylon to Ribla, where ☞ they reasoned wt hym. And they slue the sonnes of zedekia before hys eyes: and he put out the eyes of zedekia, and fettered him with two chaynes, and caryed hym to Babylon.

And the. vij. daye of the. v. moneth which is the. xix. yere of king Nabuchadnezer king of Babylon, came Nebusaradan a seruaunt of the kynge of Babylon, and chefe captayne of the men of warre, vnto Jerusalē: & burnt the house of the Lorde, and the kynges house, ād all the houses of Jerusalem, & all great houses burnt he wt fyre. And all the soudiers of the Chaldees that were with the chefe captayne of the men of warre, broke downe ỳ walles of Jerusalem rounde about. But the rest of the people ỳ were left in the citye, and them ỳ were fledd to the kyng of Babylō, wt the rēnaunt of the comen people, dyd Nabusaradā the chefe captayne of the mē of warre carye awaye: but the captayne of the soudyers lefte of the poore of the lande, to dresse the vynes, and to tyll the grounde.

* And the pyllers of brasse that were in ỳ house of the Lord, and the sockettes, and the brasen lauatory that was in the house of the Lorde dyd the Chaldees breake, and caryed all the brasse of them to Babylon. And the pottes, shouelles, dressynge knyues, spones, and all the vessels of brasse that they mynystred in, toke they awaye. And the fyer pannes, and basens, and soch thinges as were of golde, & of syluer, thē toke the chefe captayne awaye: euen two pyllers, one lauatory, and the sokettes which Salomon had made for the house of the Lord. The brasse of all these vesselles was without waight. The heygth of the one pyller was .xviij. cubytes, and the heed therō was brasse, and thre cubytes hye and vpon the heed was there a wrethē worke and pomegranates rounde aboute, all of brasse. And of the same fassyon was the seconde pyller, with a wrethen worke.

E And the chefe captayne of ꝑ mē of warre toke Saraia the chefe preste, and zephoniah the hyest preste saue one, and the thre kepers of the holy thynges. And out of the cirye he toke a chamberlayne, that had the ouerlight of the men of warre, and .v. men of thē that were euer in ꝑ kynges presence, which were founde in the cytie: and him that was scrybe to the captayne of the hoost, which brought out the people of the lāde to warre, and thre score men of the people of the lande, ꝑ were founde in the cirye. And Nebusaradan the chefe captayne of the mē of warre toke these, and brought them to the kynge of Babylon to Ribla. And the kynge of Babylon smote them, and slue them at Ribla in the hande of Hanath. And so Juda was caryed awaye out of theyr lande.

H Howebeit, there remayned people in the lande of Juda, whom Nebuchadnezar kyng of Babylon lefte, & made Gedalia the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Saphan ruler ouer thē. And all the captaynes of the souldyers, and other men hearde, ꝑ the kynge of Babilon had made Gedalia gouerner: and there came to Gedalia to Mazphah: Ismael the sonne of Nethania, Johannan the sonne of Karea, Saraia the sonne of Thanhumeth ꝑ Netophathite, and Jazaania the sonne of Maachati, & theyr men. And Gedalia sware to them and to the mē whom they had with them, and sayde vnto thē: feare not ye because ye are the seruauntes of the caldees, dwell in the lande, and serue the kinge of Babilon, and ye shalbe well.

G But it chaunced in the seuenth moneth, that Ismael the sonne of Nethania the sonne of Elisama, of the kynges blonde, came, and ten men with hym, and smote Gedalia, that he dyed: and so dyd he the Jewes and ꝑ Chaldees that were with hym at Mizpa. And all the people, bothe small and greate, and the captaynes of warre arose, and came to Egipte: for they were afrayd of the Chaldees. Notwithstandyng yet in the seuen and thyrtye yere after Jehoachin kynge of Juda was caryed awaye the seuen and twentye daye of the twelueth moneth, Euilmerodach kynge of Babylō, the same yeare ꝑ he begāne to raygne, dyd ☞ lyfte vp the heade of Jehoachin kynge of Juda out of the preson, and spake kyndely to hym, and set hys seate aboue the seate of the kynges that were with hym in Babylon: and chaunged hys preson garmentes. And he dyd euer eate breed before hym, all the dayes of hys lyfe. Hys porcyon was a contynuall porcyon that was assigned hym of the kyng, euery daye a certayne, as longe as he lyued.

¶ The genealogye of the sonnes of Juda and Symeon.

A THe sõnes of Juda: * Pharez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur and Sobal. And Reaia the sonne of Sobal begat Jahath. And Jahath begat Abumai and Lahad: and these are the kinredes of the zoreathites. And of these came the father of Etham, Jezrael, Jisma and Jidbas, and the name of theyr syster was Hazlelpeni. Penuel was the father of Gedor. And Eser the father of Husa. And these are the sonnes of Hur the eldest sonne of Ephrata the father of Bethlehem. And Assur the father of Thekoa had two wyues: Heleah and Naara. And Naara bare hym Ahusam, Hepher, Themni and Hahastari. These were the sõnes of Naarah. And the sonnes of Heleah were zareth, Jezoar and Ethnan. And Coz begat Anub and zobeba, and the kynred of Aharhel the sonne of Harum. And Jabes was more honorable then his brethren. And hys mother called his name Jabes, sayinge. because I bare hym with sorowe. And Jabes called on the God of Israel, sayinge: If thou wylt blesse me in dede, and enlarge my coastes, and shalt let thyne hãde be with me. and wylt kepe me from euell that it hurt me not: And God graunted hym hys desyre.

Chelub the brother of Suah begat Mehir, whych was the father of Esthon. And Esthon begat Bethrapha, and Paseha, and Thehinna the father of the citye of Nahas: these are the men of Recha. The sonnes of Kenas: Othniel and Saraia. And the sõnes of Othniel were Hathath.

And Meonothi begat Ophrah. And Seraia begat Joab the father of the valeye of craftes men (so called) because they were craftes men. And the sonnes of Caleb the sonne of Jephune were: Iru, Ela and Naã. And the sonne of Ela was Kenas. And the sonnes of Jehalelel were ziph, and ziphah, Thiria and Asarel. And the sonnes of Ezra: were: Jether, and Mered, Epher, Jalon, Thahar, and Miriam, and Sammai, and Jisbah the father of Esthemoa. And hys wyfe Jehudia bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of zanoah. And these are the sonnes of Bithiah the daughter of Pharao, whych Mered toke. The sonnes of the wyfe of Hodia the syster of Nahan the father of Keilah were: Garmi, and Esthemoa. the Maachathite. The sonnes of Symon were: Ammon, and Rimna, Benhanan and Thilon. And the sonnes of Jisi were: zobeth, and Benzoheth.

* The sonnes of Selah the sonne of Juda were: Er the father of Lecha, and Laada the father of Maresa, and the kynredes of the housholdes of them that wrought linnen in the house of Asbea. And Jokim and the men of Chozeba, and Joas, and Saraph, whych had the dominyon in Moab, and Jasubi Lehem. These also are wordes of olde. These were potters, and dwelt there amonge trees & hedges, upe vnto the kynge: because of hys worke.

The sonnes of Simeon were: Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, zerah and Saul: whose sonne was Sallum: and the sonne of hym was Mibsam, and hys sonne was Misma. And the sonne of Misma was Hamuel, and hys sonne was zachur, and the sonne of hym was Simehi. Semehi had syxtene sonnes & syxe daughters. But hys brethren had nott manye chyldren, neyther was all the kynred of them lyke to the chyldren of Juda in multytude. And they dwelt at Beersheba, Molada, and at Hazar Sual, at Bilha, at Ezem, and at Tholad, at Bethuel, at Hormah, and at ziklag, at Bethmarcaboth, Hazar Susim, at Bethbirei, and at Saaraim. These were theyr cityes vnto the raygne of Dauid. And theyr vyllages were: Etan, and Ain, Rimmon, Tochen and Asan, fyue townes: and all theyr vyllages that were rounde aboute the same cytyes vnto Baal. ¶ The genealogye of Ruben and Gad and of the halfe tryde of Manasse.

The sonnes of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel: for asmoche as he was the eldest, * and had defyled hys fathers bedd, his byrthryght was geuen vnto the sonnes of Joseph the sonne of Israel. Howbeit, the genealogy is not rekoned after this byrthryght. For Juda, he preuayled aboue hys brethren, and of this tryde came ꝑ chefe, and the byrthryght was geuen to Joseph. The sonnes then of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel were: Henoch, Phalu, Hezron and Charmi.

* Gen.xlix.a Ero.vi.b. Num.xxvi.a.

The sonnes of Joel: Samaiah: hys sonne, Gog hys sonne, and Semhi hys sonne, Micah hys sonne, Reaia hys sonne, and Baal hys sonne, Beera hys sonne. Whome Thiglath Pylneser kynge of Assyria caryed awaye: for he was a great lorde amõg the Rubenites. And when hys brethren in theyr kynredes, rekoned the genealogye of theyr generacyõs: Jeiel and zachariah were the chefe.

And Baal the sonne of Azan, the sonne of Sema, the sonne of Joel, dwelt in Aroer: and so forthe vnto Nebo and Baalmeon.

And eastwarde, he enhabited vnto the entrynge in of the wyldernesse, from the ryuer Euphrates: for they had moche catell in the lande of Gilead.

And in the dayes of Saul, they warred with the hagarites, which were ouerthrowen into theyr hande. And they dwelte in theyr tentes throwout all the east lande of Gilgal.

And the chyldren of Gad dwelte ouer against them in the lande of Basan, euen vnto Salcha. And in Basan, Joel was ꝑ chefest, and Saphan the nexte, then Janai and Saphat. And theyr brethren of the houssholde of theyr fathers, were Michael, Meosuesam, Seba, Jorai, Jahcan, zia, Eber, Heuen. These are the chyldren of Abihail the sonne of Huri, the sonne of Jeroah, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Michael, the sonne of Jesisai, the sonne of Jahdo, the sonne of Buz. Ahi (the sonne of Abdiel, the sonne of Guni) was a captayne of the housholde of theyr fathers. And they dwelt in Gilead, in Basan, and in her townes, and in all the suburbes of Saron, and in theyr borders.

¶ All these were rekoned by kynredes in the dayes of Jotham kynge of Juda, and in the dayes of Jeroboam kyng of Israel. The sonnes of Ruben, and of Gad, and of halfe the tryde of Manasse, were kyghtynge men, and able to beare shylde and swearde, and to shote with bowe, exercysed in warre, euen foure and fourtye thousande, seuen hundred and threskore, that wente out to the warre. And they fought with the Hagarites, with Jetur, Nephis and Nodab. And they were helped of the Lorde against the, and the Hagarites were deliuered into their hande, and so were all that were with them. For they cryed to God in the battayll, and he harde them, because they put theyr trust in hym. And they toke of theyr catell and of theyr camels fyftye thousande, and two hundred and fyftye thousande shepe, and two thousande asses, and of the soules of men, an hondred thousande: and there fell many wounded, because ꝑ warre was of God. And they dwelt in theyr steades, vntyll the tyme that they were caryed awaye.

And the chyldren of ꝑ halfe tribe of Manasse dwelt in the lande, from Basan vnto Baal Hermon, and Semir, and vnto moũt Hermon: for they were growne to a greate multitude. And these were the heedes of the houssholdes of theyr fathers: Epher, and Jesi, Eliel and Azriel, Jeremia and Hodauia, and Jahddiel, stronge men and valeaunt, famouse men, and heedes of the houssholdes of theyr fathers. D

And they transgressed agaynste the God of theyr fathers, and went a whorynge after the goddes of the people of the land, whõ God destroyed before them: and God stered vp the spyrite of Phul kynge of Assiria, and the spyrite of Thiglath Pilneser kynge of Assiria, and caryed them awaye: euen the Rubenytes, the Gaddites, and ꝑ halfe tryde of Manasse, and brought them vnto Halah, Habor, Hara: and to the ryuer Gozan, vnto thys daye.

And when they had stript hym, they toke hys heed, and hys harnesse, and sent them into the lande of the Philistines rounde aboute to shewe thē vnto theyr Idols, and to the people. And they put his harnesse in the house of theyr God, & set vp hys heade in the temple of Dagon.

D And when all they of Jabes in Gilead
1.Mac.xi.a. 2.Mac.xii.c. heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul: they arose (all the strongest of them) and fet awaye the body of Saul, and the bodyes of his sonnes, and brought them to Jabes, and buryed the bones of them vnder an oke in Jabes and fasted seuen dayes.

So Saul dyed for hys trespace that he trespaced agaynst the Lorde, in ỹ he kept not the worde of the Lorde, and in that he sought and asked councell of a womā that wrought with a spyrite, and asked not of ỹ Lorde. And therfore he slue hym, and turned the kyngdome vnto Dauid the sonne of Jsai.

¶ The xi. Chapter.

¶ After the death of Saul is Dauid annoynted in Hebron. The Jebusites rysell agaynst Dauid, frō which he taketh the Towre of Syon. Hys men are noblyed.

A Then all Israel gathered them selues
1.sam.v.a. to Dauid vnto Hebron * sayenge: Behold, we be thy bones and thy flesshe. And moreouer in tyme past, euen when Saul was kynge, thou leddest Israel out & in. And the Lorde thy God sayde vnto the: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt be captayne ouer my people Israel.

Therfore came all the elders of Israel to the kynge, to Hebron, and Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebron, before the Lorde. And they annoynted Dauid kynge ouer
1.sam.xvi.a. Israel, * accordyng to the worde of the Lorde ☞ by the hande of Samuel.

And Dauid and all Israel went to Jerusalem, which is Jebus: where as were ỹ Jebusytes, the enhabiters of the lande. And the enhabiters of Jebus sayde to Dauid: thou cōmest not here. Neuertheles, Dauid wanne the castell of Syon, which is called the cytie
B of Dauid. And Dauid * sayde, whosoeuer
ii.Reg.v.b smyteth the Jebusytes fyrst, shalbe the principall captayne and a Lorde. So, Joab the sonne of Zaruia went fyrst vp, and was made the chefe captayne. And Dauid dwelt in the castell Syon, and therfore they called it the cytie of Dauid. And he buylt ỹ cytie on euery syde, euen from Hillo rounde about, and Joab repared ỹ rest of the cytie. And Dauid prospered, and wared greate, and the Lorde of hoostes was with hym.

C * These are the principall men of power
ii.Regū. xxiii.a. whom Dauid had, and that clane to hym in hys kyngdome with all Jsrael, to make hym kynge, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde vnto Jsrael. And this is the nombre of the myghtye men whom Dauid had: Josobeam the sonne of Hachmoni the chefe amōge thirtye: he lyfte vp hys spere agaynst three hundred, and wounded them at one tyme.

After him was Eleazar his vncles sōne an Ahohite, which was one of the three myghtyest. He was with Dauid at Pasdammim, & there the Philistines were gathered together to battell. And there was there a parsell of grounde full of barleye, and the people fled ☞ before the Philistines. And ☞ they, the three afore sayde, stept forth into the middes of the felde, and saued it from burnynge and slue the Philistines. And the Lorde gaue a great victorye.

And the three of the thyrtye chefe captay- D nes went to a rocke to Dauid, into the caue Adullam. And the hoste of the Philistines abode in the valey of Rephaim. And whan Dauid was in the holde, ỹ Philistines watch was at Bethlehem ỹ same time. And Dauid ii.Regum. xxiii.c. longed, & sayde: * Oh that one wolde geue me drynke of the water of the well that is at the gate at Bethlehē. And the three brake thorowe the host of the Philistines, and drewe water out of the well, that was by the gate at Bethlehē & toke it, and brought it to Dauid. Neuertheles, Dauid wolde not drynke of it, but rather offered it to the Lorde, and sayde: my God forbyd it me, that I shulde do thys thynge. Shall I drynke the bloude of these men, that haue put theyr lyues in Jeopardye? (for with the Jeopardye of theyr lyues they brought it) therfore he wolde not drynke it. And this did these three myghtyest.

And Abisai the brother of Joab: he also E was captayne amonge three: for he lyfte vp hys spere agaynst three hundred, & wounded them, and had a name amonge the three: Yee amonge three, he was more honorable then ỹ two, for he was their captayne. Howbeit, he attayned not vnto the (first) three.

Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada (the son- Ao ne of a very stronge man) dyd greater actes

then

then Cabzeel: for he slue two strong lyons of Moab, and went downe, and slue a Lyon in a pyt in time of snowe. And he slue an Egiptian, whose stature was euen fyue cubytes longe, & in the Egyptians hãde was a speare lyke a weauers beame. And the other went downe to hym with a wasker, and plucked ỹ speare out of the Egyptians hande, and slue him wt his awne speare. Soche thynges dyd Banaia the sõne of Jehoiada, & had ỹ name amõge the thre myghtyest, & was honorable amõg thirtie: but attayned not vnto ỹ (first) thre. And Dauid made him of hys councell.

The other mẽ of armes were these: Asahel ỹ brother of Joab, Elhanan hys vncles sonne of Bethlehem. Shammoth the Harodite, Helez the Pelonite: Ira the sonne of Ickes ỹ Thekoite, Abieser the Anatothite: Sibacai the Husathite, Ilai the Ahohite: Maharai ỹ Nethophathite, Heled the sonne of Baana ỹ Nethophatite. And of the Gadites there separated them selues, some vnto Dauid into the holde of ỹ wyldernesse, men of myghte, and men apte for warre, & ỹ coulde hãdle shylde and speare, whose faces were lyke the faces of Lions, and they were as swyfte as the Roes in the mountaynes: Ezer the fyrst, Obdia the secõde, & Eliab the thyrde, Masmana the fourth, Jeremia the fyfte. Atthai the syxte, Eliel the seuenth, Johanan the eyght, Elsabath the nynth, Jeremia the tenth, and Machbaonai the eleuenth. These were of ỹ sonnes of Gad, and were captaynes ouer the men of warre, the small pursued an hundred, and the great a thousande. These are they that went ouer Jordan in the fyrst moneth when he had fylled ouer all hys bankes. And they put to flyght all them of the valeye both towarde the East and Weste. 15

And there came of the chyldzen of Beniamin and Juda to the holde vnto Dauid. And Dauid wẽt out to mete them and answered, and sayde vnto thẽ, If ye be come peasably vnto me, to helpe me, myne hert shalbe knytt vnto you. But and yf you come to betraye me to myne aduersaryes (seynge ther is no wyckednes in myne handes) the God of oure fathers loke theron and rebuke it. And the spiryte came vpon Amasai which was the cheke amonge thyrtye, and he sayde, thyne are we Dauid, and on thy syde thou sonne of Jesai: * Peace, peace be vnto the, and peace be to thyne helpers, for thy God is thyne helpe. Then Dauid receaued them, and made them heedes of companyes of the men of warre. * Hebr.

And there fell some of Manasse to Dauid when he came with the Philistines agaynst Saul to battell, * but they helped them not for ỹ Lordes of the Philistines toke advysement and sent hym a waye agayne sayinge he wyll fall to hys Master Saul to the ieopardie of oure heedes. As he went to ziklag, there fell to hym of Manasseh: Adna Jozabad, Jediel, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu and zilthai, heedes of the thousandes that were of Manasse. And they holpe Dauid agaynst the rouers. For they were all myghtie mẽ of warre, and captaynes in the hoost. For at that tyme there came one or other to Dauid daye by daye to helpe hym: vntyll it was a greate hoost, lyke the hoost of God. * Hebr. it was not.

And this is the nõbre of the chefe captaynes that were prepared to battell, and came to Dauid to Hebron, to turne the kyngdome of Saul of Saul to hym, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde.

E The chyldren of Juda that bare shylde & speare, were syxe thousande and eyght hundred ready prepared to ỹ warre. Of the chyldren of Simeon, men of myght to warre, seuen thousande and one hundred. Of the chyldren of Leui, foure thousande and syxe hundred. And Jehoiada was the chefe of them of Aaron, and with him three thousande and seuen hũdred. And Zadock a younge man strög and valeaunt & of his fathers housholde. xxii captaynes. And of the children of Beniamin the brethren of Saul, three thousande. And a greate parte of them dyd (vnto that tyme) folowe the house of Saul:

And of the children of Ephraim. xx. thousande & eyght hundred mighty men of warre and famous men in the housholde of their fathers. And of the halfe tribe of Manasseh F xviii. thousande, which were appoynted by name to come and make Dauid kynge. And of the chyldren of Jsacar, which were men ỹ had vnderstandynge in the ryght tyme, to knowe (howe to cõmaunde) what Jsrael ought to do. The heedes of them were two hũdred and all their brethrẽ were at their wyll. And of Zabulõ that went out to the battayll and procedeth forth to the warre, wt all maner of instrumentes of warre, fyftye thousand that were prepared to the warre, without anye dublenesse of hart. And of Nephthali a thousande captaynes, and with them (with shyld & speare) xxxvii. thousande. And of Dan prepared to battel. xxviii. thousande & syxe hundred. And of Asser that went out to the warre & kepte the forefront of the batell, fourtye thousand. And of ỹ other syde of Jordan, of ỹ G Rubenites, and Gaddites & of the halfe tribe of Manasse, with all maner of instrumentes of warre, an hundred & twentye thousande.

All these were men of warre, keppynge the forefront of the batell with perfect hart, and came to Hebron to make Dauid kynge ouer all Jsrael. And all the rest of Jsrael was of one accorde, to make Dauid king. And there they were with Dauid three dayes, eatynge and drinckyng: for theyr brethren had prepared for them. Moreouer they that were nye them, vntyll Jsacar, Zabulõ and Nephtali, brought breade on Asses, Camels, Mules, & oxen, and meate: floure, fygges, rosyngs, wyne and oyle, oxen, and shepe aboundãtlie. For there was ioye in Jsrael.

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

¶ The Arcke is brought agayne from kariath Jarim to Jerusalem. Uza (otherwyse called Oza) dyeth.

A Nd Dauid counceled with the capitaynes of thousandes and hundredes, & with all ỹ Lordes, and sayd vnto all the congregacyon of Jsrael: If it seme you good, and to be of the Lorde oure God, we wyll take and sende vnto oure brethren that are left in all the lãde of Jsrael, & with them also, to the preastes and Leuites which are in their cyties & suburbes, togather thẽ together vnto vs. And we wyll bryng agayne ỹ Arcke of the Lorde to vs: for we regarded it not in the dayes of Saul. And all the cõgregaciõ was cõtent that he shulde do so, for the thyng semed good in ỹ eyes of all the people.

So Dauid gathered all Jsrael together B from Sihor in Egypte, vnto ỹ entrynge of Hemath, to bringe the arcke of the Lorde from kyriath Jearim. And Dauid went vp & all Jsrael to an hye place towarde kyriath Jearim, that was in Juda, to fet thence the arcke of the Lord God, that dwelleth betwẽ the Cherubes: where hys name is called on. And they caryed the Arcke of God in a newe carte out of ỹ house of Abinadab. And Uza C & hys brother guyded ỹ carte. And Dauid & all Jsrael played before the arcke of God wt all theyr myght, with syngyng, and harpes, psalteries, & tymbrelles and trompettes. And when they came vnto the threshynge flowre of Chidon, Uza put forth his hande to holde the arcke, for the oxen (beynge a lytle wylde) stõbled. And the Lorde was wroth with Uza, and smote hym, because he put hys hande to the arcke. And there he dyed before God. And Dauid was out of quyete, because the Lorde had rent a rent in Uza, & he called the name D of that place: ỹ rẽtyng of Uza vnto this daye And Dauid was afrayde of God that daye saying: howe shall I bringe the arcke of God home to me? And so Dauid brought not the arcke home to hym to ỹ cytie of Dauid: But caried it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the arcke of God remayned with Obed Edom, euen in hys house, three monethes. And he blessed the house of Obed Edom and all that he had.

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter.

¶ Hyram sendeth worde and workemen to Dauid which hath two victories of the Philistines.

So Hyram the kynge of Tyre sent A messengers to Dauid & tymbre of Cedar trees, with masons and carpenters, to buylde hym an house. And Dauid perceaued, that the Lorde had confirmed hym kynge vpon Jsrael, and that hys kyngdome was lyfte vp on hye, because of hys people Jsrael. And Dauid toke yet mo wyues at Jerusalẽ, and begat mo sonnes and daughters. These are the names of hys chyldren, which were borne vnto him at Jerusalem: Samua, Sobab, Nathan and Salomon: Jibhar, Elisua and Elipalet, Noga, Nepheg and Japhia. Elisama, Berliada and Eliphalet.

And when the Philistines heard ỹ Dauid was anoynted kynge vpon all Jsrael, all the Philistines

Philistines went vpto seke Dauid. And Dauid heard of it, and wēt oute agaynst them. And the Philistines came in, & praunsed thorowe the valey of Rephaim. And Dauid asked cōcell at God saying: shall I go against the Philistines, and wylt thou delyuer them into myne hande? And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: go vp, for I wyll delyuer thē into thine hāde. And so they came vp to Baal Perazim & Dauid smote them there. And Dauid sayd: God hath deuided myne enemies with myne hande, as a man wolde deuyde water. And therfore they called the name of that place בעל פרצים Baal Perazim. And whā they had lefte theyr gods there, Dauid gaue a commaundment, and they were burnt with fyre.

D And the Philistines came together agayne & russhed into ỹ valley. And Dauid asked agayne at God. And God sayde to hym: go not vp after thē, but turne a waye from thē, that thou mayest come vpon them ouer agaynst the peretrees. And when thou hearest a sound go in the toppes of the peretrees, thē go out to battell: for God is gone forth before the, to smyte the hoste of the Philistines. Dauid therfore dyd as God cōmaunded him: & they smote the hoste of the Philistines, frō Gibeon to Gazer. And ỹ fame of Dauid wēt out into all landes, and the Lorde made all nacyons feare hym.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

¶ The Leuites bynge the Arcke agayne. Dauid dauncyng before it, is despysed of his wyfe Michol.

I AND Dauid made hym houses in ỹ cytie of Dauid, and prepared a place for the arcke of God, pytched for it a tent. Then Dauid sayde, the arcke of God ought not to be caryed but of the Leuites. For them hath the Lord chosen to beare the arcke of the Lorde, and to minister vnto hym for euer. And Dauid gathered all Israell together to Jerusalem, to fetche the arcke of the Lorde vnto hys place which he had ordeyned for it. And Dauid brought togeather the chyldren of Aaron and the Leuites. Of the sonnes of Cahath was Uriel the chefe, and of hys brethren there were an hundred and. xx. Of the chyldren of Merari: Asaia the chefe, and of hys brethren two hundred and. xx. Of the sonnes of Gerson: Joel the chefe, and of hys brethren an hundred and thyrtye. Of the chyldren of Elizapan: Semaia the chefe, and of hys brethren two hundred. Of the sonnes of Hebron: Eliel the chefe, and of hys brethren. lxxx. Of the sonnes of Uziel: Aminadab the chefe, and of hys brethren an hundred and twelue.

B And Dauid called Zadock and Abiathar the preastes, and the Leuites, Uziel, Asaia Joel, Semaia, Eliel and Aminadab: & sayde vnto them: ye that are the principall fathers of the Leuites, se that ye be holy with youre brethren, that ye maye bringe in the Arcke of the Lorde God of Israel, vnto the place that I haue prepared for it. For ỹ because ye D were not there at the fyrst, ỹ Lord oure God made a rent amonge vs, for that we sought hym not as the lawe vpon ought to be. So the preastes and the Leuites sanctifyed them selues, to fett the Arcke of the Lord God of Israel. And the children of the Leuites bare the Arcke of God, vpon theyr shulders with staues theron, as Moses commaunded accordynge to the worde of the Lorde.

And Dauid spake to the chefe heedes of ỹ Leuites, that they shulde appoynte certayne of theyr brethren to synge with instrumentes of Musicke, psalteries, harpes and symbales that they might make a sounde, and to synge on hye with Joyfulnesse: And ỹ Leuites appoynted Heman the sonne of Joel: and (of his C brethren) Asaph the sonne of Berechia. And of the sonnes of Merari and of theyr brethrē Ethan the sonne of Cusaiahu. And with thē theyr brethren of the secōde degree: zacharia, Ben, Jaaziel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiahu, Maasiah, Mathathiahu, Eliphalehu, Mikneiahu, Obed Edō, & Jaiel, porters. So Hemā, Asaph & Ethan the syngers made a sounde with symbales of brasse And zacharia, Aziel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maasaiahu and Banaiahu played with psalteries on עלמות an Alamoth. D Mathaniahu, Eliphalehu, Mikneiahu, Obed Edom, Jeiel, and Azaziah played vpon harpes an eyght aboue, with courage. And Chenaniahu the chefe of the Leuites, was maister of the songe, for he taught other to synge, because he was a man of vnderstandynge.

Berechia and Elcana kepte the doore of the D Arcke. And Secaniahu, Jehosaphat, Nethanael, Amasai, zachariahu, Banaiahu & Eliezer the preastes dyd blowe with trompettes before the Arcke of God. And Obed Edom and Jehia were kepers of ỹ doore of the arcke.

* And Dauid and the elders of Israel *ii. mys. and the capitaynes ouer thousandes, went to fet the Arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde out of the house of Obed Edom with gladnes. And when God helped the leuites, that bare the Arcke of the appoyntement of the Lorde, they offered seuen oxen, and seuen rammes. And Dauid had on hym a lynnen garmēt, lyke as had also all the Leuites that bare the Arcke, and so had the syngers, and Chenania ỹ ruler of the songe, with the syngers. And Dauid had vpon hym an Ephod of lynen. And all they of Israel brought the Arcke of the Lordes couenaunt with showtynge, and blowyng of the shawme and trōpetters: makynge a noyse with symbales, psalteryes, and harpes.

And as the Arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde came into the cytie of Dauid, Michol chol the daughter of Saul, lokynge out at a wyndowe, sawe kyng Dauid daunsyng and playinge, and she despysed hym in her herte.

¶ The.xvi.Chapter:

¶ Dauid ordeyneth Asaph and hys brethren, to ministre before the Lorde. He hym selfe prayseth the Lorde God of Israel.

SO they brought in ꝑ arcke of God and set it in the myddes of the tent that Dauid pytched for it. And they offered burnt sacrifyces and peace offerynges before God. And when Dauid had made an ende of offerynge the burnt offerynges and peaceofferynges, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde. And he dealt to all Israel (both man & woman) a cracknell of breade, and a good pece of flesshe, and a flacket of wyne.

And he appoynted certen of the Leuites to ministre before the Lorde, & to repete, & to thanke and prayse the Lorde God of Israel. And Asaph was the chefe, & next to hym zacharia, Iehiel, Semiramoth, Iehiel, Mathathia, Eliab, Benaia, * Obed Edom, & Ieiel with psalteries & harpes. But Asaph made a sounde with symbales. Banaiahu & Jahaziel preastes blewe ẅ tröpettes continually before the Arcke of the couenaunt of God.

And that same tyme Dauid did appoynte chefelye to thanke the Lorde, by Asaph & his brethren. * O geue thākes vnto the Lorde, call vpon hys name, make hys actes knowē amonge the people.

Synge vnto him & playe vnto him: talke of all hys wonderfull dedes. Reioyce in hys holy name: let the hertes of thē that seke the Lorde, be glad. Seke the Lorde and hys strēgthe: Seke hys presence allwaye.

Remembre his maruelles which he dyd, and hys wonders, & the iudgementes of hys mouth. The seed of Israel are hys seruauntes: the chyldren of Jacob are hys chosen. He is the Lorde oure God: in all landes are hys iudgementes. Thynke on hys appoyntment for euer, (and on the worde which he commaunded to a thousande generacions.) Which he made with Abraham, and of hys othe to Isahac: which he set before Jacob for a decree, and to Israel for an euerlastynge couenaunt, sayinge: to the wyll I geue the lande of Canaā to be the porcyon of youre enheritaunce. When you were fewe and smalle in nombre, and sogeourners therin. And they walked from nacyon to nacyon, and frō one kyngdome to another people. He suffered no man to do them wronge: but rebuked, euen kynges for theyr sakes. Touche not myne anoynted, and do my prophetes no harme. ¶

* Synge vnto the Lorde all the erthe: and shewe from daye to daye hys Saluacyon. * Psal.xcvi.a

Tell of hys glorye amōge the heithen: his wonderfull dedes amonge all nacyons.

For greate is the Lorde, and worthy to be praysed exceadyngly: he is to be feared aboue all Gods.

For all the Gods of the people are of no value: But the Lorde made heauen.

Prayse and honoure are in hys presence: strength and gladnes are in hys place.

Ascrybe vnto the Lorde ye kynredes of people, Ascrybe to the Lorde, glorye and dominion. Ascrybe vnto the Lorde, the glorye due vnto hys name: bringe sacrifyces, and come before hym, and worshippe the Lorde with holy honoure.

☞ Let all the erth feare hym, all though the compase of ꝑ erth be so stablysshed that it cannot be moued: let the heauēs reioyse, and let the erth be glad, and lett men tell among the nacyons, that the Lorde is kynge.

Let the see thunder and the fulnesse therof lett the feldes reioyse, and all that is therin.

Then shall the trees of the wood reioyse at the presence of the Lorde, because he commeth to iudge the erth. O geue thākes vnto the Lorde, for he is good, for hys mercye endureth euer: and saye ye: saue vs (o God) of oure saluacion, geather vs to gether, and delyuer vs frō amonge the hethē, that we maye geue thankes to thy holy name, & triūphe in the prayse of the. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for euer & euer, and let all people saye Amen, and prayse the Lorde.

And so, he lefte there before the arcke of ꝑ Lordes couenaunt, Asaph & hys brethren, to ministre before the Arcke cōtinually, in soch thynges as were to be done daye by daye, &c (and that by theyr courses.) And Obed Edom & hys brethren, threskore and eyght, and Obed Edom the sonne of Iedithun, and Hosa were apoynted to be porters. And Zadock ꝑ preast and hys brethren the preastes, were before ꝑ tabernacle of ꝑ Lorde, in the hye place ꝑ was at Gibeō, to offer burntofferynges vnto the Lorde, vpō the burntoffering aultare perpetuallye, in the morynyng and euenyng, accordyng to all ꝑ which is writtē in the lawe of the Lorde, which he cōmaunded Israel. And with them were Heman & Iedithun, & other that were chosē (whose names were expressed) to geue thankes to the Lorde, ꝑ his mercye lasteth euer. And with them dyd Heman and Iedithun, synge with the trompettes & symbales, symbales makynge a swete melody with instrumentes of Musyche and godly songes. And the sonnes of Jeduthun were porters. And all the people departed, euery man to hys house: and Dauid returned to blesse hys house.

¶ The. xvii. Chapter.

¶ Dauid is forbydden to buylde an house vnto the Lorde. Christ is prompted vnder the figure of Salomon.

AND it fortuned þ whan Dauid dwelt in hys house, he sayde to Nathan the prophete: lo, I dwell in * an house of Cedar tree: but the Arcke of the Lordes couenaunt remayneth vnder curtaynes. And Nathan sayd to Dauid: do all that is in thyne herte, for God is with the.

And the same nyght it fortuned that the worde of God came to Nathan, sayinge: go and tell Dauid my seruaunt, thus sayth the Lorde, thou shalt not buylde me an house to dwell in. For I haue dwelt in no house sence the daye that I brought out the chyldren of Israel vnto thys daye: but haue gone from tent to tent, and from one habitacyon to another. And wherseuer I haue walked wyth all Israel, spake I euer one worde to anye of the iudges of Israell (whom I commaunded to fede my people,) sayinge: why haue ye not buylt me an house of Cedar tree? Nowe therfore, thus shalt þ saye vnto my seruaũt Dauid: thus sayth the Lorde of hoostes: I toke the out of the pastures whan thou wentest after shepe, that thou shuldest be captayne ouer my people Israel. And I haue bene w the whither soeuer thou hast walked, & haue weded out all thyne enemyes out of thy sight & haue made þ a name, lyke þ name * (of one) of the greatest men that are in the erthe. And I haue ordeyned a place for my people Israel and made it faste, so that nowe they maye dwell in theyr place, and moue nomore. Neither shall the chyldren of wyckednesse vexe them any moare as at the begynnynge. And sence the tyme that I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel, I haue subdued all thyne enemies, and I tolde the, that the Lorde wolde buylde the an house.

¶ Thys also shall come to passe: when thy dayes be expired, þ thou must go vnto thy fathers, I wyll rayse vp thy seade after þ which shalbe of thy sonnes, and I wyll prepare for hym the kyngdome. He shall buylde me an house, and I wyll stablisshe his state for euer I wylbe hys father, and he shalbe my sonne, and I wyll not take my mercy awaye from hym, as I toke it from hym that was before the. But I wyll sett hym in myne house and in my kyngdome for euer, and hys seate shalbe sure for euermore.

Accordyng to all these wordes, and accordyng to all thys vysyõ, dyd Nathã tell vnto Dauid. And Dauid the kynge came & sat before the Lorde, & sayde: what am I (O Lord God, and what is myne household, that thou hast promoted me thus farre? And yet thys semed lyttel in thyne eyes, O God: But thou hast also spoken of thy seruauntes house for a greate whyle to come: and hast loked vpon me as vpon a man of hye degree (O Lorde God.) What shall Dauid desyre more of the for the honoure of thy seruaũt? For thou hast knowen thy seruaunt: O Lorde for thy seruauntes sake, cuẽ accordynge to thyne awne hert hast thou done all thys magnificence, to shewe all great thinges. Lorde, there is none lyke the, neither is there anye God saue thou, accordinge to all that we haue heard w oure eares. Moreouer, what nation on the erthis lyke thy people Israel, to whom God hath vouchsafed to come and redeme thẽ to be hys awne people, and to make the a name of excellencye and terriblenesse, with castyng out nacyons from before thy people, whõ thou hast delyuered out of Egypte?

Thy people of Israel dyddest thou make thyne awne people for euer, and thou becamest theyr God. Therfore nowe Lorde, let the thynge that thou hast spoken cõcernynge thy seruaunt and hys house, be true for euer, that thou do as thou hast sayde: let it come to passe, that thy name maye be magnifyed for euer, that it maye be sayde: the Lorde of hoostes is the God of Israel (cuẽ the God of Israel) & the house of Dauid thy seruaũt endureth stable before the. For thou (O my God) hast tolde thy seruaunte, þ thou wylt buylde him an house. And therfore thy seruaũt hath founde in hys hert to praye before the. And nowe Lord, thou art God, and hast promised thys goodnesse vnto thy seruaunte. Nowe therfore, let it be thy pleasure to blesse þ house of thy seruaunt, that it maye contynue before the for euer. For whom thou blessest (O Lorde) the same is blessed for euer.

¶ The battelles of Dauid agaynst the Philistines.

AND after this it fortuned, þ Dauid smote the Philistines, and subdewed them, & toke Geth & the townes þ * longed therto, out of the hande of the Philistines. And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Dauids seruauntes, and payde hym tribute. And Dauid smote Hadarezer kynge of Zoba vnto Hanath, as he went to stablisshe hys dominion by the ryuer Euphrates. And Dauid toke from hym a thousande charettes, & seuen thousande horsemen, & twetye thousand fotemen, & lamed all þ charett horses, & reserued of them an hundred charettes. And whẽ the Syriens of Damasco came to helpe Hadadezer kynge of Zoba, Dauid slue of the Syriens. xxii. thousande, and Dauid subdued subdued Syria Damasco: And the Syriēs became Dauids seruaūtes, & brought hym trybute. And the Lorde preserued Dauid in all that he went to.

And Dauid toke ꝑ shyldes of golde that were on the seruauntes of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem. And frō Tebhath & from Chun (cyties of Hadarezer) brought Dauid exceadynge moche brasse. Wher wᵗ Salomon made ꝑ brasen lauatorye, * the pillers, & the vessellies of brasse.

* 3.Re.vii.d
3.Re.vii.e.

And when Tou kynge of Hemath, heard how Dauid had beaten all the strength of Hadarezer kynge of Zoba, he sent Haduran his sonne to kynge Dauid, to make peace wᵗ hym & to blesse hym, because he had fought agaynst Hadarezer, & beaten him (for Tou had warre wᵗ Hadarezer) & Dauid brought, all maner of Jewelles of golde, syluer and brasse wᵗ hym. And kynge Dauid dedicated them vnto the Lorde, with ꝑ syluer & gold ꝑ he brought from all nacyōs, from Edom, from Moab, from the chyldren of Ammon, from the Philistines, & from Amalec. And Abisai ꝑ sonne of Zeruia slue of the Edomites in the salte valeye. xviii. thousande, and put Soudiars in Edom, and all the Edomites became Dauids seruauntes. Thus the Lorde kepte Dauid in all ꝑ he toke in hāde.

And Dauid raygned ouer all Jsrael, & executed iudgemēt and ryghteousnes amonge all his people. And Joab ꝑ sonne of Zaruia was ouer the hoste, and Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud recorder, and Zadock the sonne of Ahitub and Abimelech ꝑ sonne of Abiathar were ꝑ preastes, and Sauela was scribe, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites, and the Phelethites, & the eldest sonnes of Dauid were nexte vnto the kynge.

¶The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Hanon kynge of the sonnes of Ammon, doth greate iniurye to the seruauntes of Dauid.

After this, it chaunced that * Nahas the kynge of the chyldren of Ammon dyed, & his sonne raygned in his steade. And Dauid sayde, I wyll shewe kyndnesse vnto Hanon ꝑ sonne of Nahas, because hys father dealt kyndelye with me: And Dauid sent messengers to cōforte hym ouer the deeth of hys father. And the seruauntes of Dauid came into ꝑ lande of the chyldren of Ammon to Hanon, to cōforte hym. But the Lordes of the chyldren of Ammon sayde to Hanon: thynkest thou ꝑ Dauid doth honoure thy father in thy syght, ꝑ he hath sent conforters vnto the? Are not hys seruaūtes come to searche, to loke, and to spye out the lande?

* 2.Reg.x.a.

Wherfore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, & (and polde them) and shaued them, and cut of their cootes harde by their buttokes, and sent them awaye. And there went certayne and tolde Dauid, howe ꝑ men were serued. And ꝑ kynge sent to mete them (for ꝑ men were exceadyngly ashamed) and ꝑ kynge sayde: tarye at Jericho, vntyll youre beardes be growen, and then returne.

And when the chyldren of Ammon sawe that they stanke in ꝑ syght of Dauid. Hanon & the chyldren of Ammon sent a thousande talētes of syluer to hyre them charettes & horsemen, out of Mesopotamia, and out of Syria Maacha & out of Zoba. And they hyred. xxxii. thousande charettes, and the kynge of Maacha & his people, which came, and pytched before Medeba. And the chyldren of Ammon gathered them selues togeather frō their cyties, & came to battel. ¶ And whan Dauid heard of it, he sent Joab and all ꝑ hoste of stronge men. And the chyldren of Ammon came out, and put them selues in araye to battel before the gate of the cytie. And ꝑ kynges that were come, kepte them by them selues backe in the felde.

When Joab also sawe that ꝑ frōte of the battell was agaynst him before & behynde, he chose out of all the chosen men of Jsrael, and put them in araye agaynst ꝑ Syrians. And ꝑ rest of the people he delyuered vnto the hande of Abisai his brother, & they put them selues in araye agaynst ꝑ chyldren of Ammon. And he sayde: If the Syriās be to strōg for me, ꝑ shalt succoure me: & yf ꝑ chyldren of Ammon preuayle agaynst ꝑ, I will helpe ꝑ. Plucke vp thine hert, & let vs playe the men, for oure peoples sake & for ꝑ cyties of oure God, & the Lorde shall do ꝑ which is good in his awne syght. So Joab & the people ꝑ were wᵗ hi'm, drue nye before ꝑ Syrians vnto ꝑ battayle, & they fled before him. And when ꝑ chyldren of Ammon sawe ꝑ the Syriens were fled, they ranne awaye lykewise before Abisai his brother, and gat them into ꝑ cytie. And Joab came to Jerusalem.

And when ꝑ Syriēs sawe ꝑ they were put to the worse before Jsrael, they sent messengers & fet out ꝑ Syriēs ꝑ were beyond ꝑ ryuer, & Sophach ꝑ capitayne of ꝑ hoste of Hadadezer wēt before them. And it was tolde Dauid, & he geathered all Jsrael, & wēt togeather ouer Jordan, & came, and set vpon them. And whan Dauid had put him selfe in araye agaynst the Syriens they fought with him. But ꝑ Syriēs fled before Jsrael. And Dauid destroyed of the Syriens seuen thousāde charettes, & xl. thousād fote men, and kylled Sophach ꝑ captayne of ꝑ hoste. And when ꝑ seruaūtes of Hadarezer, sawe, that they were put to ꝑ worse before thē of Jsrael, they made peace wᵗ Dauid, & became his seruauntes. Nether wolde the Syriens helpe ꝑ chyldren of Ammon any more.

A
AND Satan stode vp agaynst Israel, & prouoked Dauid to nombre Israel. And Dauid sayde to Joab and to the rulers of þ people. Go ye and nombre Israel from Beer Seba to Dan, and bryngе it to me that I maye know the nombre of them. And Joab answered: the Lorde make hys people an hundred tymes so manye moas they be. But my Lorde O kyng, are they not all my Lordes seruauntes? why then doth my Lorde requyre thys thynge? why wyll my Lorde be a cause of trespace to Israel?

Neuertheiesse, the kynges worde preuayled agaynst Joab. And Joab departed and walked thorowe out all the of Israel, and came to Jerusalem agayne & gaue the nombre of the counte of the people vnto Dauid. And all they of Israel were a thousand thousande & an hundred thousande men that drue swerde: and Juda was. cccc.lxx. thousande men that drue swerd. But þ Leuites and Ben Jamin counted he not amõge the. For þ kynges worde was abhominable to Joab. And the Lorde was displeased with thys thynge, and smote Israel. And Dauid sayde vnto God: I haue synned exceadyngly in doynge this thynge. And nowe (I beseche the) do awaye the wyckednesse of thy seruaunt, for I haue done very folyshlye.

And the Lorde spake vnto Gad Dauids
B seer, sayinge: goo and tell Dauid, sayinge: Thus sayth þ Lorde: I geue the, the chopse of thre thynges: chose the one of them, that I maye do vnto the. And Gad came to Dauid, and sayde vnto hym. Thus sayth the Lorde. Chose the, ether thre yeares sampshement, or thre monethes to be destroyed before thyne aduersaryes, and that þ swerde of thyne enemyes maye ouertake the: or elsse the swerde of the Lorde and pestilence in the lande thre dayes, and þ Angell of the Lorde destroying thorowe out all þ coastes of Israel. And nowe aduise thy selfe, what worde I shall bryngе agayne to hym that sent me. And Dauid sayde vnto Gad. I am in an exceadynge stratte: Let me fall nowe into the hande of the Lorde, for passynge great are hys mercyes, but let me not fall into the hand of men.

So þ Lorde sent pestilence vpon Israel, and there were ouerthrowen of Israel. lxx. thousande men. And God sent the Angel in to Jerusalẽ to destroye in it. And as he was about to destroye, þ Lord beheldе, and had compassyon on the euyll, and sayde to the Angell þ destroyed: it is ynough, let now C thyne hande ceasse. And the Angell of the Lorde stode by þ threshynge flowre of Ornan the Jebusyte. And Dauid lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe þ Angell of the Lord stande betwene þ erth and heauen, haunynge a drawen swerde in hys hande, stretched out towarde Jerusalem. Then Dauid & þ elders of Israel whych were clothed in sacke, fell vpon theyr faces. And Dauid sayd vnto God: Is it not I that cõmaunded þ people to be nõbred? It is I that haue synned & done euell in dede, & what haue these shepe done? let thyne hãde (O Lorde my God) be on me and on my fathers house, but not on thy people that they shulde be punysshed.

And the Angell of the Lorde cõmaunded Gad to saye to Dauid, that Dauid shulde go vp, and set vp an aulter vnto the Lorde, in the threshynge flowre of Ornan the Jebusyte. And Dauid went vp accordynge to the sayinge of Gad, which he spake in the name of þ Lorde. And Ornan turned aboute, and sawe the Angell, & hys foure sonnes were with hym, and hyd them selues: But

Ornan

Oznan was threshyng wheat. And as Dauid came to Oznā, Oznā loked & sawe Dauid, and went out of the threshynge floure, and bowed hym selfe to Dauid wyth his face to the grounde.

And Dauid sayde to Oznan: geue me the place of the threshyng flowre, that I maye buyld an aulter therin vnto the Lord. Thou shalt geue it me for as moche money as it is worthe, that the plage maye ceasle from the people. And Oznan sayde vnto Dauid: take it to the, & let my Lord ꝑ kyng do that which D semeth good in his eyes: loo, I geue the oxen also for burntsacrifyces, & ꝑ threshyng sleades for wodde, & wheate for meatofferyng: I geue it all. And kynge Dauid sayd to Oznan: not so, but I wyll bye it for as moche money as it is worth. For I wyll not take that whych is thyne for the Lorde, ner offer burntoffrynges wythout coast.

And so Dauid gaue to Oznā for that place, sycles of gold. vi. hūdred by waight. And Dauid buylt there an aulter vnto the Lord, and offered burntoffrynges & peaceoffrynges, and called vpon the Lord, and he heard hym from heauen in fyre vpon the aulter of burntoffering. And whan the Lord had spoken to ꝑ Angell, he put vp his swerd agayne into ꝑ shethe of it. At that tyme whē Dauid sawe, that the Lorde had hearde hym in the threshynge flowre of Oznan the Jebusyte: he vsed to offer there. For the tabernacle of the Lord which Moses made in the wildernesse, and the aulter of burntofferynge were at that season in the hyll at Gibeō. And Dauid coulde not go before it to aske councell at God, for he was aferde of the swerde of the Angell of the Lorde.

¶ The. xxij. Chapter.

¶ Dauid willeth hys sonne Salomon to buylde the temple of the Lorde: whych thynge he hym selfe was forbyden to do.

A Nd Dauid sayde: thys is ꝑ house of the Lorde God, and thys is the aultare for the burntofferynge of Israel.

And Dauid commaūded to geather together the straungers that were in the lande of Israel, and he sett masons to hewe fre stone, for the buylding of the house of God. And Dauid prepared plentie of yrō for nayles and dores of ꝑ gates, and to ioyne with all, and aboūdāce of brasse without wayght, and Cedar trees wythout nombre. For the Zidons and they of Tyre brought moch Cedar wood to Dauid. And Dauid sayde. Salomon my sonne is yōge and tēder, and the house that is to be buylt for the Lorde, must exceade in greatnesse, ꝑ it maye be spoken of and prayse d in all lādes. I wyll therfore make ordinaunce for it. And so Dauid prepared many thinges before his deeth.

And he called Salomon his sonne, & charged him to buyld an house for the Lord God of Israel. And Dauid sayde to Salomon. * my sonne, I thought (as it was in myne hert) to buylde an house vnto the name of ꝑ Lorde my God. But the worde of the Lorde came to me, saying: ꝑ hast shed moch blonde, and hast made greate battelles: thou shalt therfore not buyld an house vnto my name, for ꝑ hast shed moch blonde vpon the erth in my syght. Beholde, a sonne is borne to the, & he shalbe a man of reste, for I wyll geue him rest from all hys enemyes round about. For his name is Salomon: and I wyll sende rest and peace vpon Israel in hys dayes. He C shall buylde an house for my name, and he shalbe my sonne, and I wylbe his father, & wyll prepare the seate of his kyngdome vpō Israel for euer. Nowe therfore my sonne, ꝑ Lord be wt the, & prosperē ꝑ, & ꝑ shalte buylde the house to the name of the Lorde thy God, as he hath sayde of the. And the Lorde shall geue the wysdome & vnderstandyng, & shall geue the commaundmentes for Israel, that ye maye kepe the lawe of the Lord thy God. For then thou shalt prosperē: euē whan thou takest hede & fulfyllest the statutes & lawes whych the Lorde charged Moses with, for Israel. Plucke vp thyne hert therfore, & be stronge, dread not, nor be discouraged. Beholde, in myne aduersyte haue I allo prepared for ꝑ house of the Lord, an hūdred thou- D sande talentes of golde, & a thousande thousande talentes of syluer, & as for brasse & yrō it cānot be nōbred, for it is very moche. And I haue prepared tymbre and stone, and thou mayest puide more therto. Moreouer, thou hast workemen wyth the ynowe, & masons and carpenters to worke in stone & tymbre, and many men ꝑ be actiue for euery worke. And of golde, syluer, brasse and yron, there is no nombre. Up therfore, and be doynge, & the Lorde shalbe wyth the.

And Dauid cōmaūded all ꝑ lordes of Israel, to helpe Salomō his sonne, saying: Is not ꝑ Lord yō God wt you? & hath he not geuē you rest on euery syde? for he hath geuen ꝑ enhabitoures of ꝑ lande into my hande, & the lāde is subdued before the Lord & before his people. Nowe therfore set youre hertes & yō soules, to seke the Lord youre God. Up, and buylde ye the temple of the Lorde God, to bryng the Arcke of the couenaunt of ꝑ Lord and the holy vessellies of God, into the house so buylt for the name of the Lorde.

uites. And the Leuites were nombred from the age of .xxx. yeare and aboue, and the nõbre and summe of them was. xxxviij. thousande men. Of which .xxiiij. thousande were set to further the worcke of the house of the Lorde. And syre thousande were officers & Judges. Foure thousande were porters and foure thousande praysed ỹ Lorde with soche instrumentes as was ☞ made to prayse wythall.

And so Dauid put an ordre amõg thẽ deuidinge thẽ in partes. Of ỹ children of Leui: Gerson, Cahath & Merari: Of the Gersonites was Laadã & Semei. The sonnes of Laadã. the chefe was Jehiel, zethan & Joel, thre. The sonnes of Semei: Selomith, Hasiel, & Haran, thre. These were ỹ auncièt fathers of laadã. And ỹ sones of Semei were Jahath, zina, Jeus & Beria: these foure were the sonnes of Semei. And Jahath was the chefe, zina the seconde. But Jeus and Beria had not many sonnes, therfore they were in one rekenynge, accordyng to theyr fathers household reckened for one auncient household.

The sonnes of Cahath: Amram, Jzahar, Hebron and Vziel, foure. * The sonnes of Amram: Aaron & Moses. And Aaron was separated, to haue the rule of the holy thynges in the place moost holye, he and hys sonnes for euer: and to burne incense before the Lorde, and to mynistre vnto him, & to bielle in his name for euer. Moses also the man of God, and his chyldren, were named wyth ỹ trybe of Leui. The sonnes of Moses: Gerson and Eliezer. Of the sonnes of Gerzon: Sebuel was the chefe. The sonnes of Eliezer: Rehabia the chefe. And Eliezer had none other sonnes: But the sonnes of Rehabia were very manye. The sonnes of Jzahar: Salomith, the chefe. The sonnes of Hebrõ: Jeriahu the fyrst, Amaria the seconde, Jahaziel the thirde, and Jecameam the fourth. The sonnes of Vziel: Micha the fyrst, and Jesia the seconde. The sonnes of Merari Mahli: and Musi. The sonnes of Mahli Eleazar and Cis. And Eleazar dyed, and had no sonnes, but daughters, and their brethrẽ the sonnes of Cis toke them. The sonnes of Musi: Mahli, Eder, & Jeremoth, thre. These are the chyldren of Leui after the household of theyr fathers, euen the auncient of the fathers accordìg to theyr offices, and after ỹ nombre and somme of ỹ names of them that dyd the worcke in the seruice of the house of the Lord, from the age of twentye yeares & aboue. And Dauid sayde: the Lorde God of Israel hath geuen rest vnto his people, that they maye dwell in Jerusalẽ for euer. That the Leuites also shuld nowe nomore beare ỹ tabernacle & all the vesselles for the seruyce ther of: for accordynge to the last wordes of Dauid, the Leuites were nombred frõ twelue yere and aboue, and their office was vnder the hande of the sonnes of Aaron, for the seruice of the house of the Lorde, in the courtes & celles, and in the purifyinge of all holye thynges, and in the worcke of the seruice of the house of God. In the shewe breed in ỹ fyne flowre, in ỹ meate offeringe, in the wafers of swete breed, in the fryinge panne, in the grydyron, and in all maner of measures and syse, and to stãde euery daye in the mornynge, to thanke and prayse the Lorde, and so lykewyse at euen. And to offer all burntsacrifyces vnto the Lorde, in ỹ Sabbothes, in the newe moones, & on the festfull dayes by nombre and custome cõtinually (as they were commaunded) before the Lorde. And that they shulde wayte on the tabernacle of wytnesse, and on the holy place, and on the sonnes of Aaron their brethren, in the seruice of the house of the Lorde.

¶ The .xxiiij. Chapter.

¶ Dauid assygneth offices to the sonnes of Aaron.

These are the deuisyõs of the sonnes of Aarõ: The sonnes of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. * Nadab also and Abihu dyed before theyr father, & had no chyldre: But Eleazar and Ithamar executed the prestes office. And Dauid ordered them on this maner: Sadock of ỹ sonnes of Eleazar, & Abimelek of ỹ sonnes of Ithamar were accordìg to theyr offices in theyr mynistracyõ. And there were mo auncièt mẽ founde amõge ỹ sonnes of Eleazar, then the sonnes of Ithamar. And thus were they ordred together: Amonge ỹ sonnes of Eleazar there were syxtene rulers, accordynge to the household of their fathers: & eyght amõg the sonnes of Ithamar accordìg to ỹ household of theyr fathers. And thus were they put in order by lott, ỹ one sorte from the other, & so were there rulers in ỹ Sanctuarye & Lordes before God, as well of ỹ sonnes of Ithamar as of ỹ sonnes of Eleazar. And Semeia the sonne of Nathaneel the Scribe, of the kynred of the Leuites wrote thẽ before the kyng and the Lordes, & before Sadock the preest and Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar, and before the auncièt fathers, before ỹ preestes & the Leuites: one principall household beyng reserued for Eleazar and one for Ithamar.

And the fyrst lot fell to Jehoiarib, & the seconde to Jedaia. The thirde to Harim, & the fourth to Sehorim. The syxte to Melchia, & the syxte to Miamin. The seuẽth to Hakos, & the eyght to * Abia. The nynthe to Jesua, & ỹ tenth to Secanahu. The leuẽth to Eliasib, & the twelueth to Jakim. The thirtenth to Hupa, & the fourtẽth to Jesebeab. The fyftenth to Bilga, & ỹ syxtenth to Immer. The seuẽtenth to Hezir, & ỹ eyghtẽth to Hapzez.

The

The nynetenth to Pathahia, and the twentieth to Jehesekel. The twētieth & one to Jachin and ỹ .xxij. to Gamul. The .xxiij. to Delaiahu, and the .xxiiij. to Maasiahu.

These are the ordinaunces of thē in their offices, whan they came into the house of the Lorde, accordyng to their maner vnder Aaron their father, as the Lorde God of Israel had commaunded hym.

The rest of the sonnes of Leui, are these: of the sonnes of Amram, Subael. Of ỹ sonnes of Subael, Jehediahu. Of the sonnes of Rehabia, ỹ fyrst Jesia. Of the Jezaharites, D Selomoth. Of ỹ sonnes also of Selomoth, Jahath. his sonnes Jeriahu ỹ first Amariahu ỹ secōde, Jahaziel the thirde, & Jekameā the fourth. Of the sonnes of Uliel, Micha. Of the sonnes of Micha, Samir. The brother of Micha was Jisia. Of the sonnes also of Jisia zechariahu. The sonnes of Merari, were: Mahli & Muli. The sonnes of Jaaziahu, Beno. The sonnes of Merari by Jahaziahu, Beno, Sohem, zacur & Ibri. Of Mahli came Eleazar & he had no sōnes. Of kis: the sonnes of kis: Jerahemeel. The sonnes of Muli: Mahli, Eder and Jerimoth. These are ỹ children of the Leuites after the housholde of their fathers. And these cast lottes next to their brethren the sonnes of Aaron, in the presence of Dauid the kyng, and Sadoc & Ahimelec & the auncient fathers, preastes, & Leuites: euen the principall fathers before their ponger brethren. ℣ (the lott made equall betwen bucyon amonge them all.)

¶ The .xxvi. Chapter.

¶ The posters of the temple are ordeyned, euery man to the gate whych he shulde kepe.

THese are the deuisyōs of the posters, A Imōge the Corethites: Melelemiahu the sonne of Kore of the chyldren of Asaph.

And the sonnes of Meselemiahu were these: zachariahu the eldest, Jedihel the seconde, zebadiahu the thyrde, and Jathniel the fourth, Elam ỹ fyfte, Jehohanā the sixt, & Elioenai the seuēth. The sonnes of Obed

Edom: Semeia the eldest, Jehosabad the seconde, Joah the thyrde, Sacar the fourth, & Nethanael the fyfte, Amiel the syxte, Issachar the seuenth, Peulthai the. viij. for God blessed hym.

And vnto Semeia his sonne were sonnes borne, þ ruled in the house of their father, for they were men of myght. The sonnes of Semeia: Othni, Rephael, Obed and Elzabad & hys brethren were stronge men. Elihu and Samachiahu. All these were of the chyldren of Obed Edom, they and their children, and their brethren, actiue men and of strength to do seruice, euen lxii. of Obed Edō. And Heleniah had sonnes and brethren, actiue men xviii. The sonnes of Hosa of the chyldren of Merari: Simei the chefe, & though he was not the eldest, yet his father sett him in þ chefest place. Helkiahu the seconde, Tebaliahu the thirde, and zechariahu the fourth: all the sonnes and brethren of Hosa were. xiii.

Amonge these was deuyded the offyce of the portershyppe that they shulde be auncient men, to wayte wyth theyr brethren, whan they mynistred in the house of the Lord. And they cast lottes, bet wene the great and small after the houshold of their fathers, for euery gate. And the lot on the east syde fell vpon Selemeiahu. And for zachariahu hys sonne (which was a wise counceller) they cast lottes, & hys lot came out towarde the North. And Obed Edoms lot fell to þ South. And for hys sonnes fell the houses of Asuppim. & for Suphim and Hosa towarde the west, with the gate that stondeth toward the hyer waye: one watch beynge ouer agaynst another.

In the east were syx Leuites: & towarde the North. iiii. a daye: toward þ South. iiii. a daye, & towarde Asuppim, two & two. In Pharbar towarde the west: two at þ goyng vp, & two in Pharbar. These are þ deuisyōs of the porters among the sonnes of Korath & amonge the sonnes of Merari. And of the Leuites, Ahiah had the ouersyght of the treasure of the house of God, and of the treasure of the dedicat thynges.

As concernyng þ sonnes of Laadā whych were þ chyldrē of the Gersonites. Of Laadā came auncient fathers, Euen of Laadā there came Gersoni & Jehieli. The sonnes of Jehieli: zethan & Joel hys brother, which were ouer the treasures of the house of the Lorde. Of the Amramites also & Issharites, Hebronites & Ozielites, was Subuel þ sonne of Gerson the sonne of Moses, a ruler ouer the treasures. And of his brethren the sonnes of Eliezer, was Rahabiahu, whose sonne was Isaiahu, whose sonne was Joram, whose sonne was zichri, whose sonne was Selomith, which Selomith and hys brethren were ouer all the treasures of the dedycate thynges, which Dauid the kynge, & the auncient fathers, the capitaynes ouer thousandes & hundredes, & the captaynes of the hoste, had dedicated out of the spoyles wōne in battels: they dyd dedicate thē to maintayne the house of the Lorde: & all that Samuel the sear, and Saul the sonne of Cis, and Abner the sonne of Ner, and Joab the sonne of zaruia had dedicated, & whosoeuer had dedicate anye thynge, it was vnder the hande of Selomith and of hys brethren.

Of þ Issharites was Chenaniahu & hys sonnes, appoynted to the businesse without forth ouer Israel: for they were officers and Judges. And of the Hebronites Hasabiahu & his brethren, men of actiuite a thousande & seuē hundred, were officers amonge them of Israel beyond Jordan westward, in all busynesse belō ging to God, and seruice of the kynge. Amōge þ Hebronites was Jedia the chefest, euen a prince among the Hebromtes & fathers of hys kynred. And in the fourtye yeare of the kyngdome of Dauid, they were sought for. And there were found amōge thē men of actiuite at Jazer in Gilead. And hys brethrē were men of actiuite, euē two thousand & seuen hundred auncient fathers, whō kynge Dauid made rulers ouer the Rubenites, Gaddites, and ouer the halfe trybe of Manasse, for euery matter pertaynynge to God, and for the kynges busynesse.

¶ Of the princes and rulers that mynistred vnto the kynge.

The chyldren of Israel: after the nombre of thē, the auncient heades & captaynes of thousandes and hūdredes, & their officers þ serued the kyng by diuerse courses which came in & wēt out, moneth by moneth, thorow out all þ monethes of the yere. And in euery course were. xxiiii. thousande. Ouer þ fyrst course for þ fyrst moneth, was Jasoboā þ sonne of zabdiel. And in his course were. xxiiii. thousand. And þ chefest of all þ captaynes of þ host for þ fyrst moneth, was of the childrē of Pharez. Ouer þ course of þ secōde moneth was Dodai an Ahohite & in his course was Mikloth a ruler: (his helper) And in þ course were. xxiiii. thousande. The chefe captayne of the thirde host for þ thirde moneth, was * Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada þ hye preaste: And in his course were xxiiii. thousand. This is þ Banaiahu, which was most myghtie amōge. xxx. & aboue. xxx. And in his parte was Amizadad his sonne.

The fourth captayne for the fourth moneth, was Asael the brother of Joab, ād zabadia his sonne after him. And in his course were. xxiiii. thousande. The fyfte cayptayne for the fyfte moneth was Samhut the Jezrahite,

* ij. Sa. xxiij. j. Para. xi.

rahite: & in hys course were .xxiiij. thousand.
The syxte capytayne for the syxte moneth was Ira the sonne of Ickes a Thecbite: & in hys course were .xxiiij. thousande.

The seuenth captayne for the seuēth moneth, was Helez the Pelonite, of the chyldrē of Ephraim: & his course were .xxiiij. thousand. The eyght captayne for the eyght moneth, was Sibechai an Husathite of ꝑ kynne of zarhi: & in his course were .xxiiij. thousand. The nynth capitayne for ꝑ nynth moneth, was Abiezer an Anathothite of ꝑ sonnes of Jemini: and in hys course were .xxiiij. thousand. The tenth captayne for the tenth moneth, was Maharai the Netophathite of the zarahites: and in hys course were .xxiiij. thousande. The leuenth for the eleuenth moneth, was Banaia the Pirathonite of the chyldren of Ephraim: and in his course were .xxiiij. thousand. The twelueth captayne for the twelueth moneth, was Heldai the Netophathite wt Othoniel, and in his course were .xxiiij. thousand. And the rulers ouer the trybes of Israel were these: Amōge the Rubenites was Eliezer the sonne of zichri. Amōg the Simeonites also was Saphatiahu the sonne of Maacha. Amonge the Leuites: Hasabia the sonne of Kemuel. Amonge the Haromites: zadock. Among thē of Juda: Elihu of the brethren of Dauid. Amonge them of Issachar. Omri ꝑ sonne of Michael. Amonge thē of zabulon: Jesmaiahu ꝑ sonne of Obadiahu. Amōg them of Nephthali: Jerimoth the sonne of Azriel. Amonge the chyldren of Ephraim: Hosea the sonne of Azaziahu. In the halfe trybe also of Manasse: Joel ꝑ sonne of Phedaiahu. Of ꝑ halfe trybe of Manasse in Gilead: Jdo the sonne of zachariahu. Amonge thē of Ben Jamin: Jaaūel the sonne of Abner. Amonge them of Dan: Azarel the sonne of Jeroham. These are the Lordes of the trybes of Jsrael.

But Dauid toke not the nombre of them vnder .xx. yere: because ꝑ Lord sayd he wold encrease Israel lyke vnto the starres of the skye. And * Joab the sonne of zaruia begā ne to nōbre: but he fynished it not, because ꝑ there fell wrath for it against Israel: neither was the nombre put in to the chronycles of kynge Dauid. * j. par. xxi. a.

Ouer the kynges treasures was Azmaueth the sonne of Adiel. And ouer the treasures of the feldes, in the cyties & villages & castelles, was Jehonathā, ꝑ sonne of Vziahu. And ouer the workmē in the feldes that tylled the ground, was Ezri ꝑ sonne of Chelab. And the ouersyght of ꝑ vineyardes had Semei ꝑ Ramathite. Ouer the increace also of the vineyardes, & ouer ꝑ wineselers was Sabdi the Hasiphunite. And ouer the oliue trees & mulberytrees ꝑ were in the valeyes, was Baal hanā the Gederite. And ouer ꝑ treasure of oyle, was Joas: Ouer the oxen that fed in Saron, was Setari the Saronite. And ouer the oxen that were in the valeyes was Saphat ꝑ sonne of Adlai. Ouer the camelles, Obil the Jsmaelyte. And ouer the Asses was Jehadiahu the Meronothite. Ouer the shepe, was Jazis the Hagerite. All these were the rulers of the substance of kynge Dauid. And Jehonathā Dauids vncle, a man of councell, and of vnderstondyng was a scrybe, and Jehiel the sonne of Hachmoni & was wyth the kynges sonnes enstructinge them. And Ahitophel was of the kynges counsell. And Husai ꝑ Arachite was the kynges companyon. And nexte to Ahitophel was Jehoiada the sonne of Banaiahu, & Abiathar. And the capytayne of the kynges warre, was Joab.

¶ The .xxviij. Chapter.

¶ Because Dauid was forbydden to buylde the temple, he exhorteth Salomon and the people to perfourme it.

AND Dauid geatherede togather all the Lordes of Jsrael: ꝑ Lordes of the trybes, the Lordes of the cōpanyes that ministred to the kyng by course, the captaynes ouer the thousandes & ouer the hundredes, & the Lordes that had ꝑ ouersyght ouer all the substaunce and possessyon of Dauid, hys sonnes, wyth the chamberlaynes: all the myghtye and valeaunt and all actiue men, vnto Jerusalē. And kynge Dauid stode vp vpon hys fete, and sayde. A

Heare me my brethren & my people. * I had in myne hert to buylde an house of rest for the Arcke of the couenaunt of the Lord, & for ꝑ & fote stole of oure God, & had made redye, for the buylding. But God sayd vnto me: * ꝑ shalt not buylde an house for my name, because ꝑ hast bene a man of warre, and hast shed bloud. Moreouer, the Lord God of Jsrael * chose me before all ꝑ house of my father, to be kinge ouer Jsrael for euer, for in Juda wold he chose a captayne: & of ꝑ houshold of Juda is the house of my father, & amonge the sonnes of my father he had a lust to me, to make me king ouer all Jsraell. And of all my sonnes (for ꝑ Lord hath geuē me manye sonnes) he hath chosen Salomon my sonne, to sytt vpō the seat of ꝑ kyngdom of ꝑ Lord in Jsrael. And he sayde vnto me: * Salomō thy sonne, he shall buyld me an house & courtes, I haue chosen hym to be my sonne, & I wilbe his father. I will stablyshe his kigdōe for euer, If he will be strōg to do my cōmaūdmentes, & my lawes, as it goeth this daye. * j. reg. vij. a. * ij. par. xxviij. c. ij. para. vi. b. * j. par. xxij. a. B

Now therfore, in the syght of all Jsrael the cōgregacyō of ꝑ Lord, & in the audience of oure God: kepe & seke for all the cōmaundmentes of the Lord yō God, ꝑ ye maye enioye a good land, & leaue inheritaunce for yō chyldren after you for euer. And ꝑ Salomon my sonne, knowe thou ꝑ God of thy father, and serue hym with a pure hert, and wyth a swete courage. * For the Lorde sercheth all hertes, and vnderstandeth all the ymaginacyons of thoughtes. And yf thou seke hym, he wylbe founde of the: But yf thou forsake hym, he wyll cast the of for euer. Take hede nowe, for ꝑ Lorde hath chosen the, to buylde hym an house of a Sanctuarie. Be stronge therfore, and playe the man.

* Psal. xvij. c.

¶ And Dauid gaue Salomon his sonne the paterne of the porche-* (of the temple also) & of ꝑ houses that longed therto, of the store houses, vpper chambres, inner parlours, & of the house of the mercyseate: & the example of all that he had in hys mynde, for the courtes of the house of the Lorde, & for all the celles rounde about, for the treasures of the house of God, and for the treasures of the dedycate thynges. & for the diuisyons of the preastes and Leuites that wayted by course, & for all the worke manshyp, that shulde serue for the house of the Lorde, & for all the vesselles that shulde serue in the house of the Lorde. For golde & for the wayght of golde, for all vessilles of sondrye ministracios: for all maner of vessilles of syluer in weyght, & for all vessilles, what soeuer purpose they serued vnto.

The wayght of golde for the candelstyckes, and the golde for their lampes, with the wayght for euery cãdelstycke, & for the lampes therof. And for the candelstyckes of syluer by wayght, both for the cãdelstycke and also for her lãpes accordinge to the diuersite of ꝑ vse of euery cãdelstyck. And by wayght (he gaue) golde for the tables of shewe bread, euen for euery table: and lyke wyse syluer for the tables of syluer. And golde for flesheho-kes, cuppes and drynchyng pottes: And pure golde in wayght for basens, euẽ for euery basen. And lyke wyse syluer by wayght, for euery basen of syluer. And for the aulter of incense, pure golde by wayght. And gold for the paterne of the charett of the Cherubes ꝑ stretched out their wynges, and couered the Arche of ꝑ couenaunt of the Lord. All (sayde Dauid) was geuen me by wrytynge of the hande of the Lorde, whych made me vnderstande all the workmanshyp of the paterne.

And Dauid sayde to Salomon hys sonne: Be stronge, and do manfully, feare not, nor be faynt harted. For the Lorde God, euẽ my God, is wyth the, and he shall not fayle the, nor forsake the, vntyll thou hast fynysshed all the worke that muste serue for ꝑ house of the Lord. Beholde, the preastes and Leuites are deuided in companyes, for all maner of seruyce that pertayneth to the house of God: they are wyth the for all maner of workmanshyp, and so are all that excell in wysedome for any maner of seruyce. Thou hast also the Lordes and all the people for euery thynge that thou hast nede of.

¶ The. xxix. Chapter.

¶ The offerynges of Dauid & of the princes for the buyldynge of the temple. Dauid prayth, & Salomon hys sonne raygneth in hys stede.

AND Dauid the kynge sayde vn to all the congregacyon: * God hath specially chosen Salomõ my sonne whych is yet younge & tender, & the worcke is greate, for the house shall not be for mã, but for the Lorde God. Moreouer, I haue prepared wt all my myghte for the house of God: golde for vessels of golde, syluer for thẽ of syluer, brasse for thynges of brasse, yron for thynges of yron, & wood for thynges of wood: and onix stones, and stones to be sett, glysstringe stones and of diuerse coloure, and all maner of precyouse stones, and marble stones in great aboundance. And because I haue lust to ꝑ house of my God: I haue of myne owne propre good, of golde and syluer wych I haue seuerally geuẽ to the house of my God, besyde all ꝑ I haue prepared for ꝑ holy house: euen thre thousande talentes of golde of Ophir, and seuen thousande talẽtes of tryed syluer: to ouerlaye the walles of the houses withall: ꝑ golde for thynges of golde syluer for them of syluer, & for all maner of worcke by ꝑ handes of artifycers. And who soeuer is willing, maye this daye consecrate hys hande vnto the Lorde.

* iij. Reg. iij.

And so the auncient fathers and the Lordes of the trybes of Israel, the captaynes of thousandes and hundredes, wyth the Lordes that were rulers ouer the kynges worke, were wyllynge and gaue for the seruyce of the house of God, fyue thousande talentes of Golde, and ten thousande peces of golde: and ten thousande talentes of syluer, and xviij. thousande talentes of brasse, and an hũdred thousande talẽtes of yron. And they wyth whom precyouse stones were fouñde gaue thẽ to the treasure of the house of ꝑ Lord, by the hande of Jehiel the Gersonite.

¶ And the people reioyced, whã they were so wyllynge to geue their goodes, and wyth a perfecte hert they offred vnto the Lorde. And Dauid the kynge reioyced wyth great gladnesse. And Dauid blessed the Lorde before all the congregacyon, and sayde: Blessed be thou Lord God of Israel oure father, from euer and for euer. Thyne (O Lorde) is greatnesse, and power, glorie, victorie and prayse: for all that is in heauen and in erth is thyne, & thyne is the kyngdom (O Lorde) and thou excellest aboue all, euen as the heed of all. And rychesse and honoure come of the, and thou raygnest ouer all, and in thyne hande is power and strength, and in thyne handit is to make great & to geue strẽgth vnto all.

And

And nowe oure God, we thanke the, and D prayse thy gloriouse name. But who am I?
and what is my people? that we shulde en-forze oure selues to geue these thiges so willingly? But all thynges come of the: and of that which we receaued of thyne hande we xxv.xbii.b. haue geuen the. * For we be but straungers xxxi.xxvij.c. before the, and sotourners, as were all oure Deu.xi.c. fathers. Oure dayes on the erth also are but xxxv.b.b. as a * shadowe, and there is none abydinge.
O Lorde oure God, all this stuffe þ we haue prepared to buylde the an house for thy holy name, cōmeth of thyne hande, & is all thyne.
(I wote also my God) that thou tryest the hertes, and hast pleasure in vnfaynednesse.
And in the vnfaynednesse of myne herte. I haue willingly offred all these thinges. And nowe haue I sene thy people which are foūde here, to offer vnto the willyngly and wyth gladnesse. O Lorde God of Abrahā, Isahac, & of Israel oure fathers, kepe this for euer,
as the begynnynge of the thoughtes of the E herte of thy people, and prepare their hertes vnto the. And geue vnto Salomō my sonne, a perfecte herte, to kepe thy commaundemēs, thy testymonies and thy statutes, and to do all, & to buylde the house for the which I haue made prouision for.

And Dauid sayde to all the cōgregacyon:
F Nowe blesse the Lorde youre God. And all the cōgregacion blessed the Lorde God of their fathers, and bowed downe their heades and worshypped the Lorde and the kynge.
And they offered offerynges vnto the Lorde.
And on the morowe after þ sayde daye, they offered burntofferynges vnto the Lorde. euē
a thousande yōnge oxen, a thousande rāmes N & a thousande shepe, with their drynke offerynges. Many sacrifyces offred they for all Israel, & dyd eate & drynche before the Lorde the same daye wt greate gladnesse. And they made Salomon the sonne of Dauid kynge
the seconde tyme, and annoynted him prynce before the Lorde, and Sadock to be the hye xlij.xxi.d.c. preaste. * And Salomon sate on the seate of the Lorde, and was kyng in steade of Dauid his father, & prospered, and all they of Israel obeyed him. And all the Lordes and men of power, and all the sonnes of kynge Dauid submitted them selues, & were vnder kynge xliii.xx.xliii.b. Salomon. * And the Lorde magnified Salomon in dignitye, in the syght of all them of Israel, and gaue him so glorious a kyngdome as no kynge had before him in Israel.

G And so Dauid the sonne of Isay raygned ouer all Israel. And þ space that he raygned ouer Israel, was fourtye yere: seuen yeare raygned he in Hebrō, & xxxiij. yere raygned he in Jerusalē. And he dyed in a good age: full of dayes, ryches and honoure. And Salomō his sonne raygned in his steade. The actes of Dauid þ kynge fyrst and laste, beholde, they are written in the boke of Samuel the sear, and in the boke of Nathan þ prophete, and in þ boke of Gad the sear, wt all his kyngdome and power & tymes, þ wēt ouer him and ouer
all Israel, & ouer all þ kyngdomes of þ erth.

for all the kynges of the hethites, & for the kynges of Syria by their awne handc.

The ſeconde Chapter.

Salomon ſendeth to Hyram the kynge of Tyre
for wodd and worckmen.

AND Salomō determined to buyl-de an houſe for the name of ỹ Lorde, and an houſe for his kyngdome and Salomon tolde out thre ſkore out of Libanon. For I wote that thy ſeruauntes can ſkylle to hewe tymbre in Libanō.

And beholde, my men ſhalbe w̄ thyne, that they maye prepare me tymbre ynough. For C the houſe which I am determyned to builde, ſhalbe wonderfull greate. And beholde, for the vſe of thy ſeruauntes the cutters and he-

from whence thou mayst carye them to Ierusalem. And Salomon nombred all the straungers that were in the lãde of Israel, after the nombre of them whom his father Dauid had nombred. And they were founde an hundred and. liij. thousande and syxe hundred. And he set. lxx. thousande of them to beare burthens, and. lxxx. thousande to hewe stones in ỹ mountayne, and three thousande and syxe hundred officers, to set ỹ people a worke.

¶ The. iij. Chapter.

¶ The temple of the Lorde and the porche are buylded, with other thynges therto belongynge.

A AND Salomon beganne to buylde the house of ỹ Lorde at Ierusalẽ in mount
ii. Par. iii. d Moria * where (the Lorde) appeared vnto Dauid his father: euen in the place that Dauid prepared in the threshynge floure of
* Gen. xxii. c. Ornan ỹ Iebusyte. And * he began to buylde in the seconde daye of the seconde moneth
xi. Re. vi. a. * the fourth yeare of his raygne. And these are the paternes wherby Salomon was instructe to buylde ỹ house of God. The length was three skore cubytes after the olde measure, and the bredthe. xx. cubytes. The porche, ỹ was in bredth as large as the temple, had. xx. cubytes: and the heygth was an hundred & xx. cubytes. And he ouerlayed it on ỹ
B inner syde with pure golde.

And the greater house he syled with fyrre tree, which he ouerlayde with the best gold, and graued therto palmetrees and cheynes. And he ouerlayed the house with precyouse stone bewtyfully. And the golde was golde of Paruaim. The house (I saye) ỹ beames, postes, walles and dores therof, ouerlayed he with gold, and made grauen worke vpon the walles.

And he made ỹ house moost holye, whose length was. xx. cubytes lyke to the bredthe of the house, and the bredthe therof was also. xx. cubytes. And he ouerlayde it wyth good golde, euen with. vj. hundred talentes. And the waight of the nayles of gold was fyftie sycles. And he ouerlayde ỹ vpper chãbres with golde.

¶ * Exo. xxv. b. * And in ỹ house moste holy, he made two Cherubyns of ymage worke, lyke chyldren, and ouerlayde them with gold. And ỹ wynges of the Cherubs were. xx. cubytes longe. The one wynge was fyue cubites, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wynge was lykewyse fyue cubytes, reachynge to ỹ wynge of the other Cherub. And euen so the one wynge of the other Cherub was fyue cubytes, reachynge to the wall of the house, and the other wynge was fyue cubites also, and reached to the wynge of the other Cherub. So that the wynges of the sayde Cherubs were stretched out. xx. cubytes. And they stode on their fete, and loked inwardes. But of the children of Israel dyd Salomon make no bondmẽ for his worke: but they were men of warre and rulers and great Lordes wyth hym, ãd captaynes ouer his charetes and horsemen. And kyng Salomons officers that ouerlawe and ruled the people, were two hundred and fyftye.

¶ And Salomon brought the daughter of Pharao out of the cytie of Dauid, into the house that he had buylded for her. For he sayd: my wyfe shall not dwel in the house of Dauid kyng of Israel, for it is holy, because that the Arcke of the Lorde is come vnto it.

Then Salomon offered burnt offeringes vnto the Lorde, on the aulter of the Lorde which he had buylt before the porche, doyng euery thynge in his due tyme and offerynge accordynge to the commaundement of Moses, in the sabbothes, newmoones, and solempne feastes, * thre tymes in the yeare, that is to saye, in the feast of swete bread, in the feast of weakes, and in the feast of tabernacles.

iii. Reg. xi. a The rest of the actes of kyng Salomon, fyrst and last, are they not writte in the sayenges of Nathan the Prophete, and in the prophesye of Ahiah the Silonite, and in the visions of Jedo the sear of visions, agaynst Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. And Salomon raygned in Jerusalem vpon all Israel fourtye yeares. And Salomon slepte wyth hys fathers, and they buryed hym in the cyte of Dauid his father, and Reboboam his sonne raygned in his steade.

C The. x. Chapter.

C The folysshnesse of Reboboam, and the deuysion of hys realme.

AND * Reboboam went to Sichem: A for to Sichem were all Israell come iii. Regum. xii. a. together, to make hym kynge. And when Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat (which *was fled into Egypte from the presence of iii. Reg. xi. b Salomon the kynge) hearde it, he returned out of Egypt. And they sent āde called hym. And so Jeroboā and all they of Israel came and comoned wyth Reboboam, sayenge: Thy father layed a greuouse pocke vpon vs: nowe therfore remptte thou somewhat of the greuouse seruyce of thy father and of his heuye pocke that he put vpon vs, and we wyll serue the. And he sayde to thē: come agayne vnto me after three dayes. And the people departed.

And kynge Reboboam counsayled wyth B the elders that had stande before Salomon his father, whyle he yet lyued, and he sayde: what councell geue ye me, to answere thys people agayne? And they tolde him, saying: If thou be kynde to thys people, and shewe thy selfe lowely to thē, and speake louynge wordes to thē, they wyll be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the councell whiche the elders gaue him, āde toke councell wyth the youngemen, that were growē vp with hym and that stode in his presence. And he sayde vnto thē: what aduise geue ye, that we may answere thys people, which haue cōmoned wyth me, sayinge: Abate some what of the pocke, which thy father dyd put vpon vs.

And the ponge men that were growen vp C wyth hym, spake vnto hym, sayinge: Thus shalt thou answere the people that spake to the, sayinge: Thy father made oure pocke heuye: but make thou it some what lyghter for vs. Thus shalt thou saye vnto thē, my lytle fynger shalbe heuyer then my fathers, loynes

loynes. * For where my father put a heuye pocke vpon you, I wyll put more to your pock: my father chastysed you wt whyppes,
but I wyll chastyce you with scorpions.
And so Jeroboam & all ꝑ people came to Rehoboam the thyrde daye, as the kynge badde, saying: come agayne to me the thyrd daye. And ꝑ kynge answered them cruelly:
and kyng Rehoboam left ꝑ councell of the aged men, and answered them after ꝑ aduise of ꝑ yonge men, sayinge: Wy father made your pocke greuous, and I wyll adde ther-to: my father chastysed you with whyppes,
but I wyll chastyce you with scorpions.
And so the kynge herkened not vnto ꝑ people: but ꝑ occasion came of God, ꝑ the Lord myght make good his saying, * which he spake, by the hande of Ahia the Silonite, to Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat.

D And when all they of Israel sawe that ꝑ kynge wolde not agree vnto them, ꝑ people answered ꝑ kynge sayinge: what parte have we wt Dauid, or enheritaūce wt the sonne of Jsai? let euery man of Israel go to his tent. * And now Dauid, se to thyne awne house. And so all Israel gat them to their tētes, so ꝑ Rehoboam raygned ouer no moo of ꝑ chyldren of Israel, then dwelt in the cyties of Juda. Then kynge Rehoboam also sente Haduram ꝑ was ruler ouer ꝑ tribute, and ꝑ chyldren of Israel stoned hym wt stones ꝑ he dyed. But kyng Rehoboam made spede to get him vp to his charret, to flye to Jerusalem. And they of Israel rebelled agaynst ꝑ house of Dauid vnto thys daye.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

¶ Rehoboam is forbydden to fyght agaynst Jeroboam. He hath. xviii. wyues, and. lx. concubines, and by them xxviii. sonnes, and. lx. daughters.

A And whā Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, * he gathered of the house of Juda & Beniamin, nyne score thousande chosen men of warre to fight agaynst Jsrael, & to bryngē ꝑ kyngdome agayne to Rehoboam. And the word of the Lorde came to Semeiahu the man of God, saying:
speake vnto Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon kynge of Juda, & to all them of Jsrael that are in Juda & Beniamin, & saye: thus sayeth ꝑ Lorde. Ye shall not go vp nor fight agaynst your brethren: returne euery man to his house, for thys thynge is done of me.
And they obeyed ꝑ wordes of ꝑ Lorde, and returned frō goynge agaynst Jeroboam.

B And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and buylt stroge cyties in Juda. He buylded vp Bethleem, and Etham, and Thekoe: Bethzur, Socho and Adullam: Gath, and Maresa: and Ziph Adurahim, Lachis and Azecha: Zorca Aialon and Hebron, which is in Juda & Beniamin, stronge cyties. And he repayred ꝑ stronge holdes & put captaynes in them, and store of vitayle, & wyne, & oyle.
And in all cyties he put shyldes & speares, and made them exceadynge stronge, haunynge Juda and Beniamin on his syde.

And the prestes and ꝑ leuites that were C in all Jsrael, resorted to hym out of all their coastes. For the leuites lefte their suburbes and their possession, and came to Juda and Jerusalem: * for Jeroboam and his sonnes *ii. pa. xiii. b.
had cast them out from mynystrynge vnto
the Lorde. * And he ordeyned hym prestes *iii. re. xii. g for the hylaultares, for the deuylles and for the calues which he had made. And after ꝑ leuites there went of all ꝑ trybes of Jsrael, soche as submitted their hertes to seke the Lorde God of Jsrael, and came to Jerusalem, to offer vnto the Lorde God of their fathers. And so they strengthed the kyngdome of Juda, and made Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon myghtye thre yeare longe, for thre yere they walked in ꝑ waye of Dauid and Salomon.

And Rehoboam toke hym Mahalath ꝑ D daughter of Jerimoth the sonne of Dauid to wyfe, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab
the sonne of Jsai, which bare hym chyldren Jeus, Samaria, and Zaha. And after her he toke * Maaca ꝑ daughter of Absalon which *iii. re. xv. a bare hym Abia, Atthai, Ziza, & Selomith.
And Rehoboam loued Maacah the daughter of Absalon aboue all his wyues & concubynes, for he toke eyghtene wyues and thre score concubynes, and begat. xxviii. sonnes and. lx. daughters. Ad Rehoboam made Abiah the sonne of Maacah the chefe ruler amonge his brethren, and to haue the ouersyght of the kyngdome. And he played wysely, and scatered all his chyldren thorowe out all the countreyes of Juda and Ben Jamin vnto euery stronge cytie. And he gaue them aboundaunce of vitayle, and obtayned many wyues.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

¶ Sesak kynge of Egypte robbeth the tēple of the Lorde. Rehoboam dyeth, & Abia hys sonne succeadeth hym.

A And it came to passe, that when Rehoboam had stablysshed the kyngdome, and became myghtye, he forsoke the lawe of the Lorde, and all Jsrael with him.

¶ * And

* And it fortuned, that in the fyfte yeare of kynge Rehoboam, Sefac the kyng of Egypte came vp agaynst Jerusalem, because they had transgressed agaynst the Lorde wt xii. C. charettes, and .lx. M. horsmen. And the people were without nombre, that came with hym out of Egypte Lubim, Sukkim, and the blackmores. And they toke the stronge cyties in Juda, and came to Jerusalem.

Then came Semeia ꝑ prophete to Rehoboam & to the Lordes of Juda, that were gathered together within Jerusalem for Sefac, and sayd vnto them: thus sayd the Lord, ye haue left me, & therfore haue I also left you in ꝑ hãdes of Sefac. Wherupon the lordes of Israel and the kynge humbled them selues, and sayde, the Lorde is ryghteous. And whan the Lorde sawe that they submitted them selues, the worde of ꝑ Lorde cam to Semeia, sayinge: They submitte them selues, therfore I wyll not destroye them. But I wyll delyuer them somwhat, and my wrath shall not burne vpon Jerusalem by ꝑ hãde of Sefac. Neuertheles, they shalbe hys seruaũtes, to knowe what difference is betwene my seruice, and the seruice of the kyngdomes of the worlde.

And so Sefac kynge of Egypte came to Jerusalem, and toke awaye the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of ꝑ kynges house: he toke euen all. And he caryed awaye the shyldes of golde, * which Salomon made. In steade of which, kynge Rehoboam made shyldes of brasse, and cõmytted them to the hãdes of the captaynes which had ꝑ ouersyght of the lotemen, and that kept the entraunce of ꝑ kynges house. And it came to passe, that when the kynge entred into the house of the Lorde, the garde came & fet them, and brought them agayne vnto the garde chambre. And when he humbled hym selfe, the wrath of the Lorde turned from hym, that he wolde not destroye all together. And in Juda all was well.

And so kyng Rehoboam waxed myghty & raygned in Jerusalem. And Rehoboam was .xli. yere olde, whẽ he began to raygne, & he raygned .xvii. yeres in Jerusalem, the cytie which the Lorde had chosen out of all the trybes of Israel to put his name there. And hys mothers name was Naama an Ammonitesse. * And he dyd euyll, because he prepared not hys hert to seke the Lorde.

The actes also of Rehoboam, fyrst and last, are they not wrytten in ꝑ sayinges of Semeia the prophete, and of Iddo the sear which noted the genealogie? and there was warre alwaye betwene Rehoboam & Jeroboam. And Rehoboam slept wt his fathers, and was buryed in the cytie of Dauid, and Abia his sonne raygned in his steade.

The .xiii. Chapter.

The victory of Abia agaynst Jeroboam.

In the .xviii. yere of kynge Jeroboã * began Abia to raygne ouer Juda, & he raygned thre yere i Jerusalẽ. His mothers name also was Michaiahu the daughter of Uriel of Gibea. And there was warre betwene Abia & Jeroboam. And Abia made prouisyon for ꝑ warre, hauyng valeãt & expert men of warre, euen .iiii. C. M. chosen men. And Jeroboã set him selfe in araye to fyght agaynst hym, wt .viii. C. M. picte men which were stronge & men of armes.

And Abia stode vp vpõ zemaraim an hill which is in mount Ephraim, & sayd: heare me ꝑ Jeroboam and all Israel. Wo not you knowe, howe ꝑ the Lorde God of Israel gaue ꝑ kyngdome, ouer them of Israel, to Dauid for euer, euen to hym and to hys sonnes ☞ with a salted couenaũt? And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat ꝑ seruaunt of Salomon the sonne of Dauid is rysen vp, & hath rebelled agaynst his lorde. And ther gathered to hym lewde men ꝑ chyldre of Belial, & preuayled agaynst Rehoboam ꝑ sonne of Salomon: when Rehoboam was yong & tẽder hearted, & coulde not stande before them.

And nowe ye saye, ꝑ ye be able to preuayle agaynst ꝑ kyngdome of the Lorde, which is in ꝑ hande of the sonnes of Dauid, & ye be a greate multitude, & haue the golden calues * which Jeroboam made you for gods. And * haue ye not cast out the prestes of the Lorde the sonnes of Aaron, and the leuites, and haue made you prestes after the maner of the nacyõs of other lãdes? so that whosoeuer commeth, & consecrateth his hãde with a yõge ore & seuen rammes, the same maye be a preste of them that are no gods.

But we belonge vnto the Lord our God whom we haue not forsaken, and ꝑ prestes are ꝑ sonnes of Aaron, which ministre vnto the Lorde, and ꝑ leuites wayte vpon theyr office. They burne vnto ꝑ Lorde euery morynge & euenynge, burnt sacrifyces & swete incẽse: ꝑ shewe breed set they in order vpon a pure table: & prepare ꝑ candelstick of gold wt the lãpes of ꝑ same to burne euer at euen. And truly we kepe the watche of the Lorde oure God: but ye haue forsakẽ him. And behold, God hym selfe is our captayne, & hys prestes blowe wt the * trõpettes, & crye alarum agaynst you. O ye chyldren of Israel, fyght not agaynst the Lord God of your fathers: for it wyll not prospere with you.

But for all ꝑ, Jeroboã cõmayed men preuely about, to come behynde them: & so they were before Juda, & ꝑ layers in wayte were behynde the. And when they of Juda loked about, behold the battayll was before & behynde, & they cryed vnto ꝑ Lord & ꝑ prestes blewe wt ꝑ trõpetes, & ꝑ men of Juda gaue a showte

D showte. And as the men of Juda showted, it came to passe, that God smote Jeroboā and all Israel before Abia and Juda. And ỹ children of Israel fled before Juda, and God deliuered them into theyr hande. And Abia & hys people slue a great slaughter of thē: there fell downe wounded of Israel. v.C. M. chosen men. And so the chyldren of Israel were brought vnder, at that tyme, and the chyldrē of Juda preuayled: because they leaned vnto the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And Abia folowed after Jeroboā, and toke cities from hym, Bethel w̄ the townes belongyng therto, Jesana with the townes that lōged therto, and Ephron with her townes. And Jeroboā recouered no strength agayne in ỹ daies of Abia. And ỹ Lorde plaged him, & he dyed.

But Abia waxed mightye, and maryed xiiij. wyues, and begat. xxij. sonnes, and. xvj. daughters. The rest of the actes of Abia, his customes and hys sayinges are wrytten in the storye of the prophete Iddo.

¶ The. xiiij. Chapter.

¶ Of Asa kyng of Juda.

A SO Abia slepte w̄ hys fathers, and they buryed hym in ỹ cytie of Dauid, and * Asa hys sonne raygned in hys steade. In whose dayes the lande was in quyetnes ten yere.

* Math. i. b.

And * Asa dyd that was good & right in the eyes of the Lorde hys God: for he toke awaye straunge aultars and the hyllaultars, and brake downe the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and commaunded Juda to seke the Lorde God of their fathers, and to do accordynge to the lawe and cōmaundement. And he put awaye out all the cyties of Juda the hylaultars and the ymages: and ỹ kyngdome was quyet before hym. And he buylte stronge cities in Juda: because the land was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeares. For the Lorde had geuen hym rest.

* Deut. xv. a

B Therfore he sayde to Juda: let vs buyld these cityes, and make about them walles, towres, gates and barres, for the lāde is yet in rest before vs, because we haue sought the Lorde oure God: we haue sought hym, and he hath geuen vs rest on euery side: & so they buylt and it prospered with them. And Asa had an armye of men that bare shyldes and speares, out of Juda, thre hundred thousand: and out of Beniamin that bare shyldes and drue bowes, two hūdred & foure skore thousande, all these were valeaunt men.

C And there came out agaynst them Zarah the blacke mozian * with an hoost of ten hondred thousande, and thre hōdred charrettes, and came as farre as Maresa. And Asa wēt out before him, and they ioyned the battayll in the valey of Zephata beside Maresa. And Asa cryed vnto the Lorde hys God, & sayde: Lorde, * it is no harde thige with ỹ to helpe ether many, or thē that haue no power: helpe vs therfore, O Lorde our God, for we trust to the, and in thy name we go agaynst thys multytude. Thou arte the Lorde oure God, and no man shall preuayle agaynst the.

So the Lorde smote the blacke mozes before Asa and Juda, & the blacke mozes fled. And Asa and the people that was with him, folowed after them vnto Gerar. And the blacke mozes hoost was ouerthrowen, that there was none of them lefte, but were destroyed before the Lorde and before his hoost. And they caryed awaye a myghtye greate praye. And they smote all the cyties rounde about Gerar. For the feare of ỹ Lorde came vpon them. And they spoyled all the cyties and there was exceadynge moche spoyle in them. They smote also the tentes of catell, & caryed awaye plentye of shepe and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

¶ Kyng Asa by the monycyon of the prophete Azaria sacrifyceth to the Lord. He depriueth his mother of her dompnyon.

A AND the spyrete of God came on Azaria the sonne of Oded. And he wēt out to mete Asa, & sayde vnto him: heare me Asa, and all Juda, and Beniamin. The Lorde is with you, whyle ye be with hym, and when ye seke hym, he wyll be founde of you: and agayne, when ye forsake hym, he also wyll forsake you. And truly, for a longe season in Israel no mā sought the true God, no man regarded ỹ preste that taught them, no mā cared for the lawe. And when any man in hys trouble dyd turne vnto the Lorde God of Israel, and sought him, he was founde of them. And in that time there was no peace to hym, that dyd goo out and in: but greate sedicyon was there amonge all the inhabiters of the earth. And nacyon was destroyed of nacyon, and cytie of cytie: for God dyd moue all aduersitye amonge them. Playe ye therfore the men, and let not youre handes slacke, for youre worke shalbe rewarded.

B And when Asa hearde those wordes, and the prophesye of Azaria the sonne of Oded ỹ prophete, he toke courage, & put awaye the abhominable ydols out of all ỹ lande of Juda and Beniamin, & out of the cityes which he wāne in mount Ephraim, and renned the aultar of the Lorde, that was before ỹ porch of the Lorde. And he gathered all Juda and Beniamin, and the straungers with thē out of Ephraim, Manasse, & Simeon. For there fell many to hym out of Israel, when they sawe that the Lorde hys God was w̄ hym. So they assembled at Jerusalem the thyrde monethe, the fyftenth yeare of the raygne of Asa. And they offered vnto the Lord ỹ same tyme of the spoyle which they had brought vij. C. oxen, and. vij. thousande shepe.

And they made a couenaunt to seke the Lorde God of theyr fathers, with all theyr hert & all theyr soule. And whosoeuer wolde not seke the Lorde God of Israel, shulde dye for it: whether he were small or great. mā or woman. And they sware vnto the Lorde with a loude voyce, showtynge & blowyng wyth tröpettes and shawmes. And all they in Juda reioyced at ỹ oth, for they had swore vnto the Lorde, with all theyr herte, and soughte hym with all theyr lust, and he was founde of them. And the Lorde gaue thē rest rounde about on euery syde.

And kinge Asa put Maacha his mother out of auctorite, because she had made an abhominable ydoll (of Priapus) in a groue: and Asa brake downe her ydoll, and stāped it, & burnt it at the broke Cedron. But all ỹ hyl-aulters were not take awaye out of Israel: though the hert of Asa was perfecte all hys dayes. And he brought into ỹ house of God the thynges that hys father had dedicat, and that he hym selfe had dedicate: euen syluer, & golde, and Jewelles. And ther was no more warre vnto the * xxxv. yere of the rayngne of Asa.

* Jud. iii. d

¶ The. xvj. Chapter.

¶ Asa, for feare of Baasa kyng of Israel, maketh a couenaunt with Benhadad kynge of Syria.

In the. xxxvi. yere of the rayngne of Asa, came * Baasa kyng of Israel vp agaynst Juda, and buylt Rama, to the entent that he wolde let none passe out or in (to) to Asa kynge of Juda. And Asa fet out golde and syluer, out of the treasures of ỹ house of the Lorde, & of the kynges house, & sent to Benhadad kyng of Syria ỹ dwelt at Darmeser, and sayd: There is a confederacion betwene me & the, betwene my father & thine. Beholde, I haue sent the syluer and golde, that thou wylt come and breake thyne appoyntment wt Baasa kynge of Israel, that he maye departe frō me. And Benhadad graunted vnto kynge Asa, and sent to the captaynes of hys armye to the cityes of Israel. And they smote Jion, Dā, and Abelmain, and the strong cyties of Nephthali. And when Baasa hearde this, he left buyldynge of Rama, and let his worcke ceasse. And then Asa the kyng toke all Juda, and caryed awaye the stones and tymbre of Rama, wherwith Baasa was a buyldyng, and he buylt therwith Geba and Mizpa.

* 3 reg. xv. c

¶ At that same tyme, Hanani the seer came to Asa kyng of Juda, & sayde vnto hym: because thou hast trusted in the kyng of Syria, and not rather put thy trust in the Lorde thy God, therfore is the host of the kynge of Syria escaped out of thyne hāde. * had not the blacke mores and Lubim an exceadinge great hoost with many charettes and horsemen? And yet because thou trustedest in the Lorde, he delyuered them into thyne hande. For the eyes of ỹ Lorde behelde all the erth, to strengthē them that are of perfecte hert towarde him. * Herin thou hast done folyshly, and therfore from henceforth thou shalt haue warre. And Asa was wroth with the seer, & put him into a prison house, for he was displeased with hym because of thys thynge. And Asa destroyed certayne of the people the same season.

* 2 Par. xvi. c
* 1 Reg. xvi. c

And beholde, these dedes of Asa, fyrst, & last, are wrytten in the boke of the kinges of Juda and Israel. And Asa in the. xxxix. yere of hys raygne fell sycke in hys fete, and that hys disease contynued very longe. And * in hys sycknes he sought not the Lord, but phisitions. And Asa slept with his fathers, and dyed in the. xli. yere of hys raygne. And they buryed hym in his awne sepulchre, which he had made for hym selfe in the cytye of Dauid, and layed hym in the bed which he had fylled with dyuerse kyndes of spices & swete odours, made by the craft of the potecaryes. And they burnt very moch spyce about him.

* 2 Par. xvi. c

¶ The. xvij. Chapter.

¶ Iehosaphat causeth the feare of the Lorde to be renued amonge the people.

And * Iehosaphat his sōne raygned in hys steade, & preuayled agaynst Israel. And he put souldyers in all the stronge cityes of Juda, and sett rulers in the lande of Juda and in the cityes of Ephrai, which Asa his father had wōne. And the Lorde was with Iehosaphat, because he walked in the olde wayes of his father Dauid, and sought not Baalim. But sought the Lorde God of hys father, & walked in hys commaundmentes: and not after the doynges of Israel. And the Lord stablished the kyngdome in his hande, and all they that were in Juda, brought hym presentes, so that he had aboundance of riches and honoure. And he lyft vp his hert vnto ỹ wayes of the Lorde, and he putt downe yet more of the hylaultars and groues out of Juda.

* 3 Reg. xxii. d

In the thyrde yere of hys raygne he sent to hys lordes, euen to Benhail, Obadia, Zacharia, Nethanel and to Michaahu, ỹ they shulde teach in the cityes of Juda, and with them he sent leuites: euen Semeiahu, Nethaniahu, Zabadiahu, Asahel, Semiramoth, & Tubadonia, and with them Elisamah and Iehoram prestes. And they taught in Juda, and had the boke of the lawe of God wt thē, and went about thorowout all the cityes of Juda, and taught the people.

And the feare of the Lorde fell vpon all ỹ kyngdomes of the landes that were rounde about Juda, & they fought not agaynst Iehosaphat. And some of ỹ philistines brought Iehosaphat gyftes, and tribute syluer. And therto therto the Arabians brought him catell: euē vij. C. and. vij. C. rammes, and. vij. C. and vij. C. hegoates. And so Iehosaphat prospered & grue vp on hye. And he buylt in Juda, castels and stronge cityes: & he had great substaunce in the cities of Juda, but the men of armes & strōgest soudiers were i Jerusalē.

And these are the offyces of thē in the houses of their fathers, the captaines ouer thousandes in Juda. Adna the captayne, & with hym of rightynge men. iij. C. M. And next to hys hande was Iehohanan a captayne, and with hym. ij. C. and. lxxx. M. And nexte him was Amazia the sōne of zichri, which of his awne good wil offred him selfe vnto ꝑ Lord, and wt hym. ij. C. M. myghty men of warre. And of the chyldren of Beniamin, Eliada a man of myght, and had with hym armed mē with bowe & shylde. ij. C. M. And nexte hym was Iehosabad, and with hym an. C. and lxxx. M. that were prepared for the warre. These wayted on the kynge, besydes those which the kinge put in the strōge cityes throwout all Juda.

¶ The. xviij. Chapter.

¶ After Ahab had asked councell of the foure hundred prophetes, he put Michea in prison. He dyeth with the shott of an arowe.

AND Iehosaphat had aboundance of rychesse and honoure, and ioyned affinyte wt Ahab. And * after certayne yeres he wēt downe to Ahab to Samaria. And Ahab slue many shepe & oxen for hym, and for the people that he had with hym, and entreated him to go vp with hym vnto Ramoth in Gilead. And Ahab kynge of Israel sayde to Iehosaphat kynge of Juda: wylt thou go with me to Ramoth in Gilead? And he answered hym: I wyll be as ꝑ, and my people shalbe as thyne, and we wyll go with the to the warre.

And Iehosaphat sayd vnto the kynge of Israel: aske councell I praye ꝑ, at the worde of the Lorde, thys same daye. Therfore the kyng of Israel gathered together of prophetes. iiij. C. men, and sayde vnto thē: shall we go to Ramoth in Gilead to fyght, or shulde I cease? And they sayde: go vp, & God shall delyuer it into the kinges hāde. But Iehosaphat sayde: is there yet here neuer a prophete more of the Lordes, ꝑ we might aske of him? And the kinge of Israel sayde vnto Iehosaphat: there is yet one man, by whō we maye aske the Lorde. But I hate him: for he neuer prophecyeth me good, but alwaye euell, and the same is Michea the sonne of Jimla. And Iehosaphat sayd: let not the kynge saye so.

And the kinge of Israell called one of his chāberlaynes, and sayde: feteh hether quyckly Michea the sonne of Jimla. And ꝑ kynge of Israel and Iehosaphat kyng of Juda sate ether of thē on his state in their apparell, in a thresshing floure beside ꝑ gate of Samaria, and all the prophetes prophesyed before thē. And one zedekia the sonne of Chanana had made hym hornes of yron, & sayd: thus sayth the Lorde: with these shalt ꝑ ouerthrowe Syria, vntyll they be brought to naught. And all the prophetes prophesyed euē so, sayinge: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and it shall prospere with the: for the Lord shall delyuer it into the hande of the kynge.

And the messenger ꝑ wēt to call Michea, spake to him, saying: beholde, the wordes of the prophetes speake good to the kyng with one assent, lett thy wordes therfore be lyke one of theirs, that thou speake that which is pleasaunt. And Michea sayd: as truly as the Lorde liueth: euen what my God sayth, that wyll I speake. And whā he was come to the kynge, the kynge sayde vnto hym: Michea, shuld we go to Ramoth in Gilead to fight, or leaue of? And he sayde: go vp, & all shalbe well: & they shalbe delyuered into your hāde. And the kyng sayde to him: So & so many tymes do I charge the, ꝑ thou saye not but ꝑ trueth to me, in the name of the Lorde.

Then he sayde: I dyd se all thē of Israel scatered in the mountaynes, as shepe ꝑ haue no shepherde. And the Lord sayde: these haue no master, let them returne euery mā therfore to hys house in peace. And the kynge of Israel sayd to Iehosaphat: dyd I not tell the, ꝑ he wold not ꝓphecy good vnto me: but euell?

But he sayde agayne: therfore heare ye ꝑ worde of the Lorde. * I sawe the Lorde sytte vpon his seate, & all the company of heauen stode on hys ryght hande & on hys lefte. And ꝑ Lorde sayde: who shall deceaue Ahab king of Israel, ꝑ he maye go vp & be ouerthrowen at Ramoth in Gilead? And he sayde: one sayth this, another that. And there came out a spyrite, & stode before the Lorde, & sayde: I wyll deceaue him. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: Wherin? And he sayd: I will go out, & be a lyinge spyrite in ꝑ mouth of all his prophetes. And the Lorde sayde: ꝑ shalt deceaue him, and shalt preuayle: go out, and do euen so. And now therfore beholde, * ꝑ Lord hath put a lyinge spyrite in the mouthes of all these thy prophetes, & the Lorde hath spoken euell agaynst the. And zedekia the sonne of Chanana went to, & smote Michea vpon ꝑ cheke, & sayde: by what waye went the spyrite of the Lorde frō me, to speake wt the? And Michea sayde: thou shalt se the daye when thou shalt go in from chābre to chābre, for to hyde thy selfe. And the kinge of Israel sayde: take ye Michea, and bryngе hym to Amon ꝑ gouerner of the citye, & to Joas the kinges sonne, & ye shall saye: thus sayth the kynge: putt thys felowe in the prison house, & fede hym wt breed of affliction & water of trouble vntill I come agayne in peace. And Michea sayde: yf ꝑ come agayne in peace, then hath not the Lorde spoken to me. And he sayde: herken to, ye people euery one of you. And so the kinge of Israel and Jehosaphat the kinge of Juda went vp to Ramoth in Gilead. And ꝑ kyng of Israel sayde vnto Jehosaphat: I muste chaunge me, when I go to the battayll: but se that thou haue thyne awne apparell vpon the. And the kynge of Israel chaunged hym

G selfe, and they came to battayll. But ꝑ kyng of Syria had commaunded the captaynes of the charrettes that were with him, sayinge: se that ye fight not agaynst small or greate, saue agaynst the kynge of Israel onely.

And when the captaynes of the charettes sawe Jehosaphat, they sayde: it is the kynge of Israel, and therfore they compassed about hym to fyght. But Jehosaphat cryed out, & the Lorde helped him, and God chased them awaye from hym. For it came to passe that when the captaynes of the charretes perceaued that it was not the kyng of Israel, they turned backe agayne frō him. And a certayn mā drewe a bowe with all hys myght, and smote the kyng of Israel betwene ꝑ ioyntes of his habergyn. And he sayd to hys charretman: turne thyne hande, ꝑ thou mayest carye me out of the hoost: for I am wounded. And the battayll ceassed that daye. Howbeit the king of Israel caused his charet to stond still agaynst the Syriās vntyll euen. And about the tyme of the sunne going downe, he dyed.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ After Jehosaphat was rebuked by the prophet Jehu, he called agayne the people to the honoure of the Lorde God.

A And Jehosaphat the kynge of Juda came home agayne in peace to Jerusalē. And Jehu the sonne of Hanani the sear weṫ out to mete hym, and sayde to kynge Jehosaphat: Wouldest ꝑ helpe the vngodly, and loue them ꝑ hate the Lorde? And he set iudges in the lāde throwout all the strong cityes of Juda, citye by cityes: & sayde to the iudges: take hede what ye do, for ye execute not the iudgmētes of mā, but of God, which is wt you in the iudgement. Wherfore nowe, let the feare of ꝑ Lorde be vpō you, and take hede, & be doyng the thynge ꝑ pleaseth hym. For ther is no vnryghteweines wt the Lord Moreouer, in Jerusalē dyd Jehosaphat set of the leuites, and of the prestes and of the auncient fathers ouer Israel, in ꝑ iudgement & cause of ꝑ Lord. And they returned agayne to Jerusalem. And he charged them saying: Thus shall ye do in the feare of the Lorde, wt the trueth & a pure herte: What cause soeuer come to you of your brethren ꝑ dwell in their cyties, betwene bloud & bloud, betwene law and cōmaūdment, betwene statutes & ordynaūces, ye shall warne them, ꝑ they trespace D not agaynst the Lorde, & so wrath come vpō you & on youre brethren. Thus do, & ye shall not offende. And behold, Amaria ꝑ hye prest is amonge you in all matters of the Lord, & ze badia the sonne of Ismael, a ruler of the house of Juda, he is ouer soch busynesses as cōcerne the kyng: there be offycers of the leuites also before you. Take courage to you therfore, and be doynge manfully: and the Lorde shalbe with soche as be good.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

¶ The meruelouse victory that the Lord gaue Jehosaphat kynge of Juda agaynst the Moabites, and the chyldren of Ammon, and them of Seir.

A After thys also, it fortuned ꝑ the chyl- A dren of Moab and the chyldrē of Ammon, and wt them other of the Ammonites came agaynst Jehosaphat to battayll. And there came some that tolde Jehosaphat sayinge: there cōmeth a greate multitude agaynst the frō the other syde of the see, & out of Syria. And behold, they be in Hasason Thamar, which is Engadi. And Jehosaphat feared, and set him selfe to seke ꝑ Lord, and proclaymed fastyng throwout all Juda. And they ꝑ were in Juda, gathered them selues together, to aske councell of the Lord. And they came out of all the cityes of Juda, to make intercessyon to the Lorde. And Jehosaphat stode betwene the congregacion of B Juda and Jerusalē in the house of the Lorde before the newe courte, and sayde: O Lorde God of our fathers, art not thou God in heuen, and raygnest not thou on all the kyngdomes of the Hethen? And in thyne hande is power and myght, and there is no man that is able to withstande the. Art not thou oure God, which dydest cast out the inhabiters of thys lande before thy people Israel, and gauest it to the seede of Abraham thy louer for euer? And they dwelt therin, and haue buylt the a tēple therin for thy name, sayinge: * Yf * ii. par. vi. euell come vpon vs, as the swerde of iudgement, pestilence or hongre: then, yf we stand before this house in thy presence, for thy name is in thys house, and crye vnto the in our tribulacyon, he are thou, and helpe.

And nowe behold, the chyldrē of Ammō, and Moab, & moūt Seir, by whō ꝑ woldest not let thē of Israel go, when they came out C of the lande of Egipte: but they departed frō them, & destroyed thē not. Se, howe they rewarde vs, to come for to cast vs out of thy possessyon, which ꝑ hast geuen vs to inheret. O our God, wylt thou not iudge thē: for we haue haue no myght agaynst thys great cõpanye that commeth agaynst vs. Nether wote we what to do: but oure eyes be vnto the.

And all Juda stode before the Lorde w̃ their yongeones, theyr wyues & theyr chyldren: & ther was Jehaziel the sonne of zacharia the sonne of Banaia ꝑ sonne of Jeiel the sonne of Mathania, a leuite of the sonnes of Asaph, and vpon hym came the spyrete of the Lorde, euẽ in the myddes of the cõgregacion. And he sayde: herken all Juda, and ye enhabiters of Jerusalẽ, & thou king Iehosaphat: Thus sayth ꝑ Lord vnto you: be not afrayd nor sayntе herted by reason of thys greate multitude: for ꝑ battayll is not youres: but
D Gods. To morow go ye downe agaynst thẽ: for they come vp at zis, & ye shall finde them at the ende of the broke before the wildernes of Jeruel. Ye shall not nede to fyght in thys battayll: but steppe forth & stãde, & beholde ꝑ helpe of the Lorde which is with you: feare not, nor let youre hertes fayle you, O ye of Juda and of Jerusalem. To morowe go out agaynst thẽ: for the Lorde wylbe with you.

And Iehosaphat bowed hys face to the erth, and all Juda and the enhabiters of Jerusalem fell before the Lorde worshippynge the Lorde. And the leuites of the chyldren of the Cahathites and of the childre of the Corahites stode vp, to prayse the Lorde God of Israel with a loude voyce on hye. And whã they arose earlye in the mornynge, they gat them out vnto the wyldernesse of Thekoa.
E And as they wẽt out, Iehosaphat stode and sayde: heare me, O Juda, & ye enhabiters of Jerusalem. Put your trust in the Lord your God, that ye maye be fou̇nde faythfull. Geue credence to hys prophetes, & so shall ye prospere. And he gaue the people councell, and set some to syng vnto the Lord, & to prayse him in the bewtye of holynes, & to go out before the army, as they went, and to saye: prayse ꝑ Lorde for hys mercy lasteth euer. And what tyme as they begãne to laude & prayse, then the Lorde stered vp certayne of the chyldren of Ammon and Moab, which layed wayte for thẽ that were of mou̇t Seir: which were come agaynst Juda. And they were ouerthrowen with strokes amonge them selues.
* ii.par.xx For the chyldren of Ammon and Moab rose against ꝑ enhabiters of mount Seir. And they slewe and destroyed them. And whan they had made an ende of the enhabiters of Seir, euery one helped to destroye another amonge them selues.

And whẽ Juda came to the edge of ꝑ wildernes, they loked vnto the multitude. And F beholde, they were deed carcasses fallẽ to the erth, & none escaped. And whan Iehosaphat and hys people came to take a waye ꝑ spoyle of thẽ, they founde amonge thẽ aboundaũce of goodes, rayment and pleasaunt Jewels, which they toke for thẽ selues, more thẽ they could cary a waye: so ꝑ they were thre dayes in gatherynge of the spoyle, it was so moch. And the fourth daie they assembled in ꝑ valley of blessinge: for there they blessed ꝑ Lord: And therfore they called the name of ꝑ same place, the valeye of blessyng vnto thys daye. And so all the men of Juda & Jerusalem returned with Iehosaphat theyr heade, for to go againe to Jerusalẽ with gladnesse: for the Lorde had made them to reioyse ouer theyr enemyes. And they came to Jerusalem with psalteryes and harpes, & shawmes, euẽ vnto the house of the Lorde. And the feare of God fell in the kyngdomes of all lãdes, whã they had heard that the Lorde fought agaynst ꝑ enemyes of Israel. And so the realme of Iehosaphat was in tranquyllite: and hys God gaue hym rest on euery syde.

And he walked in the waye of Asa his father, & bowed not therfrõ, doynge that which was ryght in the syght of the Lorde. Howbeit the hylaultars were nott taken awaye, for the people had not yet prepared theyr hertes vnto the God of theyr fathers. The rest of ꝑ actes of Iehosaphat first & last beholde, they are wrytten amõge the sayinges of Jehu the sonne of Hanani, which noted thẽ in the boke of the kynges of Israel.

After this dyd Iehosaphat kyng of Juda ioyne him selfe w̃ Ahaziahu kinge of Israel, whose mynde was to do wyckedly. He coupled hym selfe with hym, to make shippes to go to tharsis, And they made the shyppes in Ezion Gaber. And Elieser ꝑ sonne of Dodanah of Maresa prophesyed agaynst Iehosaphat, sayinge: because thou hast ioyned thy selfe with Ahaziahu, the Lorde hath broken thy worckes. And the shippes were broken, ꝑ they were not able to go to Tharsis.

the lozdes of Israel. * Jehozam was .xxxij. yere olde whā he beganne to raygne, and he raygned eight yere in Jerusalē. And he walked in the waye of the kinges of Israel, lyke as dyd the house of Ahab, foz he had the daughter of Ahab to wyfe, & he wzought euell in the eyes of the Lozde. Howbeit, the Lozd wolde nott destroye the house of Dauid, because of the * couenaunt that he had made with Dauid, as he promysed to gyue a light to hym and to hys sonnes foz euer.

* In hys dayes the Edomites rebelled, whā they were vnder the dominyon of Juda, and made thē selues a kinge. And Jehozā wēt fozth w̄ his lozdes, and all hys charettes were w̄ hym: & he rose vp by nyght, & smote ꝑ Edomites, which cōpased him in, & the captaynes of ꝑ charettes. But Edom rebelled styll, so ꝑ they wolde not be vnder the hande of Juda vnto this daye. That same time also dyd Libna departe from beyng vnder his hande, because Jehozā had forsaken ꝑ Lozde God of his fathers. Moreouer, he made hylaulters in the cyties of Juda, and caused the enhabiters of Jerusalem to cōmyt fozneycyon, and prouoked Juda to Idolatrye.

And there came a wrytynge to him from Elia ꝑ prophete, saying: Thus sayth ꝑ Lozd God of Dauid thy father: because ꝑ hast not walked in the wayes of Jehosaphat thy father, & in the wayes of Asa kynge of Juda, but walkedst in the wayes of the kynges of Israel, & hast made Juda & the dwellers of Jerusalem to go a whozing, lyke to ꝑ whozdome of the house of Ahab, & hast slayne thy brethren, euē thy fathers house, which were better then thou: beholde, w̄ a greate plage wyll the Lozde smyte thy folke, thy childrē, thy wyues, and thy goodes. And thou shalt suffre great payne: euē a dysease of thy bowelles, vntyll thy guttes fall out by reason of thy sycknes, daye by daye.

And so the Lozde stered vp agaynst Jehozā the spzete of the Philistines, & the Arabians ꝑ were beside the blacke mozes. And they came vp into Juda, and wasted it, and caryed away all the substaūce ꝑ was found in the kynges house, and hys sonnes, and his wyues: so that there was neuer a sonne lefte him saue Jehohahaz which was the yongest amōge hys sonnes. And after all these thynges, the Lozde smote him in his bowelles w̄ an incurable disease. And it came to passe, ꝑ in pzocesse of tyme, euen after ꝑ ende of two yeres, hys guttes fell out in his sycknes: and so he dyed of very euell diseases. And they made not burnynge foz him lyke the burnyng of hys fathers. Whē he begāne to raygne, he was .xxij. yeare olde, and raygned in Jerusalē .viij. yere, & lyued wzetchedly: howbeit they buryed hym in the citye of Dauid: but not among ꝑ sepulchres of the kynges.

¶ The .xxij. Chapter.

¶ Ahaziahu raygneth in the rowme of Jehozam. Jehu kynge of Israel kylleth Ahaziahu. Athalia putteth to deeth all ꝑ kynges synage, only Joas escaped.

AND * the enhabiters of Jerusalem made Ahaziahu hys yonge sonne kinge in hys steade. Foz the men of warre * that came with the host of the Arabians, had slayne all hys eldest sonnes. And so Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehozam kynge of Juda, was made kynge. Two and fourtye yere olde was he, whā he began to raygne, and he raygned one yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Athaliahu ꝑ daughter of Amri. And he walked also in the wayes of the house of Ahab, foz hys mother (by her councell) entysed him to do wyckedly. Wherfoze he dyd that which was euell in the syght of the Lozde, as dyd they that were of ꝑ house of Ahab: foz they were hys cōsselers after the deeth of his father, to his destruccyon. And he walked after theyr councell, and went with Jehozam sonne of Ahab king of Israel, to fight agaynst Hazael king of Siria at Ramoth in Gilead: and the Siriās smote Jozā. And he returned to be healed in Jezrel, of the woūdes which were genen him at Rama, when he fought w̄ Hazael kyng of Siria. And Ahaziahu the sōne of Jehozam kynge of Juda went downe to se Jehozā the sonne of Ahab at Jezrel, because he was diseased. And it cam of God, ꝑ Ahaziahu shulde be despysed foz hys commynge to Jehozā: foz whā he was come, he wēt out with Jehozā agaynst Jehu the sonne of Nimsi, * whom the Lozde had anoynted to destroye the house of Ahab.

And so it came to passe ꝑ whā Jehu was executynge iustice vpon the house of Ahab, & had foūde the lozdes of Juda and the sonnes of the bzethzen of Ahaziahu that wayted on Ahaziahu, he slue thē. * And he sought Ahaziahu, and they caught hym where he was hyd in Samaria, and bzought him to Jehu. And when they had slayne hym, they buried hym: because (sayde they) he is the sonne of Jehosaphat, which sought the Lozd with all hys hert. And the house of Ahaziahu had no power to kepe styll the kyngdome.

* But when Athaliahu the mother of Ahaziahu sawe ꝑ her sonne was deed, she arose and destroyed all the kynges seed in the kynred of ꝑ house of Juda. And Jehosabeth the daughter of ꝑ kinge toke Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, & stale hym frō amonge ꝑ kynges sonnes ꝑ were slayne, and putt hym and hys nource in a pzeupe chambze. And so Jehosabeath the daughter of kinge Jehozā the wyfe of Jehoiada the pzest, and the syster of Ahaziahu hyd hym from Athaliahu that he was not slayne. And so he was w̄ them hyd in the house of God syxe yere. And Athaliahu raygned ouer the lande.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu is made kynge. Athaliahu is put to deeth.

AND * in the seuenth yere Jehoiada beynge bolde, toke the captaynes of hundredes, Azariahu the sonne of Jeroham, and Ismael the sonne of Jehohanam, Azariahu the sonne of Obed, Maasiahu the sonne of Adaiahu, and Elisaphat the sonne of zichri, and made a bonde with them. And they went aboute in Juda, and gathered the Leuites out of all the cyties of Juda and the auncyent fathers of Israel: and they came to Jerusalem. And all the congregacyon made a bonde with the kynge in the house of God. And he sayd vnto them: beholde, the kynges sonne must raygne, * as the Lorde hath sayde of the chyldren of Dauid.

This is it therfore that ye shall do: The thyrde parte of you shall (on the Sabbath) come to the preastes, Leuites, and kepers of the porches. And another thyrde parte shalbe by ꝑ kynges house, and another thyrde parte shalbe at the gate of the foundacyon, and all the people shalbe in the * courtes of the house of the Lorde. But ther shall none come into the house of the Lorde, saue the preastes & they that ministre vnto the Leuites. They shall go in, for they are holy: but all the people shall kepe the watch of the Lord. And the Leuites shall cõpase the kynge rounde about and euery man shall haue hys wepon in hys hãde: and what other man soeuer doth come into the house of the Lorde, he shall be slayne: and let them be with the kynge, whan he cõmeth in, and whan he goeth out.

And the Leuites and all Juda dyd accordynge to all thynges ꝑ Jehoiada the preaste had cõmaunded, & toke euery man hys men, ꝑ came in on the Sabboth, wt thẽ ꝑ went out on the Sabboth daye: nether did Jehoiada ꝑ preast let the cõpanies departe. And Jehoiada ꝑ preast deliuered to the captaynes of hũdredes, speares, shyldes, and boukelars, that had pertayned to kynge Dauid, and were in ꝑ house of God. And he set all the people euery mã hauyng his wepõ in his hande, frõ the ryght syde of the tẽple, to the left syde of the temple, alonge by the aulter and the temple, rounde aboute the kynge. And they brought out the kynges sonne, and put vpon him the crowne, and ☞ * the testimone, (and they gaue hym in hys hande, the lawe that was to be kepte) and made him kynge. And Jehoiada & his sonnes annoynted him, & sayde: God saue the kynge.

When Athaliahu heard the noyse of the people, runninge & praylinge the kynge, she came to ꝑ people into the house of the Lorde. And she loked, and beholde, the kynge stode in his place at the enterynge in, & the Lordes and the trompettes were by the kynge, & all the people of the lande reioyced, blowinge wt trompettes, & dyd playe with instrumentes of musycke, & taught to synge & prayse. But Athaliahu rent her clothes, and sayed: treason, treason. And Jehoiada the preaste went out to the captaynes of hũdredes that were gouerners of the holke, & sayde vnto thẽ: haue her out without the doore of the temple: and whoso foloweth her, let hym be slayne with the swerde. For ꝑ preaste sayde ꝑ they shulde not slay her in the house of ꝑ Lorde. And they layde handes on her, tyll she was come to the entrynge of the horsgate besyde the kynges house and there they slue her.

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene hym and all the people and the kynge, that they shulde be the Lordes people. And all the people wẽt to the house of Baal, & destroyed it, and brake hys aulters and his ymages, & slue Mathan the preaste of Baal before the aulters. And Jehoiada put the offyces for the house of the Lord vnder the hãde of the preastes and Leuites, * as Dauid had distrybuted them in the house of the Lorde, to offer burnt offerynges vnto the Lorde, * as it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses, with reioysynge and syngynge, as it was ordeyned by Dauid. And he set porters by ꝑ gates of the house of the Lorde, that none which was vncleane in any thynge shulde entre in.

And he toke the captaynes of hundredes & all the nobles, and the gouernoures of the people, & all the folke of the lande, and caused the kynge to come downe out of the house of the Lord, and they came thorowe the hye gate into the kynges house, and set the kynge vpon the seate of the kyngdome. And all the people of ꝑ lande reioysed, and the cytie was in trãquillite, after ꝑ they had slayne Athaliahu with the swerde.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

kynges, because he dealt well with Israel, and with God and with his house. And after the deeth of Jehoiada, came the Lordes of Ju da, and made obeysaunce to the kynge. And the kynge herkened vnto them. And so they lefte the house of the Lorde God of their fa-came the wrath of God vpon Juda and Je-

And Amaziahu gathered Juda together, Ezec. xviii.d

C And there came a man of God to him, and sayde: O kynge, let not the armye of Israel come with the: for the Lorde is not with Israel, nether with all the house of Ephraim. But yf thou wylt nedes be kaythlesse, come on, and take the batell in hãde, and God shall make the fall before ỹ enemie. For God hath power to helpe, & to cast downe. And Amaziahu sayde to the mã of God: what shall we do then, for the hũdred talentes, which I haue geuen for the hoste of Israel? The man of God answered: the Lorde is able to geue the moche more then they be.

And Amaziahu seuered them to the armie that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go home agayne. Wherfore they were exceadynge wroth with Juda, and returned home in greate angre.

And Amaziahu toke hert and caryed out hys people, and went to the salt valley, and * smote of the chyldre of Seir ten thousande. And other ten thousande dyd the chyldren of Juda take alyue, and caryed them vnto ỹ toppe of a roche, and cast them downe from the toppe of the rocke, that they all to burst: but the souldyers of the armye which Amaziahu sent awaye, that they shulde not go wt his people to battell, fell vpõ the cyties of Juda, from Samaria vnto Bethhorõ, & smote thre thousande of them, & toke moche spoyle.

And it chaunced, after ỹ Amaziahu was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the Gods of the chyldren of Seir, & set them vp to be hys Gods, and bowed hym selfe before thẽ: and burned encẽse vnto thẽ. Wherfore the Lorde was wroth with Amaziahu and sent vnto hym a prophete, whych sayd vnto hym: why hast ỹ sought the Gods of the people, which were not able to delyuer theyr awne people out of thyne hande? And it chaunced, that as the prophete talked with hym the kynge sayde vnto hym: haue men made the of the kynges councell: cease, why wylt thou be beate? But Amaziahu wolde not herke to him: for it came of God, euen to deliuer them into ỹ hãde of theyr enemyes because they sought councell at the Gods of Edom. And so Joas the kynge of Israel came vp: and they sawe ether other, both he and Amaziahu kynge of Juda at Bethsames which is in Juda. And Juda was put to ỹ worse before Israel, and they fled euery mã to his tent. And Joas the kynge of Israel toke Amaziahu kyng of Juda the sonne of Joahas the sonne of Jehoahas at Bethsames: and brought hym to Jerusalem, & tare the walle of Jerusalem (from the gate of Ephraim vnto the gate that was ouer agaynst it) foure hundred cubytes. And he toke awaye also all the golde and syluer, and all the Jewelles that were founde in the house of God with Obed Edom, and ỹ treasures of the kynges house, & the yonge wardes, and returned to Samaria.

But in his strength, his hert arose to hys destruction: For he transgressed agaynst the Lorde hys God, & went into the temple of ꝑ Lorde, to burne cense vpon the alter of incense. And Asariahu the preaste went in after him, and with him foure skore preastes of the Lorde that were valeaūt men. And they stode by Uzia the kynge, and sayde vnto hym:

which bet him, & caried awaye a great multitude of hys captiue, and brought them to Damascon. And he was delyuered into the hãde of the kynge of Israel, which smote him with a greate slaughter. For Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu slue in Juda an hundred & twentye thousande in one daye, which were all kyghtinge men: and that because they had forsakẽ the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And zichri a mightye mã of Ephraim slue Maaseiahu the kynges sonne, & Israica the gouernour of the house, and Elcana ỳ was next to the kynge. And the childrẽ of Israel toke prisoners of theyr brethren, two hundred thousande wemen, sonnes, & daughters, & caryed awaye moche spoyle of them, & brought the spoyle to Samaria.

But there was a prophete of the Lordes (whose name was Obed) and he went out before ỳ host that came to Samaria, & sayde vnto them. Beholde, because the Lorde God of youre fathers is wroth wỏ Juda, he hath delyuered them into youre hãde. And ye haue slayne them with crudelnesse, ỳ reacheth vp to heauen. And nowe ye purpose to kepe vnder the chyldren of Juda and Jerusalem, and to make them bondmen and bond wemen. And do ye not lade youre selues with synne in the syght of ỳ Lorde youre God. Nowe heare me therfore, and delyuer the captyues agayne which ye haue taken of youre brethren. For els shall ỳ great wrath of God be vpõ you.

Wherfore, certayne of the heedes of the chyldren of Ephraim, as Asaria the sonne of Iehohanã. Berechiahu the sonne of Meshillemoth, and Iehezkiahu the sonne of Sallum, and Amasa the sonne of Hadlai, stode vp agaynst them that came from the warre, and sayde vnto them: bringe not in the captiues hyther. For where as we haue offended towarde God allready, ye entẽde to adde more to our synnes & trespace. For our trespace is great allready, and there is a fearce wrath agaynst Israel. And vpon that, the men of armes lefte the captiues and the spoyle before the Lordes and all the congregacyon.

And the mẽ that were nowe rehearsed by name, rose vp, and toke the prisoners, & with the spoyle clothed all ỳ were naked amonge them, and arayed them, & shoed them, & gaue them to eate and to drinke, & anoynted them, and caryed all that were feble of them vpon asses, & brought them to Jericho (the cytie of Paulme trees) to theyr brethren: & then they returned to Samaria agayne.

* At that same tyme dyd kyng Ahaz send vnto ỳ kynges of Assur, to haue helpe of thẽ. And the Edomites came agayne, and slue some of Juda, and caryed awaye captyues. And the Philistines inuaded the cities in the lowe countrey, and towarde the south of Juda, & toke Bethsames, & Aialon, and Gederoth, and Socho with the townes longynge therto, and Thimna with the townes of the same: Gimso, and the townes therof, and dwelt there. For the Lord brought Juda lowe, because of Ahaz kynge of Juda, which made Juda naked, & trãsgressed sore against the Lorde. And Thilgath pilneser kynge of ỳ Assyrians came vpon him, and troubled him rather then strengthed hym. For Ahaz toke awaye a porciõ out of the house of the Lorde, and out of the kynges house, & out of ỳ Lordes houses, & gaue vnto the kynge of the Assyrians: and yet it helped him not. And in the very tyme of hys tribulaciõ dyd kyng Ahaz trespace yet moare agaynst the Lord. For he offered vnto the Gods of them of Damasco, which bette hym, & he sayd: because the Gods of the kynges of Syria healpe thẽ, therfore wyll I offer to thẽ, that they maye helpe me also. But they were his destruccyon, and the destruccion of all Israel. And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, and brake them, and * shut vp the dores of the house of the Lord, and made him ǂ aulters in euery corner of Jerusalem. The. xxix. Chapter.

Hezekia (otherwyse called Ezechias, or Jehiskiahu) restoreth vnto the temple of the Lorde all the thynges that had not bene regarded of hys predecessoures.

Ezekia beganne to raygne, whẽ he was fyue & twenty yere olde, & raygned nyne & twenty yere in Jerusalẽ. And his mothers name was Abia ỳ daughter of zachariahu. And he dyd that which was ryght in the syght of the Lorde, in all poyntes as dyd Dauid hys father. He * opened the dores of the house of the Lorde (in the fyrst yere and fyrst moneth of hys raygne) and repayred them. And he brought in the preastes and ỳ Leuites, and gathered them together in to the rest strete: and sayde vnto them.

* iii. Regũ. xviii. a.

* ii. Para. xxviii. b.

Heare me ye Leuites, & now be sanctifyed and halowe the house of the Lorde God of youre fathers, brynge fylthinesse out of the holy place. For oure fathers haue trespaced, and done euell in the eyes of the Lorde oure God: and haue forsakẽ him, & turned awaye theyr faces from the habitaciõ of the Lorde, and turned theyr backes on it. And beside ỳ they haue shut vp the dores of the porche and quenched the lampes, & haue nether burnt incense, cense, nor offered burnt offeringes in the holy place vnto the God of Israel.

Wherfore the wrath of the Lorde fell on Juda and Jerusalem: & he hath brought thē to trouble, to be wondred on, and to be hissed at, euē as ye se with youre eyes. For, lo, oure fathers were ouerthrowen with the swerde, and oure sonnes, oure daughters & oure wyues were caryed awaye captiue for the same cause. And nowe it is in my hert, to make a couenaunt with the Lorde God of Israel: þ he maye turne awaye his heuye indignacyon from vs. Nowe therfore my sonnes, be not
* Ma. xxiii.a negligent: for the Lorde * hath chosen you to stāde before him, and for to minister and serue hym, and to burne incense.

C Then the Leuites arose: Mahath þ sonne of Amasai, & Joel the sonne of Asariahu of the chyldren of the Cahathites. And of the sōnes of Merari, Kis the sonne of Abdi, and Asariahu the sonne of Jehaleiel. And of the sonnes of the Gersonites, Joah the sonne of Simma, and Eden the sonne of Joah. And of the sonnes of Elizaphan, Simri & Jehiel. And of the sonnes of Asaph, Zechariahu and Mathaniahu. And of the sonnes of Heman, Jehiel & Simei. And of þ sonnes of Jeduthū Semaia and Uziel. And they gathered their brethren, & purifyed them selues, & came accordynge to the cōmaundement of the kynge and the wordes of the Lorde, for to clense the house of the Lorde. And the preastes went into the vnner partes of the house of the Lord to clense it, and brought out all the vnclennesse that they foūde in the tēple of the Lorde into the court of the house of the Lorde. And the Leuites toke it, to carye it out into the broke Cedron. They beganne the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth to purifye, and the eyght daye of þ monethe came they to the porche of D the Lorde: and purged the house of the Lorde in eyght dayes, and in the fyrtene daye of the fyrst moneth they made an ende.

And they went into Hezekia the kynge & sayde: we haue clēsed all the house of þ Lord, the aulter of burntofferinge, with all his vessels, & the shewbreed table with all his apparell: and all the vessels which kyng Ahaz did cast a syde when he raygned & transgressed, them we haue prepared and sanctifyed: and beholde, they are before þ aulter of the Lord.
E And Hezekia the kynge rose earlye, & gathered the Lordes of the cytie and went vp to þ house of the Lorde. And they brought seuen oxen, seuen rāmes, seuen shepe, and seuen hegoates, to be a synne offeryng for the kyngdome, for the sanctuarie, & for Juda. And he commaunded the preastes the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the aulter of the Lorde.

And they slue the oxen, & the preastes receaued þ bloude, & sprinkled it on the aulter: lyke wyse, whan they had slayne the rāmes, they sprinkled þ bloude vpon the aulter: they slue also the shepe, & they sprinkled the blood vpō the aulter. And then they brought forth the hegoates for the synne offerynge before þ kynge and the congregacyon, & put theyr handes vpon them. And the preastes slue them, and with the bloude of them they clensed the aulter, to make satisfaccion for all Israel: for the kynge cōmaunded, þ the burnt offerynge and the synne offering shulde be made for all Israel. And set the Leuites in the house of þ Lorde with symbales, plaiteries and harpes uid and of Gad the kynges seer, and Nathā the prophete. For so was the commaundmēt of the Lorde thorowe the hāde of his prophetes. And the Leuites stode, hauynge þ instrumentes of Dauid, and the preastes helde the trompettes. And Hezekia commaunded to offer the burnt offerynge vpō the aulter. And when the burntoffering begāne, the songe of the Lorde beganne also, & the trompettes wt the instrumentes that were ordeyned by the hande of Dauid kynge of Israel. And all the congregacion worshypped, synginge a song, and blowinge with the trompets, & all thys continued, vntyll the burnt offerynge was fynysshed.

And when they had made an ende of offerynge, the kynge and all that were present wt hym, bowed them selues, & worshypped. And Hezekia the kynge & the Lordes spake to the Leuites to prayse the Lorde with þ wordes of Dauid, & of Asaph the seer. And the Leuites sange prayses with gladnesse, and þ other bowed them selues, and worshypped.

And Hezekia answered, & sayde: nowe ye haue consecrate youre handes to the Lord: go to therfore, & bringe in the sacrifices & thank- G offerynges into the house of the Lorde. And the congregacyon brought in the sacrifyces & thanke offerynges & burnt offeringes, as many as were of a fre liberall hart. And þ nombre of the burntofferinges which the congregacion brought, was .lxx. oxen, an hundred rammes, & two hundred shepe: which were, all for the burnt offeringe of the Lorde. And H ther were dedicated syxe hundred oxen, H and thre thousande shepe.

And the preastes were to few, to flaye all the burnt offrynges: but their brethren þ Leuites dyd helpe them, till they had ended the worke, and vntyll the preastes were sanctifyed. For the Leuites were purer herted to be sanctifyed, then the preastes. And therto þ burnt offerynges were many with the fatte of þ peace offrynges & the drinke offerynges þ be longe to the burnt offerynge. And so the seruice pertayninge to the house of the Lorde was fynished. And Hezekia reioyced & all þ people, that God had made the folcke so redye: and that the thynge was so soone done.

A ND Hezekia sent to all Israell and Juda, and wrote letters to Ephraim & Manasse, that they shulde come to the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem, and offer passeouer vnto ꝑ Lord God of Israel. And the kynge helde a councell with his Lordes and all the congregacion of Jerusalem *to kepe ꝑ feast of passeouer in the seconde moneth. For they coulde not kepe it at that tyme: because the prestes were not sanctifyed sufficiently, nether was the people gathered together to Jerusalem. So the postes wente with letters of the hande of the kyng, & of his Lordes thorowe out all Israell and Juda: & at the commaundement of the kynge they sayd: Ye children of Israel, turne agayne vnto the Lord God of Abraham, Isahac & Israel, ād let euery one returne to the remnaunt that are escaped you out of the hāde of the kynges of Assur. And be not ye lyke your fathers, & your brethren which trespaced agaynst the Lorde God of their fathers, which gaue them vp to be destroyed, as ye se. And nowe be not ye stiffenecked, lyke as were your fathers, but yelde your selues vnto the Lorde, & entre into his holy place, which he hath sanctified for euer and serue the Lorde your God, & the fearcenesse of his wrath shal turne awaye frō you. For yf ye turne agayne vnto the Lord, then shall your brethren and your children fynde compassion in the presence of them that toke thē captyue, and they shall come agayne vnto this lād: *for ꝑ Lord your God is gracious & mercyfull and wil not turne awaye his face from you, yf ye conuerte vnto hym.

And so the postes went from cytie to cytie in the lande of Ephraim & Manasse, euē vnto zabulō. But they laughed thē to skorne & mocked thē. Neuertheles, yet dyuerse of Aser, Manasse and of zabulō submytted them selues, ād came to Jerusalem. And the hande of God was in Juda, so that he gaue them one hert, to do the commaundement of the kyng and of the rulers, according to the worde of the Lorde. And there assembled to Jerusalem moch people, and there was present a myghtye great congregaciō, to holde the feast of swete bread in ꝑ second moneth.

¶ And they arose, & remoued the *aulters that were in Jerusalem. And all the vessels of incense dyd they awaye, and cast them into ꝑ broke Cedrō. And they slue passeouer the fourtenth daye of ꝑ second moneth. And the preastes and Leuites (¶ which were ashamed) sanctifyed them selues, ād brought in the burnt offerynges vnto the house of the Lorde. And they stode in theyr offyce after theyr maner, and according to the lawe of Moses the man of God. And the preastes sprinkled the bloude, which they receaued of the hāde of the Leuites. For there were many in the cōgregaciō, ꝑ were not sanctifyed: & the Leuites dyd slay passeouer for al ꝑ were not cleane, & that myght not execute ꝑ holy worke of the Lorde. For many of ꝑ people, and very many: out of Ephraim, Manasse, Isahar and zabulō were not cleansed, & yet dyd eate passeouer agaynst ꝑ lawe apoynted. Wherfore Hezekia prayed for thē, and sayd: the good Lorde be mercyful vnto thē: For he set hys whole hert, to seke the Lorde God euen the God of his fathers: but all the other dyd not so according to vnkayned holynesse. And the Lorde hearde Hezekia, and healed the people. And the childrē of Israel that were present at Jerusalem, helde the feast of swete bread seuen dayes with great gladnesse, and the Leuites and the preastes prayed, and magnifyed the power of the Lorde daye by daye, vpon instrumentes.

And Hezekia spake hertely vnto all the Leuites that had vnderstandyng and were of a good mynde toward ꝑ Lorde. And they dyd eate thorowe out that feast, seuē dayes longe, & offered peaceofferynges, & thanked the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And ꝑ hole assemble toke councell, to do so other seuen dayes, and they helde those seuē dayes with gladnesse. For Hezekia kinge of Juda toke out (from amonge his catel) for the congregaciō, a thousande pōge oxē, and seuē thousande shepe. And the Lordes gaue out to the congregacion a thousande ponge oxen, and ten thousande shepe. And a greate nombre of the preasts were sanctifyed.

And all the congregacyon of Juda wyth the preastes & Leuites, & al the congregaciō that came out of Israel, and the straungers that came out of the lande of Israel, ād that dwelt in Juda, reioyced: & there was great gladnesse in Jerusalē. For sence the tyme of Salomon the sonne of Dauid kynge of Israel there was no soche ioye in Jerusalem. And the preastes and the Leuites arose, ād blessed the people, and theyr voyce was hearde of the Lord, and theyr prayer came vp vnto heauen, his holy dwellynge place.

¶ The. xxxi. Chapter.

¶ After that Hezechia had called agayne the people vnto the waye of the Lorde, he ordeyned the preastes vnto whom he commaunded to giue tythes.

And he bade ẏ people that dwelt in Jerusalē, geue the parte to the preastes & Leuites, that they might substauncially applye thē selues to the lawe of the Lord. And as sone as the kynges cōmaundement came abroad, the childrē of Israel brought aboūdaunce of first frutes, of corne, wyne, oyle, honye, & of all maner of frutes of the felde, & the tythes of all maner of thynges brought they in plenteously. And ẏ children of Israel and Juda that dwelt in the cyties of Juda, they also brought in the tythes of oxen and shepe, and other holy tythes which were cōsecrate vnto the Lorde theyr God, they dyd offre, and brought thē all by heapes. In the thyrd moneth they beganne to laye the heapes (in maner of a foundacion) and finished them in the seuenth moneth.

And when Hezekia and the Lordes came and sawe the heapes, they blessed ẏ Lorde & his people Israel. And Hezekia questioned with the preastes & the Leuites concernyng the heapes. And Azaria the chefe preaste of the house of Sadoch, answered him, & sayde: sense the people beganne to bryng the heaue offerynges into the house of the Lord, we al- C so haue had ynough to eate, there remayned so moch: for ẏ Lorde hath blessed his people and this heape is left. And Hezekia bad prepare the chambres in the house of the Lord. And they dyd prepare them, & carped in the first frutes, the tythes, and the dedicat thynges, faythfully.

Ouer which Chonaniahu the Leuite had the rule, ād Semei his brother next to him. And Jehiel, Asaziahu, Nahath, Asael, Jerimoth, Iosabad, Eliel, Ismachiahu, Mahath & Banaiahu were ouer seuers ordeyned by Chonaniahu, & Semei his brother was an officer of Hezekia the kyng, and Azaria was the ruler of the house of God (vnto whō all these thynges belonged.) And Chore the sōne of Imna the Leuite and porter of ẏ East dore, had the ouersyght of the thinges that were offred of a frewill vnto God (and were geuē in maner seuerally vnto the Lorde) ād ouer the thynges most holy. And vnder his hand were Eden, Miniamin, Iesua, Semeiahu, Amariahu, and Sechaniahu in the cities of the preastes appoynted of theyr fydelyte to geue to their brethren theyr porcions, as wel to the small as to the greate.

Except that to the males that were reckened from thre yere & aboue (amonge al that went into the house of the Lord) they shuld D geue daye by daye, for theyr ministracion, & for theyr geuyng attēdaunce, & for their diuerse waytinges by course. And to the preastes & Leuites thorowe out the houshold of theyr fathers, from twētye yere & aboue to wayte when their courses came. And to the families of all their babes, wyues, sonnes & daughters thorowe all the cōgregaciō. For vpon the fydelyte of them were [illegible] the holy thynges bestowed. And to the chyldren of Aaron, the preastes, whych were in the feldes & suburbes of their cyties, cytie by cytie the mē (whose names were expressed afore) shulde geue porcions, euen to all the males amonge the preastes, and to all the Leuites accordynge to theyr nombre.

And of thys maner dyd Hezekia thorowe out all Juda, & wrought it that is good, and eyght and true, before the Lorde hys God. And in all the workes ẏ he beganne for the seruice of the house of God, for the lawe, and for the cōmaundemētes, he sought his God, & that dyd he with all his hert, & prospered.

And he sett captaynes of warre ouer the people, and gathered them together to hym in the large strete of the gate of the cytie, and spake ientely to them, saying: Plucke vp yo hertes, and be strog: Be not afraied ner discouraged for the kyng of Assur, and for all ꝑ multitude that he hath with him: * for there be moo with vs then with him. O ye that dwell in Jerusalem which is besieged? Doth not Hezekia entyce you to geue ouer youre selues vnto deeth, hongre, and thurst, sayeng: the Lorde our God shall ridd vs oute of the hande of the kyng of Assur? hath not the same Hezekia put downe hys hye places and hys aulters, and commaũded Juda and Jerusalem, sayinge: Ye shall worshyppe before one aulter, and burne incense vpon the same?

Know ye not, what I and my fathers haue done vnto the people of all landes? were the Gods of the people of otherlandes able or mighty to saue their lãdes out of my hãd? which of all the Gods of those naciõs (ꝑ my fathers destroyed) coulde delyuer hys people out of myne hande? And shall yo God be able to delyuer you out of myne hãde? Wherfore, nowe lett not Hezekia deceaue you, ner persuade you of this facion, nor yet beleue him.
D For as no God among all naciõs and kingdomes, was able to rydde hys people out of my hande and out the hande of my fathers: How moch lesse shall your goddes be able to kepe you out of myne hande? And yet mo thinges dyd his seruaũtes speake against ꝑ Lord God, and agaynst his seruaũt Hezekia. And (Sennacherib) also wrote a letter, to raple on the Lord God of Israell, & spake agaynst him, sayinge: as the Gods of the nacyons of other landes haue not bene able to delyuer their people out of myne hande. Euen so shal not the God of Hezekia delyuer hys people out of myne hand. And they cryed w a loude voyce in the Jewes speach vnto the people of Jerusalẽ ꝑ were on the wall, to feare them and to make them faynt harted, & that they might so take ꝑ cyte. And they spake against the God of Jerusalem, as against the Gods of the nacyons of the earth, which were the worckes of the handes of men.

But Hezekia the kynge, and the prophet Isai the sonne of Amoz prayed agaynst that blasphemy, and cryed vp to heauen. And the Lord sent an angell, which destroyed all the men of warre and the Lordes and captaynes of the hoost of the kyng of Assur, ꝑ he turned his face agayne w shame toward hys awne land. * And when he was come into ꝑ house of his God, they that came of hys awne body, slue hym there with the sweard. And many brought offerynges vnto the Lord to Jerusalem, and presentes to Hezekia king of Juda: so that he was magnifyed in the syght of all nacions from thence forth.

B then they, he caused to be destroyed. And the groues, kerued ymages, and ymages of metall he brake and made dust of them, and strawed it vpō the graues of them that had offered to them. And he burnt the bones of the preastes vpō the aultres of them, and clensed Juda and Jerusalem. And euen so dyd he in the cyties of Manasse, Ephraim, Simeon vnto Nephthali. And in the wyldernesses of them rounde about, he plucked a sondre the aulters and the groues, and dyd beate them and stampte them to powdre, & beate downe all the ymages thorow out all the lande of Israel: and returned to Jerusalem agayne.

In the eyghtene yere of his raygne when 2.Reg.22.a he had purged the lande and the temple * he sent Saphan the sonne of Amaziahu, and Maasiah the gouernoure of the cytie & Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repayre the house of the Lorde hys God. And when they came to Helkiah the hye preast, they delyuered them the money that was brought in to the house of God, whych the Leuites that kepte the entryes had geathered of the hande of Manasse and Ephraim, and of all that yet remayned in Israel, and of all Juda and Ben Jamin, and of the enhabiters of Jerusalem. And they put in the handes of the workemen, that had the ouersyght of the house of the Lorde: and they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in the house of the Lorde, to repayre and mende the house.
C Euen to masons and carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and tymbre, for couples and for beames of the houses, which the kynges of Juda had destroyed: And the men dyd the worcke faythfully.

And the ouersears of them to courage thē forward, were Jahath and Obadiahu Leuites of the chyldren of Merari: & Zecharia & Mesullam, of the chyldrē of the Cahathites, and other of the Leuytes whych all coulde skylle of instrumentes of Musicke. And ouer the bearers of burthēs and ouer all ꝑ wrought, in whatsoeuer workemāshyppe it were, were there Scrybes, officers and porters of the Leuites.

And whan they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the lord,
2.Reg.22.b Helkia the preaste * founde the boke of the lawe of the Lorde geuē by Moses. And Helkia answered and sayde to Saphan the scribe: I haue founde the boke of the law, in the

And they haue gathered together the money that was found in the house of the Lord, and haue delyuered it in to the hādes of the ouersears of the worke, and to the handes of the workemen. And then Saphā the scribe shewed the kyng, saying: Helkia the preast hath geuen me a boke, & Saphā redd in it before ꝑ king.

And it fortuned, that when the kyng had heard the wordes of the lawe, he tare his clothes: and the kyng commaunded Helkia and Ahikam the sonne of Saphan, and Abidon the sonne of Micah, and Saphan the scrybe, and Asaia a seruaunt of the kynges, saying: go & enquire of the Lorde for me and for thē ꝑ are left in Israel and Juda, concerning the wordes of the boke that is found. For great is the wrath of the Lorde that is fallen vpō vs, because oure fathers haue not kepte the worde of ꝑ Lord, to do after all that is wrytten in this boke.

And ꝑ kyng stode at hys standyng, & made a couenaunt before the Lord, to folowe the Lorde, and to kepe his commaundemētes, his wytnesses, and hys statutes, wyth all hys hert & wyth all his soule, & to fulfyll the wordes of the appoyntmēt wrytten in the fayde boke.

And he set in theyr rowme all them that were founde in Jerusalem and Ben Jamin, and the enhabiters of Jerusalem dyd accordyng to the couenaunt of the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And Josia put awaye all maner of abhominacyons out of all landes that pertayned to the chyldren of Israell, and brought in all that were found in Israel, to worshyp, and to serue the Lorde theyr God. And they turned not a syde from after the Lorde God of theyr fathers, as longe as he lyued.

And Josia gaue to the people flockes of shepe and kyddes, all for passeouer and for all that were present, thyrtie thousand by tale, and thre thousande oxen, and these were euen of the kynges substaūce. And hys Lordes gaue willyngly e both vnto the people & to the preastes, & vnto the Leuytes. Helkia also, Zacharia and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto ỹ preastes for passeouer offerynges two thousand and syxe hundred shepe, and thre hūdred oxen. Conania & Semeiahu and Nethanel his brethren, and Hasabiahu and Jaiel ād Josabad, rulers of the Leuites, gaue vnto the Leuites passeouer offerynges, euen fyue thousand shepe, & fyue hundred oxen.

And so the seruice was prepared, and the preastes stode in theyr places, and the Leuites in theyr distincte cōpanies at the kynges commaundment. And they slue passeouer, and the preastes sprynckled the blonde with theyr hande, & the Leuites pulled of the fayynes of the beastes. And they kest awaye the burntofferinges, to geue them vnto the people that were deuyded by auncient houses, & that they shulde offer vnto ỹ Lorde, lyke as it is wrytte i the boke of Moses. And so dyd they wyth the oxen also. And * they dressed the passeouer wyth fyre as the maner was. ¶ And the other deuycat beastes: sodde they in pottes, caulderns & pannes, and deuyded thē amōg all the people. And afterwarde, they made readye for them selues & for the preastes: for the chyldren of Aaron were busyed in offeryng of burntofferynges and the fatt vntyll nyght: therfore the Leuites prepared for them selues and for the preastes the sonnes of Aaron.

¶ Esdras.

And the syngers, the chyldren of Asaph stode in theyr standynge * accordyng to the commaundement of Dauid and Asaph, Heman Jeduthum the kynges sear: and the porters wayted at euery gate, and myght not departe from theyr seruice: for theyr brethē the Leuites (or) prepared for them. And so all the seruice of the Lorde was prepared the same daye, to offer passeouer, and to offer burntofferynges vpon the aulter of the Lord accordynge to the commaundement of kyng Josia.

And so the chyldren of Israel that were present, offered passeouer the same tyme, ād kepte the feast of swete breade seuen dayes. And ther was no passeouer lyke to ỹ kepte in Israel frō the dayes of Samuel ỹ pphete: nether dyd all ỹ kynges of Israel hold soch a passeouer feast as dyd Josia and the preastes and Leuites and all Juda, and Israel ỹ were present, and the enhabiters of Jerusalem. This passeouer was holdē in the eyghtene yere of the raygne of Josia.

* After all thys, when Josia had prepared the temple, Necho kyng of Egypt came vp to fyght agaynst Carcamis beside Euphrates, and Josia went out agaynst hym: whych sent messengers to hym, & sayd: what haue I to do wyth the thou kynge of Juda? seruauntes therfore had him out of that charet, and put him (as a kynge) in another charet ỹ they had. And whan they had brought him to Jerusalem, he dyed, and was buryed in the sepulchre of his fathers. * And all Juda and Jerusalem mourned for Josia. And Jeremia lamented Josia, and all syngynge men and synginge wemen mourned for Josia in their lamentacions, to thys daye, and made the same lamentacions an ordinaunce in Israel, & behold, they be wryten in the lamentacions. And it came to passe, that the folke of the land hyndered the people of Juda, and troubled them as they were buyldynge, and hyred councelers against them, to hynder their deuyce, as longe as Cyrus the kyng of Persia lyued, vntyll the raygne of Darius king of Persia. And in the raygne of Ahaluerus, (euen in ꝑ begynnyng of his raygne) wrote they vnto him a complaynte agaynst the inhabitours of Juda and Jerusalem.

And in the dayes of Artharxerses, wrote Mithridath Tabeel and the other of hys councell, vnto Artharxerses the kyng of Persia with fayre wordes. And the scripture of the letter was writen in the Syrians speach, āD interpretated in the language of the Syriās Rehum the recorder and Samsai the scribe wrote a letter from Jerusalem to Artharxerses the kyng, as it foldweth.

Then Rehum the recorder, & Samsai the scribe, and other of their companye of Dina, of Arphalath, of Tarpla, of Persia, of Arach, of Babylon, of Susan, of Deha, of Elan, & other of the people * whō the greate & noble Asnapar brought ouer, and sett in the cytes of Samaria, & other, that are now on this syde the water. Thys is the coppye of the letter that they sent vnto kyng Artaxerses.

* iiij. Esdras

Thy seruauntes, & the men that are now on thys syde the water. Be it knowne vnto the kinge, that the Jewes which came vp frō the to vs, are come vnto Jerusalem (a cytie C seditious and frowarde) and buylde the same, and sett vp the walles therof, and laye the foundaciōs. Be it knowne now also vnto the kynge, that yf this cytie be buylded, and the walles therof made vp agayne, then shall not they geue, tolle, tribute, and custome, and the kynges profyte shall incurre dāmage. And now in the meane season we haue destroyed the temple, and wolde no longer se the kynges dishonoure: Therfore sent we out also, and certifyed the kynge: that it maye be sought in the boke of ꝑ Chronycles of thy progenitours, and so shalt thou fynde in the booke of the Chronycles, and perceaue that this cytie is seditious and noysome vnto kynges and landes, and that they cause other also among them to rebell of olde, & for the same cause was thys cytie destroyed. Therfore do we certyfye the kynge that yf this cyte be buylded agayne, and the walles therof made vp, thou shalt herafter haue no porcion on this syde the water.

Then sent the kyng a answere vnto Rehum the recorder, & Simsai the scribe, and to the other of theyr companyōs that dwelt in Samaria, & vnto the other ꝑ were beyonde the water, in Sela and Chebeth. The letter D which ye sent vnto vs, hath bene openly redd before me, and I haue commaūded to make search: & it is fownde, ꝑ this cytie of olde hath made insurrection agaynst kynges, and that rebellion rebellion and sedicion hath bene commytted therin. There haue bene myghtie kinges also at Jerusalē, which haue raygned ouer all countrees beyonde the water: and tolle, trybute, & custome was geuen vnto thē: Geue ye now therfore commaundement, that the same men be forbydden, and that the cytie be not buylded agayne, tyll I haue geuen another cōmaundement. Take hede now that ye be not negligent to do this: for why shulde ỹ kynge haue harme there throwe?

Now when the copye of kynge Artarerses letter was red before Rehum and Simsai the Scribe and their companyons, they went vp in all the haste to Jerusalem vnto the Jewes, and forbad them with violence and power. Then ceassed the worcke of the house of God at Jerusalem, and continued so vnto the seconde yere of Darius kynge of Persia.

¶ By the exhortacyon of Aggeus and Zachary is the temple buylded agayne.

THe prophetes, Aggeus and Zachary the sonne of Iddo, prophecied vnto the Jewes that were in Juda and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel. * Then gat vp Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and beganne to buylde the house of God at Jerusalem, and with them were the prophetes of God, which helped them. At the same tyme came to thē Tathnai which was captayne on thys syde the water, and Starbaznai, and their companyons, and sayde thus vnto them. Who hath cōmaunded you to buylde thys house, and to make vp these walles? Then tolde we them the names of the men, that made thys buyldynge. But the eye of their God was vpon the elders of the Jewes, that they coulde not cause them to ceasse, tyll the matter was brought to Darius, and then they answered by letters ther vnto.

This is ỹ copye of ỹ letter, that Tathnai (which was captayne on thys syde the water) and Starbaznai, and the councellers of Apharsah (which were on this syde the water) sent vnto kyng Darius. And the matter that they sent vnto him, was written thus within the lettre: Vnto Darius the kynge, all peace. Be it knowne vnto the kyng, that we went into the lande of Jewry to ỹ house of ỹ great God, which is buylded wt mighty greate stones, and beames are layed in the walles, and the worcke goeth fast forth, and prospereth in their handes. Then asked we the Elders, & sayde vnto thē as it foloweth: Who commaunded you to buylde this house, & to make vp the walles therof? We asked their names also, that we might certifie the, and wrote the names of the men that were theyr rulers.

But they answered vs with these wordes, and sayde. We are the seruauntes of him that is God of heauen and earth, and buylde the house that was buylded many yeres a goo * which a greate kynge of Israel buylded, and set vp. But after ỹ oure fathers had prouoked the God of heauen vnto wrath, * he gaue them ouer into the hande of Nabuchodonozer the king of Babilon, & of the Caldees, which brake downe this house, and caried ỹ people away captiue vnto Babilō.

* But in the fyrst yere of Cyrus the kyng of Babylon, the same kyng Cyrus gaue cōmaundemēt concernyng thys house of God, that it shulde be builded agayne. And ỹ vesselles of golde & syluer of the house of God, which Nabuchodonozer toke out of the temple that was at Jerusalem, & brought them into the temple at Babilon, those dyd Cyrus the kynge take out of the temple at Babilon, * and they were delyuered vnto one Sasbazar by name, whō he made captayne, and sayde vnto him. Take these vessels, and go thy waye, and sett them in the tēple that is at Jerusalem, and lett the house of God be buylded in hys place. Then came the same Sasbazar, and layde the foundacyon of the house of God which is at Jerusalem. Hence ỹ tyme also vntyll now hath it bene in buyldynge, and yet is it not fynished. Yf it please the kynge now therfore, lett there be searche made in the kynges libzarye which is there at Babylō, whether it haue bene kyng Cyrus commaundement, that thys temple of God at Jernsalem shulde be buylded and let hym sende vs the kynges mynde concernynge the same matter.

¶ The. vj. Chapter.

¶ At the commaundement of Darius kynge of Persia, after the temple was buylded and dedicate, the chyldren of Israel kepe the feast of vnleuened breade.

THen commaunded kynge Darius, and they made searche in the libzary, euen in the place where they layde vp the treasure at Babilon. And there was foūde in a coffer (in the place that is in the lande of the Medes) a volume: and ther in was it thus wrytten, and soche a memoziall: In the fyrst yeare of kyng Cyrus, gaue the same kynge Cyrus commaundement concernynge the house of God at Jerusalem, that the same house shulde be buylded in ỹ place where they offre the sacrifices, and to ioyne the walles together of threscore cubytes heygth, and threscore cubytes bredth. Thre rowes of roughe stones, and one rowe of tymber, and the expences shalbe geuē of the kynges house. And let the golde and syluer vessell of the house of God (which Nabuchodonozor toke out of the tēple at Jerusalem, and brought vnto Babylon) be restored, and brought agayne vnto the temple at Jerusalem to their place in the house of God.

25 Get you farre from them therfore, thou Thahnai captayne beyonde the water, and Sthar buzanai, and youre counceilers & Apherscechei, which are beyonde the water, get ye awaye from thē. Let the worcke of ꝑ house of this God alone, that the captayne of the Jewes and their Elders maye buylde ꝑ house of God in his place. I haue commaunded what shalbe done to the Elders of Juda for the buylding of the house of God, that there shalbe diligent bede taken of the kynges goodes, euen of the rentes beyonde the water, and geuē vnto the men, that they be not hyndred And yf they haue nede of calues, rammes & lambes, for the burntofferynge of the God of heauen, wheate, salt, wyne and oyle, after the custome of the preastes at Jerusalē, let the same be geuen them daylie with out anye delaye, that they maye offre swete sauoures vnto the God of heauen, and praye for the kynges lyfe, and for his childrē. And soch a commaundement haue I geuen that what man soeuer he be that altereth thys worde, there shall a beame be taken frō hys house, and set vp, and he shalbe hanged theron, and his house shalbe  made a dongehyll for the same thynge,

C And the God that set hys name there, destroye all kynges, & people, that put to their hande to alter & to breake downe ꝑ house of God which is at Jerusalem. I Darius haue commaunded, that this be done with spede.

Then Thathnai the captaine of the countrey beyonde the water, and Stharboznai with theyr counceilers (to whom kynge Darius had sent) did their diligence: And ꝑ Elders of the Jewes builded, and they prospered thorow the prophecienge of Aggeus the prophet and zachary the sonne of Iddo: and they builded, and layed vp the foundacion, according to the cōmaundement of the God of Jsraell, and after the commaundement of Cyrus, and Darius & Artharerses kynges of Persia. And the house was fynished the thyrde daye of the moneth Adar, euen in the syxte yere of the raygne of kynge Darius.

* ii. Par. vii. d * And the childrē of Jsraell, ꝑ preastes, the Leuites, and the other childrē of the captiuite helde the dedicacion of this house of God with ioye, and offered at the dedicacion of this house of God, an hūdred oxen, two hundred rammes, foure hundred goates: āde for the reconcilinge of all Jsrael twelue he goates, accordynge to the nombre of the tribes of Jsrael, & set the preastes in their sondry courses, & the Leuites i their diuerse offices to minister vnto God at Jerusalem, as it is written in the boke of Moses.

And the childrē of the captiuite helde D
Passeouer vpon the fourtenth daye of ꝑ fyrst moneth: for the preastes and Leuytes were purified, so that they were all cleane together, and kylled Passeouer for all the childrē of the captiuite, and for their brethrē ꝑ preastes, and for them selues. And the childrē of Jsrael which were come agayne out of captiuite, and all soche as had separated them selues vnto them from the fylthynesse of the heythen of the lande: to seke the Lorde God of Jsrael, did eate, and helde the feast of vnleuened bread seuen dayes with ioye: for the Lorde had made them glad, and turned the hert of ꝑ kyng of Assur vnto them, to strēgthen their handes in the worcke of the house of God, euen the God of Jsrael.

C The. vij. Chapter.

C By the commaundement of Artharerses, Eldzas taketh hys companyons the children of Jsrael, and returneth to Jerusalem.

After these actes, there was in ꝑ A raygne of Artharerses kyng of Persia, one Eldzas the sonne of Saraiah, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Helkia, the sōne of Sallum, the sonne of zadoc, the sōne of Ahitob, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of zeraia, the sonne of Uzi, the sonne of Bucki, ꝑ sonne of Abisua, the sonne of Phinehes, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron ꝑ chefe preast. This Eldzas also went vp from Babilon, and was a perfite scribe in the lawe of Moses, * which the Lord God of Jsrael did geue. And the kyng gaue him all that he requyred, because the hande of the Lorde hys God was vpon him. And there went vp certayne of the childrē of Jsrael, of the preastes. Leuites, syngers, porters, āde of the Nethinims vnto Jerusalem, in the seuenth yere of kynge Artharerses. And he came to Jerusalem in the fyfth moneth, euen in the seuenth yere of the kynge. For vpon the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth, beganne he to go vp from Babilon: & on the fyrst daye of the fyfth moneth came he to Jerusalem, because the good hande of God was vpon him. For Eldzas prepared his hert to seke the lawe of the Lorde, and to doit, and to teach the precept and iudgement in Jsrael.

* iii. Esdr. vii. a * iii. Esdr. viii. a

And this is the coppye of the letter, ꝑ kyng Artharerses gaue vnto Eldzas the preast & scrybe, which was a wryter of the wordes and commaundementes of the Lorde and of his statutes ouer Jsrael. Artharerses a king of kynges, Unto Eldzas the preast & scrybe of the lawe of the God of heauen, peace and salutacion. I haue cōmaunded, that all they of the people of Jsrael, and of the preastes and Leuites in my realme (which are mynded of their awne good wyll to go vp to Jerusalem)

rusalem) go with the: and therfore art thou sent of the kyng and of his seuen coũcelers, to vyset Juda and Jerusalem, accordinge to the lawe of thy God, which is in thy hande: And that thou shuldest take with the syluer and golde, which the kynge and his counceilers offre of their awne good wyll vnto the God of Israell (whose habitacyon is at Jerusalem) and all the syluer and golde ꝑ thou canst fynde in all the countre of Babylon, wt it that the people offre of theyr awne good wyll and the preastes geue for the house of theyr God which is at Jerusalem.

¶ Take thou the same, and bye diligently with the same money, oxen rammes, and lãbes, with their meate offeringes and drinck offerynges, and thou shalt offer them vpon the aultare of the house of youre God which is at Jerusalem. And loke what it lyketh the and thy brethren to do with the remnaũt of the money, that do after the wyll of youre God. And the vessels that are geuen the for the ministracyõ in the house of thy God, those deliuer thou before God at Jerusalem.

And whatsoeuer thyng more shall be nedefull for the house of thy God, which is necessary for the to spende, thou shalt receaue the charges out of ꝑ kynges treasure house. I kyng Artharerses haue commaunded all the treasures beyonde the water, that loke whatsoeuer Esdras the preaste and scrybe in the lawe of the God of heauen, requireth of you, that ye fulfyll the same spedely, vntyll an hundred talentes of syluer, vntyll an hũdred quarters of wheate, and tyll an hũdred Batthes of wyne, & tyll an hũdred * Batthes of oyle, & salt without measure. Whatsoeuer also belongeth to the lawe of the God of heauẽ, let the same be done without anye delaye for the house of the God of heauẽ, that he be not wroth agaynst ꝑ realme, & agaynst the kynge, and hys chyldren.

And we certifye you, that ye haue no auctorite to requyre taxinge and custome, and yearly rentes vpon any of the preastes, Lenites, syngers, porters, Nethinims ãd ministers in the house of his God. And thou Esdras (after the wysdome of thy God, that is in thy hande) sett iudges and arbiters (by my auctorite) to iudge all the people that is beyonde the water, euen all soch as knowe ꝑ lawe of thy God: ãd thẽ that knowe it not, those se that ye teach. And whosoeuer wyll not fulfyll the lawe of thy God, ãd the kynges lawe, let him haue his iudgement without delaye, whether it be vnto death, or to be rooted out, or to be condemned in goodes, or to be put in preson.

* Blessed be the Lorde God of oure fathers, which so hath inspired ꝑ kynges hert, to garnysh the house of the Lorde, that is at Jerusalem: and hath enclyned his mercy vnto me in the presence of the kyng, & his counceilers, and before all the kynges hye estates. And I was conforted (euen as the hande of the Lorde my God was vpon me) & so gathered I the heades of Israell together, that they myghte go vp with me.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

¶ The nombre of them that returned to Jerusalem with Esdras.

These are the principall fathers of A thẽ, and this is their register that wente vp with me from Babilõ, what tyme as kynge Artharerses raygned. Of the chyldren of Phinehes, Gersom: of the chyldren of Ithamar, Daniel: of the chyldren of Dauid, Hatus: of the chyldre of Zecania amonge the children of Pharos, zachary, and with him were nõbred an hundred and fyftie men. Of the chyldren of the captayne of Moab, Elioenai the sonne of zerahia, and with him two hundred men. Of the children of zechania the sonne of Jahasiel, and with him thre hũdred men. Of the children of Adin, Abed the sonne of Jonathan, and with him fyftie mẽ. Of the chyldre of Elam, Jsai the sonne of Athalia, and with him seuẽtie men. Of the chyldre of Saphatia, zebadia the sonne of Michael, and with hym foure score men.

Of the chyldre of Joab, Obadia the sonne of Jehiel, and with hym two hundred and B eyghtene men. Of the children of Selomith the sonne of Josephia, and with him an hũdred and thre score men.

Of the children of Bebai, zachary the sonne of Bebai, and with him eyght and twentie men. Of the children of Algad, Johanan, the sonne of Hakatan, and with him an hũdred and ten men. Of the chyldren of Adonicam, that were the last, whose names were these: Eliphelet, Jehiel and Samaiah, and with them thre score men. Of the chyldren of Biguai, Uthai, and zabud, and with thẽ seuentie men. And I gathered them together by the water that renneth towarde Ahaua, and there abode we thre dayes. And I loked amonge the people and the preastes & foũde there none of the children of Leui. Then sent I to Elieser, to Ariel, Semeia, Elnachan, C
Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, zachary and to Mesullam the rulers, and to Joiarib ãd Elnathan which were men of vnderstandyng, and to those gaue I commaundement vnto Iddo the chefest at Casphia, that they shulde fetch vs ministers for ꝑ house of oure God, and I tolde them what they shulde saye vnto Iddo, and to his brethren the Nethinims at Casphia.

And (thorow the good hãde of oure God vpon vs) they broughte vs a wyse man frõ amonge the children of Moholi the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Jsrael, and Sarabia with hys hys sonnes and his brethren, euen eyghtene.

And Hasabia, and with him Iesaias of ꝑ chyldren of Merari, with his brethren and theyr sonnes, twētie. And of the Nethinims, whō Dauid & the ꝓinces gaue to mynister vnto
D the Leuites, two hundred & twentye of Nethinims, which all were named by name.

And euen there at the water, beside Thana, I proclamed a fast, that we myghte hūble oure selues before oure God, and seke of him a ryghte waye for vs, and for oure children and for all oure substaunce. For I was ashamed to requyre of the kynge, soudyers & horsmē, to helpe vs agaynst the enemy in ꝑ waye: but we sayd vnto the kynge: The hāde of oure God is vpon all thē that seke hym
E in goodnes, and his (hys dompnes) hys violence and wrath is agaynst all them that forsake him. So we fasted, and besoughte oure God for this, and he hearde vs.

And I toke out twelue of the chefe preastes, Sarabia and Hasabia, and ten of their brethren with them, and weyed them ꝑ syluer and golde, & vessels that were appoynted for the house of oure God, which the kynge and his councellers and his Lordes, and all Israell that were there at hande, had geuen together. And I weyed vnto their hāde fyue hundred & fyftie talētes of syluer, & in syluer vessel an hūdred talētes, & in golde an hūdred talentes: twentie basens of golde of a thousande peces, and two costly oznamentes of good brasse, as cleare as golde: and I sayde vnto them: Ye are cōsecrate vnto the Lorde, lyke as ꝑ vessels are holy also, and the golde and syluer are geuē of a good wyll vnto the F Lorde God of youre fathers. Watch ye, and kepe it: for ye shall weye it downe before the chefe preastes and Leuites, and auncient fathers of Israel at Jerusalē in the treasuries of the house of the Lord. Then toke ꝑ preastes and Leuites that weyed syluer ād golde and vessel, to bringe it to Jerusalem, vnto ꝑ house of oure God. And we brake vp, from the water of Thaua on the twelueth daye of the fyrst moneth, to go vnto Jerusalem: and the hande of oure God was vpon vs, ād deliuered vs from the hande of the enemies, ād of soch as layde wayte for vs by the waye. And we came to Jerusalem, and abode there thre dayes. But on the fourth daye was the syluer ād golde and vessell weyed in the house of oure God, by the hande of Meremoth
G the sonne of Uria the preaste, and with hym was Eleazar the sonne of Phinehes, & with them was Josabad the sonne of Jesua, and Noadia the sonne of Benoi the Leuites. Accordyng to the nombre and weyght of euery one, was the weyght all wrytten vp at the same tyme.

And the chyldren of the captiuite, which were come out of prison, offered burntofferynges vnto the God of Israel: twelue bullockes for all Israell, fyue and nynetye rammes, seuen and seuentie lambes, twelue hegoates for a synofferynge, all to the burntofferynge of the Lorde. And they delyuered the kynges commission vnto the kynges officers, & to the capitaynes that were on thys syde the water. And they promoted the people and the house of God.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

¶ Eldras complayneth on the people that had turned them selues from God, and maryed with the gentyles.

When these thynges were done, the rulers came to me, ād sayde. The people of Israel, and the preastes, and Leuites are not separated from the people of the landes (as touchynge their abhominacyons) namely of the Cananites, Hethites, Pherezites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, ād Amozites. * For they haue taken the daughters of the same to thē selues and to their sonnes, and the holy sede is mixte with the nacions in the lande: and ꝑ hande of the princes & rulers hath bene principall in this trespace.

* And when I hearde this saying, I rente my clothes and my rayment, and pluckte of the heer of my heade, and of my beerd, and sate mourninge. And there resorted vnto me all soch as feared the wordes of the Lorde God of Israel, because of the trāsgression of the people of the captiuite. And I sate mournynge vntyll the euenynge sacrifice. And aboute the euenynge sacrifice, I rose vp fro my heuynes, and rente my clothes and my rayment, and fell vpon my knees, and spred out my handes vnto the Lorde my God, and sayde.

O ꝑ God, I am ashamed, and darre not lyfte vp myne eyes vnto ꝑ my God: for oure wyckednesses are growne ouer oure heed, ād oure trespace is waxen greate vnto the heauen. Sence the tyme of oure fathers haue we bene in greate trespace vnto this daye, * ād because of oure wyckednesses haue we and oure kynges bene deliuered into the hande of the kynges of the nacyons, into the swerde, into captiuite, into shame, and into confusiō of face, as it is to se this daye.

And now is there a lytle & sodayne graciousnes come from the Lorde oure God, in causynge some of vs to escape, and that he maye geue vs a nayle in hys holy place, and that oure God maye lyghte oure eyes, and geue vs a lytle lyfe to take breth in oure bōdage. For we are bondme, & oure God hath not forsaken vs in oure bondage, and hath enclyned mercy vnto vs in the syghte of the kynges of Persia, to geue vs lyfe, to sette vp

the house

the house of oure God, and to redresse the desolacion therof, and to geue vs a wall in Juda and Jerusalem.

And now, O oure God, what shall we saye after this? for we haue forsaken thy cõmaundementes, whych thou hast commaũded by thy seruauntes the prophetes, sayeng: The lande vnto which ye go to possesse, it is an vncleane land, because of the fylthynes of the people of the landes, whych with theyr abhominacions haue made it full of vncleanesse on euery syde. * Therfore shall ye not geue youre daughters vnto their sonnes, ãd their daughters shall ye not take vnto your sonnes, ner seke their peace & welth for euer, that ye maye be strong, & enioye the good in the land, & þ ye & youre chyldren maye haue the enheritaunce of it for euermore.

* Deut. vii. a.

And after that all these thinges are come vpõ vs (because of oure euell dedes & greate trespaces) thou oure God hast not thrust downe oure wickednesses, & hast geuẽ vs a delyueraunce, (as it is come to passe this daye.)

And yf we turne backe agayne, to let go thy commaundementes, and make contracte with the people of these abhominaciõs, wilt thou not then be wroth at vs (& not without cause) tyll we be vtterly cõsumed, so that nothyng remayne, and tyll there be no delyueraunce? O Lord God of Israel, þ art rygh teous, for we remayne yet escaped, as it is to se this daye. Behold also, in thy presence are we in oure trespaces, & because of it maye we not stande before the.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

¶ The people repente, and turne, and put awaye theyr straunge wyues.

AND when * Esdras prayed after this maner, & knowleged, wepte, & laye before þ house of God, there resorted vnto him out of Israell a very greate congregacyon of men and wemen, and chyldren: & the people wepte very sore. And Sechania the sonne of Jehiel one of þ chyldren of Elam, answered, and sayde vnto Esdras. We haue trespaced agaynst oure God, and haue taken straunge wyues of the people of the land. Now there is hope yet in Israel cõcerning this thyng: For now we wyll make a couenaunt with oure God, and put awaye all the wyues (and soch as are borne of them) accordinge to the councell of the Lord, and we wylbe in the feare of the commaundementes of oure God, that we maye do accordyng to the lawe. Get the vp, for thys matter belongeth vnto the. we also wyll be wyth the, be of good confort therfore, and do it.

* 1. Esd. ix. a.

* Then rose Esdras, and toke an oth of the cheke preastes and Leuites, and of all Israell, that they shulde do accordynge to thys worde: & they sware. And Esdras rode vp from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the sonne of Eliasib. And when he came thither, he dyd eate no bred, nor dranke water: for he mourned because of the trãsgression of the people that had bene in captyuite.

And they caused a proclamacyon to go thorow out Juda and Jerusalem, vnto all the chyldren which had bene in captiuyte, þ they shuld geather thẽ selues togeather vnto Jerusalem. And that whosoeuer came not wyth in thre dayes accordyng to the deuyce of the rulers and Elders, all hys substaunce shulde be forfett, and he shulde be put out frõ the congregacyon of the captyue.

Then all the men of Juda and Ben Jamin geathered them selues togeather vnto Jerusalem wythin thre dayes, euen þ twẽtie daye of the nyenth moneth: and all þ people sate in the strete before the house of God, and trembled because of thys matter, & for the rayne. And Esdras the preaste stode vp, and sayde vnto them. * Ye haue trãsgressed, and haue taken straunge wyues, to make þ trespace of Israel yet more: cõfesse now therfore vnto the Lorde God of youre fathers, and do hys pleasure, and separate youre selues from the people of the lande, & from the straunge wyues. And all the congregacyon answered, and sayd with a loude voyce: It shalbe so, and we will do as thou hast sayde. But the people are many, and it is a rayny wether, and the people are to faynt to tarye without in þ strete, nether is this a worcke of one daye or two, for we haue offended very sore in this thyng. Let oure rulers stand therfore in all the congregacyon, and lett all them whych haue taken straunge wyues in oure cyties come at the tyme appoynted, and let the Elders of euery cytye and theyr Judges be wyth them, tyll they haue turned the wrath of oure God awaye from vs concernyng this matter.

* Deut. vii. a. Judi. xii. a.

Then were appoynted Jonathan the sonne of Asahel, and Jahasia the sonne of Thekua ouer thys matter: And Mosullam and Sabatha the Leuytes helped them. And the chyldren of the captyuite dyd euen so. And Esdras the preast, and the auncient heades thorow the house of theyr fathers, all men of great fame, separated thẽ selues, and sat them downe on the fyrst daye of the tenth moneth, to examen the matter. And vntyll the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth they were fynishyng the busynes wyth all þ men that had taken straunge wyues.

And amonge the chyldren of the preastes there were men foundr that had taken straunge wyues, namely amonge the chyldren of Jesua the sonne of Josedec and of hys brethren, Maasiah, and Eliezer, Jarib and Gedalia, and they gaue theyr handes of Paseah, and Mesulam the sonne of Besodia, they layde the beames therof, and set on the dozes, lockes and barres of it. Nexte vnto them, buylded Malatiah of Gibeon, and Jadon of Merano, men of Gibeon, and of Mispa, where he that was captayne of this syde the water had a mansion. Nexte vnto him buylded Uziel the sonne of Harhaiah ꝑ goldsmyth. Nexte vnto him also builded Hananiah the sonne of Harakahim, and they repayred Jerusalē vnto the brode wall. Nexte vnto them buylded Raphaiah the sonne of Hur, the ruler of the halfe parte of Jerusalē. Nexte vnto hym buylded Jedaia the sonne of Harumaph ouer agaynst his house: ād nexte vnto him buylded Hatus the sonne of Hasabnia. But Melchia the sonne of Harim and Hasub ꝑ sonne of the captayne of Moab buylded the other pece, and the tower besyde the foznaces. Nexte vnto him buylded Sallum a syngers sonne, the ruler of ꝑ halfe parte of Jerusalem, he and his daughters.

The valley gate buylded Hanum, & the cytesyns of zanoa. They buylded it, and set on the dozes, lockes and barres therof, and a thousande cubites on the wall, vnto ꝑ Donge pozte. But the Donge pozte buylded Melchiah the sonne of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth parte of Bethchare: he repayred it, ād set on the dozes, lockes and barres therof. But the welgate repayred Sallū the sonne of Cholhoiah, the ruler of the fourth parte of Mispa. He buylded it, and layed the beames, and set on the dozes, lockes, and barres therof, and the wall vnto the pole of Siloah by the kynges garden, and vnto the steppes that go downe from the cytie of Dauid. After him buylded Nehemiah the sonne of Asboh, the ruler of the halfe parte of Bethzur, vntyll the other syde ouer agaynst the sepulchres of Dauid, and to the pole that was repayred, and vnto the house of the myghtie.

After him buylded the Leuites, Rehum the sonne of Bani: and nexte vnto him buylded Hasabia the ruler of the halfe parte of Keilah in hys quarter. After hym buylded they? brethren. Bauai the sonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe parte of Keilah: and after hym buylded Ezer the sonne of Jesua the ruler of Mispa the other pece, harde ouer agaynst the goynge vp to the house of ozdinaunce that was in the cozner. Agayne, after hym brake forth Baruch the sonne of zachai of indignacyon, and repayred the other pece from the turnyng cozner vnto the doze of the house of Eliasib the hye preest. After hym also buylded Merimoth the sonne of Uria the sonne of Hacos the other pece, from the doze of the house of Eliasib, euen as longe as the house of Eliasib extended. After hym buylded the preastes, the men of the playne. After hym buylded Ben Jamin and Hasub ouer agaynst they? house: and after hym wzought Asaria the sonne of Maasia the sonne of Anania nexte vnto hys house. After hym also buylded Benui the sonne of Hanadad the other pece, from the house of Asaria vnto the turnynge of the wall, and vnto the cozner.

After hym buylded Pala ꝑ sonne of Uzai ouer agaynst the cozner and the hye tower, which lyeth out ouer from the kynges house, that was besyde the courte of the preson. After hym Phedaia the sonne of Pharhos (as foz ꝑ Nethinims they dweit in the strōg holde vnto the watergate, towarde the east, and to the tower that lyeth out.) After hym buylded they of Thekua the other pece ouer agaynst the greate tower, that lyeth out warde, vnto the wall of the stronge holde.

But from aboue the hozsgate fozth, buylded the preastes, euery one ouer agaynst his house. And after thē buylded Zadok the sonne of Immer ouer agaynst his house. After hym buylded also Semeia the sonne of Sechania the keper of the Eastgate. After him buylded Hanania the sonne of Selemia, and Hanun the sonne of Zalaph the syxte, the other peace. And after him buylded Mesulā the sonne of Barachia ouer agaynst his store house. After him buylded Malachia the goldsmythes sonne, vntyll ꝑ house of Nithinims, and of the merchauntes ouer agaynst the gate of Mephkad, and to the parler in the cozner. And bet wene the parlour of the cozner vnto the Shepegate buylded the goldsmythes and the merchauntes.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

¶ The buyldynge of Jerusalem is hyndred and let, but the Jewes buylde it, beynge redye harnessed, lest they? enemyes shulde inuade them.

A But when Sanabalat heard that we buylded the wall, he was wzoth in hym selfe, and toke greate indignaciō, & mocked ꝑ Jewes, and sayde before his brethren & the souldyers of Samaria: what do these impotēt Jewes? wyll the hethen suffre them? shall they offre? shall they perfourme it in one daye? shal they make ꝑ stones whole agayne that are brought to dust, and brent? And Tobiah ꝑ Ammonite was besyde him, ād sayde: Though they buylde, yet yf a fore go vp, he shall breake downe they? stonye wall. Heare (O thou oure God) foz we are despised, turne their shame vpon their awne heade, & geue thē ouer into despisynge in the lande of their captiuite. Couer not their wickednelle, & let not their synne be put out ī thy presence: foz they haue prouoked ꝑ buylders. And so buylded we the wall, & it was ioyned whole together, vnto ꝑ halfe heygth therof. And the people were mynded to labour.

And

B And it fortuned, ꝑ when Sanabalat, and Tobiah, & the Arabiās, Ammonites, & Asodites heard, ꝑ the walles of Jerusalē were mad vp, and ꝑ the gappes begāne to be stopped, they were very wroth, & cōspired all together to come, & fyght against Jerusalē, ād to make the people an hynderaunce therin. Neuertheles, we made our prayer vnto our God, & set watchmen by thē, which buylded daye & nyght ouer agaynst them. And Juda sayd: the strength of the bearers is to feble, & there is yet moch moze mozter, & we are not able to buyld on the wall. And our aduersaries sayd: they shall not knowe nether se, tyll we come in the middes amōge thē, and slaye thē, and hinder the wozcke. But it fortuned ꝑ when the Jewes (which dwelt beside thē) came, they tolde vs as good as ten tymes, ꝑ in all places where ye go vnto, they are appointed to fal vpō vs. Therfoze set I ꝑ people after their kiredes w̄ their swerdes, speares & bowes beneth in ꝑ lowe places behynd the wal, & I loked, & gat me vp, & sayd vnto the chefe mē, to ꝑ rulers, & to ꝑ other people, be not ye afrayed of thē, * but thincke rather vpō the greate Lozd, whych ought to be feared, & fight foz your bzethzen, your sōns, yō daughters, your wines, & your houses. Neuertheles, it chaūced that when our enemies hearde, that we had gotten wozde of it. God brought their coūcel to naught, & we turned all againe to ꝑ wal, euery one vnto his labō. And frō that time forth it came to passe ꝑ the half parte of the yong men did the labour, & the other half parte of thē helde the speares, shyldes, bowes, and brest plates: & the rulers stode behynde all the house of Juda, which buylded on the wall, and bare burthens frō those ꝑ laded thē. With one hande dyd euery one wozcke, & w̄ the other helde he hys weapē. And euery one ꝑ buylded, had his swerd, gyrde by hys thygh, ād so buylded they. And the trompet blewe beside me.

D And I sayd vnto the principal men, to the rulers, and to the other people: the wozke is greate and large, & we are separated vpon the wall one farre from another. Loke in what place therfoze ye heare the noyse of the trompet, reloze ye thyther vnto vs, * & our God shal fight foz vs, & we will be labouryng in the wozcke. And the halfe part of thē helde ꝑ speares frō ꝑ mozning spryng, tyll the starres came forth. And at the same tyme said I vnto the people: euery one abyde with hys seruaunt at Jerusalē, that in the night seasō we maye watch, and labour on the daye tyme. As foz me and my bzethzen, my seruaūtes, and the mē of the watch (which were behynde me) we put neuer of ours clothes, no moze then the other dyd theyr harnesse, saue onely because of the water.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

¶ The people are vexed with hongre. He requyreth not the lyuyng of a captayne.

AND there arose a great cōplaynte of ꝑ people, and of theyr wyues agaynst their bzethzen the Jewes. Foz there were some that sayd: our sonnes and daughters and we are to many, therfoze wyll we take cozne foz thē, ꝑ we maye eate, and lyue. Some also there were that sayde: let vs sett our landes, vyneyardes and houses to pledge, and take vp cozne in the darth. But som there were that sayde: let vs bozowe money foz the kynges trybute & that vpon our landes and vyneardes. Behold, oure bodyes as the bodyes of oure bzethzen, and oure chyldren as theyr chyldzen: elles shulde we subdue our sonnes and daughters vnto bondage, and some of oure daughters are subdued vnto bondage all ready, & no strēgth is there in houre hādes, and other men haue our landes and vyneyardes.

B And when I heard their complaynte and soch wozdes, it displeased me soze, ād I aduised so in my mynde, ꝑ I rebuked the counceilers, and the rulers, and sayde vnto them: Euery one of you is to chargeable vnto hys bzother. And I brought a greate congregacyon agaynst them, and sayd vnto them: we (after oure abilite) haue bought our bzethzē the Jewes, which were solde vnto ꝑ heathē. And wyll ye sell your bzethzen agayne vnto the heathen, after that they haue bene solde vnto vs? Then held they theyr peace, and coulde fynde nothynge to answere.

And Nehemia sayde: It is not good that ye do. Ought ye not to walke in the feare of God, because of the rebuke of the heathen ꝑ are our enemyes? I and my bzethzē, and my seruauntes do lend them money & cozne: but as foz vsurye, let vs leaue it. Therfoze, thys same daye I pray you se that ye restoze them theyr landes agayne, theyr vineyardes, oyle gardēs, and their houses, and remytte the hūdzed part of the money, of the cozne, wyne and oyle that ye haue wonne of them. Then C sayd they: we will restoze thē agayne, & wyll requyre nothing of thē, and will do as ꝑ hast spoken. And I called ꝑ prestes, & toke an oth of them, ꝑ they shuld do so. And I shoke my lappe, & sayde. God shake out euery mā after the same maner from hys house & labour, ꝑ maynteyneth not this wozde: euen thus be he shaken oute, and voyde. And all the congregacyon sayde: Amen, and praysed the Lozd. And the people dyd so.

And frō the tyme forth ꝑ (the kyng) committed vnto me to be a captayne of thē that were in the land of Juda, euen frō the. xx. yere vnto the. xxxij. yeare of kynge Artharerses (that is. xij. yere) I w̄ my bzethzen lyued not of soch sustenaūce as was geuē to a captayne. Foz ꝑ olde captaynes ꝑ were befoze me, had bene chargeable vnto the people, & had taken of them bread and wyne, and .xl. sycles of syluer: yee, and their seruaūtes had oppressed the people. But so dyd not I, and that because of the feare of God. But I laboured also in the worcke vpon the wal, and bought no lande. And all my seruauntes came thyther together vnto the worke. Moreouer, there were at my table an .C. and .l. of the Iewes and rulers, which came vnto me from among the heathen, that are about vs. And ther was prepared for me dayly an ore and .vj. chosen shep, and byrdes, & euer once in .x. dayes a greate summe of wyne. Yet requyred not I the lyuynge of a captayne, for the bondage was greuous vnto the people.

* ij.Esd.vi.b and.xiij.b * Thinche vpō me my God vnto ꝓ best, according to all ꝓ I haue done for thys people.

¶ The. vj Chapter.

¶ The buyldyng is yet agayne hyndred and lett.

AND whē Sanabalat, Tobiah, & Gesem the Arabian, and the other of our enemyes heard that I had buylded ꝓ wall: and that ther were no mo gappes ther in (howbeit at the same tyme had I not hanged the dores vpon the gates) Sanabalat & Gesem sent vnto me, sayenge: that we maye mete and take councell together in the villages that are in the playne of the cytie Ono. Neuertheles, they thought to do me euell. And I sent messengers vnto them, sayenge: I haue a great busynes to do, and I cannot come downe. The worcke shulde stande stil, yf I were neclygēt, and came downe to you. Howbeit, they sent vnto me as good as foure times after the same maner. And I gaue thē the same answere. Then sēt Sanabalat hys seruaunt agayne vnto me the fyfth tyme, wt an open letter in hys hand, wherin was wryten: it is folde the heathen, and Gesem hath sayde it, that thou and the Iewes thincke to rebell: for the which cause thou buyldest the wall, that thou mayest be their kyng in these matters, and hast ordeyned the prophetes to preach of the at Jerusalem, and to saye: He is kynge of Juda.

And now shall thys come to the kynges eares: come now therfore, & let vs take our councell together. And I sent vnto hym, sayinge: there is no soch thynges done as thou sayst: for thou fayneste thē out of thyne awne herte. For they were all mynded to make vs afrayed, sayenge: they shall withdrawe their handes from the worcke, that it shall not be fynished. Howbeit, I strengthed my hande the more. And I came vnto the house of Semaia the sonne of Delaia the sonne of Mehetabeel, and he had shut hym self within, and sayde: let vs come together into the house of God, euen vnto the myddes of the temple, and shutte the dores of the temple: for they wyll come to slaye the, yee, euen in the nyght wyll they come to put the to death. And I sayde: shulde any soch man as I flye? Who is that, beyng as I am, that wil go into the temple, to saue his lyfe? I wyll not go in.

And I perceaued, that God had not sent hym. Yet spake he prophecy vpon me, neuertheles, Tobiah and Sanabalat had hyred him for money. Therfore toke he the money that thrugh feare I shulde so do, and synne: that they might haue an euell reporte of me, to blaspheme me. Myn God, thinke thou vpō Tobiah and Sanabalat accordynge vnto these their workes, and of the prophet Noadia, and of the other prophetes, that wolde haue put me in feare.

And the wall was fynyshed on the fyue and twētye daye of the moneth Elul, in two and fyfty dayes. And when all our enemyes heard ther of, all the heathē that were about vs, were afrayed, and their courage fayled them. And they perceaued, that thys worcke came of our God. And at the same tyme were ther many of the chefe of Juda, whose letters wente vnto Tobiah, and agayne from Tobiah vnto them (for there were many in Juda, that were swore vnto hi: for he was the sonne in lawe of Sechania, the sonne of Arah, & his sonne Jehonathā had the daughter of Mesullam, the sonne of Barachia. And they spake good of hym before me, and tolde hym my wordes) and Tobiah sent letters, to put me in feare.

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

¶ After the wall once buylded, ys the watch appoynted. They that returned from the captyuyte are nombred.

NOw when the wall was buylded, I hāged on the dores also, and the porters, syngers & leuites were appoynted. And I commaunded my brother Hanani, and Hanania the ruler of the castel at Jerusalem: for he was a faithfull mā, and feared God more then dyd many other, and I sayde vnto thē: let not the gates of Jerusalē be opened, vntyll the sonne be whote. And whyle they were stādinge in the watch, they shutt the dores and barred thē. And we appoynted certayne cytesins of Jerusalem, appoynted to be watchmen, euery one to kepe hys watch, and euery one to be ouer against his house. As for ꝓ cite, it was large of rowme, and great, but the people were few ther in, and the houses were not buylded.

And my God gaue me in my hert, that I gathered together the principall men, & the officiers, and the people, to nombre them, & I folde a register of the nōbre of thē * which came vp before out of the captiuyte: & founde wryten therin: these are the sonnes of ꝓ land that wente vp from the captiuyte of the caryinge awaye (whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had brought awaye) & came agayne to Jerusalem & Juda, euery one vnto

All these Nethinims and the childrē of Salomons seruauntes, were thre hūdred & nynetie and two.

And these wente vp also of Thel Mela, Thel Harsa, Cherub, Adon and Immer: but they coulde not shewe they⁊ fathers house nor they⁊ sede, and that they were of Israel. The chyldren of Dalaiah, the chyldren of Tobia and the chyldren of Necoda, syxe hūdred and two and foztye. And of the preastes, the chyldren of Habaiah: the chyldren of Hacos, the chyldren of Berzillai, whych toke one of the daughters of Berzillai the Gileadite to wyfe, and was named after their name. These soughte they⁊ writyng in ꝑ register of they⁊ generacion, but they were not founde, therfore they were put from the preasthode. And Hathirsata sayd vnto them, that they shulde not eate of the mooste holy, tyll there came vp a Preaste whych shulde were Urim and Thumin.

And so ꝑ whole cōgregacyō together was two & foztye thousande, thre hūdred, & thre skoze: beside their seruautes and maydens, of whom there were seuen thousande, thre hundred and seuē and thirtye. And they had two hundred and seuē and foztye syngynge men and wemen. Their horses, seuē hūdred and syxe & thirtye, & their Mules: two hundred & fyue & foztye. The camels, foure hundred & fyue & thirtye: syxe thousande, seuen hundred and twentye Asses.

And certayne of the auncyēt fathers gaue vnto ꝑ worcke. Hathirsatha gaue to the treasure a thousand peces of gold, fyftie basens, fyue hundred & thirtye prestes garmētes. And some of the chefe fathers gaue vnto the treasure of the worke, twentie thousande peces of gold, & two thousande & two hundred pounde of syluer. And the other people gaue twentye thousande peces of golde, and two thousande pounde of syluer ād thre score and seuen preastes garmentes. And ꝑ preastes & Leuites, the Porters, and the syngers, & the other of the people, ād the Nethinims, & all Israel, dwelt in their cyties. And the seuenth moneth came, and the chyldrē of Israel were in theyr cyties.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

¶ Eſdras geathereth together the people and readeth to them the lawe. They kepe the feast of tabernacles & bothes.

AND ✠ all * the people geathered them selues together as one man in the strete that was before the watergate, and they sayde vnto Eſdras the scrybe, that he shulde fetch * the boke of the lawe of Moses, whych the Lorde cōmaunded to Israel. And Eſdras the preast brought ꝑ lawe before ꝑ congregacion both of men and wemen, ād all ꝑ coulde vnderstande dyd herken vnto it, vpon the fyrst daye of the seuenth moneth, and he red therin (in the strete ꝑ was before the watergate (from the morynynge vntyll the noone daye) before men and wemen that dyd herken to it: and the eares of all the people were inclyned vnto the booke of the lawe. And Eſdras the scrybe stode vpō an hye pulpit of wood, whych they had made for the preachinge, & besyde hym stode Mathathia, Sema, Anania, Uriah, Helkia, and Maaseia, on hys ryghte hande: and on hys lefte hande stode Pedaia, Misael, Malchia, Hasum, Haschbadana, zachary, and Mesulam.

And Eſdras opened the boke before all the people, for he stode above all the people. And when he opened it, all the people stode vp. And Eſdras prayſed ꝑ Lorde the greate God. And all the people answered Amen, Amen, with their handes vp, & bowed themselues, and worshypped the Lorde, fallynge downe vpon their faces to the grounde. And Iesua, Baam, Serabiah, Jami, Acub, Sebathai, Hadaia, Maasia, Celita, Azaria, Jozabad, hanā, Pelaia: and the Leuites caused the people to geue hede vnto the lawe, & the people stode in their place. And they red in ꝑ boke of the lawe of God distinctly & playnly, so ꝑ men vnderstode the thinge that was red. And Nehemiah (which is Hathirsatha) & Eſdras the preast & scrybe, and the Leuites that caused the people to take hede, sayd vnto all the people: thys daye is holy vnto the Lorde youre God: be not ye sory, and wepe not. For all the people wepte, when they herde the wordes of the lawe.

And he sayd vnto them: * go youre waye, and eate the fat, & drinche the swete, & sende parte vnto them also that haue not prepared them selues: for thys daye is holy vnto oure Lorde, be not ye sory therfore: for the ioye of the Lorde is youre strength. ✠ And the Leuites stylled all the people, and sayd: holde youre peace, for the daye is holy, vexe not ye youre selues. And all ꝑ people wēte theyr waye to eate and drinche, and to sende parte vnto other, and to make greate myrth, because they had vnderstand the wordes that were declared vnto them.

* iij. Eſdras C

And on ꝑ nexte daye were geathered together the chefe fathers amonge all the people and the preastes and Leuites, vnto Eſdras the scrybe, that they myght vnderstād the wordes of ꝑ lawe. And they fonde wrytten in the lawe * (whych the Lorde had commaunded by Moses) that the chyldren of Israel shulde dwell in bothes in the feast of the seuenth moneth: & ꝑ they shulde cause it to be declared and proclamed in all theyr cyties, & thorow out Jerusalem, sayēge: go forth vnto the mount, and fetch Olyue braunches, Pyne braunches, Wylbraunches, Palme braunches, and braunches of thicke trees, to make bothes, as it is wrytten.

And so the people wēt forth, and fett thē, and made thē bothes, euery one vpon ꝑ rofe of his house, & in theyr courtes, & in the courtes of the house of God, and in the strete by the watergate, and in the strete by porte Ephraim. And all the congregacion of them that were come agayne out of the captiuite, made bothes, & sat vnder ꝑ bothes: for sence the tyme of Iosua ꝑ sonne of Nun vnto this daye, had not the chyldren of Israel done so, and ther was very greate gladnesse. And euery daye from the fyrst daye vnto the last, red Eſdras in the boke of the lawe of God. And seuen dayes held they the feast, and on the eyght daye, they geathered together, accordinge vnto the maner.

miel, Sabaniah, Buni, Sarebiah, Bani, & Chanani, & cryed loude vnto the Lord theyr God. And the Leuites, Jesua and Cadmiel Bani and Halabnia, Serebia & Hodia, Sebania, and Phathahia, sayde: Stande vp, and prayse the Lord yͤ God for euer: & let thankes be geuen vnto the name of thy glorye, which excelleth all thãkesgeuynge & prayse.
Thou art Lord alone. Thou hast made heauẽ, & the heauen of all heauẽs, with all theyr hoost, the earth & all thinges yͭ are therin, the see & all yͭ is therin: & thou preseruest thẽ all, and the hoost of heauẽ worshippeth yͤ. Thou art the Lord God, that hast chosen Abram, & broughtest hym out of * Ur in Chaldea, * and calledst him Abrahã, and foundest hys hert faythfull before the * and madest a conenaũt wyth him, to geue vnto hys sede the lande of the Cananites, hethites, Amorites, Pheresites, Jebusites and Gersites, and hast made good thy wordes: for yͤ art ryghteous * and hast consydered the mysery of oure fathers in Egypte, and hearde their cõplaynte by the reed see, and shewed tokens & wonders vpon Pharao, and on all hys seruauntes, and on all the people of hys lande: for thou knewest, that they were presumptuous and cruell agaynst thẽ, and so madest thou the a name, as it is thys daye. And the reed see dydest thou deuyde in sunder before them, so that they went thorow the myddes of the see drye shode: and theyr persecuters caste west thou into the depe (as a stone) in yͤ myghtie waters, & leddest them on the daye tyme in a cloudy pyller, & on the nyghte season in a pyller of fyre, to shewe thẽ lyghte in the waye that they wente.

* Thou camest downe also vpon mount Sinai, & spakest vnto them from heauẽ, and gauest them right iudgmentes, true lawes good cõmaundemẽtes and statutes, and declaredst vnto them thy holy Saboth, and cõmaundest them precepts, ordinaunces, and lawes, by the hand of Moses thy seruaunt: and * gauest them bred from heauen when they were hongrye, & * broughtest forth water for them out of the rock when they were thyrstye: and promysedst them, that they shuld go in, and take possessyon of the land, ouer whych thou haddest lyfte vp thyne hãd for to geue them.

But they & oure fathers were proude and hardnecked, so yͤ they folowed not yͤ cõmaundementes, and wolde not obeye, nether were myndefull of the wonders that thou dyddest for them: but became obstynate and heady, in so moche, that they turned backe to theyr bondage for theyr disobedyence. And thou my God forgauest, and wast graceyous, mercyfull, pacyent, and of greate goodnesse, and forsokest them not * And though they made a moulte calfe (& sayde: Thys is thy goddes that brought the out of the land of Egypte) and dyd greate blasphemyes, yet forsokest thou them not in the wylbernes, accordyng to thy greate mercy. * And the cloudy pyller departed not from them on the daye tyme to leade them the waye, nether yͤ pyller of fyre in the nyght season, to shewe them lyghte in the waye that they wente.

And thou gauest them thy good spyrite, to enfourme them, * ãd withheldest not thy Manna from theyr mouth, * and gauest thẽ water whẽ they were thyrstye. Foretye yeares lõge madest thou prouisyon for them in the wyldernesse, so yͤ they lacked nothynge, * their clothes waxed not olde, ãd their fete swelled not. And thou gauest them kyngedomes and nacyons, & partedst them accordynge to their portyons, so yͤ they possessed * the lande of Sehon kyng of Hesebon, and the lande of Og the kynge of Basan. And their chyldren multiplyedst thou as the starres of heauen, and broughtest them into the lande, wherof yͤ haddest spoken vnto theyr fathers, that they shulde go into it, and haue it in possessyon.

And the chyldren went in, and possessed the land, * and thou subduedst before them the inhabyter of the lande, euen the Cananites, and gauest them into theyr hãde, with their kynges and the people of the lãde, that they might do with them what they wolde. And they wanne theyr stronge cyties, and a fat lande, and toke possessyon of houses that were full of all maner of goodes, welles digged out, vineyardes, oyle gardẽs, and many frute full trees: and they dyd eate, & were fylled, and became fat, and lyued in welth thorow thy greate goodnes. Neuertheles they were disobedyẽt, & rebelled agaynst the, and cast thy lawe behynde their backes, and * slewe thy prophetes (which exhorted them earnestly, that they myght bring them agayne vnto the) & dyd greate blasphemyes. Therfore, yͤ gauest them ouer into the hãd of their enemyes, that vexed them.

And in yͤ tyme of their trouble whan they cryed vnto the, yͤ hardest them from heauen: & thorow thy greate mercy thou gauest thẽ sauiours, whych helped them out of the hande of their enemyes. But whẽ they came to rest, they turned backe agayne, to do euell before the: therfore lefte west thou them in the hande of theyr enemyes, so that they had the dominyon ouer them. And whã they cõuerted, and cryed vnto the, thou herdest them from heauen, & many tymes hast thou delyuered them accordyng to thy greate mercy, & testyfyedst vnto them, that thou myghtest bryng them agayne vnto thy lawe.

Not withstandyng, they were proude, & herkened not vnto thy cõmaundemẽtes, but synned in thy lawes * (whych yf a man do he shall he shall lyue in them,) and turned the shoulder awaye, and were styffnecked, and wolde not heare. And many yeares dyddest thou forbeare them, & testifyedst vnto thē thorow thy spyrete, euen by the hande of thy prophetes, and yet wolde they not heare. Therfore gauest thou them into the hāde of the naciōs in the lādes. And for thy great mercyes sake thou hast not vtterly consumed them, nether forsaken them: for thou art a gracyous and mercyfull God.

*ij Esd.9.b Ezra.11.a. and. xxxiii.a.

*Now therfore oure God, thou greate God, myghtye and terrible, thou that kepest couenaūt & mercy, regarde not a lytle all the trauayle that hath happened vnto vs, and G oure kinges, oure princes, our preastes, oure prophetes, & our fathers, and all thy people, sence the tyme of the kynges of Assur vnto thys daye. And truly, thou art iust in all þ thou hast brought vpon vs: for thou hast done ryght. As for vs, we haue bene vngodly, & oure kynges, & oure princes, oure preastes, & oure fathers haue not done after thy lawe, nor regarded thy commaundemētes, & thy earnest exhortacyons, wherwith þ hast exhorted them, & they haue not serued the in their kyngdome, & in thy greate goodes that thou gauest them, and in the large and plentyous lande which thou gauest before thē, & haue not conuerted frō their wycked worckes. Beholde, we are in boudage this daye: & so is the lande that þ gauest vnto oure fathers, to enioye the frutes & goodes therof, beholde, there are we bondmen. And greate is the increase of it vnto the kynges, whom þ hast set ouer vs, because of oure synnes, & they haue dominion ouer oure bodyes and catell (euē as they will them selues,) and we are in great trouble. And i all this make we a sure couenaunt, & wryte it, and oure princes, Leuites & preastes seale vnto it,

¶ The. xj. Chapter.

¶ Who dwelled in Jerusalem after it was buylded and who in the cyties of Juda.

AND the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem. The other people also cast lottes, that amonge ten, one parte shulde go to Jerusalem into the holy cytie to dwell, and nyne partes to be in the cyties. And the people thanked all the men, that were wyllynge to dwell at Jerusalem.

These are the heades of the lande, that dwelt in Jerusalem and in the cyties of Juda, euery one in hys possellyon, and in theyr cyties: they of Israell, the preastes, Leuy-tes, the Nethinims, and the chyldren of Salomons seruaũtes. And at Jerusalem dwelt certayne of the chyldren of Juda and of Bẽ-Jamin.

Of the chyldren of Juda: Athaia the sonne of Usia, the sonne of zachary, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Saphatia, the sonne of Mahalaleell, of ꝑ chyldrẽ of Phares. And Maasia the sonne of Baruch, the sonne of Chal Hose, the sonne of Halaia, the sonne of Adaia, the sonne of Joiarib, the sonne of zachary, the sonne of Siloni. All these were the chyldren of Phares that dwelt at Jerusalem: euen foure C. thre score and eyght valeaunt men.

These are the childrẽ of Bẽ Jamin: Sal-
lu the sonne of Mesullam, ꝑ sonne of Joed,

Hasabia the sonne of Bũni: and Sabathai and Josabab of the chefe of the Leuites, had the ouersight of the outwarde busynes of ꝑ house of God. And Mathania the sonne of Micha, ꝑ sonne of zabdi, ꝑ sonne of Asaph, was the principall to begynne the thanke-geuynge and prayer. And bakbukia the seconde amonge hys brethren, and Abda the sonne of Sammua, the sonne of Galal, the sonne of Jeduthun. All ꝑ Leuites in the holy cytie were two hundreth foure score and foure. * And the porters Acub and Talmõ, * xi. Para. 2. c & theyr brethren that kepte the portes, were an hundreth and two and seuentye. As for the residue of Israel, the preastes and Leui-tes, they were in all the cyties of Juda, eue-ry one in hys inherytaunce.

And the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel: and ziba and Gispa was set ouer ꝑ Nethinims.
The ouerseat of the Leuites at Jerusalem, was Usi the sonne of Baani, the sonne of Hasabia, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Micha.

Of the chyldren of Asaph there were syn- D
gers aboute the busynes in ꝑ house of God:
for it was the kynges commaundemẽt concernyng them, that the syngers shulde deale faythfully euery daye as was accordynge.

And Pathaia the sonne of Meseabel had possellyon both in Juda and in Ben-Jamin.

¶ The .xij. Chapter.

¶ The preastes and Leuytes whych cam with zorobabel to Jerusalē are rehersed, & the wall is dedycate.

THese are the preastes and Leuites that wente vp with zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel & with Jesua: Saraia, Jeremi, & Eldras, Amaria, Maluch, Hatus, Sechania, Rehum, Meremoth, Iddo, Genthoi, Abia, Miamin, Maaria, Belga, Semaia, Joiarib, Jadaia, Salu, Amok, Helkia, and Jadaia. These were the heades amōg the preastes, and theyr bretheren, in the dayes of Jesua. The Leuytes were these: Jesua, Bennui, Cadmil, Sarabia, Juda and Mathania which was ouer the offyce of thankesgeuynge, he and hys brethren: Bacbukia and Hanni and theyr brethrē, were aboute them in the watches.

Jesua begat Joakim. Joakim also begat Eliasib, & Eliasib begat Joiada. Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jadua. In the dayes of Joakim were these the chefe fathers amōge the prestes: vnder Saraia, Maraia: vnder Jeremy, Hanania: vnder Esdras, Mesulam: vnder Amaria, Jehoanan: vnder Melico, Jonathan: vnder Sebania, Joseph: vnder Harim Adna: vnder Maraioth, Helcai: vnder Iddo, zachary: vnder Genthō, Mesullam: vnder Abia, zichri: vnder Miniamin and Moadia, Piltai: vnder Belga, Samua: vnder Semeia, Jehonathan: vnder Joiarib, Mathenai, vnder Jadaia, Usi: vnder Selai, Kelai: vnder Amok, Eber: vnder Helchia, Hasabia: vnder Jadaia, Nathanael.

And in the tyme of Eliasib: Joiada, Johanan & Jadua, were ꝑ chefe fathers amōge the Leuites and the preastes, written vnder the raygne of Darius the Persian. The chyldrē of Leui, ꝑ principall fathers were written in the Chronicles, vntill the tyme of Jonathan the sonne of Eliasib. And these were the chefe among the Leuites, Hasabia, Serebia and Jesua the sonne of Cadmiel, and theyr bretheren in their presence, to geue prayse & thākes, accordynge as Dauid the mā of God had ordeyned it, one watch ouer agaynst another. Mathania, Bakbukia, Obadia, Mesullā, Talmon and Akub were porters l the watch at the thresholdes of the gates. These were in the dayes of Joiakim the sonne of Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and in ꝑ dayes of Nehemia the captayne, and of the preaste Eldras the scrybe.

And in the dedycacyon of the wall at Jerusalem, they sought the Leuites out of all theyr places, that they myghte be brought to Jerusalem, to kepe the dedicacion & gladnesse, with thankesgeuynges, and singinge with Cymbales, Psalteries, and harpes. And the chyldren of the syngers geathered them selues together from euery syde out of the playne countre aboute Jerusalem, and from the vyllages of Netho phathi, from the house of Gilgal, and out of the countrees of Geba and Asmaueth: for the syngers had buylded them vyllages rounde aboute Jerusalem. And the preastes and Leuites were purifyed, and clensed the people, and the gates and the wall.

And I brought the princes of Juda vp vpon the wall, and appoynted two greate queers of men to geue thankes, whych wēte on the ryghte hande of the wall towarde the Donggate, and after them wente Hosaia, and halfe of the prynces of Juda, and Asaria, Esdras, and Mesullam, Juda, Ben Jamin, Semia and Jeremy: and certayne of the preastes chyldren with trompettes, namely zachary the sonne of Jonathā, the sonne of Semeia, the sonne of Mathania, ꝑ sonne of Michaia, the sonne of zacur, the sonne of Asaph, and hys brethren Semeia, Asarael, Melalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nathanael & Juda and Hanani, with the musicall instrumentes of Dauid the man of God.

And Eldras the Scrybe went before thē, and beside the weligate, they wente vp ouer agaynst them vpon the steppes of the cytye of Dauid at the goynge vp of the wall beyonde the house of Dauid, vnto the Watergate Eastwarde.
